OPAH! OPAH! OPAH!

The brand, spanking new Greek House Tavern serves up dishes worthy of the cradle of Western civilization

By Bunyan Valentine

My friends tell me that when people in Greece get extraordinarily happy, they yell "Opah!" Now, I'm the first to admit that I don't know exactly what this "Opah!" means, but I'd wager it translates roughly as "Now that's some good food!"

I'm thinking this because I just had dinner at the Greek House Tavern, and although I didn't yell "Opah!" I sure would've liked to, I tell you.

See, the Tavern is just about the best restaurant I've been to in Santa Barbara. I mean, you've got your Cold Spring Taverns and your Palace Cafés, but maybe they're a bit extravagant for you, yes? Sure, they're great but they're maybe a whole, self-contained experience in themselves. Maybe what you're looking for is something a little more lighthearted, something with higher ceilings and blue gingham tablecloths and waiters that smile and like you, but not too often or too much, you know? Maybe with a big open kitchen and a beautiful wood grill.

The Greek House Tavern is a lot like that, I think you'll find. And better, it's the kind of place you can call authentic without feeling too clichéd or condescending. It oozes Greek-ness.

The restaurant might make you think of stories your friends tell about their extended family in Greece and maybe they go visit them sometimes. Like the one about the widow who runs a taverna in some remote village and at about 10 o'clock all the villagers show up, laughing and singing and dancing. And then they start drinking Uzo and whooping it up a whole lot, and pretty soon the widow asks everybody what they want and then she goes and cooks up so much food you can't believe it. So around midnight, all the food gets served up and everybody eats for like the next two hours, talking and generally being happier than you might have expected. They keep the party up until at least three in the morning or so. And they do it every night.

The thing is, you kind of want to eat at the Greek House Tavern every night, except for they give you so much food you have to take it home, and so maybe you'd have to stay in once or twice a week. But you wouldn't want to, I tell you. You'd want to go back.

You'd want to have more dolmades, 'cause you just can't get enough of those stuffed grape leaves. And you wouldn't believe how much you like feta cheese, even though you never really think to buy it at the store. You'd find yourself waking up in the middle of the night, thinking about spanakopita, or maybe just a Greek house salad, because those olives are so unbelievably strong and flavorful that you thought something was wrong until you realized that everything was absolutely, perfectly right.

You'd daydream in your classes, thinking about that shrimp dinner that was baked in its dish with tomatoes and more spices than you could name on a bet. Or about the vegetarian dinner, whose eggplant-filled, light-pudding-topped remains are somehow communicating telepathically with you from your refrigerator at home. Or about sides of potatoes, so sweet and light they don't quite seem possible.

Maybe you shouldn't go. It might be more trouble than you're looking for. After all, your roommate's going to think it's weird when you start yelling "Opah!" in your sleep.

Greek House Tavern is located at 5782 Hollister Ave. in Goleta. Open 11 a.m.-11 p.m. every day except Saturday; Sat. 4 p.m.-11 p.m. Phone 964-6463.

PASTA NIGHT
ALL YOU CAN EAT

MONDAYS 5-9 PM

5892 Hollister Ave., Goleta (Old Town)

By Boone Snorkel

It was a warm spring night when we arrived at the Paradise Cafe. Since the popular restaurant had a waiting list, Vincenzo and I stepped into the smoke-free bar to order drinks. We sat outside under the swaying palm trees and worked up an appetite discussing ways to make a living in Hawaii, which the atmosphere certainly reminded us of.

Yes, the Paradise Cafe is a restaurant that can make even the most jaded Santa Barbaran long to be stranded on a tropical isle in the middle of nowhere, and I haven't even begun to tell you about the food. Something about the airy, verdant patio and the dining room's dreamy paintings and romantic candlelight made the evening seem less like dinner and more like the beginning of an adventure.

My world-traveling friend Vincenzo ordered black bean soup, followed by mussel pasta salad, a heaping platter of mussels, pasta, onion, peppers and walnuts delicately seasoned with a basil dijon vinaigrette dressing. His eyes gazed in wide wonder at the joy he found when this plentiful pasta was placed before him.

I ordered the penne with grilled summer vegetables, a tasty dish that combines eggplant, zucchini, roasted peppers, olives and tomatoes, with steamed vegetables on the side. Our meal concluded with the delicious chocolate mousse-like Paradise Pie, which is made at the restaurant and melts in the mouth. Did I mention the mouthwatering bread and thirst-quenching iced tea?

Other Paradise offerings include California cuisine-esque delights such as gazpacho, Steak Paradise, Sam's Catch Cioppino, linguini with pesto and grilled chicken, and the grilled eggplant sandwich. Although California cuisine has been given a bad name by trendy restaurateurs who arrange a handful of miniature vegetables and a bite size steak on a plate and call it dinner, Paradise served up a filling repast that didn't leave us begging for more. The menu also features a selection that is bound to appeal to every picky eater. Bring along the worst culinary snob you know and watch that scowl disappear.

RACHEL WEILL/Daily Nexus

As we dove into the fine dishes brought by our friendly waiter Jeff, we couldn't help but overhear the scintillating discussion going on at a neighboring table. It seems that someone, whom Vincenzo described as a "loud yuppie," was expounding on his own world travels, which had something to do with fishheads and doing as the Romans do. We were later treated to an exciting piece of trivia when the voice-throwing yuppie informed all within earshot that by the year 2000 in the United States there will be more married people without children than there will be married people with children. Fascinating!

Yes, the Paradise Cafe is the place to enjoy fine food and conversation. In fact, at the table next to ours a birthday party was in progress. This restaurant is the spot to take that Isla Vista-weary soul of yours for a relaxing evening that will remind you to look up now and then at the stars shining through the palm trees. And they give you so much food you'll probably have to ask for a doggie bag.

Paradise Cafe is located at 702 Anacapa St. Open 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 8:30 a.m.-11 p.m. Sunday. Phone 962-4416.

COUPON TUESDAY IS COMING SOON

THE VERY ESSENCE OF BAR-NESS

Want Neil Diamond songs with your scotch? Credence with your Bud? Want a real bar? Mel's.

By Reynard Van Nguyen

Amidst the Pine-Sol luster of Santa Barbara's Paseo Nuevo Ubermall there stands, like a staunch artillery dwarf, a place that is the living manifestation of the word "bar." Mel's.

Mel's, if it were a dog, would be named "Grouper" or "Herb" — it's that kind of place. The coffee comes out of a percolator, the chips come out of a bag, the ice comes out of a bucket. You know what that means.

One day in the less-than-distant past, Arnulfo, Dolph and I were adrift at sea. We longed for the sunbeam-on-monster-Lowie-Dark ambience of UCSB's now-extinct Pub, which was, like the beloved 12-inch LP, "discontinued" in the name of progress. But all was not lost.

In fact, nothing was lost for our melancholy, yet somehow merry, trio — we went to Mel's. Oh, Mel's, some have called you a hole in the wall, and I believe them. For I have penetrated your darkened maw for the solace of mahogany in a land of stucco and adobe.

They say you are a dive, and I believe them. For I have plumbed the depths of a hungry man's soul to find myself hip-deep in Bourbon within your postered walls.

They say you are uncool, and I believe them. For I have seen Gap shoppers recoil dubiously from your welcoming arms as I listened to Neil Diamond blasting from your jukebox.

But so what? Not these nor any other appraisals can diminish the warmth of the working man's water that pours from your taps. Arnulfo and Dolph agree.

What drew us primarily that day was this: All three of us knew that if we wanted to order a double Jim Beam on the rocks, we could. Dolph did, thrice. We knew if we wanted to let the empty bottles and glasses accumulate on our table in a monument to our achievements, we could. We knew if our bartender wanted to call us alcoholics for doing so, she could. She did. But so what?

Dolph was partial to bourbon and Jimmy Buffet, Arnulfo to scotch and water with the Supremes, I went for Rolling Rock and Jane's Addiction. We could do that, yes we could. Mel's got beverages and CD selections for every mood. You want to drink some chardonnay and groove on the Big Chill soundtrack? You can do that. You want to drink Bud and listen to Credence? You can do that. You want to drink oblivion and slump on your stool? You can do that.

If none of these prospects strikes the right fancy, Mel's has entertainment — a well-stocked shelf of paperbacks from the 1970s adorns one of the back corners, and there's a pool room on the side. And TV.

But Mel's environment makes these extras seem superfluous. Try this out: Take a small group of people, preferably the best of friends/bitter rivals variety, no "significant others," and go to Mel's. Run up a tab. Keep the empty bottles and glasses on your table. Slug each other in the arm heartily and conspiratorially. Drink. Have somebody's significant other drive you home.

Dolph was partial to bourbon and Jimmy Buffet, Arnulfo to scotch and water with the Supremes. I went for Rolling Rock and Jane's Addiction.

If you happen to have a partner, bring him or her to Mel's after a night on the town and let your belly relax. Like a badger's.

Mel's is located in a hole in Paseo Nuevo's wall in downtown Santa Barbara, at 6 W. De La Guerra St. Open 7:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Phone 963-2211.

THE WILD CAT

962-7970

Locals' favorite bar. The Wild Cat offers pool, jukebox, strong drinks and live music every Wednesday.

WOODY'S

229 W. Montecito, 963-9326

At this Woody's location the patrons can enjoy their mason jars full of beer while soaking in the western atmosphere. I can personally attest to the quality of Woody's ribs. If you don't go to Woody's for the music, then go just for the ribs.

LOCAL COLOR Anaconda

Prepare yourselves, the Bosstones are comin'! That's right, the Mighty Mighty Bosstones will once again take the stage at the Anaconda this Sunday night (April 18). Coming to us all the way from Boston, Massachusetts, the Bosstones are a group of plaid-clad entertainers that play a fusion of many musical styles such as reggae, ska and punk-rock. Opening for the Bosstones will be Phooey and Slam Alice, so make sure you show up plenty early.
