PHELPS RECEIVES OFFICIAL PLANS

College Invites Players

March 3, 4, and 5
Set for Annual Symphony

Plan Fifth Concert

Project Attracts Much Universal
Interest

Invitations were issued during the past week to universities, colleges and junior colleges for the fifth annual All-Southern California College Symphony to be held here March 3, 4, 5, 1935.

The first of these symphony concerts was given here in 1931. Each year the musical has attracted a larger number of students and the interest in this project has become universal.

Cliff Leedy Originator
The idea for an all-college orchestra was conceived by Clifford Leedy, musical director, and Wesley Dickenson, former student, in an attempt to give students an opportunity to play in an orchestra composed of the finest college musicians in Southern California.

Last year the group was directed by Henry Eichheim, world famous composer and director. This year another nationally known symphony conductor who is thoroughly acquainted with the finest of symphonic music and traditions will be selected.

The nature of the orchestra is competitive in spirit. It is developed for the purpose of acquainting students with the finest of traditional as well as modern music and to give them the experience of playing in a full symphony orchestra. It is a carry-over from the college orchestra activities.

The concert members will be selected from available symphonic music and will cover a three fold program. The selections will include a standard symphony, a standard overture and an insight into the best of recognized modern music of proven worth.

Beta Sigs Win Parade Prize

Novelty acts of song and dance interspersed with peppy yells and cheers by an enthusiastic audience composed the homecoming theater rally held on the Fox-Arlington stage last Friday night.

The rally opened with music by the college band and the awarding of prizes to winners of the best floats in the rally parade. Beta Sigma Chi won first prize for the best fraternity float. The prize was a trophy donated by the Campus Coffee Cup and 25 tickets to Club Chico. Delta Delta Delta was awarded five pounds of candy, donated by Albert Sheetz, and 15 tickets to Club Chico as winner of the best sorority float.

Phi Kappa Gamma was given 10 theater tickets, while Alpha Theta Chi, Delta Sigma Epsilon, Tau Gamma Sigma and Tau Omega were given five tickets each for their floats.

"Goldy" Goldsmith, assisted by his assistant Jack Knight, officiated as master of ceremonies, introducing several acts and leading the assembly in school yells. Bruce Le Clair presented a novelty musical skit with the help of Bill Lanford, Fred Lambourne and El Cole. A fast piano number, featuring Stanley Cox, was followed by a clever novelty tap dance by Mildred Pearson. Miss Pearson was accompanied by Louise Jackson.

As the last act on the program, Frankie Gilmore sang several popular numbers, accompanied by "Buddy" Moore. Following the conclusion of the college rally.

Student Body Bus Gets New Painting

License plates have arrived for the school bus recently purchased by Fred Allred, student body controller. The bus is being painted, and will be finished in a few days. The new license number is 5233.

Official Sends Greetings to Grads Dinner

Missing the first homecoming dinner in 20 years, Mrs. Jane Miller Abraham sent a telegram of regrets to the assembled alumni last Saturday night.

Her telegram read: "My darlings, Greetings and welcome. I am with you in spirit but the flesh is off on a trip celebrating a fifth wedding anniversary. Stop. Nothing but an anniversary celebration could keep me away from this joyous celebration. Stop. Congratulations and best wishes to you all, to President Phelps, the retiring and new officers, Henry Batchelder, past presidents, and Bud Lambourne, Bobbie Goux and all the entertaining troupe. Stop. My love (it will never stop)."

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham with a party of friends attended the opening of the opera "Bartered Bride" at the Shrine auditorium.

Preceding the opera the group dined in the new Italian room at the Knickerbocker hotel in Los Angeles and after the performance they danced at Sherries.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Abraham were luncheon guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Otis Lamb in Pasadena and were dinner guests at the home of Mrs. L. L. Dunklin in San Marino.

"All in all it was a grand weekend," stated the registrar, "but it broke my heart to miss our homecoming dinner."

Class of '34 Gives Annual College Gift

The colorful hangings now decorating the auditorium are a gift to the school from the class of '34. They were painted by Mrs. Bonnie Welch, mother of Phyllis Welch, who is well known to many members of the campus.

The hanging on the right of the auditorium is a reproduction of the national coat of arms of Spain while the one on the left is the coat of arms of a province in Spain.

"It has been the custom of graduating classes to present a gift to the college," said Mrs. Abraham.

The class of '33 presented a freshman scholarship while another class presented the clock in the library.

S. B. S. C. GIRL TAKES FEATURE ROLE IN PLAY

Constance Briscoe, member of the student body, has been selected to play a prominent part in the comedy "Good-Bye Again" to be presented at the Lobero beginning November 19 and running throughout the week.

Miss Briscoe recently appeared in the Lobero production of "Dark Tower." She received much favorable comment for her splendid portrayal of the character, Jessica Wells.

A transfer from U.C.L.A., Miss Briscoe is now a junior at State. While at Westwood she took an active part in dramatics and was highly honored for her abilities by being made a member of the University Dramatic society, Phi Beta, a professional organization, and Cap and Gown, highest honorary society in the field. She played important parts in "The High Road," "March Hares" and "12th Night."

Mrs. Irene Clow Surprises Friends

Leaving Santa Barbara Friday afternoon, Miss Irene Clow and John C. Stewart drove to Yuma, Arizona where they were married Saturday morning, Nov. 3.

Mrs. Stewart has been secretary since 1928, and was also in the service of the college from 1922 to 1924. Mrs. Stewart is expected to return to her office on November 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart had announced their intentions to wed earlier in the year, but no definite date had been set. The marriage came as a complete surprise to all their friends. Mrs. Mamie Miller, who works in the office with Mrs. Stewart said, "She told me that she was going to Los Angeles to apply for a license—and did she fool me."

English Majors Convene

Dr. William Maxwell Discusses Library in San Marino

Students Plan Trip

Huntington Gallery Given to State by Founder

Dr. William Maxwell spoke on "The Huntington Library" at the meeting of the English department at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. In his talk Dr. Maxwell reviewed the life of Mr. Henry E. Huntington, founder of the Huntington library.

"Huntington library was really founded accidentally," pointed out Dr. Maxwell, "Henry E. Huntington collected most of his rare paintings and priceless volumes during the war when several famous English families were formed to sell their possessions."

Mr. Huntington was born in 1850 in a store in West Virginia. Eventually he became the foreman of a saw mill.

Collection Famous

Mr. Huntington then moved to California where he was extraordinarily successful in his business ventures. As president of the Southern Pacific railway system, Mr. Huntington moved to San Marino where he started making the famous collection now composed in the Huntington library. He first intended that his library should be donated to a college or literary society. After making numerous collections of paintings and books during the World war, Mr. Huntington decided to have his library open to the public. The library is now open to the public from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. each day except Sunday and Monday.

Scholars from all over the world come to study the very fine photographic copies of famous books. "There are many such copies of religious books that are easier to read than the originals," said Dr. Maxwell, "The most famous of the religious books is the Gutenberg Bible, printed in 1450."

"A collection of Poe's works is especially interesting. The poems are in their original form. There are also first editions of Chaucer's works," stated Dr. Maxwell.

Originals of Kipling's and Robert Burns poems, Franklin's "Autobiography" and other famous works are represented at the library.

President Clarence Phelps Urges Attitude of Optimism for Students and Faculty

Is the race between education and catastrophe over, as H. G. Wells, who announced it a few years ago, thinks it is? Did the year 1933 bring the close of an era? Are we surrounded by the wreckage of civilization? Is our problem now that of salvage—saving what we can from among the debris? Do we, at best, have to look forward to a period of frustration during which two generations of the peoples of this world will be weakened physically and groping mentally and spiritually on account of the recent defeat of our educational efforts? This is the expressed opinion of Wells himself, and I have recently heard it amplified in an able presentation by a prominent speaker in an address before a large assembly of leading educators.

The Great American Crisis
My first reaction to these views of Wells was one of natural skepticism concerning what I considered fanciful pessimism. But when I heard his statements taken as a text and expounded in a carefully prepared address, indicating that the speaker had taken them seriously, I began to question myself. I asked if it was possible that I, in my observation of the social scene, had been so blind as not to realize that our civilization is wrecked and that though we may continue the struggle, as General Lee did after the battle of Gettysburg, it must be, as it was with him, without hope of ultimate success. I asked myself this question, knowing that it is possible in matters of such magnitude to be defeated and at the same

QUARTETTE ENTERTAINS
The negro quartette, which has been touring through California and appearing at numerous schools enroute, will appear here tomorrow morning at a special assembly in the auditorium.

'Guaranteed Grouch Removers' Entertain at Student Meeting

Grad's Choose Ester Ludcke for President

Approximately two hundred alumni, faculty, students, and friends gathered in Ebbets Hall last Saturday night to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the college.

Esther Janssens Ludcke, '27 was elected president of the Alumni Association to replace Charles Ritchie '31, present president.

Bob Goux, '34, presided as program director and master of ceremonies, and Henry Batchelder, '27, acted as toastmaster.

A bridal table was set in the middle of the room for the couples married during the past year. A white and silver color scheme was carried out. A large bowl of white chrysanthemums centered the table and silver candelabras were used. Betty Procter '33, who still will be married the last of this month, was guest of honor at the table and cut the wedding cake. Charles Ilenstein, who will be married in December was also a guest of honor.

The newly weds were Mr. and Mrs. Herman P. Thomas, formerly Helen MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Lewis, formerly Betty Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bredstein, formerly Constance Wise, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bennett, formerly Margaret Burke.

The Dixie Jubilee Quartette, billed as "Four Peppy Plantation Performers — Guaranteed Grouch Removers," will entertain the student body at a special assembly second period tomorrow, November 8. Classes will be dismissed for the concert, the price of which will be 10 cents.

The quartette, vaudeville headliners, have been touring Western States for many years and come to State recommended by many schools and colleges. They have just finished performances at San Jose State, Fresno State and Santa Maria Junior college, and have engagements at Ventura J. C., Santa Paula and Oxnard high schools next week.

Bud Lambourne, president of the student body, suggests that students with no first period classes be at the doors early. No tickets are on sale and the dimes will be collected at the door.

Manager Announces Dates for Debates

Bill Ogle, manager of the debating team, recently announced the dates of the fall debates as Friday, December 7, and December 14. On these dates two debates will be held, one in Stockton and the other in Santa Barbara. The team that debates at home the first week will journey to Stockton for the second debate, thereby giving both outfits a chance to debate at both places. The Santa Barbara teams, when debating at home, will take the affirmative; when away, the negative.

Reactions to Pessimism

By C. L. PHELPS, President
State Teachers College
Santa Barbara, Calif.

time not be able to realize it. I recalled the facts concerning the decline and fall of the Roman Empire. I asked myself if our recent history had been similar to that chronicled of that flourishing empire in that period in the far distant past. I asked myself many more questions and compared many other more or less analogous situations with our own conditions, as I am able to interpret them, before I ventured to begin to draw conclusions. I even reviewed certain conclusions of my own, summarized in a paper written at the close of 1933 on the subject of "The Great American Crisis"—a paper dealing with the temporary breakdown of support of American education to such an extent that thousands of schools were entirely closed, that many others were reduced in length of term by half or more, and that some two million children were being deprived of a part or all of their educational opportunities. I found that I had concluded then that while conditions were serious and threatening, there were indications that our great Federal government itself was conscious of this threat against its stability and was beginning to take steps to prevent the impending catastrophe. I found that I had been convinced that these steps, if they were properly supported by a vigorous public opinion, would be effective in preventing a breakdown of our cherished American traditions and would save our civilization which is dependent for its perpetuation on an enlightened citizenship. The conclusions reached at that time have been supported since then by various grants in aid of education to such an extent that the crisis of which I wrote seems, for the time at least, to have been passed. But again I asked myself whether this apparent improvement can be expected to be permanent or whether it represents merely a temporary recovery.

Depression Inevitable
In order to focus more light on conditions I began to compare trends and tendencies as they have affected the stability of civilization. One of the most immediate, of course, is the financial situation in this country. In the twenties the trend was all in one direction. Prosperity, as it seemed, came easily to us and kept on coming. Our people depended on its continuance. They invested, borrowed and gambled. Everything seemed rosy. Each month as recorded showed an improvement over the corresponding month of the preceding year in practically every department of activity. All curves showed an upward trend. Our people refused to believe that they would ever change. Then suddenly they did (Continued on Page Four)

Plans Include 15 Blue Prints with Estimate of Cost

Estimate Calls for PWA Loan, Federal Grant; Buildings Include Two Pools, Library

First complete official information from Washington concerning the new campus site on Leadbetter Hill came to President Clarence L. Phelps in the form of fifteen large blueprints and booklet of cost estimates Saturday morning.

Since this information has been received, the next step is to go further with the details of financing the new plant.

Monday Morning Minus Misery

November 11 is the Armistice.

It means parades, football games, heat prostration, and SLEEP. This is our chance to get even for all the Sunday nights we couldn't go out because we had to study. So merrily we roll along with a tallyhoo and a tantivy, and don't spare the horses.

Estimates that accompanied the blue prints, indicate that the financing contemplates a $1,193,540.00 loan from the PWA and a $431,190 grant from the federal government. The buildings to be erected are estimated to cost $1,411,156 while the remainder of the investment will be in roads, landscaping and administration of the development. The buildings will be erected just above the cliffs and will command a view of both ocean and mountains.

New Buildings Planned

The main administration building will be 225 by 60 feet. It will face upon a paved terrace 250 by 50 feet and an "academic court" 160 feet square, while another terrace to the ocean side is 125 feet square. The auditorium, which will be 275 by 90 feet, will be built to the west of the main structure. A little theater adjoining the auditorium will be 75 by 100 feet.

The science and music wings will extend beyond the auditorium. The music patio will be 100 feet square while that of the science department will be 100 by 150 feet. The industrial education department will join these buildings to the west.

Library, Gymnasium, Bath House
On the bluff above the bath house, a library of irregular shape will be 250 by 200 feet. The art and health department will reach further towards the city while the gymnasium will reach towards the beach. It will be 110 by 175 feet, with a swimming pool building, 60 by 100 feet.

The athletic grounds will include two football fields, two women's soccer fields, six tennis courts, three basketball courts for men and three courts for women.

LEADER LISTS MEMBERSHIP REQUIREMENTS

A list of requirements for membership in the Woman's Athletic association taken from section 111 of the organization's constitution, has been requested by several freshman women.

"Membership shall be granted to all girls having obtained credit for one season of sports providing they have C averages.

"Participation in one season's sports shall be adequate to continue in the association.

"Associate membership shall be granted to any girl who has less than a C average if she is otherwise eligible. At the end of the semester, if she has brought up her average, she may take the pledge and become a full member.

Honorary Memberships Granted
"Honorary membership shall be granted by the executive board by invitation.

"The executive board has the privilege to suspend the membership of any girls whose conduct has proved unfavorable.

"If any member has two unexcused absences from regular meetings, her name will be dropped from the roll. She may be readmitted by the executive board if they so desire, and by application to the president."

F. Monson Leaves for Woodlake Home

Fred Monson, scholarship student, who suffered injuries during the football season, will withdraw from school for the remainder of this semester, and return to his home in Woodlake, California. Monson, who plays fullback on the freshman team, will return to college next semester.

Reporter Goes to S. B. School

Public schools in Santa Barbara are being visited daily by a reporter from the staff of the Morning Press and the story of his experiences run in the paper the following morning.

Up to the present time, this school-boy reporter, who started in kindergarten, has passed through the sixth grade. The object of writing up these visits is to make the townspeople, especially the parents, better acquainted with the methods used in modern educational institutions.

From his various visits, the reporter found that the method of teaching today is entirely different than when he went to school. He was impressed by the teaching of the A. B. C.'s in the first grade, where it is now done by association of letters with words and pictures instead of memorizing all the letters. The psychological approach in handling children also scored a hit with him.

State college campus will be the object of his daily column in the near future.

Scout Executive Talks to Classes

Karl Carlson, regional director of the Boy Scouts of America, addressed a combined meeting of the introduction to education and parent education classes last Thursday afternoon in room 45.

The subject of Mr. Carlson's talk was "Juvenile Delinquency." In addition to that he touched briefly on the subject of home environment and training of children.

A number of faculty members and a large attendance from the two classes were present.

Mr. Carlson's district includes Nevada, California, Arizona and Utah.

College in Politics

Colleges supported by the State are for the benefit of all people in the state.

As State institutions, it is their privilege to provide a curriculum that will give students, besides a formal education and a knowledge of a trade or profession, an opportunity to develop the ability to think clearly about and to question or challenge existing social orders.

As State institutions, it is not their privilege to dictate what political views any one student or group of students will hold or to sanction the formation of any political group without giving equal rights to all other political groups. For this reason a State college must protect itself and must necessarily prohibit the organization of any political group within its walls.

This does not mean, however, that the college demands that its students take no part in political organizations or that they maintain a disinterested point of view towards matters of political science and government. Rather it encourages them to study politics and the formation and platforms of the existing political parties, to try to understand international relations, to strive earnestly and sincerely for political and social betterment.

College administrators and teachers do not maintain that existing political and governmental set-ups be maintained status-quo. Rather they encourage investigations and suggestions for changes, provided these changes are made in the method provided for in all State constitutions.

In questions of politics, colleges strive to keep on neutral ground. Again this does not mean that they limit freedom of speech, either of teachers or students, but it does mean that they will sponsor no partisan attempt to influence the opinions of others.

There is no compulsion on any student to come to the State colleges. And any student who thinks the college is not run on suitably democratic foundations or who thinks it interferes in any way with his personal rights, is privileged to leave it at any time.

I Saw It in the Papers

By DON MACLEOD

The article which appeared in this column last week pertaining to the American Legion's Armistice Day program in the schools was necessarily cut short. Feeling that the entire plan as set forth by the Americanism Committee and which appeared in the California Legionnaire for November should be of paramount interest to students, a summary of the complete article is given below.

The committee suggests that the main speaker at the assembly should spend at least the first five minutes of his address relating some glorified war tale which he heard in his youth and which was so inspiring that he looked toward the day when he might even lay down his life for the Stars and Stripes. If the speaker has had camp experience the thrill of the first landing upon foreign soil, the Americanism Committee suggests, could be brought in very nicely.

While such a program may be colorful, there is evidence that since the recent munitions investigation which exposed war as an enterprise motivated by greed, students have become more interested in movements for the purpose of promoting peace. When, they are asking, will schools sponsor such programs?

A protest strike at the University of California, U.C.L.A. and other schools throughout the state is being pushed by student leaders as a counter move against fascism, reaction and the ultimate suspension of five students because of alleged communistic activities. Plans have been laid to send a plea to 26,000 students in all branches of the institution to walk out on Monday morning.

Movements to check the strike were taken immediately by a group of football players who pledged their whole-hearted and unanimous support to purge the schools of the threatening intellectual progressivism.

Since the first decree of Provost Moore which suspended the alleged radical students for a year, he has since offered all but one of them reinstatement, but under terms which the students themselves would not accept. The latest report is that unconditional reinstatement will be granted within a few days.

Such civic leaders as the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles, The Daughters of the American Revolution, Chief of Police Davis and the American Legion immediately indorsed the original action of Provost Moore "100%", according to an article in the Los Angeles Times.

To the Band!

Hats off to the band and more power to it, its leaders and the individual members!

Each of us that witnessed the last game feels that the loss of a football game can be borne a great deal easier when we know that our band can, without a doubt, rival and equal any band supported by any college in our conference.

The immaculate uniforms, well presented drills, enthusiasm of every individual member, the appropriate stunts, each lend an unestimable amount of prestige to Los Gauchos and prove to the public that although we may not excel in football we have a band to be proud of.

The favorable opinion and comment we gain through the band will rival any that we gain by other methods of advertising.

Again we say, "Hats Off to the band! Your fine and colorful demonstration at the homecoming game was appreciated by each and all. We are proud of you." —S.M.

Art—Music—Drama

By MARY TOMLINSON

Opera season in Los Angeles opened last week with the German opera, "The Bartered Bride" by Smetana. Elizabeth Rethberg, soprano, well known to the radio audience of opera last winter, again presented her pleasing artistry noted for its mellow, smooth phrasing. Her mastery of Wagner opera shown by her performances last winter makes her prominent in opera singing.

"Carmen" tomorrow night, "Manon" Saturday night, and a combination of "Le Coq d'Or" and "The Secret of Suzanne" last night fills the bill that is scheduled at the Shrine auditorium this week.

Richard Crooks, tall, blond, and young singer of the Metropolitan appears with Lotte Lehmann in the French setting of Massenet's "Manon." He has been popular in the East and should prove to be a drawing card to opera enthusiasts Saturday night. Ninon Vallin will play "Carmen" Thursday, which was the opera in which she made her operatic debut some years ago in France. She is known for her French diction and has been attributed high praise for her interpretation of Debussy songs. Debussy himself said to her, "You alone sing my songs as they should be sung." She will appear in concert at the Lobero theater, November 26.

The beautiful Doris Kenyon who played in the screen production "Voltaire," coupled with the none too good looking Nelson Eddy last night to present "The Secret of Suzanne." Eddy is well known to Southern California, having given recitals in Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, and having appeared as soloist at the Hollywood Bowl.

Recently Roderick White and Mildred Couper, outstanding leaders of music in Santa Barbara, combined their musical talents in an exceptional modern program at the Thomas Ripley home in Mission Canyon. The concert benefited a fund being raised to buy the painting, "The Poet in the Machine Age" by Malcolm Thurnburn, which is to be hung in the public library. The works of Malcolm Thurnburn are familiar to Santa Barbarans since he made his residence here for several years until two years ago. He designed the mural decoration above the altar in the Unitarian church.

Not only was the motive for the program worth while, but the program itself marked a step in educating music listeners to the modern trends in music. The concert was practically all modern. Mrs. Couper discussed and played Scriabine, choosing works from his early period to show his tendency to copy Chopin, from his transition period, and from his later work in order to show the maturity to which he has grown. The discussion of his "mystic chord" built upon fourths instead of triads was particularly interesting.

Mr. White played a Spanish Suite by de Falla, dynamic for its rhythms. His Bach was pleasing and the Andante by D'Ambrosio especially warm in tone and expression.

Unrest forewarning revolution stirs Mexico as the result of a proposed bill in the legislature which if passed would enforce socialistic education in the schools. The situation within the last few days has taken on all the earmarks of a Russian revolution with the government threatening to expell the clergy and confiscate the churches unless all opposition to the government's radical activities ceases immediately.

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

We have discovered that Allan "Bud" Lambourne was born in Ogden, Utah, on September 27, 1911 but that his home is now in Santa Barbara. That he attended John C. Fremont high school in Los Angeles and was graduated there in the class of '29. That while in high school he was the director of the band and was president of the Judges club.

That he is now president of the Santa Barbara State college student body, student director of the college band, student director of the men's glee club, student director of the college orchestra and a member of Sigma Alpha Kappa, local social fraternity.

That his hobby is dance music, and that he worked in Santa Barbara all last summer.

Alumni Dance Breaks Record

The dance attendance record for this year was broken by five hundred people being present at the annual homecoming dance given by the student body, Saturday night, at Rockwood.

The social committee reports that approximately 125 alumni, and over 50 Oxy students were guests at the dance. Almost 300 student body tickets were taken in during the evening and more than the usual number of outside guests were present.

Fred Lambourne and his orchestra played for the dance. Elbert Cochran was the soloist for the evening.

During the intermission Margaret Beddome did a tap dance. Mercedes Berger, graduate of State, sang "There's a New Moon Over My Shoulder" and "Here Comes the British." In answer to many requests, State's stars, "Gilmore and Buppy" consented to entertain the guests by singing several numbers. After the entertainment Bud Lambourne asked the Oxy students if Santa Barbara could give good dances. The vigorous response of "Hell Yes" assured State students that all of the Oxy guests were enjoying Santa Barbara hospitality.

Faculty sponsors for the evening were President and Mrs. Clarence Phelps and Miss Hazel Severy.

New Majoress Scores Big Hit

That last Saturday's presentation of the band and glee club, led by a miniature drum majoress, Marjorie Lambourne, was by far the smartest of the year, is the opinion of many Staters who saw the drill at the Santa Barbara-Oxy homecoming game at Peabody stadium.

Little Miss Lambourne is the new addition to the band, as announced in last week's paper. According to Clifford Leedy, she is a permanent fixture and will be seen in action each time the musical unit marches. Mr. Leedy said that Miss Lambourne received much praise for her marching and that her winning personality won her many friends.

Another feature of the intermission was the airplane exhibition put on by Denny McArthur, who makes and flies miniature airplanes.

Junior Class Elects I. Boeseke Secretary

Lita Boeseke was elected new secretary of the Junior Class at a meeting held in the auditorium Wednesday.

Other issues discussed and voted upon were the securing of a class adviser and the collecting of dues to be used for the junior prom. After a short discussion it was decided that Mr. Wells be asked to serve as adviser. The class dues were assessed at 25 cents and will be collected by a committee.

Since definite plans for the prom could not be agreed upon, the issue was postponed until the next meeting.

Loyola Prexy Speaks Here Tomorrow Night

The president of the Dolores P.T.A. extends an invitation to the State College students to hear Father Duce, president of Loyola university at Los Angeles, speak on "American Education Week" tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, at the Dolores school.

"Among my acquaintances, Father Duce stands as one of the most sincere and unaffected of all. His talk will be of interest, I am sure, to all students," states President Phelps.

B. P. Women Sponsor Penny Carnival Mon.

An enjoyable evening was spent by all who attended the "Penny Carnival" held in the College gym last Monday night. The affair was sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club, who will use the money taken in for scholarship purposes.

Among the entertainment and amusements furnished were turtle races between "Merriam," "Sinclair" and "Haight," and a moving picture, Miss Maurer's junior high pupils put on a skit, while a good part of the evening was spent in dancing.

Other ingenious methods of extracting the copper coin were brought forth, all of which proved quite successful. According to officials, so many pennies were spent that the sponsors raised the full quota they set out to, which will enable them to help a few more deserving students get a start in college.

Sport Comment

By BILL HOYT

Well it seems as though we lost another one. That's an awful way to start out to say anything of the game, but that is the dope even if it does hurt. In losing, however, the fellows showed more fight and spirit than they have displayed since the first conference game of the season, which we won if you remember. If it hadn't been for a distinct let down immediately following the Oxy's first touchdown, Los Gauchos might have won. For, when the State varsity did score, it was merely the fraction of a few inches that lost them the conversion. Oh well, that's all in football, and we have one thing to our credit that we didn't have in a few of our previous games and that was the old pepper.

Now that it's back (the old peppy fighting spirit) the varsity ought to be able to break the "one game jinx" that has been haunting the Santa Barbara State portals for three or more years. Two years ago, Los Gauchos, then the Roadrunners, won in a terrific upset over San Diego State 6-0 in the conference opener. Last year, State featured in another surprise victory over the Oxy Tigers. With only two games left in this season we're all hoping that the varsity will bring home the bacon from La Verne when they meet a week from next Saturday on the southerner's field.

Our list of crippled Gauchos was increased last Saturday against Oxy. Le Roy "Findog" Finley just got himself checked off the list a few weeks ago from an injury which happened in the Pomona game, and then Saturday "Findog" rebroke the bone in his foot which was the cause of the previous injury. Harold "Sandy" Sanderson received a neck injury late in the last quarter which appeared to be very serious at first but after an medical examination "Sandy" spent only a stuffy weekend in the hospital and now he is back in school

Poets Lead Conference Standings

During a week end of hectic football games, Whittier clinched the championship of the southern conference by trouncing San Diego State 26-6.

The Poets have won four of their conference games, the fifth will be against Redlands this Friday; and even if they lose, their standing will not be changed.

San Diego was at the top of the ladder with Whittier two weeks ago, but now having lost to them, the southerners have no chance, even by winning all their games. If both teams win the remainder of their games, Whittier will have an average 800 while San Diego will rate an average of .750.

Redlands also is hopelessly out of the championship running because of a four conference game schedule and the one defeat by Occidental. Occidental, by their defeating the Santa Barbara Gauchos now tie with the Bulldogs for third place with a rating of .500 each, having won two and lost two.

Conference rating:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Whittier	4	0	0	1.000
San Diego	2	0	1	.666
Occidental	2	0	2	.500
Redlands	1	0	1	.500
La Verne	0	0	2	.000
Santa Barbara	0	0	3	.000

and out for practice. Another one is Leonard Fisher who has an infected hand and will probably be out for the rest of the season.

Frosh are going to have a "ding" of a game this next Monday when they meet the cadets of the Black Fox Military academy on the Ventura high school field. Our yearlings have gained such renown that the Ventura American Legion has asked them to play for the holiday game in place of any of their local football squads.

Not that it makes any difference; Ted Beckett, last year's pigskin mentor is playing ball for a professional team up in San Francisco; "Flop" Wells, if he keeps up his sterling work on the Frosh squad will soon be in line for the assistant freshman coach job; Los Gauchos nearly twisted the Oxy Tiger's tail, but when they got a hold they let go; to "Sandy" should go the golden medal of praise this week for his terrific long punt in the first quarter of the Oxy game. It went the total distance of 88 yards from the spot kicked, traveling approximately 65 yards in the air, and that's some boot;

GAUCHOS LOSE A TOUGH BALLGAME FOR HOMECOMING

After being held scoreless for two periods by a fighting band of Gauchos, Occidental's powerful Tigers suddenly came to life in the third period of Saturday's big homecoming game, and rolled through a stubborn State defense for a pair of touchdowns, which proved to be just enough to give them a 12-6 victory.

Their second score came just as the third quarter ended, and as the final period began, Santa Barbara threw a scare into their rivals by taking the kickoff and unleashing the longest sustained drive of the day, an 87 yard march to their only score.

During the first half, with Stockel, Clemons and Sanderson crashing the visitors' strong line repeatedly for good gains, and aided by a few well-executed passes, State managed to chalk up five first downs to Occidental's three. Sanderson got off some beautiful kicks in this half, also, to keep the Tigers in check. It was not until the latter part of the second period that Oxy really threatened the green and white goal line. A long pass enabled them to strike deep into Gaucho territory, but the gun marking the end of the half spoiled this chance.

Before the third period was well under way, however, the gold-shirted boys from the South recovered a fumble by Stanley on the State 25 yard line, and immediately cut loose with their first touchdown drive. Captain McMillan did most of the ball totting in this push and personally escorted the ball into the end zone on a plunge from the one-yard line. He missed the conversion.

No sooner did the Tigers get their hands on the ball again, than did they start another excursion toward the promised land. McMillan, Nichols and Beebe tore through gaping holes in the State line for substantial gains, and Beebe tossed a few potent passes which hit their mark, as the Tigers moved down the field once more. When they had come to within a few feet of the State goal line, Nichols was called upon to take the ball over, and he responded nobly, raising Oxy's score to 12. McMillan again missed the try for extra point.

Coach Bill Anderson, feeling quite jubilant, then pulled his regulars and gave his reserves a chance to play. The Gauchos regarded this as an insult added to injury, and came back to stage their long touchdown drive, giving the Tigers a taste of their own medicine. After Mahoney had returned the kickoff to his 13 yard line, Robinson uncorked a beautiful pass to Bowlus, which was good for 35 yards and a first down on the Gaucho 48 yard line. Then came another pass, Robinson to Voorhees, "Skeeter" advancing to the enemy 36 yard line before he was brought down. Coach Anderson had by now decided that his reserves had played enough for the afternoon, and called upon his first string to set the rowdy Gauchos back where they belonged. But no sooner had the first string gotten into the game, than did Red Mahoney pull a fast one on them, and shoot straight the center of their line on a fake reverse, scampering 17 yards to a first down on the Oxy 19 yard stripe. The southerners held State to two yards in two plays but on third down, "Doc" Kelliher took a reverse, swung wide around his own left end, and scored sending up.

This was the last of the scoring, although the Tigers kept the ball in their possession practically all the rest of the game, and had advanced to the State 25 yard line when the final gun sounded. Voorhees played his usual stellar game at end, while Kelliher, Dupes, Sanderson, and Mahoney all scintillated for the green and white. For Occidental, McMillan, at half was outstanding, but Beebe and Nichols in the backfield, and a giant named Howe, at guard, had no little to do in their victory.

STATE BABES TO MEET CADETS IN SOUTHERN CITY

Entering the final game of the season, the Santa Barbara State frosh will meet the powerful Black Foxe military academy cadets in an Armistice day game at the Ventura high school stadium next Monday, November 12.

The cadets, are probably the toughest outfit Los Gauchos will have met with one exception, Taft junior college, who handled the yearlings their only severe trouncing of the year.

Notable among the Black Fox's triumphs is their victory over Santa Clara frosh, one of the most powerful freshmen teams in the north. By this victory the Cadets established themselves as the outstanding private school team in Southern California.

A new lineman, named Oldershaw, has just enrolled at State and is expected to strengthen the Babes line materially. Likewise the return of Howard "Swivel-hips" Yeager will have its bolstering effect on the squad. Yeager left the Cal Poly game with a badly twisted ankle two weeks ago, but the extra lay-off has allowed the injury to heal nicely.

Frosh Team Triumph in Intramurals

Closing one of the most successful intramural volleyball seasons in history, the Freshman team soundly beat the Beta Sigma Chi outfit, three games to one last Friday afternoon in the school gym.

The games were closely played throughout, and although the scores indicate a complete rout by the Frosh, it was by far the best of any of the games played during the tournament.

The Yearlings earned the right to play in the championship encounter by winning games from the Junior class, Sigma Alpha Kappa and Tau Omega, while the Beta Sigs defeated the Anacapa club and the Sophomore class before entering the finals.

Prexy Comments on Words of Author; Urges Optimism

change. Disaster followed and a new trend started in a downward direction. Our people have now accepted this change and are acting in accord with it with exactly the same assurance of its continuity as they did when the trend was in the other direction. Where all was pessimism in the thirties.

In this matter of trends and tendencies we may need to go just a little farther back—not too far, but far enough to get a clearer picture, one that we may compare with the present situation.

I recall some striking deductions as to the probable length of the World War which were made soon after war was declared in Europe and long before this country entered. In this case David Starr Jordan did the figuring. He concluded from the rate at which accumulated capital was being squandered and debts accumulated that the war could not possibly last ninety days before all the world's resources would be exhausted.

Education Potent Power
I use this striking example in order to pave the way for some optimistic conclusions and for the statement of a theory concerning trends and tendencies which amounts almost to a philosophy. I do not agree with Wells that civilization has failed, that education is defeated and that catastrophe has spread its wreckage around us. Education has its defects, plenty of them, but it still remains the most potent influence for the preservation of civilization. It needs to be strengthened by a united popular support. It needs to be guided by constructive surveys of the present situation and projections of future requirements in our most important activities. These should be the responsibilities of the general public whose interest, or lack of it, will, in the final analysis, determine the success or failure of educational efforts. If the present crisis is to be successfully passed, the morale of the teaching force must be sustained by definite indications as to the kind of developments which may be expected in the next five years or so. In other words they must have new and fairly authoritative directions. They must not be allowed to continue groping. A new program must be evolved. There must be a tangible goal. It must be as definite as possible. It must deal with estimates of possibilities in building programs, projected construction of all kinds, prospects in major manufacturing industries, changes in theories and methods of distribution of goods, reestablishment of credit, standards of living, possible simplification of business and governmental procedure, revised home programs with greater simplicity and more extensive interests, better standards for administering government—and many other problems concerning which solutions should be reached.

It would be most gratifying to see public opinion crystallizing with such clearness that educators could formulate new programs with assurance. In other words if it should become fashionable for interested lay people to start surveys and develop findings as a basis for revised educational programs; there would be little chance that the teaching force would ever yield to pessimism or admit defeat.

Personally, I am expecting a new trend of this kind to get under way in the very near future, and that all our forces will join together in a new era of progress.

And this expectation leads me to the conclusion that the genius of the American people can be depended on not only to find a way out of difficulties but to start new trends which will lead again to success. I believe from reviewing history that we can depend always on the arrival of a new trend or tendency which the American people will follow in time to avert disaster. A new trend is now about to start. The direction of this trend can not be accurately determined, but the setting for it is apparent in a proposed evaluation of our resources and our prospects. From this first step of careful survey the next ones will be fairly obvious. An educational trend is easily set and when it is once set the confidence and enthusiasm of the teaching force may be expected to operate in full force, and the present fear of defeat, inspired by specious reasoning, will be at an end.

Original Alice Critically Ill

Mrs. Alice Hargreaves, the original of "Alice in Wonderland" is reported to be critically ill at her home in Kentish Village, England.

She is now 82 years old. When she was a child of ten, Charles L. Dodgson, the son of the vicar of Daresbury, a village in Cheshire, home from his teaching of mathematics at Cambridge, told the small daughter of Dean Liddell the story of a little girl who strangely enough was also named "Alice," who went down a rabbit hole. Later, under the pen-name of Lewis Carroll, he wrote "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland," and still later Alice became Mrs. Hargreaves. The book has become a classic of children's literature.

In 1928 Mrs. Alice Liddell Hargreaves sold the original manuscript of the story for 15,400 pounds (approximately $75,000) and it was brought to America and placed on exhibition at the public library in New York. The manuscript was entirely handwritten and contained very few alterations.

At Mrs. Hargreaves' bedside are her son, Capt. Caryl Hargreaves, and his sister, Miss Rhoda Liddell.

60 Delegates Attend Meet

Sixty registered delegates attended the Pacific Southwest conference of International Relations clubs, said to be the most successful conference of the clubs so far. In reviewing the success of the conference, Dr. Frederick W. Ganzert said, "This club, one of the smallest in the country and probably the poorest financially, was able to prepare a program that ran without a hitch and presented the appearance of a highly successful conference."

Mary Smiley, president of the International Relations club says of the conference, "The visiting faculty advisers and delegates praised the club and its organization, stressing the fine spirit of the club and the cooperation shown by members of the club."

An unusual interest was taken by the townspeople in the meetings open to the public. It is estimated that approximately 200 townspeople were present for various meetings of the convention.
