

Progress Slow in Coming For Minority Programs

By Dorothy James

"My biggest disappointment with agreements concerning minorities on the campus is that they are always shortrange, not longterm," commented el Congreso member Victor Becerra on the progress with the selection of the new Chicano Studies Department head.

Becerra's remark reflects an attitude that the mediated agreements from last spring's negotiations between student, faculty and Administration have not been fully met. The negotiations brought about after the computer center occupation concern six major areas: the Black Studies Center, the Chicano Studies Research Unit, the Chicano Studies Department, Affirmative Action and the Press Council.

Other campus figures involved in the negotiations have also voiced discontent with the selection of a head for the Center for Black Studies, the chairmanship of the Chicano Studies center and this campus' efforts to meet its commitment to Affirmative Action guidelines.

A new Black Studies chairman has been tentatively appointed. However, at present it is only a verbal agreement. It is expected that the appointment will be officially announced shortly. Betsy Watson of the Office of Public Information is also confident that the Chicano Studies Department will be filled very soon.

Watson noted that the pool of "academically qualified" minorities is limited. Ray Huerta, affirmative action coordinator, in cooperation with the Chicano Studies Department and William Reardon of the Drama Department have turned in a list of fifty qualified people as a pool for job selection. The list was obtained by sending recruitment letters to some 700 people nationwide.

It is the slowness of the selections and the difficulty of getting tenure for those selected that critics are not completely satisfied with. The mediated agreements call for a Black Studies Director to be employed as soon as possible and for a tenured faculty member to be selected during the 1975-76 year.

The person selected to fill the Center for Chicano Studies position must be qualified both as an administrator and a faculty member. The directorship is only allocated for half-time funding and an academic position must be filled by another half-time allocation.

Becerra noted the example of Dr. Robert Garfis, academically qualified in the field of ethnomusicology, who applied for the Chicano Studies position. Garfis, however, was not hired because he could not meet the academic demands of this campus. One reason he was not hired was that he has not fully met the publishing requirements demanded of a UCSB faculty member.

Becerra said that this was a "weak and trivial argument - a shock and a disappointment. It made me really question where this campus' Affirmative Action commitments were." Becerra noted that Garfis had published a book with the University of California Press.

The second reason Garfis was denied a position as a faculty

I.V. - Campus Opinion Crucial To Third District Concerns

By Ann Haley

The Third Supervisorial District encompasses Isla Vista (including campus dorm residents), Goleta, goes out old San Marcos Rd. to Lake Cachuma, and as far north as

This is the first in a series of five articles about the Third District Supervisorial election, in which four men are vying for the seat being vacated by James Slater.

Point Conception. Outgoing Third District Supervisor James Slater sees the district as being middle of the road to liberal in attitude, and issues concerning Isla Vista are commonly thought to be crucial in Third District affairs.

In past elections, the Isla Vista-student vote has been characterized as a very liberal bloc vote, capable of swinging Third District Supervisorial elections and other elections centering in the area. On June 8, four men, Julian Endsley, Bill Sommermeyer, Bill Wallace and Herman Farnum will compete for the Third District Supervisor position. If no one candidate gets at least 50 percent plus one vote, there will be a runoff at the time of the general election in November.

"I think Isla Vista will be strongly influential in deciding who the Third District Supervisor will be," said John Stahl, administrative assistant to Slater.

Stahl defined his view of the important issues in the Third District Supervisor race as: the type of county services to be continued in Isla Vista, in particular welfare services; the continuation of the Isla Vista Foot Patrol (staffed by members of the County Sheriff's department and the UCSB Campus Police); and environment and planning for the area.

In particular, Stahl singled out environment, planning and the controversy over the importation of Feather River water - where and how it will go before the voters - as being perhaps the single most important issue of the race.

Slater, drawing from his four years as Third District Supervisor, defined continued problems with pressure for area growth, adoption of a county regional plan and possible changes in governmental form for Isla Vista and Goleta (both are currently unincorporated areas of the county) as central election concerns. Slater also agreed with

Finance Chairman Gooding

'Apolitical' Hopes Subdued in Controversy

By Melissa Keating

Dave Gooding, chairperson of the A.S. Finance Board, has been caught up in recent controversy culminating in verbal abuse and an anonymous note threatening him with physical harm. Gooding's role as 1975-76 chairperson has placed him in the center of the problems surrounding the newly appointed Finance Board.

Ironically, one of Gooding's major goals as chair has been to remain uninvolved in political maneuvering. "The biggest thing our board (that of the 1975-76 fiscal year) accomplished was that we tried as hard as we could to remain unpolitical. We left our prejudices at home. If you're political you're just going to get into trouble," stated Gooding.

As chairperson of the Finance Board, Gooding is a Howard Robinson appointee, "But I took it under the stipulation that I would not be a 'yes' man. I've been a thorn in their sides ever since," stated Gooding.

Gooding explained the duties of the Finance Board: "I chair a committee that is the overseer of all A.S. funds. Our responsibility is to balance the budget for the year. To do that we have to make sure the different campus groups don't overspend."

Gooding will continue as chairperson until the new one takes office July first. When asked if he thought his position as chair might be terminated early Gooding said, "I still feel I have a responsibility to the groups. So if they kick me off I'm still going to be a thorn in the side. I guess they could fire me but it doesn't make any difference."

Gooding is an economics major and will graduate at the end of summer session this year. Before coming to UCSB he was a member of the Santa Monica City College legislative board which handled a budget of some $300,000. After transferring here Gooding served as an RHA representative prior to his appointment as Finance Board Chairperson.

As chair Gooding receives $720 per year. This covers his fees with $20 left over each RONALD REAGAN picked up forty three more Republican national delegates over the weekend, while President Ford only gained eight. Reagan's largest block of votes came in Oklahoma where he gained all 18 of the states delegation to the Kansas City convention.

Ford and Democratic candidates Morris Udall and Jimmy Carter are campaigning in Michigan, which holds its primary contest tomorrow, with a Democratic race that could raise the presidential fortunes of Jerry Brown.

EL SALVADOR'S MILITARY CHIEF WAS ARRESTED in New York with five other persons on charges of planning to sell ten-thousand submachine guns to U.S. mobsters. The Attorney for New York says Colonel Manuel Alfonso Rodriguez is being held in lieu of $3 million bail after being taken into custody by federal agents.

THE SOVIET AMBASSADOR TO GREECE reportedly has been accused by the Athens government of meddling in the nation's domestic affairs. Ambassador Ivan Udalchov's meeting with opposition parties was the apparent reason for the official protest delivered by the Greek foreign minister.

A 17 YEAR OLD ARAB GIRL WAS KILLED in a stone throwing riot by Arabs in the West Bank city of Nablus. Israeli occupation forces reported the girl was hit when a weapon went off accidentally but a Nablus city official claims she was shot by a soldier who followed her into a house. Israeli military authorities said they are investigating the incident but declined further comment.

THE CONCORDE SUPERSONIC passenger jet will make its first trip in two years to the United States today carrying French President Giscard D'Estaing, who plans a six day visit. The controversial plane's future in this country faces a court challenge beginning tomorrow when federal judges will hear arguments aimed at banning the aircraft from landing in scheduled service at two U.S. airports.

SENATE DEBATE on creation of a permanent intelligence committee continues this week. The form of the standing committee and its powers of the purse over the CIA budget remain the most difficult questions for the Senate to decide. Both houses of Congress will also work on a bill to replace the Military Aid Bill that President Ford vetoed.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM Committee begins a four day meeting in Washington today. House Democratic leaders plan to give the committee a proposal that seeks to set as the platform's chief priority full employment with a balanced growth. The finished platform is also expected to call for "broad based" tax reform.

BEIRUT POLICE REPORTED 50 persons were either killed or wounded when mortar shells struck a movie theatre in the central part of the capital yesterday. The shelling occurred as Moslem and Christian militiamen battled along the border of a Christian held enclave north of the capital.

The fighting comes despite yet another truce. The United Nations announced it was starting a vaccination campaign in Lebanon to combat epidemic conditions created by the 13 month old civil war.

ECONOMISTS PREDICT A BRIGHT FUTURE for the nation's recovery from the economic slump saying the recovery could blossom into a full scale boom. Economists at the University of Michigan noted that the recovery is already outdistancing all predictions. The experts cited consistently rising real income, very strong auto sales and a firm rebound in consumer confidence as encouraging signs.

Colin Edwards Points to Media Garbling of Lebanon Crisis

By G. Bruce Smith

"The situation in Lebanon is basically political, not religious," said Colin Edwards, Welsh journalist and correspondent, speaking on "Crisis in Lebanon" to a crowd of about 40 people in the Interim Cafe last Wednesday.

Edwards, who has interviewed many liberation movement leaders throughout the world, spoke on a situation that is filled with complexities and a number of misunderstandings, including the American media misrepresentation of the war as a religious one between Muslims and Christians.

According to Edwards, it is the phalangists, made up of a number of Christian businessmen, who provoked the outbreak of the war last April by attacking and massacring 27 Palestinians in Beirut, the capital of Lebanon.

The phalangists are a right-wing group made up almost exclusively of Maronites, a sect of Christians. The Maronites are a privileged group, many of whom own the big businesses in Lebanon. "There are many people in this movement whose views are racist toward the Arabs," Edwards said, pointing out that Pierre Jmayyel, leader of the phalangist movement, has made such comments as "No to the Palestinians and Arabs."

But beyond being a racist group, the phalangists, wishing to protect their business interests, hoped to crush the general unrest growing in the country, stimulated partly by the presence of Palestinian refugees in Lebanon, who were causing an awareness of the social and economic conditions in the country.

Indeed, said Edwards, almost all the Christian Palestinians oppose the phalangists, and have fought against them. Similarly, both the Greek Orthodox and Catholic Churches in Lebanon are leading a left-wing movement, fighting for basic social and economic changes.

Clearly, then, Edwards pointed out, it is not simply a religious war.

Edwards also discussed a number of the problems that Lebanon has had, and how these have contributed to the present situation.

"If you think the Capitalist System is bad here, you should go to Lebanon," Edwards said.

The policy is complete laissez-faire, where the poor do not receive medical and other services that are so desperately needed. While huge fortunes are made, the laborers receive average pay about one-half of what is considered the bare minimum to live.

"Many on the perimeter of Beirut are living on the brink of starvation," Edwards remarked, speaking also of the cheap Syrian labor that has been brought in by many of the big businesses.

When asked what he felt would be the future trend in Lebanon, Edwards answered, "I don't know. I just don't know. How that country can pull themselves together after all the bitterness, I don't know."

Film on Ethiopian Jews To Be Shown Today in UCen

A film on Falasha Jews and their struggle to immigrate to Israel will be shown today at 3 p.m. in UCen 2272. Sponsored by the Jewish Student Union, the film is part of this week's Israel Cultural Week activities.

Falashas, living in the highlands of Ethiopia, are caught in the middle of a civil war raging between the ruling military tribunal and the Arab-backed Moslem Eritean Liberation Front. Living in relative obscurity, they suffer from disease, poverty and intense conversion efforts by missionaries.

The origins of the Falashas, or the "House of Israel" as they prefer to call themselves, are uncertain. Their recorded history dates only from the ninth century. They are believed to have separated from mainstream Judaism at about the time of the first Temple in 70 C.E. They celebrate neither Purim nor Chanuka, but have followed the precepts of Judaism as prescribed by the Five Books of Moses.

During the sixteenth century, half a million Falashas ruled over part of Ethiopia, but after their downfall they were denied even the right to own land.

Often slaughtered and forcibly converted throughout the intervening centuries, today the remaining 225,000 Falashas are poor sharecroppers and craftsmen living in about 250 small scattered villages.

The turning point in Falasha redemption was the tragic Yom Kippur War of 1973. At that time Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie, who had blocked Falasha aliya (immigration to Israel), broke relations with Israel.

Within months, efforts to help the Falashas were implemented and Israel was free to press for Falasha immigration without fear of antagonizing Ethiopia.

Leg Council Orders Nexus to Stop Accepting Ads from Gallo

By Anne Burke

Following a half-time recess Thursday night, Leg Council passed a resolution affirming support for the United Farm Workers (UFW). Council urged campus food facilities to use only union lettuce and forbid all A.S.-funded groups from using A.S. money for purchase of non-UFW grapes, wine or lettuce. Included in the proposal was a clause stating that Leg Council "orders the Nexus to stop accepting any advertisements from Gallo."

External President Mitch Gertz sought to replace "orders" with what he considered the more palatable term "urges." Executive Vice-president Paul Pooley also voiced opposition to the UFW proposal saying he would oppose it merely on the grounds that it "ordered" the Nexus to stop accepting Gallo ads.

Rep-at-large Steven Ashby, author of the proposal, claimed that "as the elected reps of the student body, we have the power to order the Nexus." RHA rep Don Heinsohn said that receiving Gallo ad revenues is "like accepting money with blood on it."

The measure passed despite vehement objections by some council members. "I think the Nexus should be an independent body," rep-at-large Guy Chambers said.

Voting in favor of the resolution were Leg Council members Don Heinsohn, Steven Ashby, Marc Wutschke, Ann Davis, Alice Valdivia, Arlene Lozano, Debbie Dent and Dallas Riley. While not opposed to Leg Council support of the UFW, Gertz, Pooley, Chambers, Rich Perrigo, Seth Freeman and John

Anthony Chavez, voted against the measure on the grounds that it "ordered" the Nexus to stop running Gallo ads.

In a separate resolution, Gertz was officially censured for "harassment of fellow Leg Council members Aaron Chaney and Greg Boyer." The proposal sought to reprimand Gertz for using non-physical coercion to convince the two reps to resign.

In a farcical move to apply the censure judiciously, Chambers moved to have his own name added to the resolution. Chambers admitted that he, also, had spoken to Boyer and Chaney about their resignations. The amended version of the resolution passed, with Chambers voting in favor.

Gertz made no specific excuses or denials to the charges. Council has not yet agreed on what action a censure entails.

A resolution to censure UCen Executive Director Robert Lorden for failure to comply with a Leg Council resolution failed. The April 28 resolution demanding Lorden to "confiscate keys to the A.S. office and parcel them out to voting representatives."

Pooley, voting against the resolution, asked "how can you command people to do things?" Student activist Ed Mackie drew a round of guffawing from the audience, saying, "I don't think Mr. Lorden should be censured. I think he should be fired."

A resolution terminating the position of Activities Coordinator, presently occupied by Jim Curnutt, was tabled to allow for further investigation. Author Dallas Riley contended that allocations for the paid position should be channeled elsewhere and that the seat should be filled by a student.

A similar resolution to fire A.S. Lectures Chairman John Vian for falsification of income statements for a campus film was also tabled.

The formation of a committee to update the list of A.S. boycotted companies was approved by the Council.

Foot Patrol Budget Fight

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I would like to comment on the possibility of dissolution of the Foot Patrol and correct some inaccuracies that appeared in the Nexus story of May 13th concerning the IVCC and the Isla Vista Police Commission.

The proposed County Budget for fiscal year 1976-77 and the recommendations of Raymond Johnson, County Administrative Officer, are only staff suggestions. The County Board of Supervisors will be holding public hearings, receiving citizen input and then, only then, will they set final budgetary levels.

The Sheriff's Dept. proposed budget is only one of many fiscal items of concern to Isla Vista. Certainly of much greater significance are the possibilities of the closing of the I.V. Open Door Clinic, the I.V. Human Relations Center and the Youth Project because of lack of funding. The proposed County Budget also calls for drastic cuts in Food Stamps and Medi-Cal services throughout the county. On Wednesday, May 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the University Religious Conference, 777 Camino Pescadero (near Cervantes Rd.) there will be an extremely important Town Meeting to decide the Community's position and response to the budget including the Foot Patrol. Anyone can attend and all those present may vote. The IVCC and I.V. Police Commission are both subordinate to and take their direction from these Town Meetings. Therefore, no official position on retention of the Foot Patrol is possible until that time. Some people do favor retention of the Foot Patrol, yet there are also those who prefer a return to the system of Black and White squad cars; and who also point out that Isla Vista and its governing bodies (IVCC and POLCOM) should not allow Sheriff Carpenter's threats about losing Foot Patrol to put the community into the position of fighting for the Sheriff's Dept.

Entrapped in a Two Guys Controversy

Editor, Daily Nexus:

In reference to Christina Ann Lopez's rebuttal to my letter, 5/15/76, I'm convinced that she missed the whole point. I wrote a letter focusing on the entrapment used by Two Guys Dept. Store's security system, and she responds by talking about a store's right to prosecute shoplifters. Where's the connection? I mean seriously Christina, are you playing with a full deck?

Underground Publications

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I have about a dozen rare copies of the Chicago Literary Times edited by Ben Hecht and Maxwell Boebheim, years 1923-24. This was one of the early "underground" publications and of considerable historical value to anyone doing a thesis of that period. I will be glad to loan same to interested party.

Les Baird

At least Two Guys isn't as heartless as you are Christina. They left it open as to whether my friend, Fred, had intentionally removed the sandals or not, (which it is obvious that he didn't), but after reading one article, you've already convicted him. I may have referred to their G security as a Gestapo system, but you're the "S.S."

To begin with, if you had read the entire article, you would have seen that Two Guys never really intended to call the police and have Fred arrested. They only mentioned it to entrap him into paying the $5 service charge. They conceded later, that they never would have pressed charges, and that Fred would have only been put on a delinquent check-list. If Fred was lucky, like you said Christina, it was only because he got the chance to purchase the right to write checks in a store he'll probably never shop in again, not avoid a criminal record.

If our system of justice, put together by some of the finest legal minds from our country's history, didn't maintain one's innocence until proven guilty, there would be no justice at all.

If, instead, one was guilty until proven innocent, like Two Guys and yourself are instituting, we could do away with all those expensive trials and courtroom hearings.

I naturally question your alliance with Two Guys, and your expertise on the subject, but under your system, I can just assume. So, I either assume that you work for a similar security system, or a close friend of yours is a professional shoplifter.

Christina, you also mentioned that it was Fred's responsibility, if it was intentional or not. Following this same line of thinking, if Fred had bought a package of cups, at Two Guys, that was supposed to contain 1000 cups, and it contained say 987, then Fred could arrest Two Guys or offer to let them off with a $5 service charge.

I seriously believe, and I'm sure Two Guys is quite aware, that if the police had been called, they never would have arrested him, because it would have been thrown out of court.

Finally, Christina, you really contradicted yourself. In the beginning you insisted that Fred was guilty, then by the end of your letter, you conceded that his original intent was to purchase the

Samuel Tilden IV Declares for U.S. Presidency

New York, May 6, 1976...Samuel Tilden IV, a Schenectady, New York businessman, will accept the post as the next President of the United States, it was announced today by reliable sources. Mr. Tilden, on advice of counsel, has stated he will exercise his justifiable succession rights to offices based upon the denial of the presidency to his great-great grandfather, New York Governor Samuel Tilden, who won the popular vote in the election of 1876. Young Mr. Tilden has set an outdoor rally in New York City's famed Union Square for noon, May 18, to outline his program for the next four years.

Constitutional attorneys have declared that implications of chicanery and an improper count of electoral college votes gave the presidency to Ulysses S. Grant in 1876. They informed Samuel Tilden IV that as the surviving descendant, he has a moral and legal right to the presidency for the term commencing January 20, 1977.

In announcing his acceptance of the post, Tilden stated it was best for the nation, because "to place Ford, Reagan or Carter in the White House at this time would mean international insanity. I shall return the country to a policy of sanity both domestically and abroad. Remember, I did not seek the presidency, the presidency sought me."

At his upcoming Union Square rally, Tilden will tentatively pledge to fulfill the campaign promises made by his great-great grandfather. These promises include the connecting of the Erie-Lackawanna and Wabash-Louisville railroad lines, and the addition of a Tammany wing for the New York Public Library. "In this post-Watergate period," he said, "I intend to start a spiritual and moral renaissance in the nation. I will take a stand against bugging." In his upcoming rally, Mr. Tilden will wear a specially designed white suit with a graphic display of bugs on it to dramatize his cause.

Mr. Tilden has stated that he "would not enter the primaries or the secondaries, but just move into his rightful place in the White House in January." The candidate commented that his campaign was "not without personal sacrifice. After all, I'm giving up a secure position as a florist in Schenectady." His campaign committee has announced that he would renounce his $12,000 per year job in order to override any possible conflict of interest.

Tilden was leading a quiet, humdrum existence in the upstate New York community when he was informed of his inalienable rights of succession to the highest post in the land. "I want America to know," he said, "I was leading a quiet humdrum existence, when I was informed of my unalienable rights. My wife, Sophie, convinced me to take the post by telling me 'It's time to get America on the ball.'" Mrs. Tilden is a former waitress at Grey's Bowling Lanes.

The nominee stated that he will announce his complete platform at his New York rally later this month. His campaign headquarters has announced he will accept campaign contributions of under $2 per person to help with the moving expenses from Schenectady.

"Even though I've just begun my effort," Tilden said, "My campaign has received editorial backing from prestigious publications such as International Insanity. And I have good reason to believe that I will soon receive editorial support from the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, American Florist Magazine and Popular Mechanics."

Everyone is Entitled To Their Own Opinion

By Frank Catalano

In reference to Mr. Mosley's thorough diatribe in last Thursday's Nexus, in which he referred to the lack of "proper editorial restraint" on the part of the Editor-in-Chief, I'm afraid that he gave a rather one-sided view, to put it mildly.

The real issue at hand is whether or not such an attack on a candidate is justified, and if indeed it is, what the justification for that action itself is.

Not once in Mr. Mosley's letter does he bother to mention that equal space on the same page and on the same day was given to two of Ms. Jackson's supporters, Don Heinsohn and Walt Wilson. In this opinion article, Heinsohn and Wilson not only attack Rick Ziv's view of Regina Jackson, but the Nexus, Howard Robinson, Neil Moran, and one other candidate at that time, Tracey St. Johns. That's covering quite a bit of territory in response to an opinion article directed solely to Ms. Jackson.

And note, by the way, that I said OPINION, not news. Mr. Mosley again didn't bother to mention anywhere in his letter that the comments about Ms. Jackson appeared on the Opinion page, just below the A.S. Elections Endorsements. Had the Editor-in-Chief's comments appeared on a news page, then there is reasonable justification to attack the so-called "awfully wanton abuse of power" that Mosley seems to think that the Nexus holds. But the Opinion page is for just that—opinions. Mosley's comments are not only misleading, but partially unjustified, since it is anyone's prerogative to air their comments in the Opinion pages, as Mr. Mosley discovered when they printed his letter there.

One other thing that I think should be made clear: I, personally, did not like the attack from either party involved in that day's opinion column. Catfighting belongs on a debate platform, and not in the pages of sandals. Christina, you really did miss my point. You don't pay $25 for groceries, to rip-off a $4 pair of sandals. But my main thought, is that you don't pay $5 to maintain check-writing privileges, unless someone has inferred jail as the only alternative. That's my complaint! Two Guys' present system of security seems to blackmail, and Christina, I hope

What's your bank doing for you after school?

When you graduate, your bank becomes more important. You'll have more financial obligations, more need for flexibility, and more need for credit. You want a bank that can meet all these new needs and still keep your banking simple.

That's where we come in.

More offices. With over twice as many locations as any other California bank, we're usually close by. If you're moving, it's easy to transfer your account to whichever office is most convenient for you.

More convenience. Our All-in-One® Checking Plan simplifies banking. When your application is approved you get unlimited check-writing with no minimum balance, free personalized checks, our handy check guarantee card, BankAmericard®,* overdraft protection,* and commission-free BankAmerica Travelers Cheques—all for just $2 a month.

More services. We also offer a wide variety of other checking and savings plans and can help you find the one that's right for you.

More help. Next time you're in, ask for a copy of "The College Graduate's Guide to the Hardest Job in the World." It's 16 pages of hints on finding a job. You might also want to pick up our "Ways to Save Money" and "How to Establish Credit." These and other Consumer Information Reports are free at your local Bank of America.

So why not stop by soon and talk things over. We serve more Californians than any other bank. In school. And after.

*If you qualify.

Exiled Writer Expresses Social Ideas in 'Repeat'

Polish playwright Slawomir Mrozek, whose REPEAT PERFORMANCE opens in UCSB's Studio Theatre at 8 p.m. on Thursday, May 20, has had his life dominated by politics and now lives in exile in Paris.

Born in 1930, Mrozek was raised during the Nazi occupation of Poland and during the Cold War that followed it. He left his studies at the university to become a cartoonist and drew "subtly subversive" caricatures for a Polish humor magazine. His first short stories were not published until the "Polish October" of 1956 brought a more liberal cultural policy.

British theatre critic Martin

Esslin has called the 1964 Warsaw production of his first full length play, TANGO, "the most explosive event in fifty years of Polish theatre. It was like seeing Beaumarchais' MARRIAGE OF FIGARO on the eve of the French Revolution."

Significantly, Mrozek left Poland for Italy that same year. "Some of my books had been banned," he is reputed to have said, "and I thought I could see the way things were heading." He was right: when he criticized Poland's part in the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia, the government revoked his passport and removed his books from libraries.

He wrote REPEAT PERFORMANCE in 1969. According to director Peter Robinson, a graduate student in the Department of Dramatic Art, "Mrozek combines comic, grotesque, and serious elements with a strong sense of theatricality to express important social and political themes."

In the play, a middle-aged man on an escapade with his son's young wife encounters a ghost from his own youth — the charismatic political leader to whom he had sworn everlasting allegiance, and whose spirit has now returned to claim either the father or the son.

Presented by the UCSB Department of Dramatic Art, additional performances of REPEAT PERFORMANCE will be given May 21-23 and May 26-29 at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the UCSB Arts and Lectures Ticket Office, the Lobero Theatre, and Hitsville in La Cumbre Plaza.

New Approach Taken in 'Tempest'

Shakespeare's THE TEMPEST has had a popular stage history, but the director of the UCSB production which opens May 27, disagrees with the many directors and actors who have either made it a static study of Prospero's character or turned it into a combination of a costume pageant and magic show.

Stanley L. Glenn, professor in the university's Department of Dramatic Art, says that Alonzo, who is usually considered a minor character, "is absolutely crucial to the play. He begins as a tyrannical ruler, moves to despair over his supposedly drowned son, and then to acceptance of the death as punishment for his own wrongs. At the end of the play they are reunited."

Dr. Glenn thinks this movement from suffering and acceptance of guilt to regeneration and reconciliation summarizes the experience of nearly all the characters in the play. "Years earlier, Prospero's power had been usurped, partly due to his own failure to rule well. Now the usurpers are shipwrecked on his island — and all roads on the island lead to him. All the characters have to confront deeds they had done in the past and be contrite for them. Prospero himself is no different — he has learned about himself and now it remains for him to learn to forgive."

The last act of THE TEMPEST, Glenn points out, is built like a typical Elizabethan romance — the sort of play in which characters discover long lost relatives, differences are resolved, and everybody is happy. "Shakespeare works a variation on this form. The discoveries the characters make are about themselves — they find their souls. At the same time, Shakespeare is too realistic to let them live happily ever after. He knows they have to go back to the same society that helped create all the problems in the first place." "It's an extraordinary play," Glenn concludes. "Since I've begun working on it, I've come to agree with the critic who called it the most perfect work of art in the English language."

Performances of THE TEMPEST are scheduled at 8 p.m. May 27 through May 30 and June 2 through June 5 in the campus' Main Theatre. Tickets are available at the UCSB Arts and Lectures Ticket Office, the Lobero Box Office, and Hitsville in La Cumbre Plaza.

New Talent

Batteau: Happy in Hollywood

By Laurie Bereskin & Sue Bekkar

Who is David Batteau and why is he happy in Hollywood? Maybe its because A&M Records erected an enormous yellow billboard in front of their studio advertising Batteau's debut solo album "Happy in Hollywood." The 26 year old singer/songwriter has every reason to be pleased since his name is more or less up in lights right off Sunset Boulevard.

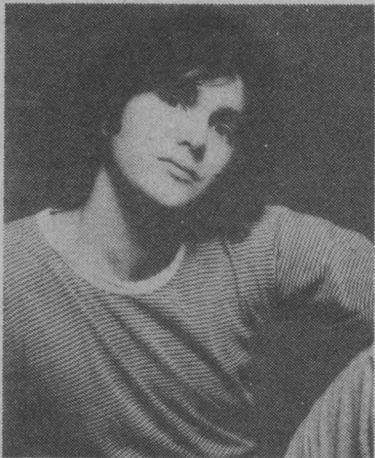

In a recent interview Batteau placed special emphasis on his interest in soul travel. Batteau's personal involvement with mystical philosophies is reflected in many of his songs.

"Happy In Hollywood" contains ten original compositions which deal with love, contemplation and myth. The music is essentially easy listening melodic pop and often flavored with energetic Brazilian samba rhythms. Each cut contains multi-layered arrangements and tasteful instrumental passages.

Batteau is a capable guitarist and singer. His well-tempered voice possesses a hazy dream-like quality. On his new LP Batteau is backed up by a crack team of musicians. Especially prominent is musicologist Milt Holland's percussion work. His syncopated beats add spice and energy to all of the album's cuts.

Lately David has been into writing his own mythology. He said, "Greek myths fascinate me. I think they're great. A couple of things inspired my song 'Orphee' and one of them was the myth of Orpheus."

Lyrical and instrumentally "Orphee" is the most distinctive cut on "Hollywood." The song is a fresh rendition of the well-known myth about the gifted Greek musician who goes to Hell to bring back his wife. Batteau's narrative style blends well with his ballad's soft melody and jazzy instrumental interludes.

Other tracks on the LP include two songs which have spacy contemplative lyrics. "Spaceship Earth" has an energetic rocky-disco beat while "Dancing On Atoms" is mellow and soothing with its mystical lyrics about the universe. In describing "Atoms" Batteau says, "The song is about human contemplation, it's essentially a soul travel song. The picture I'm trying to create is that the physical universe is made up of atoms and that consciousness, or soul, dances on those atoms."

Batteau's preoccupation with the human soul is also reflected in "Festival of Fools." This lively cut is about carnival time in Rio. David said, "In the song people are drawn into the streets by the infectious beat of mardigras music. Not only are the people dancing in the streets, they are dancing in their hearts as well."

Batteau had a hit a few years ago with his composition "Tell Her She's Lovely" which was recorded by El Chicano. Currently several of the cuts off "Hollywood" have been receiving air play on AM stations. As everyone knows hit singles sell albums. However, David says he wants to avoid a heavy commercial approach and establish a new direction in pop music that will appeal to anyone from the age group of 20 to 300.

Batteau possesses the potential to become a commercial success. "Happy in Hollywood" is a fairly impressive debut solo album and if Batteau continues to turn out such quality albums, he stands a good chance of remaining happy in Hollywood.

PIANIST ALEXANDER BOOTZIN, candidate for a Bachelor's degree at UCSB, will present his senior recital on Monday, May 17 at 8 p.m. in Lotte Lehmann Concert Hall. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend. Mr. Bootzin studied for several years in Los Angeles with Marie Swenson, at UC Irvine with Arnold Juda, and at UCSB with Peter Yazbeck and Betty Oberacker.

quarter for what Gooding terms "inconvenience sake." He said "I sat down and figures out how much I get paid - 70 cents an hour."

Gooding has various other interests outside of the Finance Board. Last year he was president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and remains an active member. Although the fraternity does not have a house Gooding lives at the apartments where most of the members reside.

A Viet Nam veteran, Gooding served four years in the military and is now a member of ROTC. "I'm going to be commissioned and go on active duty in November. I'll be a second lieutenant. Originally I'll go to Oklahoma and then I'll go to Germany," he stated.

"Why do I want to go back in the military? I don't think its as bad and as stereotyped as people think. If I can be fair as an officer then I've done my job. The army is changing, becoming more people oriented," continued Gooding.

Gooding will serve for two years and then "I'll reassess it and reevaluate it."

Gooding wants to go to Germany for two reasons: to get his masters in economics at the University of Munich and to ski. "I love to ski...Where I'll be stationed I'll be a half hour from the Alps," he said.

In keeping with his interest in working with people, Gooding participated in CAB this year, worked with the three Vietnamese orphans adopted by his fraternity, and in the past was a bowling coach for 250 kids in L.A.

Mediated Agreements

member was because the Music Department feels that ethnomusicology is not a priority on this campus.

Becerra finds fault in the arrangement of requiring a man to, in a sense, "fill two jobs at once." Becerra felt that it is very difficult for someone to be active as an administrator and involved in the Chicano community and also devote time to publishing efforts.

Sethard Fisher, former acting director of the Center for Black Studies, spoke about the Black Studies position which is also half-time. "The fact that the head also needs to be tenured is tricky. It's easy to control someone when they're seeking tenure," he said. "You're always afraid they

(the administration) will put you out on a limb and saw it off."

Fisher said that he quit as Director of the Black Studies program because he was "overworked". He also said that he felt "a very strong effort by the administration to undermine what I was doing." He added that he felt a lot of resistance from the administration. "They were not being very helpful," he said.

Commenting on the results of the Affirmative Action settlement, Fisher said, "I see almost no response. Affirmative Action says not only to stop discrimination, but to make up for the past. We as departments are supposed to go out of our way to hire minorities."

Becerra said that last fall's Affirmative Action conference was "good in that it got people together to talk and come together for various perspectives. What I have yet to see is that theory put into action."

Cheadle, however, is "kind of pleased" with efforts to meet the negotiated agreements. "It's a slow business, an on-going process. The applicant pool is very small...there seems to be some action."

Food Additives?

"What are Food Additives? What am I really getting in Processed Foods?" will be questions answered by Josephine Van Schiack, nutritionist in a program today at noon in Building 513, the Women's Center. The presentation is free and open to anyone.

New Poli Sci Head Davidson Calls Budget Critical Problem

By Martha Journey

Effective October 1, 1976, Dr. Roger Davidson will replace Dr. Dean Mann as chairman of the Political Science Department.

According to Davidson, the most critical problem that the department faces is operating smoothly within a limited budget.

Davidson, who has been at UCSB since 1968, explained that all departments have been expected to carry on the same business with gradually decreasing amounts of money. "We're going to be squeezed," he said.

Davidson anticipates "tough decisions regarding personnel." He added, "Tenure isn't really a big issue around here, because most of the faculty are already tenured."

However, the department expects to hire a few new professors as replacements in the next year. "We will have to decide which fields to recruit people in, and we will want to be sure to get people who will work productively," Davidson said.

"We also want to ask how we can best meet the vocational needs of students," he went on. While the Political Science major doesn't train the student for any particular vocation, he said, it does serve as a good background for many careers.

As for his own plans, Davidson mentioned that he has accepted a job in Washington, D.C. this summer. He will serve as a staff consultant on a special committee organized to study and revise the structure of the U.S. Senate, a task not done since 1946.

Three years ago, Davidson was a member of a similar committee that was in charge of reorganizing the House of Representatives.

In addition, Davidson has received an Instructional Improvement grant to offer a new class next fall. The class will look at the role of the media in politics, and a good part of the course will center around next fall's campaign coverage.

High Sierra Aerial Course Offered

A survey of the natural history and hiking trails of the Sierra Nevada and an all day tour by airplane highlight University Extension's spring course, "High Sierra Trails: A Comprehensive Tour by Airplane and Map of Summer Hiking Routes."

Dave Smith, Apollo Airways chief flight instructor and former geography department instructor and chairman, will instruct the class.

The organizational meeting will be held Saturday, May 22 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Phelps 1404.

Library Work Creating Health, Safety Concerns

By Jim Martin

The Library has become the mystery building on campus in recent weeks. With the expansion project underway, a new change seems to be a daily occurrence. Playing the "guess-which-door-will-be-open-today" game is very common. Several students feel the library is unsafe and dare no longer study there.

But Eugene Graziano, assistant University librarian, feels that this is not so. "I don't think the library is any less safe now that the construction is underway," he said.

He said that the main additional health problem was dust which some workers and students have complained about. "It mainly affects those who have allergies," he explained.

But beside the dust, "Any other (safety) problems realistically do not exist."

However, Graziano feels that the construction has changed the atmosphere of the library to a degree. "I don't feel it is as quiet and nice as it used to be," he said. "It's not very conducive to study and won't be until the construction is completed."

Graziano has tried to keep the library staff active in the decision-making aspect of the addition. He has implemented a series of "construction memos" to "keep the staff aware of the goings-on." "Any gripes or suggestions that they have can be submitted and printed in these letters," he explained.

Several persons are interested in having a maximum number of windows in the new extension. But Graziano explained how having the windows allows for a large amount of heat loss, especially if frequently opened.

"The resulting design is a compromise between those humanitarians who want open windows lining the walls and the environmentalists who want to conserve energy." A special type of lighting fixture called "Vita-Lite" was proposed for the extension. The light claims several advantages including "increased calcium absorption" and "favorable effects to several vital organs such as pituitary and sex glands."

But Thore Edgren of UCSB Architecture and Engineers said that he felt the effects claimed are "insignificant" and that they will not be in the library due to high cost.

Regarding last week's falling fixture, Graziano said that all similar ones have been corrected.

Lake Casitas Bike Ride Planned

Next weekend the UCSB Bike Club will be sponsoring an overnight bike ride to Lake Casitas. Lake Casitas is approximately forty miles from Isla Vista (about five miles this side of Ojai). There will be a sag-wagon to carry food and gear, as well as tired riders.

The club will also supply lunch, dinner, and a campsite near the lake. Cost of the bike ride is $3.

The Lake Casitas ride is only one of the Bike Club activities for this quarter. There are also rides every Saturday at 8:30 a.m. starting in front of the A.S. Bike Shop, maintenance classes to teach bike repair, and at the end of the quarter following finals there will be a bike ride from San Francisco to I.V. Involvement in Bike Club activities cost $5 and attendance at the meetings; new members are welcome.

Those interested can call Maz Engel at 968-8804 concerning the Lake Casitas ride. Those interested in the club can call Tony Wren at 968-8746.

Women's Soccer: Fledgling Gauchos Get Ball Rolling

By Robin Updike

Soccer is finally making it in the United States in a big way. Lots of sports fans now argue over the relative talents of Pele and George Best and could care less about Broadway Joe and O.J. Simpson.

As proof of America's new passion for soccer, the American Youth Soccer Organization is setting up new soccer leagues to accommodate the growing number of ambitious young soccer players. And, unlike the traditional American organized youth sports, (i.e. Pop Warner football and little league), the AYSO sets up girls' teams as well as boys' teams. It seems that American female athletes are easily attracted to a game that is characterized by ball handling finesse and agility rather than brute strength and skull thickness. It is no wonder that many of America's most enthusiastic new soccer aficionados are women. UCSB's women are no exception.

The movement towards organizing a women's intercollegiate soccer team at UCSB began last winter quarter during intramurals soccer season. About three teams turned out for the women's soccer league. Many of the women had never played soccer before.

However, Celeste Stanik, a freshman from Palo Alto, had starred on her men's high school soccer team. Celeste practiced with the other women out for intramural soccer until most of the players at least knew the rules and some strategy.

Then, last fall quarter, the physical activities department for the first time offered a women's soccer class. Although Celeste Stanik had very successfully infiltrated men's soccer classes the year before, beginning women players had previously had no opportunity to learn to play soccer. Many of the women who were in the women's class last fall are now on the team.

For the past month about twenty-five women have been practicing soccer every afternoon from 4-5:30 on the soccer field by the baseball stadium. Although many of the women are still learning fundamentals, several of the younger players have years of AYSO experience behind them.

Jan Smisek is a freshman who has played six years of AYSO soccer. Her soccer talent has been acknowledged in Women Sports Magazine. She is described by Gaucho men's soccer player Rufugio Camarena as having "ball control as good as anyone on the men's varsity team."

Eileen Jennings is also a freshman who has played five years of AYSO.

Connie Anderson is the team's goalie. She is a freshman with three years of AYSO competition behind her. Fellow team mate Sally Templeton said that Connie is a "very effective goalie. She's very good even against men."

And women's soccer coach Sal Ornelas certainly does not lack soccer experience either. He has played soccer for Westmont College and has coached several teams.

"Jan (Smisek's) boyfriend approached me about coaching the women's team," explained Ornelas. "They needed someone on the UCSB staff because of legalities. I work at the library. I said I'd be glad to coach the women."

Two weekends ago the team traveled to Stanford for a soccer tournament. It was the first time the Gauchos had played together as a team. Although Stanford managed to defeat the UCSB team 2-0, the Gauchos beat UCB in overtime penalty kicks, 3-1, and easily outplayed UCSC 6-0.

"Berkeley has been together as a team since November," said Jan Smisek. "They're sponsored by the University. They have uniforms and everything. Stanford has been together at least as long as Berkeley. Both teams have played twelve or fourteen games this season already. If we were in better physical shape we would have beaten Stanford."

Because the UCSB team is so new it is functioning under the recreation department as a club. The team has received very little financial support. "Our basic goal," added Jan Smisek, "is to become intercollegiate."

Right now the Gauchos are arranging to play teams from Los Angeles. Also they hope to set up a tournament at UCSB during the next few weeks of the quarter.

"Our basic goal" said Smisek, "is to become intercollegiate."

Varsity soccer player Camarena will probably coach the women next year since Ornelas has been offered a paying position elsewhere. Camarena is very enthusiastic about women as soccer players and about the team.

"There are some good, good players on this team. They have lots of enthusiasm and they want to learn about soccer. Girls usually make good soccer players because they are loose, they have less muscle than men do. Guys make their muscles very tight and it is harder for them to learn good ball control."

Obviously, the UCSB women's soccer team has lots of potential. Though Celeste Stanik is transferring next year, the other experienced players will all be at UCSB for several more years. More importantly, the women are determined to become a good team.

Give Strength To Our Government

We need your help. Most of A.S. work is done in these crucial committees. Many of these committees control a very large sum of money, others have important policy-making influence. If we, as students, are to realize all the power available to us, we must fill these positions. Your thoughts and energies are desperately needed. Please apply in the Associated Students Office, University Center, Room 3177. Applications are due NOW. Interviews begin May 20.

long-time I.V. community activist, expanded on issues he feels are important to Isla Vista in the Third District race.

Criteria for putting cityhood proposals on the ballot, the role of community government in determining spending and policy priorities for county government, willingness to spend gas tax money for auto reduction moves such as Isla Vista's barrier parks, whether or not the supervisors would overturn the 16,000 population limit in the center of Isla Vista, stabilizing UCSB enrollments for the duration of the water hookup moratorium, law enforcement priorities such as community determined policing and crime priorities, and the purchase by the county of the Isla Vista Service Center (currently privately owned) with revenue sharing funds were among the issues mentioned by Lodise.

them each year for free bus service. MTD received $134,000 this past year, approximately $16,000 more than if each student had ridden at 25 cents a ride.

Finally, MTD never provided many of the ridership figures that were asked for by the student-community coalition. The data was to be a base for making a decision on the reasonableness of the proposed cutbacks.

"Our positions have been to not comment in any way until we get background information on ridership," Nicolas said. "We're not opposed to changes in the bus line, but we need figures to make the decision."

Nicolas also pointed out that this could be a first step taken by MTD toward "getting rid of the services completely."

Nevertheless, Nicholas, Turner and Chavez all agreed with MTD that, based on figures given them, the proposed change in services to New Married Student Housing was completely justified. Moreover, according to Turner, "We even proposed other alternatives to save them money."
