Pre-Halloween Revelry Bigger Than Expected

Out-of-Town Partier Falls from I.V. Bluffs

By Charles Hornberger
Staff Writer

Several hundred people were arrested over the weekend and one person was hospitalized after a 60-foot fall from the Del Playa Drive clifftops in pre-Halloween festivities, officials said.

San Diego resident Shane Browning, 21, was critically injured when, after losing his balance while slam dancing at a party at 6649 Del Playa Drive, he fell backward over a low fence and rolled off the blifftops at approximately 8 p.m. Saturday night, according to Santa Barbara Sheriff's Department Deputy Richard Gerhart.

Browning, who was rendered unconscious by the fall, was then transported to Goleta Valley Community Hospital where he was listed in critical condition Sunday night. Browning apparently fell head first into some rocks at the bottom of the cliffs, resulting in compound fractures of both wrists and head injuries, Sheriff's Dept. Deputy James Means said.

"He had just filled his beer up and he spilled it on his friends. Then he went underneath (the fence) and started jumping around and being drunk. And then he walked out further and one foot slipped and he went rolling down the cliff," said San Diego State student Mike Doherty, who was at the party when Browning fell.

Although crowds along Del Playa and Sabado Tarde were estimated at 20,000 both Friday and Saturday nights, Browning's injury was the most serious problem that police encountered during the rambunctious festivities, according to Sheriff's Dept. Sgt. Sam Gross. "It appears that, by and large, everyone was having a good time," he said.

In all, police made 311 arrests, booked 60 offenders into county jail, brought 12 minors to a juvenile detention facility and issued

Campus Police Department Employee Convicted for Embezzling Funds

A Santa Barbara Municipal Court jury found a former UCSB Police Department employee guilty of embezzlement Thursday.

The jury convicted Viola Rita Valdez, 33, of taking $390 from monies entrusted to her while on the campus police department's administrative staff. Valdez was also found guilty of illegal possession of a switchblade found in her purse at the time of her arrest.

During her two years with the department, Valdez was responsible for depositing cash from bicycle sales, registration fees, fines and other payments. After an internal audit revealed that $1,318 of these funds had disappeared between June 1988 and January 1989, the department began an investigation which led to Valdez's arrest last May, and her dismissal June 25.

While Valdez's conviction appeared to clear up the whereabouts of $390, the remainder of the funds is still missing.

Valdez said Thursday she was falsely accused, and vowed to appeal the convictions. Sentencing is scheduled for Dec. 10.

The Santa Barbara District Attorney's Office offered Valdez several plea bargains, all of which were rejected on the basis that Valdez sought to prove her innocence, according to her attorney George Eskin.

The campus police embezzlement trial lasted more than two weeks. A number of UCSB Police Department employees were called to testify by the prosecution, including Campus Police Chief John MacPherson, Lt. Antonio Alvarez and current and former Community Service Organization employees.

Foot Patrol Officer Struck by Motorcyclist

By Stacy Sullivan
Staff Writer

A UCSB police officer was severely injured in Isla Vista early Friday morning when he was struck by an intoxicated motorcyclist and dragged 40 feet down Trigo Road.

Officer Patrick Kukado, who was patrolling Isla Vista by bicycle for the I.V. Foot Patrol, was listed in stable condition Sunday after suffering a compound fracture of his left ankle and tibia, severe lacerations to the back of his head and multiple contusions as a result of the incident. The incident took place when Kukado dismounted from his bike to wave down a motorcycle with a broken headlight at approximately 12:30 a.m., according to UCSB Police Lt. Bill Bean. The motorcyclist then allegedly sped up and struck Kukado, Bean said.

After striking Kukado, the driver, Norman Beddows, and passenger Kevin Pusauvat, both UCSB students, collided with two parked cars and were thrown to the ground.

In an unrelated incident Sunday night, three individuals were involved in a bicycle accident when an allegedly intoxicated cyclist ran into two other cyclists on the bike path in front of Storke Tower.

Manuel Garcia, a non-student resident of Isla Vista, was booked in county jail for driving a bicycle while under the influence of alcohol, UCSB police officer Nancy Marmont said. Garcia could face a $250 fine if found guilty.

"I'm sure (Garcia) was drunk," said junior Cheryl Stevens, who suffered minor injuries in the accident. She said that Garcia came swerving up from behind them and, after the crash, lay snoring while a pool of blood collected under his head.

At the scene of Friday's incident, Santa Barbara Sheriff's Department Sgt. Sam Gross said he was unable to speculate ## Multiparty Election Is Held For First Time in U.S.S.R.

TBILISI, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Voters in Georgia flocked to the polls Sunday for parliamentary elections expected to pave the way for the southern Soviet republic's independence.

About 35 parties, most of them grouped into coalitions, were taking part in the contest, the first true multiparty elections in Soviet history. At stake were 250 seats in the republic's Supreme Soviet legislature.

Non-Communists have been elected in several cities and republics elsewhere in the Soviet Union. But Sunday's race marked the first time that formal parties, created under new Soviet laws, have competed and were listed on the ballot.

Long lines formed at ballot boxes both in Tbilisi, the capital, and in the surrounding countryside. There are about three million eligible voters.

Official results of the balloting were not expected until the end of the week, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported.

A poll released a week before the election suggested the Communist Party was supported by 32 percent of the voters.

Gorbachev Visits Mitterand To Discuss Kuwaiti Situation

PARIS (AP) — Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev arrived in Paris Saturday for talks with French President Francois Mitterand on matters including the nearly three-month-old Persian Gulf crisis. A Gorbachev envoy, meanwhile, held talks in Baghdad with Saddam Hussein.

The world's response to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait involved confrontation as well as the conciliation sought by the Soviets. U.S. Marines boarded another Iraqi vessel on Sunday.

In Iraq, 301 French nationals were told they had to wait another day for freedom. The Baghdad government said last week that they could return home, but the trip was delayed from Sunday until today.

Diplomatic sources said the departure was put off because 26 other French citizens were unaccounted for.

Saddam is holding hundreds of the foreigners as "human shields" at strategic sites to deter attack by the multinational force in the Persian Gulf.

European Community leaders pledged Sunday not to send official representatives to win the freedom of hostages, and to discourage private missions.

Palestinians Return to Work After Israelis Lift Entry Ban

JERUSALEM (AP) — Most Palestinians returned to work in Israel Sunday after a four-day ban, but some found they had lost their jobs to Jews and others were turned back at roadblocks.

Police had new orders barring Arabs with a record of hostile activity against Israel. About 8,000 Palestinians carry green identity cards that ban them from Israel as security risks, according to the daily Haaretz.

"We will increase the list of those not allowed into Israel," Shmuel Goren, government coordinator in the territories, said on Israel radio.

The Cabinet, meanwhile, left its police minister to decide the fate of senior police officers criticized by an official inquiry into the Oct. 8 killings of 20 Palestinians.

The killings on Jerusalem's hallowed Temple Mount prompted a wave of Arab-Jewish clashes inside Israel, leading to the four-day closure of the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Ku Klux Klan Rally Draws Many Counterdemonstrators

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 30 Ku Klux Klan members marched through the nation's capital under tight security Sunday and rallied briefly at the U.S. Capitol while counterdemonstrators unsuccessfully pressed to enter the grounds.

It was the second Klan rally at the Capitol in as many months and occurred after counterdemonstrators had vowed to stop it. There were no immediate reports of arrests, but two police officers were injured in confrontations with counterdemonstrators, officials said.

At the Capitol, a Klan leader exhorted the robed and hooded crowd to remove from office senators and representatives who voted to override President Bush's veto of the Civil Rights Act of 1990.

"They tried to override the veto, but thank God it was kept out of law," the unidentified Klansman said during the 30-minute rally. "Vote the hypocrites out," he added.

With thousands of police officers from three different departments on hand to keep the marchers and counterdemonstrators separated, the Klansmen marched 11 blocks along Constitution Avenue from the Washington Monument to the Capitol.

Candidate for Governor in Minnesota Decides to Quit

AFTON, Minn., (AP) — Republican Jon Grunseth said Sunday he will drop out of the Minnesota governor's race after a woman claimed she had an affair with him while he was married, and reports he swam nude with teen-age girls.

"There are three things that are extremely important to me — my wife, my family, first and foremost; the Republican Party, the people of Minnesota," Grunseth said from his home.

"And the events of the last three weeks have put enormous pressure on the family and I think on the political process and on the people of Minnesota," he said. "I therefore decided to withdraw as the Republican candidate for governor."

Grunseth's campaign was thrown into chaos Oct. 15 by the allegations from two women that he swam nude with them while they were teen-agers nine years ago. He nearly withdrew from the race Thursday but changed his mind several hours later.

Washington D.C. Ranks at Top of Black Murder Rate

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Washington, D.C., had the highest number of Black homicide victims per 10,000 residents, while Indianapolis had the lowest rate, according to a study by the Milwaukee Journal.

The study published in Sunday's editions also found that the Black homicide rate for Milwaukee was 2 1/2 times the rate for Indianapolis, which has roughly the same number of Black residents.

Other findings include:

— Big cities with Black populations larger than Milwaukee's — Chicago, Los Angeles and Philadelphia — all had lower Black homicide rates.

— In many of the cities, Blacks comprise a disproportionate percentage of homicide victims when compared with the population as a whole. In Milwaukee, Blacks comprise 27 percent of the population but 72 percent of all homicide victims.

The newspaper's study analyzed the number of Black homicide victims through September from police departments in 18 of the 20 American cities with the largest projected populations of Blacks.

UC Berkeley Art Teacher Is Killed in Museum Accident

BERKELEY (AP) — Joan Brown, a San Francisco Bay Area artist known for using mysticism as inspiration for her work, was one of two Americans killed in a construction accident in an Indian museum. She was 52.

Ms. Brown was installing a mosaic obelisk at the new Heritage Museum in Proddatura, India, when a concrete turret from the floor above collapsed on her and two others Friday.

A colleague of Ms. Brown, a member of the University of California, Berkeley art faculty since 1974, said she had travelled on her own to India to work on the project to be dedicated to "a friend" who's a holy man.

"She was there as an individual artist," said Christopher Brown, a fellow professor who's not related to Ms. Brown. "She wasn't really a follower of this holy man, but she knew him as a friend."

An Indian official, Anantapur District Magistrate B. Rama Rao, said the Americans were working as volunteers on a 100-foot tower to be dedicated to Satya Sai Baba, a holy man who claims mystical powers and has a substantial following in North America.

Feinstein Says Drug Pushers Should be Dumped in Ocean

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Democrat Dianne Feinstein, campaigning for governor in Southern California, told residents of crime-ridden East Los Angeles Sunday that drug pushers should be dumped "into the deepest part of the Pacific Ocean."

In a speech focusing on rampant street violence, Feinstein pinned a corsage on a mother whose son died in the cross fire of battling gangs and praised the anti-drug and anti-crime Proposition 133 on the Nov. 6 ballot.

"I want to push every drug pusher out to the deepest part of the Pacific Ocean. We'll let them worry about whether they can swim or not," Feinstein told about 300 people at an East Los Angeles Service Center rally.

The remark was reminiscent of a recent comment by Los Angeles Police Chief Daryl F. Gates, who said casual drug users should be shot.

Feinstein said that passage of Prop. 133 would make available the resources needed to battle drugs and crime.

Partiers Save Family from Burning to Death in House

HACIENDA HEIGHTS (AP) — A party next door was the only thing that saved a child in a wheelchair and her Hacienda Heights family from death in a weekend house fire, a fire official said.

The house didn't have smoke detectors and eight people sleeping inside didn't wake up until partygoers roused them, Los Angeles County Battalion Chief Bill Miles said after Saturday's blaze.

"If there hadn't been a party next door, I'm sure we would have found at least five or six dead people in that house," Miles said.

The rescuers were dancing at a birthday party about 1 a.m., when Catherine Guillen, the mother of three children caught in the blaze, ran up screaming: "My kids! My kids!"

Andrew Gonzalez, 19, then ran into the burning house searching for the children.

Mark Torrez, 19, scaled a wall, wet himself down with a garden hose and covered his face with his shirt as he entered the home.

None of the family was injured or suffered smoke inhalation. The rescuers, however, were all treated at local hospitals for smoke inhalation and released, Miles said.

Administrators Seek Student Input on Restructuring Plans

By Amy Collins
Staff Writer

In what may be a first for the university, UCSB administrators will seek student advice today on how to restructure its turnover-plagued student affairs office.

Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Michael Young — who heads the division — said today's meeting is part of an overhaul process that may include the elimination of the dean of students position. Faculty and staff will also be consulted, he said.

"It's an extraordinary opportunity to see where they think we should be heading as a division," Young said.

The office of student affairs has undergone a 100 percent turnover rate over the past 11 months, said Young, who himself arrived at UCSB in January. Due to this turnover rate, Young is considering drastic changes in the administrative hierarchy.

Associated Students President Michael Chester, who will attend the meeting, is pleased Young is involving students in these discussions. "This is the first time students have ever been able to structure any part of this university," he said.

Among the structural changes, the group is expected to discuss the proposed creation of an associate dean of students position — a plan which was halted one month ago primarily due to student objections.

Young said he was originally convinced that a department "would get more high quality day to day attention if it reports to an associate dean," but is now undecided about the position, he said.

The new position would move the Women's Center, MultiCultural Center and the Equity Advocacy Program from the supervision of the dean to the associate dean. But members of these departments have complained the switch would demote their program's place in the administrative hierarchy.

Cheri Gurse, the coordinator of the Women's Center's Rape Prevention Education Program, expressed apprehension about the proposed position. "It's imperative to us in the Women's Center that the administrative change does not mean more distance between the director of the Women's Center and the dean of students," she said. "And we have been assured that will not happen."

Hymon Johnson, a member of the MultiCultural Center's board of directors, said that moving the center under an associate dean "doesn't give it the visibility and the credibility that it deserves."

Recent personnel changes have been key to the consideration of restructuring, Young said. Three different vice chancellors have managed student affairs since 1988 and a handful of middle managers have abandoned the university for more lucrative offers. The most recent blow was delivered earlier this month when Dean of Students Leslie Lawson announced that she will turn in her resignation this Wednesday to run a bed and breakfast inn.

Young said that Lawson's decision to leave has encouraged him to review the current structure. "I certainly intend to take the opportunity to take a look at what we do," he said after Lawson's announcement.

However, Young, who also drew fire this summer when he appointed a new assistant vice chancellor without a national search, said he may consider eliminating the associate dean position based on the outcome of current discussions.

Stressing that the division is in a state of transition, Young said that during the consultation process he may consider eliminating the dean of students position as well.

When the MultiCultural Center was created two years ago, the director reported directly to the vice chancellor (Young's position), but it was moved down to the dean of students when Young came, according to MultiCultural Center director Zaveeni Khan.

The current consultation process should extend through Thanksgiving, Young said. If all goes well, he hopes to have all the positions filled by July.

Gay Rights Activists Protest at Spike's

By Carlos Davalos
Reporter

A group of approximately 50 gay rights activists demonstrated at a local bar and grill Friday evening on behalf of a female patron who they claim was removed from the establishment because it was learned she was a lesbian.

Organizers from the Lesbian, Gay and Bisexual Alliance said Spike's Place, a bar and eatery on Hollister Rd., refused to serve a lesbian customer Oct. 12 and removed her from the premises. Bar management, however, claims she was refused service because she was overly intoxicated, and that she was not removed from the premises at all.

On Friday, LGBA supporters attempted to enter Spike's to demand an apology from the management "for alienating a patron on the basis of her sexual orientation," and to make a public statement that the establishment would not discriminate against members of the lesbian, gay and bisexual community, "or any persons who appear different than the perceived majority," said Lauren Wyeth, a protest coordinator and UCSB student.

According to a letter given to protesters, members of the LGBA want "to make it clear that members and supporters of the lesbian, gay and bisexual community can have a serious impact on local businesses."

However, Spike's Place general manager Caron Mueller stopped the protesters at the entrance and refused to seat them. "I don't understand why this (protest) had to be done like this," she told Wyeth. "Why do I have to be afraid for my business?" she asked.

After wrangling for nearly 15 minutes, Mueller allowed the group to enter "as long as they promise not to cause a disruption." Assurances made, the protestors filed into the bar while Mueller and Wyeth stopped outside.

"I want to know why I was never contacted" before the protest, Mueller said. "It's been two weeks (since the incident). ... I want to know why it took so long for anyone to contact me," she said.

Wyeth said that attempts to talk with the management on the night of the incident were futile and it was decided by members of the LGBA to show their "dissatisfaction with Spike's by showing up in a large group." She added that the patron only had a couple of drinks, and was not overly intoxicated.

Five Arrested in Protest of Sleeping Ordinance

By Jason Ross
Reporter

Five demonstrators were arrested outside Santa Barbara City Hall Friday when approximately 120 homeless activists protested a new city ordinance which prohibits sleeping on city sidewalks, beaches or parks.

The protestors, many of whom were not from Santa Barbara, assembled in front of City Hall at 6 p.m. and quickly spread about the area, some waving signs that read, "A law against sleep is an unjust law," while others took a more active stance by feigning sleep on the sidewalks.

At approximately 7 p.m., two protestors, one wrapped in an American flag, lay on the driveway in front of City Hall, blocking traffic and apparently asleep. After warning the two that they were blocking a public thoroughfare, city police officers carried the two men into a waiting police van while TV cameras rolled and protestors yelled, "Sieg heil."

Three more were arrested minutes later as they lay on the sidewalk in front of City Hall. All five were charged with blocking a public thoroughfare, not with sleeping in public, according to SBPD Lt. John Thayer.

No arrests for public sleeping were made at the demonstration in order to "let people express themselves," Thayer said. "We don't want to turn this into a media circus," he said. As of late Friday, police had made no arrests for public sleeping.

During the protest, disorganized chants of, "Boycott Santa Barbara," and, "City without a heart," sprang out occasionally from the crowd as dozens of homeless protestors dined on food served by the Santa Barbara Homeless Coalition on the City Hall steps.

"We're working on repealing the sleeping ban," said Nancy McCreety, office manager of the SBHC, which organized the event.

The law, passed by the City Council earlier this year, prohibits sleeping on any public beach from one hour after sundown to 6 a.m., and from sleeping at any time on any "improved" public property, including streets, sidewalks and the grounds of any city building.

"A lot of frustration has been building up for some

Mueller, however, insisted that the patron was not asked to leave because she was a lesbian and that, in fact, "she was not asked to leave, period."

Mueller contends the patron was told by the bar's night manager Maureen Fitzgerald that she would no longer be served alcohol because she appeared to have had enough to drink. "She was slurring her words and acting irresponsibly. ... The fact that she is a lesbian is irrelevant," Mueller said.

Fitzgerald said she has worked in bars for a long enough time to know when somebody is overly intoxicated. She said she observed the patron being a bit unruly, and she learned of the customer's sexuality through an offhand remark. "Usually when people start revealing personal things about themselves, that is another sign of drunkenness," she said.

Based on the patron's condition, Fitzgerald decided to stop serving her alcohol. "But she was more than welcome to have coffee or soda," she added.

Asked if she would apologize for her employee's actions, Mueller refused. "I will not apologize for Maureen's actions. She made a good call. She saw somebody that had enough to drink and she refused to serve them based on her observations. I stand behind her 100 percent," she said.

However, she was sorry "this whole thing got blown out of proportion." Referring to the fact that the customer was not present, Mueller said, "(This misunderstanding) could have been avoided if the person involved came directly to me."

Here's a cheap roommate
you'll actually like.

Apple introduces the Macintosh Classic.

That's why you should consider the new, affordable Macintosh® Classic® computer. It has everything you need—including a monitor, keyboard, mouse, 2 megabytes of RAM, and a 40-megabyte hard disk. Just plug everything in and the Macintosh Classic is ready to run, because the system software is already installed. And, thanks to the Macintosh computer's legendary ease of use, you'll be up and running in no time.

Like every Macintosh, the Classic can run thousands of available applications that all work in the same, consistent way—so once you've learned one program, you're well on your way to learning them all. And this is one cheap roommate that doesn't have trouble sharing. The Apple® SuperDrive™—standard equipment with every Macintosh—reads from and writes to Macintosh, MS-DOS, OS/2, and Apple II floppy disks, which means you can share information with someone who uses a different type of computer.

See the Macintosh Classic for yourself. It'll change your mind about cheap roommates.

Trying to stretch dollars when you're computer shopping doesn't mean you're willing to make sacrifices.

Campus Will Showcase Three Speakers Today

An eco-activist, a Chicana feminist and a Marin County congresswoman will appear on campus today in three separate events.

Earth First! member Darryl Cherney, an advocate of wilderness and ancient forest preservation, will sing and discuss issues pertaining to upcoming environmental legislation in The Pub today at 4 p.m.

Cherney, who is seeking to educate students about the campaign to preserve old-growth forests, was part of a controversy involving a pipe-bomb that exploded in his car last May. Although he and one other member of the organization were suspected of transporting the bomb, no charges were filed.

"In light of the upcoming elections and specifically Proposition 130, I think it's important for students to realize the devastation occurring to the forests and those who depend on it for their livelihood," said Shari Menard, a participant in Redwood Summer, last summer's campaign against the cutting of old-growth forests.

Martha Cotera, deemed one of the most influential Chicana activists in the world, will talk about efforts by Native, Mestizo and Black Women to combat discrimination and violence directed against minority communities today at 4:30 p.m. in Girvetz Hall.

Cotera, author of Diosa y Hembra (God and Female) which is a history of Chicanas in the United States, will discuss the role of Third World women in the United

"The Mexicana has achieved a great deal against terrible odds," she wrote. The tragedy of a socioeconomic condition as poor as the Chicana's should certainly be compared to the strength, drive and intelligence which has motivated her involvement in efforts to improve her life and the lives of others."

Cotera believes Third World women in the United States should be revolutionary, visionary leaders who fight to eliminate oppression that has contributed to important transformations in the American society.

The winds of California's 1990 general election will be blowing through Storke Plaza today as Rep. Barbara Boxer (D-Marin) comes to UCSB to speak about abortion rights, offshore oil drilling and her endorsement of local Democrat congressional challenger Anita Perez-Ferguson.

Sponsored by the UCSB Campus Democrats, Boxer's address will be introduced by Perez-Ferguson, who is currently competing with Republican incumbent Robert Lagomarsino and a Green party candidate for the 19th Congressional District seat.

Boxer's speech will run approximately 20 minutes and will be followed by an open-mike question-and-answer forum, said Jessie Kohler, a Campus Democrat who helped organize Boxer's appearance.

time with people laying on sidewalks, urinating and defecating on sidewalks, open drug dealing, open consumption of alcohol, fighting (and) dogs running loose," Thayer said.

would sleep," said Dana Willard, a Santa Barbara homeless man who was lying in his sleeping bag on the lawn across from City Hall.

"What (the city) is doing here in Santa Barbara is wrong," said Jody Lee Daggs, who came from Seattle to participate in the protest. "Even in Seattle we heard about (the sleeping ban)," Daggs said.

However, not all people at the demonstration supported the homeless protesters or their cause. "I think this is terrible," said Santa Barbara businessman Tim Foley, whose truck was blocked by "sleeping" demonstrators. "I don't think they should be able to sleep on the sidewalks, block sidewalks and defecate on sidewalks like they're doing," Foley said.

Most of the demonstrators were from out of town, including approximately 75 members of the Los Angeles Homeless Outreach Program who were invited by the SBHC.

While most demonstrators were pleased with the size of the crowd, Bubba, a member of the Santa Barbara homeless community, objected to the out-of-town protesters. "It's like the people of Santa Barbara can't fight their own battle," Bubba said.

The crowd diminished at 8 p.m. when HOP members boarded a bus and headed back to Los Angeles. The remaining demonstrators numbered approximately 20.

The protest came on the first day of legal enforcement of the law, which followed a 15-day grace period after the law went into effect Oct. 11.

Willard said that he would be sleeping in a public park Friday night. "I despise the missions," said Willard of the various shelters offered by local church groups, "They try to retrain you into what they want you to be, not what you want to be."

Protestors representing the entire West Coast will be invited to Santa Barbara in January to protest the sleeping ban, McCreety said. "The National Coalition for the Homeless will be helping us out by declaring a boycott on Santa Barbara, and by declaring Santa Barbara 'The city without a heart,'" McCreety said.

The public revelry of Isla Vista residents and out-of-town visitors led law enforcement officials to boost the number of officers in Isla Vista from its normal 12 to a peak of 64 on Saturday night, including six officers mounted on horseback. Due to the relatively cooperative nature of the crowds, however, police were not required to use any kind of crowd-control tactics, Gross said.

who caroused the streets of Isla Vista Friday and Saturday nights. "For the weekend before Halloween, it was bigger than we expected," Gross said.

Law enforcement officials will be stepping up the police presence to approximately 100 officers on Wednesday night in anticipation of even bigger crowds and rowdier activities, Gross said.

Police were surprised, however, by the large number of Halloween parties whether the motorcyclist meant to hit Kukado. However, California Highway Patrol officials investigating the incident said Kukado believed the collision was intentional.

"It appeared to (Kukado) that the motorcycle accelerated and came directly at him," Bean said.

Beddows was treated at Goleta Valley Community Hospital for a separated shoulder and a laceration to his left foot, and was subsequently released early Friday morning to the Santa Barbara County Jail. He was charged for felony vehicular assault and felony drunk driving.

Beddows—who also had a $330 outstanding traffic violation and a warrant for his arrest—remains in custody at the Santa Barbara County Jail with a $20,000 bail.

Pusauvat, who suffered only a cut on his elbow, was released from Goleta Valley Community Hospital after refusing treatment. No charges were filed against him.

Gross said that he received a 911 call placed by UCSB junior Christy Smith who heard the accident from her Trigo apartment shortly after 12:35 a.m. "I didn't hear any kind of acceleration. I didn't even hear a motor.... I heard guys moaning. That's why I called 911," she said.

According to Smith, Kukado was calm and totally coherent at the scene of the accident, but Beddows was moaning and unable to move. "He was laying on the ground on his back, just moving his head. He was sort of semiconscious. He wasn't all there. Maybe he was too blitzed," she said.

Although Kukado is expected to be released from the hospital today, he will not return to work for at least another two months because of the extent of his injuries, Bean said.

Both Beddows and Pusauvat were unavailable for comment.

Earth First! Sabotage Next!

Shari Menard

I heard in the distance the strumming acoustic guitar and familiar voice that I had heard on so many road trips before. Wearily I stepped out of my sleeping bag and followed the trail of tunes leading to the campfire. Soon I noticed that there were 300 others that had just experienced these same recollections. We all danced, sang and listened like flies to the words and music of Earth Firster Darryl Cherney.

All the while I kept thinking how incredible it was that Darryl was there, alive and performing at the conference in Illinois. Five months earlier his life was, along with Judi Bari's, almost taken by a planted pipe bomb. I remember the day quite well.

Judi and Darryl were on their Redwood Summer promotion tour and were scheduled to stop in Santa Barbara on May 28. However, the drive through Oakland proved detrimental. A bomb was planted in Judi's car, Darryl was in the passenger seat. Judi suffered a broken pelvis and facial injuries, and Darryl a laceration over his left eye and a scratched cornea. The Oakland police immediately arrested Judi and Darryl, for "transporting explosive devices." Since the charge was so asinine and without grounds, the police later dropped it.

Earth First! has recently been targeted by the FBI; the tactics used against Earth First! resemble previous actions against the Black Panther Party in the 1960s and the Community in Support of the People of El Salvador (CISPES) in the 1980s. The FBI, after the pipe-bomb explosion, contended that because of the placement of the bomb (directly under the driver's seat), the two should have known of its existence in the car and that it must have gone off accidentally.

Cherney, in an interview on KMUD the day after the bombing, said he was amazed when he figured out where the FBI was headed in its interrogation. At first, the interview in jail was fairly cordial he said, "then all of the sudden the questioning changed and they kind of squinted down a little bit into my one eye that was left (at the time) and said, 'We can find out if that was your bomb ... so why don't you just tell us.'"

Well, it wasn't their bomb, and the charges were dropped. Judi and Darryl had received at least six serious death threats prior to the bombing, but the FBI has done nothing about these threats or the bombing incident as of yet.

Redwood Summer, however, rolled on. I found myself in Humboldt County attempting to save the remaining four percent of old-growth redwoods. I sensed the hostilities and antagonism from the moment we reached Arcata, a town with a larger counterculture and large redneck population. The polarities were apparent when I sighted a bumper sticker that read "Keep America Green, Bury an Earth Firster." I looked down at my T-shirt with a raised fist and the words, "Earth First! No Compromise in Defense of the Mother Earth," and smiled.

After spending two days in the woods playing cat and mouse with security and lumberjacks, I spent the next two in Humboldt County jail for trespassing on Pacific Lumber land along with eight other Earth First! women. As the authorities claimed to serve us "Spotted Owl stew" and kept reminding us that we were in jail without rights, the two days seemed to drag on endlessly.

As Redwood Summer was winding down, I was hanging out in front of the Arcata Action Center with a few friends. Darryl was there also. Two younger looking guys walked by with their florescent hats and told Darryl they were going to kill him. I don't know who was more freaked out, myself or him. They kept walking, but about 15 minutes later they returned. Not knowing why, I followed them for about half a mile and got a good look at them. Nothing ever came of it, however their faces are firmly planted in my mind like the roots of a redwood.

Judi and Darryl have been the targets of harassment because of their prominence in an emotional, environmental movement. The Pacific Northwest is being decimated daily, and there isn't much old-growth left. Furthermore, workers are being layed off regularly, and the companies are moving their mills to Mexico, where they can pay workers only 74 cents an hour. The non-violent (yes Erik Gunderson, Earth First! has an unbroken record of non-violence) direct action tactics that have been used are effective and have resulted in corporate frustration and anger. The companies feel that their private property and profits are being tampered with, and are therefore pitting the workers against the environmentalists. However, Darryl and Judi's dream is to form alliances between the two parties and target their common enemy: the corporations themselves.

It is unfortunate that Judi and Darryl never made it to Santa Barbara in May. Judi is still recuperating, unable to walk (she has taken five unaided steps since May), nevertheless she continues to write in the Industrial Worker and Earth First! journal. Darryl, on another front, has taken to the streets again and is playing music and will present a slide show in The Pub today at 4 p.m.

Undeniably, Earth First! has had some negative media publicity, but the reason for that is obvious. It is not because we are "ecoterrorists," but rather we are a threat to the profits and exploitations of this country's elite. Shari Menard is a sophomore majoring in environmental studies and philosophy.

The Reader's Voice

Preserve the Bird

Editor, Daily Nexus:

When Bruce Murdock and I decided to run for Isla Vista Recreation and Parks District Board of Directors, we agreed to conduct an honest, factual campaign. The IVRPD budget was hemorrhaging, while parks remained mediocre. Most voters were unaware of the escalating costs and relatively minimal benefits. We decided to inform them. Bruce and I spent considerable time collecting and verifying statistics describing IVRPD performance. The results were alarming.

IVRPD soon instituted policies constraining the release of information. They informed our campaign staff that queries would be addressed in 10 working days, i.e. two weeks. After waiting two weeks for an initial response, follow-up questions are frequently necessary. This entails another two-week wait. Consequently, it now takes one month to compile all but the most trivial facts.

Apparently, IVRPD is stonewalling students as well. One student approached me on campus recently complaining about waiting two weeks to receive a copy of the IVRPD budget. All IVRPD had to do was photocopy it. Perhaps IVRPD is more responsive to the Nexus, but they're far "too busy" for us common folk.

Last week I discovered another IVRPD boondoggle. An IVRPD staff member found a dead woodpecker. He convinced the IVRPD Board majority to stuff it for him. An associate leaked the story to me, and I was quoted on it in a Nexus article ("Candidates for IVRPD Seats Bask Each Other" Oct. 25)

On that same day, IVRPD staff member Martin Kellogg wrote a letter to the Nexus trying to justify the woodpecker expenditure. Compared with their normal two-week response time, they managed a reply to this embarrassing revelation in less than eight hours. They're pretty quick when they want the information released.

We decided to speak further with Mr. Kellogg, and did so today; Mr. Kellogg claims the IVRPD allocated "only" $200 to stuff the bird. He hopes that it will cost even less. Hence, he disputes the $800 figure reported to me. I suppose it might take a couple of weeks before the IVRPD would provide me with any written documentation, so the exact amount remains indeterminate.

However, the story is more bizarre than I originally imagined. Apparently Martin found out that IVRPD was violating the law by unauthorized possession of a dead migratory song bird. The carcass was turned over to UCSB. When the body was examined, Martin was told it was a poor specimen unworthy of preservation. (Shouldn't Directors Stockton, Boyd, Price and Rothstein have thought of this before promising hundreds of our tax dollars?)

Mr. Kellogg further discovered that the Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History had 10 good specimens in their freezers. They weren't planning on displaying them, and agreed to give one to Martin.

The IVRPD now plans to stuff one of the museum's birds and display it. Where? Well, Martin would like it in his office, but that has not been officially decided.

We share the desire for a return of the woodpeckers, but stuffing dead ones to adorn offices seems a waste compared with planting drought-tolerant, picturesque native oaks, on which live birds depend. Park taxes are better spent on preserving and restoring the ecosystem.

Wacky Woodpeckers

Editor, Daily Nexus:

The claim of I.V. Park Board candidate Hal Kopeikin (reported in the Nexus Oct. 25) that the present board has appropriated $800 "to stuff a woodpecker" is a very gross exaggeration. The appropriation was for a maximum of $200 for the mounting of an Acorn Woodpecker by a taxidermist and enclosing it in a plexiglass-and-wood case for public display. The actual total may end up being about $125. The Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History is providing our choice of a specimen from about 10 they have for free.

The purpose of having an Acorn Woodpecker display is to provide the public with a tangible image of what we, as a community, can restore to the Isla Vista-UCSB mesa. Maps from 1870-1871 show woodland of approximately 100 acres on our little mesa; there is still a considerable remnant of this, dominated by Coast Live Oaks, on the north bluff of Main Campus. About 15 years ago the small number of Acorn Woodpeckers that were inhabiting this area disappeared, and the species has not returned. They are an entertaining and very conspicuous bird, and live in groups which raise the young communally. Because of this rare sociality, they have been the subject of many studies. Many human-caused factors are implicated in their disappearance, and these are generally remediable. The primary remedy is restoration of the mass of our mesa's natural forest; in doing this, we would also help avert global warming holocaust some, and many other species would be restored as well, by the restoration of their habitat. By protecting these latter species, the Acorn Woodpecker can become an "umbrella species."

I look forward to helping us all bring back a good amount of our natural patrimony.

MARTIN KELLOGG

Who's the Political Terrorist

Editor, Daily Nexus:

It's all very well for Isla Vista Parks and Recreation Board candidates Murdock and Kopeikin to cry "political terrorism" when their banners are defaced, and to pat themselves on the back for running such a "clean campaign" ("Kopeikin Says 'Political Terrorism' Behind Sign Burning," Oct. 18). But it may interest readers to know that, in a somewhat more insidious fashion, these two have behaved less than impeccably on the campaign trail. While their posters read "For Better Parks," a special mailer sent out recently by the Santa Barbara Rental Property Association, to landlords only, described "a possibility that we could control the (IVRPD)" and urged landlords to send money to Murdock and Kopeikin. Who are these people who yell "political terrorism?" And why is a group of landlords and developers trying to gain control of the IVRPD in the first place? I doubt if they are moved by the desire to conserve open space! Indeed, when they say anything at all in their literature, they talk about saving money (landowner's money), and you can't provide park services very well that way.

I imagine a landlord's dream vision of Isla Vista to look rather like those factory farms where they mass-produce chickens. The Isla Vista we live in today is still a unique and exciting place despite being already overcrowded — geographically separated from Santa Barbara and Goleta, it has a life and a personality all its own. Our only hope to prevent it from turning into the landlord's "Rent Farm" lies in the IVRPD. Isla Vista residents recognized this and voted for people who shared their concern for Isla Vista. Now it's your turn. Don't be fooled by Murdock and Kopeikin's nebulous offer of "better parks." Vote for Mitch Stockton if you want Isla Vista to have a skateboard park, live music, Perfect Park and to save the last open spaces on the bluffs. Mitch has been on the Board for two years already and has worked hard to protect Isla Vista's open space. Matt Dobberteen, a recent UCSB graduate and an IVRPD candidate, places the preservation of open space among his priorities, along with public welfare in I.V.

There are two seats up for grabs on the five-member IVRPD Board. It's up to you to decide who will fill them. Remember, there are no Barbara Uehlings to veto your vote this time! In the "real world," you can make a difference!

ROB PUDDICOMBE

Socialized Medicine Saves

Editor, Daily Nexus:

The Oct. 23 letter to the editor against the socialization of medicine "Can't Touch This" deeply disturbed me. Chris Blunt believes that he should not have to pay taxes which go towards medical care for others. He stated "I have no duty to support you" and "I am my only obligation." Well thank God that not everybody thinks that way.

If subsidized medical care was not available both my baby daughter and I would not be here today. My daughter was delivered six weeks early by Cesarean section. She was very ill and was in the intensive care nursery for several days. The cost for our care was in the tens of thousands of dollars.

My daughter was one of the fortunate ones. Every year many babies die unnecessarily because of inadequate care. In Los Angeles pregnant women have to wait many months to get approval for MEDI-CAL. In the meantime they make do with the extremely overcrowded county system or no pre-natal care at all.

Many families lose their homes and possessions when a medical emergency strikes. And many people have lost their lives because they could not afford to get regular checkups which could have detected many diseases early enough to be treated.

While I do not agree that total socialization of medicine is the best course of action, it is painfully clear that the medical system in the United States needs improvement.

The next time that you want to complain about taxes stop for a minute and think. Your tax dollars saved my child's life. Perhaps someday my tax dollars will save your life.

RACHEL NICHOLAS

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Chris Blunt's letter attacking socialized medicine, while pointing out some real problems with existing social medicine systems, fails to represent fairly the real issue. I am a citizen of Belgium, a country with a socialized medical system, and wish to explain the philosophy behind the system.

Blunt's first mistake is that he arrogantly believes that poverty, homelessness and addiction are caused by flaws in individual's personalities. When we approach these problems from that angle, we deny the societal structure which plays a role in causing problems like homelessness, addiction, poverty and crime. Disagree? Why then are there such differences in crime figures from one nation to another? Why then are there countries without homeless people. Homelessness is a problem that is not common in the developed world, at least not to the extent that it is seen in the United States.

I would argue that poverty is also caused much more by society than by individual flaws. A college education is a great advantage in this country, yet many poor people cannot afford a college education. They are also not prepared for college education because inner city (i.e. poor) high schools do not offer an adequate education. Poverty is a vicious cycle which is becoming increasingly difficult to break. The American dream has become more of a nightmare for the dwellers of our ghettos.

But Blunt still feels that socialized systems are "the surrender of property by those who have it to those who have done nothing to deserve it." What exceptional things have you, Chris Blunt, done to be part of a more affluent class? It wouldn't happen to be that you were born into a more affluent family? I know many families who work at least as hard as you or your parents, but who are still barely able to make the rent. That is the true nature of our society: the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

America should be ashamed that it is one of the richest countries in the world, while its health care system is one of the worst in the developed world. As citizens we have a responsibility to make sure that our fellow citizens are not allowed to fall below a certain level of poverty. This is a democracy, and in a democratic country the first concern of the government should be the welfare of all of its citizens. I'm not a communist, but I do believe that when the goals of capitalism are in conflict with the goals of democracy, our government should choose to defend democracy, even if it means limiting capitalism. If our government expects us to pay taxes to support its completely out-of-control military spending, I feel it is only fair that it provide us with basic services including adequate education and basic health care. A society where a man like Milken can make $500 million a year while at the same time we have people dying from hunger and treatable diseases is a capitalist society out of control, immoral and bound to self-destruct.

Don't Bike on Sidewalks

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Hearty thanks for your editorial of Oct. 12 "Stop Biking Brainless," in which you plead with bike riders to abstain from using the sidewalks, particularly the one on El Colegio Road. We residents of Friendship Manor, a retirement home at 6647 El Colegio, have been plagued by cyclists who ignore the signs on our street: "NO BIKE RIDERS ON WALK." Either these law breakers can't or won't read the signs. The fine for breaking the ordinance is $22. Actually, infraction of the rule has become a life-and-death matter. Several of our residents have been hurt seriously, others are afraid to use the sidewalk. We will appreciate student cooperation in what to us is not a laughing matter. Thanks much.

HENRY W. CORAY

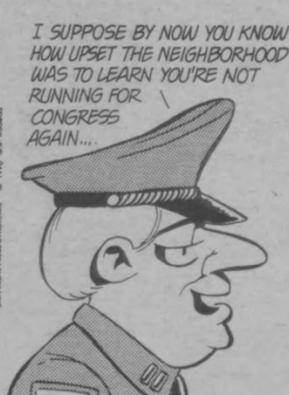

So what the hell is going on in this town? A crazed motorcyclist hits a Foot Patrol officer and now some guy just got carried off in an ambulance in a nasty bike accident outside of Storke Plaza. Are the streets safe anymore? Who cares about street corner dope peddlin' when you can't even peddle your bike to the market without having a near death experience.

We need to take back the streets by blockading and bombarding any form of motorized transport that enters I.V. With the Stones' "Street Fightin' Man" playing in the background. Then we could take over The Graduate, the Church parking lot and Javan's to relive the revolution.

But the times they are a changin' because Abbey's dead, Rubin's a yuppie, Kuntler's a movie star and Leary's taken way too many drugs. In the New World Order who's interests are being protected anyway: landlords, tenants or nostalgic sixties activists? If you don't vote you've got no right to complain and "if you don't stand for something you'll fall for anything." So go and vote for all the righteous environmental candidates and causes and then stand up for your rights at the legalization rally in Storke Plaza Nov. 6 — election stub required.

As the Muslim Holiday Ramadan is Observed, The Pace of the Market Place Flourishes

MOROCCO

By JULIE TAYLOR, REPORTER

From the time the sun rose until it set, no one ate, drank or smoked. All of the cafes and restaurants remained closed to observe the Muslim month of fasting, Ramadan.

I arrived in Morocco during this period of religious observance. Although my experience there was made somewhat more difficult because meals during daylight hours were hard to come by and the pace of daily life had somewhat slowed, I realized Morocco during Ramadan is an intense reflection of the influence of Islam on a country becoming increasingly Westernized.

Bustling economic exchanges continued — with men and women selling clothing and wares in the marketplace. Hotels and tour guides continued to welcome the increasing flows of tourists, despite observance of Ramadan — showing that Morocco today is at the forefront of economic growth on the African continent.

For the past three years, Morocco has enjoyed a 10 percent growth rate and increased foreign investment. Yet the streets of Morocco reflect both the poverty which relegate the nation to so-called Third World categorization and the burgeoning commerce produced by economic restructuring policies.

Women wrapped in scarves and covered in the traditional Islamic dress sell handwoven baskets for a dollar apiece while only a few feet away stores sell the latest fashions. Elegant boutiques — which cater mainly to wealthy European and American tourists — sell leather goods, persian rugs and intricately designed jewelry.

The majority of the assets in Morocco are owned by only approximately 2000 families. Still, the overall standard of living for most Moroccans has risen since King Hassan II began his plan to restructure the economy in 1983 — increasing market economy forces.

But harsh economic realities and modern technologies and goods seemed to intermingle in all facets of Moroccan life. Elmahdi Tounssi — a university student in Marrakech who was dressed in jeans and tennis shoes — described his conflicting desire to emigrate from Morocco. Although he wanted to remain in his homeland, he said professional job opportunities are limited.

Elmahdi lives with his family in a comfortable home on the outskirts of the city. They have conveniences like a stereo and cassette tapes, but the family washes its clothing with a grooved wooden washboard.

The restructuring of Morocco's agriculturally-based economy began in 1983 after King Hassan's government postponed payments on a series of international loans during an economic crisis.

Morocco's inability to repay the loans brought significant pressure from the international community, forcing Hassan to restructure the country's economic policies. The country's economic problems were rooted in repeated years of poor harvests and low exports and were augmented by significant military expenditures in the Western Sahara.

The Moroccan claim to the Sahara region has been the dominant political issue in the country since the Spanish withdrew from it in 1976. The inhabitants of the Western Sahara are resisting Moroccan control and have declared the territory an independent state, the Saharan Arab Democratic Republic.

For the past 14 years, Morocco has made military and domestic expenditures in the region in an attempt to both subdue and win over the hearts of the Western Saharan people.

The conflict over the Sahara has both boosted Moroccan nationalism and support for King Hassan II. The influence of the monarch can be felt in all of the major Moroccan cities, each with a palace where he stays during his domestic travels.

Hassan's portrait is posted on the walls of stores, banks and other businesses. This practice may reflect government policies rather than his popularity, however. A Moroccan student in Meknes told me that stores which refuse to display his picture are fined by the government.

Morocco, a predominantly Arab Muslim country, is also a hub of different nationalities, cultures and languages. The Berbers were the original inhabitants of the region and their culture is still alive in Morocco. In the marketplace, Berber women buying food to prepare the meals for their families are recognizable by their intricate facial tattooing and the absence of the scarves which cover the faces of many Arab women practicing Islam. Facial tattooing has been a cultural tradition among the Berbers for centuries. The tattoos of the women indicate where they are from and whether or not they are married.

Many Moroccan women work within their homes caring for their children and families while the streets, cafes and commercial areas are primarily populated by men. In several cafes, women were not permitted. When asked if she felt limited by dress codes and standards for women in Morocco, a Muslim woman responded that she feels greater freedom exists in Islamic countries for women than in Western countries. She said women are pressured to conform to unnatural standards of beauty and to "compete for men" in the West.

Only a short ferry ride away from Spain, Morocco has been influenced by its European neighbors. Tourist money and investments are a major source of income.

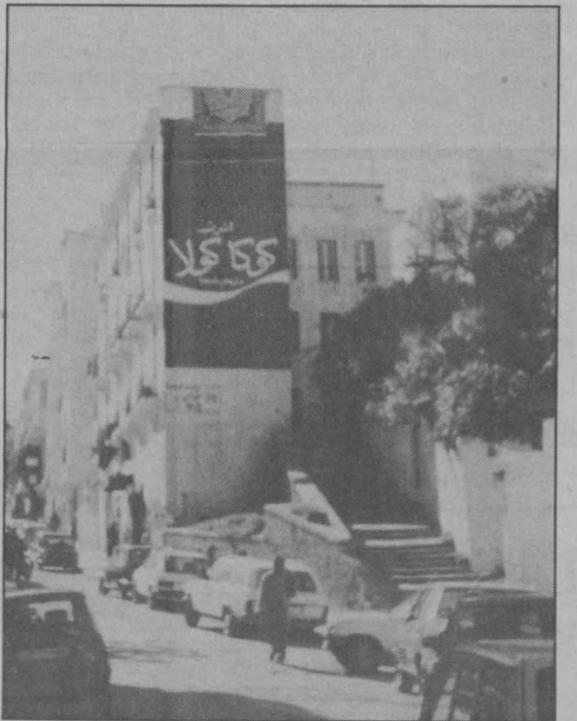

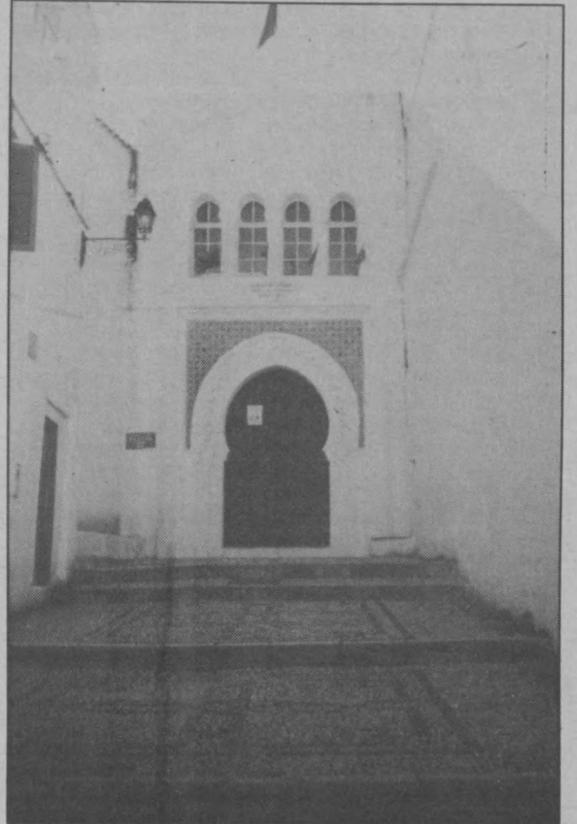

In Tetuan, I saw the construction of French and Spanish-funded hotels and condominiums. Even Club Med has established itself there — appealing to the business people of the European Community.

Many Moroccans are multi-lingual — reflecting both interaction with Europeans and also the impact of European colonialism on the country. Wherever I went, I found people who spoke some English as well as Arabic, French and Spanish.

The Spanish impact on Northern Morocco can still be felt. One of the port cities, Ceuta, is still considered Spanish territory. The city itself is a strange blend of the two nations. Both Moroccans and Spaniards live there and both are subject to the Madrid-based Spanish government. Spanish cafes serve Moroccan mint tea and Spanish is the language that is predominantly spoken. Although Ceuta is located in a lush and naturally beautiful area, it feels like a forgotten city. Many buildings stand empty and dilapidated.

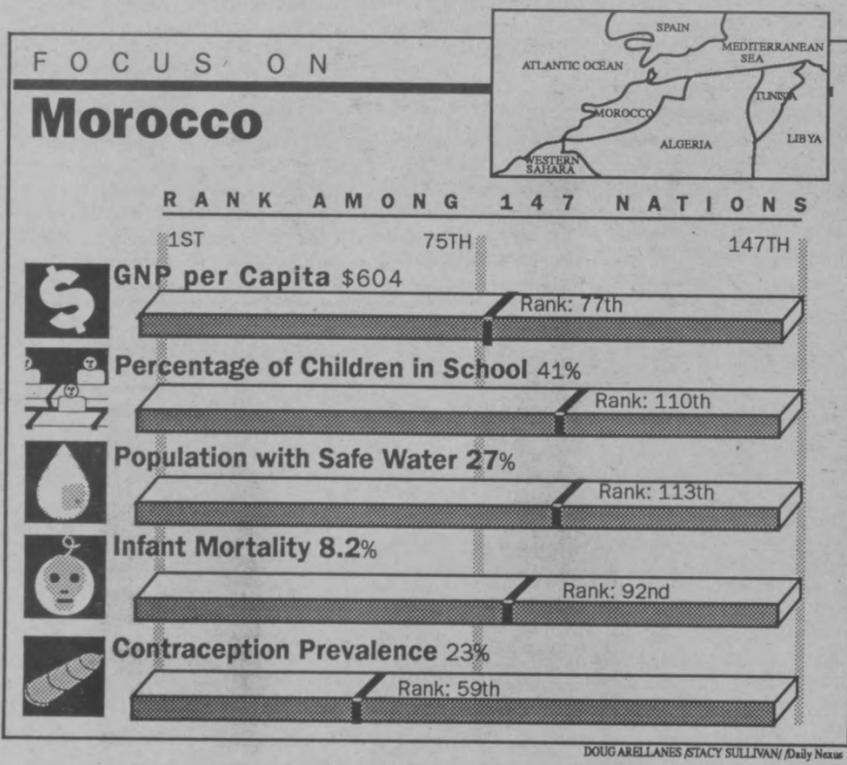

Upon arriving in the country, despite the legitimacy of the often-read warnings of violence and kidnappings, a feeling of welcome was much more apparent than fear. Many Muslims are eager to educate Westerners about their religious traditions and to dispel the way they have been negatively stereotyped.

After the sun went down, the doors opened and Moroccan citizens were eager to share a breaking of the fast and a breaking of cultural barriers.

The entrance to a mosque (top) illustrates the stark traditional culture that is alive and flourishing in Morocco. However, the influence of Western culture permeates all aspects of Moroccan life. A Coca-Cola sign (above), painted in Arabic, adorns the side of a city building. Camels (below) stroll the beach of a future condominium sight.

Gauchos Routed By Rivals At Harder

It wasn't just another game for running back Daryl Rogers and his St. Mary's teammates Saturday. It was a game against UCSB.

"We'd been thinking about this game for awhile," said Rogers, who ran for 142 yards en route to a 45-16 Gael thrashing of UCSB. "We have a big rivalry with them (Santa Barbara) now. You can feel it when you're out on the field."

Since UCSB reinstated its football program in 1986, the Gauchos have included St. Mary's on their schedule each year, and the two teams have put together some great match-ups. Saturday's game was the first between the two teams to be decided by more than six points, and the outcome continued a trend which has held true each time the Gaels and the Gauchos have met—the home team has yet to win.

"I think that just goes to show that it's a matter of who plays well, no matter where the game is played," UCSB Head Coach Rick Candaele said. "I think at times we don't understand that we have a rivalry with them—I'm not sure if we understand how hard you really have to play to beat them."

UCSB has defeated the Gaels both times the two teams played in Moraga,

Gaels Trample Gridders on Home Turf in Loss

Once again, the UCSB football team proved defenseless, both on its home turf and against St. Mary's.

The Gaels handed UCSB its third loss of the season—all of which have come at Harder Stadium—in a commanding 45-16 win over the Gauchos (5-3) Saturday.

Now seven games into the 1990 season, the Gauchos have managed to win just once at home and, five years after re-establishing the grid program, Santa Barbara has yet to defeat the Gaels at Harder.

"Our guys knew what they had to do, and we had a good plan to do it—we just didn't get it done. With this particular team this year, as far as defense, we've got to come out and play right on the top. We have to be real emotional and we weren't," said UCSB Head Coach Rick Candaele, whose team gave up 554 total yards, 279 rushing and 275 passing, to the Gaels. "That's disappointing to me (we didn't stop the run), but we just have to keep working on that."

Leading the running attack for St. Mary's was fullback Daryl Rogers. The junior gained 142 yards on 28 carries with four touchdowns, which tied a Gael record for the most rushing TDs in a game (Jim Datrice, 1973). Additionally, he set up one of his scores by completing a 16-yard pass to wide receiver Brian Sexton. Two plays later, he powered into the end zone, which put the Gaels (5-3) ahead 38-10 with 10:46 left in the game.

"We've had that play in for a while... I threw it fine in practice all week and I came out there and I threw a duck, he caught the ball, but I would have rather had him in the end zone," Rogers explained.

"Today, it wasn't me, it was the offensive line," he continued. "It didn't matter who car-

When people look back at the 1990 UCSB women's soccer team, one weekend—no, one game—will represent a season which has been so improbable in its twists, yet so remarkable in its results.

That game was played Saturday afternoon at Berkeley, where the Gauchos had never been victorious. The surface was a ragged playing field which Assistant Coach Aaron Heifetz said was "worse than our practice field." In goal for Santa Barbara was junior Jan Urlich, looking for a record-tying 25th career shutout but playing with an injured left leg. A win would ensure UCSB a playoff berth, but a rough-playing Bear squad stood in the way.

But, as they have been able to do so often this sea-

They huffed and they puffed, but they could not blow the Anteaters away like they did the rest of the Big West.

The UCSB men's cross country team placed second in the Big West Conference Championship meet at Fresno Saturday, defeating Fresno State, a team which was ranked higher in the preseason, but fell short to UC Irvine.

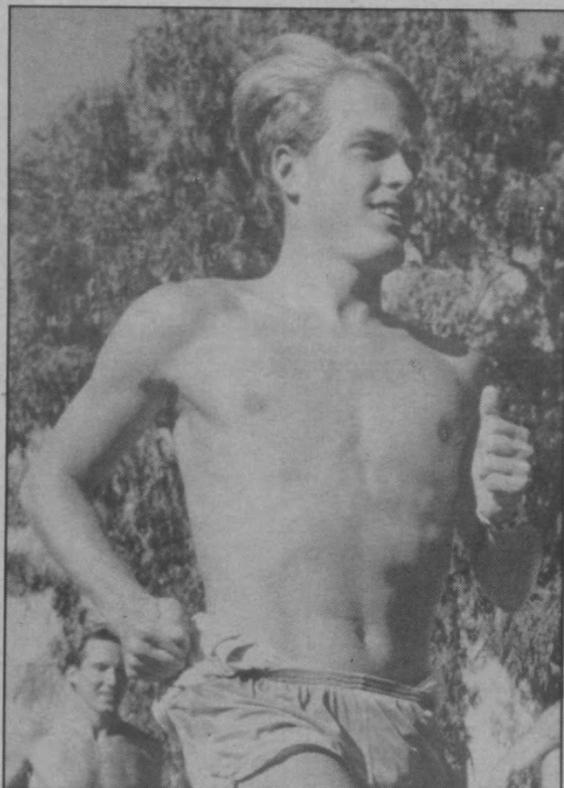

Tim Corbin (second overall, 25:05) led the Gauchos and qualified for the all-conference team by finishing in the top 10. Other Santa Barbara all-conference team members included Brian MacMillan (eighth, 25:30) and Sean Nyhan (10th, 25:33).

"I definitely think it was a typical Gauchos race," said Nyhan. "We ran smart from the beginning, we ran our plan. We understand how to run physiologically smart. The first few miles it's easy to panic, but it's been ingrained into us to follow our plan."

FRESNO—At the Big West Conference Cross Country Championships Saturday held at Fresno State, the Lady Gauchos displayed their true nature with a strong performance, overcoming tough conditions.

In addition to racing against defending league champion UC Irvine, UCSB had to compete against the climate—the temperatures reached the 70s near race time at 10 a.m.—as well as a dry, sandy course at Woodward Park.

Although UCI and top runner Buffy Rabbitt ran away with their respective titles, the day was not a disappointment for Santa Barbara.

UCSB finished fifth, only seven points behind fourth place Long Beach State. Individually, the Gauchos were led by senior Karen Courter, who crossed the line in 22nd place at 19:00.1. Finishing second for Santa Barbara and 25th in the meet at 19:17.3 was freshman Julie

Men Closer to Big West Title

Booters Defeat SJSU, Face Fresno St. for Championship

By Ross French
Staff Writer

The dream is still alive. With the UCSB men's soccer team's 3-0 victory over San Jose State University Sunday, the Gauchos set up a showdown with two-time defending Big West Champion Fresno State tonight at Bulldog Stadium in Fresno to decide who will win the league title.

The Gauchos (10-5, 6-2) controlled the pace of the game, not allowing the Spartans (3-15, 1-6) to get on track, with the Guardians of the Goal holding San Jose to only one shot in the first half and six in the game.

However, the UCSB offense was equally anemic for the first half, as it was unable to put any of its three shots past SJSU goalie Kevin Raak.

The second half was a different story, though, as two of the graybeards of the team, seniors Rolf Larsen and Mark "Juice" Johnson rose to the occasion. At the 60:45 mark Larsen and Johnson earned assists as Sean Redmond converted Johnson's deflection of Larsen's corner kick.

Johnson tallied at the 83:17 mark off of a free kick following a San Jose penalty. A minute later, Larsen crushed any hope of a comeback by scoring off a Raak deflection.

"The kids knew they had to win this game," said Head Coach Cliff Draeger. "We had opportunities to score in the first half and didn't. But we kept playing the same, and in the second half it finally came."

Goalie Ryan Sparre was never really tested by the Spartans, having to save only three shots. The shutout was his eighth of the season, his fourth in Big West play, and lowered his goals against average to .713.

Tonight's game will more than likely decide the Big West Champion and will determine who gets the berth to the NCAA championships. Fresno boasts a 13-2-2 record overall and a 5-1 Big West record, having lost to only Air Force and the Gauchos. A UCSB victory will all but lock up the league title, while a tie or defeat will do the same for Fresno.

The #11-ranked Bulldogs are led on offense by All-American candidate Gerell

Thomas, followed by senior Cathy Norbutas, who was 27th overall. Julie Cauffield, Laura Hodnett, Shamen Dugger and Natalie Trussell rounded out the seven finishers for the Gauchos.

After the race, UCSB Head Coach Jim Triplett was more pleased than he had been lately with his team's performance.

"We met our expectations," he said. "Our goal was to finish midway in the conference, and we did."

"I tried to tell myself to run competitively," Cauffield said, "(because) Coach told us not to worry about time, but just to pass the runners ahead of us."

Coach Triplett said that his top-two runners, Courter and Norbutas, ran below par, "so it was nice to see (Cauffield, Hodnett and Trussell) fill those shoes. It was a real good team effort."

"I don't feel that happy about (the race)," Courter said. "I had high expectations about running a good time."

The youthful Lady Gauchos remained focused throughout the race against the older, more developed athletes from Irvine.

"What's nice about it is we see the potential for this team to get better," Coach Triplett remarked. "I think it's going to be a really bright future, and I think they've realized it. That's important about this team; this team has a lot of character. They're fighters, they don't give up, and they struggled out there today. Things weren't ideal going into this race, but they made it happen."

"I give a lot of credit to Dolan," said MacMillan. "He taught us how to run physiologically, keeping a pace. Dolan and Assistant Coach Jeff Jacobs helped us a lot. We started out really slow, the announcer wouldn't even acknowledge us, but it was an evenly paced race."

"It was the best race I ever ran," said sophomore Mike Brown (11th, 25:34). "I stuck to the race plan, that was the key. I was third-to-last at the one-mile mark, from there I relaxed until the second mile, then I took off and started passing people."

Brown was one runner from giving the Gauchos four members of the all-conference team. His 11th place finish helped UCSB (52 pts.) keep its distance from the Bulldogs (74 pts.) while keeping Irvine (41 pts.) in their sights.

That was a typical example of one guy coming up when we needed him," said Nyhan. "We all ran a really tough race."

Senior team captain Toby Freebourn, expected to finish with another one of his usually consistent good times, had an off race and came in 27th.

"Toby gave 100 percent," Brown said. "He wanted it more than anyone else. He was really pushing for all-conference."

son, the Gauchos (15-1-1, ranked 4th in the nation) combined stifling defense and timely goals to defeat Berkeley, 2-0.

"Everything was on the line," UCSB Head Coach Tad Bobak said. "(Berkeley) was overly aggressive. Everything worked against us, but everything that we have worked on all season for when we face adversity paid off. I'm very proud of the ladies' performance."

Freshman Phronsie Franco scored her 17th goal of the year in the 16th minute, taking a pass from Trisha Kimble and driving down the left side. Franco cut back, but the defender stayed with her. Franco was able to get the shot off, and with the defender screening goalkeeper Jennifer Netherwood, the ball hit Netherwood's hands and went into the left side.

Kimble struck for the Gauchos' second goal, scoring off a pass from Laurie Klein in the 43rd minute. The goal gave UCSB a 2-0 lead into halftime, a lead that proved to be insurmountable for the Bears (11-6-1) working against Santa Barbara's unrelenting defense.

UCSB defeated Hayward State, 4-0 on Sunday, sealing a #2 Far West ranking and a playoff berth. Maren Batchelor scored her first two goals of the season, and Franco and Kimble each added a score. The shutout was the 26th in Urich's career, putting her alone in first place on the all-time list.

"She's in her third year and she has played injured throughout those years," Bobak said. "She is focused when she steps out onto the playing field."

The Gauchos will learn today the specifics of their postseason plans.

Gaels, who now find themselves at 5-3 on the season. And according to Rogers, the thought of playing UCSB may have given his team an extra incentive to get back on the right track.

"We knew we had to get things together and we just came out here and did it," Rogers said. "This isn't a team that is just going to fall down when things get tough."

LOSS

ried the ball today, the way they were blocking, we could've put the offensive line in the back field and we would have had the same amount of yardage. They were determined all week that they were going to come out here and blow those guys off the ball and they knew what they wanted to do and they made it so easy for us."

The Gauchos' young defensive line was controlled by a St. Mary's O-line that did not tire during the second half despite having possession of the ball for 20:42.

"He's a good back; he runs hard," Candaele said. "It wasn't the back, (Rogers), it was their line that dominated us and knocked us off the ball, that was the big difference."

The Gauchos, who were coming off a bye the weekend before, were the first team to get on the board. They capped off their first drive with James Russell's record-breaking 52-yard field goal, at the 10:05 mark in the first half. Russell kicked a 50-yarder against Cal State Hayward earlier in the season which tied him with Todd Reynolds, who set the record last season against Cal Lutheran.

"When I came here they told me how good (Reynolds) was and I was trying my best," said Russell who transferred to UCSB from the College of San Mateo this year. "I played two years at a JC and I did pretty well there. ... Before here, my longest was 48. Once I kicked it, I knew it was long enough."

The Gaels retaliated on their next drive with Rogers scoring on a six-yard run, but Santa Barbara again took the lead for the final time as Gaucho quarterback Mike Curtius connected on a nine-yard pass to Johnny Ace with 13:28 left in the half. With his performance, Curtius, who completed 13-of-28 passes for 156 yards (1 TD, 2 ints), became the first Gaucho to surpass the 4,000-career-yards mark.

The record-breaking day, however, was overshadowed by UCSB's third home loss. The only winning effort this season for the Gauchos at Harder Stadium was their 31-27 comeback over Chico State on Sept. 22, which was guided by the defense's second-half intensity — a factor missing in Saturday's game.

"It's tough to come off of not playing two weeks, ... but I can't say that's an excuse for not playing well," UCSB cornerback Kurt Bomke said. "We've got a lot of work to do. We were playing good defense for a couple weeks, but this week we let down again, not to not give St. Mary's a lot of credit, they've got a good team."

WIN

Elliott, who has a Big West-leading 15 goals and 34 points. Ricky Villa is the top assist man for FSU with seven.

The most impressive aspect of the team is the defense, which, entering the weekend, had given up only one goal in almost 511 minutes. Overall, the Bulldogs have allowed 10 all season and only one in the first half. Goalkeeper Chris Kuhn has played every minute of every game and has a goals against average of .54, ranking him as one of the top-10 in the nation.

"It's kind of a bummer that it came down to this," said Gaucho fullback Brian McCrie last Friday. "It could have been wrapped up a long time ago, but this is where it's at. It's got to be done."
