Candidates for A.S. Leg Council Square Off for April Elections

By Veronica Skelton
Assistant Campus Editor

Campaigning for the upcoming campus-wide election officially began Monday, with candidate signs and pamphlets sprouting on lightposts, walls, windows and fences throughout campus and Isla Vista.

Among the items that students will vote on in the April 19-20 election is the selection of the 22 Associated Students Legislative Council positions. The council is comprised of the president, internal vice president, external vice president, five representatives at-large, ten off-campus representatives, three on-campus representatives and one Santa Ynez Apartments representative. Forty-four students are officially registered as seeking these positions.

Although students may seek positions as "write-in" candidates, only one student has declared that status so far.

Among the issues candidates are expected to address this quarter are gender and ethnic concerns in the classroom and in the campus climate, and the question of who should govern the University Center, according to A.S. External Vice President Carla Jimenez.

Those competing for positions generally put up posters, distribute flyers and buttons, place advertisements in the Daily Nexus, write letters to the newspaper and stage conferences, according to A.S. elections committee adviser Dulcie Sinn. The candidates are not under spending constraints, she added.

Jimenez believes the most popular candidates will be those who "appeal to all of the different minority groups, someone who the minority groups can trust to work for what they want."

To help spread their respective campaign messages, a noon forum organized by the A.S. election committee will be held on April 13 in Storke Plaza and written statements from those running will be published in the April 18 issue of the Nexus.

"I think dedication is the key thing. People who are running just for a resume are doing the student community a disservice.... You should also be open-minded (because) there are lots of different views on Leg Council," said On-Campus Representative David Lehr, who is running for internal vice president.

In addition to a new Leg Council, students will be voting on several measures in the election. The UCSB Child Care Center is asking for $1 per student per quarter, to be collected (See ELECTION, p.5)

ASK FOR WHO THE BELL TOLLS — Reminiscent of the "third" tardy bell in high schools throughout the country, UCSB's Storke Tower bells boom out their message every day at 10 minutes before the hour to remind UCSB faculty and students that class time is rapidly approaching.

Teachers Balloting for Chair

Senate Leader
to Be Chosen

By Patrick Whalen
News Editor

In an unusual turn of events, history Professor W. Elliot Brownlee and physics Professor James S. Langer are vying for the chair of UCSB's Academic Senate in a run-off election that will become final when ballots are counted April 8.

The run-off election was called when none of a record four candidates received a majority of the 450 votes cast by regular full-time faculty and professors emeritus in the initial election held in early March. That election showed a significant jump in the number of voters and was the first time more than two candidates sought the two-year post, according to current Chair A.E. Keir Nash.

Ballots from the voting faculty, which totals nearly 700, in the run-off election are due at noon on Friday, April 8, and will be counted in the Academic Senate office at 1 p.m. the same day. The new chair is scheduled to take office Sept. 1.

Run-off contests are common in the Committee on Committees election, a contest held in unison with the senate chair selection, but a run-off for the senate spot — which represents UCSB on the nine-member UC Academic Council and coordinates the creation of academic policy — has been virtually nonexistent, according to Nash.

"The reason is clear: the aftermath of changing chancellors

CHP Steps in to Enforce Bike Laws

Injury Spurs Crackdown on Illegal Cycling

By Chris Ziegler
Assistant County Editor

In response to community outrage at the bicycle-related injury of an elderly Isla Vista resident, the California Highway Patrol has stepped up enforcement of bicycle traffic laws in Isla Vista.

CHP officials began assigning as many as four additional patrol units to the area in mid-March to stem the number of bicyclists who violate traffic laws, according to CHP Public Affairs Officer Tom Campbell. These violations include bicycling on sidewalks and failing to obey stop signs and traffic signals, Campbell said.

The CHP is involved because I.V. and other unincorporated areas of California are under its jurisdiction, CHP traffic officer Karen Barrows explained.

The extra enforcement is a result of an accident in which a 91-year-old resident of Friendship Manor retirement home on El Colegio was struck by a bicyclist riding

Increased enforcement of bicycle traffic regulations will continue "as long as (the CHP) have the manpower to assign it, until we see results."

Karen Barrows

illegally on the sidewalk in front of the residence, Campbell said. The man suffered a chipped hipbone and is undergoing physical therapy to regain his walking ability.

"His life is ruined, he will never recover totally from (the accident). He doesn't have enough time," Campbell said.

After the accident, community members applied pressure on local police to enforce a Santa Barbara County ordinance that prohibits bicycle riding on sidewalks, Isla Vista Foot Patrol Sgt. Jim Drinkwater said.

Bicyclists caught riding on the sidewalk will be cited for an infraction and fined approximately $15, he said.

The increased enforcement of bicycle traffic regulations will continue "as long as (the CHP) have the manpower to assign it, until we see results," Barrows said. "There are so many bicyclists and so many blatant violations."

According to Campbell, in one day during Winter Quarter finals week, CHP officers issued more than 100 citations in I.V. "We're taking a real hard line on (traffic violations)," Campbell said.

The Foot Patrol has chosen to pursue a more selective course of enforcement, according to Drinkwater. During the last three months, Foot Patrol officers have issued fewer than a dozen tickets to bicyclists, mainly for riding on the sidewalk near Friendship Manor, Drinkwater said. "We've been selectively enforcing the ordinance."

Although both the CHP and the Foot Patrol issue citations to bicyclists, the recent efforts have not been a joint project and the CHP did not inform the Foot Patrol of the project, according to Drinkwater. "I had no idea they (See BIKES, p.7)

Panama Police Break Up Anti-Noriega Protest with Tear Gas

PANAMA CITY, Panama — Police and soldiers using shotguns, rubber truncheons and tear gas broke up a march Monday by thousands of opponents of Panama's strongman, Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

Meanwhile, a general strike that has closed down an estimated 90 percent of Panama's industry and commerce entered its second week.

Ignoring an order to disperse, a crowd of more than 10,000 cheering people began walking toward the capital's central business district Monday afternoon.

Minutes later, a tanker truck equipped with a turret over the cab sped through the line of the march, spraying hundreds of people with a choking mixture of chemicals that sent them fleeing into side streets.

Israel Closes the Arab-occupied Territories in Broad Clampdown

JERUSALEM — The Israeli army on Monday imposed its broadest clampdown yet on the 1.5 million Palestinians living in the occupied territories, sealing the regions for three days to combat a PLO day of protest.

The army also announced it was barring journalists from the territories for the first time in the four months of unrest that have left 119 Palestinians and one Israeli soldier dead.

Under the measure, the 650,000 Arabs in Gaza will be banned from leaving their homes, while the 850,000 Palestinians on the West Bank will be confined to their villages and towns, the army said.

The restrictions also bar Palestinians from crossing the two bridges over the Jordan River, the army said. Incoming traffic from Jordan will be permitted, however. The orders also forbid Palestinians living in the territories from entering Israel, affecting about 110,000 Arab workers.

The 65,000 Jewish settlers who live in the occupied territories will, however, be permitted to move freely.

Sandinistas, Contras Begin Talks for Location of Cease-Fire Zone

SAPOA, Nicaragua — Fresh from signing their unexpected peace agreement in this border outpost last week, Sandinista and Contra negotiators gathered here Monday to work out details for a 60-day cease-fire.

Negotiators aimed to determine the areas where rebel fighters will gather during the cease-fire, outlined in the accord signed Wednesday night.

The delegation from the leftist government, led by Maj. Gen. Joaquin Cuadra, deputy defense minister and chief of staff of the Sandinista army, arrived first.

Plan to Demolish Old Synagogue in Hong Kong Spurs Controversy

HONG KONG — The imminent demolition of Hong Kong's 86-year-old synagogue to make way for high-rise apartments has split the Jewish community and enraged preservationists.

A group of local Jews has sought the help of rabbis in Israel and Britain to save the synagogue and joined last-ditch efforts to go to court to stop the wrecker's ball.

"I'm sorry that it has become such a controversial issue. I never imagined that it would," said Robert Dorfman, chairman of the committee that manages the day-to-day affairs of Ohel Leah Synagogue's 230-family congregation, which includes 23 different nationalities.

Ohel Leah has been the center of Jewish life in this British colony since 1902. It was built by Sir Jacob Sassoon, an Iraqi Jew who came to Hong Kong from Shanghai.

Happy U.S. Paratroopers Return from Honduras Amid Celebration

FORT BRAGG, N.C. — The first American troops to return from a training mission in Honduras to counter a Nicaraguan advance earlier this month parachuted into their home base Monday amid cheers of relatives and friends.

An estimated 800 soldiers dropped into the Sicily Drop Zone at Fort Bragg, home of the 82nd Airborne Division, at about 5 p.m. They were met by a military band and commanding generals from the base.

Earlier in the day, the troops from the 72nd Airborne whistled as they boarded seven C-141 transports for the United States.

"It's great to be going home," said Sgt. Dale Taylor, 22, of Red Springs, N.C. "It's going to be a sis-boom-bah occasion."

The paratroopers are part of a force rushed to Honduras on March 17 for training exercises to flex U.S. military muscle after a reported incursion by about 2,000 Nicaraguan troops chasing U.S.-supported Contra rebels.

Walsh Reaches Agreement with Israel on Iran-Contra Scandal

WASHINGTON — Independent Counsel Lawrence Walsh has reached an agreement with Israel after year-long negotiations for its cooperation in his investigation of the Iran-Contra affair, both sides announced Monday.

Under the accord, Israel has given Walsh the historical and financial chronologies covering its role in the shipment of U.S. weapons to Iran in 1985 and 1986.

"He (Walsh) will get what he wants without us having to give up what he wanted," said one official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Israel had sought immunity from prosecution for the four key Israeli players in the arms sales, profits from which were diverted to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

Two former White House aides and two U.S. businessmen have been indicted in the United States for conspiracy to defraud the government in the funds' diversion.

Reagans Sign Lease for New Home in Bel Air Section of L.A.

WASHINGTON — President Reagan and his wife have decided on a Los Angeles home to live in after the president leaves office in January but will lease, rather than buy, the $2.5 million estate, the White House said Monday.

Elaine Crispin, press secretary to first lady Nancy Reagan, said the Reagans signed a lease and mailed it within the last 10 days. The estate in the luxurious Bel Air district is owned by Wall Management Services, a group of about 20 friends of the Reagans who bought it with them in mind.

The three-year agreement gives the Reagans the option to renew the lease or purchase the property. The estate includes 1¼ acres of grounds and a secluded house with 6,500 feet of living space and a pool.

Anti-Koch Editorials Continue, 110 Articles Call for Resignation

NEW YORK — On Feb. 15, 1986, the Amsterdam News printed a front-page editorial calling upon Mayor Edward I. Koch to resign. Koch ignored it.

He also ignored the next week's editorial, and the one after that. He has now ignored 110 consecutive editorials on the front page of New York broadside demanding that he leave office.

"Mr. Koch is incredible. Every week he gives me something new, something outrageous, something wrong" to write about, says Wilbert A. Tatum, author of the editorials and editor in chief of the 40,000-circulation weekly.

Tortured Prisoner Faces Buenos Aires Ex-general in Court Room

SAN FRANCISCO — A former Argentine prisoner on Monday faced the ex-general he called the "lord of death and life" and described years of imprisonment and torture in testimony for his $10 million lawsuit.

"They laid me down on a table," said Horacio Martinez-Baca. "They tied my arms and legs. They put electric shocks on my genitals and my gums, and they asked who were my friends."

The 90-minute session occurred about a month after he was arrested in March 1976, six days after a military coup in Argentina, and was repeated several times before his release in April 1980, Martinez-Baca said. There were also beatings, freezing showers, death threats, and "probably the worst torture," solitary confinement in an unheated, windowless cell for days at a time.

A few yards away at a courtroom table sat Carlos Suarez Mason, 64, who as commander of the First Army Corps in Buenos Aires oversaw the military prisons in which Martinez-Baca was held.

Feminist Attorney Steamed at Friar Club, Asks State for Help

SANTA MONICA — Feminist attorney Gloria Allred, the first female member in the Friars Club of Beverly Hills, filed a sex discrimination complaint Monday because she is being denied use of its health club facility.

"I pay the same dues as the men, but I'm being denied the use of the health club on any basis whatsoever," Allred said. "Obviously, such second-class citizenship within the club could deter many women from joining."

"The fight for women's equality will not end until women are permitted both in the board rooms and the steam rooms."

Allred's complaint against Friars Club of California was filed Monday with the state Board of Equalization, and board member Conway Collis said a ruling in her favor could be costly.

Budweiser Tops 10 Largest Beer Producers Again, Beats Others

SAN FRANCISCO — Budweiser, the world's largest-selling beer, again had the lion's share of the U.S. beer market last year, with Bud increasing its sales by 2.6 percent among the top 10 domestic suds producers, it was reported Monday.

Industry sources say the total market and population indicates Americans are drinking about the same amount of beer they have been for several years, between 24 and 26 gallons per capita.

The industry, while basically flat, rose 2.2 percent in 1987 on the strength of Bud's 3.1 percent improvement of its four brands, said the trade publication Impact, whose statistics were a month ahead of the government's. Overall beer volume was pegged basically flat at 186.7 million barrels.

Correction

A front-page story in yesterday's Nexus about new Vice Chancellor David N. Sheldon contained three errors. First, UCSB's operating budget is about $235 million per year, not $46 million as reported. Second, Chris Ferdinandson was manager of operations and maintenance at the Facilities Management department, not its head. Third, Sheldon's title at UC Irvine is associate vice chancellor for administrative and business services, not vice chancellor for administrative and business services. The Daily Nexus regrets these errors.

$500,000 Would Upgrade Recreational Sites

Proposed Bond Could Raise Taxes

By Penny Schulte
Assistant County Editor

Fearful of a hike in property taxes and a mismanagement of funds, members of the Isla Vista community are urging voters to defeat Proposition A, a proposed $500,000 bond to be on a June county election ballot that would allow the Isla Vista Recreation and Park District to buy open space and improve already acquired land.

If passed, the bond would collect $.37 per $100 of assessed property value per year from owners for the first year, with the rate decreasing each proceeding year, according to IVRPD general manager Glenn Lazof. "For instance, a $100,000 building would pay $37 in taxes the first year toward the bond," Lazof said.

Assuming that landlords will pass the extra expense on to the renter, the average apartment in a five-unit building would have a tax increase of $1.23 per month in the highest year.

Those opposing the measure feel that the IVRPD has enough land. "Most citizens of I.V. do not live far from the surrounding open space and their use of the IVRPD parks is minimal," according to the argument against Proposition A provided by the county. "Consequently, they get little benefit for their park taxes," it states.

Some of those opposing the proposition accuse the IVRPD of being a massive bureaucracy trying to wage tremendous purchasing power. "The IVRPD consider themselves the political organization of I.V.," property owner Nigel Buxton said. "Why should your rent increase because the park district wants to buy land?"

Buxton claims that 10 percent of his tax bill currently goes to the IVRPD. "I agree with the premise that land should be left alone, but there are alternative ways of securing it," he added.

Leo Jacobson, citizen activist and I.V. resident, also believes that open space is a "proper community concern," but urges people to vote against the proposition. "Let it (Proposition A) come up again in November when some candidates for the Park Board — which hasn't had a contested election in years — can tell us their intentions," Jacobson said.

Jacobson charges that the IVRPD is employing a "piecemeal" accumulation of land by separating the bond measures. "Step one was a quarter-million dollar benefit assessment made in the dead of last summer without any voter approval," Jacobson said.

According to the IVRPD staff report, the assessment includes funding for park maintenance, new play equipment and new irrigation. This tax year the assessment was $30 per household and $.15 per square foot for commercial properties. Measure B, also on the June ballot, asks property owners to continue to give the IVRPD the option to tax them for park maintenance and improvements.

Jacobson concluded that step two — Proposition A — will be followed by step three, a recreational facility bond in November.

Lazof recalled that the board was asked by the community to separate the measure so that voters could decide on the measures independently. "Each voter should evaluate whether the proposed measures are worth another couple of dollars a month," Lazof said.

The IVRPD has three intentions for the use of the open space bond money if passed, Lazof said. First, the IVRPD wants to purchase the "Texaco" property on the corner of El Colegio Road and Camino Corto in a joint venture with the county.

Second, the IVRPD would like to develop "Greek Park," an empty lot on the corner of Segovia Road and Embarcadero del Mar Road. And finally, the IVRPD wants to obtain water meters for the parks. "As it is, only two of the 17 district parks have water," Lazof said.

SENATE

(from Robert Huttenback to Barbara Uehling) and getting a new start is an important period and many people are now inspired to get involved," said Nash, who has been chair for three years and also served as vice chair.

Langer tallied 146 votes to Brownlee's 130 in the first election. Political science Professor Stanley Anderson came in third with 109 votes, and education Professor Norman J. Boyan, a former senate vice chair, finished fourth with 48. Two hundred and twenty-six votes are needed to capture the position. There were 17 abstentions.

Physics Professor Raymond Sawyer and senior chemistry Lecturer Paula Bruice were selected to the Committee on Committees, an influential body that presides over membership in the more than 20 Academic Senate committees, including the Committee on Academic Personnel and the Committee on Educational Policy and Academic Planning. Chemistry Professor Bruce Rickborn and chemical and nuclear engineering Professor Owen Hanna are competing for the third position in the run-off contest.

Langer, Brownlee and Nash agreed that whoever assumes the chair post will need to grapple with a wide range of crucial issues at the current stage of UCSB development.

"First of all, the question of UCSB's position in the UC system must be addressed," said Nash, who will resume full-time his teaching and research posts in the political science department when he steps down from the chair. "The question of (the university's) adeptness in the Academic Council and its alertness to major issues are at a very important point History Professor W. Elliot Brownlee, who is currently in Washington, D.C. researching material for a book on taxation in America, finished a close second to physics Professor James Langer in the Academic Senate election early in March. Because of a lack of a majority, Langer and Brownlee are competing in a run-off election, the results of which will be known April 8.

right now.... (And) the issues of an ethnicity requirement, a racial policy and various budgetary considerations are also in important stages."

Brownlee, reached in Washington, D.C. at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars where as a fellow he is doing research for a book on taxation in America, said that keeping the faculty closely linked to the machinations of the campus would be his primary goal if elected.

"Regardless of who wins, the next chair will be concerned about maintaining the central involvement of the Academic Senate on issues of research and teaching," he said. "A central concern is that research and teaching be accorded the room that they should, yet still retain a pragmatic balance ... between spending to keep the natural sciences and engineering at a level they should be at a UC campus and still giving attention to the humanities and social sciences.

"And whoever gets the chair should also make certain the campus is running in full respect to the principles of shared governance" with the administration and student body, Brownlee added.

Langer, who recently returned to UCSB from teaching and speaking engagements overseas, served for several years in the Faculty Senate at the Carnegie-Mellon Institute in New York. He also believes that a "faculty share" in campus governance is an imperative.

"(The Academic Senate) has tremendous responsibilities that need to be discharged responsibly and efficiently to provide quality services statewide and nationally.

"If elected, I'm not going into this with an agenda to affirm," he said. "There's no lack of important issues to be considered here."

A proposal from former Senate Vice Chair Richard

Flacks, a sociology professor who resigned his post in January, states that the chair-elect assume the vice chair following the election to acquaint himself with Senate policy. However, the proposal has not been officially accepted by the Senate, and if Brownlee were chosen, he could not take over the vice chair since his fellowship in Washington, D.C. lasts through the spring.

The chair of the Academic Senate is a paid position on par with the salary of a department head, but according to Nash, "the money is not worth the headaches."

Nash said a typical week as chair involves 30 hours of work, including preparation for and attendance at the 14 annual meetings of the systemwide Academic Council. But, he added, "(Brownlee and Langer) are smarter than I am. Whichever one of them gets the spot will probably be able to do the job quicker than that.... It's a heck of a job."

Do You Thrive Under Deadline Pressure?

The students at the Daily Nexus do. And they are currently looking for news reporters, photographers, columnists and feature writers to assist them in meeting these deadlines.

That's right the Nexus is hiring student employees for Spring Quarter posts. And the application deadline is rapidly approaching. Briefly, each post offers a chance to learn the inner workings of a daily newspaper, whether you're covering the trial of former Chancellor Bob Huttenback and his wife, snapping photos of drug dealers in action (something the Nexus will never do) or presenting new insights into how your fellow students cope with the rigors of Isla Vista living.

If this appeals to you (and we wrote it so it should), applications can be picked up at the Nexus offices under Storke Tower from our friendly and helpful receptionists. Once completed, turn in news writing applications to that friendly receptionist.

So move now, before this valuable offer slips away. In fact, come by today. Any questions about staff positions at the Nexus can be directed to Editor In Chief Steve Elzer.

ELECTION

and administered through A.S. to support their programs.

The UCSB Recreational Sports Program has placed a measure on the ballot that would require students to pay $5 per quarter to fund intramural sports and club sports and increased student recreational facilities.

Also, a Storke Communications personnel measure is anticipated to be on the ballot.

Proposals to expand the UCen and build a recreational/sports center have been suspended by Chancellor Barbara Uehling, who cited a lack of planning as the cause. An advisory vote for the two measures was held last quarter during a special election, but low voter turnout prompted officials to reject them.

Initial Studies From Mexico Show Less Than Aggressive 'Killer Bees'

By Deborah Blum
McClatchy News Service

SACRAMENTO — The first wave of Africanized honey bees — the so-called "killer bees" — has arrived in Mexico. And it's a wash.

"Pussycats," complained entomologist Alfred Dietz to his colleagues, after spending weeks in the southern provinces of Mexico, scrabbling through bee hives and provoking barely a sting.

Dietz, a bee specialist from the University of Georgia, is working with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, trying to stop, or at least slow, the advance of the Africanized bees from South America into the United States. The bees, known for dangerously short tempers, are expected to reach Texas by mid-1989.

"So, I was very much surprised," Dietz said in a telephone interview. "The so-called Africanized bees are extremely gentle. I've been working in my shirt sleeves, opening up hives — that's definitely not something you can do in South America."

He described himself as baffled by the easy-going nature of the bees, despite their Africanized appearance, smaller and darker than the common honeybees. It's possible that the aggressive strain of bees has been diluted through interbreeding, Dietz said. Laboratory analysis tends to also suggest that. But it's far too soon to tell, he stressed.

The uncertainty — and confusion — is echoed throughout the scientific community.

"If he says these look like Africanized bees, they probably are," said Robert Page, a honey-bee population geneticist from Ohio State University. "But I can't explain the behavior. I've worked with those bees in Venezuela. And they are not nice — not fun to work with."

The U.S. Agriculture Department, which has committed at least $7 million to making a stand against the bees in Mexico, takes the position that the first Africanized bees are not the real thing. They are more probably hybrids, children of Africanized and the common European honey bees used in commercial breeding.

USDA specialists argue that the Mexico pattern is typical: The hybrids arrive first, essentially on the outer edge of the wave, where the more scattered Africanized populations have mingled with the natives. About a year later, the pure Africanized bees arrive — and then the trouble starts.

"It's too early to make a judgment," said USDA spokesperson Janet Evans. "The research is still coming in. And we're going to continue with our work in Mexico. It's our responsibility to try to do something."

The agriculture department, working with the Mexican government, plans to trap, kill and actively interfere with the bees' northward progress along both an eastern corridor, near Veracruz, and a western pathway, close to Tapachula.

After all, there's no bee with a worse reputation than the Africanized honey bee, accidentally released from a research laboratory in Brazil about 30 years ago. To start with, the bees are poor honey producers. But, more to the point, they are extraordinarily aggressive — boiling out of their hives at the first hint of disturbance, pursuing unwary intruders for hundreds of yards.

Africanized bees are blamed for some 300 deaths in Latin America, including a University of Miami student who stumbled over a hive in Costa Rica, and suffered 46 stings per square inch over his body. It's a public-health picture that spells disaster for American beekeepers — and for growers who rely on the docile European honeybee or reclusive American wild bees — to pollinate their crops.

That is the picture Dietz expected to see in southern Mexico, where the states of Tabasco and Chiapas provinces border Guatemala. Instead, "I've yet to find a nasty colony in Mexico," he said, despite the presence of bees with the streamlined Africanized appearances.

"I think we can draw two main conclusions," he said. "Either we've already won the battle and dilution has taken place. Or we need to revise our methods of identifying Africanized bees. In Venezuela and Panama, the bees are very aggressive. Why should they suddenly change in Mexico?"

Keith Smith, a chemist with the Georgia Department of Agriculture, said that a genetic study of the bees suggests some answers. Smith and his colleagues have analyzed thousands of bees from colonies, from Brazil to Mexico. So far, their results suggest that as the bees have moved northward, steadily mingling with native bees, the hostile African characteristics may have been thinned out.

"We do see dilution," Smith said. "The bees back in Brazil and French Guinea show far more African characteristics in (See KILLERS, p.7)

(the CHP) were coming," he said. Student reaction has been mixed to the increased enforcement. "I didn't know the cops were making a special effort to ticket bikes, but I know a lot of people don't care about traffic laws in I.V., so it's probably a good idea," sophomore Kelli Winkle said.

However, some believe the CHP's recent actions in I.V. are unnecessary. "It's easier for a car to stop at a stop sign," sophomore and I.V. resident Stephanie Alting-Mees said. "You still should be cautious, but ... it just keeps the flow of traffic if the bikes keep going."

Nick Fuentes, a freshman and Santa Rosa Residence Hall resident, agreed. "I think that the police should find better things to do with their time, like protect I.V. residents," he said.

their hydrocarbons (components in the wax) than the Mexican ones do. It's a little bit suggestive that maybe we're actually seeing a change. It's still early to tell."

He and other emphasize Africanized bees are newcomers in Mexico, detected only a few months ago. By some accounts, it can take two or even three years before a concentration of the so-called killer bees establishes itself.

"We may be jumping the gun, based on some very shaky data," said Norman Gary, a professor of entomology with the University of California Davis. "These bees don't show their true colors for several years. I'm concerned that we are moving much too fast."

Still, Orley Taylor, an entomology professor at the University of Kansas, said he thinks that if aggressive Africanized bees establish themselves in Mexico, they will have harder going in the United States, where huge populations of both managed and wild bees exist.

In eastern Texas, for instance, where the first invasion is expected to occur, Taylor estimated that there are some 600,000 colonies of managed bees and up to 1.5 million wild bees, which could offer strong competition to the Africanized bees and considerably dilute the aggressive strain.

Like Dietz, Taylor also has observed mellow behavior of Africanized bees in southern Mexico. He and colleagues have "literally pawed through hives" containing the small bees, he said, suffering little more than a few stings on bare fingers. But Taylor said he thinks that's a short-lived blessing.

He argued that the first Africanized bees to arrive in a region are usually gentle and far more interested in building a base than in defending their territory. The deadly swarms come later, he said, as the bees become established.

"Once a colony has invested a lot of resources, its behavior changes," Taylor said. "Sure, the new swarms are pussycats. But they have a different priority. It's going to change."

Vanunu's No-No

Editorial

What everyone suspected for years has now been confirmed by innuendo. Israel possesses and produces nuclear weapons.

On Sunday, an Israeli tribunal sentenced former nuclear technician Mordechai Vanunu to 18 years in prison for treason and espionage after he disclosed Israel's ultraclandestine nuclear capabilities to a British newspaper.

For the last seven months, international attention has been focused on the trial, which was held behind closed doors. Now, the verdict is in and it implies that Vanunu told the truth when he claimed that Israel had stockpiled hundreds of nuclear bombs and was busy building more.

In his home country, Vanunu is viewed by many as a traitor, but elsewhere he is labeled a moral martyr. A self-proclaimed "spy for the common man," Vanunu, a 10-year employee of the nuclear facility, said he leaked the sensitive data because he did not believe Israel's parliament was fully aware of the activities in its top-secret nuclear lab and he was morally opposed to nuclear warfare.

When he spoke his piece to the press, he assumedly contemplated the potential for his future. The risks associated with his revelations must have been calculated, up to a point. But did he count on the Israeli secret police, the Mossad, to drug, kidnap and take him back to his homeland to stand trial? Probably not.

Ever since Israel became a state, it has been attacked and on the attack. It is a country with a strong inbred sense of justice and it has aggressively pursued its national security interests beyond its geographic boundaries. But abducting a suspect in another country so that a trial may be held is a proposition that can't be condoned and is antithetical to American notions of civil rights.

Obviously Israel is not obligated to abide by our laws and there is little doubt that technically Vanunu's conduct was treasonous. But there were no diplomatic efforts to extradite their suspect. Israel, in the name of justice, was overzealous in its mission to get its man.

Israel desires to be recognized by the world community as a rational and viable democracy. The United States supports its sovereignty, as do other powerful countries. But how is Israel to be viewed in the face of a growing list of civil rights violations?

In America, our nuclear machine is common knowledge and any hidden nuclear threat is perceived as suspect. We expect to know the nuclear capabilities of other countries; especially an ally as close as Israel. The rationale follows that ultimately, knowledge helps preserve the balance of power and we all have a vested interest in keeping check on who can annihilate whom.

Our relatively unrestrained quest for openness in government is our greatest strength and vulnerability. Various media have published reams of sensitive and classified information throughout history. Now, with Vanunu's help, it has substantiated Israel's position as the sixth-largest nuclear might in the world.

The disclosure makes an already complicated situation in the Middle East even more complex. But now that the facts are semi-available, the United States can and should pressure Israel to reduce its nuclear war chest. Israel does not need hundreds of bombs to protect itself and Congress should demand a verifiable decrease before engaging in any further assistance to this vital ally.

Saving the NY Post

View from the High End of the Season

Hunter S. Thompson

To: William Randolph Hearst III
From: Dr. Hunter S. Thompson
Subject: The future of journalism
Dear Will:

Here is an idea: We should buy the New York Post. Those pigs Murdoch and Kalikow have already devalued a million, and if Kalikow now tries to kill the paper and sell it just another real-estate property in lower NYC, we can guarantee his name will stink in history and his children will wallow in it. I'd be treated in school the same way Evan Mecham's children were during his time of ugliness and relentless humiliation in the news. This would, of course, be compounded by a factor of nine in the shyster who bought and sold the nation's oldest newspaper (Alexander Hamilton) to some tugboat captain from Staten Island to tow it off on a garbage scow and dump it somewhere to the west, maybe a huge black hole in the Virgin Passage (actually, the Rican Trench at a point just north of Hispaniola — 8,648 miles from the point in the Atlantic Ocean) which was once called "The Deep," and the dock rats looking for work in St. Thomas always 45,000 feet deep ... who knows?

Anyway, it is plenty deep enough to bury a newspaper. Look, I did just to polish the Statue of Liberty, which is really just a French gimcrack compared to the New York Post, which is a living monument to the First Amendment, and Kalikow plans to just about what it would cost him to buy a mid-size townhouse.

If the media are so goddamn POWERFUL, like they say, we can't keep these greedheads from buying and selling the animals?

In fact, we represent one of the most consistently honorable professions in the history of modern man. Hell, at least we claim to stand for something. What other profession dares to claim that as a primary responsibility? Lawyers? Doctors? Priests? Stockbrokers? Senators? I mean, George Bush?

No, Will, we are alone on this end of the seesaw and I don't know if you, but personally I can't feel real smart when I'm sitting here and looking straight down that long green board at a group of people who are sitting down there with their Gucci-wrapped brains.

Yeah, that's how seesaws work: And if Dumb is Heavy and Light, this is truly a Generation of Swine.... The exact reverse of the balance that existed in 1776, or even 1960. If you've seen down crooked governments and crush Bad Guys all over the world, monstrous crooks like Nixon and Marcos and Papa Doc and Idi Amin and that Nazi bastard who used to run the U.N. in Austria, and if we can beat Evan Mecham and J. Edgar Hoover, a worldwide legend of Martin Luther King and work consistently and ends and notions and causes like turning the whole world around in the eyes of the world, simply by putting it on TV and making lonely bastards like Loren Jenkins with a Pulitzer Prize because the truth about Israeli brutality a long time ago ... and if we can make Woodward and Bernstein national heroes instead of the yo-yos and the president and the White House and all those dumb bastards

With the B

The Politburo of the Soviet Communist Party did something remarkable recently. It admitted publicly that Nikolai Bukharin and 19 others murdered by Stalin in 1938 were innocent. The party's action suggests that maybe, just maybe, Bukharin was right, and that Stalin was not just a man who made mistakes, but a murderous neurotic whose policies were flawed from their inception.

Who was Nikolai Bukharin? Most of us have never heard of him because he was one of history's losers, and history seldom treats a loser with kindness, especially when he is right. Bukharin was right, and that's why Stalin murdered him.

The attempt to recover Bukharin's political program is something like the search for the Maltese Falcon. Stalin made sure that those documents giving Bukharin's side of the story were either destroyed or placed under lock and key. Those papers remain in a basement vault of the KGB. We may hope that they will be released soon.

Until then, we are forced to reconstruct Bukharin's ideas from two sources. One is Stalin's tirade against him at a party debate held in the late 1920s. Stalin commanded that his own illiterate nonsense be printed and distributed in millions of hard-bound editions. At the same time, he tried to send Bukharin's ideas down the memory hole.

Another source is the transcript of Bukharin's show trial. Stalin made it available in order to prove to the world that Bukharin was a Nazi secret agent, a charge so stupid and ridiculous that it would not have held up without the formal collaboration of the defendant. The dictator

Anyway, I think we should buy the Post.... As a matter of fact, I am going to send Kalikow a telegram today, offering to buy it immediately for $1 million more than he paid for it. I will tell him I represent a consortium of powerful journalists who can turn him into a national monster in the history books, worse than Charles Manson or even Fatty Arbuckle.

I won't mention any names except mine and Bill Kennedy's and maybe yours and Jann's and Nicholson's and Armand Hammer's and George Plimpton's in my initial telegram/offer ... but I will sure as hell get it in the big-time gossip columns and on CNN and in the Boston Globe, and I will frame it in language so elegant and so noble that you will have a hard time dismissing it or denying it when the N.Y. Times calls.

If the Post is worth what Kalikow is paying for it, it will be worth that (on the real estate market) two years from now, or even five. All we have to do is shame Kalikow into selling it to us for a small profit that we will allow him to claim as a huge profit, so his peers can admire him for his preterhuman greed, and the rest of the world (and history) can admire him for the 100-foot-tall bronze statue of him with the SWORD OF TRUTH in his hand that we will erect in front of a pedestal in a fine little green park that we will create in front of the Post Building even if we have to rip out a chunk of that ugly lobby.

He will go for it, I think. He is rich and he doesn't need the money. And he doesn't need his name tarred and feathered in history as one of the worst scumbags of his time — along with Spiro Agnew and Ivan Boesky and the Dirty Little Coward Who Shot Mr. Howard and William Zan Zinger, that wretched pig from the Eastern Shore of Maryland who beat Hattie Carol to death with a cane.

We don't need this paper, we just want it. We need a place to relax and mingle with our own kind.

This lame notion that journalism can't make money is absurd on its face. We know better. Our riches will flow like heavyweight motorcycle grease. Sic semper tyrannis.

Blood of Martyrs

renched a confession out of Bukharin by peping him in isolation for a full year, subjecting him to all-night interrogations and brutal physical torture.

Yet, the transcripts show a man who, for all of s sufferings, was still in possession of his culties. Bukharin used this macabre puppet now as a final chance to have the last word in e battle with his tormentors. One has to read etween the lines to get the message. The anscripts reveal a gentle, educated man, locked subtle combat with a bureaucratic moron amed Andrei Vishinsky, later to be honored as st Soviet ambassador to the United Nations.

The political program for which Bukharin was rested, tortured, humiliated, and shot looks nderfully sensible in the light of history. He posed the forced collectivization of the Soviet asantry and favored instead a policy that couraged family farms. He opposed a blind sh into heavy industry, saying that the Soviet nion should instead concentrate on light in-stry, trade with the West, accumulate foreign erves, and invest in gradual modernization.

If this sounds familiar, it's because it is, in important respects, the policy of state pitalism that has been used to such good effect
the Newly Industrialized Countries (NICs);
e ones that now keep American businessmen
wake at night.

We should care about Bukharin for several asons. If nothing else, he was a man of icated belief and gentle sensibility. A man o, for all of his troubles, was taken down into a rk basement by his comrades and shot in the ck of the head with a small pistol. Another ason is that, if his program had been followed, as of millions of Soviet workers, peasants, and arty members would not have been starved, ordered and worked to death in pursuit of Stalin's insane delusions.

We in the West may have much to learn from a dead, forgotten Communist. Machiavelli would surely have said that a man like Bukharin was a fool. He had the temerity to openly say what he believed in a state that was already a dictatorship, and to hope that he could engage a creature like Stalin in open, reasoned debate. On that count maybe he was a little silly.

Yet, Bukharin also tried to show, with great erudition, that a impoverished country can strive for economic development, and still have a humane government that cares for the welfare of its working people. Such a program threatened Stalin to such an extent that he had to kill its creator and the millions who would have supported it. Stalin simply couldn't handle a man like Bukharin. Can we?

There is a tradition in Roman Catholicism known as "the blood of the martyrs." I was taught as a child that those who die for their faith have watered the ground with their blood for the sake of future generations. Tragically, the faithful are killed by bishops as well as em-perors, and in inquisitions as well as in pagan games.

When I think of Nikolai Bukharin, trapped alone in his cell, waiting to die, I find some comfort in the thought that perhaps his blood watered the ground for the transition of a gentler, more humane social system in the Soviet Union. Now that the Communist Party has admitted that Bukharin was a man of character, perhaps they will also admit that he was a man of ideas.

Who knows? Maybe they'll implement some of them.

The Reader's Voice

Congrats For Pimm

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Dear Coach Pimm:

Congratulations! In the short time you've been here at UCSB you have recruited and developed some great players. You have consistently shown an ability to play whatever team you are given to a higher league standing than expected. Once again this year, "insiders" said you had no inside game; however, your front line has demonstrated its ability to crash the boards and "post" the first 20-win season for UC Santa Barbara since 1970-71.

Even the "basketball genius" from ESPN, Dick Vitale, has admitted, "Ya won me, I'm a believer." (Geeeee..., THANK DICK.)

But my point is, if you and Stan Morrison continue to attract better and better high school recruits, the dream of a top-20 team would become a consistent reality. I mean, we're talking some serious recognition coming your way! Who knows, maybe you'll bring the NCAA trophy back to where it belongs, THE WEST COAST. But this time it won't be in a smoggy metropolis, it will be on the beach where it and the whole NCAA tourney will get a breath of fresh ocean air.

Don't Close the Heart

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I am writing in response to the letter by R.D. Schilling entitled "Student Evangelists" (2/29).

Mr. Schilling, I am very sorry you have had such a bad experience with these Christians. I would have reacted very similarly to their rudeness. But Mr. Schilling and everyone else, please don't let a few bad experiences close your heart to Christianity altogether.

I am myself a student evangelist but I have learned a very different approach. When my sharing partner and I approach a person, we do so with the intention of sharing what the Bible has to say about life, death, and Jesus Christ and to share what Christ has done in our own lives. We ask if we can have a few moments to share with him a four-point outline of the New Testament. If he says no, we try to leave the outline with him and if he refuses, we leave. That simple. We are not pushy or rude, since that will only close his heart to Christ forever. Instead we do as the Apostle Peter has said, "But in your hearts set apart Christ as Lord. Always be prepared to give an answer to everyone who asks you to give the reason for the hope that you have. But do this with gentleness and respect, keeping a clear conscience, so that those who speak maliciously against your good behavior in Christ may be ashamed of their slander" (I Peter 3:15,16).

The reason that we evangelize at all is that the Bible has commanded us to do so and that we know the very real effect that Christ had had on our lives and we wish to share that with others. But we know that we can't convert people; only God can do that.

So I urge you, Mr. Schilling, and everyone else on this campus, that if you are approached by someone who wants to share his or her faith in Christ with you, listen to what he or she has to say and think about it. You can always reject it later, but at least learn who Christ is, what he says, and how to receive Him. It could change your life for the better.

America's Responsibility

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I have a few comments I'd like to make that might help clear up some thoughts in the minds of the increasing number of complacent people in our society. In particular, I address Mr. Thomas Purcell, who in his letter to the editor on March 2, had taken it upon himself to suggest that in order to solve the world's problems, the world should be left to run exactly as it wishes. I agree completely; unfortunately, I believe that Mr. Purcell has an extremely limited view of what it is that the world wants.

I believe that what the people of the world want is to be free to do whatever it is that they choose to do. I'd like to ask Mr. Purcell if he has ever had the chance to experience life outside our country? Has he ever been to Central or South America? Has he ever looked into the eyes of these people, talked with them, seen their desire to live as they choose and not how others see it? They have the desire, but not the means to be free. Can Mr. Purcell even imagine what this is like? I have had the opportunity to do these things, and unless Mr. Purcell has had the chance to experience what it is like not to live in America, I question his ability to truly judge what it is that the rest of the world wants. I might be wrong, but at least I've been there.

America stands for freedom, the freedom to do as one chooses. Whether it be enjoying this country and standing for what it stands for, or complaining about ideas that one doesn't know the facts about, we can all rest assured that we have the right to do it. Wake up! Look at the real world. We all enjoy and most take for granted the freedom that we have, and that we fought bloodily to get; but most people seem to have forgotten that. Most of the world doesn't get to live as we do. Not by choice, but by the mandate of the few who wish to control the many. So, Mr. Purcell, say what you will about "American imperialism" forcing its ways on the rest of the world. I say that when you look at the world in the global sense, America and Americans have a responsibility to themselves and to the world to promote the people who want to live freely, and to hinder the ones who wish to control by fear and the taking away of personal freedoms.

Paving a Smoother Road

Editor, Daily Nexus:

To UCSB Students:

Well, if you were one of the students who attempted to adjust your schedule on Monday morning, March 14, when the line was too long, please accept my apologies. It was a difficult and frustrating morning for all of us. As you may or may not know: appointments were slightly overbooked (an error on our part), the computer failed us for a while, and the terminal operators were just too brand new to handle the resulting overflow. All of these excuses aside, however, there are many other variables to be considered when determining how many students can come through for appointments, not the least of which is YOU. I'm doing my best to make your wait a short one, but I need your cooperation.

(1) If you make an appointment, please arrive during the appointment time, not before and not after.

(2) When we close appointments for a period of time, it is to insure that you don't wait a long time. I don't have the resources to meet all of your preferred choices.

(3) Be prepared. When you take up terminal time by fumbling for your ID card, searching for the enrollment codes, or "winging it" in terms of contingency plans, you slow the line down.

For those of you who so patiently went through the process in a calm and efficient manner, I thank you. And for those of you who complained, keep in mind that this registration process is still evolving and it helps to have your suggestions. Many of your suggestions have been acted upon, many of them are still in the mill, and we always welcome your input.

Thank you for your continued cooperation and good luck in your studies.

Letter of Resignation

Editor, Daily Nexus:

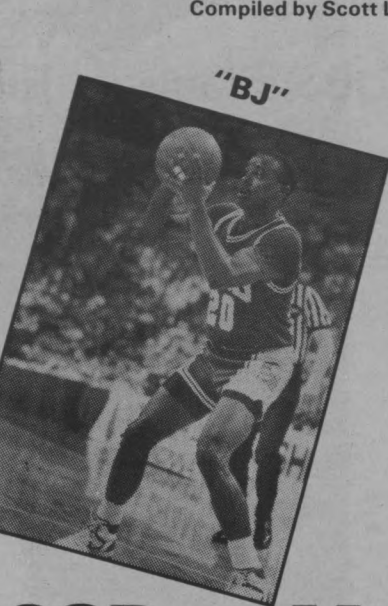

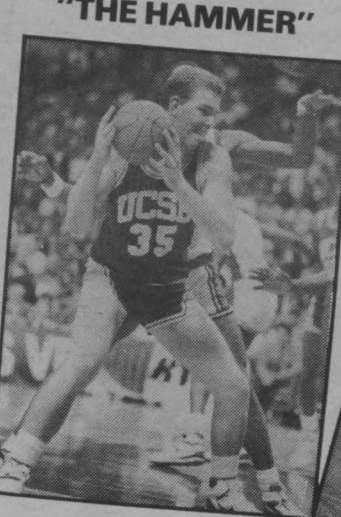

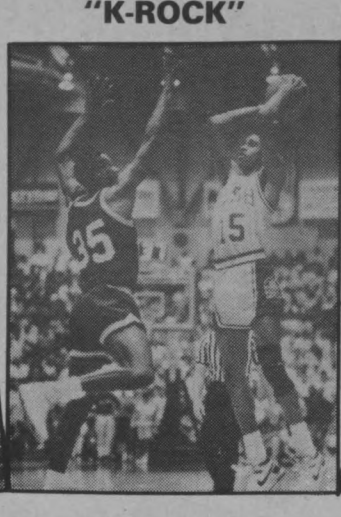

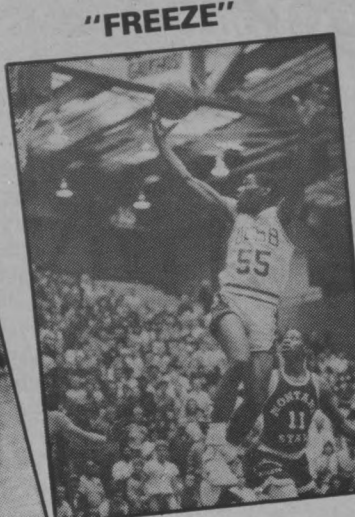

Re: Readers of the Arts and Entertainment section; the Waldo review

I would like to take take this opportunity to offer my deepest apologies to everyone who read my review and took it seriously. Apparently, many people did not understand that it was a parody of a typical rock concert review. That anyone could take such an embittered description/review seriously was actually beyond my comprehension. I apologize to Mary Ellen Mason and the members of her band and to Universal Congress of.... Needless to say, it should have had an explanation/disclaimer explaining that it was meant only with the best of intentions and only as a joke. Apparently, much to my dismay, people THOUGHT THAT IT WAS TRUE! Good God, the only way an article like that could be written is if I only ate SPITE three times a day; the article goes beyond having an axe to grind. Stupidly, I assumed that the first-name-only byline and the impossibly cruel review, added to the reference to KCSB, made it obvious that it was a joke. However, this does not excuse the fact that Mary Ellen and friends suffered at the expense of the article, much to my eternal shame. I hope that Mary Ellen will accept, as my apology, my resignation as program director of KCSB, and that she will remain with KCSB. As for what I actually thought of the show ... well, I wasn't even there.

Apologetically and naively,

The Starters: A Winning Hand

Starting 5: Doing it Day in, Day out Put UCSB on Map

BRIAN SHAW

Shooting: 151 of 324, 46.6 %
 From 19'9": 26 of 74, 35.1 %
 Free Throws: 71 of 96, 74 %
 Total Points: 399
 Games Started: 30 out of 30
 Points per Game: 13.3
 Boards: Off. 78, Def. 182,
 Tot. 260
 Boards per Game: 8.7
 (PCAA #1)
 Assists: 182 (PCAA #1)
 Turnovers: 95
 Blocks: 8
 Steals: 49 (PCAA #8)

PIMM ON SHAWSOME — "Shaw had a good, solid senior year. He'll be drafted by an NBA team and will probably go in the first couple of rounds; what number will depend on the need of a particular team. On April 12, the selection committee will decide if he'll get a chance to try out for the Olympic team."

This Thursday (March 31) Shaw will be on ESPN at 5:00 p.m., playing in the East/West All Star Game in Kansas City

ACHIEVEMENTS — 1988 All-PCAA First Team, 1988 PCAA All-Tourney Team, 1988 PCAA Player of the Year, First Team All-District 8, Recorded 500th career assist against Pacific on Feb. 18, Also recorded fifth career triple-double on Feb. 18 against Pacific.

ERIC McARTHUR

Shooting: 95 of 162, 58.6 %
 From 19'9": 0 of 1, 0 %
 Free Throws: 66 of 136, 48.5 %
 Total Points: 256
 Games Played: 30 out of 30
 Points per Game: 8.5
 Boards: Off. 78, Def. 118,
 Tot. 196
 Boards per Game: 6.5
 Assists: 15
 Turnovers: 51
 Blocks: 64 (PCAA #1)
 Steals: 21
 Minutes: 653

PIMM ON THE FREEZE — "Eric had a good year, but he's just got to improve at the free throw line. Otherwise he had an exceptional season. He also needs to improve, as do all the players, physically. He has to hit the weight room and the courts in the off-season and develop his legs."

ACHIEVEMENTS — Eric tied for the lead in blocked shots in the PCAA with San Jose's Gerald Thomas at 2.1 a game. Against the Spartans on the road, Freeze recorded 6 blocks, while jamming home four dunks.

The Final Stats Tell the Story of 22-8 Campaign

CARRICK DeHART

Shooting: 148 of 340, 43.5 %
 From 19'9": 46 of 118, 39 %
 (PCAA #9)
 Free Throws: 49 of 69, 71 %
 Total Points: 391
 Games Started: 30 out of 30
 Points per Game: 13
 Boards: Off. 31, Def. 88, Tot. 89
 Boards per Game: 2.9
 Assists: 55
 Turnovers: 57
 Blocks: 6
 Steals: 30
 Minutes: 917

PIMM ON K-ROCK — "Carrick had a good sophomore season. The injuries he sustained didn't help him any, especially in the second half of the season. I think he has a good work ethic and if he plays hard over the summer, develops and gets back into real good physical condition, he'll be ready to go next year and have a good season for us."

ACHIEVEMENTS — DeHart didn't make either the all-first or second teams in the PCAA, but did receive an honorable mention along with two others from the conference. He scored in double figures in 23 of the 30 games, including the Gauchos' first eight games, where he scored a total of 143 points. He scored in the 20s four times, including 21 in the second win over UNLV.

FINAL TEAM NUMBERS

The Gauchos finished their successful 22-8 campaign with a 48.3 field goal shooting mark (4th in the PCAA). The team lagged at the charity stripe, shooting a dismal 66.1 percent (8th in the PCAA) and from the three-point line it was 39 percent (4th in league).

The squad grabbed a total of 992 boards and was 2nd in the league in rebounding margin with a difference of 3.2. The Gauchos' 71.7 points a game put them 7th in the league in scoring offense, while 3rd in scoring defense at 67.8.

BRIAN JOHNSON

Shooting: 93 of 226, 41.2 %
 From 19'9": 53 of 127, 41.7 %
 (PCAA #5)
 Free Throws: 39 of 54, 72.2 %
 Total Points: 278
 Games Started: 30 out of 30
 Points per Game: 9.3
 Boards: Off. 11, Def. 48, Tot. 59
 Boards per Game: 1.97
 Assists: 68
 Turnovers: 47
 Blocks: 4
 Steals: 11
 Minutes: 872

PIMM ON BJ — "Brian had a good second half of his senior year. He played very much within his limitations. (Opponents) keyed on him early and forced him to put the ball on the floor and as a result, he didn't put it up as much as he did last year. I thought he had a very good senior year overall."

ACHIEVEMENTS — Johnson is the Gaucho record holder for three-pointers made (150), attempted (346), percentage (43), made in a game (9) and attempts in a game (15). He hit at least one three-pointer in 22 of UCSB's 30 games this season, finishing the year in the conference's fifth spot in three-point shooting at 41.7 %. He scored in double figures in 14 of the 30 games, and has 34 in his four-year career at UCSB. He's the only four-year Gaucho on this year's squad.

GARY GRAY

Shooting: 70 of 126, 55.5 %
 From 19'9": 0 of 0, 0 %
 Free Throws: 50 of 79, 63.3 %
 Total Points: 190
 Games Started: 30 out of 30
 Points per Game: 6.3
 Boards: Off. 43, Def. 70, Tot. 113
 Boards per Game: 3.8
 Assists: 18
 Turnovers: 42
 Blocks: 4
 Steals: 12
 Minutes: 634

PIMM ON THE HAMMER — "Gary had a good, solid freshman year. He tailed off in scoring in the last half of the conference season. His development will depend on his work ethic over the summer and the dedication he puts in during the off-season."

ACHIEVEMENTS — The 6-9 245 pound inside player was named to the 1988 All-PCAA Freshman Team by virtue of his 6.6 points and 3.8 rebounds a game. He hit two clutch free throws against Oregon State in just his third collegiate game, helping UCSB to a 71-70 win.

Reserves: Filling Their Roles off the Bench Each Game

CARLTON DAVENPORT

Shooting: 60 of 138, 43.4 %
 From 19'9": 2 of 4, 50 %
 Free Throws: 73 of 96, 76 %
 Total Points: 195
 Games Played: 30 out of 30
 Points per Game: 6.5
 Boards: Off. 13, Def. 36, Tot. 49
 Boards per Game: 1.6
 Assists: 112 (PCAA #9)
 Turnovers: 59
 Blocks: 2
 Steals: 31
 Minutes: 619

PIMM ON DAVENPORT — "Carlton had his best and most consistent year for us this year. He played a big role in a lot of our games by taking over for Shaw at the point. By doing that he allowed Shaw to play other positions and enabled him to be effective from the wing. Next year the point guard position is his

Contributors off the bench

MIKE DOYLE

Shooting: 113 of 200, 56.5 %
 From 19'9": 2 of 7, 28.6 %
 Free Throws: 69 of 87, 79.3 %
 (PCAA #7)
 Total Points: 297
 Games Played: 30 out of 30
 Points per Game: 9.9
 Boards: Off. 51, Def. 81, Tot. 132
 Boards per Game: 4.4
 Assists: 17
 Turnovers: 39
 Blocks: 5
 Steals: 5
 Minutes: 628

PIMM ON DOYLE — "Mike was our most consistent player in the last 10 games. If you break down the stats of those games you'd find that he was our leading scorer in that span. The emphasis we put on Mike is on rebounding, and that will be his major role again next year. I think he has the potential to be a great offensive rebounder."

JOHN WESTBELD

Shooting: 29 of 49, 59.2 %
 From 19'9": 0 of 0, 0 %
 Free Throws: 13 of 25, 52 %
 Total Points: 71
 Games Played: 30 out of 30
 Points per Game: 2.4
 Boards: Off. 20, Def. 29, Tot. 49
 Boards per Game: 1.6
 Assists: 4
 Turnovers: 14
 Blocks: 16
 Steals: 4
 Minutes: 317

PIMM ON WESTBELD — "I look for John to improve in minutes next year. What he needs to do, though is get his frame up to about 240 pounds. We used John early in the NCAA game against Maryland because he was bigger than anyone else we had and we were at a size disadvantage. We also needed help on the boards early.

MIKE ELLIOTT

Shooting: 11 of 26, 42.3 %
 From 19'9": 0 of 1, 0 %
 Free Throws: 7 of 15, 46.7 %
 Total Points: 29
 Games Played: 24 out of 30
 Points per Game: 1.2
 Boards: Off. 7, Def. 8, Tot. 15
 Boards per Game: .6
 Assists: 9
 Turnovers: 12
 Blocks: 0
 Steals: 2
 Minutes: 166

PIMM ON ELLIOTT — "Mike played 24 games for us this year and gained some great experience. He will be heavily used as a sophomore next year. He's a versatile player; he can play the point or the wing. He's a good, solid player and will contribute only good things to our program. I like Mike. I know he'll work hard and be successful."

Other Contributors

Trygstad, Simmons, Olson and Gustevsen Family too

PIMM ON TRIGGER — "Greg had a hard-luck year; he didn't reach any of his goals. He was someone I had targeted for a starting spot. But his physical problems didn't allow him to have a good year. We'll see what he's made of during the off-season and see if he can come back strong."

Trygstad appeared in just 16 games, scoring 35 points (2.2 a game), while grabbing 29 boards (1.8). He was a key to last year's inside threat and hopes to be back next year.

PIMM ON SIMMONS, OLSON, GUSTEVSEN — "Simmons probably won't return next year. He's applied to medical school and we hope he gets in, if not he still has one more year of eligibility left. All three of these guys played their roles well all season. A lot of the time they had to stand around during practice and they never complained once. I give them a lot of credit for that; it shows how much character they've got.

Simmons scored seven points on the season in 13 minutes, while Olson scored two in nine. Gustevsen's one bucket in one minute of play against Pacific in February completed a season that saw each Gaucho score. The quartet was 17 for 39 from the floor.

Sluggers Host Pepperdine Today, Try to Bring Back Winning Ways Stand 0-4 in Latest Homestand, 14-23 Overall

The UCSB baseball team has the unenviable task of trying to salvage the final contest of a five-game home stand against the Pepperdine Waves today at 2:30 on Campus Diamond.

The Gauchos lost to Loyola on Wednesday before dropping three straight to the Rebels of UNLV over the weekend. UCSB played poorly in Wednesday's game and in the first two matchups of the UNLV series. But they looked markedly better in Sunday's 4-3 loss; unfortunately, "almost" doesn't add to the win column.

"What do we need to do?," Gaucho Coach Al Ferrer asked yesterday. "(Sunday) we got pitching and defense but no hitting."

The Gauchos beat Pepperdine in the teams' first meeting last Tuesday, for their first and only road win of the season so far. After compiling a 4-12 record last season, the Waves are currently 17-15-1. The pitching has been good (4.38 ERA), but the team batting average is .274, down 54 points from last year.

Pepperdine will probably start senior lefthander Doug Simons (4-2, 3.44 ERA), while Ferrer is still undecided about who his starter will be.

"I'll probably use five or six pitchers, which is not unusual for a mid-week game," he said. Look for Jeff Lynch (1-4, 9.06 ERA) to start, and for Sean Harrigan, Dave Boss and Brian Raum to each get some work in.

The Gauchos will be battling themselves as much as the Waves. Their battered pitching staff has struggled to keep its ERA below seven, while the defense has been unreliable at best and a circus side-show at worst.

Their recent losses also have taken their toll on the team morale. "These were tough weekend losses," Ferrer said. "These guys are all winners, so they're very disappointed. It would be abnormal if they weren't."

The season has been especially tough on the seniors, who can't look to rebuilding for next year. "I haven't conceded; I'm still looking forward to a turnaround," Ferrer added. "I feel an obligation to the seniors. In the past, they've always left successful."

One thing is for sure: it won't get any easier. The Gauchos travel to Fullerton to face the nationally-ranked Titans next weekend. The team didn't practice today; a predetermined break from what would otherwise have been 13 straight days on the field.

BASEBALL STORY CORRECTION:

In yesterday's story about UCSB's weekend series with UNLV, it was stated that Doug Williams threw away a ground ball in the ninth inning of Saturday's game against the Rebels. This was inaccurate. It wasn't Williams who was charged with the error, but rather teammate Tim McKercher. The Nexus regrets this error.

San Vicente and Leitenbauer Named Scholar Athletes

Twenty student athletes, including Denise San Vicente and Klaus Leitenbauer of UCSB, have been selected as recipients of the third annual Pacific Coast Athletic Association Scholar-Athlete of the Year awards.

Individuals were chosen for their outstanding achievement in athletic competition, academics and community involvement. All possess cumulative grade point averages of 3.0 or better.

San Vicente, a four-year letter winner in soccer, is an electrical engineering major and member of a project team in the computer science department that is working to develop a new software package which will be used for bilingual word processing.

She was the Gauchos' MVP in 1987 and was named to the All-Far West squad as well as the women's All-State team. She also won the Louis Lowry Davis Perseverance Award in 1986 and toured China with the Colorado Nationals this past year.

"Denise San Vicente was one of the most important players in our program," said Andy Kuenzli, head of UCSB's soccer program. "Due to her determination and hard work, she developed from a reserve player in high school to the best women's collegiate goalkeeper in the West Region. Her persistence crossed over into the classroom and she is the true model of a student athlete."

Leitenbauer, a two-time All-American linebacker, was selected as co-captain of the Gaucho football squad in 1987. The team's Most Inspirational Player in both 1986 and 1987, he led the Gauchos in tackles in 1985 and was voted Best Defensive Player in 1986.

A business major, he has accepted employment with Touche Ross (a Big Eight accounting firm) in Los Angeles.

He plans on becoming a CPA and then attending graduate school in the future and also plans to coach football eventually.

"The incredibly quick and successful rise of intercollegiate football on our campus after a 15-year absence has been characterized by a tremendous emotional commitment. No one in our football program has exhibited that commitment more than All-American Klaus Leitenbauer," said UCSB Athletic Director Stan Morrison.

"His ability to lead both verbally and through action is seldom matched at the intercollegiate level. His resiliency and full-time commitment as a student as well as an athlete serve as a great reminder that success can be multi-dimensional for the truly committed intercollegiate athlete."

Preston Senses Need for Changes in Spiker Lineup

By Dan Vasen
 Asst. Sports Editor

Despite the fact that the UCSB men's volleyball team has won four of its last six matches to solidify its hold on a #5 national ranking, Head Coach Ken Preston is concerned about the recent play of his Gauchos.

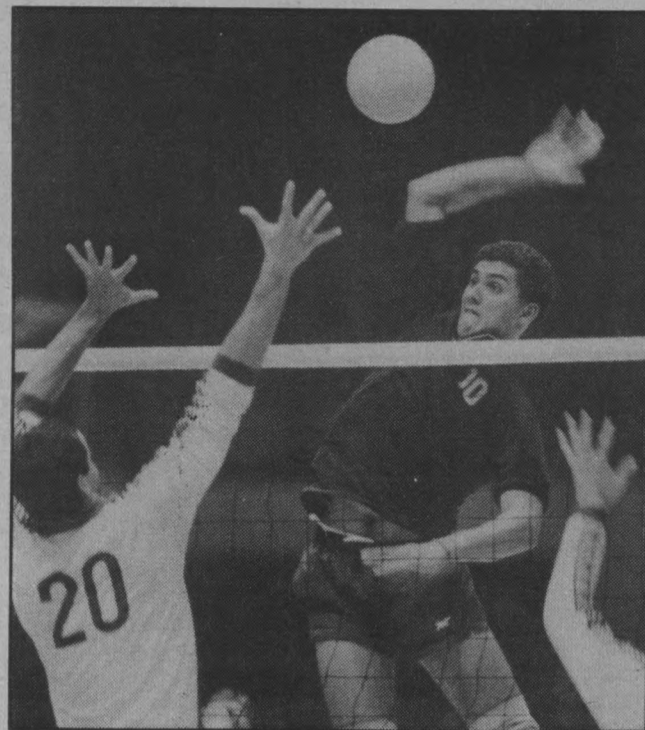

"I don't see us improving like I think we should.... We've got to become more competitive," he said. "We feel like we need to make a few tactical changes and possibly a few personnel changes. Right now I have a real quandary deciding whether or not to bail on what I felt was the best lineup at the beginning of the season, or not to bail on it for something new."

UCSB is presently 8-4 in the league and 20-7 overall, and Preston feels that there are three crucial areas where his team needs some rearranging.

"Number one, we put a big lineup on the floor to block balls, and we've been getting out-blocked by smaller teams," he said. "Number two, we're being out-dug, and those two things don't jive somehow. Number three, we don't have two left-side hitters on the floor. My changes will be aimed at improving those three areas."

UCSB's starting lineup might include some new faces come Friday night when it hosts the Clash of The Titans Tournament, depending on this week's practices.

"This week in practice we're going to toy with some different lineups," Preston added. "We'll be pitting players against each other, keeping stats and seeing who comes out in front on Friday night."

Jose Gandara, recently named a Molten-WIVA Athlete of the Week, goes for a spike against UCLA.

The following is a wrap-up of UCSB's six-game stand over vacation:

On March 4, the Gauchos defeated the Pepperdine Waves in three games, 15-8, 19-17, 16-14. Senior outside-hitter David Rottman led both squads with 28 kills, half of those coming in the marathon second game.

Two nights later, UCSB clashed with the Matadors from Indiana-Purdue University in a non-league confrontation and struggled to come away with the victory despite a career-high 39 kills by Rottman. The 12-15, 15-1, 15-12, 17-19, 15-6 match lasted over three hours.

On March 9, the Gauchos avenged an earlier loss to Northridge by quickly disposing of the Matadors in three games, 15-4, 15-5, 15-10. The 19 percent hitting performance turned in by CSUN left many spectators wondering how UCSB could have lost the earlier meeting.

Junior middle-blocker Jose Gandara was named the Molten-WIVA Athlete of the Week following the CSUN match. Gandara hit 59 percent with 18 kills in the match, while adding eight digs and five blocks defensively.

Finals prompted a week-and-a-half layoff from competition, prior to a non-league meeting with Ohio State. The spikers defeated the Buckeyes last Wednesday in three games, 15-7, 15-6, 15-9; Ohio State didn't prove to be a formidable opponent.

The layoff, coupled with the fact that the Buckeyes did not play very well, might help to explain the Gauchos' recent inability to pull out two five-game matches over the weekend.

On Friday night, UCSB fell to the Loyola-Marymount Lions in Westchester, 14-16, 15-4, 15-7, 12-15, 14-16.

"On Friday night against Loyola, (our guys) thought they were just going to go in there and win," Preston said. "I knew it was going to be a tough match, plus (the Lions) dug lips on us. We were put in a bad situation and we lost."

Gandara led the Gauchos with 31 kills; Rottman had 24, and Lee Nelson added 18. Setter Jon Wallace had 83 assists.

"Loyola hit 16 percent, and we lost the game; it's just silly. They're a small team, and they out-blocked us, but this is the glaring thing," Preston said, pointing out that the Lions out-dug the Gauchos, 85-35.

The next night, the Gauchos traveled down the coast to Malibu, where they dropped a match to the Waves, 16-14, 15-13, 10-15, 2-15, 7-15. Despite the fact that UCSB freshman Jeff Hart had 42 kills, and that Randy Bergstadt had 37, Preston didn't point at those stats as an excuse for losing.

"I can't explain why we didn't win at Pepperdine.... We were up 2-0, and we should have won the match," he said. "There were some things that I'd rather not go into that I feel might be why we didn't do well."

UCSB Earns Second in Foot Locker Coed Tournament

By Dan Vasen
Asst. Sports Editor

Some people might be surprised that a group of beach volleyball players who had never played together before decided to form a six-person team, hold two short practices and then enter a national coed tournament.

Those same skeptics would definitely be surprised to learn that this team, consisting of UCSB students and a couple of former Gaucho volleyball players, placed second out of a field of 24 teams in the first-ever Foot Locker Coed Classic held this weekend at the Oasis Water Resort in Palm Springs.

Santa Barbara's second-place finish awarded them three thousand dollars in cash and prizes and was determined by a 15-17, 11-15 loss to UCLA's B-team in the finals Sunday at 3 p.m.

UCSB advanced on two first-round byes on a random draw and when Sonoma State dropped out, causing its first match of the tournament to be late Friday afternoon in the twilight against UCLA's B-team. UCSB lost in three games, 13-15, 15-12, 6-15.

UCLA then defeated CSUN and CSU Fullerton to reach the final by virtue of being undefeated. UCSB had to reach the final the hard way, by beating the opposition in the lower bracket. After defeating UCSD early Saturday morning, the Gauchos advanced past the University of Washington by forfeit.

Next on the chopping block was CSUN, that went down easily 15-2, 15-2 early Sunday morning. Following a few trips down the water slides at the resort park, UCSB worked UC Berkeley and then CSU Fullerton to earn to right to a rematch with UCLA in the final.

ESPN was on hand to tape the final match and it will be shown sometime in May. UCSB's women's volleyball team coach Kathy Gregory was also present to provide coaching assistance and color commentary along with basketball great Lynn Shakerford.

Foot Locker, Nike, Asics/Tiger, Evian Water and Miller Brewing were all represented, and handed out samples and posters and provided refreshments.

A large number of UCSB students made the trek to Palm Springs to support the Gauchos, and they played a large part in Santa Barbara's success. During the final, these die-hard fans painted Gaucho colors on their bodies and faces with Zinka sunscreen and heckled the UCLA team members.

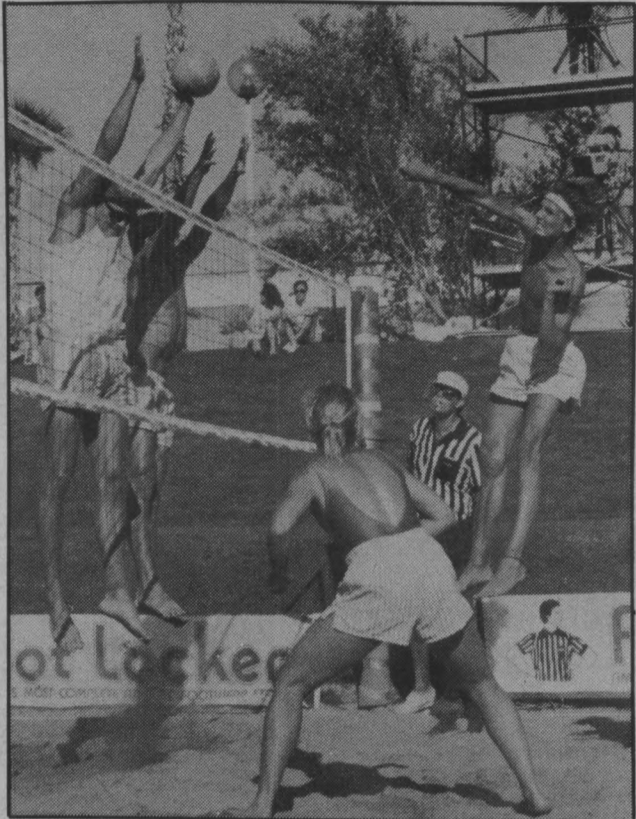

UCSB's team consisted of four girls and four guys:

Annie Hansen is a double-A rated beach player who also works as a substitute teacher at Santa Barbara High School.

"We had been psyching ourselves up for this and really looking forward to it," Hansen said. "It was a party out here; I was really glad we made the final."

Merrilee Hicks played three years for UCSB as an outside hitter and utility player.

"I wasn't that surprised that we did so well, since we had good players," Hicks said. "It comes down to how good a team meshes, and we did that well."

UCSB's Jeremy Cornell spikes the ball off the hand of UCLA's Kent Steffis in the finals as All-American Charlotte Mitchel covers.

On numerous occasions an opponent's sure kill was remarkably dug and returned by All-American and double-A rated Charlotte Mitchel, whose setting and defensive talent were key against the tournament field.

"UCLA beat us twice fair and square, but I think we did a good job, we had a good team," Mitchel said. "It was really fun. I had the best weekend I've had in a long time; it was awesome."

Annette Juptner, who was a member of last year's Pi Phi volleyball team that won the ISVT at Zuma Beach, shared the setting duties with Mitchel in the tourney.

Jeremy Cornell, a single-A rated beach player, consistently killed the ball on the right side against UCLA's formidable block of All-Americans Jeff Williams and Kent Steffis.

"I'm happy with how we did; I will definitely play in future tournaments like this," Cornell said. "It was a lot of fun, I had a great time."

Dan Matso is a double-A rated beach player who hits from all over the court and has a mean jump serve. Gregory insists without a doubt that Matso was the best player in the tournament.

"I thought it would pretty much be UCLA and us in the tournament in terms of quality of play, and they came out on top," Matso said. "There was a good attitude, I had a blast."

Bob Parr, a double-A rated beach player, is a scrappy back-row machine, and he dug lips all weekend long.

"I thought we played really strong, but UCLA had a really big block that gave us some trouble," Parr said. "We had a lot of good players, it just took us a little time to gel as a team."

Chris Cochrane is a single-A rated beach player who hit on the left side for UCSB and provided strong blocking.

"I think we were a little rusty at first, but once we played a few matches we started shredding," Cochrane said. "Palm Springs is a groovy place; I had as much fun water sliding and cruising around downtown as I did playing volleyball."
