Former CIA Official Stockwell Verbally Blasts Reagan, CIA in Crowded Lecture

By Matt Welch
Assistant News Editor

"I submit to you that Mr. Reagan is the most dangerous man in the history of the universe and that he has a defective mind."

John Stockwell has never been one to hold back. The former Central Intelligence Agency official who "had, 10 years ago, the job, approximately, that Col. Oliver North had," remained true to form in his Tuesday night lecture to a capacity Campbell Hall crowd.

From Vietnam to Angola, Kissinger to Casey, Libya to "Iranamuck," and El Salvador to Nicaragua, Stockwell battered his anti-government, anti-CIA and anti-nuclear weapons message into the minds of more than 800 audience members, continually referring to documentation and personal knowledge.

"The CIA is known to be supporting ... six major conflicts, and staffers of the oversight committees tell us that the CIA is running 50 covert actions altogether. That means ... we're destabilizing almost one-third of the countries (in the world)."

The director of the CIA's involvement in the 1976 Angolan conflict, Stockwell said U.S. involvement in Nicaragua has represented typical CIA behavior.

"What we're doing down there is a classical technique that's called destabilization. You target a government you don't like and you set out methodically to rip apart the social and economic fabric.... Then you can step in and impose the government of your own choice or at least force them to come to your terms."

"In 1983 the CIA published a comic book with pictures suggesting things that people could do to destroy an economy," Stockwell said. In addition, the CIA in 1984 published and distributed a manual teaching contras "the philosophy and principles of assassination."

"It's not too pretty, with contras going into villages and they pull out families and the children are forced to watch them castrate their fathers ...

John Stockwell, the highest ranking official of the CIA ever to quit and speak out against the organization, addresses a near-capacity audience in Campbell Hall Wednesday night.

(and) watch their mothers get gang-raped and slash their breasts," Stockwell claimed.

Although Reagan has called the Sandinistas "godless communists," Stockwell defended the Nicaraguan government. "They set up a literacy campaign to teach every Nicaraguan to read and write, they launched the first really serious land reform program in all of Central America ... and they kept it a free-enterprise economy."

The atrocities happening in Central America are nothing new, he said, claiming that in 1965 the CIA killed 500 to 1,500 Indonesians for the sake of eliminating communism. "That's genocide," he said.

Stockwell accused the CIA of creating and training death squads, in addition to teaching and demonstrating courses in torture. "The people we are killing today in Nicaragua, ... they're not Russian soldiers or advisors, they're not Cuban

Campus Groups Request Racial Harassment Policies

By Tizoc Tirado
Assistant Campus Editor

The newly-formed Concerned Students Against Racism called upon the university to establish a new racial harassment policy and construct a UCSB Cultural Center during a panel discussion Wednesday afternoon.

Panelists presented these demands along with seven other to approximately 50 campus administrators and students in the Cafe Interim giving deadlines of only one to two weeks to take action.

UCSB currently works on an unofficial harassment policy, but "many think it's a disgrace," according to panelist Jackie Winter. Administrators need to offer campus minorities a policy that would penalize racist actions by faculty and students, she asserted. "Some students are racist unconsciously. This policy will make them aware."

"The people we go to school with now are going to be working with us," freshman panel member Anastasia Smith said. "Racism can make you or it can break you.... I'm a freshman and I don't want to deal with it (racism) for four years."

Winter also hopes to establish a program in on-campus dorms to "protect" students having difficulties due to their ethnic background. The program should be "like the (Women's Center) Date Rape Program," so that students, regardless of color, can feel "protected," she explained.

The failure of some resident assistants in knowing how to deal with minorities can also be harmful, Winter said. "Once they hear that one of the persons involved is black or Chicano, it becomes a special problem, so they begin to apply myths," she charged.

Current statistics show that of the 16.7 percent minority population at UCSB, only 2.4 percent are Afro-American. Furthermore, of the 546 total ladder-ranked faculty members, only 11 are full-time Afro-American professors.

Libertarian Party Seeks to Disseminate Ideas

By Wade Daniels
Reporter

With the theme of "Scenarios of Freedom," Libertarian party members will gather in San Francisco this weekend for the annual California State Libertarian Party Convention.

Speakers and workshops will address the Libertarian Party platform and present possible methods for spreading party ideas to a more critical mass, according to event co-coordinator Linda Torno.

Libertarian presidential candidates will also attempt to gain support at the convention. "There is a strong rumor that former Texas congressman Ron Paul will announce his candidacy for the 1988 presidential election," Torno said. "Right now he has to be the most prominent candidate, but he will have to be approved at the national convention this summer in Seattle."

While the party's policies are called extreme by many, they represent a variety of spectrums, similar to other political parties. The itinerary includes both strong and moderate Libertarian positions in order to entertain a healthy balance of ideas, Torno explained.

Party platform on international policies calls for a non-interventionist political policy, free-trade and an open border, which would bring good ideas and good people, according to California Libertarian Party Chair Mark Hinkle.

"We would like to see a separation of government and business similar to the separation of government and church," he explained.

"The government is too involved with our daily lives," Turno charged. "It tells us how to educate our children, how to run our businesses, our banks, how to fix our roads, when we can do all those things for ourselves."

Libertarians propose an extensive restoration of civil liberties. Many call for decriminalization of illicit drug use, pornography and prostitution as part of their thrust for civil liberties.

"We certainly don't encourage consumption or production of pornography, but history shows that when something is decriminalized, its sales drop like a rock," Hinkle said.

"When you make something illegal, that drives its price right up and that channels money from legitimate industry into organized crime," he charged. "In San Francisco, 50 percent of all property crimes are drug-related, so if these drugs are decriminalized we would see a drastic crime reduction."

Law enforcement officials and representatives of local, state and national governments have refuted Libertarian ideas about the decriminalization of society for decades. Sociology and psychology experts also debate the ramifications of a society with minimal restraints on the people.

Although the Libertarians are the nation's largest third party, the percentage of votes they collect indicates they are still a minority. Libertarian candidates usually receive from one to five percent of the total vote, but Hinkle claims they do not find this discouraging.

"There is virtually no hope for a short-term presidential victory," he said. "I don't realistically expect a viable candidate to have a real chance until approximately 2020."

The party will "wait in the wings" until there is an appropriate environment for its ideas, Hinkle explained. "History shows us that people have to be fed up with their situation in order to effect strong changes and right now things aren't bad enough for this to happen."

Hinkle blamed a lack of faith in the party and voter laziness as detractors from its potential for success. "Some people are registered and don't vote while others may like what you have to say but don't think you have a chance (against) the big-money parties," he claimed.

Iran Claims McFarlane Offered Self as Hostage for Americans

NICOSIA, Cyprus — The speaker of Iran's Parliament said American Envoy Robert McFarlane offered himself as a hostage in return for U.S. captives in Lebanon, Iran's official news agency reported Thursday.

McFarlane, a former U.S. national security adviser, made the offer during his secret visit to Tehran last year, the Islamic Republic News Agency quoted speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani as having said on Wednesday.

Several of the eight American hostages in Lebanon are believed to be held by pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem groups.

IRNA quoted Rafsanjani as saying McFarlane and others who came with him told Iranian officials they would stay as Iran's hostages in return for the release of the Americans.

"We told them we are not taking hostages and this is not the task of our government or our policy," Rafsanjani said. "If you are our friends, we will intercede and if you are our enemies, we will not do so and that is our right."

In Washington, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater told reporters he didn't know anything about Rafsanjani's assertions concerning McFarlane.

Both Iran and the United States said last November that McFarlane and other American officials visited Iran in an effort to establish ties with Iran's fundamentalist government.

President Reagan said he opened contacts with moderates in Tehran and sent arms to Iran in an effort to restore ties with Ayatollah Khomeini's government. Relations were severed by the United States after Americans were taken captive during the Nov. 4, 1979 seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Israeli Warplanes Bomb Alleged PLO Guerrilla Camps in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Israeli warplanes Thursday bombed Palestinian guerrilla bases at a refugee camp in southern Lebanon. Police said one civilian was killed and three people, including two guerrillas, were wounded.

Four fighter-bombers blasted targets at the edge of the Mieh Mieh Palestinian refugee camp and the neighboring Ein El-Dilb area southeast of Sidon in two bombing runs at 6:15 a.m., police said.

Eight other jets provided a "protective umbrella," they said.

Guerrillas of Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization fired ground-to-air missiles. They were deflected by heat balloons released by the Israeli pilots, police reported.

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv confirmed the air strike and said its pilots reported direct hits on buildings used as guerrilla headquarters on the outskirts of Mieh Mieh. The pilots returned safely after the 10-minute raid, the command said.

Police in Sidon said the targets belonged to Arafat's mainstream Fatah guerrilla group.

Black smoke billowed from the areas after the planes struck.

Presidential Commission Delays Iran-Contra Report One Week

WASHINGTON — A special White House commission investigating the Iran-contra affair has uncovered new information linking the National Security Council to private efforts to aid the Nicaraguan rebels in a period when such activity by the federal government was banned by law, according to sources familiar with the commission's work.

Meanwhile, the commission announced Wednesday that it had made a "recent acquisition of new material" and thus needed an extra week to complete its report. The request was granted by President Reagan, who made his second appearance before the panel Wednesday. The commission is now scheduled to issue its report Feb. 26.

It could not be learned Wednesday night whether the information linking the council to the rebels was the same as the "new material" acquired by the White House commission headed by John Tower, the former Republican senator from Texas.

The two-sentence announcement by the Tower panel did not specify the nature of the new material that entailed a delay in its final report. But the statement emphasized that the delay was not caused by Reagan's testimony, or by the drug overdose on Monday by Robert C. McFarlane, the former national security adviser, who had been scheduled to appear before the panel that day.

Israel Plans to Phase Out Arms Sales to S. African Government

LOS ANGELES — Top Israeli officials quietly agreed to phase out existing agreements on arms sales and the transfer of military technology to South Africa, it was reported Thursday.

Citing unidentified government and other sources, the Los Angeles Times said the agreement was worked out by Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, Foreign Minister Shimon Peres and Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

The newspaper reported the agreement is seen as a compromise between those Israelis who want their country to take a much more aggressive anti-apartheid stand and others who defend the status quo in Israeli-South African relations.

Shamir reportedly is due to outline the proposal during private meetings with Reagan administration officials and congressional leaders during his visit to Washington, D.C., next week.

According to the Times, the agreement comes in response to the Comprehensive Anti-Apartheid Act passed by Congress last October.

Under the law, President Reagan will receive a report from the State Department by April 1 that outlines arms sales to South Africa by other nations.

Those countries that sell military equipment to the white government of Pretoria could face a halt in U.S. military aid.

Air Force Picking 10 Sites for Rail-based MX Missile Bases

WASHINGTON — The Air Force has selected 10 additional bases in eight states stretching from Louisiana to Washington for consideration as "garrisons" for giant MX missiles that would be placed on rail cars, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

A review of the 10 bases on environmental and operational grounds will get under way by January 1988 with the goal of filing environmental impact studies by late 1988 or early 1989, the announcement said.

The studies are being planned now even though Congress has yet to approve the idea of buying an additional 50 MX missiles and placing them on rail cars.

The studies "will support both environmental and design activities," avoiding delays should Congress approve the president's plan, a Pentagon statement said.

Cuomo Says He May Announce Presidential Intentions in March

LOS ANGELES — New York Gov. Mario Cuomo made a rare Southern California appearance at a downtown benefit dinner, repeating that he would not make a decision about a possible Democratic presidential bid until later this month.

"This trip to California was not designed to advance any candidacy or test the water," the 54-year-old said Wednesday as reporters again asked him whether he would seek the White House in 1988.

The governor said he met briefly with Mayor Tom Bradley, but said they did not talk about the 1988 presidential election.

At two separate news conferences, Cuomo stated he will decide by the end of February if he will launch a bid as a presidential candidate. He planned to return to New York today.

His 25-minute dinner speech at the Music Center Wednesday evening met with a standing ovation. In it, Cuomo called for a "better, freer, more prosperous, more just society in the third century of the U.S. Constitution."

Echoing themes he has concentrated on in his administration, he said the country needs "a new emphasis on the basic values that over the years made sweet and strong the soul of the American people at their very best: honesty, courage, responsibility, dignity, a concern for one another... a sense of family."

Distributors of Album Poster May be Prosecuted, Judge Says

LOS ANGELES — A Municipal Court judge ruled anyone involved in the distribution of an allegedly pornographic poster inserted in the "Frankenchrist" album by the Dead Kennedys can be criminally prosecuted.

The poster was by well-known Swiss artist H.R. Giger and shows 10 sets of male and female genitals engaged in sexual intercourse.

Judge Sherrill D. Luke ruled Wednesday that the musicians, producers, manufacturers and distributors of the album, along with the group's lead singer, Jello Biafra, are not protected by the First Amendment and may be held responsible for the sale of the poster.

Luke's ruling paves the way for prosecution of Biafra and four other defendants. A jury will decide whether the law was actually violated. If found guilty, the defendants could face a maximum one year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

The city attorney's office filed a misdemeanor criminal charges against Biafra, and four other defendants after a Sylmar mother complained that her teen-age daughter was able to buy the album and poster for her 11-year-old brother.

The American Civil Liberties Union and other defense lawyers argued charges should be dismissed since the artists have no way of monitoring the sale of the so-called harmful material to minors other than by losing their freedom to produce it.

L.A. Radio Stations to Accept Advertisements for Condoms

LOS ANGELES — Radio stations KABC-AM, KLOS-FM and KROQ-FM all plan to introduce condom advertising amid growing AIDS fears that have spread to the mainstream heterosexual population nationwide.

KABC General Manager George Green said Wednesday he was inspired to implement the ad campaign by statements Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., made on KABC Talk Radio host Michael Jackson's show. But he said no condom companies have sought to place ads with KABC yet.

"I think it's going to explode in the next three months," he said of the condom ad trend. "Maybe this is symbolic because I think it may make a lot of stations in Los Angeles, especially the ones that target 18 to 24-year-olds, do the same thing."

New Committee Forms to Monitor Campus Elections

By Mairin Smith
Staff Writer

Associated Students Legislative Council appointed four of its members to the new Central Election Committee Wednesday night, furthering plans to organize a campus-wide oversight committee in time for the spring elections.

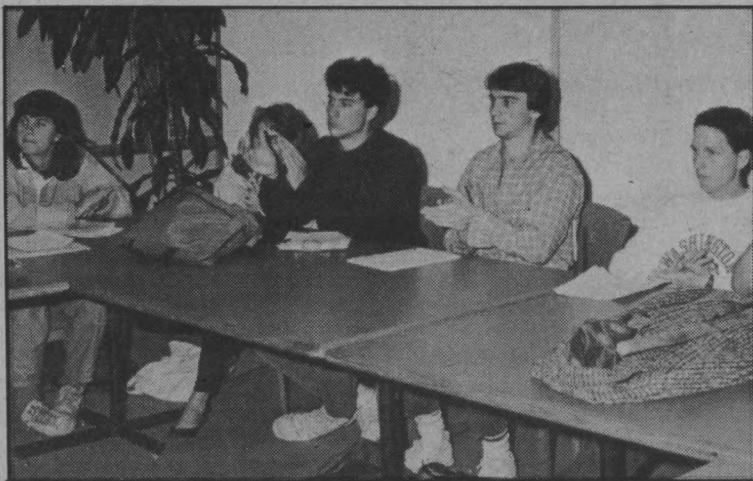

"(The committee) will be in charge to make sure there are no mistakes, no cheating basically," Leg Council member Emilio Pozzi said. "They will make sure there are enough people checking on the polls (and) they will have to approve ... plan(s) for the election."

"Other members will have to be appointed," Dean of Students Leslie Lawson said, explaining that the Central Election Committee needs to go before the Committee on Committees for approval. "With (Vice Chancellor of Student and Community Affairs Ed) Birch's support it will sail right through," she added.

"The committee will be pretty much in place after that, but it will be informal up until the election," Lawson said. "It will not be a well-oiled, highly definitive operation until next year."

The Central Election Committee will be comprised of two A.S. representatives, the internal vice president, the Student Fee Advisory Committee chair, a Graduate Student Association member, two staff members and a faculty member, Pozzi said.

The Isla Vista Foot Patrol was also discussed at Wednesday's meeting. The Isla Vista Community Council is organizing the People's Public Safety Committee to "improve relations with the Foot Patrol," said External Vice President and IVCC member Sharlene Weed.

Weed described the committee as a "separate entity," made up of "students and community members working for the betterment of all mankind."

The group's charge is to "be a board where students and staff can feel comfortable going to, and to document complaints," Weed said. "We're coming around to where we can appoint reps."

A subcommittee to the safety committee was formed during the meeting to "look into the possibilities of creating a grievance system," Leg Council member John Schaefer said.

In response to concerns over the quality of care at the University Child Care Center, a parents council board has been formed in which officers are elected by the parents, Council chair Donna Henry reported.

The center is also in the process of "forming an advisory committee," Henry said. "A lot of positive things are happening.... We would appreciate help and will take anything we can get."

In other news, Internal Vice President Mikhael Smith announced that he had received a letter from the Office of the Registrar which said that as of Jan. 23, he is no longer enrolled at UCSB. "I think it's because I owe them money but I haven't figured it out yet," Smith said.

"I think this system has some inherent problems," Smith continued. "I attempt to be a part of this system in order to make some internal changes."

Smith stands to lose his position as internal vice president if the letter is upheld.

"If Mikhael doesn't clear this up ... a special election will have to be held," Lawson said.

UCSB Holds Lesbian, Gay Conference This Weekend

More than 300 people are expected to attend the Fifth Annual Western States Lesbian and Gay Students United Conference this weekend at UCSB.

At least 35 speakers will be featured, including West Hollywood Mayor Steve Schulte and UCSB English Professor Rhonda Levine. Conference check-in begins Friday at 6 p.m. at the Cafe Interim and will be followed by the keynote address at 8 p.m.

Workshops will be held on topics such as safe sex, stress in the gay community, unlearning the fear of AIDS, coming to terms with being a lesbian, living and dying with AIDS, racial issues concerning gays and substance abuse among gays, according to Bob Byrd of the UCSB Gay and Lesbian Student Union.

For a complete listing of the weekend's events, contact the GLSU.

Self-defense Experts Will Exhibit Techniques of Rape Prevention

Self-defense instructors will be teaching a class on rape prevention today at noon in the Women's Center as the Fear Into Power series continues.

"Standing Up To Rape: Self-Defense" will feature rape and self-defense experts from the Santa Barbara Rape Crisis Center, Santa Barbara City College and Model Mugging who will demonstrate their preferred techniques of rape prevention.

Co-sponsored by the UCSB Police Department, the event will ask those in attendance to make a choice on a method of prevention: yelling, kicking, talking, cooperating, planning ahead or a combination of the above.

Counseling and a question and answer period are available following the presentation.

The Death of a

Marc Evans

Sometimes people tend to forget just what an exceptional time it is that we live in. That's natural, since we only have personal memories that extend a few short years into the past. So we ignore continuity and simply substitute selected written and filmed instances that reduce history to static, separable fragments rather than the dynamic, changing whole that it is. That means we never really get a firm mental grasp of the "Big Picture." We take for granted the rapid, almost miraculous pace at which technology has improved civilized living.

But we should keep our eyes open, because these swift changes have given this generation a unique perspective: front row seats to a historical event that our ancestors would never have even considered possible, the complete and irreversible death of our planet.

Even if this catastrophe of global ecocide does not completely occur during our lifetime, the technological momentum in that direction is so great that it will likely be unstoppable if left unchecked for another 40 or 50 more years. Sound far-fetched? Overly pessimistic? Then consider the evidence. The LA Times reported last year that we are killing off a biological species every 24 hours. One species a day, every day. Exploding 10 percent of humanity's nuclear warheads would lead to a "nuclear winter," an artificial, lethal ice age that would last for decades. Continued combustion of petroleum and other organics is overloading the atmosphere with carbon dioxide and creating a "greenhouse effect" with unknown long term implications. Destruction of the rainforests, chemical and radioactive wastes, unending overpopulation, groundwater contamination, acid rain and fog ... the list is too long and anyone of these alone could be fatal to life if not halted. There is not more time. We who hesitate will be worse than lost, we will be corpses eroding on a barren, lifeless shell that was once Earth.

Perhaps if it is only humanity that will be eliminated this might be called a justifiable fate

End the Violence in C

Danielle Peters

The Santa Barbara chapter of the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador is sponsoring the local drive of the National Referendum to End the War in Central America, a national campaign spearheaded by the Coalition for a New Foreign Policy, SANE and Network in Solidarity with the Guatemalan People as well as CISPES. The referendum represents the first national grassroots project that will be carried out by the Central America movement as a whole. Locally, CISPES will be working with the Central American Response Network and other concerned volunteers.

The campaign is aimed at registering and projecting the massive public opposition to current policies in Central America. (Polls say that 70 percent of the country is against current policy). In light of the recent Iran-contra scandal, it is an opportune time to solidify what the polls reflect and put pressure on the Congress during a time when congressional hearings questioning the administration's Central America policy will be occurring.

Across the country as well as in Santa Barbara, ballot boxes will be set up (11 locations throughout Santa Barbara and Goleta) and local activists will ask their fellow citizens to voice their stance on the current policy of constant military escalation and to support an alternative policy of peaceful, negotiated solutions to the conflicts in Central America. They will be asked to sign a card that states their position on the National Referendum.

The signed cards will then be sent to representatives in Washington, D.C. Donations will also be collected to benefit the Salvadoran Medical Relief Fund which, among other things, goes to train rural doctors in El Salvador.

The Santa Barbara part of the campaign will begin on Saturday, Feb. 14 at noon, and will continue for five consecutive Saturdays until March 14.

by an impartial observer, but to take everything else with us is just unthinkable. Better for evolution to have stopped with the sea slug than to have given some poor monkeys enlarged hypothalmuses, opposable thumbs, and an overdeveloped killer instinct. It's up to us to make sure that people are not an evolutionary dead end.

Conceivably, our big brains and scientific expertise might produce an artificial environment that could sustain people, although at the cost of a majority of the current species. But consider this; there are no "reasons" for living. There are only rationales which imperfectly explain the feelings that make us want to live. Logic alone cannot sustain existence, it takes a deeply rooted sense of just how good life really is to survive. When all the forests have been logged and covered with cement, when there are no more butterflies because pesticides have killed all the caterpillars, when atmospheric hazing blocks out the sunsets and the stars and any well-defined horizons, any sense of "goodness" in the world will be hard to find. This must not come to pass.

So what do we do? There are two actions that must happen. Individually, we must take personal responsibility for every move we make. Don't drive distances that can be biked or walked. Don't buy synthetics when natural fibers will suffice. Don't discard anything that can be recycled. Just don't give comfort so much importance. Collectively, we must pressure those in power. Forget the grades, a degree means nothing in an uninhabitable world. Set your priorities. There will be no more racism when our faces are covered by gas masks and our skin is shielded from ultra violet radiation by lead armor. There will be no more sexism when our radioactively sterile bodies can no longer conceive and we are forced to genetically manipulate birth in plastic wombs to compensate for our neuterness. End the petty differences, we may be the last generation that can still stop this madness.

There is no more time.

in Central America

The present U.S. policy toward Central America is illegal, immoral and dangerous. U.S. military involvement has dramatically escalated over the last six years. In the past year alone, the United States has spent more than $2 million a day on the war in Central America.

The Reagan administration portrays the contras in Nicaragua as "freedom fighters" when, in fact, they are responsible for killing and torturing innocent civilians. The United States also supports the governments of El Salvador and Guatemala, which combined are responsible for over 100,000 civilian deaths since 1980.

In the spirit of democratic ideals, we should support freedom, justice and human rights in Central America. Therefore, I call on the administration and my members of Congress to:

- End all aid to the contras
- End all military and war-related economic assistance to the governments of El Salvador and Guatemala
- Remove all U.S. bases, troops and National Guardsmen from Honduras and end military aid to that country
- Promote peaceful solutions to conflict by supporting the Contadora process, establishing cooperative relations between the governments of the United States and Nicaragua, and promoting negotiations within El Salvador and Guatemala.

Santa Barbara CISPES is working on forming a coalition of local groups to unify on support for the referendum. We are setting a goal of between 6,000 and 8,000 cards. Volunteers are still needed to work. No previous experience is necessary because we will provide a training period before each Saturday's work. The burden of ending our government's actions in Central America falls on each of us. It's our country and our responsibility. To get involved with this project, call Julie or Danielle at 961-2139 and/or come to CISPES meetings Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. on the third floor of the UCen.

The Reader's Voice

Setting It Straight

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Dear Velvet Pearson,

I am back up on a "soap box" once again to address the letter you wrote, which appeared in the Nexus on Feb. 9. In my opinion, you were way out of line and your letter invalidated the apology you published in the Nexus. Before you condemn Anthony, Stacy, Carlos and me, I suggest that you get your facts straight.

Though it is very generous of you to acknowledge that minorities are discriminated against "over the entire globe," I must tell you that we are already aware of that. As black students of UCSB, we experience this racism first-hand. Before we set out to eradicate racism "over the entire globe," we must deal with it here.

Perhaps the omission of Ronald McNair's name was a typo, but that was not the only issue our letters addressed. I am quite aware of the time and effort involved in the publication of the Nexus. I can even understand how the editorial staff allowed your error, as inexcusable as it was, to slip by them. However, I cannot understand their reluctance and blatant refusal to print a retraction or acknowledgement in the Jan. 19 issue.

I do not feel that I am guilty of any "mud-slinging" as you called it. I do not feel that the Nexus is doing a "damn good job" but I will concede that they are trying. And in response to your question, the answer is "Yes!" to both points. I am "just a student" but I am also doing something. I am facing racism, head on, which is more than I can say for you.

I am trying to help improve the representation of blacks and other minorities in the Nexus and to strengthen our relations with the editorial staff. Furthermore, I am working on a racial awareness campaign to help enlighten insensitive, unaware, misinformed, hypocritical people such as yourself.

By the way, people with attitudes like yours eliminates any need for us to go looking for mistakes. You slap us right across the face with them.

ANASTASIA D. SMITH

Editor, Daily Nexus:

To Velvet Pearson:

The omittance of Ronald McNair's name is not a simple mistake, trivial matter, or just an "opportunity to give a speech from (our) soap box" but is indeed a sign that once again, the accomplishments of an ethnic American has been misrepresented. If so much time is spent with the publication of this paper, an error such as this would not have been made.

JANNETTA VARRIE
CINDY TORRES
ISABEL GONZALES

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Dear Velvet Pearson:

The neglected printing of Ronald McNair's name in the Nexus editorial was not a simple error or typo as you state. To many people it was insensitivity on the part of the paper and the author. And you are right that if different names were left off different individuals would have responded. Not only is this the correct action, but is beneficial for the Nexus. The Nexus benefits from correction of such incidents and can become more sensitive to the needs of individuals outside of their cultural group. As far as doing something useful, I feel we are. Rather than protesting some far off injustice (which is fine for some), I like to concentrate my efforts on problems in my own environment. In fact, I met with the Nexus editorial board on Sunday, Feb. 9, with some other concerned students about this issue and others that led up to the problem. You see, this is not the first time that there have been complaints against the Nexus. These problems have had a cumulative effect, but of course you would have known had you looked into the history of such issues before you write them off as mere typos. I would like to say that the Nexus staff was quite responsive and open during the meeting, and I was pleased that the meeting was so open and enlightening. I am glad that I took the time to meet the editorial board and that they were responsive to becoming sensitive to the needs of others.

W.S. CARLOS POSTON

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I want to let you know that we're quite right on how minority students are still facing racism today, but I think that you missed this very important fact: RACISM TODAY IS COVERT! Racism is a dirty thing and everyone wants to deny it. Since we are so "sophisticated" today that we come up with a reason for whatever we do, this is the very explanation for that "simple mistake." Of course there are those who discriminate toward others intentionally and there are those who do it subconsciously and out of ignorance, but the denial is always there. In conclusion, I would like to congratulate all those students who felt discriminated against and actually came out and spoke their mind and fought for their rights because their feelings were and are real; and no one can tell them that they are being over-sensitive. KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK!

The Draft

Editor, Daily Nexus:

The draft may be back!

South Carolina Senator Ernest Hollings has introduced a bill to reinstate the draft. In Sen. Hollings opinion, the armed forces should represent a cross section of America proportionately. He says it does not do so now. Hollings reports that 25 percent of the new recruits are black, and that this is twice the percentage of the American population.

In spite of top level Pentagon opposition to a new draft, Hollings and other critics of the volunteer forces say that a draft will be needed in the next decade because of the dwindling pool of young persons.

The radical Education Action Project has stated that this new draft bill, the recent activation of the armed forces reserves (which is the largest activation in peace time history), the massive military buildup in Honduras and Costa Rica, the unsure fate of contra aid — with the Reagan Administration stating that if contra aid is stopped, U.S. direct military involvement is inevitable, and the two naval wargroups off the coast of Lebanon, are definite signs of major preparations for war, yes war. Nothing less of the size and escalation of the Vietnam slaughter

The ROTC/Draft Counseling Center would like to remind all women and men that there are no student deferments, and would urge all women and men who have questions and concerns with these recent developments, to stop by and talk to them. They are located on the third floor of the UCen in the Student Lobby Office. Their phone number is 961-2139. They are putting out a special call to all women and men who are, or think they may be conscientious objectors, to stop by today and prepare for tomorrow.

Apology

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Jeans and Christ Concernees:

First, I wish to retract a statement I made to the Nexus for the results of Gay and Lesbian Jeans Day, regarding the term "girl." I inadvertently used this term, but meant "woman." This is a good example, pointed out to me in no uncertain terms, of unconscious sexism, for which I sincerely apologize.

Second, those who wrote letters to the editor are commended for helping GLSU's publicity. The Campus Christians for the Advancement of Christ capitalized well on this too.

Third, those who became upset with something as trivial as wearing jeans to show civil rights support only serve to exemplify the necessity of such statements. The details are not important; only the attitudes and lack of concern regarding gays and lesbians is one of the purposes, especially on a campus that credits itself for being liberal, open minded, and tolerant.

As soon as civil rights are recognized for all minorities, groups such as GLSU and events such as Gay and Lesbian Jeans Day, and our Western States Lesbian and Gay Students United Conference this weekend, will no longer be necessary.

Editor, Daily Nexus:

RE: Pornography and Violence

On Wednesday, Feb. 4, the Daily Nexus ran an article concerning a presentation given by Cheri Gurse of the Women's Center on the link between pornography and violence against women. Her points on this subject are entirely valid and well founded, but she made one statement that I doubt she can back with evidence.

Gurse is quoted as saying, "Fraternities and residence halls regularly sponsor films such as Deep Throat, Debbie Does Dallas and Behind the Green Door to raise money." Being a resident assistant at UCSB and a friend of many fraternity members, I find this statement personally offensive and challenge you to list any instances when these three films or similar pornography has been shown by either fraternities or residence halls on our campus. I've been a student here since 1984 and can recall no such instances.

Either prove your accusation or stop blowing hot air in order to support your cause. Frankly, such foolishness weakens your presentation.

Men's Track and Field Preview:

Women's Track and Field Team Hopes to Climb Ladder Higher

By Patrick Delany
Sports Editor

You win some, you lose some. Every sports team, no matter how successful, knows that. The UCSB men's track and field team, which opens its season Saturday afternoon against San Francisco State, Westmont College and Azusa Pacific at Pauley Track, is no different.

What the Gauchos lost, however, was not merely a meet or two. Due to graduation, they lost some of the best athletes produced by this school. Hammer and discus thrower Mike Wilmer will be sorely missed this season, as will high hurdler Elliott White. Both athletes qualified for the NCAA meet more than once during their college careers at UCSB. Long sprinter Tony Colbert, and distance runners Derek Turner and John Coste have also left a hole to be filled this season.

This is where the "win some" comes into play. According to Head Coach Sam Adams, the 1987 track and field squad is comprised of nearly twenty freshmen or first year athletes.

"They're (freshmen) making the team much more balanced than it was last year," Adams remarked. As proof, he added that even with the loss of Wilmer, the school's record holder in the hammer throw, the throwing events should be even stronger this season.

Returnees Paul Kim (shot put and hammer throw) and Doug Cole (hammer and discus), as well as Darren Robuck (shot put and hammer throw) and Andy Schaffer (discus throw), all add their talents to the the throwing events, perhaps the deepest of all events this season. George McGlynn and Evan Bowen both return their talent to the javelin throw, as well.

While the throws are fairly secure depth-wise, the same cannot be said for most of the other events.

"We're very thin in the sprints," Adams said. "We have some quality there, but we're very thin. We're not really too deep anywhere, but I think we're at least two, possibly three deep in most places. So we should be fairly successful in the dual meet season.

Leading that thin pack of sprinters will be returning junior Sandy Combs. Combs runs the 400m and the 200m and last year clocked times of 45.9 and 21.21 respectively in each of those events. Senior Kenny Malcolm, a sprinter, and junior Mike Norville, a quarter miler, also return. Adams also sees quarter miler potential in freshman John Neubert.

Returning senior Mike Fitzgerald should lead the 800m runners, while a newcomer to UCSB will probably be close behind. Scott Baker, a sophomore transfer, "has the potential to be an excellent 800m runner," according to Adams, "and he's run 48.0 in the 400m, so he's going to be a very good addition to our 4x400m relay."

Once again, senior Rob Styler will be at the forefront of the long distance events and, like Fitzgerald, will be trailed by newcomers. Chris Courter and Kai Hansen could add much needed depth to 5,000m/10,000m events. Junior Pete Wienerth will be the Gaucho to watch in the steeplechase, while fellow steeplechaser Lamberto Esparza recuperates from an injury.

Only one hurdler returns from last year's team. Sophomore Tom Noonan leads a "bunch" of freshmen in both the highs and intermediate hurdle events.

The field events will also be another of the Gauchos' strong points. With the possible exception of the long jump, all the field events should be strong and deep. Leading the returnees is David Wong, while freshman Oswald Tyler and David Rayne round out the horizontal jumps.

In the vertical jumps, the Gauchos return with 1986 conference high jump champion Doug Dreibelbis and junior Matt Wallace backing him up at that position.

Wallace will also be one of UCSB's top pole vaulters. Wallace and Bob Bishop, also returning, both jumped 15-7 last year.

Gaucha Swimming and Diving Teams End Regular Season Against Anteaters

By Mary Looman
Assistant Sports Editor

Campus Pool will be the site of an exciting dual meet Saturday afternoon as the UCSB swimming and diving teams close the regular season against UC Irvine. This will be the last competition for UCSB before the PCAA championships on Feb. 26-28.

"This will be a casual closing for the season," UCSB Coach Gregg Wilson remarked. "It should be a fun, loose meet for the seniors."

The Gauchos plan to use a fairly strong lineup, although Wilson will have many of his swimmers split their events. Another modification in the format will be the replacement of the men's medley relay with individual 100m's in each of the four strokes.

While the Irvine squad does not have much depth, it does have some strength. Leading the Anteater attack will be sophomore Brian Pajer, the defending PCAA champion in the 100m and 200m breaststroke and senior Kurt Fuchs, defending his PCAA 50m free title.

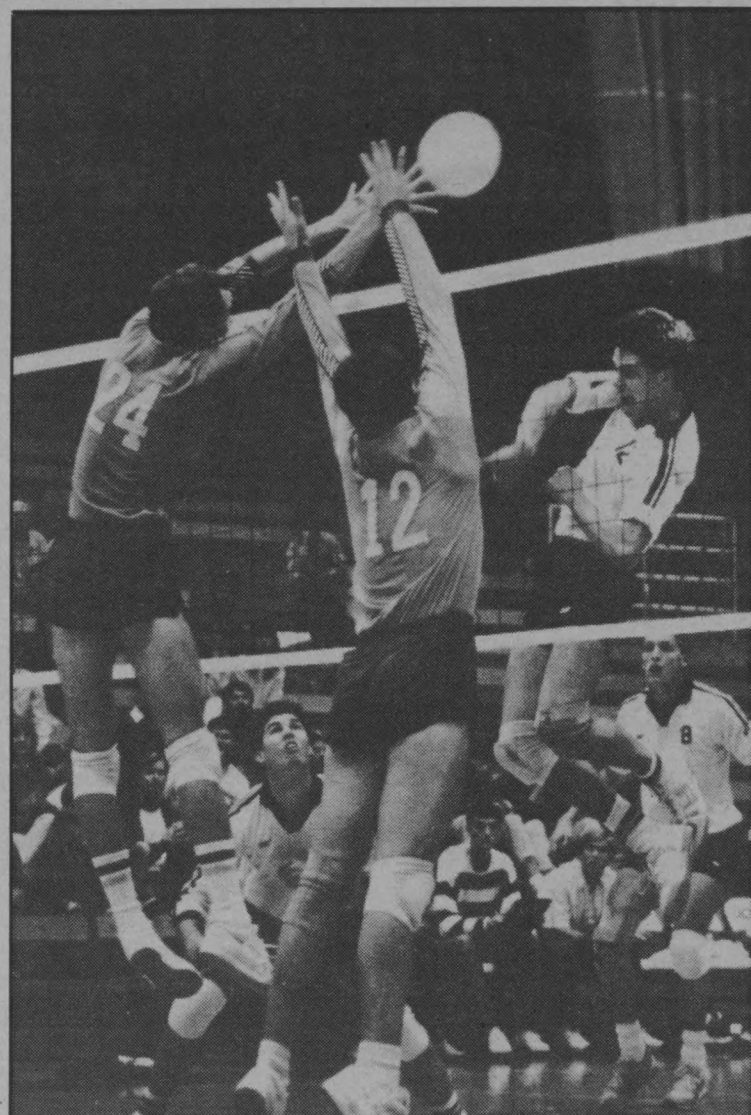

Although the Anteaters may have some big guns, their arsenal runs dry too early. "Their biggest weakness is that they lack depth," Wilson explained. "We have a variety of events that we can swim with depth and strength."

The women's competition is similar to the men's in that the Anteater squad lacks key performers. "The (Irvine swimmers and divers) that should be their real good swimmers just aren't swimming all that fast," Wilson commented.

The diving competition is also expected to be dominated by a strong Gaucho squad. Coming off their best dual meet of the season last Saturday in Long Beach, the diving squad will look to their two senior co-captains to lead the way.

Bill Barber, currently preparing for the NCAA Regional Zone competition, is heavily favored to win both the one and three meter board events in the men's competition, while first year diver Jeff Ritchey will have his hands full with two Anteater freshmen.

After having four match points, UCSB lost the fourth game, sending them into a deciding fifth game against UCLA.

UCSB Spikers Lose Marathon Matches

By Todd Davidson
Sportswriter

If the WIVA season continues featuring matches like Thursday night's UCSB-UCLA confrontation, the conference is in for a long and draining season. In probably the best men's volleyball match of a still-young conference slate, top-ranked UCLA emerged with an incredible 9-15, 15-11, 13-15, 16-14, 15-13 victory before 1,909 dejected fans Thursday night in the Events Center.

"That was a great collegiate volleyball match," Gaucho Head Coach Ken Preston said. He wasn't joking. Marathons are usually over in two hours and 15 minutes or so. This match was a marathon-and-a-half, with the teams playing three-and-a-half hours before Bruin outside hitter Arne Lamberg put away a spike that finally ended it.

The defeat, which leaves the Gauchos 1-2 in the WIVA and 14-5 overall, was especially tough to accept because of the last two games. In both games the Gauchos held the lead late in the game only to see the Bruins, 3-0 in conference and 17-3 overall, mount an incredible comeback.

The first three games had a bit less tension, but were well played by both teams. In the first game the Gauchos spotted the Bruins a 1-0 lead but controlled the game from then on. In the second game, the Gauchos forged ahead 10-9 but couldn't score another point as the Bruins evened the game score.

Women's Track and Field Preview:

UCSB's Rookie Tracksters Add Depth and Balance to Team

By Patrick DeLany
Sports Editor

The more reasonable one's goals are, the more likely they will be achieved. It's simple. So, rather than aiming for the NCAA meet in the preseason, women's track and field Coach Jim Triplett preaches the stepladder approach to his athletes.

According to Triplett, he wants his team to simply try to improve at each meet. He wants them to view each meet as a "stepladder." In this case, preferably a stepladder out of the PCAA cellar.

Last year, the Gauchos finished sixth out of the seven PCAA teams. It was definitely an improvement and what worked before is bound to work again, right?

"Right now the only goals we have are individual," Triplett explained. "The main goal is to improve, to have each girl go out there and do the best she possibly can. It's kind of like a stepladder. We hope to just get better and better throughout the season."

Leading the team up the ladder will be Debbie Cuttitta, one of the top Gaucho athletes. Cuttitta finished second in the 10,000-meter (37:02) at the PCAA meet last season and will lend her experience in both the 5,000-meter and the 10,000-meter this season. The distance events, the deepest of all events, also features returning senior Bernadette Torrez. Torrez has run the second fastest 3,000-meter in the school's history and is expected to score points in the 1,500-meter as well.

Junior Alix Tubman will occupy the number-one 800-meter spot and also contribute, along with senior Stephanie Klein, to the mile-relay team. Klein will also see some hurdling action this season. Michelle Kouremetis also returns to concentrate on her specialty — the sprints.

In the jumping events will be top Guacho high-jumper from last year, Tara Fairfield. Sophomore redshirt Stacy Lee is also expected to score some points for the Gauchos this year in the high-jump.

With the overall depth of the team fairly uneven — very thin in the field events, rather deep in the distance events — it's still hard for Triplett to predict where they will score the most points.

"I think we're going to be fairly balanced in the running events," Triplett said. "I think in the 400-meter and the long-distance hurdles we're going to score really well; we'll also score well in the 800-meter and in the distance events."

Long Beach Drops Two to Softball Team

The UCSB women's softball team improved their record to 7-0 Thursday by sweeping a doubleheader with Cal Poly San Luis Obispo (1-0, 1-0) at the Softball Diamond.

In the first game, Gauchito pitcher Sandy Ortgies was never in trouble, but the game stayed tied until the late innings. Kristi Householder scored in the sixth inning on a successful sacrifice by Alison Gyves.

UCSB's Pamela Reynolds equaled Ortgies' pitching in the second game. After the leadoff hitter was retired, the Gauchos recorded three straight singles. Alison Gyves was brought home by Tami Gregor.

Game three was more of a see-saw affair, but the Gauchos prevailed with the help of Pat Pennington off the bench. The junior outside hitter provided instant offense and motivation to the team. Preston inserted him for outside hiter David Rottman, who had 20 kills, but hit just .154. "I'm an emotional player," Pennington said. "I yell and make noise, and it picks up the team a little. But then I just settle down and play." Pennington had 13 kills and a .370 percentage.

The intensity level went up a few notches in the fourth game, but unfortunately UCLA made the big plays when they counted. UCLA held an early 4-2 lead, but the Gauchos scored the next five points to go up 7-4. UCSB never let

Undefeated Poets Pose Threat to Lacrossers

The UCSB lacrosse team will try to put an end to a pair of Whittier streaks Sunday. The Poets have beaten the Gauchos four consecutive times and have not lost a league contest in two years.

Whittier, whose previous claim to fame has been graduate Richard Nixon, has captured the last two Western Collegiate Lacrosse League titles.

Along the way the Poets have knocked off the Gauchos in two playoff competitions. In 1985, it was 15-11 in the semi-finals, and last year a 12-11 victory in overtime for the championship.

Last week, Whittier dispatched highly regarded Stanford, 17-6, and once again looks to be a strong contender for the title.

Whittier's success of late has corresponded with an increase in recruiting efforts north of the border. Canada, where lacrosse is the national sport, has provided many quality athletes for the Poet program.

Gauchito Coach John Knapp says his team is ready. "We've had good intensity all week in practice. There's a little extra incentive for this game, and everyone is looking forward to it."

UCSB's defense, somewhat of a question mark in the preseason, has been impressive and should be a key factor in the game. They have yielded an average of only 3.3 goals a game thus far.

Offensively, the Gauchos will be hampered by the loss of attackman Max Kemsley. Kemsley, the team's leading scorer, aggravated an old calf injury and will not start on Sunday. Sophomore Steve Brophy will fill in.

the Bruins within two points, and at 13-10 Tim Corliss blocked an Ozzie Volsted spike to give the Gauchos game point. UCLA fought off the Gauchos with clutch hitting and a block that strangely appeared at crunch time.

"We blocked real well at the end of games, but not anytime else," UCLA Head Coach Al Scates said. "We've been working on new blocking schemes, but I think we may go back to just reading the setter." After drawing even at 14-14, two straight blocks by Don Dendinger and Scott Williams forced a fifth game.

After such a depressing end to the fourth game, momentum was definitely on the Bruins side in game five. So much for momentum. The Gauchos stormed out to a 7-0 lead behind excellent hitting by Kosty, who did everything but usher in the fans, finishing with 39 kills and a .429 hitting percentage.

The senior outside hitter seemed unstoppable early in the game.

The Gauchos upped their lead to 9-2, but the Bruins rallied behind their bread and butter, good blocking. Three straight blocks brought them within two points, 9-7, but the Gauchos pulled together and built a 12-9 lead. The end looked like a carbon copy of game four, as the Bruins again swept past the Gauchos and claimed the match on Lambert's kill.

Scott Drake, usually a substitute, played well in a starting role, getting 22 kills with a .450 percentage. His play, however was of little consolation to Preston. "We gave them life (in the fourth game), and you just can't do that," he said.

Despite the loss, Preston was pleased with his team's play in the losing effort. "This team will be heard from. We'll get better and better," he concluded.

Hoop Team Holds Late Anteater Surge, 92-85

By Scott Channon
Contributing Editor

IRVINE — No one ever said the UC Irvine basketball team wasn't exciting. The Anteaters, known for their running game, almost ran right past a 27-point second half deficit against the Gauchos Thursday night.

The Anteaters whittled that margin down to three points with 20 seconds left before the Gauchos held on for a 92-85 victory.

The Gauchos improved to 6-6 in the PCAA, 11-10 overall, while the Anteaters fell to 6-8 and 11-12.

In that final eight-minute stretch, the Gauchos simply let up while the Anteaters poured it on, outscoring the Gauchos, 39-15.

"We were winning by so much, we just started to relax," Khriston Fortson said. The Gauchito forward scored 17 points, while guard Brian Johnson led the team with 23 points.

Irvine guard Scott Brooks, nursing a sprained ankle, scored 21 of his game-high 28 points in the final eight minutes. Brooks canned his fifth and final three-pointer with 32 seconds left, cutting UCSB's lead to 88-83.

"I have no idea where he (Brooks) gets his energy," Gauchito Coach Jerry Pimm said. "He's a very gutsy kid."

After Brian Shaw missed the front end of a one-and-one, Mike Doktorczyk cut the margin to 88-85 by converting a tip-in with 20 seconds left. However, after that basket, Irvine guard Frank Woods slapped the ball out of bounds, earning a delay-of-game call and a technical foul. Shaw hit both foul shots with 18 seconds

"We came back really well, but it didn't matter," Irvine Coach Bill Mulligan said. "There's no excuse for not being ready to play. The first 30 minutes were absolutely disgraceful."

After a poor first half, where they shot only 41 percent, the Anteaters found themselves behind, 50-36. However, the Gauchos hit 68 percent of their shots, finishing the game at 64 percent.

"Santa Barbara is the greatest team every time I've seen them play this year," said Mulligan, whose team lost by 18 points at UCSB a month ago. "I don't understand how they are 6-6."

The Gauchos can answer that. They are 3-8 on the road this year.

"I feel really good to win a close game on the road," said Johnson, who hit five of six three-pointers.

But, again, that it was even a close game had to make the Gauchos think, a lot. UCSB committed 25 turnovers, 10 of those coming in the final 10 minutes.

The Gauchos now travel to UNLV Saturday night. The Runnin' Rebels are now 12-0 in the PCAA.

RACISM AT UCSB

women professors. "I think that's a crime," panelist Dorrell Ivy said.

Panel member Kim Waters, co-chair of the Black Student Association, believes that since the administration is not being "sensitive" to minority needs and not "doing nearly enough" minority recruitment, something must be done to bring about change.

"We all know that there are no magical solutions to this problem," Waters said, "but we can start by not ignoring the issue."

Panelist Vanessa Newton agreed. She recalled coming to UCSB with twelve other Afro-Americans from the same school. "There's only three left," she said.

"We get them here but then we lose them.... Are we selling a campus that would only appeal to whites?" Newton asked administrators in the audience. "You can't keep someone in an environment where they aren't welcome."

Freshman panelist Helen Quan emphasized the need for a cultural center to meet the needs of the entire student body and improve minority teacher and student recruitment. "If we have to recruit (minority) teachers ... (and) we don't even have a cultural center, how can we prove to them that we want them?" she asked.

"We've been given the runaround too much," she charged, demanding response from administrators within two weeks. "I would like to see this thing happen as soon as possible."

Panel members also addressed current minority relations with campus media organizations, which they claim misrepresent the minority population.

Ivy, a KCSB disc jockey, claimed that KCSB staff continually questions the validity of minority music. Of the four minority shows currently in KCSB's schedule, all are offered at "inadvertent hours," she claimed. "We want quality air time.... It's not fair."

Ivy also claimed that KCSB is predominantly rock, new wave and heavy metal. "Minorities would like to hear more diversity," she said.

Panelist Cindie Bowles discussed the Afro-American students' recent meeting with the Editorial Board of the Daily Nexus, where several requests were presented by members of the Black Student Association in efforts to diminish racism they felt inherent in the paper.

The three requests included a minority page written by and for minorities, an ethnic consultant as part of the staff and the installation of a Daily Nexus Afro-American Scholarship Award, similar to the minority scholarship which ended in 1984 due to lack of applications. With these additions, the Nexus would be more qualified in its minority coverage, group members said.

Daily Nexus response to these requests was "very hesitant," Bowles reported. "While they said they wanted to work with us they were very hesitant."

Staff members found it difficult to support a weekly minority page because ethnic segregation would result. The editors believed that minority issues could be covered more effectively within existing departments at the Nexus, she explained.

However, the editors said that if the group still believes a page is necessary, members could propose that it be financed by acting Chancellor Daniel Aldrich, thus they could control its content, Bowles said.

The requests for the Afro-American Scholarship and an ethnic consultant were denied for financial reasons, she explained.

"They (the editors) appeared that they wanted to work with us," Bowles said, adding that three Afro-American students have been hired since the meeting, "but was most of it was an aftereffect.... We weren't going to take that."

Although relations between CSAR and the Nexus are on "probation" for the rest of the quarter, group members plan to pursue the establishment of these requests, she added.

Following the session, Daily Nexus Editor In Chief William Diepenbrock clarified that since the Challenger omission on Jan. 16, at least one minority student has joined the staff. Approximately 15 students of different ethnic backgrounds were employed before then, comprising about 12 percent of the current staff.

After the meeting, which was covered by local media, Vice Chancellor of Student and Community Affairs Ed Birch asked to speak on behalf of Aldrich, who was unable to attend the meeting.

"We hear you. We have heard you.... You bring to us issues that are very real.... I can assure you that we have every intention to address these issues," he said.

CSAR, which recently formed in efforts to halt racism at UCSB, is a product of Word Up, a bi-monthly discussion session sponsored by the Black Student Association to address minority concerns.

"Staffers of the oversight committees tell us that the CIA is running 50 covert actions altogether.... We're destabilizing almost one-third of the countries (in the world)."

—John Stockwell

soldiers ... what they are is peasants. They're almost all together capitalists," he said.

Billed as the highest-ranking CIA official to go public, Stockwell is convinced that unless action is taken, the world as we know it will cease to exist because of nuclear might and Reagan's mentality.

Speaking of anti-nuclear activist Helen Candicott's visit to the White House, Stockwell said there were "at least nine things that Mr. Reagan said indicating essentially that he doesn't know a thing about missiles and bombs and things."

Stockwell thinks Reagan's lack of compassion for children, coupled with the knowledge of his own dwindling life and his views on Armageddon, will result in a nuclear holocaust. "He says we're all playing out our roles (in Armageddon). He believes he has a role as president. He has the power to make it happen."

Stockwell finds the nuclear arms race pointless. "We now have in this world, in the United States, enough nuclear weapons to destroy 80 Soviet Unions. What use do we have in building even one more nuclear weapon?" he asked.

With the large amount of nuclear arms, there is a high risk of a potential disastrous computer malfunction, he said. "There have been 152 times when our computers have malfunctioned and put us on nuclear alert. Five submarines have sunk to the ocean floor carrying nuclear weapons."

Stockwell, who reads "one or two books a week," interwove his accusations and allegations with a wide variety of references to books, articles and other reports. "I urge you to read books. If you don't get out there and get your minds in this world then you're fair game, and you don't have a right to complain when the bombs go off."

Stockwell also attacked such things as Sylvester Stallone, contra drug smuggling, war glorification in movies and commercials, violence on television, the Libya bombing, the Grenada invasion, and many others.

Both the Libya bombing and the Grenada invasion were created to cover up presidential mistakes, Stockwell alleged. Grenada occurred days after the Beirut bombing that killed 241 marines. The Libya bombing overshadowed the fact that the United States had just become a debtor nation for the first time in 70 years, he said.

The hour-and-a-half long lecture was followed by a 45-minute question and answer period with the audience, in which he addressed topics from U.S. Congressman Robert Lagomarsino, R-Santa Barbara, to the Peace Corps.

Chuck's

A Santa Barbara tradition since the late '60s, Chuck's has been voted the best steak house in Santa Barbara. Specialties include Hawaiian chicken and fresh fish selections, featuring fresh local swordfish when available. Tiger prawns broiled in fresh garlic butter are also featured and, of course, all dinners include their original Salad Bar, sourdough and pumpernickel rye bread, and rice.

Complimentary Hors d'oeuvres are served in Chuck's comfortable cocktail lounge from 5 to 7. Teriyaki Beef morsels and chicken wings are featured during the week, as well as cheese, crackers, and pepperoncinis. Tropical drinks are a specialty of the house, and Mai-Tais are a year-round favorite.

Chuck's is located near the corner of State and La Cumbre, across from La Cumbre Plaza. Dinner is served until 11 pm weeknights, and until 11:30 Friday and Saturday.
