Prior to the talk there was a short business meeting at which members discussed attendance at the Redlands convention of International Relations clubs.

Goblins March as Pranksters Play Puns

Hallowe'en Spirit Upsets Scribes Idea of Justice and Law

• Yes, yes, Hallowe'en . . . well, well. There are several interesting facts about this auspicious occasion that are worthy of note. The main points are: it comes once a year; it usually falls on the last day of October; it's the celebration of some saint day; it's a time when little defenseless youngsters get "tossed in the jug for violating the sanctity of the law abiding citizens of our thriving community; and last but not least, according to the older reminiscers it ain't what it used to be.

It certainly isn't the fault of the younger generation that this day of the year isn't what it used to be. But what the heck—it's getting so that a person can't even raise a little "respectable" havoc anymore without arousing the ire of the gen-darmerie. After all . . . think of the rise in consumption of perishable produce caused by this day of days. Take the tomato for instance . . . about five years ago tomato was highly glorified on Hallowe'en. This little round, red, juicy fruit of the vine had much to do with the "success" of this particular evening. For awhile it seemed that it might even take the place of the old fashioned pumpkin. But that was not to be. The powers that be called such actions taboo, and made this luscious little fruit contraband, especially when swishing through the air in the general direction of the proverbial bobby.

In kindergarten the youngsters used to dress up like ghosts, ring doorbells, and the braver ones even soaped a window or two. When a student got to grammar school he did all of these and soaped a few more windows. Came junior high school . . . enter the tomato. When high school was reached, an evening on Hallowe'en was not considered complete without a little visit by the culprits to the city judiciary office. Now in college we wonder . . . what next? How can we college students celebrate this occasion without having the evening appear dull, and still not be too "childish"? I guess the only thing to do is become a child again () . . . after all who wants to grow up anyway?

Give Me Liberty—

● Freedom! That age-old cry of college students, and especially of student editors, seems to have come in for its share of interest in the recent happenings on the State campus. In each of several cases the question of supervision, guidance or discipline has arisen to oppose "freedom."

We carried an editorial in the last issue which commented on an abuse of privileges of free students. In the "Questionnaire" we offer another attempt to permit freedom of press to student opinion. In the forming of a student judiciary we see a move to curb abuses of freedom, and also have seen the difficulty of drawing the line between freedom and discipline. In the recent football controversy, there has reigned throughout, that question of freedom of an institution and its students to say and do as they saw fit. What is the general conclusion to be drawn from looking at the results of these problems which have confronted us?

Do these events, as related as they may be, show that college students have too much freedom, or too little of common sense or intelligence to make good use of such freedom. We certainly think that it is not true of the majority. Pointing the finger of accusation is not always the best of policies, nor is it the easiest way to close an issue. We do believe, however, that in any case of student government or administration, the principle of democracy, of the good coming from majority opinion holds true. Troubles, if they have been such, have come from a small majority, who we believe should pay the penalty of losing their freedom, if they are guilty of harming the name of Santa Barbara State college.

Quotable Quotes

● "The problems of today can be solved and will be solved through an intelligent trained leadership," said acting Pres. Herman B. Wells of Indiana University freshmen.

"The students who rank highest in scholarship are also the students who take an active part in extra-curricular activity." Dean G. Herbert Smith of DePauw University hastened to add that "bookworms" rarely make the highest grades.

"Each generation has its own kind of literary measles." So says Dr. J. D. Ferguson, professor of English at Cleveland College.

"Although there is a much-lauded American tradition of 'working one's way through college,' the frequency with which students have been actually able to earn their maintenance during the four-year period in which they completed the Bachelor's Degree is so small that to attempt to do so may . . . be considered poor judgment—C. L. Murray, registrar, Ball State Teachers' College, Indiana.

"Two percent of the people do the thinking for the remaining 98 percent and you are a part of the 2 percent." Dr. William F. Quillian, Director of the General Board of Christian Education of the Methodist Church, South, flattered students at Birmingham Southern College.

"The educational spoon in America is handled by competent and understanding teachers but the students should do the feeding themselves." Dr. Alexis Carrel, ranking scientist, is interviewed by the Dartmouth student newspaper.

"It may seem strange but all great men slipped off their pedestals as soon as they began to beat a path to the bathtub." Dr. Sanders, a professor in education at De Paul University, saw this lecture remark picked up by a campus columnist.

In My Opinion . . .

By Jack Salyer

● The United States has a stake in China far greater than the 150 millions of dollars already invested. The trade lanes, which will be jeopardized, if Japan is successful, are vital to our maritime life on the Pacific. Today China and the United States have a balanced trade. We buy from China about as much as they buy from us. If Japan is able to gobble up China, they will quit buying cotton from us and raise it in China, while the United States will continue to buy silks, etc., from Japan. So Japan is useless as a purchaser of American goods and will definitely control the Pacific area if they are allowed to grow fat on the luckless Chinese.

Russia has recognized this danger and is sending war materials to China. In event of warfare between Russia and Japan it is definitely to our interests to support Russia in such an issue. We are not competitors in Pacific; we are not competitors in the world markets, and Russia is not filled with the fanatic notion that Russia must control the Orient. A joint notice from the United States and Russia to Japan ordering her and her army out of China would serve its purpose admirably. Japan is not quite foolish enough to tackle the two largest countries in the world.

● Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party . . . We couldn't think of any good quotable quote or any dusty material . . . Ah, Miss Seymour just went by, "Hello, Ann. See you behind the dirt column this week." . . . She eats up this publicity.

Those ever so slight rumors about El Gaucho's blackened reputation following the overnight stay in the southland after the Redlands game can come to a pleasant end! A letter sent by a college high official to the manager of the Hotel California has been answered in the friendliest of terms. It states that the students are always welcome in the future, they are entitled to a whole-some good time and the college needn't pay for the breakage unless it felt that it should.

Friends of EDWARD McPHEE call him "Haley street youth." First guess is that it isn't so nice and they are just teasing him . . . MARY ALICE HALFERTY was called for and taken home in a garbage truck yesterday by BILL SPARROW and BOB H. as chaperone . . . Possibly a lot better than some of the four-wheeled coffins seen on campus . . . Girls who know TRUTH SHEP-PARD say she can be sincere when she really isn't. She still looks O.K.

Still can't get over the attitude of LOIS (if-you-do-me-a-favor-you-must-be-nuts-about-me) SCHEPPELE While on the other side we have more than the ordinary number of comments about DOROTHY KEANE'S personality . . . PAT QUINN goes into solitary confinement in the student directory—can't say he's running true to form . . . Afraid this next one is true, too? ARLEN STOCKBURGER had a girl buy him four-bits worth of gasoline and push the crate to start it—all to take her downtown for coca-cola.

Gaucha Team Faces Poet Eleven

Southland Contest Sees Crucial Conference Lead at Stake

OPPONENTS STRONG

Locals Weakened By Loss of Backfield Stars, Regulars Start

By WALDO PHELPS

• Heading south today for their second invasion of the southland Coach "Spud" Harder and his Gaucha varsity meet the Whittier Poets in a crucial conference battle. If the Gauchos, weakened by injuries, can get past the Poets, they have only La Verne to meet before their coming game with San Diego can be billed as a championship encounter. On the other hand, if Santa Barbara loses tonight, their chances of placing high are slim.

Poets Good

The Whittier team is no cinch. They have backfield material galore, and their main problem seems to be in finding suitable linesmen. Fellows with such names as Dick Kunishima, Gene Weininger, Tod Mulcahy and Fred Elkinton will really go to town tonight provided they get the proper support from their line.

Whittier Lineup

Norman Futig and Charlie Robinson, both experienced wingmen, will probably get the call to start at the ends against the Gauchos. Captain Bill Tufts, two year letterman, and Myron Claxton, are slated to open at tackles, but there is the possibility that Chet Halley would get the call, thus allowing Capt. Tufts to pair off at guard with either Cecil Watter or Dick Laux. Alex Mechikoff appears to be a fixture at center on the Quaker eleven.

Although defeated five times this season, the southerners are in a fine spot for an upset. Every defeat so far has been by a one touchdown margin and their schedule has included games with Arizona State of Flagstaff, Willamette University and San Diego State. The Poets, remembering last year's unexpected 26 to 0 whitewashing have been gunning for the Gauchos all year, and Coach Harder's crew will have to be on it's toes to come out on top.

Weakened by the loss of Morelli, State will enter tonight's game in none too good a physical condition. Bill McArthur and "Greek" Valos will watch from the sidelines, and Peirino Merlo will play only a few minutes, if at all.

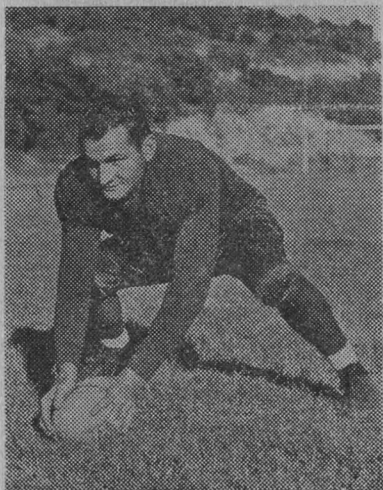

Harder will start Mulock and Young at ends, Busby and Woody at tackles, Oldershaw and Romer at guards, and Hart at center in the line. The backfield will undoubtedly be composed of Pollock, Monson, Yeager and Frisholtz, who will take over the "Scooter's" halfback spot.

If the Gauchos are in the proper psychological frame of mind there is no reason why they should not score a victory over the Poets and continue in the thick of the conference race.

PROF SLEEPS

• The University of Iowa possesses one professor, in the college of education, who understands the undergraduate mind. He occasionally warns the students, "I think I'll sleep through class time." And he does.

Al Sprague

Allan Sprague Joins Squad

Second String Center Tells Admiration of Mulock As Gridder

• What would the Gaucha football team do without that mighty little city of Bakersfield and its football material, for the Oiler City has donated another outstanding "beef" to this year's varsity in the person of Al Sprague.

Al has participated in a good number of gridiron encounters having completed four years of high school and two years of junior college ball. At the Driller institution Sprague filled gaps at both tackle and center spots. Although not considered first string this year he is seeing a good deal of action and is the reason for making Donk Hart work harder than ever before.

In looking forward to next year's team Sprague thinks that "next season's prospects who are already in school and eligible for ball should, along with the new transfers, give State a strong team". When this writer asked him for a comment concerning unsung heroes of the forward wall, Al answered, "This guy Danny Mulock, is one of the finest linesmen I've ever seen. In the Tempe game I had the opportunity of playing right behind him, as I backed up the line on defense. Not once did he fail to knock down interference or smother the play single-handed. I'm telling you he is a pretty smart ball player."

If Al were asked to pick the best opposing back of the season he would cast all his ballots for "Hurling Heinie" Heineman, the versatile Texas Mines back who displayed such outstanding ability in last week's tussle. As a matter of fact he believes that at the conclusion of "Heine's" last year he should gain All-American recognition.

Two very contrary interests serve for Al's major and minor in that he is studying P.E. and music. At Bakersfield Sprague played in dance

GAUCHITOS FALL TO S.M. JAYSEE IN 3RD DEFEAT

• Gauchito gridders met their third defeat by a Jaysee team this season last Friday night when the Santa

• Turning on the heat the Gauchitos hit the win column again as La Purissima CCC fell in the yearlings path, 19-6. Coaches Sanderson and Fredburg took the Gauchitos to Lompoc for this game in preparation for the Taft Jaysee game next week. The Frosh travelled in the Gaucha bus with Elmer Jeffries driving.

Maria J.C. squad beat them 13-0 in a loosely played game on the northern field.

Santa Maria's scores came in the second and third quarters, but they led all the way, gaining consistently through the freshman forward wall. Yardage totals showed a decided edge in their favor.

It wasn't until the third period that the frosh made any semblance of a threat. Nice gains made by Ben Pitcher and Ben Wallack put the ball in scoring position, but it was finally lost on downs. Again in the last quarter, the locals moved down to their opponents' 25-yard marker on a series of passes but failed to score.

The best lineman on the field was Fran Schwab, Gauchito tackle. His defensive work was exceptional as he broke up numerous Santa Maria plays. In the backfield, Pitcher showed fine form, playing his first game for several weeks after recovering from an injured shoulder.

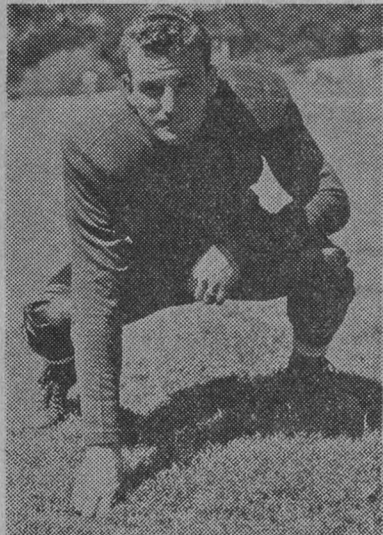

Follett, Kitchen Fete Gauchos Sunday

• Members of the football squad and the coaches will be the guests of Don Follett and Jack Kitchen at a barbecue Sunday afternoon at the latter's ranch home in Somis.

bands and in the orchestra helped to donate the roar of the bass section. His primary interest is Ranger work and if it is not possible to secure a position as guardian of our natural resources he desires to become a coach.

Dewitt Trewhitt

• Dewitt Trewhitt, above, 201-pound guard, from Bakersfield J.C. who will probably see service against the Poets tonight at Whittier.

SPORT SHORTS

By WALDO PHELPS

• Tonight's contest at Whittier will be the critical one as far as conference play for the Gauchos goes this year. Provided they conquer the Poets they should have no trouble with La Verne the following weekend. Then for the second time in as many years, the "battle of the State colleges," Santa Barbara and San Diego, will decide who is to be champion. As far as the Gauchos are concerned, therefore, it's do or die tonight. Victory will mean in all probability, that the "big game" will find the two Staters hung up like this on November 20:

Santa Barbara	3	0	1

Victory for either outfit would mean the championship. Of course, we are assuming all along that San Diego will knock over Redlands and they probably will do just that.

State, Aztecs Triumph in Loop Play

S.C. Conference Captures Limelight in Parade of Pigskin

• Southern California conference, possessing plenty of real fight, an unscored-on perfect team, two teams that haven't won a game, and a record of more than 60 percent ties, is crowding big teams out of the limelight. While everyone assumes the Pacific Coast conference outcome nobody appears to be certain of anything in Southern California.

Leading the conference are two state schools which a few years ago didn't speak out of turn for fear the rest of the conference would beat them a little worse. Today these schools, San Diego and Santa Barbara, are playing intersectional games, strutting about with chips on their shoulders and preparing for the real battle when they get together on November 20.

For the coming weekend two conference games take place as Whittier plays host to Santa Barbara after losing their first five games and only scoring in two. Meanwhile Redlands will visit La Verne who finally succeeded in scoring against Pomona last week although they lost the game by twenty points.

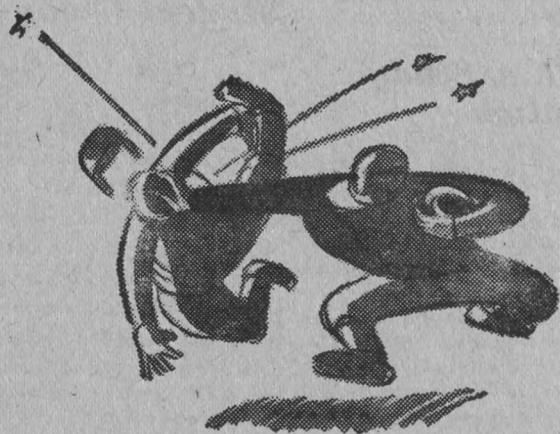

Saturday Oxy will meet Cal Tech in the Rose Bowl for a night game.

San Diego will take a breathing spell before meeting Redlands in what promises to be a tight game. This rest is needed as Bob Ford, star fullback, is still recovering from a concussion of the brain.

Santa Barbara State	1	0	1
Occidental College	1	1	2
