Students Petitioning to Retain Knall's Social Welfare Course

One hundred UCSB students are trying to save Dr. Herbert Knall's Sociology 150 course with a petition drive.

Knall is the popular instructor of "Principles of Social Welfare," concentrating on social work and mental health. During the day, he is a psychiatric social worker at Camarillo State Hospital.

According to written appeals and petitions sent to Department Chairman Dr. Thomas J. Scheff, the course is "a valuable contribution to the understanding of mental health (as opposed to mental illness)."

Students also cited Knall's selflessness in offering to teach Soc. 150 without pay and his helpfulness in locating them in social work careers or scholarships.

Soc. 150 has always suffered from the fact that it does not count as credit for the major. According to a student enrolling in Soc. 150 at Spring Open Reg, the departmental representative tried to discourage him from taking the class.

Scheff himself has stated that Soc. 150 is a "service course" given primarily as "a favor" to students seeking social work careers.

BASTARD CHILD

So Knall, self-proclaimed "bastard child of the Sociology Department," church organist, holder of a Divinity degree, and poet faces almost certain extinction for the rest of the academic year.

There is an outside chance of saving Soc. 150, Scheff said a week ago, but it will take an all-out effort by interested students.

In response to this, several members of the current class (Bob Thibaut, Kent Ulm, Mike Nagler) have circulated petitions among past, present, and prospective students. John and Leslie Maybury, in a written appeal, described the course as being in step with the Hitch Directives of the University of California. (UC President Charles Hitch has urged every campus to participate actively in solving the urban social problems.)

Wants Social Work School . . . DR. DAVID GOLD

Support for the student petitions is being sought from the social workers' union downtown, as well as from the Channel Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers (NASW).

Jud Adams, Psychology TA who has been working in that department for curriculum reforms, welcomed the Sociology 150 fight as an affirmation of the Hitch Directives.

Nevertheless, Sociology faces serious budgetary and Master Plan obstacles. According to Dr. David Gold, who chaired the Department when Knall was hired, social work should be the subject of an entire school or department.

Field placements, a major precondition for establishing such a school, apparently abound in the area, said Gold. Fresno State College even places its social work students in Santa Barbara agencies and institutions.

SOCIAL WORK SCHOOL???

The possibility of a School of Social Work will come under discussion in Knall's class Monday night at 7, North Hall 1006A Lecture Room. Interested non-members of the class are free to attend.

SECOND VISITS OF GUEST LECTURERS in classrooms must now be approved by at least the Dean of the class's college. Frederick Dutton (left) and William Roth opposed this new Regent ruling, but their side lost, 13-7.

Regents Revise Lecturer Ruling

By RICK ROTH
EG City Editor

SAN DIEGO--Amidst charges that they were avoiding the issue of faculty control of academics, the UC Board of Regents approved an interim resolution outlining revised restrictions on outside lecturers in their monthly meeting at UC San Diego on Thursday and Friday.

In other action at their monthly meeting at the UC San Diego campus, the Regents approved a proposed operating budget of $341 million, a figure that seems fated to be cut. Governor Ronald Reagan told the board that "it goes without saying that this budget can't be approved by the state," citing mounting financial difficulties.

The new Committee on Educational Policy (CEP) Amendment, which UC President Charles Hitch called the second step in the direction of a lasting rule regarding guest lecturers, is worded as follows:

GUEST LECTURERS

"Effective immediately, and until further action by the Regents, no one may lecture or lead a discussion for more than one occasion during an academic quarter in a course authorized under the delegations made in Chapter IX, section 2(b) of the Standing Orders of the Regents, or in a course not authorized under this delegation . . . unless he holds an appointment with the proper instructional title.

"This applies whether or not the speaker is paid by the University. The President may authorize exceptions which do not involve substantial responsibility for the conduct of instruction by persons not holding instructional titles."

The resolution also makes it mandatory for faculty members who wish to have a guest lecturer appear in their class (Continued on p. 8, col. 1)

This Is THE Week For Project Pakistan

This is the week to pick up your application for Project Pakistan at the table in front of the library, from the A.S. office or the Counseling Center.

The requirements for the program are minimal. You must have a 2.0 grade point average, be a U.S. citizen and be returning to UCSB next year. There is no language requirement.

The reason that an applicant must be returning to UCSB next year is because each year the team that returns from the summer in Pakistan is then responsible for training and selecting the team for the next summer.

The training process is an exciting one which involves a wide variety of activities. One of the main purposes of the training is to enable the prospective team members to have a wide variety of experiences together, to share and discuss these experiences, and thus get to know each other and grow individually as well.

Anyone with more questions about Project Pakistan or the training should ask at the Project table in front of the library.

BSU VP Andrew Jackson Finds:

'No Spirit of Brotherhood on this Campus'

(Editor's note: The following interview with Andrew Jackson, Vice President of the Black Student Union (BSU) is the first in a series.)

By PEGGY BURNSIDE
EG Staff Writer

Berlin, Paris--these are only a few of the areas that have been centers of recent student protest. The incident of North Hall which occurred at the beginning of this quarter is only "one incident in the total picture of things," said Andrew Jackson.

"When a student here can separate the appeal for justice by black students, black an adjective of separation, from other student injustices, this student has expressed a racial attitude. The whole thing was a plea for justice. It was a model of what's happening in this country and is not to be visualized as exclusive of the Dow protest and resistance to the draft."

The white backlash resulting from the North Hall incident points out the presence of "blatant racists" on this campus, according to Jackson, but more than this, evidence that "UCSB is essentially no academic community. There is no spirit of brotherhood on this campus, no common bond, if administrators are allowed the leeway to commit other injustices against students we are going to have to ask for liberty for all students. My whole thing is educating the people, making them more sensitive to human injustice."

Jackson's concern with this community goes beyond the racial issue. His view of the BSU reflects this feeling. The BSU is "not a racist organization." It's membership is not closed to white students. It is a student organization and not a black organization. However, says Jackson, "I can't see where a white person would be very comfortable. The BSU is a cultural organization, and it is a culture that is alien. There are white persons who can make the cultural leap. There are a few here who can transverse cultures and give a soulful elaboration and not appear awkward.

"The spirit of the BSU is within the black community,...

it is not autonomous with the black community but it is in the black community that the BSU can be effective. That's where the real issues are: economics, schools, decent housing." The BSU is putting forth one question: "survival. Functioning apart from the black community the BSU is null and void; it would be a farce, a social organization like the Greek letter organizations."

Jackson turned to criticism of the Greek society. "I am disgusted with Greeks on this campus, being a Greek myself. They are not following the tradition of being a Greek" which should be inherent in the system. "Your total outlook is similar to Socrates, Aristotle" in the ideal sense, the BSU leader said. "Granted they are social organizations; the thing that really hurts is to spend $500 or $600 for a float when they can't organize themselves to rid this campus of human injustice.

"As a community of men and women, as future leaders, they are not fulfilling their civic duty to their country, to themselves." There is a very real need for "self-examination: how do they see themselves related to issues on this campus?"

Examining the involvement of all students on this campus, Jackson said, "This campus is over-organized. There are too many organizations just doing nothing but smoking pot, shooting skag, having weekend orgies, trying to discover their sex organs. We have the Peace and Freedom Party, the Bellamy Society, and so forth.

"I would like to see these organizations doing more than carrying a name. The Peace and Freedom Party should be as radical on this campus as at Berkeley. There is no excuse for its not being at the vanguard of student activism on this campus. They just have a name and aren't coming through. If they don't know what's happening, we can give them ideas and programs for ridding this country of racial injustice and racial exploitation."

On the more positive side, Jackson said that "I am very proud of the Japanese Club. They've come into their own. Orientals have not emerged on this campus until now. For the true picture of racism to be revealed I think all minority groups should organize." Up (Continued on p. 8, col. 1)

a perfect size 7
look perfect
only 21 days
every month?

It has nothing to do with calories. It's a special female weight gain... caused by temporary water-weight build-up. Oh, you know... that uncomfortable full feeling that sneaks up on you the week before your menstrual period. This fluid retention not only plays havoc with your looks but how you feel as well. (It puts pressure on delicate nerves and tissues, which can lead to pre-menstrual cramps and headaches, leaves emotions on edge.)

That's why so many women take PAMPRIN®. It gently relieves water-weight gain to help prevent pre-menstrual puffiness, tension, and pressure-caused cramps.

PAMPRIN makes sure a perfect size 7 never looks less than perfect. Nor feels less than perfect, either.

Semester at Sea Recruiters Here

Jacque Doyle, a representative of World Campus Afloat--Chapman College, Orange, Calif., will visit UCSB on November 25 and 26 to discuss a study semester aboard the S.S. Ryndam.

Students, faculty and administrators who wish interviews or who have questions about Chapman's international study-voyage should plan to attend an introductory meeting in the Admin. Bldg., Rm. 1317 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. either day. The public is invited, Mrs. Doyle said.

The goal of the World Campus Afloat program, administered by Chapman's Division of International Education, is to combine liberal arts course work with the experiences of world travel, the representative explained.

During its current semester at sea, which departed from New York on October 10, the Ryndam carries 500 students and 70 faculty and staff to ports in Europe, Africa and South America. The 110-day voyage will terminate January 29 in Los Angeles. The spring 1969 semester will depart from Los Angeles on February 3, journey around the world via the Orient, India and Africa, to terminate May 27 at New York.

Students attend classes six days a week while at sea with formal studies supplemented by pre-arranged, in-port activities related to course material.

Catalogs, applications and additional information are available from Mrs. Doyle or from the Division of International Education, Chapman College, Orange, Calif., 92666.

Placement Center Interviews

Those students interested in making appointments for interviews must have a file set up in the Placement office (Administration Building 1325). Interview appointments should be made at least two days in advance (we suggest two weeks).

- At the lauter tanks, we cook malt and rice to produce a clear amber liquid called wort.
- Then to the copper brew kettles, where choicest imported and domestic hops are added to the wort—which is cooked again.
- Now, after cooling, the wort flows into our own patented fermenters, where brewers' yeast works to ferment natural sugars into alcohol and CO₂. This is where wort becomes beer.
- Most beers are finished now. Not Budweiser. We ferment it again, this time in special glass-lined tanks partially filled with a dense lattice of beechwood strips. (This is where Beechwood Ageing comes in. It's a costly extra step, but we think the difference it makes in the taste and clarity of Budweiser is worth it!) We add a little freshly-yeasted wort to start the second fermentation, and let it "work."

5. The final step. The Budweiser flows through a series of finishing filters just before we package it for you in barrels, cans or bottles.

If that sounds like anybody could brew Budweiser, forget it. It takes a special kind of brewery (we have the only six in the world that will do), a brewmaster who puts his heart and soul into brewing the King of Beers, the choicest ingredients (the cost of which keeps our treasurer awake at night), and thousands of brewery workers who know Budweiser is the best reason in the world to drink beer.

Next lesson? Well, we were going to tell you how to drink Bud. But you know that.

The Regents' Decision: No Solution

ISSUE: How, if at all, does the new resolution passed by the Regents reconcile the difference between their September 20 resolution and faculty autonomy?

When the Regents met at UCLA two months ago and passed their controversial "Eldridge Cleaver" resolution barring any outside lecturer from appearing more than once in any class offered for credit, the faculty and students of the campuses of the University reacted with outrage.

We have seen serious disruption at Berkeley, attempts of the same at other campuses, and a sharp drop in respect for the Regents as a result of that decision.

The nine Academic Senates have all gone on record as being fearful of this encroachment on traditional faculty control over the content of University classes, and are resentful towards the Governor's use of Cleaver as a political issue.

The Committee on Educational Policy (CEP) of the Regents has now presented us with a modified version of that same resolution which sparked all the furor.

It turns out to be a more precise statement of our apprehensions.

The September 20 resolution left the impression that if a course with an outside lecturer appearing more than once escaped the Governor's eye, it was safe. Now, those professors who wish to teach such a course must appeal to the administration on their campus for approval.

In addition, the resolution made groups of students and/or faculty who are trying to structure new courses directly responsible to the chancellor at their campus.

This makes for a very bad precedent, as the Academic Senate representatives at the CEP meeting stated Thursday afternoon. It means that the administration is responsible for the content and structure of any course which deviates from the traditional one-professor mode.

It seems to us (and administrators usually seem to be the first to agree) that this is not the proper role of the administration. It should be noted that three chancellors, Roger Heyns of Berkeley, Charles Young of UCLA, and Vernon Cheadle from this campus, spoke strongly against the resolution in the meeting. They warned the CEP not to avoid the real issue of academic freedom in their zeal to find some way to make the September 20 resolution workable.

We agree. And we would warn those who think that the Academic Senate will not fight back over this issue that it is when the most controversial aspects of academic freedom are attacked that faculties should, and probably will, respond.

Thanksgiving?

By Benny Goldberg

Who was it who said, "Thanksgiving is the true American holiday?" Doesn't sound too familiar? Well, then, let's skip it.

Actually, Thanksgiving is the true American holiday--but academic? American, yes! Academic, no! You can't really believe that the four day holiday was meant to provide fun, frivolous and fair weather activities for us, the students of the world, can you? Of course not.

The Thanksgiving holiday gets the prize for providing the genuine academician with all those masochistic tendencies he needs to survive in this, our otherwise sadistic environment. At this point you might hesitate a moment and wonder where the hell I came from and what I am saying.

Well, you see--it all began three days ago when I was buried in my studies. The thought suddenly came upon me (as thoughts often do) that shortly I would be, along with the rest of you, enjoying the four long days of Thanksgiving vacation.

However, my thoughts of such bliss lasted for a moment only. As I made the 100-yard dash to my trusty "academic calendar," I realized the joke that was being played on me by my otherwise loveable administration was not a joke at all, but a sadistic slap in the student face.

Ask yourself--when does Thanksgiving vacation occur? Don't worry--I happen to have worked the whole thing out. The "vacation" occurs exactly 12 days before the first day of finals. (And in this case I am being rather generous, since language finals fall even earlier on my trusty calendar.)

Consequently, during the holiday each student possessing some kind of academic conscience at all will go through sheer hell. The holiday is just close enough to finals to make a date at the Fillmore, the Troubadore or some friend's empty apartment a truly gull-ridden experience.

It provides, most readily, that haunting question that pops into one's veritable head at bedtime--"Why, WHY didn't I study today?"

"Why," you ask? Because you slept until noon, took your dog (who isn't sick) to the vet, went window shopping for new cars, spent four hours on the phone trying to make a "connection" (which your parents don't understand because they are sure the phone works), and then went with your date to an open fraternity party to see some eighth grade band, stand around with out-of-work gas station attendants, and drink Brew 102.

And you ask a question like that? How could you have spent a more worthwhile day? "By studying," says the chorus in this, your first Greek tragedy.

So, you see, this "holiday" is truly NOT a holiday at all. Rather, it is what is commonly known as emotional blackmail, or a masochistic masquerade.

And so you suffer hopelessly in your bed, writhing under your covers while dreaming of papers reaching out and strangling you, exams chasing you down the dark alley of ignorance and of your teachers rallying together with joy; for they have truly developed their own atom bomb--the Thanksgiving holiday.

Draft Policies

It appears again to be necessary to clarify the policy of my office with regard to supplying information to the draft boards. If the misunderstanding of this policy results in a statement such as that contained in the last paragraph of the Draft Resistance Statement that was to be signed and sent to me, then I would like to clear the air and remove the cause for the "outrage."

Once again I will state that we do not send information to a student's board unless he does request it. The student is required to produce "evidence" that he is enrolled as a full-time student in order to qualify for the II-S deferment. We provide this "evidence" at the student's request on a form provided by the Selective Service System (the SSS 109A form for undergraduate students).

The student knows at the time he asks us to report that he is a student, that if his status changes we are obligated to report that change. There is no breach of faith, and nothing is being done behind anyone's back.

This year the University-wide Committee on Selective Service decided that "full-time status" consisted of completion of at least 36 units and attendance for three of the possible four quarters of the academic year.

Based on this University-wide policy, we are not reporting a student who reduces his program to less than 12 units as long as it is still possible for him to complete the minimum of 36 units for full-time status,

We have also asked the student to inform us and his local board as to which quarters he intends to enroll for the academic year. This would permit a student, for example, to remain out for the winter quarter and not be reported as dropping out as long as he returned for spring and summer quarter and thereby completed the requisite three quarters in the "academic year." If he failed to return spring quarter, we would then report him because at that point he could no longer complete the academic year.

Our concern is to help students obtain a deferment if they want this help. I and others that I know who are involved in providing this service to students are convinced that if our reports are not consistent with our own standards for "full-time status" that they will be meaningless to the draft boards and not provide the "evidence" required to obtain the desired deferment.

It is also an ethical issue. If you ask me to certify that you are a "full-time student" for the academic year, then I feel obligated to submit an accurate report. If your status changes during the period of time covered by my report, then I will report that change.

We have done everything we can to make it easier for a student to be considered full-time. We will stand by our current description of "full-time," but students should also be aware of the fact that the guideline in the Selective Service regulations expect the student to complete 25 per cent of his requirements for a baccalaureate degree by the end of his first academic year, 50 per cent by the end of his second year, etc.

The student should really expect to do more than our minimum 36 units per year if he wants to complete degree requirements without having Selective Service problems.

To avoid using units completed as the criteria for year status we will use chronological year as the basis. Otherwise, a student who completed 36 units his first year would still technically be a freshman at the beginning of his second year and by being reported again as status I, the local board would act to reclassify to 1-A even though the student could still reasonably be expected to graduate within four years from the time he started.

An important factor that should be weighed is that the function of my office with regard to Selective Service is to assist students to obtain deferments. The apparent objective of "The Resistance," the group objecting most vociferously against the way we are doing this, is non-cooperation with Selective Service in any way.

Take your choice, Let us know how we can help.

KCSB Radio: Irrelevant

Unfortunately, happening across KCSB on the radio dial is like happening across any other station in this area, AM or FM. There is one small difference; on KCSB there are no commercials. So what? The station shares all else in common with the other stations. They all have the same tone. I don't pretend to be able to explain precisely what this tone consists of, but by way of explanation I will say that it has something to do with their frame of reference.

It isn't everyday that KCSB has the opportunity to fail in its ostensible purpose. Tuesday, November 19, was such a day, however, and KCSB managed, though clumsily, to fail in the end, I'm referring, of course, to KCSB's airing of Bobby Seale's speech given that afternoon on UCSB's campus. Mr. Seale, as a Black Panther and spokesman for same, has a lot to say to a lot of people and it is important to him to be able to say his piece in his own way. In fact, in Mr. Seale's words, it is absolutely necessary.

Those, like myself, who heard his speech over KCSB were subjected to a travesty of discretion. Parts of his speech were deleted by a fade-out system, and, not surprisingly, precisely those parts which were essential to Mr. Seale's message. The FCC regulations forbid certain words from going over the airways, (there are four such words, I believe). The words "penis" and "vagina" are not on that list but they were nonetheless fade-out victims. Now, why was that? Do those words offend? Something is wrong if we are so self-conscious that we cannot speak even in clinical terms about sexuality.

Whoever was at the controls must have been a real dunderhead since not only did he delete significant portions which simply could not have been all obscenities, but he let a couple of "f--ks" and "b--ts" by.

I don't know what the purpose of KCSB is, but if Tuesday's mess was representative it surely couldn't be to disseminate controversial news. What Mr. Seale had to say would have been news to many had they heard its entirety. However, castrated as it was, his speech became nearly as innocuous as the castrated radio station which clipped it.

When Mr. Seale says that he is up against a wall, he does not exclude the wall of discretion which, while claiming to give him a chance to speak, takes the guts out of his material.

KCSB cannot be considered part of the academic community if this kind of ignorant censorship is its response to controversy. It should keep its nose out of real work and stick to sports flashes. And let there be no cries of the FCC threat. It doesn't really exist.

Those feared words can be, and are, aired, legally. I have heard the word "f--k" aired by other networks. Its legality has to do with its context and anyone concerned can verify this. It's a matter of whether one wants to buck the FCC's bureaucratic morality in order to deal fairly with some issues.

In this sense KCSB is innocuous and irrelevant when it comes to providing a platform for airing controversy and shouldn't pretend to be anything more than inoffensive.

Poloists Upset San Jose to Capture Berth in Nationals

Gauchos Place Second In PCAA Tourney Here

By SCOTT SLOTTERBECK
EG Sports Writer

READY, AIM, FIRE — And believe it or not, Fresno's goalie blocked this shot by senior Dave Ugarkovich. But the ball bounced right back to Dave, and he put it away for the score. The Gauchos finished second in the PCAA tourney and are headed for the nationals as a result. —photo by Lee Margulies

In the "greatest weekend in our water polo history," coach Rick Rowland's Gauchos placed second in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association water polo tournament held here over the weekend.

The high moment of the tournament came when seventh ranked UCSB overcame San Jose State, ranked number one in the nation, and received a bid to the national playoffs in December.

The weekend started off on a winning note as the Gauchos easily bested Fresno State, 14-5. In this game, UCSB completely dominated play and gave an indication as to how they would play later.

In the second game, however, it looked as though UCSB might not do well in the tournament as they narrowly lost what seemed to be their best chance to advance to the finals by bowing to Cal State Long Beach 8-7 in double overtime.

THINGS DIDN'T LOOK GOOD

Coming off that long game against Long Beach, things didn't look too good for Santa Barbara, for they had lost to the third ranked team in the nation, and now they faced the number one team.

But the Gauchos gave 100 per cent and hung on to squeak by San Jose, 6-4. That win moved them into the finals, and earned them a bid to the national playoffs.

Playing in their third tough game of the tournament, Santa Barbara began to show signs of tiring, and coupled with the fact that the 49ers had beaten the Gauchos earlier in the tournament, Long Beach prevailed, 5-3, and won the championship.

SIMPSON PUTS UCSB AHEAD

In the San Jose contest, the Gauchos scored first as senior Jim Simpson fired a shot past the Spartan goalie, and they maintained that lead through the half, leading 3-2 at intermission.

Each squad tallied once in the third period, and then San Jose tied things up in the final quarter. But the Gauchos were not to be denied, and sophomore Ben Gage rammed home his third goal of the game for the winning score.

Senior Dave Ugarkovich assured UCSB of victory when he added the final point with a minute left.

It is hard to single out the best players for UCSB, for the Pour It On!

Never let it be said that the University of Houston can't score when it comes to football.

Last week the Cougars slaughtered Idaho, 77-3. Saturday they ran up a 51-6 score against Tulsa, at the end of three periods.

Then in the final quarter Houston tallied seven more times to give them an unbelievable 100-6 victory.

On their way to this rather one-sided triumph, the Cougars racked up 555 yards rushing, 207 passing, and another 111 in returns.

Major Teams Play Today As IM Playoffs Continue

By CLAY KALLAM
EG Sports Staff

After the first round of intramural playoff action, things look pretty much as they did before. There were few surprises, and none of the top four teams had any trouble at all in easing to decisive (to say the least) victories over dorm opposition. However, the polls reflected the shakeups in the final games in league play and the Sig Eps once more are atop the poll.

Wishing to justify their position, the Sig Eps came out with a vengeance against Toyon, an outclassed dorm team which at times moved the ball behind quarterback Phil Cohn, but never could score. Sigma Phi Epsilon, however, scored 53 points, with Paul Roberts scoring 18 and Jim Ahler getting 12.

This afternoon the Eps will be challenged by another dorm team, Diablo.

Diablo is the only surviving freshmen aggregation and they arrived this far by knocking off High Society, 6-0. John Harris, Diablo quarterback, zipped 60 yards with 35 seconds left in the game to defeat High Society.

The number two Deltas shut out Yucca 48-0 behind Mark Sedlacek's 20 points and Jeff Read's 12 points as they move into this afternoon's contest with the Innmates, the only surviving B Division team.

Leading IM scorer Art Lyons tallied 19 points as the Innmates rolled over the Lords, 23-0.

Lambda Chi Alpha, number three this week, had no trouble with Sierra, easing by 49-0 as Tom Mahoney and Don Martin each had three touchdowns.

In perhaps the most interesting game today, Sigma Chi will play the Deltas, Sigma Chi, solidly in sixth position, knocked off Sycamore 26-0 behind quarterback Bob Oehlman and Pete Rightmer's two TDs. Oehlman is replacing the injured Bob Krouse, who will not be able to compete in the playoffs.

However, Lambda Chi lost safety and end Chuck Destro with a knee injury for the playoffs, and the loss of Destro, all-IM last year, will hurt.

SAE rolled over Yuma 54-6, with Yuma scoring on the final play of the game as Tim Degani gathered in 18 points for the victors. Pass/Fall, the Es' opposition today, just edged Mae's Maruaders 2-0 as Barry Lawrence's pull in the first half was all the offense either team could muster. Pass/Fall did have two scores called back, but they will have their hands full today with a team they lost to 41-0 earlier in the year.

Tomorrow, the winners of today's games will play and the two survivors will battle it out Wednesday, December 5, at 8 p.m. in Campus Field.

The Goleta Beach Tar Babies pulled off their second straight team victory in the annual cross country meet, Mike Knoell of the Tar Babies took home the turkey, emblematic of first place. Tom Lee of the Phi Psis took second, as did the Phi Psi team. The SAEs and the Phi Sigs took third and fourth, respectively.

Water Polo...

The Gauchos can't be too disappointed with their losses to Long Beach, for they received the bid to the national playoffs to be held December 5, 6, and 7 in Long Beach.

In these playoffs, eight teams from around the country will compete, including teams from Indiana, Cal State Long Beach, UC Irvine, San Jose State, and three teams not chosen as of yet.

If they are to fare well in the tournament, the Gauchos will need a 100 per cent effort from everyone on the team. If they play like they did this weekend, UCSB will do quite well indeed.

Co-eds To Battle

Little Sisters of Phi Sigma Kappa face off against the Pi Phi's tonight at 6 p.m. in Robertson Gym in the women's intramural volleyball championship with the winner going to the all-Cal tournament at UC Riverside this spring.

The Phi's trounced the 6-Paks in their first game last Wednesday, 12-10, with the 6-Paks led by captain Janet Bright hustling a score of 10-8 for the second game. The decisive third game began with the 6-Paks capturing the serve from the Phi's. A spike by Lynn Rigney wrestled the serve back from the 6-Paks and a touch over the net by captain Dee Dee Bethea brought the score to four-all.

A set by Kathy McNamara and a spike by Terri Rubenstein pushed the score to 5-4 for the Phi's. The 6-Pak team then slammed a serve to the Phi's for five-all. Action was tight with plenty of spike power on both sides and still the score remained 5-5.

It was 7-6 for the 6-Paks when the Phi's regained the serve. The 6-Pak team was hitting hard but the Phi defense did not let down. A final Phi spike placed just inside the court ended the game with the Phi Phi's coming out on top, 9-7.

Thursday night's action saw the Little Sisters toppling Sirena's first team 15-1, 12-9, and going on to beat Sirena's second team in the semi-finals, 12-5, 15-2.

Political Intern Program Offered

Spending a long, hot summer in Washington, D.C. might not seem to be exactly idyllic to most Americans, but to several

Santa Barbara students, they could ask for nothing better. These eager-for-work students will be participating in the Gauchos in Government internship program. The aim of the program is to provide students with practical experience in governmental processes and in politics, both at state and national levels.

According to Donna Follmer, 1968-69 chairman, "The program is open to any student, not just political science majors. There are only two criteria: 1) a GPA of 2.0 or better and 2) plans to return to UCSB next fall."

Miss Follmer added that her committee presently is in "dire need" of members to aid in correspondence, selection procedures and placement. The committee has a box in the A.S. office on the third floor of the UCen.

Applications are now available in the A.S. office as well as in the Political Science Department. They are due back by 5 p.m., January 13, 1969.

'Minority Groups Should Organize'

(Continued from p. 1) until this time only blacks and chicanos have been present on the Committee on Racism. Jackson has viewed it as "unbalanced; just decisions can't be made without others. I hope this organization will speak about political issues relative to other minorities. It is difficult to see the minority group plight as mutually exclusive from the others."

The interview began with Jackson expressing dismay over the lack of a cohesive bond between faculty, administrators and students. In his closing remarks he revealed that he sees something new happening here. "I am impressed with the sensitivity sessions being sponsored by the University but I think the University should broaden these activities. Each day, students, faculty, and administrators should assemble on campus and participate in sensitivity encounters. The academic community should become more aware of itself as

The recommendation of the CEP stands in direct contradiction to a plea by the University wide Academic Senate members for more faculty autonomy which was issued last week. It makes provisions for a further consideration of the issue at the March meeting of the Regents.

The resolution passed by a 13-7 margin, with Regents William Coblenz, Frederick Dutton, William Forbes, Dorothy Chandler, Jess Unruh, William Roth, and Edwin Pauley opposing it.

The anticipated re-introduction of a controversial proposal which would have restructured the University by Ronald Reagan failed to materialize, as the Governor indicated satisfaction with the resolution as passed.

REAGAN'S POINTS

"I think the committee has done an excellent job," Reagan commented, "and all my points have been made."

Reagan maintained that his resolution (originally presented last month at UC, Santa Cruz) involved no substantial change on the Universities' "time honored tradition of local autonomy and delegated authority." He indicated that the CEP resolution insures the maintainance of these principles.

Chairman of the statewide Academic Freedom Committee John Searle, strongly opposed passage of the resolution. He maintained that it attempted to "patch up" a principle that is largely considered wrong--that being the regental infringement of faculty autonomy.

Regent William Roth also voiced disapproval of the resolution, stating that its passage would be considered by faculty members as a "further encroachment" on their autonomy. "Source material can only be considered by the department," Roth pointed out.

An outside committee, working under the auspices of the Northern Trust Company of Chicago, presented a report indicating that the Regents should act with less caution in their investment procedures.

one family... seeing the world from the stance of the University. The aesthetic experience of UCSB can't be found on many campuses."

Speaking like a poet Jackson reflected, "With the Santa Ynez Mountains on one side, the blue-green Pacific, the lush foliage, one can get a natural high in this community. Sensitivity can be re-enforced through this setting. It is a setting for humane living. Here one can bring himself into harmony with nature. We have sunny days, very fortunate potentials for a natural trip (which is) not neurotic or self-induced. This campus is idyllic."
