Festivities commemorating university's founding.

Controversial Issues Raised At Annual Charter Day Celebration

By BECKY DODSON
Asst. News Editor

University of California Regents and other dignitaries gathered at UCSB Thursday to celebrate the founding of the university while persistent students reminded them of current controversies surrounding the institution.

Charter Day activities began with a luncheon for honored guests on the Cheadle Hall lawn. As U.C. officials dined in a roped off portion of the grass, over 100 students protesting U.C. ties to nuclear weapons laboratories encompassed the area.

Before and during U.C. President David Saxon's introductions of invited guests, Associated Students UCSB President Jay Weiss addressed the students.

Weiss expressed his concerns about the university's management of the Lawrence Livermore and Los Alamos weapons labs, investments in "racist" South Africa and imposition of higher student fees.

"While these people are dining at their beautiful luncheon, they don't realize that there are people getting caught by spears rising from all sides," Weiss said.

Although the protestors were largely ignored by the guests, they provoked UCSB Chancellor Robert Huttenback to request that Weiss quiet the chanting of "Books, not bombs." Huttenback threatened to have the students removed by campus police, according to Weiss. However, no further action was taken.

Following the luncheon, representatives from the regents, faculty, staff and students spoke to about 500 people in the formal Charter Day ceremony, held near the UCen lagoon.

Approximately 35 of the student protestors sat unobtrusively in the audience with signs bearing their messages.

Most of the speakers offered congratulatory remarks to the University of California and the Education Abroad Program on their successes. However, A.S. External Vice President Tom Spaulding, the student representative chosen to speak at the occasion, expressed a different message.

University's Birthday Celebrated In 1874

By ELIZABETH NELSON
Co-Campus Editor

Charter Day, the yearly celebration of the University of California's founding, is a prestigious event in which government officials, university and international education leaders, and students are invited to attend the ceremony to commemorate the university's installation.

The University of California was founded March 23, 1868 when Governor Henry H. Haight signed legislation designating it as a coeducational, nonsectarian institution. Charter Day became an annual ceremony following its first celebration in 1874. After 17 years of individual campus celebration focusing on student affairs, the event became an academic ceremony held at U.C. Berkeley.

Today the ceremony was held at UCSB to honor both the 115th anniversary of the founding of the university and the 20th year of the U.C. Education Abroad Program, which is administered at UCSB. It was the first time Charter Day has been held outside of Berkeley since 1975, when it was held at UCLA.

Deukmejian Requests Additional U.C. Cuts

By BARRY SHELBY
Sacramento Correspondent

The governor's budget office has requested the legislature to cut an additional $21 million from the University of California's proposed budget for next year.

The money would be taken from the portion of the U.C. budget used for "program maintenance" — funds which compensate the university for price increases in utility, library and general equipment costs.

The university is not the only institution affected by the proposed cut. All general fund monies that state agencies were expecting to cover non-salary price increases were also eliminated.

Approximately $76.5 million will be saved by the total budget reduction, according to Department of Finance estimates.

However, higher education is shouldering the brunt of the across-the-board cut, as it did in January when Governor George Deukmejian cut current year general fund spending by 2 percent. Combined, the proposed budget cuts to U.C. and California State Universities represent about 40 percent of the total reduction for next year. The loss for the CSU system is an estimated $13 million.

The Department of Finance justifies the proposed reduction, claiming state agencies were "overcompensated" with state funds this year because the Consumer Price Index dropped dramatically.

The budget this year allocated 7 percent increases for expected price hikes, while the rate of inflation dropped to a 1.7 percent increase over the previous year's.

The governor's initial budget proposal for next year granted a 5 percent increase, but the Finance Department now wants that revoked. They expect the Consumer Price Index to grow by only 3.5 percent in the 1983-84 fiscal year, which begins July 1.

The Consumer Price Index, however, is an "inappropriate measure" for judging increases in (Please turn to pg.11, col.4)

Committee Discusses Removal Of Funding

By CHRIS CORCORAN

The Registration Fee Advisory Committee discussed Wednesday ways of eliminating student reg fee funding of the UCSB Alumni Association.

There was near unanimous agreement on the committee that the $163,000 the association receives every year is an improper use of reg fees. The Alumni Association had claim to this money before the use of reg fees was clearly defined, according to committee Chair Steve Jeffries.

Committee member Lori Granick said, "Can't they (the association) raise their own money? This is ridiculous! Students shouldn't have to pay for their expenses."

"The chancellor probably won't go for a complete pullout of A.A. funds from the reg fees," Cecilia Rios, committee staff member, said.

"We'll have to come up with some sort of a horse trade," Jeffries said. "We'll have to give something in order to get something."

One suggestion involved installing more lights for the bike paths which could be offered the chancellor as a bargaining method to dissolve the committee's funding of A.A.

Leg Council Creates An Assistance Office

By RUTH LAFLER

A bill establishing a Student Assistance Office to guide students with problems or grievances through the university bureaucracy was unanimously approved at the Associated Students UCSB Legislative Council meeting Wednesday.

The office, which will be part of the Academic Affairs Board, is designed to coordinate with the existing services offered by the Ombudsman's Office, Counseling Center, Housing Office, Student Health Service, vice chancellor for student affairs office, and Women's Center. However, author of the bill and acting director of the newly-created office, Jeremy Friedman, plans to make this service more visible and accessible than the present services.

The office will be staffed by trained peer advisors, and will not provide direct legal advice or counsel.

"Our thinking was that if students have a grievance, they don't know where to go," Friedman said. "A.S. is seen as a representative and

U.S. Denies Overthrow

President Reagan said Thursday the United States is not doing anything "to try to overthrow the Nicaraguan government," but is trying to block military supply lines to rebels. Reagan declined to go into details of U.S. operations in Central America. But he said his administration is complying with a federal law that forbids U.S. action to overthrow the government of Nicaragua.

The Soviet Union has "no need" to put nuclear missiles in Cuba in retaliation for U.S. deployment of new medium-range rockets in Europe later this year, a top Soviet general said. It was the clearest signal yet from the Soviets that Cuba does not figure in their threat to retaliate for the planned "Euromissile" deployment. The comments were made by Maj. Gen. Yori V. Lebedev, a military adviser to Soviet arms-control negotiators, in an interview with the Associated Press. Kremlin officials have warned repeatedly they will put the United States in an "analogous position" if the American missiles are stationed in western Europe, within a few minutes' striking distance of Soviet territory.

Adelman Still Director

Kenneth L. Adelman was confirmed, 57-42, as the nation's arms control director an Thursday after a long Senate fight over President Reagan's strategic policies as well as the young ambassador's competence and credibility. Reagan pronounced himself "deeply gratified" and declared, "It's my earnest hope that this positive step will mark the beginning of a new bipartisan consensus on the vital issue of nuclear arms reductions."

A Tomahawk cruise missile launched Thursday from a submerged submarine off San Clemente Island successfully flew a 400-mile course before hitting its intended target on the Tonopah, Nev. test range, a Navy spokesman said. It was the 99th successful launch of a cruise missile since February 1976 and the 19th to be completed from a submerged submarine, said Bob Holsapple, spokesman for the Joint Cruise Missile Project.

A round of price increases this week by big oil companies — coupled with the April 1 boost in gas taxes — almost certainly marked the end of a two-year decline in retail gasoline prices, analysts say. Oil companies, seeking to increase their profits after a rash of price wars, have raised prices as much as four cents a gallon to dealers and distributors. Those increases come on top of a nickel-a-gallon rise in federal gasoline taxes effective April 1.

The Solidarity underground on Thursday urged Polish workers to demonstrate nationwide on May Day to protest "the taking of our holiday" by the Communist regime. The appeal was issued after police interrogated the wife of Solidarity chief Lech Walesa for three hours. Danuta Walesa said police in Gdansk frisked her before questioning her about her husband's contacts with the underground. The underground communique, distributed to western reporters, said, "We are calling for demonstrations under the slogan: free all political prisoners; end price increases; (give) the fruits of labor to society; (and) peace and Solidarity."

The mysterious epidemic struck Arraba, a remote West Bank village on March 21. Before it ended two weeks later, more than 800 Palestinian schoolgirls had been hospitalized. matching funds for the 1984 campaign, the Federal Election Commission decided Thursday. The FEC staff had initially found problems with each campaign's fundraising documents but the campaigns submitted more information that resolved the questions. Without dissent, the FEC voted at its regular meeting to approve the campaigns of Mondale and Cranston for matching fund payments from the federal treasury beginning Jan. 1, 1984. The commission found each had cleared the initial hurdle of raising at least $5,000 in contributions of $250 or less in each of 20 states.

A federal judge overturned a Reagan administration regulation Thursday designed to assure that severely handicapped infants are not denied food or medical treatment, saying it is "arbitrary and capricious." U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said the Department of Health and Human Services failed to use proper procedures in implementing the regulation, since it did not seek public comment. Secretary Margaret Heckler of HHS said the decision would be appealed.

A Senate Budget Committee deadlocked Thursday over a possible tax increase for 1984 after a Democratic-led move to dismantle much of President Reagan's tax program failed on a tie vote. The 11-11 tie came when Sen. Mark Andrews (R-North Dakota) joined all 10 Democrats in calling for a $30 billion tax hike, the amount that would be raised if this year's 10-percent personal income tax cut were repealed.

Prosecutors Reject Plea

Convicted child-killer Malcolm Robbins offered to plead guilty to a murder charge to avoid the death penalty months before the case went to trial, but prosecutors rejected the deal. In proposed plea bargain, Robbins would have pleaded guilty to the 1980 slaying of 6-year-old Michael Finney of Goleta and been sentenced to life in prison without possibility of parole. But District Attorney Thomas W. Sneddon Jr. said he refused the plea bargain recommended by defense attorney Jake Stoddard and presiding Superior Court Judge Bruce W. Dodds during a pretrial conference last year.

Four California veterans sued the Veterans Administration to set aside a 121-year-old law that limits attorney fees to $10 for handling complaints against the federal agency. The suit filed Wednesday at U.S. District Court in San Francisco seeks an injunction to stop the agency from invoking the law before a trial. The 1862 law was drafted to protect civil war pensioners from unscrupulous lawyers, said attorney Gordon Erspamer. One plaintiff, Reason Warehime of Riverdale in Fresno County, wants compensation for illnesses that he claims are tied to radiation exposure at Nagasaki and Nevada atomic test blasts.

Gov. George Deukmejian appointed two police officers to the Youthful Offender Parole Board on Thursday. The Republican governor named Capt. Welby Cramer of the California Highway Patrol and Officer Fernando Aldecoa of the Santa Ana Police Department to the panel. Cramer, 53, commander of the CHP's Bakersfield office, was named to succeed Willie Ellison of Sacramento. Aldecoa, 34, succeeds William Hemby of Sacramento.

Council Solicits 3,000 Signatures To Complete I.V. Cityhood Petition

By DAVE GOTTLIEB
Nexus Staff Writer

Approximately 1,500 signatures have been collected for an Isla Vista cityhood petition according to Marc Borgman, chair of the Isla Vista Community Council.

The IVCC wishes to attain a total of 3,000 signatures from the community to submit to the Local Agency Formation Commission. The IVCC is optimistic about collecting the remainder of the signatures, as the first 1,500 were collected in only a week.

The necessary 3,000 signatures represent 30 percent of the registered voters in the I.V. area, although only 25 percent are needed to present to LAFCO. The extra 500 are for safety purposes.

The IVCC hopes to attain the needed signatures by the end of June, although they have three months after that time. The reason for this plan is so the signatures will be validated before students living in the area move elsewhere.

The boundaries of the proposed city of Isla Vista are the same boundaries which have been used in recent elections, and include the UCSB campus and Francisco Torres. Additionally, the area proposed for incorporation extends three miles off shore, including Arco's platform Holly and two other proposed oil platforms.

Mike Boyd, who has been very active in the drive toward signature gathering, said the drive has been fairly successful. He feels, however, many people are still uninformed about the issue. To alleviate this problem, IVCC plans to distribute more information later this month.

Boyd said many people receive information about the incorporation drive but either do not bother reading it, or merely throw it out.

"A lot of people don't read up on the issues, and are apathetic," Boyd said. "The majority of the people are uninformed not because there is not enough information, but because they don't want to be informed. We really have to push toward getting this issue on the ballot, because if we don't succeed this time there may be a push toward joint incorporation, and the issue of I.V. cityhood may not be brought up again for some time."

Students, Boyd said, seem to be taking an interest in I.V. cityhood. He said most students are supportive of the plan, but do not really take an active role. Boyd cited that those people on A.S. Legislative Council, and those running in the elections all seem to be supportive of separate cityhood, but are not actively pursuing it.

"I would like to see more people actively involved," Boyd remarked. "We still need people to push for signatures, to go to markets, theaters, and other such places to gather signatures."

Anyone wishing to carry a petition may get one at either the IVCC office, or at the Student Lobby office at the UCen. Public hearings on the petition drive are held every first and third Monday of each month at the I.V. Park District meeting room, (889 Camino del Sur).

Fain

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I found the April 11 column in support of the release of convicted murderer and rapist Archie Fain to be astonishing in its foolishness. I could perhaps find some morbid humor in the article, were it not apparent that its author(s) were perfectly serious in its preparation. I feel inclined, therefore, to rebut.

For clarity's sake, allow me to quote some of the more amazing statements from this editorial:

"By refusing to grant Fain's release, Deukmejian is showing his lack of faith in not only the State Board of Prison Terms, but also in the ability of our prison system to reform criminals."

While this is clearly meant to be a criticism of Deukmejian, I can only see this redounding to Deukmejian's credit: for only an idiot could possibly feel otherwise!! Even the people who run the prison system are quick to admit that there remain serious difficulties which they are thus far incapable of solving, and the recidivism rate among ex-prisoners, and especially felons, is principal among them. I could scarcely have believed that someone alive had "faith in the ability of our prison system to reform criminals," had I not read it, there, on the newsprint before me.

The article continues, "While Fain undeniably committed a series of heinous crimes,..., as citizens of California we have chosen to give the court authority in these matters. We cannot suddenly take this authority away."

Why the hell not? I'm sure that in Germany, when Hitler's government was also letting murderers loose on the streets, similar voices of "trusting in the wisdom of the appointed authority" were heard. There too, the government officials involved felt, for different motivations, that they were doing what their position and perspective dictated.

The arguments of the editorial run basically as follows: that if we have placed in government a particular ruling body, then no matter how repulsive the decisions are which that ruling body makes, we are bound to it. No matter how unjust or unpopular, no matter what the bitter consequences, it is our duty to bow our heads and bleat like sheep and never dream of standing up against it. Even should we find a particular law to be utterly distasteful and disastrous in all its effects, we must cower in the corner, and dare not make a sound until the next time we are given the privilege to vote: at which opportunity we may partake in the pleasure of bringing into being a new collection of incompetents, traitors and freebooters.

This approach to government can even in its best light be only termed as "cowardly." Court Authority is not an ends in itself but only a means to the final end of serving the people's will, and protecting the common interest. Should the court make a grievous mistake which clearly differs with the will of the people, then the court, quite simply, should be overruled. Assuming Deukmejian had diagnosed the public outcry to represent the will of the people, then he possessed the moral responsibility to act as he did, or he should not be carrying out his role of "public servant" in good conscience. To allow injustice to proceed simply because some foolish "court" has declared injustice to be "just" bespeaks a society which is bent upon its own corruption. The set of checks and balances established within our government were specifically designed to allow one portion of government to disagree with potency with the other, thereby bringing the issue to the attention of the public, and thereby, to let the common wisdom have its rule.

As citizens of California, we are collectively given the responsibility to determine the laws by which we are to live. Changing circumstances, new information or any of a thousand other causes, must occasionally force us to review those laws and where necessary, revise them. Let us not be sheep, and imagine our present set of laws to be some immutable doctrine which forever we must bleat to, merely to be freed from the responsibility of making a decision.

The third sentence of the editorial poses the question, "But should the public outcry overturn the California Supreme Court's ruling that Fain's parole cannot be legally rescinded?" My answer to this question should be clear by now, but I will endeavor to state it directly nonetheless.

You'd better believe it!

Revolution

Editor, Daily Nexus:

What makes people become revolutionaries? And what is the test of a true revolutionary? As a North American sympathetic to revolutionary movements since 1968, I must say Eldridge Cleaver presented much disinformation about the process of revolution and revolutionaries in his recent visit to UCSB as a guest of the local "Moonie" political arm, CARP.

Revolutionaries are people who take the law into their own hands after it has become evident to them that the laws are no longer responsible to them, but to the forces that oppress them. Granted, "revolution is not a little party."

Revolutionaries dedicate themselves to the liberation of themselves and their people. Cleaver told his audience he "tried to be like (Che) Guevara," but obviously Cleaver was a poor student, for Che clearly laid out his concept of what a revolutionary was:...

"...it must be said with all sincerity that in a real revolution, to which one gives himself entirely and from which he expects no material remuneration, the task of the revolutionary vanguard is at one and the same time glorious and agonizing... At the risk of seeming ridiculous, let me say that the true revolutionary is guided by a great feeling of love..."

It is only through the passage of time that true revolutionaries prove themselves, by their actions, not so much their words. Because Eldridge Cleaver has failed so miserably in this test should not be a cause for people to lose faith in the revolutionary process. It's hard for us to understand, because we have it so easy here in the U.S. Yet, all over the world, people are struggling for their liberation in a process begun in North America over 200 years ago.

There are powerful elements at work to discredit the leadership of the anti-U.S. government forces. It is everyone's responsibility to investigate the claims of our government and its opposition. There's got to be a reason why Cleaver got off with nine months on a charge that usually carries at least 10 years.

My hope is that not everyone will be "sold on 'Ice.'"

Mexican Dominos

Just as power is reciprocal, so is friendship. Since I'd been invited to dinner at the home of friends quite frequently over the past few years, I finally decided to reciprocate for the kindness and hospitality that had been extended to me, by inviting a few friends over for dinner.

I didn't want it to be any big deal, just an expression of my fondness and appreciation of some buddies. I certainly didn't plan to become frantic over such details as napkin rings or seating arrangements. That wouldn't happen anyway, though, because our dining table only seats four.

First I had to phone and invite them. We had a bit of trouble finding a time and day agreeable to all, but we finally settled on 6:30 p.m. Saturday night. That was early enough so that we could all still go out afterwards to fulfill our Saturday night Isla Vista obligations, yet late enough to allow everyone to unwind after a long day of studying.

Then I realized that it might be nice if I checked with my roommates to see if there were any objections to my plans. No problems seemed likely. At least, not yet.

That week was so hectic that I wasn't able to take time out for a shopping trip until Saturday afternoon. I knew that would be cutting it kind of close, but after all this is a university and not a food and wine institute. My studies and other obligations had to take priority over a silly dinner party.

Upon my arrival at Smith's Food King I realized that I had absolutely no idea what to make. There's always spaghetti, but I knew that everyone was probably pretty sick of it because it is one of the very easiest dinners to make and is therefore an I.V. apartment-dweller's staple. And although I knew that no one ever gets tired of macaroni and cheese, I felt it was just a little too tacky to serve to esteemed dinner guests.

So I headed for the Rice-A-Roni, which was certainly a more elegant choice. But even for a side dish I ruled it out as being too commercialized. After all they advertise it on television with a frequency surpassed only by Diet Coke or maybe Calvin Klein Jeans.

Just as I was beginning to think I was forever destined to roam aimlessly up and down the supermarket aisles, a sudden inspiration hit me, so simple and brilliantly obvious that I couldn't believe it hadn't occurred to me sooner. What I would make just had to be a huge success. After all, everyone at UCSB loves Mexican food, so burritos were the perfect choice.

Once I'd made this major decision, I knew that shopping would be a breeze. And it would be cheap, too, because I was pretty sure we already had most of the main ingredients nestled snugly in our refrigerator. Since I knew that the only cheddar cheese had gotten hard and cracked on the unwrapped part I bought some more, but I felt sure we already had plenty of meat, lettuce, tomatoes, tortillas, salsa, avocados, sour cream and so on.

The only other item I needed was plenty of good Mexican beer. Dressed in thongs, shorts, and a Mickey Mouse t-shirt, I was sure they'd ask to see my i.d. But the only comment the guy at the liquor store even made was to tell me I'd made an excellent choice, and to ask if I needed help carrying the two cases of Superior to the car. I felt betrayed, as if it was my twenty-first birthday, and no one even carded me.

When I got home, I realized I had no time to waste, so I went directly to the refrigerator to gather together the necessary ingredients. I then dumped the entire collection unceremoniously on the counter, and slowly realized that something was missing.

In a panic, I scoured the refrigerator thoroughly. But the meat for the burritos was nowhere to be found. I later learned that it had been given to my next door neighbors for their dinner. Those mooches were perennially borrowing stuff and never returning it.

I was well aware that Pruitt's was very close by, surely stocked with plenty of the meat I needed, but I decided to see if the guys next door had already munched it all down, or if they possibly had any left. No luck there, so I headed downstairs and borrowed some from those neighbors instead. One of the most wonderful things about sharing and the spirit of cooperation is that it saves many unnecessary trips to the market.

The preparation of the food went smoothly, so I calmly started to set the table. Nothing matched anything else; in fact the plates positively clashed with the glasses. I was doing my best to make the table look at least presentable when the phone rang. It was a girl who wanted to know what time the calculus review session at my house was due to begin. Before I could tell her that she was sadly mistaken, she said she was on her way, along with her 10 friends, and hung up.

Before I had time to consider the implications of what had just taken place, I was distracted by a somewhat less than tantalizing scent that was floating thickly around my apartment. My beautiful burritos were little more than charred masses, and the clock read 6:15 p.m. I was ready to give it all up and leave town.

But I'm no quitter, so I picked up the phone and dialed Dominos' number, which had been committed to memory during my dorm days. After all, it's the company that really counts, not the cuisine. And besides, I had an abundance of good cold Mexican beer, so no one would even care what we ate anyway, even if it was a greasy pepperoni pizza.

Association Honors UCSB Pianist With A Creative Arts Scholarship

By JOHN BURSCHINGER
Nexus Staff Writer

Kim O'Reilly, a sophomore UCSB music student, has been honored by the Santa Barbara branch of the American Association of University Women with a creative arts scholarship.

The award was made possible by a grant from the Strollers, a now dissolved organization devoted to creativity in the arts. The grant was designated for a single recipient who exhibited outstanding ability and promise in the arts.

According to Elizabeth Harrison of the AAUW, the award was given on the basis of "Kim's outstanding ability, general excellence and creative promise as a pianist."

The AAUW has been presenting awards to outstanding young women for educational purposes for the past century. The objective, according to Harrison, "is to fill the void in the support of education for women." On April 27, the local branch will present a benefit concert to raise funds for the AAUW's Education Foundation Program.

The scholarship presentation was made by UCSB Associate Professor of Music Betty Oberacker, who described O'Reilly as "one of the most brilliant pianists we have had."

Oberacker pointed out that not only is O'Reilly an excellent student, but she also performs volunteer work for the Music Department. O'Reilly's specialty is chamber music and she is associated with the Music Affiliates as a student representative and a student liaison. She also volunteers her time accompanying the Women's Ensemble, and has often accompanied her colleagues in recitals. She has given three public concerts.

Kim O'Reilly

"Kim is excellent," Oberacker said. "She performs all this service work at the same time she is involved in an intensive, prestigious, high-level program." According to Oberacker, O'Reilly has given many performances of extremely high quality.

"I was surprised and pleased I received the award," O'Reilly said. The award came at a fortunate time for O'Reilly, who said, "I am especially pleased with the scholarship because I applied to the Aspen Music Camp, and this will help if I am accepted for the summer."

The now dissolved Strollers was an organization of artists, writers and performers who owned a playhouse on Sola St. in Santa Barbara. According to former Stroller Melinda Horn, "The heyday for the Strollers was during the war. But we have recently experienced a loss of membership."

When the Strollers dissolved they decided to distribute their funds to organizations with compatible purposes. One such organization, the AAUW, used the grant for O'Reilly's scholarship. O'Reilly was chosen by the AAUW's local Scholarship and Student Loans Committee.

O'Reilly has been playing since she was five and is a graduate of Birmingham High School in Van Nuys, where she was honored with the Herb Alpert Award for the outstanding music student.

She came to UCSB to study under Oberacker. "Professor Oberacker has been encouraging and positive, and has helped me improve since I have been here."

Upon graduation O'Reilly hopes to continue her studies at a graduate conservatory.

and-fifteenth birthday, I can't help but think that the university is not quite fulfilling its total responsibility," Spaulding said.

"The painful gains made in access to education are in jeopardy as fees rise dramatically and as affirmative action plans never quite materialize," he added.

To the students' cheers, Spaulding asked, "Is it responsible for the University of California to continue to design and develop weapons of mass destruction?"

Spaulding concluded his speech by stating that the university must not fear change, and should instead be "willing to explore."

"As an international institution with vast resources...we must nurture and support minds willing to question, committed to finding new ideas in a truthfully violent age," Spaulding said.

As a surprise to some, honored guest Ralf Dahrendorf, director of the London School of Economics and Political Science, also referred to the weapons issue in his speech.

"There are many of us in Europe who fear that it would be disastrous for the world if this great country, the United States of America, allowed itself to be carried away by the new mood of fear and looking inward," Dahrendorf said.

Possibly alluding to U.C. investments in South Africa, Dahrendorf added, "These people in South Asia, in Africa south of the Sahara and parts of Latin America, do not need guns, they need help."

Chancellor Huttenback, and would place responsibility of funding the association with the UCSB Foundation. As it stands now, the A.A. can receive any unrestricted funds from the foundation (those funds donated that are not designated for a specific purpose).

Roger Horton, assistant chancellor of budget and administrative operations, suggested that the financial structure of A.A. be similar to UCLA, where they don't use reg fees to fund the alumni association.

Jack Kinney, executive director of the Alumni Association, was unavailable for comment.

In other business, the committee also discussed the purchase of housing for the university by the Property Purchase and Management Group. They encouraged all groups who wish to use the PPMG to first exhaust alternate methods of funding.

The Rochdale Housing Co-op has used money from PPMG to purchase buildings and currently two fraternities wish to purchase property using this method, but final approval is pending.

"Greeks need to better educate themselves about what money is available, partnership arrangements, and feasibility of purchase arrangements," Ernie Zomalt, assistant vice chancellor for student and community affairs and special adviser to the committee, said. "They need to explore all avenues of funding before coming to us."

The boundaries for housing which can be purchased by PPMG extend from Ellwood Beach to Patterson Avenue and all land on the south side of Highway 101.

In addition, Jeffries announced that the quarterly reg fee of $170 will not increase for the upcoming year.

planning the university's progress since its installation. "The university has passed from dream to reality," he announced.

Robert Connick, chair of U.C. Assembly of the Academic Senate and Academic Council, also addressed the university's transformation. "It is a constant source of wonder to me that in a mere 115 years this university has grown from a small house in Oakland with a handful of students into a paradigm of academic excellence," he said.

Saxon explained the importance of the double celebration of the university's founding and 20th anniversary of EAP. He said, "This year...we have a special reason for reflecting on how well we prepare our students for life in an increasingly complicated and difficult world."

Many traditions are continued at the annual ceremony. University officials and other educational leaders dress in gowns, mortarboards, and maces colored distinctively to represent their alma maters. This tradition stems from the middle ages when monks, clerics and priests, those who attended universities at that time, would wear this costume for warmth. This tradition has become standard practice during commencements throughout the United States.

Program Helps Underprivileged Young People Find Adult Support

By MICHAEL ZOLL
Nexus Staff Writer

The Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization provides underprivileged children and teenagers an opportunity to share time and experiences weekly with adult volunteers who can offer them care and support.

The non-profit organization locates young people, ages 10 to 17, who have school or family problems. The young people are then matched to a suitable adult volunteer.

Bonnie Gutterman, volunteer coordinator, said adult volunteers are given thorough training before being introduced to their little brother or sister. "After orientation, we teach the volunteers peer counseling skills, crisis intervention, and educate them in issues relevant to young people, such as drug abuse, sex and incest." She said similar training experience may qualify the volunteer immediately.

Gutterman said the program is a six-month commitment for the volunteer. He or she is expected to spend one three-hour period per week with their young person. "Some volunteers stay with their little brothers or sisters long after the six months," she said.

UCSB student Jim Johnson, who is a big brother, said at first it was difficult to do things with his little brother, but after a short while, "We'd go see movies and play video games. It wasn't long until we got to know each other."

Besides going to movies, Johnson enjoys showing 12-year-old Danny skills he's never experienced. "I let him pump gas once on the way to a movie. Also, I helped him fix his bike. He'd never done that either."

"Whenever we do stuff, I want him to learn by it. The other night, we saw the Outsiders, and afterwards we went for ice cream and talked about the movie."

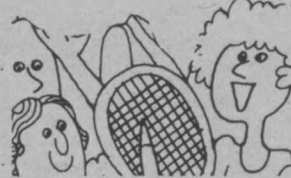

Big Brothers/Big Sisters is managed throughout Santa Barbara County by Klein Bottle Social Advocate for Youth. The program is kept alive by 24 different funding sources, including United Way, Santa Barbara City and County Revenue Sharing, and the Office of Substance Abuse.

Karil Kneeland at Klein Bottle, said that the results of the program are not overwhelming but said that is not the primary objective of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters. "Consistent positive results can't be expected. It's not important that there is a radical change in the child's life. The main thing is that they know that someone cares about them, and is willing to spend their time and show that they care. Basically this is the important aspect of the program which is most beneficial to the child," Kneeland said.

The 37-member paid staff consists of licensed marriage, family, and child counselors, bi-cultural/bi-lingual experts, and former program volunteers. Offices are located in Carpinteria, Santa Barbara, Goleta and Lompoc.

Klein Bottle also offers courses for parents wishing to improve relationships with their children. There are six-week seminars covering systematic training for effective parenting and practical application to parenting.

The next volunteer orientation begins this fall. For further information, contact Klein Bottle at 963-8775.

Student Office...

(Continued from front page) political body, but it should also assist the people it represents (and) be more service-oriented."

"I think that if we have it (a grievance office) in A.S., students are more likely to approach another student," Becky Lombardi, instructional grievance coordinator for AAB, said.

Although they approved the bill, council was concerned with language in the proposal which states that "the SAO staff must act in the best interests of the university community as a whole, not as agents of ASUCSB. In addition, any behavior which appears to be based solely upon self-serving and/or self-righteous motivation shall not be acceptable."

Friedman explained that unlike the Student Advocate Office at U.C. Berkeley which served as a partial model for it, the SAO will not be a political body with an advocative role. The language precludes the use of the SAO by A.S. as a means of solving problems of general concern, and abuse by office staff members with personal axes to grind.

The other concern of the council revolved around the actual need for the program. Immediately prior to consideration of the bill, the council had defeated a proposal to form a new committee to oversee A.S. Note Taking and Typing service as too much unnecessary bureaucracy.

"The fact is we all know someone who has problems," Friedman said. "A.S. provides the bike shop and notetaking, and all these committees that aren't functioning — can't we do something else? This is a very forceful way of saying 'we care'. This is a real, substantial service."

Campus Ombudsman Geoffrey Wallace, whose office serves as an impartial, independent source of expertise and support in dealing with conflicts between all members of all facets of the university, views the new office as valuable to students. He said students need an organized peer support system. "We're like an umpire, this office is like a coach," he said. "I think students can supply an emotional support that our office just can't give them."

"We're delighted to see someone roll up their sleeves and help. More members on the team, good," Wallace said.

SAM'S TO GO

Well, it looks like Spring is finally upon us and it is once again time to dust off our beach chairs and head for the beaches, maybe Red Rock or wherever your pleasure might be. Those days of partying, playing and getting outdoors are treasured by all of us and are surely welcomed. The good people at Sam's to Go in I.V. would like to wish all of you a happy spring and would like to take a moment to remind you where to pick up your picnic lunches for these eventful days to come. Although it seems like the number of sandwich shops keeps expanding, Sam is still remains number one to the people who enjoy extremely hearty portions, very fair prices (even more fair if you use the coupon on this page), and custom, friendly service. You see, atttSam's we're not just trying to make a quick buck, we want to please you because we want you to think well of us so you'll come back the next time you're going to picnic. I guess you Econ majors probably have a hard for this, but we like to call it good, clean business; we're out for your long run satisfaction not just your one visit.

At Sam's we pride ourselves in the fact that the only thing small about our sandwiches are the prices. We have a variety of 24 sandwiches, some hot, some cold, but all are made with care, the highest quality ingredients money can buy, and are custom made in your view to assure you that you will be given exactly the sandwich you'd like. If you want one of our sandwiches but can't get out of the house, we'll deliver after 7:00 pm, just give us a call at 685-8895 and we'll fix you up.

At Sam's we are really trying hard to serve you right. We'd like to be a part of your spring time fun by providing the food in the quantity and prices you like. Stop by soon, we're at 6578 Trigo in Isla Vista.

THE NEW SEOUL

Santa Barbara has always been known to have a huge variety of international cuisine, there is Japanese, Chinese, Thai, French and Italian, along with a host of others. The newest exotic restaurant to come to town is The New Seoul Korean Restaurant located in the heart of Downtown Santa Barbara at 1022 State Street. In case you have never had the chance to try Korean cuisine, it is a really pleasant experience that shouldn't be missed. First of all, if you're under the impression that it is just like Chinese food, you're wrong! It is unique in a variety of ways. First of all, The New Seoul is equipped with hibachi-barbeques at each table so you may cook the meats, fish or chicken to your liking. It is not only a sure way to get the meats cooked how you like them, it's also a fun experience to participate in. Secondly, the vegetables that are served are like none you've ever tasted; they are not served hot like Chinese food is, but rather they are cold and quite tasty!

Not only is the food at The New Seoul plentiful and tasty, the prices are very reasonable as well. The dinners start as low as $5.95, and the lunches start at only $3.95.

In addition to the fine foods of the Far East, the beverages and desserts are also imported delights. If you enjoy a cool, tasty dessert but don't want the sugar of ice cream or cake, Lichee (a tropical fruit) is available. And if you like the wine of the Far East or hot sake, that is available too.

The New Seoul is open for lunch from 11:00 am to 2:00 pm and for dinner from 5:00 pm to 10:30 pm. Give us a try soon and see what Korean cuisine is all about.

HUNAN YUAN

One of the central provinces of mainland China, Hunan offers some of the most beautiful scenery in all Asia. The hardy people of this area have, during the centuries, developed a unique & somewhat spicy cuisine, created to both satisfy their appetite and warm them during the long, cold months.

We have deliberately chosen some of the most delectable and authentic specialties of Hunan province for your dining pleasure. All the dishes we serve have been carefully prepared by our famous culinary expert T.M. Lin and his specially trained team of chefs.

Recently in the Calle Real Shopping Center Hunan Yuan Restaurant opened and has already begun to establish a reputation based on good food and service, and, prices that cater to the college community. They've introduced new dishes never before served in the S.B. area such as The Pupu Tray; varieties of delicious appetizers well-arranged on a tray with a flame in the center for a minor roasting at the table if so desired. Or try their Shrimp in Edible Basket! Just imagine, well-prepared shrimps arranged in an edible basket and you can enjoy these together in your mouth. What an adventure! Don't miss it!

As well as these and other lunch and dinner specials, Hunan Yuan serves the authentic favorites of Chinese cuisine. Now you don't have to wait 'til you go home to go to that great Chinese place you know of...come to that great place we know of - Hunan Yuan Restaurant, when you get a craving for good Chinese food, or just something different.

Peabody's is a lesson in basics: Good food, served fresh and hot, and simply prepared. Quick and efficient service, a full bar and a menu that allows for an individual's various tastes, always keeps the people happy.

The absence of frills doesn't seem to affect the crowds that gather for a good time during the lunch and dinner hours. There must be something refreshing about a restaurant in Montecito that doesn't have pepper grinders longer than ski poles and a menu that reads with more difficulty than the Book of Revelations.

The basics at Peabody's don't need French names to spice up their dishes. The burgers, sandwiches, omelettes and Mexican specialties need nothing more than deliciousness to bring a growing number of regular customers back for more. Santa Barbarans enjoy the basics of life.

You can always create your own delightful dishes at Peabody's by adding accessories: a variety of meats, cheeses and vegetables can be matched with any of the "basic" menu items. When this is combined with a salad bar filled with all your favorite munchies, margaritas by the mug or by the liter, a large sunny patio, and entertainment five nights a week, you have a lunch, dinner and evening getaway all located in one comfortable bar and grill.

For an afternoon meeting, a simple supper, or a night out on the town, one has to go a long way to beat Peabody's. It has an atmosphere that is unstuffed, open and attentive to people's needs. Both young and old come to Peabody's to meet and take advantage of the delicious food and drink offered at great prices.

Stop into Peabody's and recharge yourself. Try one of their daily specials, some potato skins or homemade soup. They are open 7 days a week, from 11 a.m. until midnight Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to midnight Saturday and Sunday.

Look for the brown and yellow umbrellas at 1198 Coast Village Road in Montecito. Local talent is showcased at Peabody's Tuesday through Saturday nights beginning around 8:30 p.m. for your drinking and dining pleasure.

spiral of disarmament" a "crucial part of security," Dahrendorf said "those of us in Europe who cherish liberty, trust the alliance, and accept the needs of defense wonder whether our motives are fully understood in Washington."

"I have strayed a long way from the happy educational occasion which has brought us together — or have I? Understanding others is one of the great human virtues. Understanding is what the university is about," he concluded.

Dahrendorf maintained that understanding does not merely come about by "delving into books" and "attending classes," but only through the "shock of recognition."

During the ceremony, Dahrendorf was awarded with the first Santa Barbara medal for his scholastic contributions.

Budget

U.C. operating costs, said Larry Hershman, university budget analyst.

The Consumer Price Index has dropped largely because of decreases in the interest rate, housing and automobile gasoline prices, Hershman said, adding that the university purchases very few of those items.

"The CPI is not an appropriate index to use when looking at the items that the university buys," Hershman said.

In contrast to the price index drop, Hershman said library and utility costs for the university are still increasing. This year, library costs have risen by over 14 percent, he said.

While the governor's initial allocation for price increases was less than the university requested, it was adequate, Hershman said.

Unlike many state agencies, U.C. has worked closely in the past with the finance department to determine expected rates of price increases. This year, with the Deukmejian administration, there has been very little consultation between the two.

"We've spent months working on this and now, with the stroke of the pen, they want to wipe all of it out," Hershman said.

Although the legislature must approve this latest recommendation along with the entire budget, Deukmejian has the opportunity before approving it to veto any expenditures he believes unnecessary.

Spikers Clinch Playoff Berth; UCLA Next

By BARRY EBERLING
Nexus Sports Writer

UCSB clinched a regional berth last night by beating host Stanford, 15-3, 15-11, 15-12.

The Gauchos have a 10-5 CIVA record with one game remaining. Despite the victory, they'll have a tough time taking the league title. First place UCLA spent Wednesday evening running its record to 11-3 with a victory over Hawaii.

Now UCSB will take a break from its CIVA schedule to play in the Miller Collegiate Volleyball Classic at Westwood this weekend.

The Classic is hardly a relaxing tourney, though. Not when the other three participants are UCLA, Pepperdine, and Penn State. All are top five schools battling for the number one position.

And, just in case the Gauchos need extra incentive, they'll be playing top-seeded UCLA in the first round.

"We haven't seen them in a long time," UCSB coach Ken Preston said. "This is a good opportunity to play them again. We're ready."

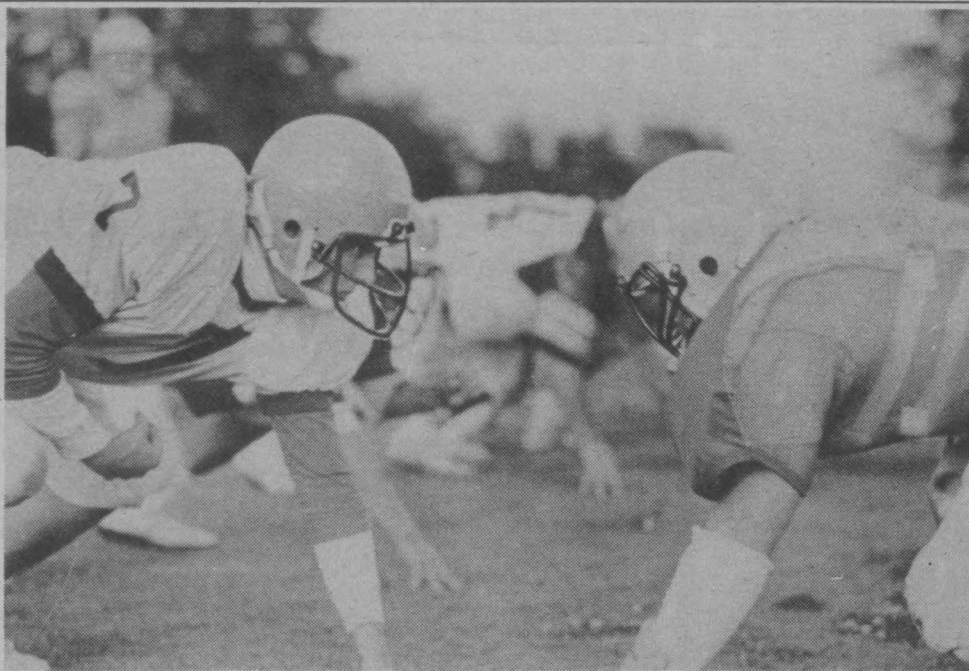

And overdue for a victory, too. The Gauchos have lost 11 straight matches to UCLA over the past two years.

Gauchos Face Cal State L.A.

The Gauchos will put their six game Southern California Baseball Association win streak on the line today when UCSB hosts Cal State Los Angeles at the Campus Diamond. Gametime is 2:30 p.m.

Santa Barbara is 6-3 in the SCBA and 23-17 overall. The Golden Eagles, whom the Gauchos beat 7-2 ten days ago, are 2-7 and 13-26.

Brad Kinney (2-3, 2.79 ERA) will get the starting nod for the Gauchos. Saturday, both teams travel to Los Angeles for a twinbill to conclude the season series between the two teams. Mike Fulmer and Dan Yokubaitis will start on the mound for the Gauchos.

Football Returns to UCSB

By ED EVANS
Nexus Sports Writer

Fans attending the Curtice Bowl Saturday afternoon can look forward to "a wide open game," according to Sut Puailoa, the coach of the UCSB student team. The game, at 3:30 p.m. in Harder munity.

The rules for the game will be the same as they would for any other college football game, including fifteen minute quarters and the same structure for assessing penalties.

The people supporting the pressed with the kids' attitude," said Puailoa. "I think that people will be surprised at the quality of the athletes we have," he continued. The coach went on to say that he really expects that people will see a diversified attack on the part of both teams.

The Gauchos will rely upon speed, youth, and an active passing game to offset the size and experience of the alumni squad.

The game is being called the Curtice Bowl in memory of former Gaucho football mentor Jack Curtice. Puailoa hopes that the game is successful and says that he thinks it will be good for the university.

Correction

In yesterday's Daily Nexus it was erroneously printed that the Curtice Bowl begins at 1:30 p.m. The game will be played Saturday at Harder "Spud" Stadium beginning at 3:30 p.m. The Daily Nexus apologizes for this error.

Stadium, will pit the students against a team of alumni from the Santa Barbara high schools.

The Gaucho students have been in practice for three weeks in preparation for the game, which arose out of a challenge from the com-drive to bring football back are hoping that an enthusiastic turnout Saturday will give added impetus to their movement.

Coach Puailoa's squad is enthusiastic, and looking forward to their upcoming battle. "We are really im-MATH (MAJORS/MINORS/APTITUDE) ...

You're Needed All Over the World.

Ask Peace Corps Math volunteers why their degrees are needed in the classrooms of the world's developing nations. Ask them why ingenuity and flexibility are as vital as adapting to a different culture. They'll tell you their students know Math is the key to a solid future. And they'll tell you that Peace Corps adds up to a career experience full of rewards and accomplishments. Ask them why Peace Corps is the toughest job you'll ever love.

PEACE CORPS

NEXT WEEK IS NATIONAL VOLUNTEER WEEK AND PEACE CORPS REPRESENTATIVES WILL BE AT UCSB IN FRONT OF THE UCEN FROM 9 am UNTIL 4 pm NEXT MONDAY, TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY. STOP BY AND SPEAK WITH THEM ABOUT LIFE IN THE THIRD WORLD.

Army ROTC usually takes four years of college. But you can do it in just two years...and receive $100 a month during the Army ROTC Advanced Course.

You prepare for two careers simultaneously—military and civilian.

You can compete for a full Army ROTC scholarship which pays tuition, books, lab fees, plus that $100 a month.

Flight training is available.

Many other benefits including fellowships for graduate school.
