NIRVANA (a.k.a Sizzler)

By Gringolet Rafalo

You know, sometimes, I really do hear it, just like in the commercials.

Sizzler.

I was walking down the street today, on my way to school. It was nearing 2 p.m. and I hadn't eaten a thing all day. My stomach was gnawing with hunger. I needed some place to eat where the portions were not only large, they were unlimited. Then I heard it.

Sizzler.

At first I wasn't sure what it was. I heard the haunting whisper, but I thought it might be a friend calling from afar. My mind kept pondering my dining possibilities; then I remembered my meager funds. Where could I eat so much for a minimal price?

Sizzler.

Now I knew what I had heard and decided it was either the voice of God or the voice of reason — either way my mind was made up. I would dine at Sizzler before the sun set.

I had to get to class; that would waste an hour. Then I had to clear up some business at the office. But I reckoned that I could round up a couple of buddies and start my feasting in the early evening, beating the dinner time rush.

Sure enough, by around 5:30 p.m., I had finished my work obligations and found a duo of famished friends. After hours of anticipation, and purposefully starving myself all afternoon to make sure I truly ate my fill, we pulled into the luxurious parking lot. I knew where I was. My dream was near.

Sizzler.

We walked in the door and looked over the large menu board. The steak looked superb. The seafood looked succulent. I could have ordered anything and would have been in eighth heaven. But I knew what I wanted, and my companions wanted the same.

"Three salad bars, please," I ordered.

Now, I know what you may be thinking. Here I am, without an iota of food in my system, ravenous for a big dinner. Why would I ever order the average salad bar plate?

Well, at Sizzler, the salad bar is far from average. See, at some restaurants, the salad bar may merely be an old card table Uncle Mortie didn't need anymore, with a bowl of iceberg lettuce atop and some generic dressings strewn about. But at Sizzler, the salad bar is a virtual smorgasbord of tasty delights.

Not only are there salad items, and quite a variety of items it is, but there are delectable delicacies such as tacos, nachos, onion rings, chicken winglets, pasta and a sizable selection of savory soups. And though this unlimited supply of appetizing entrees would be more than enough to satisfy my hunger, there is one more aspect of Sizzler that makes a visit unique.

The toasted cheese bread.

True, cheese bread may sound somewhat ordinary to be so excited about, but this bread is like no other. Not only is the perfectly heated treat great for the taste buds, it is brought out to the diner on command by one of the restaurant's friendly servers. While filling up on our platefuls of provisions, we were constantly delivered extra sodas and bread. For a few moments, we felt like the Monarchs of Meal. I could barely down my dessert because I was so full.

Sometimes I've wondered where, if I were stranded in the middle of the South Pacific on an island not unlike Gilligan's, I would long to eat most when I got sick of consuming coconuts and berries. As I left the door I realized I knew where it would be. I would wake up every morning on the beach, look out at the ocean, reflect on my position in paradise and hear the solemn suggestion.

Sizzler.

Sizzler is at 5555 Hollister Ave., Goleta. Call 964-6769 for specials.

Elvis has replaced fried banana sandwiches with Paparazzi's PASTA, PIZZAS, SALADS, and SUBS. Everyday he eats at the SALAD BAR and at night he gets truck loads of FOOD DELIVERED. Because of Paparazzi's HEALTHY PASTA Elvis is feeling like a KING again.
