Closure of I.V. Post Office Poses Threat to IVCC Funding

By Doug Arellanes
Staff Writer

United States Postal Service contract administrators closed the Isla Vista Post Office Friday, threatening the I.V. Community Council's most stable source of income.

The post office made approximately $3,500 annually, providing the bulk of the IVCC's operating budget. And unless a meeting IVCC members have arranged with postal officials Monday is successful, the council may lose their contract altogether.

"The IVCC wouldn't die (if it lost the contract) but we'd be really hampered. It wouldn't harm us that much in moving and shaking I.V.," IVCC Chair Greg Brubaker said.

The post office was closed due to complaints that it was not always open during business hours, a (See POST OFFICE, p.12)

Candidates Chosen for Student Regent Position

By William Diepenbrock
News Editor

Three undergraduate students, two from UC Berkeley, one from UCLA, were chosen as final candidates for the position of 1986-87 student regent by the University of California Student Association at UCSB Saturday.

The students, Berkeley senior Diane Hirshberg, Berkeley junior Gary Brickman and UCLA sophomore David Hoffman, will now go before a UC Regents special committee on student regent selection for final approval in San Francisco Friday.

The committee decision will be passed to the full board for consideration of the new regent at its February meeting.

The 11th student regent will serve as a regent designate for four months, taking office in July for a one-year term.

Nine students were interviewed Saturday in the third and final screening of student regent candidates. According to UCSA President Dan Greening, it was tough to choose the final three. "We deliberated for quite a while, three and a half, four hours, on these candidates."

"In the end it was basically a unanimous decision. It was not unanimous but it was done by voice (vote). The three candidates were chosen as a group. There were very minor objections, but I can't discuss those."

"We felt that most of the candidates that we saw were extremely well qualified. At the end it was a very difficult decision to make," Greening said.

Greening said the board "looked for the ability to analyze issues in detail, the ability to essentially serve as a negotiator with the regents and the ability to work with issues, to make sure that they are passed or that the very best efforts are made to do that."

"We weren't particularly concerned that they represent the views of the UCSA as much as we were concerned that they keep in contact with the UCSA in whatever they are doing," Greening said.

"They are essentially a people's regent and once they are appointed that's the way they are supposed to act. Because of their background they have a special interest in the students," he added.

Hirshberg outlined the methods used by the UCSA board. "This last interview was less on issues and more on our ability to present ourselves and issues and our ability to articulate our concerns. We had to present a proposal ... as though we were on the board of regents," she said.

The senior peace and conflict studies and slavic languages and literature major said her experience for the job is mostly state oriented.

"I have some unique experience. I worked as an intern in an assembly office. I know how the state operates and I know its relationship to the University of California system."

"I am very interested in education and education reform. I am particularly interested in the political nature of education," Hirshberg said.

"I've been around the political side of this state for many years and I hope I can put my experience with state politics together with my experience organizing on campus," she said.

In her interviews, Hirshberg stressed the importance of the current review of the Master Plan for Higher Education. "I've been involved in many campus activities with student groups and student issues," the former ASUCB senator said.

"During my sophomore year I first began working on issues such as the budget and student fees and the relationships between the three levels of higher education, particularly the student networking."

"I feel that I'm articulate and I'm well-versed on the issues," said Hirshberg, who has attended a couple of regents meetings in the last three years.

If selected, "I would need to establish myself as a person they (the regents) could respect and deal with. I may disagree on issues with some of the regents, but I will not be antagonistic, and I hope to develop a working relationship with some of the regents," she said.

Brickman, a junior political economy major, said his experience lies in a combination of campus, community and federal areas. After serving as president of the Disabled Students Union at Berkeley, he traveled to Washington, D.C. to work for the United States Student Association as a national field organizer.

Brickman also acted as national student coordinator for the 1984 Mondale-Ferraro campaign and in addition to serving as an associated director for the ASUC Berkeley National Lobby, he did an internship with the American Council on Education and sat on the AFL/CIO Committee on Political Education.

He said he thought he was chosen because of his "experience working with education issues and having held positions of student leadership."

According to Brickman, the student regent "can't go in there with just one issue, you have to be able to really cover the whole range of issues."

"I think one (issue) that's really important this year is the revision of the Master Plan for Higher Education."

He said he can "understand how large bureaucracies work having worked in several. I think I'll be able to work well with the regents."

Brickman also said he has "learned a lot from the process (of selection). I think there have been some really good candidates, I know I've gained a lot from this experience."

Hit-and-Run Accident Kills UCSB Student

A UCSB student bicyclist died early Sunday morning following a hit-and-run collision on an Isla Vista street with a driver suspected of being intoxicated, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Augustin Serrato, 21, was pronounced dead from massive head injuries at 2:10 a.m. Sunday, said a Goleta Valley Community Hospital nursing supervisor.

A 1983 GMC pickup traveling north on Embarcadero del Norte struck Serrato, a member of the UCSB rugby team, at approximately 10:25 p.m. Saturday as he turned south on the street from westbound Cervantes, said Sgt. Doug Howell of the CHP.

Howell said the driver fled the scene after the accident.

Witnesses provided investigators with a description of the automobile, which was found parked in front of a residence near Hope Ranch at 1:30 Sunday morning, Howell said.

Police arrested a 16-year-old suspect at the residence, but he was later released after investigators determined him one of three passengers, not the driver of the pickup, according to Howell.

Howell said Sunday that investigators anticipate the arrest of the pickup's driver within 24 hours. He expects the driver, also a juvenile, to be charged with felony hit-and-run, manslaughter and felony drunken driving.

Ruth Freedman, a 19-year-old UCSB student, was struck by flying debris as she walked by the scene of the accident. She was treated at Goleta Valley Community Hospital for lacerations to the back of her head and released.

Overseas U.S. Offices Prepare for Possible Terrorist Attacks

THE HAGUE, NETHERLANDS — A high alert to guard against possible Palestinian terrorist attacks was expanded Sunday to include U.S. diplomatic and commercial offices in the Netherlands, the Dutch Justice Ministry said.

The access road to the front of the U.S. Embassy in the Hague was blocked by sand-filled dumpsters at each end Sunday night, and police converged within minutes to investigate the flash of a photographer's camera.

Police presence was increased at the U.S. consulate in Amsterdam, and police spokesman Klaas Wilting said other U.S. facilities were being guarded.

The alert began Thursday in the Netherlands and Scandinavia, when Interpol, the international police organization, warned that Abu Nidal terrorist commandos might strike at any time against Jewish or Israeli targets.

"There had been talk for a few days that American targets could be endangered," ministry spokeswoman Toos Faber said. "But this morning it became more conclusive. There is an extension of the targets."

The U.S. government has blamed the Abu Nidal faction, a dissident offshoot of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, for Dec. 27 terrorist attacks that left 19 dead, including five Americans, at airports in Vienna and Rome.

South African Activist Killed Prior to Arrival of American Official

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA — The State Department's top African expert toured Johannesburg's trash-ridden black townships Sunday, hours after a black activist who was to be one of his hosts was hacked to death by political rivals.

Ampie Mayisa, 58, was chased from his home in Leandra township 74 miles east of Johannesburg, and killed by about 10 blacks ranging in age from 16 to 30 about two hours after sundown Saturday, according to his son, Joshua Mayisa, and other Leandra residents.

On Sunday, Chester Crocker, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, arrived for talks on independence for South-West Africa, also known as Namibia, and on the Civil War in Angola, which is related to Namibian issues. Crocker was in Luanda, the Angolan capital, on Friday.

He was tight-lipped while touring the rutted streets of KwaThema, Duduza and Katlehong, slums east of Johannesburg.

Libyan Leader Khadafy Holds Interview with Six Journalists

TRIPOLI, LIBYA — Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy talked of war and peace, love and hate from inside his tent headquarters, where an automatic rifle and a feather duster hung from the rafters and two camels gabbled outside.

Khadafy, 43, was in a relaxed mood as he talked with six female journalists. He introduced the reporters to his wife Safia and four of his seven children.

Khadafy, known in the Western world for his harsh anti-American and anti-Israeli rhetoric, appeared eager to offer that same audience a rare glimpse of his human side against a warm domestic backdrop.

Although most of the substance of his two-hour interview was not new, the tone was decidedly soft for a man who has often incited his people to "eat the livers" of their enemies.

Palms outstretched and smiling broadly, Khadafy responded, "Yes, why not?" when asked if he would welcome Reagan to his tent on the grounds of his heavily fortified barracks, where he works, relaxes and entertains other world leaders.

Asked why he chose just women for the interview, Khadafy said, "It is because I encourage women to be free. I feel women everywhere are oppressed and I would like to see a world of men and women equal."

Official U.S. Reports Link Syria to Rome and Vienna Attacks

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Sunday that intelligence reports indicate the terrorists who attacked the Rome and Vienna airports last month were trained in Syrian-controlled territory of Lebanon.

But "to what extent, of course ... that involved the Syrian authorities, we're not able to say," Shultz said.

Appearing on the CBS program Face the Nation, Shultz acknowledged that U.S. and other intelligence agencies had determined the terrorists had "been in the Bekaa Valley (of eastern Lebanon) and gone through Damascus."

"There is no plan or thought about" imposing similar sanctions on Syria, Shultz said.

Shultz said that while Syria is on the State Department's list of countries supporting terrorism, "Syria's picture is a rather different one ... Syria's behavior toward all these things is rather different from Libya's."

"And beyond that we are working with Syria on a number of fronts in a constructive way," Shultz added.

Iranians Board U.S. Merchant Ship and Search for War Goods

WASHINGTON — Armed Iranian navy sailors searching for war goods bound for Iraq on Sunday boarded an American merchant ship sailing in international waters just outside the Persian Gulf, the State Department said.

There were no injuries or loss of property during the two-hour search of the President Taylor, the first U.S. flag ship to be stopped by Iran, which has been fighting a five-year war with neighboring Iraq, said department spokesman Bruce Ammerman.

After the search, the bulk cargo ship owned by the American President Lines, Ltd., proceeded to the port of Fujaira, located on the Gulf of Oman in the United Arab Emirates, Ammerman said.

The ship was boarded Sunday at 11 a.m. local time (2 a.m. EST).

"Although this incident is obviously of serious concern, we have not yet met with the ship's captain and ascertained the full facts of the case," he said.

Committee Charges FDA with Negligence in Protecting Public

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration hasn't protected consumers from exposure to dangerous drugs given to animals that could turn up in meat, milk and poultry, a House committee charged Sunday in a new report.

The House Government Operations Committee said the FDA has lost sight of its mission to protect the public from the residues of veterinary drugs.

"FDA has consistently disregarded its responsibility for assuring the safety of drugs used in food-producing animals," said Rep. Ted Weiss, D-New York, chairman of the panel's subcommittee on human resources, in releasing the report.

"FDA has repeatedly put what it perceives are interests of veterinarians and the livestock industry in the availability of additional animal drugs ahead of its legal obligation to protect consumers from the potentially hazardous residues they may leave in meat, milk and eggs," Weiss said.

The committee's report was based on two days of congressional hearings last summer at which FDA officials conceded that only a small percentage of the estimated 20,000 animal drugs on the market have been approved by the agency.

Dr. Lester Crawford, then head of the FDA's center for veterinary medicine, told Weiss' subcommittee that the agency has approved only about 2,500 drugs.

"We're not able to monitor for all the (drug) products that might be used," Crawford testified.

College Study Shows Decreasing Interest in Technical Careers

LOS ANGELES — College freshmen show a sharply lower interest in computer and engineering careers, despite much-ballyhooed national needs, and appear to be backing away from a 15-year focus on financial security, says a study released today.

At the same time, students are slowly returning to careers in education as a nationwide baby boomlet creates a teacher shortage — a turnabout from a decade earlier when there were more teachers than jobs and few people were entering the field, the study found.

The study also found that while the majority of the freshmen still consider themselves middle of the road politically, they have traditionally liberal views on such issues as disarmament, military spending, taxes, pollution and abortion.

The 164-page report was compiled by the Cooperative Institutional Research Program. It was sponsored by the American Council on Education and the University of California at Los Angeles graduate school of education.

The study was based on surveys of 192,453 students, or a little over 1 percent of the fall 1985 freshmen class of 1.66 million at 365 colleges and universities.

One of the most surprising discoveries was a sharp drop in interest in computer and engineering fields. "This declining interest in technological careers stands in stark contrast to the growing national concern for increased technological training and technological capacity in the American workforce," the report said.

State Legislature Faces Campaign Reform Issue on Present Agenda

SACRAMENTO — Campaign reform, a political issue that won't go away, surfaces again this week in the Legislature with some big names leading the way.

Assembly Speaker Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, his Ways and Committee chairman, John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, and the No. 2 Democrat in the Senate, Majority leader Barry Keene, are teaming up to introduce legislation today that's modeled after the recommendations of a prestigious bipartisan commission.

The proposals of the privately funded California Commission on Campaign Financing include limits on contributions to legislative candidates, a ban on non-election-year fund-raising by those candidates and spending ceilings for candidates who accept limited public financing for their races.

Concerns about sharply increasing campaign budgets and the legislative influence of wealthy special-interest contributors have made such proposals perennial issues in Sacramento.

The Commission on Campaign Financing includes some of the big names in California business, education and politics, including former Republican Assembly Speaker Bob Monagan.

Also on the agenda this week are two bills designed to protect young passengers on bicycles and in school buses and a third measure that would require service stations to provide clean toilet and handwashing facilities for customers.

Proposed Budget Calls for Increase in Funds for UC

By Mariko Takayasu
Capital Correspondent

SACRAMENTO — GOP Gov. George Deukmejian proposed a $36.7 billion 1986-87 state budget Friday that provides more money to the University of California and called for no increases in student fees.

The governor's spending plan would provide $3.5 billion in state money to UC. UC's operation budget would total $1.8 billion in state funds, an increase of 8.8 percent from this current fiscal year, according to UC officials. An additional $141.1 million would be set aside for capital outlay improvement.

The 1986-87 fiscal year has been called the third year of a three-year plan implemented by the university to increase state funds to help rebuild the university's fiscal health.

The proposed budget marks the third straight year without student fee increases.

"The governor has decided to provide $12 million from the general fund to offset the 7.5 percent increase that the regents budget proposed," UC representative Valerie Sullivan said.

The fee increase proposed by the regents was based on a long term fee policy developed by the Legislature last year to eliminate sharp increases in student fees.

"This is the second major fee victory for students this year along with the long-term fee policy," said UC Student Association President Dan Greening.

"We were hopeful the governor would make this decision, fulfilling his promise to ease the fee burden after unprecedented increases in the early 1980s," Greening said.

Between 1980 and 1984 fees jumped almost 80 percent.

The governor's plan also includes a five percent faculty pay increase to help the university maintain a competitive edge over faculty salaries of comparable academic institutions.

Altogether Deukmejian's proposal for higher education, which includes $2.04 billion for the California state university system, takes up 15.7 percent of the budget.

President David Gardner characterized the governor's proposal as "supporting the university in many ways."

"The budget provides funds for projected enrollment growth and for needed construction and renovation of facilities," Gardner said.

Deukmejian's budget would provide $147 million for enrollment growth, projected to increase by 2,900 students during the next fiscal year.

The governor's budget plan also sets aside $1.1 million for UC's affirmative action program to help increase the ethnic minority representation among UC students and faculty.

The university, in contrast with its bad track record of improving its representation of ethnic minorities, requested $6 million for the implementation of these programs, said Associate Director of the UC Student Lobby Adrienne Graham.

"The university needs ... to enhance its affirmative action program and the UC student lobby is in strong support of these programs," Graham said.

The UC Student Lobby will work (See BUDGET, p.11)

Systemwide Administrators Support Growth for UCSB

Systemwide and campus officials are pleased with the direction and growth of UCSB and are optimistic that its 1987 budget will reflect strong support from the office of the president of the University of California.

The UC vice presidents met with campus administrators at UCSB Thursday to review reports and requests from the campus at the beginning of a year-and-a-half-long budget process.

The yearly meeting allows systemwide administrators to "take stock in the needs and plans of the campus," said William Baker, UC vice president of budget and university relations.

"We feel that this campus is going upward," Baker said. "We're very pleased with the direction it has taken."

The vice presidents heard reports from representatives of all three colleges, the administration and the academic senate on behalf of the campus, Vice Chancellor Raymond Sawyer said. There was also extensive talk about campus plans for numbers of students, academic programs and support facilities, and discussion of the governor's budget released that morning, Sawyer said.

Campus officials made "our defense of our budgetary requests (and) our arguments for increased support from the office of the president," he said.

"It's always a friendly meeting," Sawyer said. "I think that we did a very good job of presenting the campus' strengths."

Growth projections and capital gains were among the chief issues discussed at the meeting, said William Frazer, senior vice president of academic affairs.

An increase in educational fees was discussed, but we "have to wait to see what the governor says tonight," Frazer said, referring to Governor Deukmejian's State of the State address Thursday night. In his speech, the governor said that such an increase would not be mandatory.

Frazer said that the meeting helped the vice presidents to learn about campus needs and academic planning at UCSB.

"I think that the president's office has been very pleased with the development and growth of this campus," Sawyer said.

Capitol Hill Internships

The Capitol Hill Program Provides Practical Experience In Washington D.C. or Sacramento Internships

Are you tired of living in Isla Vista? Are you stuck in the same old routine of midterms and finals? Would you rather spend an exciting quarter in Washington, D.C. or Sacramento working for a congressman, senator, private interest group, federal or state agency? You can be in the center of the action if you are accepted by the Capitol Hill Program and are placed in an internship in our state or national capital.

The Capitol Hill Program is a non-profit, completely student run organization which screens students and assists in placing them in internships and securing housing. The Program has placed over 900 interns since 1973, and has an excellent reputation for sending quality interns.

Internships last approximately ten weeks during any quarter. The Program is open to all majors who meet eligibility requirements based on interest, maturity and academic achievement. Most participating interns are eligible for academic credit. If academic credit is needed, it must be arranged by the intern through individual departments. Be sure to check departmental credit and eligibility requirements before pursuing an internship. We will be holding 3 orientation meetings. Jan. 14, 1-2 p.m., UCen Rm. 3; Jan. 15, 3-4 p.m., UCen Rm. 1; and Jan. 16, 6-7 p.m., UCen Rm. 1.

HOW TO APPLY? Applications must be completed two quarters prior to the time of the desired internship. The application requires that the prospective intern write a personal essay, submit two recommendations and a transcript, have upper division standing and a minimum GPA of 3.0, and interview with the CHP directors.

The CHP Office is located on the third floor of the UCen in room 3125D inside the CAB office. The phone number is 961-2067. The Directors are 7 former interns: Daphne Blumin, Andy Gould, Amy Jones, Dave Reynolds, Kathy Stratford, Anne Thompson and Lauri Wittman. They hold daily office hours, so stop by for more information.

Davis

A man described as despondent over a failed relationship held a gun to his head last week, forcing the police to close down the Segundo Dining Commons and the Bixby and Gilmore dorms at UC Davis.

Rick Malfatto went to the dining commons apparently intending to talk to a female employee, police officers said. The drama ended peacefully after Malfatto gave up the .38 caliber handgun with which he threatened to shoot himself. No charges were filed, and he was held for observation at the Yolo County General Hospital.

At a dinner held at the UC Davis Faculty Club last week, Davis city officials told UCD administrators that they want more input in the formulation of the university's enrollment projection.

Administrators and local officials discussed how an increase of nearly 41,000 students over the next 15 years will affect the city's 50,000 population growth goal.

According to UCD Chancellor James Meyer, UC President David Gardner asked all campus chancellors to project how many more students each campus can handle. The UC system expects as many as 20,000 to 30,000 more eligible applicants before the year 2000, partially because more women than ever before are applying for admission to UC schools.

One Davis City Council member said he was told that communities containing UC campuses would have input in the projection process, but feels "a little leery of being involved in a discussion after a decision has already been made."

"The UC president has stated over and over that he will not force the campuses to take more students," assuring that both campus and local campus officials will have an impact on final enrollment figures, Meyer said.

Los Angeles

A rash of false fire alarms disturbed UCLA dorm residents the night before final exams began last quarter.

"To be quite honest, I was outraged. There was no reason for it to happen. It was two in the morning and very cold," UCLA freshman Rob Kasof said in reference to one of the false alarms.

The UCLA dorms had 20 fire alarms last quarter, and the residents were evacuated from the building each time. Six of the 20 alarms were false, eight were attributed to system malfunctions, and five had known causes.

Metal boxes and panes of glass were installed over the alarm activators three years ago, but this has been ineffective in deterring false alarms, Jack Gibbons, associate director of the Office of Residential Life said.

Attempting to combat pigeon problems at Ackerman Union, ASUCLA has imported inflatable owls to ward off pigeons roosting above union entrances and loading docks.

"The pigeons sit up on the lights and drain pipes and ... they're a mess," ASUCLA Student Union Director Mark Panatier said. "It's distracting to look overhead as you leave the student store," he added.

Panatier said that eight to ten blow-up owls will be installed in favorite roosting areas.

"A lot of people have heard of them (the owls) and they seem to work very well, so we are going to give them a try," Panatier said.

Methods for pigeon control used unsuccessfully in the past have included rubber snakes, metal garlands, and a wire lath.

San Diego

Representatives of alternate media publications at UC San Diego contested the new media guidelines which would limit allocations to $4,000 per publication. The new guidelines were set by Communications Commissioner Michael Fahlbusch and the Media Board last week.

Alternative media on campus are funded by allocations from the Associated Students. The new limitation of $4,000 per publication would represent an increase in funds for four of the alternate publications, and a cut in funding for two.

Protest has arisen because only Fahlbusch and the Media Board were involved in the writing of the proposal.

"The logical and fair thing is that the students should be the ones to decide on this. Put it to a vote," said Byron Morton of the new indicator collective.

"I am personally for student support, but something must be done now," Fahlbusch said. He intends to try to pass the proposal with the A.S. Council as soon as possible, then put the issue on the spring ballot for student vote.

Fahlbusch and the Media Board stressed that the controversial proposal is based on "equity and efficiency" despite claims by the Chicano publication that a reduction in their funding would be a racist move by the Media Board.

The Graduate Students Association at UC San Diego is planning a referendum for this spring in hopes of establishing a graduate student activity fee to supplement funding from the Associated Students Council.

The proposed $5 fee would be less than GSA activity fees on any other UC campus.

All UCSD students pay $12.50 per quarter into the Student Center fund. The GSA currently receives a percentage of the Student Center budget, but this may change this year with the expected increase in undergraduate enrollment.

A petition drive will be conducted this quarter to collect the 230 graduate signatures (ten percent) necessary to put the referendum on the spring ballot.

If passed, the referendum will be advisory to the administration, which will decide whether or not to bring it before the Board of Regents.

"As long as the uses of the fee are consistent with the goals of the regents and the grads want it, we will bring it to the regents," UCSD Vice Chancellor Joseph Watson said. "I'm sure they would approve," he added.

Irvine

Voter turnout at UC Irvine reached a low last quarter with only 4.5 percent of all students participating in the campus election to fill 11 council seats.

Some of the council members elected won by margins of 10 to nine, 15 to 10, 11 to 10, and 12 to zero. A candidate running for an at-large seat received 549 votes, the most votes garnered by anyone in the election.

"We thought of giving something away at the voting booths, like candies, kind of bribing students to vote," UCI Executive Vice President Chris Murphy said.

Murphy attributed the low turnout to voter apathy, the half-hearted campaigning by the candidates, and a general distrust of the ASUCI voting procedure.

The results of two A.S. elections were disregarded last spring because of ballot box stuffing and a dispute over the distribution of an alternative newspaper that ran candidate endorsements after the allowed deadline.

SDSU Greeks Accused of Sexual Misconduct

By Jack Carter
Special from the Daily Aztec

SAN DIEGO — A San Diego State University disciplinary board will hear charges of misconduct against Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity and Delta Gamma sorority Jan. 21 and 22 in the alleged rape of an 18-year-old member of the sorority.

The misconduct charges stem from the alleged rape at an exchange party between the organizations at the Pi Kappa Alpha house Nov. 14.

The disciplinary board, two student representatives of the greek system and three SDSU staff members, will determine the guilt or innocence of the organizations and disciplinary actions, if appropriate.

SDSU's Office of Communications Manager Sue Raney said possible action against the organizations may include loss of on-campus status, probation, fines or lesser sanctions.

Although SDSU is continuing to investigate individual students in connection with the alleged rape, the police investigation headed by SDSU's Department of Public Safety appears to have stalled.

District Attorney Edwin Miller announced Dec. 5 that no police charges, one of rape and two of lesser sexual offenses, would be filed against three members of Pi Kappa Alpha.

"Based on witness accounts, we cannot prove beyond a reasonable doubt that a rape occurred," Miller said. "As prosecutors ... we must decide if we can prove ... that a rape has occurred."

John Carpenter, director of the Department of Public Safety, stressed throughout the investigation that police had enough evidence to determine a rape had occurred.

"I believe we had more than sufficient evidence to prosecute," Carpenter said.

The victim was allegedly raped by a Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity member in the early morning of Nov. 15 in a bedroom off the main party area.

At about 11 p.m. the night of the party, the woman told a fraternity member she felt dizzy and wanted a place to lie down and rest, police said. Investigators believe the woman drank punch spiked with Everclear, a 95 percent pure alcohol product illegal in California.

The woman told police she awoke at about 3 a.m. in the fraternity bedroom and found most of her clothes missing. She covered herself with a blanket and ran back to her dormitory, police said, where she slept until afternoon. SDSU's Student Health Services confirm the woman's arrival there at 2 p.m. and said Public Safety took the woman to nearby Grossmont Hospital for an examination about an hour later.

A hospital nurse said there "were obvious signs of sexual assault."

By Nov. 18 Public Safety Detectives Tom Boyer and Jo Anne Gray had identified a suspect and were continuing to investigate whether others were involved in the alleged rape.

Carpenter filed an arrest warrant Nov. 19 with Deputy District Attorney William Collins. Carpenter said the suspect would be named when Collins issued the warrant to a judge for final approval.

Pi Kappa Alpha President Ken Smerz repeatedly said the fraternity was in full cooperation with the police. Smerz said he was "concerned as to the damage that may have resulted from the allegations, not only for my house, but for the entire greek system."

Delta Gamma sorority President Lisa Angelos declined to comment during the police investigation.

Investigators identified two more suspects Dec. 3 on charges of lesser sexual offenses, implicating a total of three Pi Kappa Alpha members in the alleged rape. Miller announced two days later that no police charges would be filed against the individuals.

Public Safety continues to investigate the alleged rape, but they can not "put 100 percent into this," Carpenter said.

Police continued to supply the district attorney with information "as we continue to get it," but the detectives have also been assigned other casework, Carpenter said.

Linda Miller, representative for the District Attorney's Office, said any "dramatic, really big" information would still be reviewed, "but it would have to be significant."

SDSU's Division of Student Affairs began an investigation in early December independent of the police investigation. Student Affairs interviewed more than 60 fraternity and sorority members during December.

SDSU President Thomas B. Day said the student affairs investigation "yielded enough evidence ... to include illegal use of alcohol, hazing, physical abuse and lewd and indecent behavior."

In a letter published Dec. 16 in SDSU's Daily Aztec, the victim's mother said her daughter was a virgin. The victim's mother appealed to fraternity members to release more in-

Fund Raising Will Benefit the College of Engineering

By Wade Daniels
Reporter

Frederick E. Regan, the recently named director of development for UCSB's College of Engineering will coordinate a $25 million fund-raising drive to benefit the college's many departments.

The $25 million is nearly a quarter of the targeted $107 million that the "Campaign for UCSB" expects to raise within the next ten years.

Regan's goal is to strengthen every area of the engineering department, he said, adding "both graduate and undergraduate programs," will receive the contributions.

Regan comes to Santa Barbara after serving on the fund-raising staff at Massachusetts' Tufts University. While at the east coast college, he was the director of development at the university's College of Engineering and an associate director of corporate and foundation relations.

The move from Tufts to UCSB came about because of UCSB's "solid commitment to engineering and distinct potential to become one of the nation's research leaders in certain fields," Regan said.

Robert Mehrabian, Dean of the College of Engineering, picked Regan "head and shoulders" above all other candidates under consideration. "We look forward to a long and fruitful relationship with him," Mehrabian said. "He has a great background." It took the better part of two years to sift through the many candidates to find one as capable as Regan, he added.

The new job will be a challenge as UCSB will be competing for funds with some of the most prestigious universities in the nation, Regan said.

Regan expects the project to take between five and six years but points out that engineering departments will continually require money, even after the fund raising has been completed. The "Campaign for UCSB", which was announced last September, has already raised over $3 million after nine months of solicitations.

"This is a new level of fund raising for UCSB," Regan said. Funds will be received from foundations and corporations as well as private donors. Through his previous experience Regan is already familiar with many of the prospective corporate sources, he said.

Many departments in the College of Engineering will benefit sub-

EOP Offers Workshops on Minority Self-development

By Doug Satre
Reporter

A weeklong series of workshops focusing on special career and personal development needs of minority students begins at noon today.

Entitled "Get the Edge: Career and Personal Development for Ethnic Minority Students," the workshops are sponsored and conducted by Counseling and Career Services and the Equal Opportunity Program/Affirmative Action program.

"Minority students often come from different, bicultural backgrounds and sometimes they see that as a disadvantage when they come to a big, mainstream university like UCSB," said Gary Kamimura, one of the program's organizers.

"The workshops are designed to show students the ways in which they can use their diverse backgrounds to their advantage in their personal lives and career opportunities," Kamimura said.

"The workshops are being designed to show students the ways in which they can use their diverse backgrounds to their advantage."

— Gary Kamimura,
program organizer

Chick Streetman, a local singer-guitarist will open the week with a performance at noon today in room 1109 of the Counseling and Career Services building.

Streetman, a musician with a long list of performances and community services to his credit, has appeared on stage with such top artists as B.B. King, Etta James and Peter Tosh.

Streetman is very good at getting crowds excited and involved, said Kamimura. "He has been involved with a number of social networking programs, so he relates well to what we are trying to accomplish," he added.

The hour-long workshops will continue at noon throughout the week. Topics include career exploration, assertiveness, resume writing, interviewing skills, overcoming anxiety and procrastination, decision making, and conflict negotiations.

The workshops will be held in room 1109 of the Counseling and Career Services building concluding Friday at 7 p.m. with "Open Hours: A Chat with Counseling and Career Services and EOP Staff."

Finally, A System That Works

Editorial

The administration has finally had a success that students can appreciate. After its second attempt with the brand new computer registration system, the administration has developed and implemented a workable process to get students their classes.

For the past week and a half, fear of the notorious lines and hassles associated with schedule adjustments ran high among students. Memories of last quarter's seemingly endless fiasco, and of previous quarters' open registration systems were not easily forgotten. Nightmares of no class space, conflicting time slots, and hour after hour of waiting flashed through students' minds as they made appointments to adjust their imperfect schedules.

But this quarter — to much surprise — the registration system took a new route. And it has been a successful turnaround, to say the least. The administration, after acting on a student's suggestion to develop appointment time slots for adjusting class schedules, has finally put to work a system students can live with. Of course, virtually no system will provide all students with flawless schedules, but this quarter's set-up left little room for complaints.

With adjustments being made by appointment, lines were few and pressure to camp-out and beat the crowd was virtually non-existent. The daily newsletter with up-to-date information on available classes was a smart move that alleviated student confusion and split-second decision-making that, in the past, often left them with none of the courses they originally sought. Efficient computers and a roomful of schedule adjusters and academic counselors were key tools in implementing the system successfully.

Congratulations go beyond a pat-on-the-back to last week's patient, hard-working staff. A sincere "thank you" goes out to Provost David A. Sprecher, Associate Registrar David Chaney, and the team of masterminds — Eugene Barton, Glenn Davis, Virginia Johns, David Kohl, Robert Kuntz, Michael Stevenson, Joan Willicombe — for their continuous efforts to get the dream system working in reality.

We appreciate the extra physical and mental overtime attention these administrators devoted to create for students a workable, bearable registration system. It is refreshing to realize that some administrators care enough to go the extra mile for the students; for this dedication, we are thankful.

Comfortably Numb

Dave Anthony

They sit in the living room of their home, the two of them, father and son, an early Sunday evening melting away quickly into night. Before them, center stage, is the television set, its large blank face bathing them in the same comforting light they have grown so dependent upon over the years.

Since it is early, the main viewing for which they have seated themselves is still some time away, and so they find, with the irritation born of events over which they have no control, that their only alternative is the nightly news. It is a pain they have suffered before, of course, the dull drone of the anchorman's voice and the constant flashing from one scene of crisis to the next like indelible parts of their subconscious. Even then, however, it is found to be tolerable only through the very act of that repetition, only through the knowledge that what is seen within that half-hour span will slide quickly and easily away, lost

Taking A Closer Look

Ernest Medeiros

Peter Most's sophomoric diatribe against organized labor in America (Nexus Jan. 8), reveals a myopic social vision and aversion for the facts unusual for a member of the academic community. He ascribes fantastic imaginary powers to an organized labor movement that has been in a sorry state of decline since its peak in the years of Lyndon Johnson's "Great Society." Even in its heyday, organized labor never obtained the leviathan powers Most ascribes to it.

Management, not labor, is guilty for the decline of America's domestic job market. To blame labor for the gutting of American industry is equivalent to blaming the victim for the perpetration of a rape!

In the 1960s the American steel industry was the most productive and profitable in the world. Coincidentally, the steel industry was the most thoroughly organized in America, and the American steel worker was the best paid in the world. What killed that industry was not the greed of

Gopher for President

Robert Apatow

Yes, it's true! Fred "Gopher" Grandy, the loveable boob on the Love Boat, is aiming his rudder towards Washington. This startling political development comes straight from the authoritative source — People Magazine.

Grandy has decided to run for Congress from his home state of Iowa, and he's running Republican. While this is obviously good news for the GOP, which is attempting to gain control of the Congress in 1986, it is very unfortunate for the rest of us who don't need any more Republicans, but cannot afford to lose an actor the caliber of Fred Grandy. Most of you are already aware of the dismaying fact that after nine brilliant seasons, the Love Boat is being mothballed — thank God for syndication. In what will be assuredly an emotional final episode this spring, Gopher announces that he is leaving the ship to manage a hotel on an isolated South Pacific Island. The episode is entitled Mr. Smith Goes to Mini Kulu.

My first response to this news was, "My God, it is time to trash the Constitution. Democracy made a nice try, but obviously it is getting embarrassing."

Some may think I am jumping the gun; Gopher might not win the Northwestern Iowa seat. He's running against a six-term incumbent in the state where Ronald Reagan has his lowest popularity rating. Nevertheless, Gopher's opponent doesn't have a chance. How will he even compete once Gopher begins to ship in all his friends to support his campaign? Which candidate do you think will attract these Iowa farmers, Grandy's opponent with his pot-luck buffets or Grandy with the glamorous star-studded Hollywood parties?

OK, Gopher has won the seat and he's in Washington. The next step, port of amongst an endless blur of days whose actual importance is determined only by the amount of time it takes for it to be forgotten.

Resigning himself to a half an hour of tedium, the younger of the two reaches forward and, as is his habit, turns the sound of the television all the way down.

On the screen is the image of soldiers running down a crowded city street, guns held two-handed in front of them. Around them, civilians, mostly black, flee in all directions. In the distance a car is burning, and, before the camera swings wildly to another section of the street, a young boy is seen being struck down as he winds to throw a rock in the direction of the soldiers. When the camera returns the boy is being taken roughly away.

Perhaps the young son thinks that it is odd, watching all of this in silence, gunshots and voices falling deaf upon his ears — as if he has placed a filter between himself and the action, equal, almost, to that of the television screen. But then again, as he shifts lower into the comfort of his armchair, perhaps he rationalizes to himself that it is best. It is rare that he understands, or is able to keep up with, events as they flash before him on the screen night after night. This way, at least, he can allow the images to flow over him, the yellowish light the set casts forth bathing him with an over-all impression not at all a poor substitute for actual knowledge.

And indeed, as he knew it would, the action on the screen soon changes. Again it is a city street, but this time it is empty save for the presence of a single small child, no older than two. Around the child, who even through the silence is obviously crying, is the rubble of what looks to be a recent explosion. Smoke drifts about, and the picture is dim and hazy.

He does not know exactly why, but without any real thought he leans forward again, this time returning the sound to its original volume. Perhaps it is that the child's sound will so obviously be the only one coming from the set, easy to discern and simple in its message. But perhaps too there is a curiosity drawing him to action, even one so insignificant as the turning of a dial. Perhaps the solitary sound of a child's voice is one which he knows even an over-all impression cannot make up for, that it is one which must be grasped and held each time anew in order to be understood.

At the touch of the dial the child's cries fill the room. Uncomfortable now, he sits, waiting. Why, he wonders, has a commentator not broken in, or the scene changed? Long seconds move past, and with each his discomfort grows. His father too, he senses, is uneasy, wondering along with his son why it is that a single image has been allowed to stand so long unaltered, washing over them and dangerous.

Again, and again without any real thought, he leans forward, not only to turn down the sound, but to turn off the set as well. But as he does he finds, in that strange way events have of acting upon you even from the greatest of distances and despite the safest of barriers, that the crying has ceased suddenly, leaving him with his arm outstretched to shut out an image which has already brought itself to an end, and an image which, in its very simplicity, has acted convincingly and singularly upon him.

Look At Unions And The American Worker

the worker but the remorseless avarice of the corporate investors. Profits were not re-invested in the facility modernization that was necessary to keep the steel industry competitive, as well as keeping American workers amongst the best paid in the world. Instead, returns from steel were taken out of the industry and invested in short-term speculation in real estate, precious metals, and petroleum, yielding spectacular profits for investors and precious few jobs for Americans.

Mr. Most's picture of an industrial sector, "Weakened by years of economic distress and unwilling to wage a battle it cannot win ..." is as pitifully fallacious as most of his other questionable assertions; the American industrial and entrepreneurial elite has never been more wealthy nor more powerful, while the oppressed have never been more downtrodden. To maintain that the flight of industry to third world labor markets constitutes a search for "a fair day's work, for a fair day's pay," is proof that Mr. Most's conscience has atrophied beyond recognition; assuming that he really believes that the pennies per day paid to third world workers for near chattel slavery in unsafe and dehumanizing conditions is a "fair day's pay for a fair day's work."

What is, perhaps, most disconcerting about Mr. Most's misguided analyses is his misunderstanding of the objectives of most contemporary labor disputes (meat-packers included). It is not a drive for higher wages and frivolous fringe benefits, but an effort to stop the erosion of hard fought basic gains like seniority, retirement, and single scale pay systems. Further, the poor, unfortunate meat packing industry that Most sheds his crocodile (crock of what?) tears for started the strike by staging a lock-out when rank and file refused to submit to a contract that would have wiped out the basic gains that the union fought for decades to gain.

The industrial apologist's tired litany of, "blame the unions, blame the unions," becomes patently ludicrous when we turn our attentions to an examination of our most successful industrial rival, Japan. A far higher percentage of the Japanese workforce is unionized than in the United States. In Japan, unions, management and government work hand-in-hand to create and promote an industrial sector that fills the needs of all concerned participants, not just the entrepreneurial elite. Of course, Japan is no idyllic utopia; witness their destruction of, and disregard for, the environment in their mad rush to "produce at any cost."

No, Mr. Most, the crucial problems that threaten our very existence (not merely our job security) are not the fault of organized labor. Rather, they are the inevitable byproduct of an unchecked multi-national corporate avarice, a blind drive to maximize profit no matter what the human and environmental cost (witness the mad rush to destroy the rain forests of the tropics and irrevocably pollute the oceans of the earth, destroying the very sources of life and regeneration purely for reasons of economic expediency). Cheap shots at a waning and increasingly defeated organized labor movement are a poor substitute for an intellectual commitment to a reordering of the aims and priorities of society in ways beneficial to all human inhabitants of our rapidly shrinking and depleted world.

Reply

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Regarding Jeff Bear's response to my comments in Tuesday's article concerning overenrollment at UCSB:

First, Mr. Bear, I wasn't making "malicious remarks." A reporter asked me to comment on any observations I may have had concerning the increase in student population over the last three years. I simply stated that I have noticed the increase in student body. If you have not noticed it as well, you've been drinking too many beers on your way to the Isla Vista Bookstore. Your "Rambo gets a typewriter" attack on the Arbor, its patrons, and me is unnecessary and uncalled for.

Secondly, Mr. Bear, my facts are straight, apparently straight over your head. There ARE four people in some dorm rooms, like in the Santa Rosa corner rooms. I suppose you're going to tell the fourth person that he doesn't exist? Your laissez-faire attitude is irresponsible and immature. Indeed, over-enrollment IS a problem at UCSB, the best evidence being your presence.

MTD Line Nine

Editor, Daily Nexus:

WE, the students of New Married Student Housing (NMSH) appreciate the articles and editorials you have recently devoted to our plight regarding MTD. Your coverage was balanced and accurate; your editorials were pithy and effective; and your cartoon (1/18) should be plastered all over the walls at MTD.

One more thing needs to be mentioned, however: the bottom line at MTD (and in Cheadle Hall) is The Numbers; that was clear in the recent responses from both quarters. Before we get our bus, they must again see The Numbers.

Therefore I encourage everyone, especially those in NMSH both students and spouses, to write to Mr. Gary Gleason, MTD, P.O. Box 355, SB 93102. Tell him how much we need our bus back, how much you would use the service, and how difficult it is to live without a bus connection here. That could be followed up with a copy to Chancellor Huttenback. They haven't believed me when I try to speak for you, so please add your voice to mine.

Again, thank you at the Nexus for your most welcome coverage of our problems. You have quickly grasped the crux of the problem, gathered the essential details from all the parties, and presented it in a way that made it understandable to all concerned. Let's keep each other posted as further developments occur.

Terrorism

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I disagree with a few ideas concerning terrorism that are circulating.

1. Terrorism is ineffective. Many countries, including the now critical Israel, were established by terrorism.

2. Terrorism is less justifiable than war. Many innocents, armed or unarmed, are killed by both war and terrorism to achieve some end that barely concerns these innocents. Successful terrorism is later viewed as part of the glorious fight for independence.

3. There is valid reason for the terrorism. The Palestinian cause has been affirmed and validated by every U.N. participant except the U.S. and Israel. Unfortunately, these two nations have all the power in settling this disagreement. The U.S. and Israel's sovereignty allows them to ignore the U.N.'s resolutions leaving the Palestinians with no acceptable alternatives in the quest for a homeland.

4. A U.S. war with Libya is Justifiable. On one count, thousands of innocents will be killed in the name of protecting innocents. On a second count, how can the U.S. justify a war with a nation that supports terrorism for a globally accepted cause, while the U.S. itself supports terrorism for a less accepted cause in Central America?

Please don't misinterpret me; I despise murder, but perhaps we should look at why other "civilized nations" condemn us and disagree with us on the U.N. resolutions. This might improve our understanding of the situation and keep us from supporting an unjustifiable war.

It might also end our role as the target of international hatred and terrorism.

Thanks for listening.

Art And The Press

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Once again we're shown how the press tends to treat the Arts as mere background or filler for their news stories, not fulfilling their claim to accuracy in all respects. To me, culture IS as important as politics, especially when you're dealing with a topic that merges the two together. The story on Bishop Tutu in Wednesday's Nexus, provided by the Associated Press, was both interesting and informing, but contained a gross error that should not have slipped past our editor. The contention (or insinuation) that Peter, Paul & Mary are the originators of the anti-war song, "Blowin' in the Wind" is completely inexcusable. I have nothing against them, but it is an insult to the real author, the man not only responsible for an important shift in the evolution of rock music, but also the major influence in the utilisation of music to purvey a political message, culminating in this last year's Live-Aid, et al. I am, of course, speaking of the great Bob Dylan, an artist not to be forgotten by anyone, least of all the press. We're not just talking about "entertainment" here, we're talking about a part of American life and history, and in this case a part of American politics. Let's keep the facts straight from now on.

I.V. Commission Seeks Volunteers to Boost Action

By Karl Larson
Reporter

"I.V. is such a depressed community aesthetically that it's a planner's dream."

— Malcolm Gault-Williams, IVCC Member

The Isla Vista Community Council has launched a campaign to recruit members for the I.V. Planning Commission, a group whose ability to work with the county on local planning issues has been severely limited due to a lack of volunteers and funding.

The commission has existed since the inception of the IVCC in 1970, but lack of membership has restricted its function, said Malcolm Gault-Williams, IVCC member and former planning commission chair. "It's more or less an arm of the community council," Gault-Williams said.

"We're trying to recruit some student help so they can learn about planning," he said, although the planning commission "basically runs on a budget of zero."

"I.V. is such a depressed community aesthetically that it's a planner's dream," Gault-Williams said.

Although the current campaign is the council's first strong attempt to recruit members in over two years, the planning commission has not been inactive, Gault-Williams said. Past projects include street cleaning, increased lighting in I.V. and improvement of the Embarcadero bike loop, he said.

Although the commission can not work to increase parking space in I.V. due to monetary constraints, it will work to help determine zoning in I.V., an issue which could affect the community's growth, Gault-Williams said.

"Zoning is a planning device that writes into law what can be built where," IVCC Chair Greg Brubaker explained.

I.V.'s population is based on current zoning laws. Prior to the 1970s, I.V. was zoned for about 40,000 residents. That number was reduced in the early 1970s to about 22,000 people, partly due to the riots and unrest in the community, Santa Barbara County Supervisor Bill Wallace said. Less than ten years later, I.V. was down-zoned to approximately 18,000, he said.

The county does not intend to restrict the number of people who may live in I.V., but does place limitations on the number of units per apartment, Wallace said.

Although the commission plans to work on development issues such as zoning, it will not play a large role in the county's plans for local development, Wallace said. "We haven't had a whole lot of contact (with the IVCC).... They can object as any other citizen," he said.

The IVCC hopes for at least ten volunteers to serve on the commission. "We've got four (interested people) so far, but we haven't gotten any commitments," Brubaker said.

There is a possibility for students working on the commission to earn class credit; however, there is no guarantee of credit for the program. "It was our idea (for students to receive credit) because we recognized the incentive," Gault-Williams said.

Students can receive credit through a department, said Debbie Artz, coordinator of the Applied Learning Counseling and Career planning program.

"It depends on the student's major. You would have to get a faculty sponsor. We do know sociology is pretty receptive to this," Artz explained.

Brubaker said that students could possibly receive credit through independent study in sociology, environmental studies, economics and architecture.

Although the commission deals with local issues and offers an opportunity for course credit, many students are unaware of its existence. UCSB student Shahid Rauf said he had never heard of the commission but guessed "it probably regulates the building or licensing of zones."

"I think I have (heard of the commission). Aren't they building some housing or trying to widen school boundaries?" said Jim Brennan, a UCSB student.

UC Student Suspect in Recent Car Vandalism

In an unusually large crime of its sort, 30 cars on Camino Corto in Isla Vista were vandalized Friday night.

Damage, totaling an estimated $375, was limited to broken mirrors and antennas.

The Isla Vista Foot Patrol will request the Santa Barbara District Attorney charge an 18-year-old male UC Berkeley student with three counts of automobile vandalism, Deputy Sheriff Tom McKinney said. The suspect's name was not released.

Only one car owner filed a vandalism report with the Foot Patrol, McKinney said. McKinney, however, filed a report on another car which he said "had good fingerprints."

Other evidence included blood found on a broken mirror at the scene of the crime, McKinney said. No one witnessed the crime, he added.

The suspect is a friend of a Francisco Torres resident, McKinney said.

The Foot Patrol questioned the suspect Saturday but did not arrest him, McKinney said. "It's standard procedure for dealing with a misdemeanor when you didn't see him (commit the crime) or don't see him right after," to release the suspect, he said.

The Foot Patrol does not know if an accomplice worked with the suspect, McKinney said, but he "can not rule out that possibility."

A male Francisco Torres resident who requested anonymity said an acquaintance of his introduced him to the suspect at a party on Del Playa Saturday. The F.T. resident said the suspect admitted committing the crimes.

"He (the suspect) said, 'Yeah, they busted me.'"

The F.T. resident noticed the suspect's bandaged hand. "It was taped up.... I saw his hand and it was still bleeding," he said.

BUDGET

with the university and the Legislature to ensure that UC's request for affirmative action money will be left intact.

The governor provided $1.5 million for research projects on issues having an impact on the state's social and economic health, including $1 million for studies on the Superconducting Super Collider. If it is built the SSC would be the world's largest atom smasher.

Last year, the governor and the Legislature allocated $500 million to UC, Stanford and Caltech to seek a California site for the SSC in order to keep the state in the running for the $4 billion-$6 billion project.

Although 20 states are competing for the prize jewel of high-energy physics, department of energy sources say the project may never be built because its cost is so high.

The governor's budget proposes to increase funds for programs that will expand the state's link to Pacific Rim countries. One such program would be the establishment of a new graduate school and school of International Relations and Pacific Studies at UC San Diego.

Under the proposed budget, $5.7 million will be set aside for instructional computing which includes $2.7 million from lottery money for the purchase of computers and associated operating costs.

There has been much controversy over substituting state funds with lottery proceeds, Graham said.

"The student lobby is firmly opposed to using lottery money for UC operating expenses," Graham said because it sets a precedent for replacing state funds with an unreliable source of funds.

The lottery is expected to bring $10.2 million to the university in 1986.

The governor has proposed $7.2 million for AIDS research. During his State of the State speech Thursday, Deukmejian said he was going "to fully fund the fight against the ruthless killer."

POST OFFICE

breach of the operating contract between the United States Postal Service and the IVCC, said Doug Bubey, postal contract administrator.

This is the first post office closure in the Santa Barbara area, Bubey said.

The reasons for the closure are indirectly related to the Nov. 21 theft of $7,000 in stamps from the post office, Brubaker said.

When postal investigators asked that Post Office Manager Carmen Lodise be suspended, they removed one of only two office employees. Yet the IVCC retained Lodise in another capacity, continuing his salary of approximately $350 a month.

Due to this monetary constraint, another employee could not be hired and the post office was forced to stay open for fewer hours. Lodise is now on vacation, Brubaker said.

Postal officials were unavailable for comment Friday on the status of the investigation. However, Brubaker said the IVCC, as the responsible party, will repay the Postal Service.

"We're going to give a payment schedule as well as a schedule of hours so that we can reopen on Monday," Brubaker said. "The reason we're counting so much on Monday's meeting is because we need the money."

According to Brubaker, if Monday's meeting fails the council will concentrate on other funding sources, such as fund raising and the Associated Students. "I'll be extremely disappointed if we get our contract pulled," he added.

Bubey guaranteed that even if today's negotiations fail, the Postal Service "won't leave I.V. without a post office."

If the council is not reinstated as the office's contractor, "we will begin competitive bidding (for the contract) in two weeks, but it will be 30 to 60 days before the opening of the post office," Bubey said.

Isla Vista residents will have to use the UCen post office or the Elwood post office in Goleta until the postal service selects a new contractor or an arrangement is made with the IVCC, Bubey said.

"A lot of people who use the I.V. post office can't get out of Isla Vista. I think it's really screwed that they came in and closed us down without any notice," said Lynn Murovitz, the other I.V. postal employee.

"We didn't want to do what we did, but we were getting too many complaints from people," Bubey said.

REGENT

"I think the position of student regent provides a really unique opportunity for student concerns to be represented at the highest level of university governance," he said.

A sophomore political science and economics major, Hoffman said he has been involved mostly in academic areas. "I think my expertise lies in the area of academics."

"This year the master plan is one of the most important issues," said Hoffman, a member of UCLA's Academic Affairs Commission.

"I don't think the student regent can afford to have one focus. This year, the revision of the master plan is a special area which needs attention."

Neither Brickman or Hoffman have attended any meetings of the UC Board of Regents.

formation about the incident to police.

"My daughter ... is an exceptionally rare person," she wrote.

"She has withstood a lot of ribbing and pressure concerning her virginity, but it is something she regarded highly and was proud of. She has been robbed of that. Your so-called brotherhood has become a sham. If there be any goodness and kindness in your heart ... then let these prevail ... go to the police with what information you have. It is never too late to right a wrong."

According to police records, there have been six reported rapes at SDSU in the past five years. One case led to conviction.

"It's all in Student Affairs' hands," Carpenter said.

(Carter is a staff writer for the SDSU Daily Aztec.)

Center Accepting Applications for Counselor Training

The Isla Vista Community Counseling Center is currently accepting applications for the winter Session of Peer Counselor Training at the center in I.V.

The nine-month program includes a six-week training group in basic counseling skills, followed by intermediate classes and a six-month supervised volunteer placement. A certificate is awarded upon completion of the full program.

The initial training group focuses on the development and maintenance of a therapeutic relationship through the use of communication and listening skills. Active participation, learning about oneself and others, and having fun are also emphasized. In the latter part of the training, peer counselors volunteer their time and skills in a wide variety of local community agencies.

Selection interviews for Peer Counselor Training will be held at the Center during the week of Jan. 20, and everyone is welcome to sign up. For more information or to schedule an interview, call 968-2222 or drop by the office at 970 Embarcadero del Mar, Suite H before Jan. 20.

Also offered this quarter at the Community Counseling Center are ongoing discussion groups. Two workshops entitled: Women in Transition—A Dream and Imagery, and Adult Children of Alcoholics (beginning and advanced) will be available at the center.

Gauchos Overcome Second Half Rally to Top Utah, 66-52

Fortson's 21 Points Lead Gauchos to First Win over Aggies in 7 Tries

By Scott Channon
Sports Editor

The PCAA parody continues. Even a Philosophy I student could have predicted Saturday night's outcome.

Three premises: 1) Utah State beat Cal State Fullerton; 2) Fullerton beat San Jose State; 3) San Jose blew out the Runnin' Gauchos.

So who won when UCSB travelled to Utah State?

Behind a game-high 21 points from Khris Fortson, the Gauchos (7-7, 2-3 in the PCAA) negated previous premises and not only won, but won big over the Aggies, 66-52, in front of 7,481 Spectrum fans.

The contest marked Jerry Pimm's third trip to Utah State as Gaucho head coach. UCSB had previously lost three straight games in the Spectrum, and six straight to the Aggies (5-8, 1-3 in the PCAA).

"It was a pretty good homecoming," Pimm said in a Santa Barbara News-Press article. "It was sure better than my last two times here, when we flittered away leads in the second half."

Lightning almost struck again when the Aggies whittled away a 14 point halftime deficit (37-23) by reeling off a 23-9 run to tie the score at 46 with 7:35 remaining.

Gaucho scoring-leader Conner Henry, who was held to only seven points, proceeded to can two free throws. The next trip down, Brian Johnson hit a long-range jumpshot, putting the Gauchos on the way to victory.

"The Aggies never got back in the game after that," Pimm said.

The Gauchos, who committed 24 turnovers, almost saw their lead evaporate again when Bill Floyd completed a three-point play, cutting the lead to 56-52 with 2:18 left on the clock.

On the next possession, Scott Fisher hit a 12-foot jumpshot for two of his 16 points, marking the beginning of the end for the Aggies. UCSB scored ten unanswered points after that bucket.

"We didn't lose our poise and take quick shots. We didn't do the things we've done in the past," Pimm observed. "The guys have finally learned that they don't have to win the game with one shot ... just move the ball to the inside guys for high percentage shots."

While Fortson was canning those inside shots, Bruce Hannan, who emerged as a starter after seeing no action against San Jose State, tipped in Mauryc Carr's second free throw attempt, giving UCSB a commanding 61-52 lead with 1:47 remaining.

From there, the Aggies had to resort to three-point shots, which ultimately sealed their coffin. Utah State was one of nine from three-point range. That statistic was a total reversal to previous Gaucho games, where UCSB had outshot their opponents from long-range. But this time, the Gauchos weren't the ones making up the deficit.

That came about largely due to a rebirth in the Gauchos' inside game, which went into hiding after the pre-season contests. UCSB dominated the boards with a 42-30 advantage, with Henry leading the way grabbing nine rebounds. UCSB's front line combined for 53 of the 66 points scored.

Fortson, slowly making his way back up the field goal percentage leader board, hit nine of ten from the floor, while Fisher was five of six.

Utah State's Greg Grant, who was recently the co-PCAA player of the week and who has been billed as an All-America candidate, was eight of 16 from the field for 19 points. It was only his second game all season that he failed to score 20 or more points.

The Gauchos made nine of 12 field goal attempts in the second half for 75 percent accuracy, while shooting 60 percent for the entire contest. The Aggies shot 51 percent.

GREG WONG/Nexus

Khris Fortson poured in 21 points in UCSB's win over Utah State, and was nine of ten from the field.

"It proves you don't have to take a lot of shots to win, just good shots," Pimm said.

Good shots are exactly what the Gauchos will need Thursday night when they host nationally-ranked UNLV for a 7:30 p.m. start.

The Runnin' Rebels traditionally draw the largest crowd of the year to the Events Center, and this campaign should be no different. The Rebels are currently 3-0 in the PCAA and 14-2 overall.

The Gauchos have never beaten the Rebels in 12 contests. However, University of the Pacific (1-3 in the PCAA) narrowly lost to the Rebels by five points one week ago in Stockton.

The Rebels boast 6-2 junior guard Freddie Banks, who was last week honored as Sports Illustrated's Player-of-the-Week.

Gaucho notes: For the past three seasons, Utah State has been the proud owner of the Oquirrh (oh-kerr) Bucket, which is given to the Utah team with the best intra-state record. As Head Coach of the University of Utah, Jerry Pimm held the bucket during the '77-78 and '80-81 seasons. According to the Utah State Media Guide, "The bucket is symbolic of basketball supremacy in the basketball-crazy state of Utah." While Pimm's team is no longer eligible, it was still satisfying to beat the defending bucket holders, right coach? ... Scott Fisher ranks second amongst PCAA players for all games at 59 percent from the floor and is fourth in rebounding in PCAA games, averaging 9.5 ... UCSB ranks eighth for scoring offense in the PCAA (68), while the Gauchos are sixth in defense (77.5).

Brian Johnson's perfect shooting helped lift the Gauchos over Utah.

UCLA Basketball Tournament

Lady Bruins Use Late Rally to Win Final

By Steven Deeley
Sports Writer

When life seems to be getting a little out of hand, it is sometimes necessary to focus on what has happened, and set some simple, short-term goals to get things back under control.

After going 0-for-1986, the UCSB women's basketball team set the relatively simple goals of playing with intensity for an entire game, and qualifying for the finals of this past weekend's UCLA-MacGregor Tournament.

The Gauchos attained both goals, defeating the University of New Mexico, 65-62, on Friday, but fell to the host UCLA Bruins, 58-38, in Saturday night's championship game. Northern Arizona defeated New Mexico, 41-37, for third place.

Sophomore Center Kira Anthofer, who had 15 points against New Mexico and 16 against UCLA, was named to the All-Tournament team.

In the final, the Gauchos slowed the tempo, which kept the score close, for most of the contest. UCSB trailed at the half, 27-20, and by ten with 4:55 to play, but the Bruins went on a tear late in the game to squash UCSB's hopes of an upset.

The Bruins were led by senior guard Ann Dean. Dean led all scorers with 17 points and was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player. In addition to Anthofer's scoring punch, Kristen Nicholson and Therese Puchalski each added nine points for the Gauchos.

"We took UCLA out of their game," Gaucho Head Coach Darla Wilson said. "I was pleased with this (See WOMEN'S HOOP, p.14)

Shaffer, Patterson Excel Despite Loss to Cal; Divers Dominate Irvine

By Mark van de Kamp
Assistant Sports Editor

The results of last weekend's swimming and diving proves there is much that lies behind numerical statistics.

The men's and women's swim teams each lost on the road to Berkeley by respective scores of 62-24 and 61-25, but more importantly, showed cohesiveness and spirit. At UC Irvine, the men divers won their first-ever trophy by placing second at the Third Annual UCI/General Automation Swimming Invitational.

"We had a very good trip in terms of a lot of things," UCSB Aquatics Director Gregg Wilson summarized. "We were very spirited and showed lots of enthusiasm. We had many, many fine performances. Dual meets are an indicator of where we are, and we're sitting okay relative to our conference."

Pacing the Gauchos in their dual meet on Friday (See SWIMMING, p.14) were Nils Plett (first, 200 back, 1:56.6), Chris Crook (first, 500 free, 4:39.7) and Mike Carpenter (second, 200 IM, 1:57.3).

"Each of their swims were very encouraging," Wilson said, "and Mike Shaffer was excellent in the invitational on Saturday and Sunday."

Shaffer placed second to NCAA champ Matt Biondi in both the 100 fly (51.9) and 200 free (1:42.7), tops for UCSB.

The women were without their top guns, Ann Ardell and Nadean Hudson, so they turned to Anne Patterson and Mary McGervey. Ardell missed competing due to mononucleosis, Hudson because of academic problems.

Patterson took a first (200 breast, 2:30.2) and second (200 fly, 2:10.9), while McGervey claimed a season best in her 100 free victory (54.7).

"Cal probably could have beaten us worse," Wilson admitted. "They're on semester break and it was at home for them. All things considered though, we did well."

When Wilson heard of the diving results, he was elated. "The men are on top now, and are ready," he said.

"They were really, really good," UCSB Diving Coach Mike Lewis said of his divers. "I'm very happy. We kicked some butt."

Bob Lang placed ninth in the one-meter springboard with 403 points, edging out Bill Barber (402) in 10th. Lang also did well in the three-meter, placing sixth with 464 points. Barber tallied 451 points to take seventh.

"The guys were a lot better on the three-meter," Lewis said, "but on both boards they looked sharp."

The women's diving competition featured 42 divers, comprising 14 teams. Lewis did not have an exact placing, but reported that his divers finished somewhere between the top six and ten teams. Ginaia Bernardini placed 24th in the one-meter and three-meter competitions, Stacy Lewton took 22nd and 27th. Lynn Trautner placed 25th in the one-meter event, held Sunday. No scores were available for the women.

"It was a real good, solid meet for the women," Lewis said. "Nothing spectacular, but they put together some nice dives."

Women's Hoop

way we controlled the tempo. We completely slowed-down UCLA's running game."

Against New Mexico, the Gauchos rallied from a four-point deficit with 1:43 to play to defeat the Lobos.

"We showed a lot of character," Wilson said. "I was pleased with the way we held our composure in a difficult situation."

Anthofer and Puchalski scored the game's final four points from the foul line, but it was senior guard Dana Panfili who won it for the Gauchos. Panfili hit six consecutive outside shots, and finished with 16 points.

The Gauchos ran into trouble in the first half when Nicholson and Kim Brown got into foul trouble. With two starters on the bench, Puchalski, Panfili, and Mary Reilley responded with excellent play.

"When we had to sit two starters, the other players did a great job holding things together," Wilson said. "Kristen (Nicholson) took control of the tempo in the second half, but Dana Panfili won the game for us."

Wilson credited assistant coaches Duncan Blair and Mary Hegarty for much of that development.

For the Gauchos, that development will hopefully continue into Thursday's game with PCAA rival UC Irvine.

ATTENTION: UCSB PEOPLE-POWERED TWO WHEELERS; AKA BICYCLISTS RE: BIKE ACCIDENTS

A. When can they occur?

Any given day of the week, any time of day, any place bicycles travel.

When people ride double on a single seat bicycle.

When cyclists travel at high speed no matter how heavy the traffic.

When you don't signal for a turn before entering an intersection.

When your bicycle isn't properly maintained. For example, when your brakes don't work or when your wheels are ready to fall off.

B. Prevention?

Use hand signals for turns and slowing/stopping. Ride with at least one hand on your handlebars.

Anticipate when the riders around you are going to turn and/or stop.

Travel at a safe rate of speed based on lighting, amount and rate of traffic, and slow down when approaching curves and intersections.

Ride your bicycle defensively. Don't become an unnecessary statistic.

Walk your bicycle on sidewalks. Use a bike rack when parking.

Your fellow bicyclists and pedestrians thank you.
