

Events Facility Comes Under CCC Scrutiny

By DAVID L. CHAVEZ

Any delay in the approval for use of the new Events Facility by the California Coastal Commission can be attributed to university procrastination, according to a Commission official.

Ted Hetricks, executive director of the South Central California Coastal Commission, claimed last week that university officials "could have moved with more deliberate speed" in filing the necessary papers.

The controversial facility, criticized for everything from physical appearance to construction obstacles, can not be used for spectator sports until the commission approves a Long-Range Development Plan (LRDP) to be prepared by the university.

That plan has now been completed, but it is questionable if it will be approved by the necessary groups in time for the opening of the facility later this spring.

Prior to approval by the Coastal Commission, the plan must first survive public hearings as well as consideration by the U.C. regents.

Assistant Vice-Chancellor Bob Kroes argued that the university was unable to start serious work on the plan until March of 1978, one year after construction had begun. Kroes cited the failure of the Coastal Commission to send the proper construction guidelines for the delay in the plans' designing.

"Everything is moving pretty much according to schedule, though," Kroes said. "We should have had two years to work it out but it worked out to only one year," he said.

Hetrick however, dismissed the implication that the lateness of the guidelines was a sufficient reason for delaying the process. He asserted, and Kroes agreed, that UCSB has been compiling its own LRDP's for all of its construction "for years."

The plan was not made a state requirement for construction until the passage of the California Coastal Act of 1976, when the California Coastal Commission was formed.

Pool Ordinance Board Approves New Solar Policy

By BILL VON GREMP

The Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously yesterday to adopt a policy requiring all newly constructed swimming pools in the county to be heated by solar assist heating systems. The policy is to take effect in 30 days.

Robert Hedlund was not present for the 4-0 vote because he is recovering from recent surgery.

Another proposal introduced by Supervisor Bill Wallace would make solar heating systems mandatory for new construction in areas where natural gas is not available, but on this matter the four supervisors present were deadlocked. Hedlund is expected to vote in favor of Wallace's proposal when another vote is taken next week.

Ronald Doctor spoke for the California Energy Commission. His testimony before the board detailed the consumer aspects of solar energy as opposed to electricity and natural gas. Doctor said that when the life of an energy system, be it electric or solar, is taken into consideration, studies show that in the long run solar is cheaper to the consumer.

When a 20 year period of home energy use is calculated, Doctor said, electric power costs from 40 to 100 percent more than solar power would cost. In dollar terms, the consumer would spend from $1500 to $4000 less on energy in the 20 year span.

Also favoring the solar energy proposals were the Community Environmental Council, the Isla Vista Municipal Advisory Council, the Santa Barbara People Against Nuclear Power, Sunrae, and small solar industry representatives. These activist groups talked about good and bad energy sources, the problems with nuclear power, and our dependence on foreign oil, but the crux of their arguments dealt with the consumer side of the solar issue.

Vic Conley, representing the Building Industry Association, spoke in opposition to Wallace's mandatory policy on solar construction in homes. "We think it should not be mandatory," Conley said. He would like to see solar energy "sell itself". He feels the marketplace will provide the necessary incentives to solar development when it becomes cost effective.

Supervisor Wallace thinks that the marketplace will not act soon enough and the government must therefore lend a helping hand. Wallace felt the swimming pool ordinance was an "initial stage" in the local government's message to their superiors in the state and national governments that solar energy and other soft energy avenues are viable. "Local government is where its going to have to happen," Wallace commented.

A.S. Pursuing Reimbursement For Past Grateful Dead Concert

By DAVE KIRBY

The Associated Students office staff is still attempting to collect money they feel is due them from rock concert promoter Bill Graham. Graham's alleged debt stems from the Grateful Dead concert held here last June.

Before a concert, A.S. normally makes an agreement with the promoter that they (A.S.), will be reimbursed for the difference of gross income minus expenses incurred. After the June concert, it became apparent that A.S. spent $6,084.22 more than it gathered. According to A.S. officials, Graham owes this amount.

In December, it was brought to the attention of A.S. Executive Director Paula Rudolph that Graham had still not settled his account. She subsequently wrote a letter to Graham's San Francisco office and received no reply. Several telephone calls also brought no success.

Finally, A.S. received a letter on March 9 containing a check for $1,764.01, a sum drastically short of what they claim they should get. Also received was a packet with a revamped settlement statement that disputed charges of particular expenses incurred by A.S. giving reasons why reimbursement for certain expenses were not justified.

Production supplies are the main charges under dispute. Graham refuses to pay $327 for a trailer he says he did not authorize. There is no written proof on this because all A.S. concert files disappeared along with Jim Curnutt when he lost his position last summer due to an A.S. reorganization.

Another expense Graham is disputing is $112 for non-student labor, something he claims was also not authorized.

There is also disagreement over such expenses as temporary fencing, backstage security, and vehicle rentals.

Rudolph must now take each issue and try to trace it back to last June in an attempt to find out exactly what happened. In the meantime she is not depositing Graham's check because she fears this would represent agreement with the new settlement.

It will take a long time to straighten out this whole affair, according to Rudolph, "because it is impossible to debate some of these things since we have no written documentation to back us up."

Concerts is also involved in a financial dispute with Aztec Roofing. This dispute deals with the Fleetwood Mac concert initially planned for two years ago.

The roof Aztec built to protect the stage from rain collapsed, thereby causing cancellation of the concert. A.S. suffered over $40,000 in losses.

Because of this incident, however, Aztec Roofing can get very little business and does not have the money it owes to A.S. Rudolph is considering negotiating with them for installment of a stage in the new Events Facility in lieu of the money.

Burbank Dry Cleaner Takes on California Dope Laws

By TOM BOLTON

Despite recent legislation that reduced legal penalties, possession, sale and cultivation of marijuana are still criminal offenses in this state.

To change this, California marijuana smokers and their supporters are currently gathering signatures to place a pot legalization initiative on the June, 1980, statewide ballot.

Christened the "Gilbert Initiative" after its author, Barton Gilbert of Burbank, the measure seeks to classify marijuana as an intoxicant similar to beer, liquor and wine. It would repeal all criminal penalties against the use, cultivation and possession of marijuana and would license its sale.

In order to qualify for the 1980 ballot, some 346,000 signatures of registered voters must be gathered by May 4, 1979, according to the initiative's organizers. This task is being directed by two groups: the Northern California Citizens for Gilbert Initiative, based in Woodacre, and the Burbank-based Southern California Citizens for Gilbert Initiative.

Gilbert, a 26-year-old licensed dry-cleaner who lives in Burbank, said he decided to author the initiative after he determined that existing channels of change were ineffective.

"I got tired of waiting for what I consider an intelligent approach to the situation. The legislature isn't going to do anything. NORML (National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws) hasn't done anything. I figured, by God, nobody's taken the sensible approach, so I will," Gilbert said in a telephone interview late last week.

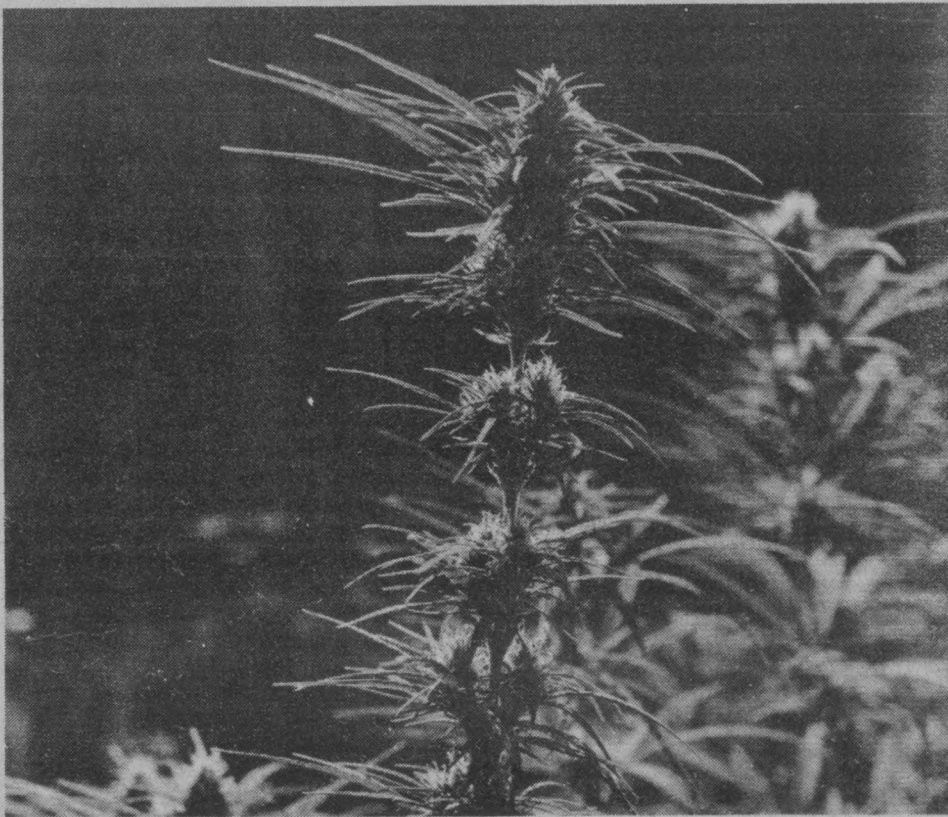

That was a year ago. By mid-December of last year, Gilbert had received approval to circulate petitions, and since then he has devoted most of his energies to "building an organization".

Gilbert said he has no current estimate of the number of petitions that have been returned, but he claimed four million have been sent out. He anticipates it will be a few weeks before large numbers of petitions are returned.

Some 200 volunteer petition-carriers were to converge on this past weekend's "California Music Festival," which was expected to attract tens of thousands of people to the Los Angeles Coliseum, Gilbert said. A similar effort was to take place at an anti-nuclear demonstration in Northern California, he added.

Thus far, according to Gilbert, approximately $8,000 has been spent to qualify the SAN DIEGO — Authorities in San Diego say that the arrest of an Imperial Beach woman and her son have broken up a car theft ring specializing in Volkswagens. Seven vehicles and parts of an eighth with a total value of $30,000 have been recovered. The vehicles were reported stolen from beach areas in Los Angeles and Orange Counties. The California Highway Patrol says 48-year-old Chrystina Lindsey and her son, Robert Brewer, were arrested Saturday. Brewer is being held in lieu of $36,000 bail, while his mother is free on a $14,000 bond. Officials say the pair watched newspaper ads for Volkswagen floor pans or frames with clear title that could be bought cheaply. Serial numbers of stolen cars were replaced with illegitimate numbers.

SACRAMENTO — The latest demonstration against the Rancho Seco Nuclear Power Plant was peaceful in comparison to one held last week that resulted in 13 arrests. About 250 protesters sent up about 450 toy balloons dangling notes saying, "This could be radiation." The balloons were released from a park area outside of the main gate of the Northern California plant.

SACRAMENTO — A sick-in by California Prison guards and counselors entered its second day yesterday, with at least one institution saying it'll serve its 2400 inmates meals in their cells. Keith Hearn, a spokesman for the California State Employees Association, says non-uniformed personnel such as clerks and cooks are expected to join the job action. Two-hundred uniformed officers stayed off their jobs Sunday at seven of the state's 12 prisons to protest wages. A superintendent for the California Men's Colony in San Luis Obispo, Daniel McCarthy, says 65 of the facility's 101 guards on the day shift called in sick. McCarthy says officials have been forced to enforce a lockdown for the first time in the 12 years he's been at the prison.

WASHINGTON — It's costing American taxpayers more than half a million dollars annually to support former presidents Nixon and Ford. That's according to U.S. News and World Report, which also says both men are asking Congress for a bit more money in the next fiscal year. The magazine calculates Richard Nixon's spending last year — above his $85,000 pension — at more than $163,000. It includes the cost of five color T.V. sets and repairs to his electric golf cart. As for Gerald Ford, U.S. News and World Report says his 1978 expenditures totalled more than $290,000 above his pension of $106,000 — including more than $2,000 for the purchase and care of office plants.

DETROIT — At least 11,000 workers were called back to work by Chrysler, General Motors and Ford as the Teamsters' strike entered its second week. The auto industry has had to lay off at least 125,000 workers since the strike began. But they called in some workers today after some plants announced they were able to get supplies in over the weekend.

WASHINGTON — Thirty-nine congressmen urged President Carter today to oppose reviving the draft or any form of compulsory national service. The bi-partisan group, in a letter to Carter, said compulsory service in peacetime might be considered illegal given the constitutional prohibition against involuntary servitude. The letter represents a coordinated offensive in Congress against proposals for a system of compulsory service — either military or civilian. Democrat John Seiberling of Ohio, who initiated the letter, said there is no consensus in Congress on military registration and the draft. He acknowledged that the all-volunteer military has fallen short of its recruiting goals, adding that the Pentagon ought to experiment with more incentive programs.

JERUSALEM — The Egyptian-Israeli Peace Treaty may face a real test this week. Reports today quote Egyptian Prime Minister Khalil as saying Egypt would be willing to give Syria military aid freeing the Golan Heights from Israeli control. Disagreement over Egypt's defense commitments to Arab nations was one of the major stumbling points in reaching the treaty. Meanwhile, in Israel, one official says Khalil's remarks appear to contradict the spirit of the treaty, and Israeli Prime Minister Begin may use his new telephone "hot line" to Egypt's President Sadat. The system was installed to clear up treaty disputes.

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II issued an order to Roman Catholic bishops yesterday, telling them to be tough in dealing with any priest's request to leave the priesthood. The order coincided with a papal decision to uphold mandatory celibacy for priests.

PEKING — The Peking Daily is fretting about foreign films being shown in China. It says some young Chinese have come away from romantic movies singing unhealthy songs and imitating the actors. The paper did not specify just what those unhealthy songs were about.

NAIROBI — The Ugandan Foreign Ministry says that four foreigners were captured and shot to death inside Uganda. This is seen as confirmation of reports that four Western journalists were executed. The ministry statement issued in Kampala said: "Four foreign mercenaries, uniformed and armed, have been shot dead after coming to Uganda in a boat over Lake Victoria." Today's announcement came one day after reports that two Swedish and two German journalists had been captured and executed in eastern Kampala. They were said to have been trying to sneak into Uganda by boat from Kenya.

Rains Introduces Legislation to Provide Loans for Solar Power

State Senator Omer Rains has introduced legislation to provide loans for the installation of solar energy systems in publicly assisted housing projects built for low and middle income Californians.

"Solar energy is presently available for efficient and economical space and water heating," Rains said. "A solar system pays for itself in a relatively few years; however, the fairly high initial cost of a system discourages many people from installing solar equipment."

"The California 55 percent tax credit for solar systems encourages higher income owners to install solar, but now it is time to enable lower income households to enjoy the benefits and share in the savings from solar energy," Rains commented.

Rains' bill, Sb 566, would expand eligibility under an existing solar loan program which he established in 1978. This program, under the administration of the Department of Housing and Community Development, offers no-interest loans of up to $2,000 to owners of homes damaged or destroyed by state-declared natural disasters to finance the installation of solar systems.

SB 566 would allow the HCD to make loans to non-profit corporations and local agencies for the installation of solar hot water and space heaters on multi-unit, publicly assisted developments.

Joanne Kerbavaz, an aide in Rains office believes the bill's biggest hurdle will be the Finance Committee, which is scheduled to review it in early May. A similar bill, which would have begun a separate fund for such low-income loans, died in that committee last June. Kerbavaz believes, however, that the bill was a victim of "poor timing."

Of the $200,000 placed in the original fund, $96,000 remains available for both loan situations. Kerbavaz noted that the fund will not be depleted as the money is to be repaid in all instances by those who take out loans.

Culture Events Slated For Korean Week

In celebration of Korean Culture Week, the Korean Students Association, composed of 40 undergrads of Korean heritage will host a variety of activities.

On Wednesday, at noon, in Storke Plaza, the association will demonstrate the traditional Korean game of "Juegi." According to Inho Myong, the game is as difficult to play as explain, so students should just come and watch.

Friday will feature a lecture on Sino-American treaties and the Korean Peninsula. The speaker will be Dr. Chong Sik Lee from the University of Pennsylvania. This event will take place at Buchanan Hall 1940, beginning at 3 p.m.

Traditional dance and music will be featured on Saturday and the Korean Classical Music Institute of America will perform at Lotte Lehmann. The show starts at 8 p.m. and admission is $1 for students and $2 general admission. According to Myong, the group has performed at UCSB in the past and they were well received.

Although KSA is in its third year of existence at UCSB, this is the first celebration of Korean Culture Week. Asked about his outlook for the planned activities, Myong said, "This is our first Korean Culture Week since Korean Students Association began. We really worked hard for it and we hope all UCSB students come out and attend."

Public Input-
Now or Never

Last Thursday President Carter told the nation of his plan to end our dependence on foreign oil.

Part of this package is subject to the approval of Congress; one aspect of this proposed legislation is expected to meet with stiff resistance on Capitol Hill -- the "Windfall Profits" tax.

Some of this resistance will undoubtedly come from legislators who habitually oppose new business taxes; most of it will probably come from the oil company lobbies.

Our domestic energy suppliers will most likely explain that they have worked hard for their profits and they deserve them. This is the same attitude that the OPEC nations have exhibited in the past.

This leaves the American people stuck between the proverbial rock and hard place. Fortunately, the President is apparently on the side of the consumer--but he does need our help.

Public support in the form of letters, telegrams and phone calls to our Senators and Representatives will be effective in limiting the influence petro-dollars could wield in the halls of Congress.

If you want your legislators to know how you feel about windfall profits and Carter's energy plan, you can write to them at one of these addresses:

United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510

or

House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

If a long distance phone call will fit into your budget you can get in touch with your favorite legislator through the Capitol switch board:

(202) 224-3121

Even the shortest note or briefest phonecall could affect the outcome of this legislation. And it would probably be a lot easier than trying to squeeze money out of a gas pump.

Rise and Shine

The Angry Tenants Action Coalition deserves a pat on the back for their efforts to awaken the slumbering giant known as the Isla Vista tenant.

Tenants have been ripped-off for years. Except for a random outburst, though, protests were virtually nonexistent.

Non-existent, that is, until this year.

Using figures compiled by "tax wizard" Neal Linson, ATAC discovered that Isla Vista landlords realized an increase in revenue of $1.2 million from 1977-78 to 1978-79. The increased revenue represents Proposition 13 tax savings added to increased rents.

The rallies sponsored by ATAC last week accomplished a number of worthwhile things. First and foremost they informed countless tenants of the current local housing situation.

Second, the rallies produced a number of tenants willing to withhold their rents in a mass protest.

And finally, the orchestrated effort served notice to I.V. landlords that student tenants are no longer a sleeping group that will silently take unwarranted rent increases.

Power of the Inept?

By AMY JUSSEL

"Now if you have any questions . . . ask your T.A. . . his office hours are as follows . . ." Well, that's fine and dandy, but many times when you "ask your T.A.," you're confronted with either 1) a bemuddled grad student that doesn't know the answer himself, or 2) a conflicting version of the concept the professor delivered in lecture!

What is a T.A., and why does this entity play such a crucial role in colleges today? The abbreviation stands for "Teaching Assistant" or "Teacher's Aid," both of which are misleading, since it is often the "T.A." that grades, lectures, and reads many if not all projects turned in. As for the "crucial role" this entity assumes . . . I have yet to find the pertinent answer for bestowing such powerful responsibilities on one with often very little concept of the subject matter other than what he himself learned at the University sometimes only months beforehand. These "teachers" are usually grad students gaining "practical experience in education" by instructing a given course. This, in itself, is harmless -- it would be not only idealistic, but literally ludicrous to expect the professor to conduct a class without having readers, or T.A.s to help with the instruction.

My objection is that the qualifications and caliber of T.A.s are so diverse and fluctuating, that registering for a course section these days is like playing Russian roulette . . . and for some pre-med and law students -- the results can be almost as deadly. Responsibility, power, and ultimately, the grade, almost always hinges upon the whims and desires of the aforementioned character. To give any one person -- much less any one student that much control over someone's destiny is unfair. Even comparing T.A.s in a particular course finds some incompetent, some excellent, and all grading accordingly . . . therefore, how is a student to know, upon the first day of section, who the "good" and the "bad" T.A.s are for the course? Moreover, even if they had a way of finding out, switching sections to avoid getting stuck with the lemon, is like wading through an ocean of bureaucracy with no hopes for a low tide! I could cite endless examples of Physics T.A.s that hadn't an inkling as to the solution of a problem, or Philosophy T.A.s that spend the entire 50 minutes arguing the spacial reality of a rockingchair, when they should be explaining the material for the upcoming midterm! The problem is more than just extant incompetence; it extends to "the system" and what could and should be done to rectify the situation. Time and time again I've approached department heads, confronted professors, and bemoaned the incongruities in the T.A.'s methods of grading. Needless to say, I wasted my breath. The classic answer received was "Each department

Bogey Man Writes

By JOHN HUBENTHAL

As a writer I have vested interest in the English language. Since it is my tool, so to speak, I am always interested in any new words or usages which seem likely to increase the flexibility and range of expression of the language.

It is with great pleasure than that I announce a new verb; to boge. Taken from the root word bogus, to boge is to make bogus. It should be noted that the bogus used here is the contemporary bogus, meaning bad, or of little worth, and not the archaic bogus, a machine for making counterfeit money.

Conjugation is regular, that is; I boge, have boged, will boge, you boge, have boged, it boges, has boged, etc. Pronunciation is with the long O and hard G; Boge. Variations include; bogoid, bogify, bogillate, bogosity, and, where one bogusness is strongly linked to another, it would be proper to say it is boginate with.

I can't claim to have invented the usage, as our native surfing population has long used a crude version in some of their more colorful tribal rituals, chiefly those centered around the consumption of recreational chemicals in an attempt to facilitate their communion with the Spirit of the Great Water so as to better understand their day's performance.

However, to the best of my knowledge this is the first attempt to deal with the term formally. It is always a pleasure to help to reconcile the colloquial and the "proper" use of the language, and when one can also use these opportunities to expand the range of our common vocabulary, it is indeed a rare treat. I boge you not.

Time to Fight

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Having just listened to President Carter's speech on energy I am inspired to write this letter. The President outlined a broad new plan for the increased scientific activity to discover new and more effective ways of utilizing alternative energy sources.

His plan revolves around one main point. On June 1 Carter will order gradual deregulation of domestic oil prices. This deregulation is necessary to stimulate oil companies to produce domestic oil resources. This means that the oil companies will raise their prices "from 5 to 15 cents" at the pump.

As the oil companies will be making incredible profits from this action Carter also asked the American people to support a "wind-fall profits tax." This tax will reduce, to a great extent, the unearned profits the oil companies will be making. The money collected as a result of the tax will be spent to discover new and better methods of using alternative energy sources.

The oil companies will, of course, want to keep all of this incredibly huge profit, and they will use the full power of their lobbying organizations to persuade our congressmen to vote against the "windfall profits tax." President Carter accused the oil companies of ripping-off the American people. He used terms such as "price-gouging," and he was very adamant about the importance of this tax.

He is very right. The oil companies are going to do anything they can to keep those profits and screw us. The American people must tell their representatives to support this tax. That does not mean next year. We have to do it today! If prices are deregulated without this tax we will witness the largest corporate rip-off in the history of the world.

The United States and 19 other free-world industrialized nations have pledged to cut oil consumption by 5 percent. If this measure is successful we will be on the road to destroying an already shaky OPEC. OPEC will be forced to lower their prices, something that will be a radical change of affairs for that greedy bunch. When demand and price for oil is not so high individual OPEC

Not Our Attitude

Editor, Daily Nexus:

We would like to clarify a statement which appeared in the Nexus on 4-4-79 regarding a recent rape report made to the Isla Vista Community Council by the Isla Vista Foot Patrol which read in part, "The crime would not have happened if she (the victim) had taken basic safety precautions." This statement, when taken by itself and out of context, expresses an attitude that many of us in law enforcement find repugnant and totally against our professional training and knowledge of rape. Specifically, this attitude blames the victim of rape and implies that all rapes are preventable if women would only follow certain rules. Neither the deputy who made that statement nor any member of the Isla Vista Foot Patrol or University Police Department, embraces this archaic attitude toward rape.

In talking with the deputy who made the statement and with the author of the article, it is evident that the deputy was very emotional when talking about the rape and in his anger and frustration at not being able to stop this terrible crime, the deputy listed lack of safety precautions along with numerous other reasons why the rape occurred.

Needless to say, it would have been more appropriate if the deputy had stated that the crime "may" not have occurred if certain safety precautions were followed but the misunderstandings surrounding his statement possibly would not have developed if the author had included a more complete synopsis of the deputy's actual words and statements. The deputy's intent was to impress upon the audience the need for this community to work together to prevent this crime from occurring again.

Demand Equal Rights

Editor, Daily Nexus:

People seem to have forgotten that attending college is a luxury, and strictly a matter of personal choice. For what purpose then does it serve to deface this institution which is built by your dollars? We complain about a strict and costly operating budget, but it's modes of expression like "Kendwahl" that add to already exorbitant maintenance expenses.

It seems odd that in such a materialistic yet apathetic generation we put so much energy into abuse of others' property, woman's bodies (i.e. rape) and our own lungs and livers.

Even among the involved minority on this campus, publicity wars are raging. In the not-so-limited designated areas for publicizing, posters and banners are torn down and replaced by others long before the original event has even taken place! Each person's cause is important but that's no reason to destroy someone else's efforts.

We demand equal rights and opportunities and a clean and healthy environment, yet realistically it is only in the pursuit of our own interests. It seems that our words are calling for action while many of our actions are ending in the destruction of society. Therefore through awareness and consideration of others we can make the future more humane in the apprehension of a barbaric technological society.

Powers of the Inept?

head sets its own set of guidelines and expectations for the T.A.s for each course. It is then up to the T.A.s and the professor to work out their method of grading." As far as I'm concerned, the discrepancy must lie somewhere in between... for if two students can retain the same amount of facts, figures, and concepts accurately, with one receiving an "A" and one receiving a "C" from a different T.A., it is apparent that the situation is in desperate need of control.

Solutions to any problem involving large scale operations are undoubtedly complex and require more than just a ditto sheet of rules and regs to be distributed across the U.S. Whether the matter is handled state-wide, nation-wide, or individually by each campus administration, it is essential that the students have a say, whether through representatives, delegates, or 'public interest' groups. Most would undoubtedly speak in favor of limiting the authority of these grad students or at least getting two T.A.s to grade each exam, for the assurance of fair, non-biased and more complete judgment for the students.

With the high price of a college education today, it doesn't seem too much to ask, to desire a competent, fair, and knowledgeable staff with T.A.s that serve as tools of the course -- not as weapons -- as common interpreters, not self-righteous dictators. After all, it is our g.p.a. at stake, and in the hands of a power hungry T.A. -- you might just have to kiss law school goodbye. An old nursery rhyme could be used in analogy -- for like the girl with the golden curl... When T.A.s are good -- they are very, very good... but when they are bad...

Spoilers Win All-Cal Softball Tournament

This past weekend saw play in the All-Cal Qualifying Coed Softball take place with 22 teams competing for the spots available at the All-Cal Finals and the Coors Intramurals.

Emerging through the early rounds into the semi-final round were the W.W. Spoilers, the Softballers, the USTC, and the Why Weren't the Dodgers on PSA Flight No.182?

One semi-final was an exciting and closely contested battle between the W.W. Spoilers and the Softballers. The Spoilers entered the final inning (the bottom of the eighth) trailing 13-12, but came up with two runs to win 14-13 and gain the title.

While the first semi-final game was close and exciting, the second, between USTC and the PSA team, was a dull and lopsided game that found PSA winning easily by a final score of 20-6.

The finals started out as a close contest, with PSA trailing by only one run, 6-5, entering the bottom half of the fourth inning. This inning spelled the end for PSA as the Spoilers came up with 11 runs and went on to win 19-7.

By winning the tournament, the Spoilers will be sent to the All-Cal Coed Softball Finals May 18 at UCLA. Runners-up PSA, will be sent to the Coors Intramural Softball Tourney May 6 at Long Beach Stae.

UCSB Runs Away With One; Fall Short In Loss To CSULA

By KATHI WALTHER

UCSB's men's track team, led by Jamie Starmer, Glenn Daugherty, Jim Triplett, and Rob Ridgway, narrowly missed defeating 1978 Division Two champions Cal State Los Angeles 79-72 Saturday afternoon at Puale field.

The Gauchos easily defeated the meet's third team UC Riverside, 72-54. In the dual scoring, the battle between UCSB and CSULA ran even closer -- the final score 83-80.

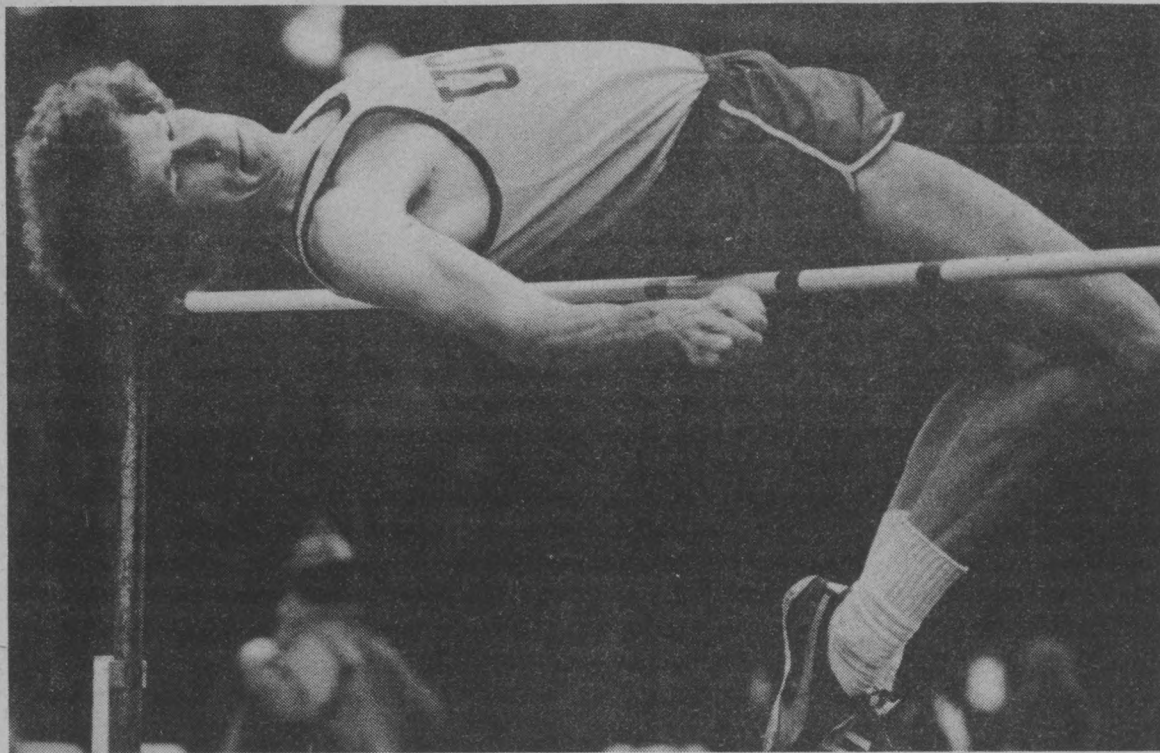

In the running events, two school records were broken. Triplett, who already holds the school record in the 10,000m, set a new mark in the 5000, dashing to second place with a 14:18.8. In winning the 110 high hurdles, Steve Irving broke his own school record with a blazing 14.5.

Ernie Reith placed third in the 1500 meter run, running a life-time best of 3:58.4. Winning that 1500m was UC Riverside's Steve Alvarez who also captured the 500 race.

UCSB's Starmer breezed to victory in the 200m with a 22.0 clocking and also flew to a close second in the 400m. The meet's exciting finale found UCSB's mile relay team nipping CSULA with a time of 3:15.5.

In the field events, Daugherty took the triple jump with a leap of 47'11½". Rob Ridgway won the high jump at 6'6". Mike Gough took second place in the shotput with a 51-6¼ heave and third in both the discus and hammer throws.

Next Saturday, the Gauchos again take on a top-ranked team. They will meet Division Three champs Occidental at 1:15 at UCSB's home track, going into the meet with a 2-3 record.

Robert Ridgway goes high and clears the bar in weekend meet with Riverside and Cal State L.A. UCSB beat Riverside, but was nudged out 83-80 by CSULA.

Women Very Swift At Berkeley Sweeney Qualifies for NCAA's

By HERB HOPS

To call the UCSB's women's track team's performance this weekend at the Berkeley Invitational good, would be a gross misstatement of the facts. All six women who ventured to the meet bettered their previous best times.

The UCSB women competed with such powers as Arizona State, Northridge, USC, Berkeley, Cal State LA, Stanford, and UCLA. Facing such teams of the above caliber can often have a psychological effect on a young squad such as UCSB's, getting intimidated and performing poorly, but this was not the case with UCSB's "sensational six."

Leading the team was freshman Sarah Sweeney, who finished third in the 3000 meters at 9:52, bettering her previous best of 10:13. Sweeney's time qualified her for the NCAA nationals to be held May 24-26 at Michigan State.

Junior sensation Linda Hightower finished third in the 400 meter hurdles with a 62:25 clocking, knocking .50 seconds off her best mark.

Donna Chin placed third in the 10,000 meters with a 37:20.8 time, smashing her previous mark of 37:34.

Julie Thrupp placed sixth in the 5,000 meters with a time of 17:32.6, beating her old time of 17:34.9.

Roberta Leonard placed eighth in the 800 meters, running in with 2:13.41, her old mark being 2:16.9.

Coach Glenda Williams was extremely happy with her team. She said, "We faced good competition and the women didn't back away. They didn't get intimidated. With our recent performances teams are beginning to recognize that we do have a good women's team, and it is a young team that should only get better."

This weekend's UCLA Invitational has been cancelled, so the UCSB women will be traveling to compete in the Mount Sac Relays to be held April 21-22.

Purcell Selected As New Soccer Mentor

John Purcell was named as UCSB's new soccer coach yesterday by Athletic Director Al Negratti. This keeps the job within the Gaucha department, as Purcell was assistant coach to resigned head coach Al Meeder last season.

Purcell is a young coach with a very strong soccer background. He played for powerful Hartwick College in New York, a team that played before crowds of 5,000 and made it to the NCAA playoffs his senior season.

Purcell grew up in South America, where he picked up soccer and continued with it upon moving to the states.

Believing in the fundamentals, Purcell stressed the basics with last season's team, a club that won the league championship and beat such teams as Cal Berkeley, UCLA, USC, Westmont, and Santa Clara.

The members of the team worked well with Purcell last season and being familiar with what he expects from them should provide for a smooth transition. This is an important point, as many times a new coach must take a year to introduce and familiarize his team to a new system and coaching philosophy.

Baseball vs. Azusa Pacific

Coming off a disappointing weekend series with Pepperdine, that saw UCSB's baseball team win one and drop two, the Gauchos will try and rebound when they play a doubleheader against non-conference opponent Azusa Pacific today at noon at Campus Diamond.

Starting the opener for UCSB will be Craig Schoof, while Randy Meyer will pitch the second game.

After the weekend series with Pepperdine, UCSB's overall record stands at 10-13, with their conference mark 2-5.

With a sweep of Azusa the Gauchos hope to get back on the right track before encountering more tough league action.

Gilbert Initiative

initiative for the ballot. The money, which has come almost entirely from donations, is being applied to printing, mailing and telephone expenses.

"A lot of people laugh at the idea of someone with no money putting up a statewide initiative, but otherwise nothing is going to get done," Gilbert said.

Under state law, Gilbert and his supporters have five months from the date they were granted approval to gather the required number of signatures. However, if they do not get enough signatures by the May 4 deadline, Gilbert said he will refile. This means he will have another five months, but will have to start over gathering signatures.

"I think there's a good chance we'll do it the first time, but if we don't, we'll have created a good enough organization to do it the second time without any problem," Gilbert said.

According to an information sheet provided by Gilbert's group, Americans currently consume 130,000 pounds of marijuana each day; $600 million in taxes are spent each year for enforcement of pot laws; and the $48 million marijuana industry has been driven underground and remains untaxed.

The information sheet goes on to note that "far more dangerous drugs are made available with the sanction of the same governing bodies that impose greater penalties for the sale of marijuana than for rape."

The Gilbert Initiative is presently a totally grass-roots effort, that has thus far not been endorsed by NORML, Gilbert said. A request to NORML for assistance in mailing information about the initiative to that group's members was denied, he said.

"We got a lot of different reasons, but none of them made much sense," said Gilbert, noting that NORML's California efforts have focused on reducing marijuana penalties rather than on legalization.

But despite the apparent snub by NORML, the initiative has been endorsed by the Libertarian Party of California and the California Democratic Council, Gilbert said. In any event, Gilbert is not worried about qualifying his initiative for the ballot. "There's no doubt about it," he said. "We've given it a hell of a fighting chance."

Further information about the initiative and petitions can be obtained by writing to Citizens for Gilbert Initiative, Box 7458, Burbank, Ca., 91510, or by calling 213-842-6984.

UCSB Delay?

Because of past university construction guidelines, Hetrick believes that school officials had a sufficient idea what the commission's guidelines would require.

Nevertheless, Kroes and Campus Planner Pete Chapman waited for almost a year until the specific guidelines were received. Chapman explained that the wait was due to speculation that "significant differences" could have existed between the university's and the commission's guidelines.

Now that the LRDP has been completed, the plan will be presented at public hearings, the first of which will be held on April 13 at noon in the UCen. After 60 days of community input, the plan will be sent to the U.C. Board of Regents and then the state offices of the Coastal Commission for approval.

Hetrick claimed that the process could last for at least four months since both the regents and the commission only meet once a month. Kroes emphasized that since the plan has already been approved by the IVCC, there is little possibility that the Coastal Commission won't do the same.

Until that time the new facility can be used for intramural or drop-in activities, but none of the events which draw large crowds.
