Bowling for Orchids in Goleta

Open All Night and Ready to Rock and Roll, One Local Alley Has Carved Out Quite a Comfortable Niche for Itself

By Thadeus Cummings

I used to laugh at my friends Greg and Dave when they would ask me if I wanted to spend the evening bowling, but after they dragged me out to Orchid Bowl for the first time freshman year, I was hooked.

Bowling became a tradition with the three of us. Now that we've gone our separate ways, when we're all in Santa Barbara the first question isn't "How've you been?" It's "When do we bowl?"

Orchid Bowl has the perfect atmosphere for these reunions and their special events, and late night discounts make it a perfect escape from the Isla Vista party grind or piles of books.

Because the alley is open 24 hours, anytime we felt the need to roll some really heavy balls down a really long strip of wood at motionless white targets, we'd pile into a car and arrive to find our favorite lane, number 17, waiting for us waxed and ready.

You'd be surprised how great it can feel to drop studying for a couple of hours right in the middle of Dead Week or finals week and walk into a place where no one is screaming at you to be quiet. In fact, the louder you are the more you fit in with the bowling alley atmosphere.

The lanes at Orchid Bowl have computerized scoring, which lets you concentrate on more important matters, such as who's buying the next round of drinks.

We'd usually have a running wager called "Slurpees" (or whatever beverage you may prefer). If all but one person made a strike in the same frame, the odd man out owed everyone else a slurpee.

One way to really pile on the pressure is to play "Splits." If someone has a split spare to make, they'd offer up a six-pack for making it. Watch what that can do to a person's concentration. Be careful though, I once had to buy Dave a twelver because he actually made a 4-10 split.

If you're really want to, you can even get a printout of the game score sheet to show all your friends that you really did score 200 points. Okay, so it took me four games to do it.

The best time can be had on Thursdays at "Rock 'n' Bowl." A KTYDJ brings in a thumping sound system to pound out the best in rock music. Beers are 99 cents, and Domino's Pizza brings in a bunch of pies for six bucks a pop. After the pizza man sells all his food, he bowls one frame. If he strikes, everybody 21 and over gets a beer. If he spares, either the men or the women (it alternates) get free beers.

Rock 'n' Bowl lasts from 9:30 to midnight every Thursday and only costs $10. For that you get unlimited bowling and free music, plus the cheap beer and pizza. Through the rest of June, Orchid Bowl is celebrating graduation by only charging half price for Rock 'n' Bowl. A great deal gets better.

When we got tired of bowling, we'd head over to the pool room with its five tables, one of them a snooker table. Hourly rates are cheap, so you can get a lot of pool in, and billiards provides a nice rest for that bowling arm. I've almost perfected my ball hop shot for those annoying times when an opponent's ball is in my way.

Orchid Bowl even has a bar for the over-21 crowd. The Galleon Room offers great country music and they even offer free dance lessons. Now you may have your doubts, but I can attest to the fact that you can meet more women or men, as the case may be, at a country dance club than anywhere else.

When you finish dancing, you can go back into the bowling alley and play a few games, letting your new-found friend win of course, and it makes a great first date. Orchid Bowl is located at 5825 Calle Real in Goleta. Open 24 hours. Phone 967-0128.

Fun. Fun like you ain't had in years.

100 Years Old and Still Cooking Fast in Summerland

By Alfonso Kelly

How much do you know about that House? That big House. That yellow House. You know the one, I'm sure. It's big and yellow. You can see it from the freeway in beautiful Summerland, you can, that House.

You know the one, then. The Big Yellow House in beautiful Summerland.

Food and drinks, you may know. "Sure," you may say, "the food and drinks I know." But the food and drinks are so good! Did you know?

Of course you did. I know.

But did you know that every wall in the Big Yellow House is eight to 10 inches thick and made of cast concrete? Did you know the House is more than 100 years old? That its original owner fell down his own oil well? That the House, the Big Yellow House, was the salon of South Coast society for quite some time?

IT'S A HERITAGE YOU CAN TASTE!!!

Let me explain, please.

My latest visit to the House began, continued and ended as expected: beautifully. While I found out what room I was sitting in on the map on the House's menu, I sipped a selection from the House's fine beer-on-tap list. A little time was required of me to make my choice for dinner because of the huge selection. Eventually I settled on the vegetarian lasagna. The wood molding around a nearby wall was astounding.

Maybe some of that excellence rubs off on the cooks? I say "Yes, I think so!"

The dish, served with a fine choice of soup or salad

Opulent, old style living: Summerland's Big Yellow House.

GERRY MELENDEZ/Daily Nexus

The halibut is a story in itself. A fine, rich story of infinite warmth and pecans in there.

and some wonderful vegetables for rounding-out-the-meal purposes, was very good. I was not disappointed in that respect, as I was quite satisfied and even, I can honestly say, delighted. The mushrooms and cheeses and strips of zucchini along with the hearty pasta made a big splash for me. "Went straight into my book," you might say, if you were so inclined, and also if I had some kind of book I kept for purposes of writing about things like lasagna. Some big ifs, but nothing insurmountable.

My guest, a good friend whose company I always cherish (our friendship, worthy of such an historically significant place as the House, indeed, must have such a place) had the halibut.

The halibut is a story in itself. A fine, rich story of infinite warmth and pecans in there. The fillet was of the quality to melt, perhaps not so metaphorically, in the mouth? Yes.

The halibut was baked, and it was baked in a tarragon mustard sauce, with the aforementioned pecans adding that crunchy-sweet nut taste for which pecans have become recognized. Pecans, I would hazard, have become known as one of America's great nuts.

We had some coffee afterward, and a fine cup was mine, and a fine cup was my friend's.

One of the most pleasurable advantages to dining at such a historical place is the quality of service. As people often say to one another, "Service was much better in the old days." Well, at the Big Yellow House it is the old days, right here in the new days. In any case, the service is friendly and thorough.

The Big Yellow House is located at 108 Pierpont Rd. in Summerland. Open 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays, until 10 p.m. weekends.

RICK BESSEY/Daily Nexus

Rancho Viejo Does It Up

By Reynard Van Nguyen

As soon as I walked into Rancho Viejo, I knew I would be leaving fully satisfied. I said as much to Odessa. "This looks like a nice place," I said, trying not to sound overly enthusiastic lest I betray my optimism. Nevertheless, I cannot hold back any longer.

Rancho Viejo sits on a hill overlooking upper State Street, and when I say overlooking, I don't mean that diners must look down at a busy thoroughfare dotted with hotels and gas stations. No, the real view is directly north over the street, looking at the Santa Ynez Mountains. We got there at dusk, and as the sun went down, little lights blinked on up in the hills as the fog rolled in. I was blown away, and we were sitting on the other side of the room!

But the Rancho Viejo experience is more than this. It is the solid interior, done up in red brick and nut-brown wood. The spacious panorama of a dining room, with flowers at each table, created the sensation of each dining party having its own tropical island table. The lighting was perfect. I said as much to Odessa. "This place is nice," I said.

The salsa that accompanied our chips was good. Odessa, who has spent a lot of time in Mexico, approved heartily. I didn't bother thinking to myself, "Ho-ho now big man, don't fill up on chips when there's dinner to be served." I knew that whatever I ordered from the expansive menu would be consumed in total with zeal. I kept eating the chips.

Normally I judge a good restaurant by how long it takes me to order. At just any Mexican place, I can look around me and tell that I should stick with something I know I'll like — flautas, chimichangas, that kind of thing. But Rancho Viejo is a place I know I can trust; that's what made it so difficult to play it safe.

Odessa decided early, as is often the case. She chose one of the restaurant's combination plates, with a cheese enchilada, chile relleno and a beef taco. All were excellent selections, which tempted me.

I ultimately decided with the Pescado del Diablo: red snapper stuffed with shrimp, mushrooms, onions and peppers and baked with a cream sauce served with lemon. Simply recalling those details fills me with a warm feeling.

When our dinners came, I could not believe the size of the plates served to us. If you go with a large group, make sure to get an extra-large table so that everybody's meals will fit.

Rancho Viejo is located at 3302 McCaw Ave. in Santa Barbara. Phone 569-9333. Open Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Sunday from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.
