Students Honor Marines Tuesday

With Reception

Marines enrolled on campus this semester will be honored guests at an informal faculty-student body reception to be given next Tuesday evening in the music hall from 9 to 10:45 p.m.

Students and faculty will greet the servicemen immediately following the Noyes lecture in the auditorium. Angie McGarvin, social chairman, heads a committee working arrangements for the affair.

Mrs. McGarvin announced that music for dancing will be provided by the Marine band from the base. Later in the evening refreshments will be served.

“We hope to have a large turn out for this affair at the Marines. We want them to feel at home on campus while they are taking classes here. In order that they may know us and we may know them, let’s make it a good party,” the social chairman concluded.

PASATIEMPO
BY THE EDITOR

This week’s number one story on the front page was to have been the freshmen rally. Then came the word at something approximating the eleventh hour that the story must be killed. Rally postponed the headline might have read—postponed because of lack of college spirit, postponed because frost and the rest of us are choosing the rails, tying up transportation on the weekend.

For several weeks the word has been noise about that there would be a freshmen-bonded rally tomorrow night. It would be a spectacular showing by the frosh and it would be an exhibition of good old class spirit.

Come the time to call for talent, freshmen talent. The story is a classic, indeed. After a three weeks recruiting campaign there were no takers. Frosh just weren’t interested in participating in anything as commonplace as a freshmen rally. The stock answer of freshmen when the talent committee came around was that everybody was going home for the weekend. Yes the trains and buses will be jammed this weekend end as they are every other weekend with students who haven’t yet been able to tear themselves away from the home tee.

It isn’t only the freshmen who are deserting Santa Barbara on these fall weekends—it’s a mass migration by upper and lower classmen alike.

Santa Barbara can’t be so bad that we have to leave bodily every Friday afternoon. We can’t be such infants that we have to go home to mama every seven days—-we could stay in town once in awhile. Here’s our gripe with the freshmen class or with whoever thought up the idea of forcing a rally down the throats of the frosh in the first place. It would have been much more effective and helpful to everyone concerned if the rally had originally been scheduled right at the beginning of basketball season in December.

When plans were made three weeks ago for the rally the fact must have been considered that there would be no events approximating the eleventh hour that the story must be killed. The freshmen that were there (for personnel refer to last week’s issue) with the exception of B.H. and T.G. . . .

The first class that will graduate has charge of arrangements for the affair. Then came the word at something approximating the eleventh hour that the story must be killed.

Chenoweth Advises January Graduates

At the senior meeting held yesterday, Lawrence Chenoweth distributed papers necessary for those who plan to obtain teaching positions after graduation in January.

Chenoweth, head of the college placement bureau, was elected president of the Western Institutional Placement Bureau association at a recent meeting held in Los Angeles. He received this honor because of fine work done by his office during the past four years when almost 100 per cent of the graduates from Santa Barbara College were placed.

The association included thirty teacher-training institutions and colleges in California. As president, Chenoweth is in charge of the committee making a survey of the number of people being trained for teaching positions. Students are being recruited to replace the decrease of 65 per cent that has taken place in university enrollments.

"It is hoped that by getting new students for training, the situation will be normal again by 1953," Chenoweth stated.

Intramural Tennis Matches Commence Next Week

Entries in the all-college intramural tennis tournament will be accepted through today with matches scheduled to begin next week, according to Coach Terry Dearborn. Flights will be made up in men's and women's singles and doubles and in mixed doubles. Persons desiring to compete may sign up on the bulletin board in front of the gym and must pay on acceptance of 25 cents for each flight in which they plan to play. A student intending to compete only in men's singles will pay 25 cents, while he will be charged 50 cents if he wants to enter both men's singles and other men's or mixed doubles. This entry fee, it is explained, has been necessitated in order that prizes may be secured for champions.

According to the rules governing this year's tournament, two out of three sets constitute a match during early rounds. Finalists will play the best three out of five sets for the title in each division. Matches must be arranged between competitors at a time convenient to both, immediately upon the conclusion of each match, the winner or an official must submit the results to the recreation director, intramural manager, or to Dearborn.

Pairings will be posted on the bulletin board Monday morning and all first round matches must be completed by Friday afternoon so that both players must forswear any letters. All concerns, it has been held responsible for consulting the bulletin board and arranging their own matches.

Local Science Men Attend Meet

Chemistry and biology professors from various California colleges and universities gathered for a science seminar at Corson last week-end. Representatives from Santa Barbara College included Dr. Elmer Nobile, Dr. Frederick Addisso, Dr. Ernest L. Bierkade, and Dr. Wilford L. McHenry. Others attended from University of California at Berkeley, University of California at Los Angeles, California Institute of Technology, and Scripps Institute of Oceanography.

Purpose of the meeting was syn-chronization of educational experiments held by workers in several fields and to integrate students in those fields. The gathering was devoted to a discussion of research carried on by the representatives from the institutions included in the seminar.

These meetings are held twice a year at either Stanford, University of California, or elsewhere in the southern area.

Casaba Games Start Tuesday

Official competition in the senior intramural basketball tournament begins next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the College gym on the four squares scored square off in two off. Spectator appeal will be the key note Tuesday night as the teams in both games are evenly matched and should provide some exciting play. First tip-off will be at 8 with the team of Burt, Elliott, Griffith, Law, and Casaba facing a combo composed of Archbold, Brownson, Casier, Gorrindo, and a fifth man the title. Observers of the Ventura-Pomona tilt point out that the Ventura team tally was made while the Ventura third-stringers were beating holes in the grandstand.

Second game will begin at 9 p.m. and will pit Burroughs, Cocks, Gefen, Hixon, and Seed against a combo composed of Burt, Elliott, Griffith, Law, and Williams. The tournament will be conducted on a round-robin basis with all teams meeting at least twice. All games will be open to the entire student body without charge.
