Complete Autopsy Results Pending in Early Morning Death of Student

Sigma Kappa Chi President Elizabeth Fang was found dead Friday in an I.V. residence; the circumstances of her death are still under investigation.

A female resident of the 6500 block of El Greco Road called 911 at 10:30 a.m. on April 9 to report that Fang, 21, had been found on the floor not breathing, according to Lt. Mike Burridge of the Santa Barbara County Sheriff's Dept.

Isla Vista Foot Patrol deputies found Fang unresponsive and she was pronounced dead at Goleta Valley Cottage Hospital soon after, according to Burridge. Fang had spent Thursday night at her friend's El Greco residence.

"The original reporting person told deputies that [Fang] had consumed two alcoholic beverages at approximately 11 p.m. on Thursday," he said. "[Fang] was last seen alive at about 5:30 a.m. when she was in the bathroom of the residence."

The County Coroner's Office does not suspect foul play, and there is no evidence of injury or trauma, Burridge said. An autopsy has been performed, but toxicology reports will not be ready for one to two weeks, according to Burridge.

Fang's sorority sisters at Sigma Kappa Chi released the following statement on Sunday: "We are all greatly saddened and deeply moved by this sudden loss. We lost a great friend and are all trying very hard to deal with this right now. Liz was a wonderful friend to everyone who knew her. She will be missed greatly by everyone."

A memorial service will be held in Storke Plaza on Sunday, April 18, at 7 p.m. Donations or flowers can be sent to the Elizabeth Fang Memorial Fund at 6595 Segovia Rd., Goleta CA 93117.

Local Oil Leak Spurs Charges of Negligence

By JEFF LUPO
Staff Writer

A series of leaks at Platform Holly, an offshore oil rig owned by Venoco Inc., has prompted the Santa Barbara County District Attorney's Office to file misdemeanor charges against the company.

According to Deputy DA Jerry Lulejian, the charges are a result of alleged negligence on the part of Venoco.

"Three counts have been filed against Venoco. The charges are being brought forward as a result of Venoco's violation of Health and Safety Codes in three separate instances," he said. "On July 27, 1998, Feb. 23, 1999, and March 13, 1999, Venoco failed to notify specific agencies — such as the County Fire Dept. or the Office of Emergency Services — of the emissions releases."

A conviction could mean heavy fines for Venoco, according to Lulejian.

"These charges are misdemeanor charges, and with a large company like this, fines of up to $25,000 per charge can be imposed," he said. "If Venoco is convicted on these charges this time and then repeats the offense, the company can be charged with a felony, with fines of up to $50,000 per count."

Venoco Vice President Mike Edwards said the company is eager to help the district attorney in every way possible to clear the charges.

"Venoco is in full cooperation with the DA to resolve these misdemeanor charges," he said. "We

While most Isla Vistans nursed hangovers or watched cartoons, a group of students used their Saturday morning to help the community.

Approximately 25 students gathered at Anisq' Oyo' Park for the 15th annual Hunger Cleanup, a national, one-day community work-a-thon supported by the California Public Interest Research Group. Volunteers raised money from sponsors while working at one of nine sites around the Santa Barbara area.

According to UCSB CalPIRG President Har-monee Williams, an estimated $200 to $300 was raised, with 50 percent going to a local charity. This year's choice was the Transition House, which shelters homeless families and provides the necessary resources to help get them back on their feet, Williams said. The other half of the money goes toward the CalPIRG national campaign and the International Development Exchange, she added.

"Although we didn't have quite as many volunteers as we had originally hoped, the quality was awesome. Everyone got involved and worked

Spring Rush Kicks Off With Greek Forum, Open Houses

By DAVID DOWNS
Staff Writer

Greek rush is here again, for all those who want to get into more than just their studies during their college years.

UCSB's fraternities and sororities begin their quarterly rush activities today. According to Sigma Chi Omega fraternity Rush Chair Kris Saenz, a fraternity forum in Storke Plaza from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. will give potential rushees a chance to learn about greek life.

"We're going to bring some photo albums with some of the activities we have done and some informational pamphlets on what Sigma Chi Omega is all about. The forum is a way to learn more about all the houses," he said.

After the forum, fraternities will be holding open houses starting at 6 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday. According to Alpha Gamma Omega fraternity member Matt

Bettina, attending an open house is a way to meet all the brothers.

"It's just the usual fraternity open house," he said. "We'll have a barbecue, and you can see the house and meet the guys here."

Alpha Gamma Omega member Kameel Farag expects this quarter's rush to be smaller than others.

"For us, Spring Quarter is always the smallest rush," he said. "In the fall, all the new freshmen come in, but by this quarter, it's pretty low-key."

While they are not participating in the forum, sororities will also be open to new women. According to Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority Rush Chair Sara Richardson, the sorority gatherings will be more informal than their male counterparts.

"We only serve water and the parties usually run about 40 minutes. It's more like an open house than a party," she said.

In addition to the forum, a rush information meeting will be held tonight at 7 in HSSB 1174.

Albright Talks of Partitioning Kosovo

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Arriving for talks intended to bolster NATO unity, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright said Sunday the Serbian onslaught against ethnic Albanians in Kosovo means fewer Serb troops will be permitted to remain in the province than previously proposed.

And in another policy shift bound to anger Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic, Albright did not rule out partitioning Kosovo as part of a settlement, provided there are ways to protect Orthodox holy sites.

"Lots of parts of Rambouillet have been overtaken by events," Albright said of the accord, negotiated outside Paris, that was rejected by the Serbs and accepted by the Kosovar Albanians last month.

Albright said "there has to be recognition" of the Serb offensive that has forced the expulsion of more than one-third of the ethnic Albanians in what the Clinton administration has denounced as a "scorched-earth" campaign.

But earlier Sunday, John Podesta, the White House chief of staff, said in Washington on NBC's "Meet The Press" that "the partition of Kosovo is not on the table." And Defense Secretary William Cohen, on ABC's "This Week," said: "Partition is out of the question. Partition would simply be a reward to Milosevic and what he has set out to do."

Albright on Tuesday will try to mend fences with Russia, which has denounced the NATO bombardment of Yugoslavia, now nearing the end of a third week.

Russian President Boris Yeltsin on Friday warned that if NATO sent ground troops to Kosovo to "make it their protectorate, we cannot allow this."

Albright, downplaying the disagreement, said "there is a possibility" that Russia, one of the six nations behind the rejected Kosovo peace plan, could be "re-engaged" in trying to formulate a new settlement. But, Albright said, the Russians "clearly ... are troubled" by the NATO attacks on the Serbs.

Albright said the United States expected Russia to adhere to the international arms embargo against Yugoslavia and not take "counterproductive" actions.

The Rambouillet accords call for the withdrawal of Serb troops, paramilitary and police units. A total of 5,000 troops could remain — 2,500 along the border, thereby assuring Kosovo remained part of Serbia, and 2,500 police who could remain for one year. Some would be absorbed into a local police force.

High Gas Prices Are Not Likely to Drop Much, Experts Say

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gasoline prices jumped 14 cents per gallon nationwide because of seasonal demand, OPEC cuts in crude oil production and fires at California refineries, an industry analyst said Sunday.

Pump prices were highest in California, where the average price jumped 43.11 cents.

"Prices jumped, leaped, exploded — your pick," said analyst Trilby Lundberg, who runs the Lundberg Survey of 10,000 gas stations nationwide.

The weighted average price for all grades and services Friday was $1.2281 — a 14.12 cent hike from the last survey three weeks ago.

"A combination of three main elements caused the price turnaround," she said. "First, the California refining problems, then higher crude oil prices ... and, as far as gasoline is concerned, we're entering a stronger demand period."

Last month, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries cut daily oil output by 2.1 million barrels as part of a unified effort with non-OPEC members to strengthen prices for crude that were previously languishing at a 12-year low.

Motorists were hardest hit in California, where the unweighted average price for regular unleaded was $1.6390 — a 43.11-cent increase. Explosions at two refineries — including one at a Tosco Avon refinery Feb. 23 that left four workers dead — have sent prices soaring in the state.

Gas was most expensive in San Francisco, where regular unleaded cost $1.71 per gallon. The lowest average was $1.5340 for the Los Angeles basin, which includes Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, Lundberg said.

Motorist Geoff Leonard groused about the price hike while filling the tank of his Volvo station wagon at a San Francisco Chevron station. The price tag: $18.68 for 10 gallons.

Prices at the station were $1.77 a gallon for regular unleaded and $1.97 a gallon for premium unleaded.

California beat out even Hawai'i, which traditionally has the highest prices nationwide. The unweighted average price in Honolulu was $1.4490 cents, Lundberg said.

Though refinery problems should disappear soon and the supply picture is normalizing, Lundberg saw no relief in sight.

AP WIRE SHORTS

• SAN DIEGO (AP) — Police detectives are investigating an attack last month on a 51-year-old woman who was displaying a rainbow sticker on her car, a six-striped symbol of homosexual pride.

Two men grabbed the woman in the parking lot of a Lucky grocery store in North Park on March 9. They sexually assaulted her while they used slurs against her sexuality. No arrests have been made.

Some in the community are now reconsidering whether to display the stickers.

"I started to peel off the top of my rainbow sticker, and I thought, 'What are you doing?'" said Mandy Schultz, executive director of San Diego Lesbian and Gay Pride. "I left it on, but I came really close to removing it as those things boiled over in my mind."

• NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A new missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead soared into the skies over India on Sunday, defying U.S. appeals for restraint in weapons testing and raising fears of a new arms race with neighboring Pakistan.

India's Defense Minister George Fernandes said the successful 11-minute test flight of the Agni II missile marked a "great day for India," while Pakistan said that it would decide within the next two or three days how to respond.

Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee said later in a nationally televised address that the Agni proved India's determination to strengthen its national security.

"In a rapidly changing security environment, India cannot depend on others to defend her. We have to develop our own indigenous capabilities. Agni is a symbol of that resurgent India," he said.

• BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Risking her life for love, a 16-year-old Colombian guerrilla said Sunday she arranged the escape of a captive soldier with whom she'd fallen in love.

Pvt. Roque Antonio Montilva, captured Aug. 3 by the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia, said he met the rebel, identified only as Diana, in February.

"She would write me notes," Montilva said. "She told me she loved me and she said she was prepared to flee with me. I responded 'yes,' but in one letter I warned her that if they caught us, they'd tie me up and put me in a hole, but her they'd kill."

Diana, Montilva and another captured soldier, Pvt. Jose Francisco Arteaga, slogged through thick jungles for six days before arriving Friday at a military base in Mutata, 270 miles from Bogota.

"I feel blessed to be here," said Diana, who kissed Montilva on the lips in front of reporters.

The guerilla group, known as FARC, holds more than 300 police and soldiers captive, some for more than 18 months, and wants to exchange them for 452 imprisoned rebels. The government has so far refused.

Hey, how about granting Isla Vista its cityhood? What are we at now, 20,000 residents? If we unite, that should be enough votes to declare our independence. Think about it: We can make our own rules! A city of students, for students, and by students. Why, we can make A.S. our governing body — no, wait, maybe that's not such a good idea. Regardless, here are a few things we can do:

- 1) All police cruisers must comply with the city's vehicular beautification code and change their paint scheme to tie-dye.
- 2) People caught throwing beer out will either be fined severely or forced to lick the beer from off the ground.
- 3) Our city's emblem will look like that statue of those marines erecting the flag over Iwo Jima, except it'll be a group of drunken students struggling to mount a giant tap over a keg of Sierra Nevada.

For more rules, stay tuned tomorrow, as I will further explore this possible issue. As for now, just soak up some rays or raindrops, which ever come first and stay the longest.

Film Series Focuses on Human Rights Issues

By CLAIRE SMITH
Staff Writer

Gay Cubans, Nike, and child prostitutes will be among the featured subjects of a quintet of films shown by Amnesty International this quarter.

Tonight marks the launching of the quarterlong Amnesty film series titled "Global Human Rights," which will feature a film every other Monday at 6 p.m. in the MultiCultural Center.

The five films — "Incite Hope/USA campaign," "Turkey: Trading with Torture and Amnesty," "Globalization and Human Rights," "Child Prostitution in Thailand" and "Strawberry and Chocolate" — were chosen because of the variety of issues that they address, according to UCSB Amnesty Coordinator Joseph Maher.

"We've chosen a diverse bunch of issues that will appeal to people all over campus," he said. "We've tried to hit all the main topics, like children, economic development, gay and lesbian issues and torture and imprisonment. We want to show that human rights is not just working on behalf of people arrested for their political beliefs; there's a wide range of ways people can get their human rights denied."

Amnesty hopes to use the films to promote itself and highlight its issues of concern, Amnesty member Jordan Lucoff said.

"I think films visualize what Amnesty's principles are, and when people see a crisis, they believe it's real, and they remember it," she said. "We are aiming to increase general awareness at UCSB, both of Amnesty International and of the current issues going on in

Keepin' It Clean

The Nexus Offers Insightful Advice on How to Have a Quick and Painless Election Season

Election season is once again upon us. But what does that mean to a campus where 70 percent of the students chose not to vote in the Associated Student government elections last year? What does it mean to a student body that barely has enough candidates to run for Leg Council?

The relevance of A.S. elections is clear: The results will decide next year's student representatives. A.S. debates policy and passes bills; they are the movers and shakers on campus. These are the people who manage the $43 each student pays in the form of an A.S. lock-in fee each quarter. Is that not reason enough to be interested?

Candidates and students alike need to approach this year's elections with a high level of class. A tasteless election season will only fuel more student apathy as experienced in past years.

The Nexus offers advice to the candidates: A little research into the issues and current policies will pay great dividends for candidates, both in the polls and if they are elected. Candidates need to know what they are running for and who they may be working with if they get elected.

Unrealistic campaign promises won't yield much support from the student body. If you are a candidate, know that your campaign manager from junior high will be of little help here. Promises to run beer through the water faucets or to outlaw homework won't get you votes. Students recognize BS and all-out lies when they hear them — students use them every day — so keep campaign promises simple and attainable. Students are interested in how you will go about what you want to accomplish.

As for campaign signs, keep them clean and tasteful. If you notice one of your signs draping over another candidate's sign, fix it. Also remember to take your signs down after elections. We do not need to muck up our campus in the name of student politics.

When soliciting voters on campus, be courteous and peaceful. Learn to take no for an answer. No one appreciates campaign fliers floating around the campus as trash. Please don't make a campaigning technique out of dropping campaign fliers into the hands of the uninterested.

The following advice goes to all students: Attend the election debates. This year they will be held in the Hub. Know who and what you are voting for. Read the A.S. election supplement in the Nexus. The fact that there aren't many candidates this year will make this process a whole lot easier.

And another thing, don't use the Nexus endorsements as your election bible. We base our endorsements on the information that is out there: There is no crystal ball in our office, just a few people who take the time to publish their interpretation of the candidates and issues.

We have the possibility of redeeming ourselves after a bad case of voter apathy. A 30-percent voter turnout is pathetic. In order to do this, candidates need to behave professionally, and we as students need to do our part.

However, one glimpse — caught in a millisecond of channel surfing — stole that secure feeling away from me: the images that came across CNN were of war refugees in Kosovo. Displaced citizens of a war-torn country in masses, awaiting their future with a veil of despair shrouding their entire existence.

And I began to think that terms like "displaced citizens" and "war refugees," like most euphemisms, did not really capture the severity of the horror that these people were facing.

ALCOHOL POISONING CAN EASILY BE AVOIDED WITH MODERATION

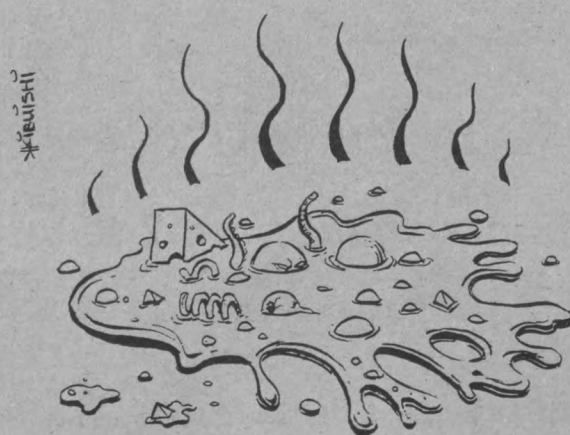

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I don't know how many of you who live in the residence halls have gone to the bathroom on a Friday night only to be surprised with a lovely view of vomit. Vomit in the sinks, in the stalls, and on the hall (for those who didn't make it to the bathroom); sound like a familiar setting? Well, I am tired of having to go to the bathroom and have my senses of sight and smell violated by somebody's vomit because that person partied a little too much.

Despite my personal feelings on vomit, however, one must take into account the fact that it's a health issue. If you decided to drink one night and discovered that you had passed out and/or vomited later on, then watch out. The body induces vomiting because your body's rejecting the alcohol. It's not a simple hangover that you could ignore once you feel better. If you're vomiting, you could be suffering from mild alcohol poisoning.

Alcohol poisoning is a severe physical reaction to an overdose of alcohol. People can die from it. Anyone who has consumed large quantities of alcohol in a short period of time is at high risk. The frightening thing about alcohol poisoning is that people don't often recognize the signs.

The symptoms of alcohol poisoning are:

1. A person who has consumed large amounts of alcohol in a short period of time;

2. A person who is unconscious and cannot be woken;
3. A person who has cold, clammy, unusually pale or bluish skin;
4. A person who is breathing slowly or irregularly — usually this means less than eight times per minute or 10 seconds or more between any two breaths; or
5. A person who vomits while passed out and doesn't wake up during or after.

Don't hesitate or worry about what the person will think of you when they sober up. If you suspect a person is suffering from alcohol poisoning and see any of the symptoms listed above:

1. Call for help. Dial 911. Or if you live near a hospital, get the person to the emergency room ASAP.
2. Don't leave the person alone. Carefully monitor his/her breathing. If it stops, administer CPR.
3. Stand by your decision. If the person ends up not suffering from alcohol poisoning, you showed you cared by doing the right thing based on your judgment.

The best way to avoid alcohol poisoning is to drink moderately. This means three drinks for a woman and four drinks for a man in a single sitting. Drinking in moderation helps reduce the risk of alcohol poisoning, and keeps the residence

Is Ready

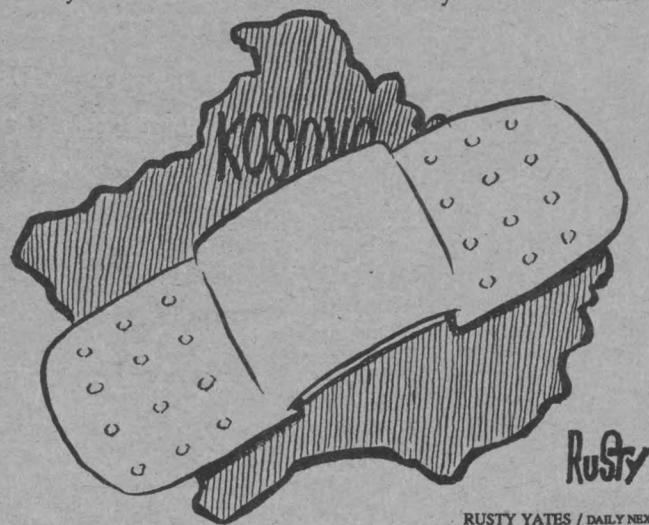

Send Aid to Kosovo

Others to Follow

How many travesties would I let flash on the TV screen as if there was nothing I could do? Because of my heritage as a black man, I know that even the most insurmountable obstacles of hate can be combated and defeated with love. And that is what I felt for these people — love. They didn't look like me or speak my language, but I could feel them.

But this is not just a letter to raise consciousness of the crisis overseas; this is a call to action. The brothers of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, Incorporated (of which I have been a member since 1992), are ready for action. We have recently become a presence on this campus once again, and we invite EVERY CAMPUS ORGANIZATION to join us in collecting relief items for the war refugees in Kosovo and the surrounding republics. Items such as canned goods, nonperishable foods, blankets and small toys may not seem like much, but it could mean a world of difference for a family that has been forced at gunpoint out of their home and out of their country.

RUSTY YATES / DAILY NEXUS

There are over 80,000 war refugees. The USA has donated millions of dollars in war relief. But the brothers of Kappa Alpha Psi feel that if we are to be responsible leaders to the campus and our community, we cannot afford to be nearsighted and ignore our neighbors around the world. The global village is getting smaller and we feel it would be irresponsible to not help in any way that we can.

So we are calling on other campus organizations to assist us in lending a small, but mighty hand to our neighbors across the Atlantic. The MultiCultural Center has agreed to let us use their facility as a drop-off spot. We would like to sustain this drive from Monday, April 12, until Friday, April 16. That way people can drop items at their convenience. We hope all campus organizations will encourage their participants to donate what they can.

This is not a challenge or a competition. This is an invitation to get involved in a world-class effort, because we are world-class students attending a world-class institution.

commemorating those who perished due to gruesome genocide. It is crucial to remember, and learn, that these people were not victims. They were real, ordinary people, like you and I, leading typical daily lives. They were tailors, teachers, doctors and nurses living in compact communities, practicing religious rituals that have been observed for thousands of years. These people were the Jews.

The time was when Hitler and his followers, the Nazis, rose in power and universally declared their fatal hatred toward the Jews, and other racial/religious groups that were not of "their kind." These people were to be tortured and murdered for having freely expressed who they are.

UCSB's Holocaust Remembrance Week is an important event in which we remember the more than 6 million lives lost. It is a time in which we must educate and be educated about differences. We must learn to be open to exploring "other" cultures, religions and ways of living. We must learn to accept these differences and move on in our daily lives as students, professors and doctors. For if we remain insensitive to the Nazis and other groups manifesting acts of hatred and propaganda, another Holocaust will occur.

Please participate in at least one event during this week's commemorations of the Holocaust. Allow yourself to be educated in accepting differences and share your education with the world. For further information the events during Holocaust Remembrance Week, refer to the Nexus.

itor, Daily Nexus:

I am a graduating senior whose main complaint is the ridiculous amount of money we are forced to pay each quarter for textbooks. I have spent countless hours waiting in lines for books I am forced to buy but can't afford.

I don't know if any of you feel the way I do, but if so, I've found a great alternative. VarsityBooks.com is an online bookstore that can save you up to 40 percent off of bookstore prices. I decided to go online to check it out and found that I could be saving a lot of money.

I wish this was here for the last few years. When I was browsing through the website, I learned that VarsityBooks.com doesn't charge any sales tax and will even deliver it to my doorstep. In previous years, I would have to wait at least 10 days for a book ordered through the bookstores, but with VarsityBooks.com, I would receive it in two to three days. I think that sounds like a much better deal — I get the books I need for cheaper prices and don't have to deal with the long lines and hassles of ordering out of stock books.

I encourage everyone here at UCSB to get online and save yourself time and money that could be better spent elsewhere.

Labor Rights

Students Address Global Issue

Nearly a century ago, 150 immigrant female garment workers leaped to their deaths when a fire broke out inside their locked factory. In response to this event, known as the Triangle Shirtwaist Fire, workers mobilized across the country, forming labor unions and forcing legislation protecting workers' rights.

Nonetheless, in 1995, over 70 Thai garment workers were discovered in El Monte working in conditions resembling those of the Triangle Shirtwaist Fire of 1911. These workers paid contractors thousands of dollars to come to the U.S., however, they were forced to work behind barbed wire for far below minimum wage.

Last January, a number of garment manufacturers and retailers, such as Gap, Wal-Mart and Nordstrom, were sued for using sweatshops in Saipan, a U.S. Territory in the Mariana Islands. These workers were indentured servants and worked 12 hours a day, seven days a week, while living in overcrowded, unsanitary housing surrounded by barbed wire.

This Thursday, April 15, one of these workers, Carmencita (CHee) Abad, along with organizers from the growing national student movement, will be speaking at the MultiCultural Theater from 1-5 p.m. These speakers will talk about the globalization of the garment industry and how it has eroded the power of workers and labor unions all over the world. In addition, they will discuss how, despite this reality, students, workers, labor unions and human rights organizations are fighting back and winning victories to improve workers' lives.

One of the ways in which this coalition is fighting back is by pressuring corporations and universities to pass a code of conduct requiring that all clothing bearing their label or logo be made under sweatshop-free conditions.

Currently, the University of California has a code of conduct, but it does not include these various provisions. Over the last several months, students and faculty members have pressured the UC to revise its code of conduct, but the administration has refused to do so. Therefore, actions are being planned to place pressure on the UC.

Some of the steps being taken at UCSB include:

1. Holding a conference, THIS THURSDAY;
2. Forming the Campus Labor Action Coalition (CLAC);
3. Placing a plebiscite to revise UC's Code of Conduct on the Spring Quarter ballot;
4. Networking with other students and anti-sweatshop organizations across the country; and
5. Leafleting Gap's store on State Street to educate consumers about the company's business practices in Saipan.

We invite you to come educate yourself and make a difference by coming to the conference on THURSDAY AT THE MCC FROM 1-5 p.m. For more information about these issues, visit the website of United Students Against Sweatshops at:

<http://home.sprintmail.com/~jeffnkari/USAS> or e-mail CLAC at clac@ssf.ucsb.edu.

Shana Singh is an undeclared freshman, Anna Salamon is a freshman math major and Ralph Armbruster-Sandoval is a Chicano studies professor. All are members of the Campus Labor Action Coalition.

Schizophrenia

Usually, doctors say this disease is genetic. However, it would not be surprising to learn that this disease could be caused by the weather. Sunny and warm one minute, cloudy and rainy the next. Weather gods, oh weather gods ... could we have a little consistency, please?

Downtown

A block of State Street is currently closed due to a Santa Barbara beautification project. Santa Barbara beautification? Does Santa Barbara really need to be beautified? Isla Vista needs that beautification work ... straighten up the streets, add a few street lights, clean up a few other areas. The supervisors got the area that needs to be beautified wrong ... as usual.

Tanning

The tanning season is upon us, despite Sunday's weather. If you haven't already prepared yourself, the local sporting goods store stocks everything a tanner needs. For men, a bright speedo-style swimsuit and a pair of mirrored aviator sunglasses are an imperative. For women, a bikini and a colorful beach towel should suffice. Tanning has the potential to be a professional sport and should be approached as such. Until the sun comes out, practice walking in that Speedo.

How to Play:

Give us a ring at (805) 893-2692. Leave your idea or fact, full name and phone number (without which we won't let you appear in the Hot Line). Thanks.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE
BY LINDA C. BLACK

Check the day's rating: 10 is the easiest day, 0 the most challenging.
Aries (March 21-April 19)—Today is a 5—Worries about a close friend or neighbor could cloud your thinking today. Instead of leaving your questions unsaid, go ahead and ask them. Once you know what's going on, you can get into action. Once you're in action, everything will be fine.

Taurus (April 20-May 20)—Today is a 6—You and your friends need to talk over important matters today. You may not get all of them to settle yet, but you'll sure come up with some good ideas. Besides that, you'll have a great time, and you'll make each other much stronger. Each of you could go it alone, but together you'll have lots more fun.

Gemini (May 21-June 21)—Today is a 5—Don't try to use reason with an emotional person. It's not going to get you anywhere. You'll be better off to listen and take notes. Once the other guy feels really heard, he or she will be more willing to negotiate. Wait until then to offer your suggestions.

Cancer (June 22-July 22)—Today is a 7—Your intuition should be working pretty well today. That's important, because you're up against tough competition. Somebody's ordering you around, to your dismay. It might be wise to comply, however, especially if there's lots of money involved.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22)—Today is a 5—You may very well have more bills than money today. If so, don't despair, but don't go out buying that new toy you've been yearning for, either. Put that off for just a little while longer. You may just find you can do without it.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—Today is a 6—Looks like your partner is right, so go along with that idea. It's not fully figured out yet, and that's where your input comes in. Let fantasy get you inspired, then put in reality checks.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)—Today is a 5—You've really got your work cut out for you on Monday. Besides that, it looks like you could be saddled with a whiny co-worker. Instead of being irritated, be compassionate. Once this person has had a chance to talk and really feel listened to, he or she could come up with a brilliant plan. And you might need one.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)—Today is a 7—The subject of money could arise today, and if it does, take care. You might simply disagree with the person you love most. It's a hot topic, anyway, so don't press. Your chances are better of reaching a compromise tomorrow.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—Today is a 5—You're in a pretty good mood today, but a conversation with someone at home could take up more time than you'd planned. It could even be a television show that gets you entranced and makes you late for your next appointment. You're just going to have to keep track of the time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)—Today is a 7—You've got a couple of tough problems to deal with, but that's OK. You're smart today and getting smarter. Take on a challenge, and start by doing the homework. Once you figure out what the problem is, the rest is going to be easy. You just have to learn a new skill, that's all.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)—Today is a 5—You know a lot about a lot of things, but money probably isn't one of them. That's quite often an Aquarian deficiency, and it's because you're more interested in ideas than in filthy lucre. But actually, a little folding green comes in handy if you want to get a few ideas across. And if you want to study money, today's a great day to begin.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20)—Today is a 6—You're looking great today, with the moon in your sign. Mercury's there, too, making you even more brilliant than usual. But you might also be feeling more generous, which could be dangerous. You may feel as though you're made of money, and you aren't. Take care if you go shopping in nice stores.

Today's Birthday (April 12). Finish up old obligations this year and making changes for the better will be easy. You're lucky and strong in April, so make big plans for the future then. A friendship could turn into a romance in May or June, and the other way around. Do something you've always dreamed about in August, and get rid of old debts in November. Give yourself the gift of travel in December, and heed a friend's advice concerning love in February. You may learn a secret in March. If so, keep it.

are committed to full compliance with environmental laws and regulations."

Edwards explained that Venoco has already taken measures to improve safety standards in the event of a suspected leak; a recent example occurred last Wednesday at Platform Holly.

"On the morning of April 7, one of our sensors picked up a fugitive emission. We immediately responded by dialing 911 and the fire department," he said. "We shut down the plant and inspected the area of the suspected leak with a handheld monitor, and when we determined that there was no real threat posed, we sounded the all-clear."

A tentative agreement has been struck between Venoco Inc., the Air Pollution Control District and several other agencies in the area, including the County Fire Dept. and the Energy Division of the County Office of Planning and Development, according to APCD General Source Division Manager Peter Cattle. The agreement provides for safer operation of Venoco facilities, he said.

"The agreement calls for the complete shutdown of Platform Holly and the Ellwood facility when significant releases occur, improved barge-loading techniques to reduce odors and the installation of a venting flare on the platform by the end of 1999," Cattle said.

In a written statement, Cattle made clear that the agreement does not relieve Venoco of the any charges, but insures that future incidents will not occur.

"This is a comprehensive agreement designed to protect the communities' interests and public health. The agreement addresses future operations at these facilities; it does not resolve past violations," he stated.

According to Lulejian, problems at both the offshore and the onshore facilities are nothing new.

"These are very historical kinds of problems that have occurred with other owners even before Venoco," he said. "Hopefully we can get to the point where we will no longer have any problems and things will keep running smoothly."

the world."

Sociology Professor and Amnesty member Kum-Kum Bhavnani sees the film series as an effective way to teach people how they can cooperate in activism.

"I think it's really good because many people haven't even heard of Amnesty International. Films tell people about human rights violations, and how to join together to fight them through Amnesty," Bhavnani said. "I honestly think it's worth it because people aren't frightened — they want to know what to do about world issues."

together," Williams said. "I think that they got a good sense of how much there actually is to be done and how good it can feel to actually give back to the community."

Dean of Students Yonic Harris began the day with a few words of encouragement and appreciation.

"I think that this is the very best of what the students of UCSB are about — they are able to understand what it is to be a part of a community and being committed and dedicated enough to donate a Saturday of their time," she said. "I just have immense admiration and respect for them."

CalPIRG member Ira Munn, who helped organize the cleanup, was pleased with the turnout.

"This year we have more sites and more volunteers," he said. "The chief goal is to help out the community in hunger and homelessness. We help organizations that strive to help the people of their surroundings, and our purpose was served today."

If you want to get involved in helping with hunger and homelessness or any other area of community service offered through CalPIRG, call 893-8319.

CAREER ADVISING INTERNSHIP
The internship emphasizes professional development in a career center setting. The program is new for Fall of 1999. Position closes May 3, 1999.

The internship year is a time of professional growth in which existing skills are strengthened and new skills developed. As staff members, interns are provided a setting in which they can demonstrate professional initiative while receiving ample support and consultation. By the culmination of the internship experience, interns will be expected to function as entry-level professionals with a sense of both ethical and professional responsibility.

Training at Counseling & Career Services can be conceptualized as covering four primary areas: 1. Career Counseling & Advising, 2. Program Development, 3. Employer Relations and 4. Supervision. The intern will work with students in individual and group settings. Opportunities for providing service to special interest groups exist. Program planning and implementation will provide the understanding for the operation of the broader program elements and coordination of efforts with other Student Affairs departments. The intern will work with employers visiting the university, and have the opportunity to develop new jobs and internships for students. The supervision component involves supervising a practicum student for the academic year.

SALARY AND BENEFITS
Interns will receive a salary of $15,000 for September 1999 to August 2000. As employees of UCSB, interns qualify for either a fully paid health care program (HMO) or a more traditional program involving supplemental compensation. Business travel accident insurance is also provided. Auto and home/renters insurance may also be secured at a group insurance rate. Vacation and sick leave are accrued at 10 hours and 8 hours per month, respectively.
Details at <http://career.ucsb.edu/general/careerintern.html>. Position closes: May 3, 1999. Send resume/cover letter to D. Nord, Counseling and Career Services, UCSB, Santa Barbara, CA 93106.
