It's been said so much, you're sick of hearing it.

The rape of the oceans is an oily reality.

(Think of it. The oil still vomits its vile toxin, one year later.)

The Black Panthers are being exterminated.

(Think of it. 25 have been murdered by pigs—yes, pigs—we must say it—in the past year.)

10,000, who knows, maybe 20,000 young men are in jail for refusing to become licensed murderers. (Think of it. In jail!)

Reagan says education is a capital investment and tuition a necessity. (?)

Agnew says peace marchers are rotten apples, to be discarded.

Mitchell says the radicals must be isolated.

The Justice Department says desegregation shouldn't move too fast.

Vietnam for Uncle Sam.

Get the Gooks!

And God Bless the Silent Majority.

Industrial slime is an ecological crime.

The Man has gas, guns and a face mask.

It's just the same old radical rhetoric. Stale, simplistic and sarcastic.

But true.

It's in the news every day. We can't escape it!

We should not escape it. We must confront it.

We must come together. Right now.

Come together, in our understanding

The words mean little, but the feelings say most.

The actions say all.

We must come together, in our obligation to say NO MORE,

in our obligation to remain sane.

Welcome to the Age of Aquarius. We will all drown in this sea of fascism, unless we learn to swim.

Unless we learn to swim. Unless we learn to swim. Unless we learn to swim.

Swimming: 1. To propell oneself through water, or whatever. 2. To oppose the current;

to speak out; to come together and get together and organize. 3. To do whatever is necessary to keep from drowning. To do whatever is necessary to stop murder—murder of black people who are brave enough to say NO MORE. FREEDOM NOW. Murder of the earth, the waters, the trees, who say NO MORE, OR HUMANITY WILL BE NO MORE.

To do whatever is necessary to live.

To LIVE! To LOVE! To be FREE!

Remember January 28.

Love, Life, Freedom. Fascism, Pigs, Repression

Rhetoric. Reality. Which is which?

Reality IS.

Death, spiritual or physical, IS.

Unless we learn to swim. Unless we learn to swim.

January 28. January 28.

'The one thing I was good for...'

The famed American composer Halsey Stevens will discuss "Bartok and Liszt" during the West Coast Festival of the American Liszt Society in Lotte Lehmann Concert Hall at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Professor Karl Geiringer of the department of music will introduce Stevens.

The three-day festival, first to be held on the West Coast, will get under way Friday at 7:30 p.m. when Robert Charles Lee, founder and president of the Society, delivers the opening remarks. Theme of the entire festival is "The one thing I was good for was to open the door for others," a quotation taken from a conversation between Franz Liszt and a student of his.

A member of the faculty at the University of Southern California, Stevens is the author of "The Life and Music of Bela Bartok." He is best known as a composer of works for orchestras, keyboard and chamber music performers, and for his lectures at college and universities here and abroad. His published works total more than 80 pieces which have been performed throughout the U.S., Europe, Latin America and the Orient. He also had 10 recorded works to this credit.

Stevens has received a number of commissions from leading orchestras, colleges and universities and was awarded an honorary degree by Syracuse University.

The distinguished composer has taught at a number of universities and has been chairman of USC's department of composition since 1948. He was educated at Syracuse University and the University of California.

Other events on Saturday will include a repertory session of piano works by Liszt performed by leading West Coast music students. The session will begin at 9 a.m. in Lotte Lehmann Concert Hall. At 7 p.m., selected student performers will present a concert of Liszt music.

Registration for the entire three-day festival is $7.50 for adults and $5 for students. Registration for events of each day is $2.50 for adults and $1 for students. Further information may be obtained by calling Professor of Music Erno Daniel, chairman of the festival, at 961-3385.

It's cheap and filling- if the palate's willing

By GARY HANAUER
The Campus Donut Shop, located on the Loop at 909 Embarcadero del Norte (one block from campus), is Isla Vista's only 24 hour restaurant.

Campus Donut offers cheap but not so tasty sandwiches which range in price from 45 — 65 cents. Hamburgers and cheeseburgers are 45 cents, the TJ burger goes for 65 cents, barbecue beef is 55 cents and pastrami and cheese is 55 cents.

The TJ burger, a Campus specialty, is a double patty hamburger.

A variety of beverages are available for 10 — 25 cents. Coffee is self-service at 10 cents a cup.

We gave Campus Donut a 1 on food quality (on a 5 point scale). The burgers are greasy and tasteless. Perhaps the shop could endeavor to spill off some of the grease and add a sauce of some sort to the hamburgers. Jaxon's, for example, kills some of the taste of its hamburger (on its Super-Burger) with a thousand island sauce and chopped lettuce.

Prices, we felt, were about the best that could be expected for an operation like Campus

Donut. We gave a 4 on prices. The food isn't so good but at least it's cheap.

Campus Donut needs major improvements in its atmosphere. We gave it a 1 on this, simply because the walls aren't bare even if they are somewhat ridiculous-looking. Beatles' pictures, posters, announcements, quotations and so forth are all mixed up in an awkward, style-lacking presentation.

We suggest that Campus Donut do something with its walls: paint them, decorate them in one style or another (instead of five or ten). A little money might be invested in better furniture or candles, anything which might add to the atmosphere. Atmosphere doesn't necessarily take a lot of money to produce: other places in Isla Vista have already learned this.

Service, we felt, was average, worthy of about a 3 within the Isla Vista context. Perhaps the food is even cooked a little too fast.

Location is one of Campus Donut's prime assets. We scored the grill a 5 in this area. Like Rusty's, Campus Deli and Borsodi's, Campus Donut is located on the Loop (rather than next to it or a block

Anthro department reconsiders

By CINDY HEATON,
DENISE KESSLER
and JEFFREY J. PROBST
Staff Writers

After presenting Chairman of the Anthropology Department David Brokensha with petitions containing 7,776 signatures, members of the Radical Union demanded that he reply to the request that an open hearing be held for Bill Allen.

When confronted in his office yesterday afternoon,

Brokensha refused to make a statement, although he had been informed of the meeting 26 hours in advance.

ANSWER BY SUNDAY

Insisting that he be allowed to confer with the tenured faculty and the administration, Brokensha agreed that he would submit his answer by 4 p.m. Sunday so that it can appear in Monday's EL GAUCHO.

When interviewed

afterwards, Brokensha said that although he had not changed his opinion on an open hearing, the decision is not solely up to him.

UNPRECEDENTED ACTION

He explained that an open hearing would be an "unprecedented action on the part of the University," and that it would involve a "whole redistribution of power within the University." Consequently, he believes that the administration must be included in the decision.

According to spokesmen for the Radical Union, further action on Bill Allen's case is being planned.

Interdiscipline - get it on

By VALERIE BAKER
Staff Writer

Plans for an undergraduate Humanistic Studies major are presently being formulated by the UCSB Office of Human Relations. To determine if students feel there is a real need for such an interdisciplinary major, the Office is holding an open-ended discussion today at 3 p.m. in the UCen Program Lounge.

Vice-Chancellor of Business and Finance Ray Varley, Assistant Dean of Student Residents Evertt Kirkelie, Associate Professor of Sociology Morris Friedell and Associate Professor of Education Steward Shapiro along with students from the Human Relations Office will be present at the meeting to express their opinions and answer questions about the proposed major.

As Judy Crow, a student member of the Relations Office said, "We need new ideas and outlooks, and most of all, we need new people to help us develop the idea further." She explained that the Office hopes that a group of people can be organized at the meeting to work towards the actual implementation of the program.

Miss Crow stated that no definite ideas about the major have been set yet, but "hopefully such a major would be designed as to let the students make up their own individual programs of study, drawing from any area they want."

According to Friedell, "There is a need for a humanistic studies major for students interested in an education which is relevant to human values, which would refine and deepen their understanding of what those

Ecolog: '3 culprits pollute'

By GARY HANAUER
Staff Writer

Three UCSB seniors and the department of geography have begun publication of Ecolog, a "weekly review of environmental issues." The mimeographed broadsheet was first distributed locally Jan. 15.

Ecolog, says the editors, seeks "to explore man's relationship to the environment from a factual and a philosophical viewpoint."

"What we have now," asserts the first issue, "is all we will ever have to keep us alive: a band of usable atmosphere about seven miles high, and no "new" air is available; a thin crust of land with only one-eighth of the surface fit for human life; and a finite supply of usable water."

The ecologists blame "three culprits," population, industrialization and urbanization, for the air, land, water and "planet" pollution currently underway.

The world's population, within three decades (by the year 2,000), will double to nearly 7 billion people. At least 70 per cent of the world's adults and 80 per cent of its children already reside in the poverty-stricken countries of Asia, the Near East, Africa and Latin America.

Clyde Emerson, Helen Rubin and Wayne L. Smith, the editors of Ecolog, point out that "our natural resources are taxed beyond saving" already.

Over 150 million tons of pollutants, 90 per cent of which are potentially lethal gases, are spewed into the atmosphere annually. "These contaminants," says Ecolog, "are global in their effects."

Land urbanization goes on at the rate of 3,000 acres a day in the United States. By the year 2,000, 85 per cent of the American people will live in urban areas instead of the current 70 per cent.

"Man is a part of nature and cannot master it. To survive he must learn to work with it," says the new publication.

In its first issue, Ecolog called for an investigation, to be headed by the editors, of local sources of pollution. Readers interested in having pollution they notice investigated should write 6631 Picasso No. 16, Goleta.

THUMBS UP! plans hitchhiking pools

An appeal to all students, faculty members, administrators and university employees who are dissatisfied with smog, parking congestion, traffic and excessive driving expenses is being made by THUMBS UP!, organized this week under the auspices of the Community Affairs Board.

THUMBS UP! offers UCSB commuters from the Goleta-Santa Barbara-Carpenteria area a practical way to solve their personal transportation problems and a chance to make a positive statement against the freeway-private automobile system in which we are all presently trapped.

"People kid themselves along by wishing the problem away," says Mort Maizlish, a UCSB student and chairman of THUMBS UP! "We tell ourselves that we really need to drive wherever we go, that 'they' will give us electric cars pretty soon, that VW's are the answer and that we don't want a new freeway that we'll all use anyway. So thousands of cars come and go every day with three to five empty seats in them.

"Most students can't afford the $1.00 to $1.50 that it costs for each round trip from Santa Barbara and parking at UCSB. None of us can afford to contribute to this insane traffic system much longer. It just isn't true that there are no other convenient ways to get to campus."

THUMBS UP!'s programs are designed to accommodate people with regular or irregular schedules. "For those who arrive and leave at the same time every day, especially administrators and employees," Maizlish explains,

"we are coordinating neighborhood car pools and share-the-rides. In car pools, neighbors can alternate driving by the weeks or month with as many others as they choose. In share-the-rides, drivers and riders can arrange to share expenses on a regular basis.

"For those of us with irregular hours, we suggest hitchhiking. We want to know how many drivers would pick up hitchhiking students and their approximate schedules so that we can publish statistical information for hitchhikers.

"Our ultimate goal is to set up hitchhiking stations at on-ramps and on campus, with a steady line of riders waiting for lifts and a steady line of cars stopping for them. This system works at military bases and in several foreign countries."

Maizlish told EL GAUCHO

Hunter case continues, one charge dropped

By KEN EISENBERGER
Reporter

Counsel for the defense of Billy McCoy Hunter entered a demurrer Tuesday on one of the two counts of burglary. This count charged Hunter was entering the home of Robert B. Sinclair with the intention of committing a felony.

Frank R. Crandall, the attorney presently heading the Hunter case, expressed in Santa Barbara Superior Court that the Grand Jury indictment handed down failed to sustain the claim since there was no such felony stated on the transcript. Judge Floyd C. Dodson ruled to dismiss the charge.

On the grounds that there has been much newspaper and radio publicity on the Hunter case, Crandall also made a motion to secure a court order prohibiting the disclosure of the contents of the Grand Jury transcript except to the defendant, his attorney and the district attorney's office and staff pending the official filing of the document and an opportunity for the defense counsel to review it to determine if it includes prejudicial or other objectionable material.

The judge took the order in submission and issued a temporary order which included the requested stipulations until Jan. 22, when a further ruling will be made.

Donations to Hunter's legal defense fund are still needed and should be brought to the BSU office in Bungalow 312-B near the old S.U.

that he has been hitchhiking to and from the campus daily from the Mission district of Santa Barbara for the past several months. He has been amazed at the ease with which he gets lifts. "I can get to Campbell Hall from my home in 30 minutes any time of the day," he says, "which is the same time it takes to drive and park in a "C" lot. I've never had the same driver more than twice. There are probably enough friendly drivers to bring 1,000 hitch hikers to campus every day."

THUMBS UP! asks that the following questionnaire be returned to the Community Affairs Board office at 3125 UCen. Additional information is also available there or by calling 961-2391.

See p. 7 for form.

Following are the people running for Associated Students positions in the Jan. 28 and 29 elections. Vote for one person for each position. If there is a write-in candidate such that no one has a majority, a run-off election will be held on Feb. 2.

Polling places are in front of the library and the UCen. They will be open from 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. each day of the election.

Doreen Honegger

NAME: Doreen Honegger; OFFICE: Freshman Class President.
QUALIFICATIONS: Served on various student government committees in high school and have held executive office at a class level.

PLATFORM: I want an opportunity to try to unite the students, to bring members of the class together for the purpose of making the University more representative of them.

"As class projects and objectives, I propose:

- Working to make Leg Council representative of all students, including freshmen, by using the class council as a sounding board for issues such as those involving budget priorities.
- Investigating curriculum, and helping to open more relevant courses.
- Working toward a greater understanding of our role in the University and the importance of assuming an active role in community affairs, by sponsoring ethnic and racial programs, educational conferences, scholarship programs and charity events."

Mike Honlemard

NAME: Mike Houlemard; OFFICE: Freshman Vice-President.

QUALIFICATIONS: California State Junior Exchange President and Associated Student Body Vice President in High School. Yuma Unit Hall President - Anacapa.

PLATFORM: "The office of Vice President allows freedom of development as does the complete administrative body of the Frosh class. Within the realm of this freedom of development, I expect to fight the self-evident student apathy while establishing a pattern toward success for the freshmen class. Hopefully the office will allow me to expand the meaning of student government and student control."

PLATFORM: "In recent years, the Greek community has become alienated both politically and socially from the rest of the University community. An effective communication needs to be established between Greeks and Independents that can only result from interaction and interest in the community as a unit. This entails an awareness and involvement. I plan to stimulate involvement through accurate information on campus and community activities such as Project Genesis and Camp Conestoga. The Greeks should be represented as a group of individuals within the community as opposed to an inflexible structure insensitive to change."

Mary Vail

NAME: Mary Vail; OFFICE: Sorority Representative.
Qualifications: Previous experience on Leg. Council includes being a non-voting member (as A.S. Public Info Board Co-Chairman), and serving as interim Sorority Rep. since Nov., 1969. Other activities: Honeybears (officer), Homecoming Comm., ASCEP, Soph. Class Sec-Treas, Elections Comm., Chi Omega.

QUALIFICATIONS: I feel I am qualified because I am interested in becoming involved in A.S. government.

PLATFORM: "I feel that freshmen don't really have an A.S. agency through which they are represented; I would like to see the frosh organized as a body. The council is the only organized structure contact between freshmen and the policy-making body of UCSB. I think the freshmen should be able to come to their council, voice their opinions and grievances, and be heard through their council. I would like to play a part in getting the class involved in student government."

values are and how to implement them in their lives."

Kirkelie agreed that such a major could be a very good thing as it would leave a lot of room for students to pursue their special interests.

Members of the Human Relations Office generally feel that it will be necessary at first to plan the humanistic studies major largely on the basis of existing classes.

"Until the program really is functioning," said Miss Crow, "it seems best to work within the present structure of the University as much as possible."

Kirkelie, however, emphasized that the existing structure of the University can be used in a more creative, unconventional way under the proposed major. He suggested the possibility of experience activities as intern programs which would relate to humanistic studies.

Varley stated that there is a need for lots of interdisciplinary majors. "We are getting overspecialized in certain things. We seem to have achieved a maximum degree of knowledge in certain areas, and now there is a need to apply that knowledge."

The problems of funds and the difficulty of fighting the traditional departmental set-up in developing the interdisciplinary major have been acknowledged by the Office of Human Relations; however, they feel these problems can be resolved by an organized effort on the part of interested students and faculty.

Shapiro, who is the director of the Office of Human Relations believes that the proposal for the Humanistic Studies major will be completed and presented to the Academic Senate sometime later this quarter.

The Office of Human Relations is a voluntary group co-sponsored by university extension and the graduate school of education. Basically, they are students, faculty members and administrators who meet to engage in dialogue about improving communication in the University.
