Reagan tried college strike successfully

By PAUL DOUGLASS
News Editor

Student protest should have a familiar ring to the ears of Ronald Reagan. His first month in office has already provoked a student outrage strangely reminiscent of Reagan's own college days when, in 1928, he was involved in a week-long boycott of classes to protest actions taken by the College's Board of Trustees and to demand the resignation of the college president. Now, for Reagan, the shoe seems to be on the other foot.

Information was provided largely by Eureka College's student newspaper, Pegasus, researched for EL GAUCHO by Harold Adams, Vice President for Development, at the Illinois college.

Student unrest, according to Adams' report, began with an administrative proposal to reorganize the academic program of the college which would result in penalizing some upperclassmen.

ONLY A LIMITED NUMBER of tickets is left for the buses to Sacramento. The remaining tickets will be on sale today starting at 10 a.m. in front of the UCen. They're going fast, so friends of education who want to go on the march should buy early. Driver sign-ups are still open. Information packets for drivers are available at the sign-up tables.

EDITORIAL

As we all must know by now, today is THE DAY. Tonight we load into our buses, our cars, our motorcycles or whatever other contrivance we have, and we go to fight the good fight, the one that many individuals were laughing at last week.

They have stopped laughing. We have shown the people of this good state that we are quite capable of organizing in two weeks an undertaking that took the people concerned with the civil rights march to Washington four months.

Now it is up to us to indicate to the entire nation that our organization has payed off: that we are capable of showing responsible, mature protest to an intolerable turn of events.

Most emphatically, the entire nation will be there tomorrow morning. We have national television coverage on NBC including a special on Huntly-Brinkly (yes Chet, yes David) focusing on our March.

Life magazine is planning to make our walk down the capital mall the subject of its cover, and the accompanying lead story, for the issue after the March.

So those of you who deride this march, who quiver over striking the "wrong image", or meditate about the repercussions, we have this to ask: Why in the hell aren't you going up there? If you are worried over what will happen up there, then we emphasize: be there to build out responsible "image" to satisfy yourself as to the mood of the demonstration. See this thing yourself, if for no other reason, so that you may speak knowledgeably of it afterwards. Staying behind may well be a matter of belief in this case--but it may also be a matter of laziness. Remember that Thursday morning.

For those of you who are going, we can only express EL GAUCHO's and AS Government's thank you. You care about this school, about "what's happening." Remember the responsibility involved. This one is up to us. If we act with the maturity this campus is capable of, we will have fulfilled our pledge: to not be put down and to win this thing.

SEE YOU IN SACRAMENTO....

Ed School to be Graduate School

UC Regents have authorized the Santa Barbara campus School of Education to become the Graduate School of Education.

The redesignation resulted from the enactment of the Fisher Bill, which requires that persons preparing for an elementary school credential undergo five years of higher education -- four years in a major field and the final year studying teaching methods and practices.

Since the 1965 legislation, UCSB's School of Education has been composed entirely of graduate students. Undergraduate courses within the division are only those which are prerequisites for graduate work and are not available through other divisions.

Two new advanced degrees were offered by the School this year, the Master of Education in counseling and guidance and the Master of Arts with teaching emphasis. The division also offers the Master of Arts degree in curriculum research.

The M.E. degree in counseling and guidance is a two-year program designed to prepare candidates for state certification as school counselors.

Budget cut to affect special programs

By MIKE LIFTON
Staff Writer

Greater than the question of whether to charge tuition at the University of California is the question of how the operation of the University will continue in the face of a 30 per cent cut in the operating budget.

The reduction in allocated funds will hit all departments of the University, but especially hard-hit will be the various special programs now in operation on campus.

At present there are a great number of programs designed for a wide variety of purposes; to provide deeper intellectual stimulation to superior students; to give students from various ethnic groups a chance to attend UCSB; and in general, to provide that which results in a more meaningful college career.

PROGRAMS DESCRIBED

These special programs include the Letters and Science Scholars Program, Education Abroad, the Education Opportunity Program, the Tutoring Project, Camp Conestoga, and Project Pakistan.

The Scholars Program is designed for a select group of superior students. It encourages closer contact between students, faculty and administrations by inviting professors and lecturers to a lounge for coffee hours.

Cutting the budget will only affect the program indirectly. According to one member, it is only one aspect of the College of Letters and Science.

MONEY SOURCE

Since money for the operation of the College comes from the Regents, the allocation of less money will have to be carefully planned. As a result, the future of the Program depends on how much priority is given to it in relation to other areas.

At the Education Abroad Office, Associate Director Paul Pitman expressed concern about the future Money for the EA program comes from a variety of sources, he pointed out. The participants contribute, as do corporations and individuals. However, most of the funds come from the state.

LONG TERM EFFECT

Pitman is more concerned about the long-term effect of a budget cut than about tuition, for he believes that a cut in the funds of the university will be more harmful to its goals.

Another program that will be affected by a budget cut is the Human Relations Commission, which includes the Education Opportunities Program, the Tutoring Project, Camp Conestoga, and other community aid projects.

Mrs. Muriel Engle, in charge of the EOP, stated that all of their operating funds come from the regents on a five-to-one matching basis.

IN DANGER

Explaining that the purpose of the program is "to change the cultural face of this campus," Mrs. Engle went on to say that a better cultural mixture of students would be endangered.

"The very existence of the program is threatened by the (Continued on p. 5, col. 1)

Leg Council postpones Convocation

By GARY HANAUER
Staff Writer

Legislative Council, meeting Jan. 31, made several startling changes in the proposed all-University convocation. Not only was the Convocation put off until next quarter, but also the possibility of an "all-University" vigil was shelved by AS leaders.

Under a resolution authored by Toni Grim and Paul Bellin, a "Convocation on Contemporary Problems Facing American Higher Education" was proposed and unanimously passed. Under terms of the resolution, called for by Hugo Rossiter and Charles Kaweck (two UCSB students who contacted Grim and Bellin), "nationally distinguished scholars and educators" would speak at lectures, symposia and seminars.

"We just don't have facilities for an all-University convocation," explains Bellin, "and because of the impossible timing we can't hold it until spring," he adds.

Bellin hopes that the vigil will be taken up "by students and graduate students." Leg Council refused to sponsor a vigil. At the same time, it seeks co-sponsorship of the Convocation with the Academic Senate.

SENATE CHANGED

The Senate was a topic in controversial "Leg Council Proposa #32," authored by Bellin and Brennan. Six non-voting positions for student members were "unanimously requested" by Leg Council for service on the Academic Senate.

In other Leg Council action, a long-awaited AS Parking Committee has been established. Serving as chairman will be AS Executive Vice-President Greg Stamos.

Academic Senate, a factor in co-sponsoring the Convocation and confirming the Leg Council resolution establishing 6 student non-voting committee memberships, has not announced a future meeting. Meanwhile, Leg Council members, according to Bellin, believe that "they will accept our suggestions promptly."

World News

VETERAN'S BENEFITS

(Washington)--The Senate has approved expanded benefits to veterans of the Vietnam war. The measure sent to the House calls for increases in such benefits as Veterans Hospital care, increased compensation to wounded vets and their families, and financial aid for car purchases by seriously disabled veterans.

GOLDBERG TO VIETNAM

(Washington)-- U.N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg announced in Washington that he will make a fact-finding trip to Vietnam in about 10 days. Goldberg talked with newsmen after a morning meeting with President Johnson. He stressed that he is not going on a peace mission like the one he made around the world in December, 1965, during Johnson's peace offensive. Goldberg said he expects his trip to be an extensive one, lasting three to four weeks and including about a dozen other countries in addition to South Vietnam.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN MOSCOW

(Moscow)--Nearly 500 Russians held a noisy but generally good-natured protest demonstration outside the Chinese embassy in Moscow yesterday. The demonstration reached a climax when Chinese diplomats tricked 15 excited Russian youths into entering the embassy. The Chinese photographed the incident, and it's feared they will use it as a pretext to send more Red Guards swarming into the besieged Soviet embassy in Peking.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN PEKING

(Peking)--The New China News Agency said mobs of Chinese demonstrated in front of the Soviet embassy in Peking late into the night, demanding that blood debts must be paid in blood. Soviet reports said the Chinese smashed their way into the embassy. The demonstration was but one of several mammoth demonstrations throughout China demanding the ouster of Soviet Party Boss Brezhnev and Premier Kosygin.

NO MILITARY IN OUTER SPACE

(Washington)-- President Johnson believes the newly-signed treaty on outer space will, quote, "enlarge the perimeters of peace by shrinking the areas of potential conflict." So today he urged the Senate to ratify the pact that would outlaw military bases on the moon or other planets.

HIJACKING PLANES IN THE MIDEAST

(Amman, Jordan)--Thirty-one Egyptian officers including one said to be an Intelligence Chief, hijacked an Egyptian civilian aircraft and flew to Jordan for political asylum. Official Jordanian sources identified the Intelligence Chief as the former head of the Egyptian Intelligence Service, but Egyptian officials said the man was merely an adventurer who ran a snackbar in Cairo.

WON'T HELP, WON'T HINDER

(Sacramento)--California Young Republicans will not make an official effort to defeat Republican Senator Thomas Kuckel, although the organization made it clear it considers him too liberal. The Young Republicans rejected a resolution for the organization to seek out and support a conservative opponent to face Kuchel in the Republican primary next year. The vote was 124 to 105, a majority but less than the two-thirds margin needed for approval.

WEATHER FORECAST FOR DAVIS AND THE GREATER SACRAMENTO AREA:

No rain. Temperature during the day will be between 58 and 62, low at night around 40. There will be a slight breeze between 12 and 18 mph. Overcast in the morning. There will be fog in the valley; therefore route 101 is recommended.

STAMP OUT YOUNG LOVE

It happens every day. A young man goes off to college, leaving his home town sweetheart with vows of eternal love, and then he finds that he has outgrown her. What, in such cases, is the honorable thing to do?

Well sir, you can do what Crunch Sigafos did.

When Crunch left his home in Cut and Shoot, Pa., to go off to a prominent midwestern university (Florida State) he said to his sweetheart, a wholesome country lass named Mildred Bovine, "My dear, though I am far away in college, I will love you always. I take a mighty oath I will never look at another girl. If I do, may my eyeballs parch and wither, may my viscera writhe like adders, may my ever-press slacks go baggy!"

Then he clutched Mildred to his bosom, flicked some hayseed from her hair, planted a final kiss upon her fragrant young skull, and went away, meaning with all his heart to be faithful.

But on the very first day of college he met a coed named Irmgard Champerty who was studded with culture like a ham with cloves. She knew verbatim the complete works of Franz Kafka, she sang solos in stereo, she wore a black leather jacket with an original Goya on the back.

Well sir, Crunch took one look and his jaw dropped and his nostrils pulsed like a bellows and his kneecaps turned to sorghum. Never had he beheld such sophistication, such intellect, such savoir faire. Not, mind you, that Crunch was a dolt. He was, to be sure, a country boy, but he had a head on his shoulders, believe you me! Take, for instance, his choice of razor blades. Crunch always shaved with Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, and if that doesn't show good sense, I am Rex the Wonder Horse. No other blade shaves you so comfortably so often. No other blade brings you such facial felicity, such epidermal elan. Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades take the travail out of shaving, scrap the scrape, negate the nick, peel the pull, oust the ouch. Furthermore, Personnas are available both in double-edge style and in injector style. If you're smart --and I'm sure you are, or how'd you get out of high school --you'll get a pack of Personnas before another sun has set.

But I digress. Crunch, as we have seen, was instantly smitten with Irmgard Champerty. All day he followed her around campus and listened to her talk about Franz Kafka and like that, and then he went back to his dormitory and found this letter from his home town sweetheart Mildred:

Dear Crunch:

Us kids had a keen time yesterday. We went down to the pond and caught some frogs. I caught the most of anybody. Then we hitched rides on trucks and did lots of nutsy stuff like that. Well, I must close now because I got to whitewash the fence.

Your friend,
Mildred

P.S.... I know how to ride backwards on my skateboard.

Well sir, Crunch thought about Mildred and then he thought about Irmgard and then a great sadness fell upon him. Suddenly he knew he had outgrown young, innocent Mildred; his heart now belonged to smart, sophisticated Irmgard.

Being above all things honorable, he returned forthwith to Cut and Shoot, Pa., and looked Mildred straight in the eye and said manlyly, "I do not love you any more. I love another. You can hit me in the stomach all your might if you want to."

"That's okay, hey," said Mildred amiably. "I don't love you neither. I found a new boy."

"What is his name?" asked Crunch.

"Franz Kafka," said Mildred.

"I hope you will be very happy," said Crunch and shook Mildred's hand and they have remained good friends to this day. In fact, Crunch and Irmgard often double-date with Franz and Mildred and have barrels of fun. Franz knows how to ride backwards on his skateboard one-legged.

General info on march

"The details of our March on February ninth are as follows: We will be leaving the various campuses from the University of California on the evening of February eight, on Wednesday. We will be arriving at Davis, which will be the central focal point of the group, at approximately seven o'clock on the morning of February ninth. We will be assembling and going on shuttle buses to the west part of Sacramento where we will assemble the March, going across the bridge into the mall where we will gather in the Capitol park area.

As far as the actual format goes, we have sent a letter to the governor's office asking him to meet with a group of eight to fifteen student leaders, both student body presidents and representatives of their campuses, for a half an hour or an hour on the day of February ninth to discuss these exact issues that we have set forth. The Governor in a public statement said that he would be most happy to speak with any students on these concerns and we are finding out if the Governor is sincere in his offer. As far as the actual format goes at the State Capitol, student leaders will present Governor Reagan with the proposals and the purposes behind our March. They will then go in the Capitol Building to discuss these matters with the Governor and other students will be getting appointments with their Senators and Assemblymen to discuss with their home Legislator the educational concerns that they have as one of his constituents. Third, we will have a program of speakers and many of the University Nobel Laureates have been invited to address the students that are assembled in Sacramento. Immediately following, we will break into small seminars where we will be discussing with faculty members and graduate students... crucial concern such as academic freedom, and its relation to political interference...

Michael Hamburger to speak on German verse

"Verse Translation" will be the subject of Michael Hamburger, specialist in German literature, poet and translator, when he lectures in Room 1179 Chem 117 of UCSB's Chemistry Building tomorrow at 4 p.m.

Hamburger currently holds the Purington lectureship at Mount Holyoke College. Among his many scholastic honors are two translator's prizes, from the Kulturkreis in Bundesverband der Deutschen Industrie in Cologne and the Akademie für Sprache und Dichtung in Darmstadt.

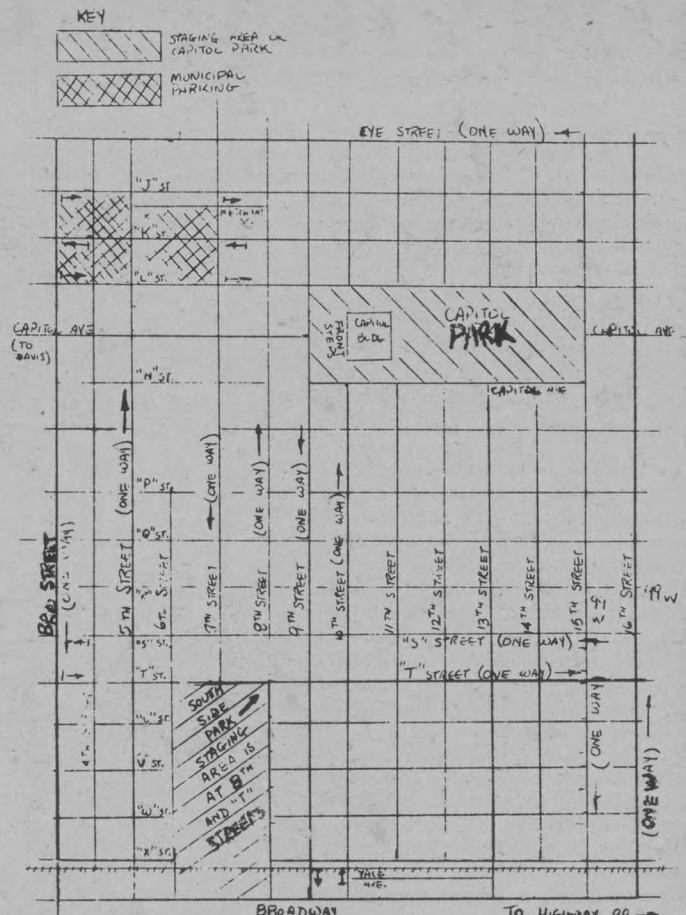

He also has received two fellowships from the Bollingen Foundation for research and translation, as well as editorial work on the manuscripts of Hugo von Hofmannsthal.

Hamburger is the author of some 20 books, including the recent "Holderlin: Poems and Fragments," "Hans Magnus Enzensberger," "Gunter Grass: Selected Poems," "In Flashlight," "From Prophecy to Exorcism" and "Modern German Poetry, 1910-1960."

His writings also include translations of Baudelaire, letters of Beethoven and verse of George Trakl. His essays and poems also have appeared in scholarly, literary and general periodicals in England, the U.S., Germany, Austria, Switzerland and elsewhere.

Hamburger was born in Germany and educated in Berlin, Edinburgh, London and Oxford.

Masses not asses

To the Editor:

Marty Hamilton, I am afraid, has, at an early age, developed that peculiar type of insensitive and narrow-minded philosophy which foretells her premature blossoming into one of those all too common matronly type middle-aged ladies.

Alexander Hamilton once said that "the masses are asses." It is most surprising to me that Hamilton was not a Californian. The middle-class, especially the California middle-class of which Miss Hamilton seems to be an outgrowth of, prides itself in its realistic outlook on life -- only this brand of realism is far from being pragmatic, conforming more to personal fears and suspicions than to the objective needs of the moment.

Miss Hamilton considers the march to be "blatant action" (Webster's -- "conspicuous or enforcing attention in a vulgar manner"). According to Miss Hamilton it would be realistic to send an "elite" of student representatives to Sacramento. A march is unrealistic-- "something might happen!"

Something did happen, Miss Hamilton, when Martin Luther King called the Selma march and others like it-- Bull Conner brought out the police dogs and cattle prods, causing so great a public outcry that the Civil Rights Bill was passed by the pressured Congress. Emotion is a good thing, for it sometimes brings out, far better than considered words, the true feelings of people.

Miss Hamilton, yours is not realism, it is cynicism ("paranoia strikes deep-- into your life it will creep"). Your lack of idealism means a lack of hope, and without hope there is only despair. Wouldn't it be wonderful if everyone trusted everybody else and viewed the future with hope instead of "realistic" fear and suspicion?

Miss Hamilton mentions a lack of interest on the part of the students who left Campbell Hall after the 7 to 6 vote approving the march. It seems to me that these students have a better perception of the operation of Leg Council than Miss Hamilton, for if Council passed such an "unrealistic" resolution initiating a march on Sacramento, then it would be ludicrous to assume that they wouldn't pass the more "realistic" proposals such as a Convocation and the other measures supplementary to the march. The majority of Leg Council sensed the immediacy of the moment and responded with a "grass-roots" march to counter the "grass-roots" mandate Reagan thinks he has received. More conservative proposals subsequent to the march vote would be rubber-stamped, Miss Hamilton, and these students knew it!

Feb 9 folly

To the Editor:

On February 9th what might be the greatest folly since the Children's Crusade--the UCSB March to Sacramento--is going to take place. This will show the people of California that some of their taxes are going to the support of these "students" who, during a school week, will neglect their studies to trot up to Sacramento to show the world with their quixotic March that there are wrongs to be righted.

Clark Kerr's long overdue firing was not politically motivated as some elements continue to rant. Reagan did not fire him, he cast only one of the fourteen votes that dismissed Kerr. And since most of the Regents were appointed by Governor Brown, I fail to see how politics enters into the picture. Kerr failed to maintain the order and control of the University, and although there were many things commendable during his reign, he became replaceable when he failed to implement the wishes of the majority of the California taxpayers. The inadequately controlled disturbances at Berkeley had a large part in Reagan's landslide victory in November.

As for tuition, it may not be a bad idea. If the students think they should run the University, I don't see why they shouldn't carry more of the load the taxpayers now carry.

Ronnie's ridicule

To the Editor:

I heard the Governor had a reaction to the Sacramento motorcade and March. No, it was not an over-reaction as serious as the various other measures he has imposed. Mr. Reagan remarked in effect, "those kids don't even like to walk across the campus." This shows the utter ridicule which Mr. Reagan holds for student demands in general. And he is speaking for an ignorant electorate to boot. The public knows very little about schools; but it does not hesitate to tell its kids from birth that college is the place for them...

Why in the devil are we at school anyway? It's basically because America wants us to be better-established than our elders. Meanwhile, walk across the sandbox with me, kids. (Because most of you will not walk to Sacramento.)

Silence please

To the Editor:

I would like to suggest... a SILENT MARCH. Not a quiet March but an absolutely silent one. Such a March would prevent the dangers of a group becoming a mob. And what an image we would convey! Twelve thousand responsible, sincere (and non-violent) students truly concerned about the fate of their educational careers and those of younger Californians. The values of such a

Losing votes

To the Editor:

For many students losing is more fun than winning. The cause is never quite so pure as when you've lost.

This is what Assemblyman Shoemaker had to say concerning the March to Sacramento.

He is opposed to it. And from the practical standpoint that it will only drive many legislators back into the Reagan camp.

There is strong opposition to Reagan in Sacramento right now. However, according to Shoemaker, five of his colleagues have already told him: "If those kids show up here, they lose my vote." Not an all together exemplary way for a state leader to conduct himself, but, nevertheless, a fact.

No matter how orderly, how well-intentioned, or how exemplary the March may conduct itself--it is still a mass, and a mass reflects little thought to those who hold the votes.

The REAL power is in votes. Votes are what is needed to keep the U.C. budget from being cut. 54 votes in the Assembly and 27 in the Senate. Reagan has proposed a cut but the final product comes out of the legislature.

A more effective alternative to the mass March (a one-shot event) would be a SUSTAINED series of alternating student delegations sent to Sacramento. Each vote in Sacramento has an individual behind it. Assemblymen will listen to facts intelligently presented by individual delegations.

It is not a question of sacrificing ideas for expediency. It is a question of saving the University. I feel the legislature can save it from both political intrusion and financial chaos. That's what it's there for--to balance the power of the Governor. Reagan made clear what he was going to do if elected. And now he's done it and the vanguard left to oppose him is the legislature.

It will be five or six weeks before the budget even gets to the floor, and it will be there for months according to Mr. Shoemaker. A sustained confrontation seems the most effective way to gain support for the University.

Admittedly, it would be long, hard, tedious and some of it dull--but it gets votes.

Sig Ep support

To the Editor:

The March to Sacramento is a significant and serious undertaking. It is a March different from any other movement created by a UC campus. Hopefully, it is a March led and followed by a different group of students-- responsible, intelligent, dedicated to a cause which we feel is of paramount importance.

We hope the students travelling to Sacramento will show the responsibility and intelligence that typifies UCSB as well as the entire University of California.

Dreams should be shattered

BY TIBOR MACHAN

It may very well be the case that recent events surrounding UC have managed to shatter a dream--and so much the better, for dreams, being distinct from reality, should be relegated to their proper place, that is, to that category of human experience which includes all of what deceives, misleads and manages to inspire people to unwarranted action. As such, dreams must be investigated carefully before they are used to encourage human action in the actual world.

The dream "that has fed the imagination of Californians for a century, the dream of a cost-free... education, is like so many other dreams, a construction of the human subconscious of events, goals, wishes, etc., which usually fail to observe the laws of reality. Hopefully the founding fathers did not have in mind the establishment of a society based on dreams, illusions and other kinds of deception. They, more or less, meant for everyone to be free and to be able to live and pursue his happiness in liberty. This meant nothing more than keeping men free from each other and from potential outside enemies. It did not mean the coercion of some people into the supporting of other people in such matters as education, welfare, housing, et al. A cost-free education is indeed a dream, one which subverts the principles of individual freedom, one which, in order to be realized, requires that some men decide for all men what is good for them (e.g., an education conceived as appropriate by those in power) and MAKE all of them conform to this conception.

Let us face the facts. If you agree that the citizenry may be subjugated to the dream of universal education by taxing everyone for the benefit of those who go to school (a "benefit" which some men consider greater than freedom), then you might as well accept that those who pay the "cost-free" education will want to control it. And you might also realize that the democratic method cuts both ways: if some can force others to pay for their education, some can also decide what this education will be and how it will be dispersed among those receiving it.

Perhaps a more careful examination of the concept of freedom will help to clear up confusion on this issue. Free education means: education for which other people pay at least part of the cost; free life means: a life which is not subjected to the whims and plans of others. The two kinds of "freedom" are logically exclusive of each other.

Finally, a closer reading of the events of the last few weeks would reveal that much of the reaction of Reagan's foes stems less from an evaluation of his role in UC's affairs than from an enmity (sic) against Reagan and what he represents in general. The hysteria on UC campuses resembles a form of sick nationalism ("My school right or wrong.") Perhaps UC has been living high. Perhaps its supporters have forgotten that it is paid for by money taken from the tax-payers and, in line with our noble anti-George III principle, it is, therefore, subjected to the wishes of the majority (though, admittedly, through the maze of governmental red-tape. The shattering of the dream that UC is an independently wealthy, politically untouchable state enterprise (sic) is long overdue. Our society is full of dreams like this (e.g., that the war on poverty can be kept out of politics, that state supported art is immune (sic) to politics, et al). Perhaps, just as the dream that benevolent dictators are a vindication of dictatorships the dream that the state-run enterprises can be kept free of the heavy hand of those in control will be shattered as a consequence of the recent awakening brought about by the Reagan administration.

 budget cut," she feels, since it is already operating on a shoestring.

CAMP CONESTOGA
 He believes that many of the present programs may have to be dropped, as well as future ones put on the shelf. However,

Camp Conestoga probably would continue "because they raise their own money."

Conestoga Chairman Jim Ashlock, agreed with this position, but added that they are presently negotiating for Regents matching funds, and getting them would be a question mark.

As to Project Pakistan, Director Roger Saunders believes that it will have no problems continuing, since it is mainly financed by the State Department.

When questioned, however, he agreed that AS funds might be reduced if there were fewer students because of the tuition aspect of Gov. Reagan's proposals.

The budget cut, as far as the University is concerned, is thus more significant to the future of these programs, which help to make the University what it is, than tuition.

League-Leading Pacific in Robertson Tomorrow

Ruggers Win, Then Tie Eagle Rock

By CHRIS FARROW
Assistant Sports Editor

Playing one of the top rugby clubs in Southern California, Rod Sears' battling Gauchos rug-gers came back from a 3-0 half time deficit to tie Eagle Rock, 3-3, in Sunday's clash behind Robertson Gym.

For the Gauchos, it was their second match in as many days. The UCSB fiery fifteen were coming off an impressive 26-3 thrashing of Loyola Saturday in Los Angeles.

Eagle Rock converted a penalty kick in the first half of Sunday's action to take a 3-0 lead, but the ever-improving Gauchos came back when Fullback Rod Sears, after about a fifty-yard kick-run combination, pitched back beautifully to Breakaway Stan Pareto at the five yard line and the Santa Barbarans knotted the score at 3-3.

The Gauchos failed to convert, though, when Andy Westfall's kick attempt hit the right crossbar.

UCSB dominated the offensive side of the half after that, although never quite able to put the tie-breaker across.

Closest to the goal line the Goleta men came following Pareto's three points was down to the three, where the ball was knocked into the end zone and an Eagle Rocker fell on it. The referee, in a highly questionable call, ruled that a Santa Barbaran knocked it in, and Eagle Rock was given the ball on the twenty-five.

Had it been decided that Eagle Rock batted the loose ball in, a scrum at the five yard line would have resulted--and an much better chance for a Gaucho try.

In Saturday's action against Loyola, six different Gauchos tallied tries as the UCSB ran up an 11-0 half time lead and never looked back en route to a 26-3 shellacking of Loyola's Lions.

Coach Rod Sears led all scorers with one try and three conversion for nine points, as the ruggers upped their Southern California Rugby Union mark to 2-1.

Tipoff at 8 for Tiger Tilt

By DAVE HYAMS
Sports Editor

Pacific's ferocious Tigers, the top squad in the WCAC for the past two seasons, brings its show into Robertson Gym tomorrow at 8 p.m. for perhaps the toughest tussle the home courts will see this year.

The Tigers have been in the top three in the west in Sports Illustrated's analyses since December, and for ample reason.

They've reeled off 18 wins in their last 19 conference games over the past pair of seasons; they're 14-3 overall this time through, averaging 79 points an outing compared to 68.5 for their opponents; and they're 5-0 in the league race.

FOUR RETURNING

A key reason for this is experience: four of last year's championship starters are back, including All-league choice Keith Swagerty, a bruising 6-7 center who emerged the second leading rebounder in the country in '66.

But the San Joaquin Delta Animal has slumped to a dismal fourth in the WCAC this year, averaging seven less rebounds than he did a season ago.

However, Coach Dick Edwards can draw on the power of returning forward Bob Krulish and guards Dave Fox and Bruce Parsons, and sophomore Bob Jones.

UCSB STRATEGY

GaUCHO Coach Ralph Barkey is looking at the Thursday battle philosophically. "It's always a real challenge to play a team like Pacific," he noted. "We'll have Leroy Jackson starting at center again, but Charlie Hess should see quite a bit of action. He always has played well against Swagerty."

Indeed he has, for in the Christmas Tournament the 6-9 GaUCHO tallied his personal high of 16 against the Tigers, and in the 1966 finale he outplayed the eventual WCAC Most Valuable Player at both ends of the court.

"Our big problem will be stopping Fox," Barkey continued. "He shoots with either hand and is very, very quick." It was Fox who drove through the entire Pepperdine team and flipped in a 12-foot lefthanded jumper at the buzzer to maintain UOP's undefeated mark Saturday in Los Angeles.

V-Ball Exhibit to Bring in Best

Volleyball's power - elite comes to Santa Barbara Saturday night when the Westside Jewish Community Center of Los Angeles clashes with the Santa Barbara Volleyball Club in an exhibition match set for 8 p.m. at the San Marcos High School gymnasium.

The match is an actual prelude to the special exhibition between the two clubs which is set for Friday, March 3 in Robertson Gym to officially launch UCSB's 1967 campaign.

GaUCHO coach Dennis Berg, who also plays for the S.B. Volleyball Club, said that Saturday night's feature, "will be volleyball at its best with two of the nation's top three teams competing."

The Westside club will be represented by such Olympians as Bill Griebenow and Mike O'Hara while the S.B.V.C. has on its roster such luminaries as Bill Clemo, Rich Riffero and Berg, former Olympic Club stars, along with Bill Anderson, UCSB ace.

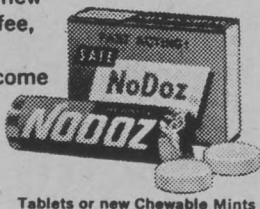

The Gauchos open their regular season with the UCSB Collegiate Tourney set for March 25 at 9 a.m. in Robertson Gym. "We're looking forward to a great year," Berg said, "and I've been pleased with the practice sessions. Our players are working out hard and eagerly await the start of the new season."

Berg is in his first year as head coach of the sport which is in its second year of inter-collegiate competition.

Minaret Grabs Towers' Lead

Intramural basketball keeps rolling along and soccer has just begun, highlighting the winter schedule.

In Francisco Torres cage activity, Minaret held off London, 47-40, to take back undisputed hold of first place with a 3-0 record, half a game ahead of the now-beaten Londoners (3-1) and Campanile, 2-0.

Minaret, the fifth floor, fell behind by three at the quarter break, but took a five-point lead midway in the second period and maintained it throughout for their victory.

rolling for the locals when he fell on a loose ball in the Gauchos end zone for a try and Westfall converted for a 5-0 advantage.

Sears, via a 40-yard run, and Wing Rudy Carvajal, by way of a 15-yard burst, finished out Gaucho first-half scoring.

Loyola opened scoring in the second stanza with their only try of the hot afternoon, narrowing the score to 11-3, but Wing Jeff Alexander, Lock John Keever, and Prop Bruce Dunlop added Santa Barbara tries to more than ice the contest.

Coach Sears was more than satisfied with the weekend's outcome and the rugby club's overall season improvement.

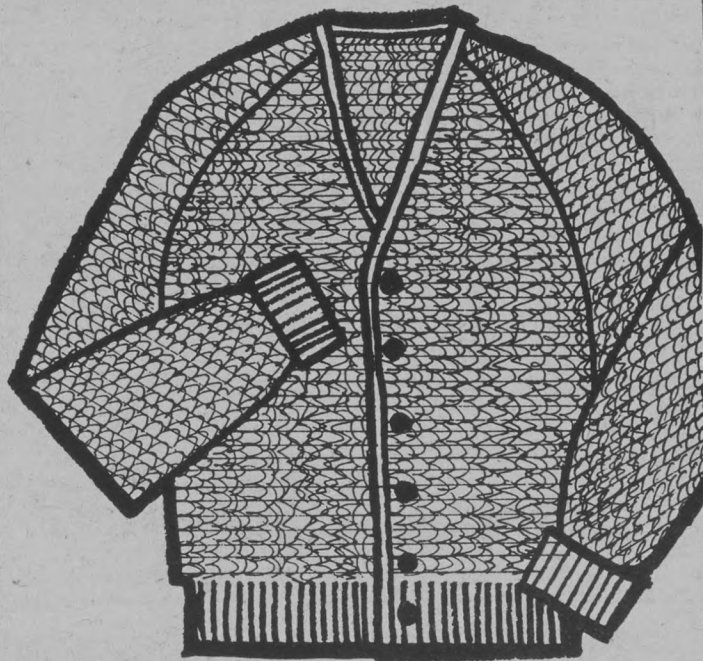

"They (the team) has shown a marked improvement so far. We learned a lot from Auckland, and the men are picking up what the game really means. They play 100%."

Gauche ruggers face their toughest SCRUI test this weekend when Occidental, 3-1 in league play, comes in for a Saturday match.

The March itself will be covered from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. From noon to 2 p.m., interviews will be obtained from senators and assemblymen. Governor Reagan's press conference will also be aired. KCSB goes on the air at 6:30 a.m., and stays on until 1 a.m. Friday morning.

HAVE A HAPPY MARCH

Gov. 'played' as activist

When the President and the Board of Trustees proceeded with the proposed plans, the students prepared a petition signed by 143 (then more than one half of the student body) protesting the change and requesting the resignation of the President of the College, who was apparently the originator of the proposed plan.

"The new president of Eureka tripped over the panic button and announced a plan for saving the college," recalled Reagan in a book about himself entitled "Where's the Rest of Me?" "He favored a plan which called for such a drastic cutback academically that many juniors and seniors would have been cut off without the courses needed for graduation in their chosen majors."

"Needless to say," he adds, "the faculty would have lost its high academic rating."

"Looking back," continues Reagan, "I realize now that he sincerely felt his course was proper. However, he had persuaded the Board of Trustees to go along without any thought of consulting students or faculty. They, knowing this was equivalent to cutting out the heart of the college, responded with a roar of fury. That was how I came to participate in my first strike."

An agreement was finally reached when students withdrew their petition and the President resigned.

The "very active" part of Ronald Reagan in the successful strike was as speech-maker. Reagan, then a freshman, was not the leader of the strike, stresses Adams. He was chosen to speak because they wished a lower classman to make the proposal, and very probably for his speaking abilities.

Reagan apparently took little interest in campus politics afterward. He showed a special interest in athletics and drama. He played football during his school years and won special mention in national competition for his character portrayal. He graduated in 1933 with a bachelor of arts degree in economics and sociology.

Poli sci profs talk in Berkeley

Three professors of political science at UCSB have been invited by the United States government to lecture at the Executive Seminar Center in Berkeley on the role of career administrators in carrying out public policy.

They are Dr. William Ebenstein, who spoke Monday on "Political Thought and Public Policy"; Dr. Henry A. Turner, to speak tomorrow on "The President's Powers"; and Dr. Dean E. Mann, to speak Monday on "Politics and Administration: The Assistant Secretaries."

Sponsored by the U.S. Civil Service Commission's Office of Career Development, the seminar is designed to give an expected 35 to 40 federal career officers an understanding of "the environment in which policy is formed and the processes and forces which bear on program development and administration."

Ebenstein discussed attitudes toward government, the role of the state in society, and the problems of maintaining the responsibility of political power.

The political and legal powers of the President in the formulation and administration of public policy will be dealt with by Turner. He will emphasize the political factors that influence the President's stance on public policy and the powers he has to maintain control over his subordinates.

Mann will deal with that group of important political executives who are appointed by the President "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."
