College Must Change Says Dr. Meiklejohn

Would Abolish Present Lecture System

That the college of tomorrow will be similar to an intellectual community in which both pupils and teachers are studying the same thing is the belief expressed by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn in his address on "The College of Tomorrow," given Monday evening at Recreation Center.

When asked when the college of tomorrow would come, Dr. Meiklejohn affirmed "Tomorrow will come for the college when it comes for America. It will come when a change comes in America" since the college of today is a product of conditions.

That America has in the past been concerned in quantitative external growth is reflected in the college of today which has as its primary motive this external growth.

Another condition affecting the college of today in an unfavorable manner is the general lack of understanding among Americans which makes teaching difficult. By way of illustration he indicated the comparative ease with which football can be taught due to the fact that "Americans can understand football."

"But what happens when an American college student studies philosophy?", he continued. "Why, it is generally understood that he has lost his religion. Americans don't understand philosophy."

Dr. Meiklejohn declared that the college of tomorrow would come only after America had ceased to be immature and had found something to do large enough to instill all Americans with the responsibility of a tremendous task.

Believing that one of the changes which will come to the college will result in students and teachers studying the same thing, Dr.

FORMER GRADUATE WILL GIVE LINCOLN PROGRAM

Miss Nona Calhoun, a dramatic soprano, and a graduate of the Manual Arts department of this college of 1912 will give a Lincoln program in general assembly, the twelfth of February.

During the past year, Miss Calhoun has been on a concert tour of the United States, and before that, taught in the music department of the Salinas High School and Junior College.

ART INSTRUCTOR WOLF RETURNS TO DUTIES

Mr. Hamilton Wolf returned to College last week to resume his duties as head of the Art Department after a trip around the world. Mr. Wolf was away from Santa Barbara eleven months. On his trip he made sketches of the island and the people who presented him with a collection of their native art.

Mr. Wolf sailed from the U. S. on February 22 last year for the Tahiti. He stayed three months in the South Sea Islands and while there he learned to speak Tahitian and eat native food, consisting of fish, sea centipedes, bread and fruit.

After leaving Tahiti he visited New Zealand and then Australia. The next country on the map around was India crossing the Red Sea to Port Said.

After stops at these different ports he went to Europe. While there he traveled about seeing and studying the different countries, England, France, Belgium, Holland and Italy. From Sicily he crossed to northern Africa and returned to the continent.

He picked up a ship in the Bordeaux for the West Indians, South America, and Panama. He returned to Santa Barbara by way of New Orleans last week, glad to be back and eager to begin work.

WOMEN ASSEMBLE TUESDAY MORNING

At the women's assembly last Tuesday, Dean Pyle brought up the subject of courtesy and behavior in assembly. She also brought up the laxness of having parties on week nights.

Dean Pyle gave a very interesting talk on education based on quotations from Francis Bacon.

She told of the need of education for delight in overcoming hardships and delight in competing with ourselves as well as with others, delight through quietude and repose. With study as an ornament, education inspires us to strive to acquire the graces and beauties of life. Education helps to give us good judgment. Kipling said, "Knowledge gives us control of life as a fish controls the water he swims in."

NEW SUBJECT ADDED TO CURRICULUM

A new subject called the Study of Educational Periodicals will be given next semester according to President Phelps who plans to have charge of the class if a group

ARE YOU RECEIVING AN EDUCATION?

"What is my education doing for me?"

That is a question which every student should ask himself and answer in an honest manner. A mental estimate of the value of your own education is extremely valuable and somewhat enlightening.

We are told that education increases our earning power, gives us a touch of culture, but unless it develops in people a body of knowledge enabling them to face the large problems of life in an intelligent manner, education has failed. Education should develop tolerance, which is so essential to the progress of the world. It should create an appreciation of race and the ability to judge rationally. Above all education should teach us to think—and to think independently.

Those who can think for themselves are not susceptible to mob spirit, they are not blindly following the crowd. These rare independent thinkers are moved by reason not by propaganda; they, and they only, have received an education. They have attained the power to think straight, to express their convictions and to uphold them.

EXCHANGES

The University of Southern California defeated Oxford University of England in a debate on the question, "Resolved, That this house is opposed to prohibition." Oxford men upheld the affirmative side of the question.

Six A. W. S. members ushered at Dr. Meiklejohn's lecture last Monday night. They were Ruth Garner, Ester Janssens, Helen Erickson, Jean Christy, Clara Ziegler and Edwina Kenney.

Harold Furman, who has been very ill for the past two weeks, as a result of injuries he received playing basketball, is slowly recovering.

Miss Sophia Travis, former instructor of Millinery in the College, has recently opened the Travis School of Millinery and Dress-making in Los Angeles.

Many members of the faculty attended the dance and reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Peabody at the Montecito Country Club on Friday, January 23.

Miss Severy attended a formal fraternity dance given in Los Angeles last Friday evening.

ALUMNI

Word has come from Miss Jennie Beatie, former student of the College, that she has sufficiently improved after her accident at Christmas time to continue her school work in the Hawaiian Islands during the ensuing school year.

Mrs. H. E. Wilson, graduate of Institutional Management here is now buyer and has charge of all the food at the dormitories of the University of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

STERIOPTICAN LECTURE GIVEN TUESDAY

Mr. C. W. Kay, a representative from the Cunard steamship company, gave a very interesting stereoptican lecture last Tuesday afternoon. He showed slides of the office building in New York and also some very interesting pictures of ancient and modern ships, among them being one of the first sail boats; the Britania, the first steam boat to successfully cross the Atlantic; the Russia, the first iron boat made; the Maritania the fastest liner in the world.

Other slides showed the wonderful equipment on the ships. The accommodations equal those of a modern hotel with well equipped lounges, smoking rooms, plate rooms, suites, ball rooms, gymnasium, and swimming tanks. There are telegraph offices, places to exchange American money for foreign money, and newspapers are printed daily.

Following the lecture there was a Cunard S. S. Feature Picture made at sea, on the Berengaria, the third largest liner in the world.

ORIGINAL WORK FEATURED IN ELEMENTARY PROGRAM

Meiklejohn pointed out that the present lecture system will be substituted by a method of tutorial instruction. In commenting on the present lecture system of instruction, he said, "We are going to stop trying to instruct American youth, and instead we will try to induce them to learn for themselves, to stand on their own legs. * * * We have, I think, brought our students into contact with third-rate minds, instead of first and second-class minds. The outstanding characteristic of American college graduates is that they don't read books.

"The great intellectual venture of the next generation will be the period of trying to put together again the picture of the world—to understand the world.

"The college of tomorrow will be in charge of the faculty. * * * The college has too much to do with the business now. The teacher is too much under the control of people who don't know what he is trying to do or how he is trying to do it."

NEW NATIONAL SPORT
INAUGURATED BY PAR-LOR ATHLETES

A new sport has been invented by several of the men of the campus, and promises to become as much the rage as did "Pa Jongg" and the Cross-Word Puzzles. The indoor game has been christened by its originators as "Tiddle-de-Wink Golf," and is played as follows: First, a fairly large room must be secured, one in which sand and water would do little or no damage. Then 18 tiddle-de-wink cups are obtained and arranged in an 18 hole course, at intervals of not less than two nor more than four feet. There shall be two sand banks in the course, at the seventh and thirteenth holes, and two water hazards, (pans full of water, placed in the "fairway"). These hazards shall be placed between the second and third, and tenth and eleventh holes.

After making a hole, the player is allowed to "tee up" six inches from the "green," and so the game continues. Substitution of another "ball" for one lost under the couch, "the rough," or in the "lakes" shall count as two strokes. A player who succeeds in covering the "ball" of his opponent shall take the turn of the covered player, while the stroke shall be put on the "card" of the "golfer" who loses his stroke.

It is reported that this sport will come up before the Block 'S' Society for approval for a college letter, should inter-collegiate competition develop. There are two golf courses already constructed, and others should soon be begun, as the craze spreads.

COLLEGE QUINTET
OUTPLAYS LOYOLA

Roadrunners Score 30-10

The local quintet carried away the heavier end of a 30 to 10 score in the basketball clash with Loyola College last Saturday evening in the local gym by dint of hard fighting. The Roadrunners started scoring from the start and cinched the game in the first half by grabbing a lead of 14 points.

Morehead, playing left forward for Minetti who was injured in practice, entertained the spectators by piling up 12 points for the college. Williams followed him up with ten points. Sesrovitch proved himself to be the backbone of the visiting squad by ringing up seven points, two field goals and three free throws.

Mobley and Linder played an excellent guarding game for the Roadrunners, leaving no Lion marksman open long enough for a comfortable shot. Loyola made six of its ten points by free throws in the last half; Santa Barbara shot four.

Roadrunner Quintet Will Clash With Cal Poly In Fast Game Tonight

The Roadrunners' next basketball adversary will be Cal Poly, an unbeaten team, whom they will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the local gym. Following this encounter the Mission Athletic Club will battle the California Tire Co.'s team, formerly called the American Legion team, in their initial contest for cage supremacy. Both teams have improved considerably since the college saw them last; so the game should be well worth seeing.

The first game of the evening probably will not be so much of a walk-away as many local fans would believe. Truly, the Roadrunners have emerged triumphant from Redlands and Loyola, but Cal Poly is a team from another direction. Poly has recently defeated Santa Maria Junior College twice, 33 to 14 two weeks ago and 22 to 9 last Saturday. Considering the improved condition of this year's Santa Maria Junior College team due to the recent addition to it of several phenomenal players, the scores imply more about the ability of the Cal Poly quintet than it would seem.

The San Luis team's strong feature is its air tight defense as well as the dependable basket shooting of White and Lumley, Poly center and right forward.

Tonight's contest will be enlivened with vengeance as an incentive. The Roadrunners will remember their football defeat last fall and the northern squad will not forget its 44-10 defeat at the hands of the local casaba artists last year. It promises to be an exciting game.
