Easter

By Reverend Leon C. Kirke

A SHORT three months ago we were going to see the Babe in the manger, to sing with the shepherds and worship with the wise men. On Good Friday we watched by the cross, until His lifeless form was lifted from the cross and laid in the grave. Saturday is the world’s dark day. The best that the human race has ever produced lies silent in the grave. Is that the final end of all good? Does the cross and the eternally silent grave mean all, then? Is that the answer to these questions? The resurrection is not only a glorious fact, but a sure guarantee of the ultimate triumph of Jesus in the justice, the reasonableness, the goodness of the moral universe.

BOND ELECTION EDITORIAL

entirely unsatisfactory from a social and hygienic point of view. Cleanliness is difficult, if not impossible, to maintain in the tenements now used for the purpose.

The department concludes its statement with this sum­mary:

"To remedy the faults to which we have called your attention after year after year we must undoubtedly expend a considerable sum of money which will amount to a sum of money which is in the true sense of the fact that it would only be temporarily solve the problem."

2.—Will a new Aliso school help Carpinteria Valley?

It will provide, for many years, the solution to a problem that is annually growing more acute: "How will we care for our foreign population? The new school will provide Old Town with a recreation center and playground of its own, thus leaving Carpinteria’s playgrounds, its beaches to you and your children.

It will bring a payroll of several thousand dollars of Fed­eral money into the valley, and provide work for many local laborers and craftsmen who are now unemployed.

Removal of the present Aliso school will increase adjacent property values and improve the general appearance of Car­pinteria’s show window—the Coast Highway.

It will replace a building that is now a disgrace to the school district with an edifice that is modern and the community might well be proud of and at a cost to local taxpayers that might be interpreted as a money-saving proposition.

It will go far towards encouraging residents of Old Town to improve and beautify their own homes and gardens.

3.—Just how much is all this going to cost Carpinteria taxpayers?

The assessed valuation of this district is approximately $3,250,000. The bond issue is for $10,000, making an increase of 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation. For example, if you own a pieoe of property worth $3,000, the assessed valuation of which is $3,000, it is assessed at from one-third to two-thirds of its actual value, say $1,000. At that rate the new Aliso school will cost you a least $30 per $100 assessed valuation. If, on the other hand, the bonds are not passed, approximately $5,000 worth of property in the tax rate of slightly less than 4 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Figure it out for yourself. The cost to you if the bonds fail the taxpayer with $3,000 property will be taxed an additional 40 cents this year, and for the ten-year period equal to the bond issue, repairs will cost you at least 40 cents per $100 assessed value, say $1,000. At that rate the new Aliso building and build an additional room to house the pupils. This will have to be raised by direct taxation, not by the taxpayers who hold the tax, but by the taxpayers who hold the tax, and the taxpayers who hold the tax with $3,000 worth of property will be taxed an additional $2.20 this year, instead of 40 cents.

An that isn’t all. Annual repairs on the old Aliso building requires a minimum of $5,000 per year.

Figure it out for yourself. The cost to you if the bonds cannot be a total of $4,000 in increased taxes, spread over a ten-year period. If the bonds fail, you taxes will jump approximately $3,200 this year, and for the ten-year period equal to the bond issue, repairs will cost you at least 40 cents per $100 assessed value, say $1,000. At that rate the new Aliso school will cost you a least $30 per $100 assessed valuation. If, on the other hand, the bonds are not passed, approximately $5,000 worth of property in the tax rate of slightly less than 4 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

In other words, a "yes" vote means an increase, of 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation. For example, if you own a pieoe of property worth $3,000, the assessed valuation of which is $3,000, it is assessed at from one-third to two-thirds of its actual value, say $1,000. At that rate the new Aliso school will cost you a least $30 per $100 assessed valuation. If, on the other hand, the bonds are not passed, approximately $5,000 worth of property in the tax rate of slightly less than 4 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

An "no" vote means a tax increase of $2.20 this year and 40 cents per $100 assessed value, say $1,000, per year to balance up a rapidly deteriorating and inadequately equipped school. This means an additional 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation. VOTE YES ON THE BONDS TODAY!
Ask yourself these questions:

"Will it benefit myself, my children and my community?" -- YES!

"Will it save me money as a taxpayer?" -- YES!

"Is the project endorsed by the valley's more substantial citizens -- the ones who pay the major part of the taxes in this district?" -- YES!
