Now let's watch them dish it out.

A "boom" in education was noted this week as mounting enrollment returns, pouring in from American colleges and universities, swelled post-depression matriculation digits to a nation-wide breaking point.

With a total enrollment jump of about seven per cent over last year's national figure, this steady decline in registration activity, common to recent "tight" years,has been abruptly checked in American schools for a week or longer for sufficient by the first matriculation increase since pre-depresion days.

Art-Music-Drama

When Max Reinhardt first saw the Hollywood Bowl, he exclaimed, "Magnificent!" Last week 20,000 people a night exclaimed the same thing about "Midsummer Night's Dream," for they knew the Bowl was magnificent but they had never seen it shown off quite like Reinhardt did.

Nothing was spared to make use of every possibility in the bowl layout. The huge shell was moved to make space for the stage which extended up the side of the mountain in the back, even to the top. Having no forest, Reinhardt moved one in and set it down where it was needed. In order to fill the surrounding hills with the fairy element, he covered them with hundreds of blinking lights. The spectacular wedding procession began at the top of the mountain and wound its torch lit way down to the stage.

The players, however, were not outdone by these flashes of staging. They held their own with vigorous, enthusiastic characterization that kept the audience amused most of the evening. Each time he appeared Puck received spontaneous approval for his capricious scampers and ghoulish laughter. His frolicsome dialogue with the graceful and attractive Titania in the second act was priceless. Hermia, with her fetchingly lovely voice, held the stage as well as she held the attentions of amorous Lysander and fervent Demetrius. Helena took her turn, also. Oberon will be remembered for his treacherous purple cloak, Theseus and Hippolyta for their wedding, and Bottom, just forhis all-important self.

The two dance fantasies done by the fairies, first when they came on the scene through the mist, and second during the nocturne attained highly artistic effects. They were ethereal, intangible, impressionistic.

That Reinhardt, the world's famous producer of festivals, should take possession of the Hollywood Bowl was a piece of fortune for Southern California folk. We liked his show!

No doubt more of you saw Grace Moore last week score in the musical picture "One Night of Love." We won't say the show was anything In all things El Gaucho will be loyal to the more than Grace singing, but that was plenty -in fact, enough for any show. Any more would have left us limp. Tulio Carminati bothered us with his insinuating glances just as much as Miss Moore did with her C's. And who wouldn't like to see the young lady per-form in a complete production of "Madame Butterfly"?

> Dean William Ashworth, head of the college English department, was the outstanding figure in the play "And So to Bed" which the Community Arts is presenting at the Lobero theatre this week.

The play, written by J. B. Fagan, is an imaginary incident in the life of Samual Pepys, that most ingenious of Englishmen, sober and serious at work, yet utterly frivolous and fickle in recreation, which for him was wine, women and song. Pepys was a paradox, best understood, to his sorrow, by his wife. His diary, one of the charming documents of sevententh century literature, contains entries of his social activities, each day being ended by the phrase, 'and so to bed."

The action of the play begins where Pepys diary leaves off. The incident concerns Pepys' affair with Madame Knight, one of King Charles II's mistresses. Dramatic irony is outstanding in the second act in which Pepys, and King Charles, Madame Knight and Mrs. Pepys all congregate in Madame Knight's apartment, Samuel in the marriage chest and King Charles behind the curtain.

Dean Ashworth, in green satin and velvet, made an excellent Charles. A boyant happy rascal, King Charles enjoyed life. He had a keen sense of the ridiculous and of his own perogatives. All these qualities are well shown in Mr. Ashworth's portrayal.

Other important characters were those of Samuel Pepys, played by Frank Cane; Mrs. Pepys, played by Anita Deardorf; Madame Knight, played by Gladys Vilsack; and Peltham Humphrey, played by Jack Lane.

The lines of the play were subtle and insouciant. The first act drags at the beginning, depending on the scene itself rather than action for interest. The sets, typifying seventeenth century England, were well-constructed and artistic.

Paul Whitney directed the play.

Whether or not Los Gauchos of the Argentine wear green and white, Los Gauchos of Santa Barbara State were a snappy looking bunch of boys in their new uniforms Friday night.

Not only were they snappy looking, but they were snappy! It was a real heart-felt pleasure to see a State team romp onto the field as if they really wanted to win! . . .

The insertion of Tom Mahoney, fiery little red-headed quarterback, into the game the other night put more life into the green-clad Gau-chos than if they had fallen into the well-known cactus patch. "Red" is a smart field general and is full of what it takes.

With the opening of the southern conference Friday night, State supporters are for the first time in several years actually feeling the optimism which they have merely used as a defense in the past. Pomona will have a formidable aggregation on the field this Friday night, but with the showing of our own eleven, Los Gauchos should have the situation well in hand this week-end.

Those of you who traveled down to Oxnard last Saturday will agree. that State's Gaucho-ettes have a real football machine. "Red" Yar-nell, former Santa Maria high school star, was one of the real finds of the game. "Red" had only practiced a few times with the yearlings, but he waved his hips at those boys from Oxnard like a real veteran.

"Flash" Yeager, who made both of the babe's tallies at Oxnard, proved himself to be a hard hitting half who is liable to break away at any time. The Monson brothers playing quarter and full went through the line like they really enjoyed bowling the opposition over. Much is to be heard from the frosh this year, and you will get your first chance to see them in action when they meet Los Priestos C.C.C. camp in a preliminary game Friday night.

Undoubtedly the worst feature of the game last Friday night was the Stockel, two of last year's regulars, rooting section. The yells were rather feeble as far as noise goes. defense for substantial gains. The If that is the kind of support we are going to give our new coach Joe Robinson, halfback and fulland our team we can hardly expect back respectively, was shown in the them to really produce. Let's get running ability of both and the behind our team and give them all we've got, vocally!

Pigskinners Lose First Game 6-0

In making their debut for the 1934 season, the flashy green and white Gauchos displayed the most powerful eleven that the Santa Barbara State college has had in many a year. Although they lost the game 6-0 to the Santa Barbara Athletic club last Friday night in Pershing park, the score does not by far tell the true story.

Time and again the Gaucho pigskinners drove down into scoring territory only to lose the ball as the Athletic club's defense stiffened or on some difficulty due 'to their raggedness of play. Many rough spots must still be polished off before the squad can claim top form. The only score of the game came as the result of a fumbled lateral pass on a State triple reverse in the latter part of the second quarter when Larry Lane, club wingman intercepted the ball and ran nearly 60 yards to a touchdown. The play happened so suddenly that the thrilled crowd was held spellbound.

A comparison of statistics proves that in losing the game the Gauchos were still the more powerful of the STUDENTS PLAN two teams, for they gained 225 yards from scrimmage as compared to the club's 95 yards; also State garnered eleven first downs to the clubmen's three. Providing many thrills for the spectators which crowded the bleachers, "Doc" Kelliher and Ralph romped into the club's secondary experience of Norman Martin and punting of the former and the passing of the latter. Both men are compulsory. former Bakersfield stars.
