Mrs. L. Price Visits School

In order to observe integrated activities in other schools, Mrs. Laura S. Price, head of the state college elementary department, last Monday visited the Ventura elementary schools...

Mrs. Price was conducted on this tour by Mr. and Mrs. Spence. Mr. Spence was formerly connected with the junior high schools in Ventura but he is now acting in the capacity of elementary supervisor.

As an example of the type of integrated activities now being worked out, Mrs. Price observed a class in the fourth grade which was studying life in Switzerland. A short panel discussion was held by the children after which they modeled different scenes in clay.

Thursday Mrs. Price has planned to spend two days in Los Angeles studying the integrated system as it is used there.

A program which will be difficult to produce but pleasing to hear, will be offered by the college musicians on Tuesday evening, March 6, Henry Eichheim, symphony leader...

The most ambitious undertaking on the program will be Brahms' masterpiece, Symphony No. 1 in C major.

Brahms' Work

Brahms approached the task of writing for the symphony orchestra with great seriousness, and with a consciousness of the importance of the work, the dignity of it, and the exactions which it makes of the composer.

Symphony No. 1

In this piece, the introductions to the first movement reveals the melody unfolding like the drawing of a huge and magnificent curtain, rich with gold and ornament...

Portentous beatings of tympani, measured and powerful and determined, support strings and woodwinds moving in contrary and circuitous paths toward a single vehement and final thrust as the climax of the introduction is attached.

Tone Color Intense

Now the expectancy, and the marvelously developed emotional stringency of the introduction are justified, for the movement leaps into flaming vitality and clashing dramatic contrasts from its very opening note.

Rhythmic Sense

Toward the end of the movement there is a wonderful instance of Brahms' amazing rhythmic sense, and his fondness for odd and conflicting internal impulses in his music.

Pansies Versus Lillies

Both Quintets Are Optimistic Over Casaba Outcome

Opinions Conflict

Individual Players Confident That They Will Win

We yam what we yam but that varsity versus junior varsity battle which is to be staged in the armory at 7:30 tonight has set our blood "bilin" and "dander" has been riled plenty.

Here is what some of them said and also what some of them thought but didn't say about the coming battle.

First off we asked "String Bean" Johnson, center for the varsity. He acted sort of scared and said he didn't know, but when we saw Sid De Rosa, center for the junior varsity he thought, "We'll sure put the skids under that bunch of lillies."

Buppy "Flat Head" Moore, forward for "Flaming Youths" appeared quite confident and secretly confessed that he thought Hoffar and Voorhees were push overs but when we got around to asking them what the score would be, we could get no response.

Dia del Playa Gives Local College Fame

That Santa Barbara State receives wide publicity, was shown by a letter received recently by Mrs. Jane Miller Abraham, in which was included a photograph clipping of one of the stunts at the Dia del Playa.

The letter was from Jacob Garber of Robesonia, Pennsylvania, a graduate of State in '26. Mr. Garber is now teaching in Pennsylvania, but has been thinking of returning in the summer to Santa Barbara to attend the summer session.

Former Summer Grad Dies of Pneumonia

Miss Margaret E. Spring, who took graduate work at State college during the 1933 and 1934 summer sessions, died on February 13 at a local hospital following a brief illness of pneumonia.

While attending State college Miss Spring was prominent in all college activities and in conjunction with her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Spring Pearlman, founded the Horseback Riding Club.

Science Instructor Writes New Bulletin

Harrington "Pop" Wells, professor of science, is the author of a bulletin "Pets and Their Care," one of a series entitled "Science Guide for Elementary Schools," which is being published by the state department of education.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Wells is giving a series of nine lectures on biology at the Santa Barbara Evening high school. No college credit is offered, and the talks are non-technical. College students are urged to attend this lecture.

CLIFF LEEDY

Clifford Leedy, State college music instructor, who founded the all-Southern California Symphony concert five years ago, will be on hand this year to supervise orchestral activities.

Tri-Counties Student Heads Convene Here

Acting as host Santa Barbara State college entertained the student body presidents of the surrounding high schools and junior colleges last Friday and Saturday. This meeting was the first to be held by the Tri-Counties High School Presidents' Association which was originated by Marcus Cravens, former student body president of the state college and carried on by Bud Lambourne, present head of the student body.

The visitors were the guest of Bud Lambourne on Friday at a luncheon which was held in Ebbets hall. Harvey J. Holt, principal of the local high school addressed the group and outlined some of the benefits to be gained from the meetings. He also emphasized the educational courses which are being offered at the state college, saying that students from the high schools represented should give our institution serious consideration when selecting their colleges.

For the purpose of discussing the senior announcements and cards, as well as the senior gift to the student body, the senior class will hold their regular monthly breakfast in Ebbets hall next Friday morning, March 1 at 7 a. m. Mrs. Laura Specht Price, head of the elementary education department, will speak on "How to Apply for a Job."

Verhoveen is in charge of the affair.

Symphony

Five years ago a project bearing the name of Intercollegiate Symphony was inaugurated at the State college under the leadership of Clifford Leedy and Wesley Dickensen, chairman of student activities.

The purpose of the organization was to create an interest in fine music and to give talented students an opportunity to get together and learn more about the compositions written by the masters.

Invitations were extended to all universities, colleges and junior colleges in the southland to select their best musicians and to send them to Santa Barbara to participate in the two day session preceding the concert. In this manner the first college symphony was set on its way.

Today the all College Symphony orchestra is recognized as one of the leading factors in furthering music appreciation and is composed of the finest musicians from all the colleges in California.

Henry Eichheim, composer and conductor, still leads the orchestra, which consists of over 95 student musicians, and much of the success of the symphony is due to his untiring efforts and leadership.

International Relations Club

A fine piece of work was done last fall by members and sponsors of the International Relations club when they were host to a convention attended by delegates from many Southern California colleges.

A deficit was incurred, however, during the conclave, and the club is presenting a motion picture in the auditorium next Wednesday, morning and evening, to defray this bill.

They have chosen a picture with popular appeal and one which is of interest to the majority of students, so that while they are doing club members a kind deed in attending the show, the students will be assured of a pleasant hour's entertainment.

Athletic Sweaters

The habit of wearing other college's sweaters by certain members of our student body is becoming entirely too prevalent. Probably this is due to the fact that these offenders gave little thought to the matter. It is customary when attending college to remove the letter from the sweater regardless of whether it is from high school or junior college.

And speaking of sweaters—some of our block "S" sweaters may be seen adorning the frames of some women studes, a practice which is frowned upon by the board of athletic control.

Santa Barbara Artists

Good taste and quality, showing consistently throughout the work of Santa Barbara artists now on exhibit at the Faulkner Gallery, indicates that this city owns a group of recognized artists. One artist not of this city has said Santa Barbara is one of the few last strongholds of conservative art. Every other place has gone radical. The calm way in which Santa Barbara hangs on to the older way of painting can be viewed at the exhibition this month. People visiting the gallery go among the pictures with pleased satisfaction, viewing each one without the bustle of excited chatter. On the whole there is a complacency of classicism in the spirit of the exhibition. There is depth, there is breadth, and there is liberality. We like it.

Several pictures in particular stand out in our minds. "Polly" and "Still Life" by Walter Cheever and "Cannas" by Ruth M. Doolittle, we can claim as our own contribution to downtown art. Sprouting onions, bottles, and buckets in the "Still Life" add to the tinges of realism found in the pictures at the east end of the room.

The superb work of W. S. Bagdatopoulos, F.R.S. in picturing the drunk "Gradilles and his Bottles" is one of the best in the exhibition for its poignant life. John Gamble paints into miles of distance in a lovely view of "Spring Flowers." Colin Campbell Cooper, N.A., gives again of his intrinsic sense of beauty in "Sunset on the Channel." De Witt Parshall, N.A. does "Magnolias" in a glorifying manner. The crispness with which one leaf lies on the table beside the vase is astounding. In the small gallery these same artists repeat their fine qualities in water color. Bagdatopoulos exhibiting vividly the life at the Oxnard sugar beet factory, and Cooper shadowing between the buildings of New York City on Broad street.

Edward Borein, famed world-wide for his etchings, shows typical scenes of the wild west, also in the small gallery.

Again in the large rooms, we remember two men walking imaginatively around the room from the west end, their profiles viewed; we recall the brilliant and shining quality of the Nicholson "Still Life" with the red drape, we note on "Miss K. Fukameki" and "Dwight Goddard, American Buddhist" by Charles Daniels for their classic depth and reserve.

There were many we have not enumerated which we enjoyed as much as those of which we have spoken. Each artists has something of his own to say. No artist appeared to be in apprenticeship to another. The show does Santa Barbara credit.

silence by the single note plucked from the strings.

Second Movement

There is no introduction, and the principal theme is the first lovely melody you hear — conspicuous in the first violins. We have not long to wait for the entrance of the second theme, a song equally beautiful, pensive and longing, in the singularly poignant voice of the oboe. It rises, lones and trembling, from the closing cadence of the first full expression of the chief subject.

The third movement begins with the theme, given to the sweet and unassertive voice of the clarinet; a theme much like a children's folk-song, gracefully moving above a pizzicato accompaniment in the cellos, and reinforced, first by a detached phrase in the violins and violas, and then, gently and softly, by the string and wood-wind choirs.

Presently there is a new theme, subordinate in importance, but temporarily affecting both a rhythmic and model change in the music.

Davismen Drop Double Tilt to San Diego

Throwing a scare into the opposition for the first half, but thereafter melting before a superior attack proved to be the story for the Gaucho hoopsters Friday and Saturday nights as they dropped a pair of league games to the pennant-chasing Aztecs from San Diego State...

The Friday night contest saw an erratic but fighting Santa Barbara team carry the battle to the Aztecs for the first half, only to have the southerners cut loose in the second and pile up a commanding lead.

Wilson, the visitor's All-Conference forward, stood out for his team, piling up 11 digits. Burns at center turned in an outstanding game while scoring 9 points.

The Aztecs started mildly and finished wildly in the second game. The game was close for the first half, but again they gathered momentum as the game progressed, and during the last period their high-powered offense, featuring the two forwards, Wilson and Moss, manipulated the ball down the floor and through the basket with monotonous regularity.

The tough opposition the local boys faced in this game was just the right meat for Charlie Hoffer, ace Gaucho forward. Charlie dented the San Diego defense for 10 points, besides turning in an excellent all-around game.

Though they were virtually counted out of the race a couple of weeks ago, the Aztecs, by virtue of this double victory, raised themselves into an extremely threatening position to their chief rivals for the league title.

Rebels Threaten to Upset Varsity; Game to Be Close

Frosh Win One Lose One as Season Closes

Culminating a successful season, and winding up their careers as frosh basketballers, the State first year outfit broke even in a pair of contests played over the week-end, nosing out the Carpinteria town team Friday night, 33-32, and then dropping a tough one to the Cal-Poly Mustangs by a score of 29-27 the following night.

Against the Carpinterians, Ian Crow, eagle-eyed forward, was the whole show. He dropped 23 points through the hoop, leaving only 10 for his teammates to gather.

Although they had previously defeated the Mustangs, the frosh found the fighting boys from the north just a little too hard to handle on Saturday night. The game was close and hard-fought throughout, but the all-around power of the Mustangs prevailed in the end.

Tonight's battle will bring forth two distinctly different types of offense. The Davismen march in review before their General every afternoon in full dress uniform, and are tonsorially correct to the last detail.

TENNIS MATCHES BEGIN With all players rallying to the colors of various fraternities and classes, intramural tennis for men will begin March 3, Julio Bortazzo, manager, announced today.

Mahoney Claim Two Athletes Proselyted

The greatest civil war since Abe Lincoln will be opened tonight at the Armory when Union General Hal Davis leads his forces onto the battlefield against Co-Generals Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney's Confederate army.

The Confederates (Jayvees) on the other hand, have had to hold secret practice maneuvers to keep the Unionites (varsity) from proselyting any more of their attack leaders. The Southern boys under the able leadership of Co-General Mahoney, hope to reap ripe revenge in tonight's fracas and will send forth a combination of their best sharpshooters to attempt to win by guerilla warfare.

Tau Omegas Stage Dinner at El Cortijo

Final arrangements and plans were completed by Tau Omega fraternity in preparation for "Rush Week" at their regular business meeting held last Monday night. The organization met at the frat-house on Santa Barbara Street.

El Cortijo was selected by the social committee for the annual rush dinner party which is to be given this Saturday night from Seven o'clock to eight-thirty. At the conclusion of the dinner the rushees and their guests will be taken to the Casino Gardens at Ventura where they will be entertained for the remainder of the evening.

"Because of the high scholastic standing of members in Tau Omega the organization this year can only take in nine members," according to Jim Coultas, president. This ruling is in accordance with the state college regulation which limits the membership of all fraternities to thirty active members.

A short talk on fraternity pledging was also given by Thomas Keating, alumnus, in which he explained the principals and characteristics which should be considered in selecting men to become members of the club.

And at Smyrna Chesterfield has built the most modern tobacco plant in the Near East.

Here the spicy, aromatic Turkish leaf is sorted and graded under the eyes of our own tobacco men.

Then it is put away to age in its own climate for two years or more to make it milder and better-tasting.

When you blend and cross-blend the right kinds of aromatic Turkish tobacco with mild ripe home-grown tobaccos as we do in Chesterfield you have . . .
