Nelson piano recital will feature Brahms

Plano music by Brahms, Prokofiev, Debussy and Schumann will be presented on Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. in the old auditorium.

LEG COUNCIL SAYS PARA. TO STAY

by PETE YOUNG

Homecoming parades, a tradition of 40 years standing at UCSB, will not be halted if the Legislative Council has its way.

The measure putting Council on record as favoring continuation of the state Street parades was the legislative body's only action, Bruce Shaw, the mayor, said.

The vote came last week in response to a Special Events Committee recommendation to the Council to gauge student opinion on an off-campus Homecoming, which would feature house decorations.

Student opinion, Council members said, was overwhelmingly negative.

Council's report included these details:

- Fraternities were all for keeping the parade and sororities were split, 50-50.

- RHA Committee recommended no change. "I don't see how you could decorate the residence halls," said Dan Coles, RHA Activities Board chairman.

- Resident Hall was "completely negative." According to Al Arkush, men's non-affiliated group.

- Apartment owners would prohibit the building of house decorations, Arkush said.

- Residents of Santa Barbara, AS Secretary Elaine Webster said, want to keep the parade.

Before casting the lone dissenting vote, Shaw pointed out that UCSB students "survive the community" during the two days of Homecoming weekend.

"RIGHTLY OUTRAGED"

Sheep by Perdida Park are rightly outraged about the things they saw.

He was referring to a Special Events report which charged students with "casually drinking out doors" and "using alcohol to the point of brawling and, his Persian war vic­

Human aspects of racial struggle emerge in panel

by JEFF KREEND

Assistant News Editor

Out of the ashes of the raci­ ing civil rights era came a moral issue.

Poetry reading

"Promise to Keep," a contemporary drama by landon, is open to the public.

There will be no admission charge.

"The Old Maid and the Thief,"

the recent television presenta­tion which has received praise from schedulers and critics as well as the public, will be shown in North Hall viewing room 211 tomorrow at 8 p.m.

The cast includes Jerry Hall, Mary Himmelhoch, Nancy Jason, Daryl Dayton, Lee Patterson and Guy Maier.

MEHERAN GRAD

Her Master's was awarded by the University of Michigan where she studied with Joseph Brinkman, 1948-50.

The Brahms' pieces, on the other hand, are a late-comic treatment of illusion and reality in the world of the theatre and is set in Paris. Colombe is left alone with her husband in February and expects her to live a life of innocence and purity. She is the object of flirtations of men who comprise the company of her husband's mother, Mme. Alexandra, an ammunist French accepted on her brother-in-law, Edward. The outcome of the play must be as expected it is not a happy one.

The cast of the play in or­

The video-taped re-play is a service of the television office for the campus community and is open to the public.

Produced by writer-producer Ben Hazan, "Greener The Gol­ designed to provide a service for the campus community and is open to the public.

Carr's reading of the poem of appearance includes Diana

Bower; Edouard by Ray Lloyd; Mme. Georges; James Stophel, who plays Colombe; Phil

Hilary, Paul, Marcy Jacobson, Elise-Britt Jonson, Don Miller and Byron La Guy.

The reading, which is sponsored by the Department of Aptained on page 3.

Meeting scheduled for applicants for Project Pakistan

An orientation assembly for prospective Project Pakistan team members will be held todays at 4 p.m. in South Hall Labor­ by RHA Council recommended approval blanks will be available at the assembly.

Application forms are due no later than 5 p.m. December 6 in the University Religious Conference Office. Application packets must be in by these deadlines.

The reading will cover American government and foreign policy, as well as the history and culture of Pakistan.

Personal interviews in the URC Office are scheduled for the first week of the spring semester, February 15 and 16.

According to Roger Saunders, URC director, the 1964 Project Pakistan program promises to be both exciting and rewarding. He adds, "We are most interested in having team members which will truly represent the American way of life. We also want students who will make the University of California at Santa Barbara known abroad with honor and dignity."

Running unopposed, Miss Canning received all 52 votes cast by RHA women.

Judy Stone and Barbara Canning have been elected women's delegates to the URS and RHA representatives.

Miss Stone received 38 votes in the 50-vote election by the Student Workers Union, 30 of whom are female, to represent her in the race for the women's delegate to the URS and RHA representatives.

Leg council says para. to stay
To be rededicated

Editor:

Shock, despair and silence spread over our campus on Friday, November 22, when news of the shooting and death of our President, President Kennedy, spread over our campus on Friday.

More important still, he was an educated man, who based his thinking and decision-making on knowledge and common sense, not on the frenzy, youth, courage, and creativity with which we all identified in part.

Though he is suddenly gone, the picture of his face and the sound of his voice remain as vivid realities in the mind.

We remember the bravery he instilled in us all during the Cuban Crises. We recall his active strivings toward the abolishment of prejudice, ignorance, and hate.

Today, the best way that we can mourn Kennedy is to carry on within ourselves his own dedication. That he knew the acceptance of responsibility, and, above all, the quest for peace, justice, and, highly educated minds. Now, more than ever before, each of us should become dedicated to dedication itself.

The population explosion - scientific or social status of individuals, and the possibility of an atomic bomb explosion appears to come at any time.

We prepare ourselves for life as we will face it when we get out of college... We do this, Mr. Gale, because we live life. You merely graze your way through it.

DENNIS SULLIVAN
MIKE SAMUELS

Editor's Mail Box

Student static

Baby boom feared

by BURT WORRELL

Of all the problems in the world, the population explosion and the problems that are considered most important. Are these forces of utopian concern to the student? If so, which is greater?

Students around the world were questioned, "Which do you fear most - the atomic-bomb explosion or the population explosion?"

Twenty-five students answered the question; twenty, fifty percent of the population explosion more important. A few students even felt they were more important things to worry about than population.

One student felt that one explosion would cancel the other out.

JIM WANGENHEIM, Econom

makes "Population - if the bomb comes, I'll know it for an instant before I know anything at all.

Crowned ski slopes, beaches, and yards as well as the entire state being one large housing development is far less appealing. My chief concern is for the woodland creatures who would be forced to extinction."

RICHARD CLEMMER, German

"The atomic bomb kills people en masse, without regard to physical or social status of individuals. But a population explosion necessitates the death of people who, because of social pressure, must die to preserve the grand and exalted human race, either because they are physically weak or because they are deemed socially inferior by society in general. I fear these selective deaths of individuals more than I do the collective deaths of people regardless of individual status."

ELLEN DILMAN, Psychology

Sociology - "Atomic bomb - Is thinking about a population explosion one tends to think in terms of it won't effect me because it doesn't seem to be happening right now. But whereas already had bomb scares and the possibility of an atomic bomb explosion appears to come at any time."

MIKE MULLER, English

"The population explosion - scientists say that a woman is having a baby every eight minutes, and I really do think we ought to find her and stop this whole business."

BILLY SOPPELAND, Biology - "An atomic bomb explosion - it hurts more. Actually, the results of a bomb explosion cannot be solved or eased during the actual explosion while population is a less immediate problem that may cease to be a problem or even exist with advanced technology."

BRETT BARTON, Anthropology - "If fear the population explosion more than an atomic bomb explosion. I enjoy viewing Bally's charming pictures of heads and arms, elongated fingers and 'prepared' torus, but for the population to actually explode would be much more than I could take."

RAY FRIEDRICKS, Undeclared - "Population explosion - I like people, but bombs make me nervous."

DAVID PAQUETTE, Physics - "I don't think theRussians have guts enough to send some bombs over, and I don't think the population explosion will go off for quite a while. I'm afraid of my mid-terms."

El Gaucho

MARCIA KNOFF, Editor

EDITORIAL BOARD: David Dawdy, Pete Young, Mary-Selden Bishop, Bill Cook, Peggy Rodriguez, Cherle Goodrich and Butler, Burt Worrell. Diane BroweU, Vicky Hall, Betty M 10, 1954 at the post office at Goleta, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Gary Vidor.

PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR: Joe T. Kovach.

McBee Holly Ingram, Vic Cox, Beth Girvin, Jeff Kron.

See One, Clark Smith and Jim Mattson.

Published three times a week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday during this Fall quarter, except during examination periods. This paper is an uncopyrighted, non-profit or educational, non-commercial publication. Distributed to the Campus, university's employees, Texas Council, President. Posted in Gauche, 722 STATE WO. 2-7671.

Seventy-five students answered the kiscb, this university's on-campus radio station, is to be congratulated for the service they rendered students and faculty on the Sunday and Monday preceding Thanksgiving.

Shook over the assassination and the ensuing national day of mourning resulted in many tests and assignments being called off. KCSB's Bill Harrison and Rich Govea and the rest of the staff took it upon themselves to contact all teachers with tests scheduled prior to Thanksgiving and compile a list of the changes.

Sunday and Monday calls by students concerning reschedulings were answered at the rate of about one a minute.

The service was conscientious and trouble-saving to others. KCSB deserves the thanks of students and faculty. It has gone far since its conception last semester, and this recent thoughtful action is a good indication of its progress.

EL Gaucho

Sports Editor

Dr. A. H. M. "To be a dedicated student, it is to be recognized for selflessness, dedication itself.

Among us should become dedicated to the heavens as you practical.

jointed, and blowing smoke rings the fact that Plato was double

"phonyl intellectualism " on the UCSB campus.

"The atomic bomb kills people en masse, without regard to physical or social status of individuals. But a population explosion necessitates the death of people who, because of social pressure, must die to preserve the grand and exalted human race, either because they are physically weak or because they are deemed socially inferior by society in general. I fear these selective deaths of individuals more than I do the collective deaths of people regardless of individual status.

ELLEN DILMAN, Psychology

Sociology - "Atomic bomb - Is thinking about a population explosion one tends to think in terms of it won't effect me because it doesn't seem to be happening right now. But whereas already had bomb scares and the possibility of an atomic bomb explosion appears to come at any time."

MIKE MULLER, English

"The population explosion - scientists say that a woman is having a baby every eight minutes, and I really do think we ought to find her and stop this whole business."

BILLY SOPPELAND, Biology - "An atomic bomb explosion - it hurts more. Actually, the results of a bomb explosion cannot be solved or eased during the actual explosion while population is a less immediate problem that may cease to be a problem or even exist with advanced technology."

BRETT BARTON, Anthropology - "If fear the population explosion more than an atomic bomb explosion. I enjoy viewing Bally's charming pictures of heads and arms, elongated fingers and 'prepared' torso, but for the population to actually explode would be much more than I could take."

RAY FRIEDRICKS, Undeclared - "Population explosion - I like people, but bombs make me nervous."

DAVID PAQUETTE, Physics - "I don't think theRussians have guts enough to send some bombs over, and I don't think the population explosion will go off for quite a while. I'm afraid of my mid-terms."

To be rededicated

Editor:

Though he is suddenly gone,

the picture of his face and the sound of his voice remain as vivid realities in the mind.

We remember the bravery he instilled in us all during the Cuban Crises. We recall his active strivings toward the abolishment of prejudice, ignorance, and hate.

Today, the best way that we can mourn Kennedy is to carry on within ourselves his own dedication to the acceptance of responsibility, and, above all, to the quest for peace, justice, and, highly educated minds. Now, more than ever before, each of us should become dedicated to dedication itself.

The population explosion - scientific or social status of individuals, and the possibility of an atomic bomb explosion appears to come at any time.

We prepare ourselves for life as we will face it when we get out of college... We do this, Mr. Gale, because we live life. You merely graze your way through it.

DENNIS SULLIVAN
MIKE SAMUELS

Editor:

For only three months we have picked up the EL GAUCHO and read criticism after criticism of UCSB. The epidemic of such "wan" came from Mr. David Gale who sounded more like he had lost a political office or his seventh crisis than his dream of finding "intellectualism" on the UCSB campus.

We think it is time for someone to step up for this school; so here is an answer to Mr. Gale: If anyone has ever had "phony intellectualism" in his system, it is you.

From your letter one gets the impression that intellectualism consists of sitting on one's poster terior end, smoking a cigarette, exasperated on the greatness of the fact that Plato was double jointed, and blowing smoke rings to the heavens as you practical.

In thinking about a population explosion means, without regard to physical or social status of individuals. But a population explosion necessitates the death of people who, because of social pressure, must die to preserve the grand and exalted human race, either because they are physically weak or because they are deemed socially inferior by society in general. I fear these selective deaths of individuals more than I do the collective deaths of people regardless of individual status.

ELLEN DILMAN, Psychology

Sociology - "Atomic bomb - Is thinking about a population explosion one tends to think in terms of it won't effect me because it doesn't seem to be happening right now. But whereas already had bomb scares and the possibility of an atomic bomb explosion appears to come at any time."

MIKE MULLER, English

"The population explosion - scientists say that a woman is having a baby every eight minutes, and I really do think we ought to find her and stop this whole business."

BILLY SOPPELAND, Biology - "An atomic bomb explosion - it hurts more. Actually, the results of a bomb explosion cannot be solved or eased during the actual explosion while population is a less immediate problem that may cease to be a problem or even exist with advanced technology."

BRETT BARTON, Anthropology - "If fear the population explosion more than an atomic bomb explosion. I enjoy viewing Bally's charming pictures of heads and arms, elongated fingers and 'prepared' torso, but for the population to actually explode would be much more than I could take."

RAY FRIEDRICKS, Undeclared - "Population explosion - I like people, but bombs make me nervous."

DAVID PAQUETTE, Physics - "I don't think theRussians have guts enough to send some bombs over, and I don't think the population explosion will go off for quite a while. I'm afraid of my mid-terms."

FASHIONS and GIFTS from Hawaii

FOR WOMEN, MEN, CHILDREN

MO'S POLYNESIAN SHOP

906 STATE STREET

2-3111

FRIED ICE CREAM

1 Day Only (Wed.)

at PORKY'S

EL Gaucho

MARCIA KNOFF, Editor

EDITORIAL BOARD: David Dawdy, Pete Young, Mary-Selden McBee Holly Ingram, Vic Cox, Beth Girvin, Jeff Kron.
IRC international dinner to feature foreign cuisine

Savory shrimp from the Orient, spicy chicken and rice from South America, and tantalizing Indonesian Magic Cake so secret that even the chef doesn't know what the ingredients are -- all this and more awaits the connoisseur at Sunday's International Dinner, according to Dick Hyland, IRC president.

Sponsored by the International Relations Club the dishes will be prepared by foreign students and served in the Student Union from 6:30 to 8 p.m. December 8. A limited supply of tickets is now on sale at the Cashier's Window for $1.75 per person. Besides culinary achievements like kidney pie, twice cooked p Beste, and German casserole the IRC will present a fashion show of national dress.

Students modeling authentic costumes from Japan, Poland, and Germany, to name a few, will explain the significance of their particular national dress.

After dinner entertainment in the candle-lit S.U. includes Andre Lipsey play classical guitar and a Spanish flamenco dancer.

Fried Ice Cream
1 Day Only (Wed.) at PORKY'S

\textbf{MEETINGS}

Elections
Elections committee will meet in the S.U. patio tomorrow afternoon at 4. Subjects for discussion will be the IBM system and the spring election.

Honeybears
Application blanks for membership in the Honeybears, the official campus hostess group, are available in the AS office in the Student Union.

Sign-up sheets for interviews are also posted in the AS office. Women students wishing to join the organization should sign up today.

Hillie party
A Hannahite party, sponsored by Hillie Council, will be held Saturday, from 8 to 12 p.m. at Temple Bruul Brith, 2112 Santa Barbara Street.

Tickets for the event are 75 cents. Persons in need of transportation should contact Dave Schwaarts, 8441, Mike Brickman, Anacapa, Sue Goldberg, Santa Rosa, or Laurice Rosenberg, Santa Rosa.

Young Democrats
An organizational meeting of the Young Democrats Club will be held tomorrow in campus basements at 7:30 p.m. at 6504 Seville, Apt. 2.

Campus liberals should plan to attend.

Model UN
A member of Project Pakistan will provide background material on that country at an important meeting of the Model United Nations group, tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Huddle.

Students representing UCSS at the MUN session in Spokane, Wash., next April should plan to attend.

\textbf{FORSAY}-The prospects are bleak

(Continued from page one)

the very bottom of the American Negroes have the dirtiest end of the unemployment stick.

Inferring that automation knows no color line, he commenced on the futility of inter-racial job competition at lower economic levels. "Present demands are for machines, not men, to do semi-skilled and unskilled labor. What is needed is a new economic machine to benefit the unemployed. Until it comes, we might take two million dollars in overall defense spending for the next ten years and put it into Negro education."

He added that the money would also be used to retrain displaced workers.

Then, in a tone which could only suggest impending doom, he observed, "The prospects are bleak."

Next to speak was Hallock Hoffman, who with quiet eloquence remarked, "Racial discrimination, racial prejudice, and racial exploitation offended against reason and against civilization."

"It is impossible to say that color can determine superiority. The criteria of civilized people, such as intelligence, ambition, and good sanitary habits, are not functions of a race of environment, or a hundred other non-paesthetic factors."

Pursuing his argument to psychological grounds, he added, "We have used the racial question to rationalize white-over-black supremacy. The blacks, who can endure so much, are teaching us a better form of justice."

"We have been at least condescending in our attitudes, and a bit hypocritical. We have prevented ourselves from seeing the world as it actually is."

Mr. Hoffman left no question about his feelings when he concluded, "The Negro Revolution is trying to raise the level of our society. I am for promoting this revolution."

SUBSTITUTE panelist Milton Merriweather provided alternative Freudian, alternatively ministerial comments. Mr. Merriweather, more affected the prophet of victory.

"Integrationists say the issue is civil rights. Segregationists say the issue is an affair of races. What these people mean is that they want to treat them as equals. They say there must be such a thing as a white race.

"They refused to relate one typical racial argument. "Beckman says there is such a thing as race. We know this to be historically false. They say an individual either belongs to one race or doesn't. This argument is comical, since most states can't agree on a proper definition of a Negro."

"Segregationists say there is a hierarchy of races. There is no evidence to support this statement. Environmental inferiority is not racial inferiority."

"We are all racists," he declared, "the devil is in the hearts of all of us and offers us something for nothing. This mortal weakness is not confined to the uneducated people."

Finishing on a victorious note, he said, "There is evidence that the blacks are leaving the white man's concepts behind. It will not be law that ends the conflict. The Negro's dignity as a man will put an end to discrimination."

Prior to a question and answer period, Ashmore summarized the discussion when he observed, "The issue is many things. It is a social, political, and moral problem. Our good intentions must make whole the community torn apart by discrimination, prejudice, and second-class citizenship."

\textbf{FRIED ICE CREAM}
1 Day Only (Wed.) at PORKY'S

\textbf{PRE-CHRISTMAS SALE ON FALL MERCHANDISE}

OPEN THURSDAYS TILL 9 P.M.

\textbf{FORD'S}

\textbf{MERCHANDISE}

966-D EMBARCADERO DEL MAR
Call 8-3412
Open Monday through Saturday, 10-6
Students are reminded that bike rules exist

Capt. Lowe announced today that bicycle registration, parking, and rules of safe riding are in effect at all times on the UCSB campus.

Bike riding is prohibited at all times in the Mall areas, as indicated by the sign "NO BIKE RIDING" on the walks. This area is closed to bicycle riders "in the interest of safety," Capt. Lowe said.

Police officers will enforce this regulation, together with other state laws applicable to bicycles on campus. These include the following regulations:

1. No person shall operate a bicycle at excessive speed.
2. Pedestrians shall have the right of way at all times.
3. Bicycles shall be ridden only in designated areas for use as roads or walks.
4. Bicycles shall be parked only in designated areas.
5. Bicycles ridden at night shall be equipped with lights and reflectors.
6. Bicycles shall keep to the right on all campus walks at all times.

Violation of registration, riding, or parking regulations may result in citation to Justice Court, and/or impounding of bicycles. Riding violations are handled by the Police in the same manner as motor vehicle violations.

Capt. Lowe also announced that motorcycle parking areas are being established. Four areas are being constructed to alleviate the parking problem for cyclists.

New electron microscope arrives

New vistas in scientific research will be opened with the use of the new electron microscope just arrived from Berlin, Germany.

To house the "ELMISCOPE," a portion of the animal house adjacent to the biological sciences building has been converted. The cost of the microscope, including the building and rewiring of facilities and the purchase of special equipment for the scope, will be about $50,000.

The ELMISCOPE, purchased from the Siemens Company in Germany, is intended for use by both faculty members and graduate students engaged in scientific research.

ESAU TO USE SCOPE

Professor Katherine Esau of the Department of Biological Sciences, who collaborates in her botanical research with Chancellor Vernon L. Chandler, will make immediate use of the new microscope.

Dr. Esau and Chandler, working under a National Science Foundation grant, are concerned with "trees that catch water and food in plants. The electron microscope will make it possible for them to increase their understanding of the most specialized cells, cells most concerned with conduction.

The new equipment will "help us to see how cells are connected with one another and how their structure is related to their function," explains Professor Esau. It will also be extremely useful to faculty members engaged in animal structure research and other projects in the animal and plant fields.

The microscope itself makes use of an electron beam, "a kind of natural light, recording everything by means of photographs. Objects up to a size of a millionths of an inch can be pro­jected on a phosphorescent screen to an image actually seen by the researcher. A built-in camera is then employed to take a picture of that part of the biological structure which the investigator is interested in.

MICROTOME DUE

A new mechanism will control the microscope during the operation. Soon to be attached to the microscope is a precise instrument used for cutting a minute section about the size of a needle, or of the microscope. A shadowing apparatus for treatment of certain kinds of material is already available.

The magnification range of the electron microscope is from 250 to 160,000. A standard light microscope stops at 1,000.

Robert Gill, who earned his master's degree in botany at UCSB after getting his B.A. from Pomona College, has been employed as a full-time technician on the electron microscope. Gill is being trained in the use of the scope and in handling minor repairs by a representative from the Siemens Company.

The microscope is sufficiently involved to take a picture of that part of the biological structure which the investigator is interested in.

Productions cripplies play

by STEVE LAWRENCE

Staff Reviewer

It has been said that one of the most difficult tasks for a reviewer of drama is to differentiate between the quality of a play and the quality of the specific production that play.

Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" playing until December 7 at the Biltmore Theatre in Los Angeles, is a good play. The Los Angeles production, however, does not quite do it justice.

The variability of Albee's thematic material and the brittle brutality with which he deals with that material is unevenly handled at the Biltmore. It takes a skilful, though per­haps a bit too perfunctory, playwright, to keep his audience interested in four characters, for nearly three hours, however, crude, humorous or violent these characters may be.

Albee's play is about a his­tory professor, George, and his wife, Martha, who, unable to love in any meaningful way, go to war with each other instead. Their guests, a philologist, Nick, and his wife, Honey, provide a somewhat grisly contrast to the "war," and a lighter one on through the night to reveal another equally disgusting and pitiful marriage.

Albee is dealing with what he perhaps sees as "exasperating" of con­temporary marriage and human inter­course. The superficiality of a "cocktail party society" is merely Albee's springboard, from which to expose what he apparently sees as a lack of comp­assion, charity, and (that old byword) understanding, in human relationships.

George and Martha take turns "destroying" each other, at the same time involving Nick and Honey in their own vicious re­examination of "self." (a party "game" which George calls "get the guest").

Albee, thus, is able to evoke alternating waves of pity and dis­gust for his characters that ef­ficiently involve his audience in the play.

Surprisingly, though dealing with a somewhat grim situation, Albee has managed to inject some rather humorous lines into the play, especially in the first act.

Even this sardonic humour however, serves to point out both the deteriorated marriage of George and Martha, surviving on lust, the ultimately exploded illusion of a son that never exis­ted, and the hollow life of a social climbing, unprincipled philologist married to an ascetic, nervous and silly wife.

In the maritally performance, Michael Myers, as Martha, and Kendall Clary, as Nick, have adequately distorted and poi­gnant at crucial points, though their inconstant performances could not suitably capture the spirit of the play.

Ken Kercheval, made up too white and pasty, as Nick, wasn't nearly forceful enough to provide a marked contrast to his wife. Barbara Dana, as Honey, seemed unable to control a distracting faustino voice though most of the production.

The evening cast features Nancy Kelly, as Martha, and Sheppard Sridwick, as George. In the hands of Director Alan Schönader, Martha is not quite as animated; George is distinc­tly more like a bank­er than a college professor, seeming ed a bit weaker than is called for by the play.

Bostonian shoes

IN ASSOCIATION
WITH ROOS/ATKINS
IN SANTA BARBARA

FRIED ICE CREAM
1 Day Only (Wed.)
10K BILTMORE

DIAL 2-8715
The greatest coats on campus are belted... very sportive.... handsomely tailored.... and only $49.95 at Roos/Atkins in Santa Barbara • 819 State street • Free Parking • Open Friday night!

In Afghanistan

No known Communists

by GAYLE KERR

"There isn't a known Communist in Afghanistan," says C. Farouq Sharif, who is a junior here.

Farouq's explanation for this statement is that 90 percent of the country's population is of the Islam religion, which is opposed to Communism.

It was a minor play lightly sprinkled with isolated good moments. The play's "message" was that closer consideration should be taken into account. However, the appearance was that closer direction could have made the players down on numerous occasions. A more relaxed presentation of the majority of the action would have improved the performance immensely.

The UCSB Library is holding a book collection contest sponsored by Mrs. Jean Corie in memory of her late husband Edwin Corie. The contest is open to all undergraduates.

The collection will be judged by how well its books represent a-department of Special Collections in the Library, by Friday, March 13, 1964.

After preliminary judging the collection must be turned into the Department of Special Collections for final judging on March 30. First prize is $150, 2nd $75, 3rd is $50.

Farouq admits that this way one tries to maintain a cautious policy.

Commenting on American food, Farouq says that in his country they usually separate sweet from sour, and that he finds it strange to see jelly and salad on the same plate. However, Farouq admits that this way one doesn't have to wash so many dishes.

Afghanistan has a population of 14 million and about the size of Texas. Comparing it to the U.S., Farouq says this country appears to be more of a continent to him.

The government of Afghanistan tries to maintain a cautious policy in relations with both East and West because of its long borderlines with the Soviet Union. The country has good relations with the U.S., w-President Eisenhower having visited there in 1959, and Afghanistan's King M. Zaher having visited here this September.

SOME SOVIET TRADE

Because Afghanistan is able to get better terms from the Soviet Union than with U.S., they do carry on some trade with the Russians; however, most of their exporting is to the West.

After three years of undiplomatic relations with Pakistan, Afghanistan is now on diplomatic terms with that country. A dispute arose over the border area between the two countries which had been occupied by the British during their occupation of India.

The British had promised this area to Afghanistan, but it was claimed by Pakistan upon the departure of the British.

Stirrings broke out between the Pakistanis, or pure Afghans, who wanted to regret their nation, and Pakistan, who refused their request. Although there seems to be no solution in sight, relations between the two countries are getting better.

BUZKASH EXPLAINED

Cultural aspects of this country include films, which are mostly documentaries, stage shows, and the national sport, buzkash. Buzkash is exclusive to Afghanistan and involves two teams of from 200 to 300 horsemen each trying to get a large piece of leather to a goal. The game involves a great deal of teamwork.

Afghanistan also has two universities, colleges, and secondary schools. The teaching is generally based on American or French systems.

Among the things Farouq admires about the U.S. are America's desire to work, freedom of expression, and the check and balance system in Congress. He feels the U.S. is a country of ideas.

LET THE RED WAGON

at 400 Stockton Road

CATER For Your Christmas Parties

We have many interesting programs to offer

Call 8-3518 or 8-3730

UCSB SUMMER SESSION

June 22 -- July 31

Intensive Language Program

August 3 to September 5

A program of courses, selected from the major fields of study on the University of California, Santa Barbara Campus, is being offered in the 1964 Summer Session. Course listings may be obtained from the Summer Session Office, Bldg. 404, Room 415.
Meals aid cooperation

In the past few years, the University of California's enrollment has been increasing at a very rapid pace. This increase is evident on all the campuses of the University. On the Santa Barbara campus, for example, 7300 students are expected for September, 1964. The rapid growth of the University has aroused feelings of apprehension on the part of students, faculty, and administration. They are becoming more and more concerned with "personalizing the University" and maintaining a small-school atmosphere on the growing campuses. This concern has been frequently expressed by President Kerr.

CONCERN HERE

On the Santa Barbara campus, maintenance of a small-school atmosphere is an especially poignant concern, for it represents an ideal which we have long possessed and do not wish to relinquish.

In particular, the campus has continued to foster personal relations between the students and members of the faculty. Students at UCSB have encountered little difficulty in getting to know their professors, if they so desire.

At each table.

Some 40 students attended the informal meal. Seating was divided among the 10 faculty members with more than 20 students at each table.

The Crown & Scepter pressy said the repeated classic comment by students concerning the dinner was that they were somewhat hesitant about approaching their professors and weren't becoming well acquainted with them.

At the conclusion of the evening many students were enthusiastically agreeing upon the excellent ice-breaking value of the program of the departmental dinners. "We all when away laughing," says Judy Spruell, speaking for Crown and Scepter. "We can hardly wait until the next one!"

Because of vacations, no other time this semester is available for a second faculty-student event. The series will begin again early next semester, however, with a cross-section of UCSB departments being invited to the dinners.

In continuing the series next semester, Crown and Scepter tentatively plans to invite the English, Political Science, and Language Departments and hope to make the dinners a lasting Gaucho practice.

WATKINS ELECTED TO HAYNES BOARD

Dr. Gordon S. Watkins, dean of the School of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and Chancellor Emeritus of the Riverside campus, was recently elected to his fourteenth term as first vice president of the San Diego Haynes Foundation board of trustees.

Watkins has been a trustee of the Foundation for the past 20 years and chairman of its Committee on Research and Grants for ten years.

Haynes, a Regent of the University for a number of years and, together with his wife, created a foundation for the purpose of encouraging research and scholarship in the social sciences.

'Hit and Run' will benefit fund

"Hit and Run," a variety show, will be presented for the benefit of the Masur and Scliff Scholarship Fund on January 9, 10 and 11 in Campbell Hall.

The show will be comprised of 20 acts featuring student and faculty talent. A series of skits will center around the theme of a young man who runs afoul of the law and in the end has his sentence reprinted. The skits will satirize the works of Shakespeare, Faulkner, Hemingway, and Victor Hugo.

"Hit and Run" will be directed by Dr. Theodore Hylle, chairman of the Speech and Drama Department.

DICK MIMNAMON, Campus Representative, Available in Student Union daily except Thursday, 10-11 a.m., or call 8-2463 ext., or 6666 1/2 Alisante Rd.
Sports comment

Block ‘C’ criticized for film

by CLARK SMITH
Sports Editor

November 24, the Tuesday night before Thanksgiving, Block ‘C’, UCSB’s varsity lettermen’s club, presented two showings of a film, ‘One - Eyed Jacks’, in Campbell Hall. That same night, concurrent with the film, there was a basketball game between UCSB’s varsity and freshmen teams in Robertson Gym.

Tim Burdick will hand the dual instigation of raising funds for a national basketball Hall of Fame, apart of introducing this year’s Gauchos players. It was an enjoyable and relaxed control that gave the players some individual recognition, and attempted to raise the prestige of basketball. However, the simultaneous presentation of a Block ‘C’ sponsored western with a basketball game, especially that particular basketball game, seems to indicate a choice on the part of Block ‘C’ to discourage athletes. The logical suggestion that a letterman’s club made a choice of movies over sports. The choice was a poor one.

Scuba divers diving tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., there will be a meeting for anyone interested in forming a skin and SCUBA diving club at Bob’s Discounting Shop, 375 Pine Ave., Building 29, in Goleta.

FRIED ICE CREAM 1 Day Only (Wed.) at PORKY’S

Tickets for gridiron dinner available

Tickets for tonight’s Gridiron Club - sponsored first Annual Awards Banquet at the Miramar Hotel are available for $5. Students interested in attending should contact Ray Ward in the Intercollegiate Athletics Office, Robertson Gym.

Top students from Santa Barbara county high schools, colleges, and all of UCSB’s football team will be honored by Mr. Jack Curtis, and head Gauchos football coach.