RABBI TALKS TOMORROW

Jewish Literature And Thought Are Subjects

Rabbi Felix A. Levy, of the Emanuel Congregation, Chicago, comes to the State College Tuesday, July 21, for two addresses. The morning lecture will be at the regular assembly hour on the subject of Legend in Jewish Literature. The evening lecture at eight o'clock will present the Influence of Jewish Thought in Civilization. The general public is cordially invited to attend both these lectures.

For twenty years the Jewish Chautauqua Society of Philadelphia has provided the services of competent instructors and lecturers to present reliable instruction at the various summer schools in the United States and to deliver public addresses at these gatherings on subjects referring to the history, life and literature of the Jewish people. This has been done with eminent success upon the request of the United States Commissioner of Education. Rabbi Levy is making a tour of the western states this summer under the auspices of this society.

Summer session students who heard Rabbi Israel's lectures last year will not miss these addresses. They are not propaganda. They are extremely interesting and enlightening.

Mr. William Scalapino, summer session student and instructor in the Santa Barbara city schools, has been elected principal of the local Jefferson-Garfield school.

IMPORTANT

All petitions for post session work, accompanied by an outline of work to be completed, should be in the hands of the Credentials Committee by Monday, July 20.

Anyone wishing credits evaluated for a degree should have all data in the hands of Miss Hazel Severy by Monday, July 20. This is important if findings are desired before the end of the summer session. Miss Severy will be in her office on Monday and Tuesday afternoons for the remainder of the summer session.

Enjoyable Program Presented Tuesday

An enjoyable program was presented to the student body at the weekly assembly last Tuesday. Mrs. Marie MacTaggart gave two spirited piano numbers followed by the ever popular Rosary as an encore. Miss Lois Lee, young daughter of Mr. Ralph Lee, a member of the summer student body, displayed unusual talent in the rendition of two very difficult violin numbers. Lois has played over the air many time from Los Angeles. She was accompanied by Miss Marjory Low.

The second half of the program was given by the Fox Hunters, a local organization of children, whose activities are guided by Miss Edwinna Kenney, an alumna of Santa Barbara State college. The outstanding feature of this part of the program was the Fox Hunters band directed by Mr. J. W. McAllister, who is a member of our summer school faculty.

SAMARKAND TO BE HOP SCENE

Second Informal Dance Will Be Held Friday

Samarkand hotel will be the location of an informal dance next Friday night at nine o'clock. No admission will be charged for summer session college students. Greenough's orchestra probably will play.

Plans for the dance are not settled. Many students have requested that the affair be held Thursday instead of Friday, and the matter will be put to a vote in tomorrow's student body meeting. The dance will be of the same type as the one held in Rockwood last Friday.

Sponsors have not been named.

Students Enjoy Rockwood Dance

Rockwood, the woman's club house in Mission Canyon, was the scene of a gay Oriental Ball, the first informal dance of the summer session Friday evening. A true oriental atmosphere was furnished by the clever Chinese decorations — brightly colored streamers and lanterns hanging from the ceiling and a large red pagoda, under which Vic Janssens orchestr aprovided lively tunes for dancing.

The affair was planned by Mr. Raymond Casey, assisted by the Misses Betty Davis and Ann Hegeman and Mr. Henry Cushman. Patrons and patronesses were Dean Mildred Pyle, Mrs. Abraham and Mr. Kebely.

H. HOWARD WRITES OF PLAN OF HOBBY CLUB

Herman Howard has one of the most interesting hobbies in the world: helping boys to develop their own hobbies.

In 1926 Mr. Howard organized a model building club in the city of Pomona, where he teaches Industrial Education. There are no age limits on membership in this club. Mr. Howard says he has boys from six to sixty. Eligibility is based upon enthusiasm for a hobby of some kind.

Products of Club

The first products of the club were small boat models and car models. The work has expanded until it now includes short-wave radio, photography and airplane model building. Recently the boys have constructed an eight-foot model yacht, complete to the smallest detail. The miniature state-rooms are furnished in mahogany, and the tiny galley contains a lilliputian electric stove that really cooks. The yacht "Alita" is entirely radio-controlled. Model tractors, racing cars, and a model Packard touring car have been exhibited several times at the Los Angeles County Fair. A model of the new Pomona Catholic hospital, building and grounds, has just been completed.

Letter

Following is a letter which Mr. Howard has written to the editor, telling about his club, which he calls "A Dream Come True."

A Dream Comes True

In a beautiful hill park in the city of Pomona, under lovely trees, amid flowers and birds, a group of boys have gathered themselves together under the banner of modelers.

They call themselves the Pomona Model Yacht Club, even though their activities extend far from ships. They build model aircraft, trains, radios, and large power and sail boats in which they race in competition.

This group of some eighty boys work and play under one common roof in harmony and friendliness. Their interests are the same and the Club itself is owned and governed by them. Dues of thirty cents are charged to cover maintenance and supplies cost.

These boys too, are learning to look upon their less fortunate comrades with broader vision, and in doing so, come to the realization that a fellow's value does not lay in dollars and cents. They have paid officers or workers, in fact the whole organization is run on a non-profit basis. Clean sportsmanship is stressed and a decision is never questioned or a wrecked model never mourned over.

Self Supporting

In five years these growing citizens have paid for their building with all its repairs and equipment, and have a five-year lease from the city governing the site with perpetual upkeep of grounds.

The writer speaks from the experience of long close association with these fellows, and when he pauses to remark, that this band of boys come the nearest to doing something with nothing, than anyone he has ever heard of before. They have learned to use scrap materials and have become adept at fashioning many wonderful models out of waste. All models are the working variety.

Entertainments

All work and no play would make dull boys out of the best, so once a month they hold a dance and invite their parents and girl friends. The music is furnished by the public address system of the Radio Division. Several times during the year they have an old fashion square dance for the old folks, this keeps parent interest at a peak.

Harmony and good will prevail at all these gatherings. The boys are personally responsible for the girls they invite. One of the girls takes the place of hostess, while the chief boy officer is host.

Last September the American Legion Post No. 30 took over the sponsorship of this loyal band and, needless to say, the future looks a lot brighter to them. The Legion members

In this organization, gentle readers, I see a hobby ambition and dream come true. The boys are learning the proper use of leisure time and I am gaining in very unusual experience. It may be lots of work, but believe me, it pays big dividends in friendships that count.

—H. R. Howard.

By Danny Britton

Would you believe that—

1. The red-headed school ma'am from Arizona is known by—Mrs. David, Bassel, Katherine, Lucille, Tantlinger, William, Alexander Junior? — and for lack of ink we omit six other nick names?

2. Doc* Maxwell is "fill-in Sky-Pilot" at the Unitarian Church?

3. Ida Laughlin's chief topic of conversation is "now in San Francisco—?"

4. Jack Smith thinks that fraternities on this campus are a lot of Whooley?

5. George Cutler thinks Jack is full of "bushwaw?"

6. Virginia Wilson's retort to Dr. Jacobs is—"Now I'll go you one better?"

If you didn't know all this—all you gotta do is stand around with your teeth in your mouth and you'll be surprised what you can learn.

* * *

Why just the other day a certain well known instructor with the prefix "Doctor" before his name sent out a questionnaire and among the questions one was "What features in this course do you like best?" One of the answers was "Your features."

* * *

Now for the benefit of the wives of the profs—by a generous crossing of my palm I can give them further and more valuable information. I can handle anything but breach of promise suits or elopements.

* * *

And by the way, Doc Ellison was wondering the other day if these new "fade away" bathing suits were "breach of promise" suits. It seems like the more they promise the less they get.

* * *

They may be called "see more" suits but the way their owners loll around in the same I'd call them "see less." At the rate they are cutting these bathing suits away it won't be long before the guy who wears a suit will be put in jail for being eccentric.

* * *

I don't know where the idea came from but I suppose it was from some Scotchman who had heard about "free motion."

* * *

I often wonder if Eve could come back and see all of this if she'd eat another apple or take it in hard cider.

* * *

I know she would if she could see Ray Casey or "Tiny" Cushman dressed as Chinks at the Oriental Ball Friday night.

Post-Season Course In Carpentry Given

A post session course in carpentry will be offered the week following the close of the summer session, providing there is sufficient demand for the work. The content of the course will involve the constructional problems of house building. Thirty-six hours of work will give one unit of credit. The class will work on the house being constructed by the regular summer session class. This project has been an exceptionally fine one and will afford many very interesting constructional and layout problems.

The house is 44 by 44 feet in size and is of frame construction. It will contain seven rooms. The exterior will be plastered. It is located only about 5 minutes drive from the college.

Any person interested in enrolling for the post session should see the instructor, J. Douglas Wilson, or Mr. Soules at once, as the enrollment will close on July 24th. The class will be in session from Monday, August 3rd through Friday, August 7th. Enrollment blanks can be secured from the registrar's office.

GOOD SPEAKERS ARE INCENTIVE TO SQUABBLES

Henry Cushman and Prescott Pierce, in despair of ever stirring up a good fight among the fifty-eight members of the Squabble Club have engaged President Phelps, Gene Boyle, Ralph Bush and Douglas Wilson to start something at their meeting on July 22, which is guaranteed to end in a good scrap.

The meeting will start at 6 P. M. with a "Round Table Square Meal" in the dining hall. After dinner a parade will form on the campus and proceed to the home of Roy Soules in Mission Canyon where the discussions will be held.

President Phelps will speak on "The Future of Industrial Education." There are bound to be enough different views on this subject to provoke at least lively discussion.

Gene Boyle will ask the question "Should Smith-Hughes' work be continued?" Here is a splendid chance to express opinions. We all have them. Let's hear what they are.

Ralph Bush says: "The shop should be a dumping ground for the low I. Q. student." How about it? If you don't think so, come out and speak your mind. That is what the club meetings are for.

J. Douglas Wilson is going to tell "Why shop teachers are unable to teach the related subjects," and ask, "And are the subjects of any value to vocational work?" There two subjects open up real opportunities for argument. "Bring your ideas along and give them an airing. The rest of the boys would like to hear what you have to say."

According to President Henry Cushman and Secretary Prescott Pierce the attendance is good but there hasn't been a real scrap yet. If you can't squabble they invite you to learn how. If you are good at it they would like to be shown.

GOOD ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS

Ray Casey is to be complimented on his consistently good assembly programs. Starting with the first one, when he appeared in person in a piano monologue, he has secured acts which have all been interesting; some on them exceptionally so. Mr. McAllister, summer music instructor, has been responsible for the success of many of the musical numbers.

Casey, when asked what became of his self-advertised song, "I'm Just a Little Dandruff Trying to Get a Head", replied that he had intended to make up the tune as he went along, but he forgot the words. We think that he may yet be prevailed upon to give this offering before an assembly, in spite of his excuse.

Zoology Class Takes Field Trip At Beach

By "Chappie" Harrison

What! Another fine morning? Well, folks, believe it or not, that is just what confronted the students of the marine zoo class at five o'clock last Friday morning, as they appeared bright and early at Hendry's beach.

Well, to continue, we spent one very interesting hour on the rocks (how many of us spend our lives on them), collecting a wonderful variety of shell creatures, among which were one solitary octopus, two kelp crabs, several molluscs, and innumerable others.

The party then converged upon the fire, where Miss Larco, who presided over the commissariat, had arranged a breakfast, which the budding scientists, assisted ably by the author, speedily demolished.

As soon as the breakfast had been safely disposed of, a search party was dispatched to rout out the clean-up committee, which had mysteriously dis-

COLLEGE TO PAY WATER BILL

The city council of Santa Barbara has decided that Santa Barbara State college will have to pay for the city water it uses. Water has been donated by the city to the college since its founding. The council gives no reasons for its change of policy, but it is thought that the increase in value of water under the threat of shortage has a bearing on the matter.

President Clarence L. Phelps, of the college, Friday made a request to the council that the college be relieved of the necessity of payment this year. This was frowned upon by the councilmen.

President Phelps said that the annual budget of the college had already been prepared and signed by the governor, and that it would be difficult to get an appropriation for water.

SQUABBLE, YOU SQUABBLERS

Prescott Pierce, secretary of the "Squabble club," is busy most of the time trying to think of some topic along the lines of Industrial Education that will make the club members mad enough to overcome their inhibitions and get up at a round-table discussion and yell out their views on the subject.

Pierce says that they haven't had a good fight yet, and he is getting a little discouraged. It is our opinion, after a glance at the program for Wednesday's verbal tussle, that he will need chloroform to stop 'em in time for class Thursday morning.

And the office force still wonders if a good squabble is possible without women.

appeared with the breakfast, or rather at the same time as the breakfast. The search party might have spared themselves the pains, for the clean-up committee, in the persons of the author and Miss McCummings had long since sidled to the water's edge, and then beaten a hasty retreat down the beach.

The official car of the "Roadrunner" waited until the last car had left the beach, and the Miniature Brainstorms were all on their way, prepared for another day's onslaught upon college work.
