GRAD GIFTS FROM HELL

Nothing's worse than a bad graduation gift. In high school, for example, all my friends got really cool stuff for graduation: cars, trips to Europe or Hawaii, things like that.

I got luggage. (Or, in the words of Charlie Brown, "I got a rock.") Nothing sends that subtle message of "Get out of the house, kid" like a nice set of luggage. And this wasn't just normal luggage, either. This was the Suitcase from Hell.

About as big as a good-sized desk, this unholy valise could that very same suitcase to move my unemployed self back into my parents' house, I have begun to worry about what sort of graduation gifts await me this time around.

Of course, the best of all possible gifts would be cash, but I don't foresee that happening. Instead, I can imagine such joys as some nice, sensible appliances for when I finally get that apartment. I have a lot of things in my future to worry about, but whether or not I'll be able to pu-ree really isn't toward the top of probably serve as an emergency shelter or apartment. There have been occasions when I couldn't use this suitcase because it's so big it won't fit in somebody's auto trunk. This is a really big suitcase. Once again, the subtle subtext was still evident: "Not only do we want you out of the house, but we want you to take as much of your stuff as possible with you." The gift that keeps on giving.

Now, five years later, while I am enjoying the irony of using the list. Along the same lines, new pots and pans might seem like a constructive idea, but since all I've learned to cook at college is Top Ramen, I don't see any gourmet dinner parties in my immediate future.

Another nice, sensible gift would be a new suit to wear to all of those great menial Mcjob interviews I have to look forward to. Hooray.

Actually, pretty much anything would be OK, as long as it's not luggage.

Parental Tour of Santa Barbara

When parents and other relations come to town to witness your graduation, they may be inclined to do something nice for you while they're here to celebrate your inauguration into the real world. Encourage them. Have them take you out, have a good time. That kind of thing.

The odd thing about this summer ritual is that while the graduate may be the star for the day or weekend, the guest of honor if you will, he or she is also the host, the one who knows the sights and smells and savors of the area, the one who must do the entertaining. This "guest-host" status goes beyond what Joan Rivers did on "The Tonight Show" before she gave it up to sink into obscure mediocrity; it conveys a responsibility which shows that, even if you told them you never went out because you were at home studying, you have a clue about your surroundings — enough to play guide.

The key is to know what kind of folks you've got for yourself. Some parents may want to see college life verite, to experience Santa Barbara, Goleta and Isla Vista as you, the student, did. For these people, start the evening watching the sun go down while the couches light up on the streets of I.V. After breathing in a few lungfuls of burning synthetic upholstery, take them back to your apartment, handing out lots of change on the way, and serve them whatever's left in the fridge. Add lots of ketchup. Say things like, "Yes, this does cost me $325 a month. No, the roaches come free."

"...you can watch the German tourists ride on their four-wheeled pedal cruisers."

Not everyone will want this kind of treatment, however. Or survive it. Many folks will want to experience the local fare that you never had: eating out and not getting a burger, sub, burrito or pizza, for example. Have them take you to a place that is near the sea but doesn't have an apartment complex between it and the shore. Downtown has a number of such places, and you can watch the German tourists ride on their four-wheeled pedal cruisers. Say things like, "Hey, why aren't they taking our order at the register? Hey, hey, isn't that my bike chassis welded to that bench?"

Take your family on a cruise down State Street. Explain that all the bartenders know your name because they're all T.A.s you once had; they're just working their way through grad school. Learn where the art museum is beforehand so you can show that you know where it is, implying that you've been there.

The most important thing is to have fun — the good, clean kind that you will be increasingly limited to as an adult. Maybe even turn things around and have your parents show you what they do for entertainment in the real world. Say things like, "I love you, Mom and Dad. Is this the rest of my life?"
