MR. JACOBS RECEIVES HONORABLE MENTION

"Choosing Your Life Work," a recent book written by William Rosenberg of Jersey City, contains an expression of indebtedness on the part of the author to Professor Charles L. Jacobs whose work in the vocational guidance movement has been of assistance in the writing of the book.

The object of the book as expressed by the author is to present a simple plan whereby the individual may analyze his own capacities, aptitudes and interests and plan his career accordingly.

Mr. Jacobs who is head of the Community Mechanics work in this institution has done considerable work in this field. Among other things which he has issued is a bibliography of literature in the field of vocational education together with a critical estimate of the value of the individual articles.

Students who attended the dances held at Samarkand have been expressing their delight and appreciation of the opportunity of holding their affairs in such a charming place. The Student Body is extremely grateful for the courtesy extended them.

LETTER RECEIVED FROM ART INSTRUCTOR WOLF

The following letter was received during the holidays from Professor Hamilton Wolf, instructor in the Art Department on leave of absence. Mr. Wolf will return to resume his duties next semester.

To the Editor of the Eagle,
State Teachers' College,
Santa Barbara, California.

This will reach you upon your return from the Christmas holidays, and so in time, for greetings to everyone for a Happy New Year.

Soon after I had written my letter to the Eagle, in London, I left for Calais, where my French cousins awaited me and we motored up into Belgium through the battlefields along the Yser, as far as Bruges, where I left them to go on to Brussels, Antwerp, north to Amsterdam and the other cities of Holland.

It was in Ghent, we again met to drive south through Ypres to Rouen, where they live and after a few days, I joined another cousin in Paris, an artist with a studio in the Latin Quarter.

I had built dreams about this city of cities and they all came true, because no capitol in the world is as beautiful and nowhere does living seem so full to the brim as in Paris, for whether it be in the sunshine or the glisten of the rain, there is always scintillation, life, and an "elan de vie" no other place has.

It was hard to leave the friends I met in Montmartre and our quarter, but the day did come when I started south for Venice, Florence, Rome and Naples. I went to Pompeii and up Mount Vesuvius where great clouds of orange colored smoke piled into the sky from the inner crater. The Island of Capri and its blue grotto were beautiful and made me think of our trips to Santa Cruz island.

I took a ship to Palermo, Sicily, and from there to Northern Africa, reaching Tunis, which is a mixture of Arabian and European, but when I went to the Holy City of the Arabs at Kairouan, I experienced the thrills of my life.

The Sabbath of the Arabs is on Friday and I arranged to be in Kairouan on that day, so as to see the Dervishes go through their religious rites, that are more ghastly than anything I have ever beheld.

(To be continued next week)

a great message to bring of the wonderful progress of the work generally made over the country, and of the better understanding of the import of the work. Her main theme was concerning the place of Home Economics in Education. She said: "It was proving itself to belong to the Main Stream of Education, and was not a contributing branch."

Miss Ebbets and Miss Whitcomb were associated together in the Food Administration during the war, so it was a pleasure to meet again.

Miss Ebbets also attended the Santa Barbara College Alumni breakfast, at the hotel Alexandria, and there met many of her old students.

COLLEGE WINS FIRST BASKETBALL TILT

The State College started the basketball season in the right direction when the local casaba quintet downed the Redlands University five 29 to 20 in a fast game on December 18 of last year. The victory is attributed to the spectacular basket shooting of Jimmy Anderson and his runner up for high point man, "Frenchy" Williams. Captain Hosegood received the honors for the bulldogs by scoring ten points; and Jeffers, their pinch shooter, who scored six points in the final few minutes of play.

The local quintet grabbed the lead at the start and practically cinched the game by finishing the first half 17 to 8 in their favor. The bulldog five played a spectacular passing game in the second half, but failed to cut down the margin that the Roadrunners had set up. They displayed systematic defense also; but they failed at basket shooting.

COLLEGE QUINTET DOWNED BY U. C.

The local basketball quintet met its first defeat in two years when the fast 145 lb. crew from the University of California won in the local gym last Wednesday evening to the tune of 36-19. The northern squad took the game by dint of systematic passing and defense and remarkable basket shooting. The roadrunners were unable to find the basket until it was too late, although they almost caught up with the Bear cubs in the beginning of the second half.

Lifchiz of the northern squad won all honors for high point man by heaving six field goals during the evening, although he was closely followed by Werner, his partner forward, who threw five.

Williams, Anderson, and Linder of the college were responsible for most of the Roadrunners' score. Minetti played in his first game since an injury last spring, but he was unable to find the basket except through free throws. The Roadrunner quintet reflected a lack of regular training for the past few weeks, due to the holidays.
