ONE LOCAL SCHOOL PROJECT APPROVED BY CWA BOARD AND CHANCES HELD GOOD FOR OTHERS

WORK STARTS AT ONCE ON H. S. PAINT JOB

"Czar" Lauds Work of S. B. County Committee
Solari Says Balance of Carpinteria Projects
May be Passed in Next Month's Set-Up

WORK will start immediately on the first of the Carpinteria School projects to be approved by the CWA officials, it was learned here yesterday. The project calls for painting the trim on the High School buildings, will involve about 450 man hours and approximately $600 for labor and materials.

Other projects submitted by local school officials stand a good chance of being accepted next month, according to E. D. Solari, chairman of the county CWA board, who stated yesterday that if the administration extends the CWA set-up from February 15 to April, as is expected, the improvements asked for by valley school boards will be among the first to be considered, and are likely to be accepted.

The projects, as listed in last week's Chronicle, include: painting and decorating Aliso school buildings; a turf-lawn sprinkling system for the grounds of the main building at the grammar school; construction of new toilet buildings for Aliso school; painting on grammar school building; building 2 concrete tennis courts at the high school; connecting the high school draining facilities with the sewer system.

At a meeting held last week the local high school board voted to pay the necessary balance on the cost of materials used in all projects accepted. (CWA stipulates that of all expenditures, not less than 60 percent must go for labor and that the cost of materials must not exceed 35 percent).

Although made a virtual czar of the state CWA organization last week, Major Ballinger asked the Santa Barbara county committee to remain in its present capacity, stating that if it had not been for the committee's help, the CWA program in this county would not have attained its present high standard of efficiency.

At the county board's meeting yesterday, the members voted to continue their duties as committeemen.

MARICOPA ROAD TO BE CLOSED FOR 4 MONTHS

RAIN DOES DAMAGE
Will Cost Thousands to Remove Slides

With steam shovels and trucks busy moving more than 100,000 yards of dirt from the recently completed Maricopa-Ventura highway, the result of heavy slides caused by recent rains, it was announced this week that the road will be closed for at least four months. At least that much time will be required, officials stated, to re-open the highway and to take care of additional slides that are likely to occur during the rest of the winter.

The road in some places is buried beneath 20 feet of dirt that has slid down from above. Cost of re-opening the road is expected to run from $25,000 to $50,000.

FIRST CARLOAD OF PEAS SHIPPED EAST NEXT WEEK

SEASON STARTS SLOWLY

Coast Market is Shot
by Late Crops

CARPINTERIA'S first carload of peas to be shipped in 1934 will leave for the east Wednesday, to be followed by a second on Friday, according to Chester Miller, of Miller and Humphreys, local packers and shippers.

Picking and shipping will require the services of 40 men, who will start work Monday on peas grown by Harry Russell, L. N. Bailard, and Miller and Humphreys.

"The coast market is only bringing around 5 cents per pound," Miller said yesterday. "In New York, where we are sending our peas next week, they are selling at $3.50 for a 28 pound frate.

Ferly Thomas, manager of the Cooperative Vegetable Growers, stated this week that his organization's shipments will be light until sometime next month.

"San Joaquin Valley peas are usually off the market by December," Thomas said. "But so far this year they have not been seriously damaged by frost, and their prevalence on the market, along with those of other localities of similar climatic conditions, is keeping the market too low to net local shippers anything from coastal markets. Even in San Francisco sales have been down. Usually that area brings a higher price than Los Angeles," he explained. "Around Los Angeles there are countless one and two acre growers who peddle their peas at prices that kick the bottom out of the market. Mexican peas can be shipped there and sold at a small profit, despite the duty.

"San Francisco, being far from any producing areas, and being by nature a quality market, always affords a top coastal market for peas and vegetables."

Local Lions At Large This Week

The following members of the Carpinteria Lions attended the county council of Lions last evening in Fillmore: John E. Jones, Marc Latham, E. D. Solari, Charles Verner.

Frank Smith and Charles Verner will go to Fresno tomorrow to attend the Midwinter Conference of District 4 of the Lions Club.

The local den's next meeting, in keeping with its 1934 bi-monthly schedule, will be held a week from tonight at the grammar school cafeteria. Each Lion will be required to bring a bundle of old clothes, which are to be turned over to the women CWA workers here, to be mended and distributed among needy local families.

Henkin Donates Theater to Aid CWA Activities

If you see a long line of kids with armfuls of old clothes at the Alcazar Tuesday afternoon, don't get the idea that Manager Henkin is going into the business.

With the generosity that has typified his attitude here, Sam Henkin is donating a Tuesday matinee to the local CWA project that provides employment for Carpinteria women.

Admission is to consist of whatever old clothes your children care to bring. All garments will be turned over to the Welfare Department to be mended and distributed to worthy families on the department's list. Local women are paid at the rate of 53½ cents per hour for their work of rendering cast-offs useable.

And if you don't mind our editorializing in the new columns of this, your weekly informant, may we voice the opinion that Sam's gesture is worthy of commendation?

MID-YEAR CLASS GRADUATES FROM H. S. NEXT WEEK

PRESIDENT OF NATL. EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION TO SPEAK FRIDAY AT "CARPINTERIANS" MEETING

CRAMER AND BLISS TO ADDRESS GROUP

Local Organization Has Secured $500 Worth of Free Publicity in Ten Weeks, Report Shows;
Credit Goes to James French Dorrance

JUSTUS F. CRAMER, president of the National Editorial Association, and Assemblyman George Bliss will be the speakers of the evening at the regular meeting of "Carpinterians" to be held in the Alcazar Ballroom at 7:30 tomorrow evening.

Cramer has been asked to speak on "What Publicity and Local Newspapers Can Do For Carpinteria." Bliss is to speak on "What Your Assemblyman Can Do For Carpinteria."

Directors of the organization look for a large turn-out both because of the two interesting talks that are promised, and because a number of important matters are to be brought up that have developed since the last meeting.

At the directors meeting, held Tuesday afternoon, the following matters were brought up:

The report of the Publicity Committee showed that in 2 and one-half months more than 50 items carrying "Carpinteria" date lines have been placed in the Los Angeles Times by James French Dorrance. As the report pointed out, this publicity amounted to over columns, or more than $500 worth of free publicity. A motion was made and carried that a vote of thanks be tendered Dorrance for his good work.

A letter received by Bert McLean as president of "Carpinterians," from Lewis Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, was read, in which the President's gratitude was expressed to the local organization for a letter sent to the White House recently, in which the confidence and appreciation were tendered to the nation's Chief Executive.

A committee was appointed, consisting of Tom Dinsmore, Cyril Hartley and Linn Unkefer, to ascertain what increase in the local tax rate would be incurred by the formation of a fire district here.

The necessity of a good attendance for tomorrow night's meeting was pointed out, because of the fact that the organization's last bi-monthly meeting was cancelled so that it might not conflict with the high school's Christmas exercises.

Legion to Check CWA Job Charges

In response to the charge made at Tuesday's Legion meeting, to the effect that single men without dependents have been given more remunerative jobs in the local CWA than married ex-service men, the Carpinteria post voted this week that a committee be appointed to determine whether or not such discrimination exists, and if it does, to learn why.

Commander Hebel of the local post has the appointment of such a committee under advisement, pending a consultation with the district CWA representative here.

The post's team for the coming Community Chest drive was named and consists of Marc Latham, T. M. Shorkley and Richard Kistler.

Twenty members attended the dinner and meeting at Cerca del Mar. L. K. Hebel and Richard Kistler were the committee in charge.

OUR HAT IS OFF TO—

ARTHUR M. CLARK

for his good work in securing Justus F. Cramer, president the National Editorial Association, as a speaker at tomorrow night's meeting of "Carpinterians."

OIL MAN BADLY HURT IN WRECK NEAR HERE

J. S. Tremayne, 1038 Tremaine avenue, Los Angeles, was perhaps fatally injured at 8:30 last evening when the La Salle sedan which he was driving skidded and turned turtle catapulting its occupants 25 feet from the wreck.

Wilbur Beggs, 1324 Cacique street, who was riding with Tremayne when the accident occurred, suffered minor cuts and bruises. He disappeared immediately following the wreck, and was located several hours later in Santa Barbara and taken to the hospital for treatment.

The sheriff's office expressed the opinion that the car, northbound, had skidded when its driver attempted to get back on the highway after passing another car. Tremayne's car, officers believed, was travelling at a high rate of speed.

Tremayne had not regained consciousness at an early hour this morning.

According to papers found on Tremayne's person by the sheriff's office, the victim is an oil man, and holds leases on several Summerland lots, as an agent of the Lincoln Drilling company.

L. E. Dellar, an employee of the Rincon Garage, was painfully, though not seriously, injured in moving the wrecked car off the highway, when his arm was caught in the chain of the tow car's hoist.

Things To Remember:

When Jack Morris, Gibby Martin and Remington Treloar had their plans for a skunk-raising enterprise frustrated by complaining neighbors.

Warren Tobey relating some of his adventures as an amateur detective.

Mel Curtis' tiny soprano saxophone.

The squad of kibitzers that patronized the Men's Club's afternoon penny ante sessions.

A sign in Old Town that read: "Wood for sell—chip!"

The big flock of buzzards that roosted in the oaks that used to stand at what is now the entrance to Sandyland Cove.

The voluminous ladies bathing suits that haunted—and we mean haunted—the "world's safest beach," back in 1912.

When there were three separate grammar schools—and no high school—in the valley.

THE COMMUNITY CHEST

WE had intended to write an editorial on the coming Community Chest drive, but when Jim Lewis showed us the statements made on the subject by prominent Carpentierians, we decided that they had expressed our sentiments better than we'd be able to do.

So here they are:

I approve of the Community Chest plan for helping of those less fortunate than ourselves. Because it is a practical way for carrying out the instructions of our Great Teacher, on the part of all the people—where our individual acts are multiplied by their union with the acts of others, thus producing the greatest good for the greatest number.

Because it provides for a fair and equitable distribution of the Community resources for welfare work, and because of it Moral and Social influence for good upon both the givers and the receivers.

Because it is the duty of the strong to help the weak, and because it exemplifies the greatest Truth. "Now abideth Faith, Hope, Charity,—but the greatest of these is Charity."

C. P. MOORE, Pastor
Carpinteria Methodist Church.

And here's what they said two years ago:

I support the Community Chest:

FIRST—because it is of no hindrance to any personal charity I may wish to do.

SECOND—The Community Chest is on the job all the time and meets cases of relief that I never would hear of. It does it quietly and without any blowing of trumpets.

THIRD and last—There are cultural agencies which I desire to help and I can best do this through the Community Chest. It is no disparagement to say that these agencies are objects of charity. Education was once a beggar, and had to plead for its side until the community took it over. The result is our splendid public school system. Let us all help and be happy.

REV. L. C. KIRKES,
Pastor of Community Church

Money subscribed by Carpinteria people to the Community Chest will pay big dividends. We have every reason to believe the present generation of young people will have a finer health and finer attitude towards their duties of citizenship because of the support given through the Community Chest to the Girl Scouts, Playgrounds, Milk Fund and Hi-Y.

MILDRED ANDREWS,
President Carpinteria Women's Club

I consider the Carpinteria Community Chest as the leading organization of the Community as its main object is the welfare of our Boys and Girls in the proper supervision of their social and recreational activities.

NELSON F. SMITH,
President High School Board

In supporting the Community Chest, we are helping to carry on the great and wonderful work of the several organizations that are training the younger generation to be better men and women.

J. E. JONES, Secretary
Carpinteria Chamber of Commerce

I think the Carpinteria Community Chest should get the generous support of every person in the valley that is interested in better citizenship. Most of the money spent on the character building activities of our children, therefore I consider it a joy and a privilege to help.

HARRY A. LINTZ,
Scoutmaster, Boy Scouts

Henry Ford's brother, William, is bankrupt. . . . The United States government is spending $31,179 a minute. . . . A Russian doctor transferred the cornea of the eye on a corpse to the eye of a woman who had been blind for 11 years. The patient can see now, but she's forgotten colors. . . . During the good old days of 1929, the cost of the paper alone in several issues of the Saturday Evening Post was over 40 cents per copy. . . . Eskimos rub noses when they feel like Americans do when they kiss each other. . . . More than 50 residents of Northern Scotland claim to have seen a "sea serpent" more than 30 feet long during the last few weeks. . . . "Fog cameras" are being installed on several American ships. The cameras can take pictures of people in pitch dark rooms, and develop them within 30 seconds. They're attached to the ship and allow the navigator to "photograph his way through the fog."

Governmental Glances

BY ASSEMBLYMAN GEORGE R. BLISS

19—SOCIALISM

UPTON SINCLAIR speaks at Recreation Center in the city of Santa Barbara tonight. He is a famous novelist, a Socialist, who is now a candidate on the Democratic ticket for nomination as that party's entry in the Governorship race, next fall. His platform, though comprising a number of different planks, is essentially a program of acquisition by tax sales, purchase and condemnation, of land and buildings for government operation of farms and factories, along with operation by private citizens and corporations of other farms and factories.

His presence here and his candidacy for Governor is a rather opportune time to consider this matter of Socialism a few moments. The government, which is all of us acting together, does two things. It regulates, and it operates. The policeman regulates conduct to protect citizens from bodily harm. The bank examiner is the bank policeman who regulates the activities of the bank in the interests of society generally. In each case the regulation follows out a law of Congress or some state legislature.

The government also operates. It operates our road system, our postal system, our schools, certain irrigation projects, in many cities the water system, power service or gas supply. When we use the word socialism, we ordinarily mean government operation of things. Of just such things as roads, schools and mails. The word has been used in many other ways, but I am using it now to cover broadly, government operation of activities, in distinction from the other function of government, namely: regulation of activities.

Anarchy means no government, either to regulate or operate. Capitalism is a system in which government regulates, but does not operate. Under socialism, the government both regulates and operates. Communism is socialism plus the ownership of all property by the government. So we have anarchy at one end, and communism at the other, with capitalism and socialism occupying the middle ground.

The socialist and communist are often condemned as vicious, horrible beings, outcasts to be shunned. Of course many who consider themselves socialists and communists are of the class of the unsuccessful, or the unfit, who turn against capitalism in their bitterness toward existing society. People in this frame of mind are not very attractive or lovely.

But I have noticed one thing.

The man who is thoughtfully a socialist or a communist, and the leaders in those countries where these ideas have become established, are men who are seeking to add to the welfare of others. By their very system, individual wealth is impossible to them. And yet they have risked their all in the past and are working like beavers in the present to make their form of government successful. They claim to be atheists, some of them. But if religion means love of the other fellow though their way be mistaken, these are religious.

Are leaders in our form of government interested unselfishly in the welfare of others than themselves? In some cases, yes. But I notice that when a leader really tries in idealistic brotherly fashion to do good to someone else than himself or his family, he is almost at once said to be trying to bring about socialism. See what they are saying about Roosevelt and the New Deal leaders.

Now, can we be brotherly without being socialistic? Can each of us have a deserved share of the good things of life, without communism? To what extent is the New Deal Socialism? What are the essential difficulties of socialism or communism? Is there a test, by which we can know whether to adopt a government ownership project? These are practical questions that we will tackle next week.

Les Carter To Manage Seaside Service Station

After an absence of a year and a half, Leslie Carter is greeting old Carpinteria friends at the local Seaside station. Following the expiration of the lease held by Vance Severance, the oil company will again take over the station tomorrow, placing Carter in charge.

Since leaving here 18 months ago Carter has gained considerable experience in the service station business, having managed a large super-service station at Stockton and assisted his father, R. L. Carter, in operating a Seaside station in Santa Barbara.

"Being away for a time has made us appreciate Carpinteria all the more," Carter said yesterday.

Harold Heltman, who has been employed at the local station for a number of years, will continue there as Carter's assistant, it was stated.

Severance said yesterday that his plans for the future are uncertain, but that he will remain in the valley for the present at least.

ings in Carpinteria Valley during the year.

2. To encourage attendance at the Bean Institute to be held at Solvang on February 8th. This activity is a county-wide meeting for all bean growers, where matters of importance and recent developments in the industry, including marketing agreements, will be discussed.

3. To cooperate with the Farm Home Department in its program for the Carpinteria Valley.

Standing committees will be appointed by Mr. Butler in the near future. The Membership Committee has already been appointed and is under the direction of Mr. Butler, president, John Hudson, vice-president, and Dave Safwenberg, secretary-treasurer.

Responding to the request of the County Farm Bureau for all centers to complete their membership work by the end of January, President Butler asks that all Carpinteria Valley farmers send in their dues, or give them to Dave Safwenberg at the local bank.

New Pole Beans Bring High Prices

the pole beans they raise to the eastern firm.

This year five acres were planted for seed, and an additional half-acre planted with poles to blimb on. The pole beans produced nearly 4 tons, about 3 times the top yield for ordinary beans.

And the new Burpee seed catalog carries on its back cover page a picture in colors of "Burpee's Best" pole beans, selling at "20 beans for 35 cents, or $4.50 per pound."

Are you surprised that 1934 will witness the planting of from 25 to 50 acres of the new pole beans?
