Sloan Asks Peace Program for Future

Fellow students:

I wish to apologize to you for not having finished something that I once started. I know that many of the students of the campus were as vitally interested with this campaign as I was, but other responsibilities commanded my attention and I left it in the hands of some people that I thought would really do something about it. I was wrong. They were good theorists, but as far as formulation of definite plans went, they didn't.

The thing to which I refer, was the proposed program for the part of Santa Barbara State college in the furtherance of peace in the United States. It is a worthy project for our students and should and shall be followed up. So I haven't completely let you down, I shall strive to bring it back into mechanical completeness for next Fall and will welcome any volunteers to assist in its formulation.

I do not blame the people concerned, we got a late start and many things came up that threw our plans out of line, but we're not stopped. But we did not complete our job and should not feel hurt with criticism.

Let's now pledge ourselves to put over this program in the future.

Sincerely, HARRY SLOAN

'THIRTY'

• The hardest task in the year's work is that of writing the traditional "thirty" editorial. But to this writer, it seems to be the scene of a cloud with a silver lining for El Gaucho. Throughout the year the staff has worked week upon week, attempting to present for every student body member, some semblance of the variety of activities of over eleven hundred students, participating in over fifty organizations, eight sporting programs, departmental work, entertaining productions, and student body affairs. To them, for staying with the job with little or no reward, but with an interest in doing something for the fun of it, we owe both our personal and combined gratitude. Sacrificing time, pleasure and studying for El Gaucho for the entire year, is their record, one which stands to the tribute of their value to the student body, one which needs no explaining as it is in the "black and white" of printers ink and newspaper copy.

The inheritance of El Gaucho has a brighter look for the coming year. For the first time in several years, the objectives of taking this paper forward to a bigger paper seem close. In the middle of the year when it became necessary to change El Gaucho to a weekly, we demanded four things to insure the development of our college paper to match the growing school of which we are a part. We asked for a student body budget, a publicity-advertising setup to work with El Gaucho, a class in journalists who would be required to form the reportorial staff, and a larger, semi-weekly paper for next year. We are proud to announce, that every one of these demands, have been answered. Next year El Gaucho will operate on a budget of five hundred dollars, will have its editorial staff working with the publicity-advertising director with a supporting staff of new journalists receiving class recognition for their efforts. To complete the picture, the publications board last week voted to begin El Gaucho on a semi-weekly basis with a 7-column size, identical to that which we are now publishing weekly. Therein lies the opportunities for your new editor, Tom Wharton, whose experience, dependability and sincere geniality make him the best qualified man for the important responsibility.

We believe that the student body has completed one of the banner years of its existence, improving every activity under the direction of the outgoing president, Danny D'Alfonso. And as the highest tribute which a student body can pay its leader, those of us at the final student body assembly of the year saw over five hundred students rise to their feet as the gavel passed from his hand, to applaud the sincere, democratic straight-thinking member of our group who proved his complete worthiness of being our choice for that position. To any future leader in student body affairs, the example is well set. The year has seen the first actual construction on the new college site, a step which seems to insure that some day, the Gaucho will reside in one of the finer campi of California. To a year so rich in actual accomplishment, richer still in promise for the future, we envy those who will go on at Santa Barbara State college in both their academic and extra-curricular.

In closing, we extend our appreciation to Jack Porter, the man who "has to put up with the editor which is selected", without whose ability to aid us in working through the problems of this publication, El Gaucho would not have been published over fifty times this year. For keeping us on the track, and yet allowing us all the freedom of thought and ideas, which college students possess, we thank you.

For service, so valuable that he was named the all-star reporter of the year, Frank Douglas, managing editor, deserves highest commendation for taking every assignment, every task given and seeing it done.

And lastly, to Tommy Wharton, successor to the "Fourth Estate" may we wish the success which will be more outstanding in view of the problems which he faces. Many of this year's editorial staff will be at his side to bring that goal. We of this year's staff know that the Gaucho is being left in good hands and so take our leave.

PRESIDENT'S DESK

By DANNY D'ALFONSO
• In the jargon of the journalist this is our "30" column. With the same reluctance with which we leave our other one or two interests we write this last of a new series of remarks and comments on campus activities. These columns marked the debut of this writer as a columnist, which was obvious. Without being able to tell whether this idea of a president's column was worthwhile or not we harbor a regret that they were not started sooner. However, that is neither here nor there. Let's omit our none-too-happy backward glances and cast an eye to the future of our big family.

Some fine appointments were made by both the old and new councils at their special meetings last Wednesday afternoon. Highlight of the joint gathering was the appointment of Tom Wharton as next year's editor of El Gaucho. A good personality, dependability, and with journalistic knowledge convince us the job will be very well done. Pal-mayness, Sloan, McKeon and Russell seem, in our estimation, to fit logically into the committee headships in which they were appointed. From where we stand it looks like Doug Duckham's choice of Jimmie Fullerton as Director of Assemblies insures the student body of many enjoyable hours. We know as a fact that the enterprising young gentleman has already commenced making out his schedule. We tab him a true success.

From reliable sources we hear that the yearbook, La Cumbre, will be out early this year. An innovation it will certainly be for this campus. Congratulations to Editor Irene Minikin and assistant Jimmie Stanley. Their work is the type that takes long, hard hours which few people know about.

Before we really type "30", we can't leave without a word of thanks to every person who has helped this writer try to make the past year a successful one. From our position, of course, it is difficult to take an objective point of view, in the evaluation of the activities. But whether we have done well or not, we shall never forget those that have helped us. My sincere thanks.

Ode to Fifth Semester Men

Hear Ye, students, my song of woe
The more you study, the less you know
You copied that test, made use of a pony
That excuse you gave was probably phoney
As time goes on (and time will go)
Your grade will drop lower than last year's low
For always have been and ever will be
Those who look and cannot see
The faculty, the lowly frosh,
And everyone else are at a loss
To hear the second yearmen wail
As they come to the end of the term and fail
So drink to the five semester man
With swarthy brow and cheek of tan
Who has weathered J.C.'s blasts and gales
Who ditches and fishes and chisels and fails

1939 Senior Cabinet Gathers at Meet

• Tuesday during second hour, officers for next year's Senior class held a cabinet meeting in Mrs. Abraham's office.

Plans for next year's program were outlined, the objective of the class being to make the student Senior-minded. A discussion concerning special seats in assembly and a special senior parking space was held. Plans were drawn up for a file in which will be kept the senior's name, address, and other activities. Sponsors for next year's class were also discussed.

DISTORTER PROVERBS

Better to have loved a short than never to have loved a tall.
Never burn your britches behind you.
People in two-story houses shouldn't throw water out of upstairs windows.

Goody, goody was a worm, a mighty worm was he;
He sat upon a railroad track—
A train he did not see,
Goody, goody!

COLLEGIATE COLLEAGUES

A modern murderer is supposed to be considered innocent until he is proved insane.

Germans name their battleships after jokes so that the English won't get them.

One Reason Why . . .
so many fellows are coming to college now is that it is much easier to enter a college than a labor union.

THE . . . "Mike"

FIRST, A COMMENT ON AWARDS

given in assembly to outstanding graduates. To Ann Seymour, winner of the Honor Copy of La Cumbre and the D.A.R. medal should go the unreserved admiration and appreciation of the entire student body. She has performed consistently, capably and efficiently those tasks which have been assigned to her during the past four years. She has held two of the highest student positions for which women are eligible on the campus, and her scholarship is high in the upper bracket in the graduating class. A logical award winner and one whose service to the school has been invaluable.

ALSO, TOO MUCH PRAISE

cannot be given to Betsy Wyman and Dick Powell as winners of the scholarship cups. Both history majors, they have maintained near-straight A averages for their four years of college work. They are students who study because they enjoy it, and for the benefits to be derived. Their awards arrive unexpectedly. They work, not with an eye toward award, but for the joy of working—a trait which would become all of us.

WE CANNOT HELP BUT

mention the dinner given by Dr. William Ellison, head of the history department, for his graduating seniors last Tuesday night. Recognizing a common purpose among the members, he gathered them together for one more meeting. Informal though it is, it made a group of busy seniors realize of what inestimable value their department is to them, as well as the splendid leadership of Dr. Ellison, whose intellectual achievement and understanding of student problems have made him one of State's most prominent and popular professors.

HEIL, HEIL, HEIL!

comes the report from yesterday's student legislature meeting. And the question of the possibility of "Dictator Duckham" is the question being discussed. According to rumorous reports, Duckham democracy is not all it is cracked up to be. His clever manipulation of appointments seemed to be a system around which there was no getting, according to reports. The "iron rule" is all right, but it has its disadvantages. A rebellious council is not progressive and may prove to defeat an administration's aims.

Honor system: Even his best friend wouldn't tell him so he flunked the exam.
