FALL 1990 CAREERS

"If you want to know all of your options, stop in at Counseling & Career Services for internships, job placement, and career advice for your future."

- Michael Chester ASUCSB President 1990-1991 Undergraduate, College of Letters and Science

"The university experience is more than earning a degree. It is a time for students to explore values and interests that will eventually help them choose a major, investigate graduate programs, and build a career. As an advisor in Letters and science, I encourage students to begin their search early by taking advantage of the valuable resources at Counseling & Career Services."

- Regina Fletcher College of Letters and Science - Academic Advisor Graduate Student, Graduate School of Education

"Graduate education can lead to a variety of rewarding careers. I recommend that students use the resources at Counseling & Career Services to learn about graduate schools and academic opportunities."

> - Charles Li Dean — Graduate Division

"As someone who works with a lot of employers, I clearly recognize the value of career preparation and highly endorse UCSB's Counseling and Career Services."

- Steve Cushman President, The Downtown Organization Executive Director, Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce UCSB Graduate

approaching and dealing with life changes in a productive and satisfying way. Our goal is to help students learn the skills and knowledge they will need to effectively integrate their personal, social, career, and intellectual development.

TRI

Toward this goal, we offer a wide range of services to students that address such issues as, gaining personal growth and self-understanding, choosing a major, managing stress, gaining career-related employment and/or graduate or professional training.

Career Planning Services includes individual and group counseling and advising for self-assessment, values clarification, decision making, career and life planning, and career information. We have a vast collection of career materials in written, computerized and video-taped formats. Topics such as choosing classes that can augment your major to enhance your "employability," predicted choice can all be explored in the Career Resource Room.

The college years are said by some to be comprised of different stages:

Freshmen said to be in an "exploring" stage may be interested in: terested in:

- Interest Inventories like the Strong-Campbell, Self Directed Search, and Sigi Plus.
- "Making College Pay Off" getting most of your college experience, and
- · "Choosing a Major" and "Major Decisions" are workshops about making the most of your "major" choice. Sophomores said to be in the "defining" stage may be

- Talking to a drop-in counselor in the Career Resource Life After Graduation,
- · Exploring the job career binders and

- At Counseling and Career Services we assist students in trends in your field and the typical salaries of your career Attending workshops to identify their job objective.
 - For those without majors, "Choosing a Major" and "Major Decisions" are still appropriate.

Juniors said to be in the "researching" stage may be in-

- · "Negotiating Skills" workshops

ATTENTION (almost) GRADUATES!

Dear Seniors:

DID YOU KNOW...

...that it is only 220 days to graduation! If you find this thought frightening, you may want to consider Life After Graduation. It's not too soon!

Every October we offer meetings for seniors and motivated juniors to help them get ready for life after college. We want you to know your options regarding deadlines, exams, applications for graduate school, internship experience and jobs/career choices.

These meetings will give you a chance to prepare for the transition from undergrad to career employee, grad student or intern.

Why do we offer these in October? Many deadlines are in the Fall. As seniors you'll need information to make the best decisions and to take advantage of the best opportunities. How do you find out about the meeting that fits you? There are meeting times for 17 departments listed here: note the time, date and location and show up!

For more information call the Career Resource Room at 893-4414.

Applications and test bulletins may be obtained from CASE and in the lobby of the Counseling & Career Services, Bldg. 599.

Graduate School

Considering post-graduate education?

Decide where, what and why. Will the program you are thinking about lead you to a goal or leave you basically where you are now? Choice of schools, Talk with your departmental faculty and with people in the professional areas of interest. Scan professional journals for issues of concern and research activity. Visit the school if at all possible. Use catalogues on microfiche in the Career Resource Room, Counseling & Career Services, Bldg 599. However, there are few reliable sources for rating graduate and professional schools.

When to apply. Early! Many financial awards go to those who apply during the first months of the application process. Schools vary, but do not be surprised to see deadlines as early as December or January. Be aware also that some programs start only in the fall.

Financial considerations. Checking out information in this area can be very helpful since there are many variations from school to school. Some offer assistantships, loans, or grants, as well as waiving fees for specific situations. Check the graduate and professional school indicies in the Main Library for assistance.

Examinations for admission to graduate and professional schools. Take them early. Your scores will then be available for early application procedures. Find out about test registration deadlines and test administration dates at Counseling & Career Services.

Are you ready for the world of work?

Find out what's out there. Who hires people for the type of work you want? Career planning groups and workshops are offered every quarter by Counseling & Career Services, Building 599. Research the possibilities in Career Resources.

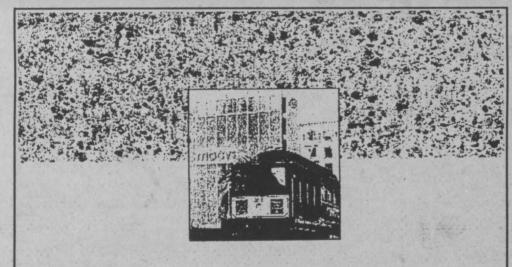

Prepare for the job search. Develop your interview techniques so that you can present yourself effectively. Learn how to survey the field for possible hidden opportunities. Develop a resume that will represent you to potential employers. Workshops are offered each quarter through Counseling & Career Services to assist you in building these skills.

Contact employers. Make use of the Campus Interview Program for professional interviews and to check on career opportunities in a variety of areas. The program is now underway. Also, check out opportunities for internships through the Applied Learning Program, Counseling & Career Services, Building 599.

Examinations may be required for many government positions. Applications and information are available in Counseling & Career Services, Building 599.

Orchestrating it all. The process takes time: time to do, and time to reflect. Exploration will broaden your horizon; open up alternative strategies for approaching the problem. Learn about them through workshops offered by Counseling & Career Services (building 599) or enroll in Education 164 (Introduction to Educational and Vocational Guidance) offered each quarter

ON CAMPUS INTERVIEWS: NOV. 13, 1990

There must be some way to avoid doing the same thing for the next forty years.

Life's been pretty good so far. You've kept moving—taken all the right steps along the way (for the most part). And now you're ready for the biggest step.

You'll be getting your degree from a top school. You're about to find a great job.

The question is: which job? And will it have the potential to interest you for a whole career?

You've probably heard the story of the job applicant who said he was a shoe salesman with fifteen years experience. "No," corrected the recruiter interviewing him, "you've had six months experience thirty times."

Isn't there some way to keep challenging yourself in new and different areas?

Andersen Consulting offers you the opportunity to work on a variety of projects—with clients in a wide range of industries.

We are the leader in helping organizations apply information technology to their business advantage. Every hour of every business day, we implement a solution to help one of our more than 5,000 clients worldwide.

What makes that possible is the quality of our people. And the quality of our training. We're known for both.

Because business and technology are ever-changing, we see training as a continuing process. And our $123-million Center for Professional Education in St. Charles, Illinois, is just one measure of our commitment. We train you for a career—not just a job.

Does the idea of forty years of knowing exactly what you'll be doing each week scare you? Then don't settle for that. Demand challenge and variety. Come talk to us. And find out more about a career with Andersen Consulting.

Don't look for an accounting job

Look for a career...

...at ARCO Transportation Company.

You've worked hard throughout college. And you've earned your accounting degree. Now it's time to go to work. But you want more than just a job. You want a career.

Embarking on a career, rather than just landing a job, is clearly a function of choosing the right company to work for. Because you'll want to choose an organization with a progressive climate -- one that will train you and develop your skills, one that will help you grow and encourage you to advance in your chosen field.

If you're one of the select group of accounting graduates chosen each year for our Accounting Development Program (ADP), that organization may very well be..... ARCO Transportation Company.

Athletes Look at Career Arena

The score is tied with time running out. The crowd, gripped with tension, teeters on the edge of their seats. Nothing less than a super hero climax will insure safety for fans, coaches, and athletes. The arena is prepped to explode.

Magically...O'Brien breaks free...HUSH...:03...:02...He shoots...:01...It's GOOOOD! Gauchos Win. O'Brien is mobbed. Reporters want the scoop. President Bush wants him for lunch. The next week sees an unprecedented number of newborns named

"O'Brien, what are you doing next?"
I'm going to Disneyland."
"...What about after that?"

"Say What?"

"...What are you doing when college athletics are over...?"
"...Well...?...I haven't thought of that...? Besides I'm not finished playing. I'll find a job that keeps me playing, or pick up some work through connections. Shoot I don't know. I really haven't thought that far ahead. I don't want to think about work right now!'

Versions of the scenario described above are common; student athletes riding the crest of college athletics only to be pounded face first into the rocky shore of reality with no professional contract and no awareness of how they want to spend their lives. As an athlete I experienced my version of the athletic hangover and now as a coach I have seen many former athletes experience similar deflation of self esteem and motivation. How can someone go from super achiever to super weiner just by taking away the athletic arena? How can some athletes get blind sided so hard by something as ordinary as the future? It happens every day across America, at all levels from amateur to professional; post athletic career blues.

To non athletes the "post athletic blues" may sound silly but consider the factors. NCAA division 1 college seniors have been competing in their sports for 15 years or more. Division 1 athletics are year round, while earning a scholarship requires making a full time commitment to a sport well before high school. "Full time commitment" varies in definition but entails planned diets, long workouts, little or no job experience, no income, and no experiential sense of what it is not to be an athlete. Driven student athletes often grow dependent on athletics for happiness and self esteem and many athletes get so engulfed by athletics they do not develop support systems outside of sports. The peek of success is a difficult time to leave a job, especially if your career has been a game.

The question still remains, can athletic experiences be valuable in the real world?

This past year the UCSB swimming team answered yes. Through

by Joe O'Brien

Asst. Swim Coach

UCSB's Counseling & Career Services, junior and senior Gaucho swimmers began transferring athletic skills and accomplishments into professional tools. Teaming up with internship advisor Don Lubach, Gaucho swimmers began investigating career options through the C&CS's Internship program. The objective of bringing the team to the Career Center was to get them thinking of how their experiences in athletics will be valuable in their future. Noted Lubach, "Gaucho swimmers have excellent transferrable skills that apply directly to the world of work. An obvious one is their propensity to get out of bed before the sun to begin a disciplined routine of exercise and goal-driven improvement."

The process of investigating career options, and diving into the work environment have proven enlightening for the Gaucho swimmers. "Our athletes expressed enthusiasm and amazement throughout the process of career exploration," observed Gaucho head coach Gregg Wilson. "Not all of them enjoyed what they found in their primary career choice, but all learned about life away from athletics.

Investigating careers while still in school is the key and the value of the career resource center to student athletes can not be overestimated. Increased responsibility and financial obligations make waiting until graduation too late. Opportunities to investigate career interests are costly and harder to find away from the university and if student athletes are not set for a career they feel good about before leaving school they may find themselves committed to a job they have no interest in but, economically, are unable to quit.

The internship is just the start. A group of university staff including Lubach, academic advisor Jack Rivas, Career Planning Coordinator, Dennis Nord and myself (Joe O'Brien) are working on further assisting student athletes in achieving success away from athletic competition. The group hopes to improve post athletic career planning by investigating the feasibility of a skills crossover program and a student athlete career retreat. The crossover program will help athletes transfer elements of athletics into other areas of life, while the retreat will build personal and social awareness along with crossreferencing individual needs and goals to various career options.

Concern for post graduation life may seem atypical of a competitive Division 1 athletic program, but then nothing is typical about the people who comprise the Gaucho athletic department. UCSB has an outstanding athletic organization from coaches to administrators to support staff. The dominant concern in the department is the student athlete's educational, emotional, and physical well being. We want to win, but we want our kids believing that their greatest successes in life are still to come.

International Expo

On Friday, Oct. 12 from 10 a.m.-3 p.m., representatives from more than twenty different study and work abroad programs will gather at the UCEN Pavilion to answer questions about when and how to apply to programs that place students in educational experiences throughout the world. Not everyone wants to or can afford to participate in the University of California's well-known Educational Abroad Program. However, more students are beginning to recognize the importance of living and working in another culture. As Jesse Jackson preached from Storke Plaza during a not so distant election campaign, "English Plus" not "English Only" is what is needed to address the complexity of an ever increasing global economy and a need for world citizenship values.

At the Expo event, students can find out about the Semester at Sea program, the Butler University programs in Australia or England, or a host of other programs that cover all of Europe to Mexico or Japan. Students appreciate the chance to not only attend classes abroad, but also experience the people and culture while volunteering in a community service project or program such as UC EAP's Mexico Field/ Study Abroad Program or by participating in a two-week international work camp while spending the remainder of the time traveling to areas near by. Students can learn how to get work permits through the Council for International Education Exchange (CIEE)'s work abroad programs in countries ranging from Jamaica, Costa Rica, Spain, France, Germany and New Zealand. Other international internship types or programs attending include Boston University's London Internship Programme, Association for International Practical Training (IAESTE) and Amigos de Las Americas. Finally, Monterey Institute will be presenting on "International Careers" over the noon hour as well as sharing graduate school information throughout the day.

• Ed. 164 requires students to learn about the world of work through first hand experience, meeting people in careers and evaluating a match for themselves. You will learn about career planning by practicing on yourself and meeting in small discussion groups to share what you are learning. Learning is promoted by experience, reading and first hand research in the field. · Students who are, or want to be peers helping others with academics, careers, majors or graduate school will benefit from the experience of Ed. 164. Those who are considering counseling will benefit from the experience of working through their own assessment and research in order to better help others.

ED 164 is offered Fall, Winter and Spring quarters.

Campus Interview Guide

WHAT ARE CAMPUS INTERVIEWS?

Employers from large companies, government agencies, and school districts come to Counseling & Career Services to interview students for permanent professional positions upon graduation. These are entry level positions which do not require experience. The purpose of the campus interview is to screen applicants for further interviewing at the employers'

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

You must be a currently enrolled student for the full-time/permanent employment interviews, graduating no later than August 1991. A few employers interview sophomores and juniors for summer jobs, usually in the accounting or technical fields. You must complete both a Counseling & Carros Services Projects: ing & Career Services Registration Form and a Campus Interview Registration Form in order to be eligible to participate in campus interviews. You only need to do this once during the academic year unless there are changes in your address, phone number, GPA or expected graduation date. You may update such information at the Campus Interview Desk.

HOW TO OBTAIN INTERVIEWS —

There are two possible routes to a campus interview. The first one is through the computerized bidding process. The bidding system maximizes your chances of getting interviews with the employers you are most interested in without standing in line. At the beginning of each quarter you will be assigned 1000 points. You decide how many points to bid on each employer of your choice. All bids are entered into a computer and students who meet the employers' requirements, with the highest bids will be the "Selected Bid Winners. The bids you file that are accepted will be automatically subtracted from your 1000 points. The only instances in which you will be given your bid points back are if you were not a "Selected Bid Winner" or if an employer cancels. (You are responsible for keeping track of your point balance).

The second route is open sign-ups. One week prior to the interview date, any remaining slots on the schedules from the previous bidding period(s) will be available to students

BEFORE YOU BID -

Check the Master Calendar across from the Interview Deck for the following information:

1. Which employers are looking for your major(s).

2. The week number in which the inter-

3. The date the bid filing begins.

4. The company number.5. The number of schedules/interviews they have available.

Make sure you meet all the requirements specified by the employer or you will be disqualified to interview. That information is noted on the Recruitment Information Form in the Job Description Binders.

Do some research on the company. Employer brochures and videotapes are in the Career Resources Room to help you decide if you are interested in interviewing with an employer as well as to help you prepare for the interview.

FILING BIDS -

Pick up a bid sheet at the Interview Desk and fill it out completely with a No. 2 pencil. Deposit your bid sheet(s) in the Bid Box on the Interview Desk, on Wednesday, Thursday, or no later than 4:30 p.m. on Friday, three weeks prior to company interviews. Once submitted, your bid sheet(s) cannot be returned to you. ALL BIDS ARE FINAL! Bids must be filed in person, not by mail.

CONFIRM APPOINTMENTS —

The "Selected Bid Winners" lists are posted in the Interview Waiting Room. You must confirm by making an interview appointment time with a resume on Tuesday, Wednesday or no later than 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, two weeks prior to company interviews. All appointments must be made in person at the Interview Desk. Please, no telephone inquiries about the "Selected Bid Winners" lists.

OPEN SIGN-UPS -

If you missed the bidding process for a certain week or if the company scheduled a recruiting date after its filing period had started, "Open Sign-Ups" are available for any remaining interview slots. Open signups start on Mondays* at 8:30 a.m., one week prior to company interviews. Sign ups are on a first come, first serve basis and will continue until schedules are filled.
