AIRPORT STAYS IN CARPINTERIA HALL LEASES FIELD FOR A YEAR LANDING FIELD TO BE IMPROVED

CONSOLIDATION PLANS FALL THROUGH

Local Aviation Facilities Will Not Be Moved; Ten Ships Housed In Modern Hangars Here; Grounds To Be Graded And Oiled

CARPINTERIA will not only retain its airport for at least another year, but the present landing field is to be leveled, improved and oiled so that it will compare favorably with leading coastal air centers, it was announced yesterday by Barney Hall, manager of the Carpinteria Airport. Hall stated that he has just completed negotiations to sub-lease the local field for the coming year from Walter Hoffman, Santa Barbara, who holds the present lease from the property owners, Mrs. Jennie Catlin and C. B. Franklin.

The Chronicle was the first newspaper to publish, on September 15th the story that the airport might be moved away from Carpinteria. At that time a deal was pending which would have meant the consolidation of the Carpinteria and Goleta fields at Goleta.

"Immediately upon publication of the story we received a storm of protests, particularly from Montecito aviation enthusiasts, who assured us their utmost support should we continue the field at its present site," Hall said yesterday. "Those who protested the move pointed out that as it now stands its draining facilities and natural advantages make it one of the few all-weather airports in this part of the state. The fact that Santa Barbara has no airport of its own, and Carpinteria's proximity to both Montecito and Santa Barbara, have contributed to make our field a regular port of call for fliers from all parts of the west."

CARP. MAY HAVE "SKY ROAD" LINK

Dinsmore Sees A Chance For Terminus Here

"EL CAMINO CIELO," the "sky road" which is being constructed along the mountain ridge from San Marcos pass southward, will have a Carpinteria terminus, if Supervisor Tom Dinsmore has anything to say about it.

"Under the new Federal relief set-up," Dinsmore said yesterday, "The road will be widened to a two way highway from one end to the other. I hope to secure a road from the new boulevard down into Carpinteria, leaving El Camino Cielo near Casitas Pass and giving this valley an easy access to the scenic drive."

"Work should progress rapidly now, for after the first of next month there will be nearly 3000 men employed on the new highway. One group is working at the northern end, another bunch started in Ventura county and are coming this way, while about 1600 will be put to work back of Carpinteria and Summerland."

Dinsmore left early this morning to attend a meeting in Los Angeles of the State Chamber of Commerce where, with supervisors from all over Southern California, he will hear particulars of the 400 million dollar federal unemployment relief fund from a representative of the president who has just come from Washington, D. C.

Cerca del Mar To Be Opened In January State Will Lease To Local Legion Post

DUNNE STRESSES NEED FOR FIRE EQUIPMENT HERE

"CARPINTERIANS" MEET Completion Of Pier Is Possible Soon

EXPENDITURE of approximately $1500 for a fire truck and equipment for Carpinteria valley was urgently advised by County Forester Frank Dunne in his talk before more than 40 "Carpinterians" at that organization's regular meeting Friday night in the Alcazar auditorium.

"For about $1500, a small fire truck equipped with hose and carrying its own water supply of from 250 to 1000 gallons, could be purchased, and it would be adequate to minimize the fire hazard now menacing this community," Dunne said.

"By carrying its own water supply this type of truck eliminates the necessary for large water mains and fire hydrants. The tank could be refilled in a few minutes and the truck would afford a large degree of fire protection for every house and building between Sandlyland and the Rincon. If the people of the valley realized the risk they are running in being without some such equipment it is hardly conceivable that the funds could not be raised by popular subscription."

CUBAN BEANS HIT EASTERN MARKET

But Local Limas Still Bring Highest Prices

FOUR cars of Carpinteria green limas were shipped this week to an eastern market that may break lower as Cuban beans begin to enter into the picture. Miller & Humphreys and the Cooperative Association have each shipped 2 cars since Thursday. The current price dropped to an average of about $5 per crate after touching a new high last week in some cases of $6.

"Cuban beans are reaching New York regularly now," Perly's Thomas, manager of the Cooperative Association said yesterday. "Their quality seems to vary a great deal, due either to a spotty harvest or variable grading on the part of the shippers. As a result the prices on Cuban beans will range all the way from $2 to $5.50 per crate, at the same time that Carpinteria beans hold steady at from $4 to $5."

Thomas stated that the cold nights which the valley has experienced recently will have no effect on local green beans other than retard their development, and that the fog does not injure the crop, although it slows up picking considerably.

Eastern Star Elects Officers for Year

Vallecito Chapter, O. E. S., held its annual election of officers following a pot-luck dinner at their meeting last week. Those elected were: Worthy Matron, Mrs. Emma Gillum; associate matron, Dr. Genevieve Shorkley; conductress, Mrs. John Hudson; associate conductress, Mrs. Ruby Loudon; worthy patron, George Hae; secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Shride; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Safwenberg.

Next Week's Issue Will be 2 Days Early

So that you may read the specials to be offered by leading Carpinteria stores in time to buy the things that make Thanksgiving what it is, the next issue of the Chronicle will be published on Tuesday, the twenty-eighth, instead of Thursday. In it you will find advertisements of the pre-Thanksgiving specials offered by your local merchants for Tuesday and Wednesday.

News articles and ad copy for this issue should be in our office not later than Monday morning. We'll see you two days early next week.

P-T. A. SHOW TUESDAY Pets, Dolls And Hobbies To Be Displayed

ANYTHING in pets—from fleas to trained seals, may be expected to be on display at the grammar school grounds Tuesday when the Parent-Teachers Association stages its third annual Pet Show, beginning at 2:30 p. m.

Entries in past shows have ranged from a box of over 100 fleas to a team of draught horses, and if the interest already evinced by young Carpinteria in this year's event is any indication, almost anything is apt to be seen tugging at its leash, stomping at its rope or swimming in its pool, according to the habits of its peculiar type of species.

And the show does not confine itself to that wide field. Mrs. E. P. Rowe, president of the P-T. A. has announced that other features of the event will include a doll show and a hobby show. Ribbons are to be awarded for such entrants as the tiniest doll, the best dressed doll, the largest doll, etc., while the hobby contest, in which adults are earnest- (Continued on Page Three)

Mrs. Mary H. Jay of Santa Barbara and Mr. Otis L. Unkefer, Carpinteria, were married Friday afternoon in Santa Barbara, leaving for Los Angeles and points south immediately following the ceremony.

They are expected to return to day to Montecito, where they will make their home at 260 E. Valley

BEAUTIFUL CLUB HOUSE TO BE NEW HOME OF AMERICAN LEGION AND REOPENED TO GENERAL PUBLIC

ATTORNEY GENERAL PREPARING LEASE Local Post Plans Dances And Entertainments To Finance Cost Of Furnishing Building; Deal May Be Consummated Next Month

CERCA del Mar, Carpinteria's beautiful and long-untended club building, will be reopened not later than the first of January, and possibly early next month by the Howland Shaw Russell Post of the American Legion.

The lease by the State Park Commission to the local Legion Post is now being prepared by the Attorney-General, and the Carpinteria legionnaires plan to take over the building as soon as the lease is completed and signed, it was stated yesterday by E. Solari, chairman of the post's building committee.

"We hope to 'move in' early next month, but at the latest the first of the year will find the Howland Shaw Russell Post in its new home," Solari stated. "Plans are on foot now to finance the purchase of appropriate furniture for the building by a series of benefit dances and entertainments," he continued. "At present the clubhouse is practically without furniture. The Legion will lease only the building itself, but the grounds of the park are to be landscaped and improved by men working under the new Federal relief set-up."

Rajah Of Racket Spends Quiet Day In Our Fair City

LITTLE JACK TUCKER

Sings For His Supper & Makes Other Sounds

IF you thought you heard an airplane fall in your front yard one day this week, or a bevy of quail feeding, or a dog fight or Sousa's band serenading beneath your window or a train pulling into your garage—if those or any of scores of other noises made you go to the mirror and look at your tongue and ask your wife if you appeared feverish, don't worry. Your nerves are all right, and you're only one of millions who have been fooled by noises emanating from the same source. For Jack Tucker was in town Monday.

You probably never have seen him, and his name may not be familiar, but if you own a radio or have ever seen a movie, chances are that you've heard him.

For Tucker is to sound production what Lon Chaney was to the art of Make-up. He knows all the answers, in fact, he will whistle them for you in chords or harmony.

Until recently Tucker was employed by Hollywood sound companies who recorded the 83 varieties of noises and imitations that he makes with his versatile throat and tongue.

It's Tucker you hear in the Tarzan broadcasts, when the ape-man gives his weird cry of victory—and (Continued on Page Three)

Pictures of Grizzley Meet Showing Here

Motion pictures of the Grizzlies annual reunion, held the fifth of this month at the Fithian Ranch, will be shown at the Alcazar tonight, tomorrow and Saturday nights, it was announced Tuesday by Manager Henkin, who said that local residents will recognize more than twenty Carpinterians in the "pre-vueing" of this picture.

"The building will be open to the public at a small rental for parties, dances and entertainments. R. G. Bassett will continue to act in his present capacity of caretaker."

Solari and Assemblyman George Bliss met with Col. C. B. Wing and another representative of the State Park Commission last week on the grounds of the club house and discussed negotiations for the deal, and on Tuesday the building committee reported at the post's regular meeting that the State Park Commission had signified its intention of leasing the building.

Built in 1927 at a cost of over $50,000, Cerca del Mar has stood idle since 1928. Originally constructed as a beach club house, and erected by funds solicited from nearly 100 Carpinterians, the structure was closed a year after its opening when it proved to be a financial white elephant. The furniture was repossessed shortly after, and since that time only occasional dances and parties have brightened the beautiful edifice.

A BLOODLESS REVOLUTION

LESS than nine months ago Franklin Roosevelt took over the wheel of the Ship of State—a vessel, be it remembered, that was drifting dangerously close to the shoals of revolution and financial chaos.

Nearly twelve million Americans were out of work, the people of one state were suffering from lack of food while farmers in neighboring states had their backs to the wall because they had produced too much.

In agricultural sections ominous rumblings gave evidence of a dissatisfaction grown to desperation and, in metropolitan centers agitators and soap box orators found their crowds of listeners growing larger and more sympathetic day by day.

Many authorities believe that only the imminence of a national election prevented the outbreak of serious widespread disorders.

The ballot served as a safety valve for millions of American voters and gave us what statesmen have since come to term a "bloodless revolution."

Roosevelt was swept into the presidency on the crest of a wave of reaction. People wanted a change, and the Democratic war cry of "A New Deal" was as well timed and effective a political slogan as has every been coined.

Possibly almost any Democratic nominee would have won the election of 1932. It is doubtful if any other presidential timber of either party would have retained the confidence of the American people, won their wholehearted support and admiration and kept their faces to the front to the extent that Roosevelt has done.

He was elected on a platform that was singularly free from high sounding phrases and sweeping promises. He pledged himself, if elected, to spare no effort to lead this country out of the depression. As one plank in his recovery program he advocated the repeal of the 18th Amendment.

Repeal becomes effective on the sixth of next month. No one can deny that the president's efforts towards recovery have been unceasing and effective.

In their attempt to revive a badly deflated Republican organization, certain politicians have recently launched a campaign intended to disparage the administration's actions. Vested interest cry that Roosevelt has made himself dictator and deprived the people of their liberties, their "rugged individualism."

There is no Freedom in starvation and want. There is nothing that is essential to America's well-being in an individualism that means luxury for the few and misery for the multitudes.

During a war that made millions for those rugged individualists, the middle and lower classes "gave 'til it hurt" and sacrificed superbly in the name of an abstraction called "Patriotism."

Now, faced with a war no less vital, a conflict on our own soil, these individualists should not shirk their duties of sacrifice. This is one struggle that nets them no profit, but rather emphasizes the responsibilities which accompany the millions they amassed from the suffering of the World War.

This is their opportunity to prove that they are worthy of those responsibilities. If they fail to be worthy, then their vaunted "ruggedness" will have been proven only a legend, their individualism but another name for greed and selfishness.

CURRENT COMMENTS

Father and Son Dialogue

Overheard at the Woman's Club's Travel Lecture Friday evening:

French Dorrance Junior: "Daddy, when does this music quit and the show start?"

French Dorrance Senior: "In just a few minutes, son."

Jr.: "I know why they have the music before the pictures, daddy."

Sr.: "Why, sonny?"

Jr.: "Because they want us to stay and see the whole show, and if the pictures were first we'd all go home."

Later, on the way home.

Jr.: "What did they do with all those animals they brought back, daddy?"

Sr.: "Oh, they gave them to their friends."

Jr.: "Why didn't we get any?"

Sr.: "We didn't know the man who owned them. What animal would you have wanted?"

Jr.: "One of those sea lions would have been all right."

foreman for the Sikorsky Aircraft Corp., has been engaged as chief mechanic here, and he will be assisted by Hugo Bauhaus, well known local pilot and mechanic, Hall stated.

Although the Pacific Seaboard Airlines have ceased to operate, the Carpinteria field is still a busy place, and is now the home port for 9 ships, four of which are privately owned and five are for hire or charter.

The Baron Von Romberg, Montecito; John T. De B. Wack, Grant Schley and George Fisk Hammond each "stable" their ships at the local hangar, while the following may be had for charter: 1 Fleet and 1 Stinson, both belonging to W. L. Graves, of Pasadena; 1 Sikorsky Amphibian, owned by Frank Spreitz, Santa Barbara; 1 Monocoupe, owned by V. Allen, Ventura, and 1 Steerman which belongs to Bert Saxby of Santa Barbara.

Supervisor Tom Dinsmore was quoted his week as having said that the county scraper and grader would be obtainable for improving the landing field here.

"The Carpinteria Airport is distinct asset to this district, and I see no reason why we cannot lend a hand in its improvement," Dinsmore is said to have remarked.

Noise Artist To Appear Here Soon

chances are most of the jungle noises that go to make this one of the noisiest of radio programs originated in Tucker's vocal chords. Machine guns are the hardest to imitate, he says, and it takes several minutes of warming up to do them accurately. Airplanes, police sirens, motor boats, etc., are a cinch.

"Of course, a good many of the sounds require amplification," Tucker said. "And some of them are put to surprising uses. I made a few feet of sound track recently that reminded me of a horse neighing, and when I saw the picture they had it hooked up with, the noise was the cry of a strange jungle bird!"

The noise artist will appear at the Alcazar in person early next month.

"Residents there," Dunne explained, "Receive their low insurance rates because of the fact that their fire protection is on hand at all times."

"The county chemical wagon, which is kept in Santa Barbara during the winter, could be summoned in event of a fire, but by the time it arrived it would be too late. Residents here may feel free to request it at any time but it is not always available."

Supervisor Tom Dinsmore also addressed the group, stressing the point that under the administration's new unemployment relief fund all the unemployed in this district will be given jobs.

The supervisor stated that now is an opportune time to get the Cerca del Mar pleasure pier completed, and that it is a legitimate project to be included in the president's civic project program.

Norris Montgomery, president of the Santa Barbara Bar Association, gave a brief talk in which he touched on the growth and progress made by Carpinteria during the last five years, and predicted a bright future for the valley.

"The number of miles of beach frontage is, of course, limited by nature, and Carpinteria has a generous portion of the best beach on the Pacific. This frontage should be state-owned, and is destined to play an important part in the development of this region," Montgomery said.

Secretary Samuel Henkin announced the addition of four new members to the body's rapidly growing roll. Those who had joined since the previous meeting were: Clarence Sawyer, Thomas Dinsmore, R. Sinclair and N. Montgomery.

When Mae Makes 'Em Famous-They're Made

Mae West picked three virtually unknown song writers to write the words and music for her latest starring picture for Paramount "I'm No Angel," now showing at the Fox Arlington theater, Santa Barbara, according to Miss West, "they won't be unknown long."

Those she selected were lyric writers Gladys Dubois and Ben Ellison, and tune-smith Harvey Brooks. Miss Dubois is known chiefly for Russ Colombo's famous theme song, "You Call It Madness, But I Call It Love." Messrs. Ellison and Brooks are still amateurs in the song-writing field.

But the trio have combined under Miss West's personal supervision, to capture the mood of her new picture, "I'm No Angel," and have completed several new hit songs to be featured in the film.

They are entitled "No One Loves Me Like That Dallas Man," "I Want You—I Need You," "I'm No Angel," and "I Found a New Way to Go to Town."

In the competition for the honor of doing the music for Miss West, some of the leading professional writers in the country were considered. Yet these new-comers won the honors.

Miss West's new picture tells the story of Tira, million dollar carnival beauty, who "shimmies" her way into the hearts and minds of the boys of the small towns. She turns lion-tamer, becomes a sensation, gets off-fers from the big city show and breaks hearts among society play-boys just as she did under the big tent in the "sticks."

Sh! Who's Afraid of The Weather Man

To those cynics who maintain that a country newspaper has no power, we have been itching for a chance to point with pride to the effect of the Chronicle's ceaseless fight for good weather. We nearly pointed too soon, however, for after a week of perfect fall weather the last few days have been smirched by a blanket of fog that could have been sliced and shipped elsewhere.

Wandering husbands have been provided with a perfect alibi for late hours, and this week needed only to assure their wives that they "left the club hours ago but this fog is so bad."

Anyway, we'll take a chance this week. If the fog stays out and you read this in the bright sunlight, you will know that clean, fearless journalism has won another battle for Carpinteria, and that the bad weather jinx is hanging on the ropes.

—Whoa! Is that fog rolling off the ocean?

POLLY'S PALOOKAS GET GOLETA'S GOAT

Carpinteria Merchants Win 4 to 3 Tussle

IN the seventh inning, the score 3 to 2 in favor of Goleta and two Carpinterians on bases, Voluntine Alonzo whammed out a two-bagger which scored two runs and won another ball game for Polly Dominguez' Carpinteria Valley Merchants. For after that swat neither team managed to get a man home, and Vic Aldrich held the visitors to a few scattered hits that rang up "no sale" on the score board.

Sawyers, Goleta moundsman, pitched a good game with consistent support that let him down only a few times—but those times were when the Carpters sewed up the game.

Polly Dominguez showed good generalship, replacing men at the first sign of weakness and keeping the team on its toes throughout the fracas.

The locals play the Oxnard All-Stars here Sunday at 2:30 p. m. and will start the game with Aldrich and Alonzo, last week's battery, again seeing service.

Free! 5 Gallons Of Gasoline Each Week

Somewhere among the ads in this issue of the Chronicle is the name of a subscriber who has five gallons of free gasoline waiting for him.

All that he has to do to collect is to drive in to the Pine Haven Service Station, display a sales ticket showing that he has made a purchase from any Chronicle advertiser, and the gas will be put in his tank without charge.

The name of a lucky subscriber will appear each week, flanked by four stars. Read the ads! Your name may be in there entitling you to five gallons of General 4-Star Gasoline.

All you need is a copy of the Chronicle with your name surrounded by stars and a sales slip from any Chronicle advertiser. Start looking—you may be the winnah!

Sam Got a Draw, But He's Happy About It

Sam Nicholas, dusky knight of the squared circle, is happy. Yas sahl! He's one happy boy, and if you doubt it just stroll past Charley Roderiquez' barber shop today and get a load of that Steinway smile Sam is flashing to the general public.

Sam fought the curtain raiser last night at the Ventura Athletic Club with Bud Leonard, a seasoned special-eventer, and he fought his experienced opponent with so much thoroughness and enthusiasm that the club manager congratulated him after the fight, which was declared a draw.

The crowd, including Sam's large number of Carpinteria followers, voiced their approval of the bout and of Sam's showing in no uncertain manner. And those cheers and whistles are like so much honey in Sam's ebon ear. He fights again in the southern city in two weeks.
