Chancellor Huttenback Cited For Upgrading Womens' Status

By RONTI MOGEL
Nexus Staff Writer

UCSB Chancellor Robert A. Huttenback is this year's recipient of the 1983 Top Hat Award, presented by the Santa Barbara Business and Professional Women's Club.

The award was given for "his positive actions in upgrading the status of women in the field of education," according to Ruth Schneider, the club's public relations chair.

"Strengthened affirmative action programs for minorities and women ranked very high on my list of aspirations for UCSB," Huttenback said.

Christine Allen, chair of the Chancellor's Advisory Committee on the Status of Women, stated, "Dr. Huttenback has always been outspoken in his support of women. However it would be hard for me to say that he was specifically responsible for the gains made by women (on this campus)."

"I think there are probably more fellowships for graduate women; whether that is because of him (Huttenback) I can't say for sure."

Responding to the need for stronger programs, Huttenback amended university recruiting procedures, requiring that the associate vice chancellor for academic affairs and the affirmative action coordinator meet individually with search committee chairs to discuss departments' affirmative action records, strategies for attracting a diversified pool of applicants, and issues of equal opportunity.

McGovern Presents Analysis Of U.S. Involvement In Vietnam

By BECKY DODSON
Nexus Staff Writer

Former Senator George McGovern told 500 students in Campbell Hall Friday that the Vietnam War was responsible for "disrupting the American society" and splitting the Democratic Party.

McGovern labeled the Vietnam War as "the most divisive war in terms of impact on the American people," because it was the longest in United States history and also the country's only clear defeat.

"This war still haunts the psyche of American political leaders and millions of Americans to this day," he said.

McGovern blamed the split in his political party for electing Richard Nixon to the presidency over Hubert Humphrey in 1968, and again in 1972 when McGovern was the Democratic challenger.

"I won the nomination with the vigorous support of the anti-war movement," McGovern noted. "But, this is in itself turned off a great many Democrats who felt it was not proper to be challenging American policy at a time when American soldiers were involved in combat overseas."

He added, "I suspect that a lot of people sat on their hands in that campaign (1972) that ordinarily would have been backing the Democratic nominee."

McGovern gave a brief history of American involvement in Vietnam, dating back to then-President Harry Truman's decision to support France in its efforts to recapture its former colonies in the Asian country. After the French were defeated and withdrew in 1956, the United States began an effort to establish a government in South Vietnam that would be non-Communist, and able to stand on its own against threats from other Communist elements.

"This is where our American involvement really began to become serious," McGovern explained. "First, the Eisenhower administration and then the Kennedy administration began to commit American military advisers."

In 1963, shortly after his election to the Senate, McGovern gave one of the first speeches criticizing American intervention in Vietnam.

He admitted, "it was very difficult for a new senator to get up on the floor of the United States Senate and warn against a policy that was being pursued by a close friend of mine (President John F. Kennedy)."

McGovern said his speech warned that "we were falling into a trap in Vietnam that would embroil tens-of-thousands of American soldiers and in the end would lead to disastrous results."

Congress was told in 1965, however, that two American destroyers were attacked by the North Vietnamese in the Gulf of Tonkin without provocation. The Gulf of Tonkin Resolution was then passed, allowing President Johnson to eventually fully escalate the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

McGovern said it was not long after the resolution was passed that congress found out those two American ships had provoked confrontation by shelling the North Vietnamese coastline.

The major break in public support for the war, McGovern believes, came after the Tet offensive in 1968.

"At a time when Americans were being told that the war was finally going in our favor, suddenly an offensive broke out in South Vietnam. The Viet Cong and guerrillas were everywhere — even on the roof of the American Embassy," he explained. "When that news broke in the United States...it convinced Americans both inside and outside the government that everything was all over."

McGovern said this realization of impending defeat made the 1973 withdrawal inevitable. He believes, however, that American troops could have left Vietnam five years earlier.

"One of my principal regrets," he noted, "is that even after it became clear to a majority of Americans that we were going nowhere in the military involvement in Vietnam, we had to go another four years under the

I.V. Apartments Are Bought By University

By JACQUELYN AFFONSO
Nexus News Editor

University of California Regents have approved UCSB's purchase of an Isla Vista apartment building at a price of $1,875,000, to be used for student housing.

$775,000 of reserved student registration fees will be used for the down payment, leaving a balance of $1,000,000 to be financed through a loan from a commercial lending institution. Repayment of the loan will come from income produced by rental of the facility.

Eldorado West, located at 6667 El Colegio Road, is the first existing building the university has purchased.

This is the "first step in improving the quality of living in Isla Vista through ownership," Vice Chancellor for Student and Community Affairs Edward Birch said.

Birch, also the chair of the Property Purchase and Management Group which was established to search for prospective properties, said the group considered 10 pieces of property before deciding on this one. "It's very well constructed. We won't buy anything we can't improve," he said.

Regarding the purchase price, Birch said, "We paid more than any person would like to pay but less than what we believed was a fair price in terms of the real estate market in Santa Barbara."

The request to use student reg fee money for the purchase of student housing was proposed by the Reg Fee Advisory Committee two years ago, and then approved by Chancellor Huttenback, Committee Chair Steve Jeffries said.

Over the last three years the committee has accumulated $1.5 million for exactly this purpose. "We haven't cut any of the other student services to come up with this money," Jeffries said.

Jeffries feels such a project should be supported by student fees. "It's a matter of addressing what could arguably be the biggest student need in the future."

Associated Students President Jay Weiss agreed with Jeffries. "I think that's a justifiable expenditure — it's one of the single most overriding concerns of students. I totally support it."

UCSB Project Analyst Lynn Altizer, an adviser to the PPMG felt that the group, composed of three reg fee committee members and three staff members, had made a good decision on this purchase. "This is very exciting; it is the first time UCSB has ever done anything like this before. We now have something to show for our efforts."

As an adviser, Altizer helped the group evaluate proposals and decide whether the "project is appropriate for the expenditure of the money we are charged to spend."

The 50 unit complex, built on 1.17 acres, can house a maximum of 146 students. There are now both students and non-students living there. The non-students will be able to continue living there, Birch said, but as "non-students leave we will be renting to students."

Birch explained that the rents will remain the same. "They will be competitive rents in Isla Vista. The income we generate has to pay the bills."

The apartment which was purchased from Embarcadero Apartments will be managed by UCSB's own resident house management, which also manages the on-campus dorms and Santa Ynez Apartments.

Although the building needs some repair, Birch said, "It's in reasonably good shape as buildings in Isla Vista go. We fully plan to improve the quality of the building."

Former Senator Still Considering '84 Bid

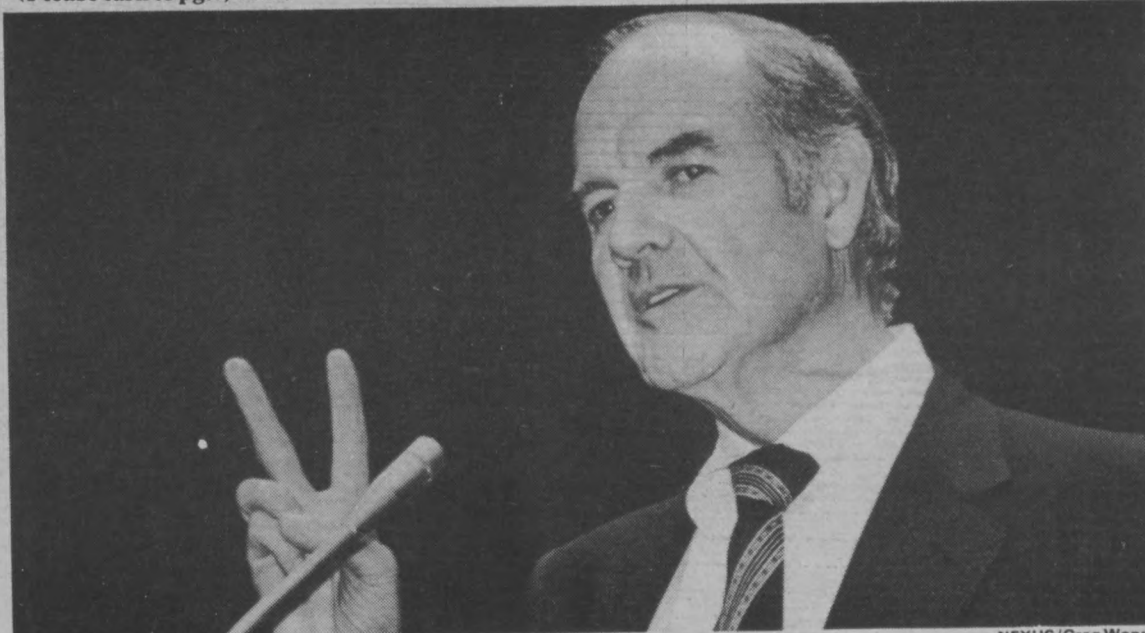

By BECKY DODSON
Nexus Staff Writer

George McGovern, former U.S. Senator from South Dakota and Democratic presidential nominee in 1972, said he has not yet ruled out the possibility of another bid for that office in 1984.

McGovern, who spoke to a UCSB class and also addressed two Channel City Clubs at the Sheraton, Friday said his decision on whether to run for president will not be made "until about Labor Day."

"What I'm going to do is layback for awhile....If nobody comes along that I think is really saying what has to be said....I might try it myself," he told students in Campbell Hall.

Oil Producing Nations Call For Emergency Meeting

In Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, six Persian Gulf oil-producing nations facing a possible worldwide price war called an emergency meeting for today. A Saudi newspaper said they planned rollbacks of up to $7 a barrel. The state-run Saudi Press Agency said ministers at the Saudi-led Gulf Coordination Council would meet in Riyadh to discuss "current trends in the petroleum market" because of price reductions by Nigeria, Britain and Norway. A price war would benefit gasoline consumers in the United States because each $1 drop in the price of a barrel of crude oil represents a 2 1/2-cent drop at the pump. But major reductions in prices would hurt Third World oil producers, which rely on petroleum sales to pay off their foreign debts to Western banks. Nigeria broke with OPEC policy Sunday, announcing a $5.50 price cut to $30 a barrel. That announcement came after Britain and Norway, non-OPEC producers, dropped prices to $30.50 a barrel for North Sea crude, Nigeria's main competitor in the European oil market.

In New Delhi, India, Prime minister Indira Gandhi paid a six-hour visit to Assam yesterday and briefly relived with dazed survivors the eastern Indian state's 19-day-old holocaust of slaughter, estimated to have taken up to 1,400 lives. During her absence, Parliament was locked in angry debate over the controversial election she ordered in Assam and the bloodbath that ensued. An opposition speaker accused the 65-year-old prime minister of using "Hitlerite tactics" to impose "a live election over dead bodies" in Assam. Government members charged opposition parties indirectly supported the violence. Voting that began Feb. 14 in the multi-stage state election ended yesterday, and counting began with Mrs. Gandhi's Congress Party winning 23 of the first 26 races decided in the balloting for 126 state assembly seats. Her party was assured of victory because of a low turnout resulting from the violence and a boycott declared by the Assamese Movement and major opposition parties.

In Yarze, Lebanon, the Syrian army yesterday turned back a major rescue operation mounted by U.S. Marines and Italian and French soldiers to save dozens of motorists stranded by a blizzard that has killed at least 39 people. "The Syrians are not going to let us go through" on the ground, Marine spokesman Capt. Dale Dye said after the peacekeepers' convoy was barred from the central mountain area. Dye said a marine convoy would be organized to leave this morning in hopes of aiding people stranded in mountain villages northeast of Beirut — an area held by right-wing Christian militias who apparently agreed to the effort.

In Valletta, Malta, Prime Minister Dom Mintoff was reported "holding firm" yesterday against three hijackers threatening to blow up a Libyan jetliner unless he provided fuel, and food and medicine for 165 people aboard the Boeing 727.

Jobs Program

In Bal Harbour, Fla., the AFL-CIO, refusing to make a guns-versus-butter choice on national spending priorities, called yesterday for a $46 billion program to create 1.8 million jobs in fiscal 1984, while also supporting modest hikes in defense spending. Leaders of the 14.5 million-member labor federation, which traditionally has held hawkish views on defense issues, did conclude, however, that the Defense Department budget should not be increased to the extent sought by President Reagan. The 35-member executive council proposed that real defense spending — after inflation has been taken into account — grow no more than 5 percent to 7 percent. Reagan has proposed spending $239 billion on defense in the budget year starting Oct. 1.

In Hibbing, Minn., former Vice President Walter Mondale opened his quest for the presidency yesterday and stumped in one of the nation's most economically distressed areas, Minnesota's Iron Range. Unemployment in many mining towns here is more than 30 percent. Mondale was the third Democrat to declare his candidacy and is generally regarded as the early front-runner for the 1984 nomination. Polls have shown Mondale and Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, leading Reagan.

In Chicago, Richard M. Daley accused Mayor Jane M. Byrne yesterday of pursuing "a strategy of fear, emotionalism and hysteria" to win the Democratic primary but she denied any knowledge of a backer's alleged use of an anti-black sales pitch on white voters. Racial remarks attributed to Democratic Party Chairman Edward R. Vrdolyak became the major focus of controversy on the closing day of a tight three-way race that officials say will draw a record million-plus turnout in the nation's second-largest city.

In Washington, after one year of the Reagan administration's war on drugs, the government's own figures show that on U.S. streets, heroin and cocaine are slightly more plentiful, cheaper and purer, and marijuana prices have remained stable. Top-level officials of the Drug Enforcement Administration acknowledge there was no decline in the overall availability and consumption of illegal drugs in the United States in 1982.

In Las Vegas, Nev. some are calling this city of bright lights and green felt "Tark's Town," as UNLV continues on a roll that has made them the No. 1 college basketball team. Coach Jerry Tarkanian advanced his team's record to 24-0 against Utah State this weekend.

UCSB Men's Crew Team members (lightweight division) are teased by the coach's children after a second place finish against U.C. San Diego, San Diego State University and UCLA in the Washington's Birthday Regatta at Lake Cachuma this weekend.

Environmentalists Arrested On Sub

In Vallejo, Calif., two members of the environmental group Greenpeace were arrested yesterday while attempting to board the USS Nautilus, the nation's first nuclear powered submarine now decommissioned as a museum. The boarding attempt on the submarine failed when two Coast Guard cutters ran interference between an inflatable power raft from the 146-foot Greenpeace ship the Rainbow Warrior, said a spokeswoman. The "boarding action" was an attempt to occupy the submarine in protest of plans by the Navy to dump radioactive waste from its nuclear powered fleet in the Pacific Ocean off Cape Mendocino.

In Los Angeles, three legislators stood beside the family of a boy who died on the state's most notorious drag-racing strip and announced yesterday that they have introduced a bill to require jail sentences for convicted dragsters. The 12-year-old Louis Friend fell from the bed of a pickup truck on Mulholland Drive and died Aug. 15th.

In Banning, a showdown between a band of Indians and Riverside County authorities is brewing over whether the Indians may operate a $2 million bingo parlor they have built on reservation land. The 27,700-square-foot bingo hall, with parking spaces for 800 cars, is scheduled to begin business on Saturday. County officials say if it opens, they'll close it.

In San Diego, an earthquake centered off the coast of Southern California was felt by residents as far away as Ventura County yesterday, but no damage or injuries were reported. The quake, which measured 4.4 on the Richter scale at 6:18 p.m. was centered 40 miles northwest of San Diego.

Supervisors Approve Cox Cable Rate Hike, Ignore Public Hearing Request

By SUSAN BITTNER
Nexus Staff Writer

The Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors approved a $2.15 monthly rate increase for Cox Cable subscribers while ignoring the requests of the Goleta Valley Municipal Advisory Council to hold a public hearing prior to the board's approval.

The rate hike will boost the cable fee from $5.85 to $8 a month for customers in Goleta, Isla Vista and the unincorporated areas of Santa Barbara beginning March 1.

Only last April, the board had rejected a similar proposal to increase the monthly fees $1.40.

The April decision to turn down the requested rate hike was made following an open hearing on the matter which clearly showed public opinion to be against such a proposal.

It had been suggested to the board by the GVMAC that a similar hearing be scheduled to discuss the recent proposed increase. According to GVMAC chair Mark Svenningsen, the council "had requested the board allow them to hold a public meeting before approving the increase."

Ignoring this suggestion, the board announced its decision to approve the proposal on the same night the GVMAC had planned to hold a hearing on the issue.

Attempting to explain why the board had denied public debate on the most recent proposal, Svenningsen suggested that "perhaps the board members simply felt such discussion to be unnecessary." The board had already received the go-ahead from County Auditor Controller Christy Johnson who Svenningsen described as "the most qualified person in the county to make the decision."

According to Supervisor David Yager's assistant Dave Hardy, Johnson "had sole access to Cox Cable's financial records" and thus was uniquely qualified to approve or disapprove the proposed increase.

Though it is entirely within the board's jurisdiction to make such a unilateral decision, Svenningsen said, "We (the GVMAC) made it clear we were unhappy the board did not allow a public hearing prior to announcing approval."

Though the GVMAC has no decision-making authority of its own, it frequently participates in an advisory role in discussions concerning local issues. According to Svenningsen, "the board is usually quite receptive to the suggestions of the council."

Last April, when the $1.40 increase was being considered by the board, the "council issued a strong statement in opposition to the Cox Cable rate increase," Svenningsen said. Partly in response to this statement, public hearings were held after which the Board voted 5-0 to disapprove the proposal, according to Svenningsen.

Hardy commented, "The choice made to approve the rate increase is strictly a financial decision. It has nothing to do with the level or quality of service provided by Cox Cable. It is a straight rate-hike based on the books."

It is for this reason, Hardy said, that Yager voted against holding a public hearing on the proposal. In a decision "based strictly on financial data, public input would be of little practical value," Hardy added.

County Supervisor Bill Wallace was the only board member to vote in favor of scheduling a public meeting to discuss the increase. According to his assistant John Stahl, "Wallace was concerned that Isla Vista residents, because they will have to pay the increased rate but will not receive any increase in cable services available, should be involved in the decision-making process."

For technical reasons Cox Cable customers in Isla Vista receive only 12 channels (limited cable) whereas customers in other areas receive 29 channels (basic cable). It is hoped that this inequality in service will be remedied in 1984-85 when Cox Cable plans to rebuild the system presently servicing the Isla Vista area.

In the meantime, however, the County Board of Supervisors' recent approval of an increase of $2.15 in the monthly Cox Cable rates means Isla Vista residents will be paying more for the same services.

Election

Although the 1984 presidential election remains 21 months in the future, numerous announcements of candidacy over the past several weeks, coupled with promises of "a new course" indicate that the race to the White House is already in full swing.

For each presidential election, the campaigning for America's most prestigious office seems to begin earlier and with greater intensity. Already, the field of formally announced or highly probable candidates includes California Senator Alan Cranston, Ohio Senator John Glenn, former Vice President Walter Mondale, Colorado Senator Gary Hart, and a possibly interested George McGovern. It is likely that President Reagan will soon announce his intention to run for reelection so as not to be "left off the bandwagon."

This accelerating trend of longer campaign periods has resulted in nothing but negative effects on the American public. Newspapers, television, radio, billboards and magazines all deluge voters with promises and propaganda past the point of saturation. Campaign platforms extended over such long periods of time often degenerate into nothing more than mudslinging and misrepresentation contests.

A second ill effect is the increasing amount of money necessary to sustain a prolonged campaign. Accessibility to millions of dollars is now a necessary prerequisite for candidacy, and too often the best qualified politician is the one equated with a seemingly endless monetary source who can buy his way into office.

Finally the most destructive effect is the necessity of the current president to concentrate on an effective media campaign to secure reelection, rather than attending to his official duties. The position of the president is not a part-time job but needs the full attention of the elected individual to make competent decisions.

There seems to be little that can be done to reverse the trend; the American public will, in all probability, soon be treated to the spectacle of presidential campaigns beginning on the day after inauguration. Our only defense against excessive political activities such as these is a healthy dose of cynicism. The looming onslaught of media hype should be greeted with the awareness that expensive glitter often obscures substance, and that the nation needs new ideas — not continual repetitions of tired old cliches and reproductions of empty, smiling faces.

I.V. Housing

The university's recently approved purchase of the Eldorado West apartment complex in Isla Vista is the first major step toward solving the desperate housing situation experienced by UCSB students.

Financial backing for the business venture is a result of recommendations made by the Registration Fee Advisory Committee, which requested money be set aside specifically for property purchases to help deal with the campus community's growing housing needs.

These needs stem from increases in UCSB enrollment over the years, while the available housing space within I.V. has remained static. This situation has allowed area land-owners to create a near-monopoly over renting conditions and prices, and involvement of the university to help offset these conditions has been long awaited.

Although purchasing an existing building does not increase the number of housing units in I.V., the university's plan to reserve it for the use of students will help offset the increasing trend of non-students moving into I.V. to take advantage of rents which are relatively low in comparison to the rest of the Santa Barbara area — an exacerbating factor in the local housing equation.

The apartment purchase is no immediate cure-all to the ills of Isla Vista, but the university's action is a move in the right direction towards making affordable and livable housing conditions for all students a reality rather than an illusion.

Arrogance

Editor, Daily Nexus:

R.E. Article (Feb. 16, 1983)
 "Students seek opportunity to personally speak to governor."

The student arrogance which is so pervasive at UCSB and the other California universities has always amazed me, but after the incredibly stupid phone drive directed at the legislators and the governor, along with assorted resistance day rallies, I figured I would be numb to any new developments that may occur during my last two quarters — I was wrong!

As if it weren't ridiculous enough to flood the offices of hard-working legislators with phone calls from students who aren't even constituents in the districts to which they call, and whose only concern is that they may have to pay for the bag in which their free lunch comes, now these concerned individuals want — nay — demand an audience with our new governor. Deukmejian has the nerve to postpone their meeting to attempt to hash out a budget compromise with an uncooperative legislature. How dare he stand up such an important and productive group! After all, Deukmejian raised our fees, didn't he? And he's curtailing our right to an education, isn't he?

Well, let's get some facts straight. Most importantly, higher education is not a right; it is a privilege — just like driving a car is a privilege. Another important point is that the regents — not the governor — raised our fees. (I know the governor is one of the regents, but he is only one of the many on the Board of Regents).

The governor enacted a two percent across the board budget cut. University students aren't being singled out. The fees are being raised by the Board of Regents, instead of attempting to "tighten the belt" and deal with the cut in terms of curtailing administrative waste and the excessive student "services" overload. To blame the governor for these actions is ludicrous.

As to the student comments that the governor "doesn't take us seriously," how can he take seriously a group who would rather raise the taxes of the working public instead of taking their fair share of the medicine. One must remember that the general public pays for the bulk of our education; the fees we pay go to student services and administration — not into the research and educational facilities.

The most important point that these students must realize is that the governor has a responsibility to represent a wide range of constituents — not just college students!

The group wonders why they aren't taken seriously when, in the true spirit of the "Cheadle 57," they "occupy" the governor's outer office, much in the same way that you and I "occupy" the waiting room of the dentist before our appointments! The "knee-jerk" reactions do nothing to add credibility to your already dubious cause. If you want to be taken seriously, act seriously. It's time to grow up and face reality.

Solomon

Editor, Daily Nexus:

The Solomon Amendment,

a law passed in May of 1982, requires all males aged 18-24 to register for the draft in order to be eligible for financial assistance.

Two weeks ago, the Department of Education published the proposed regulations of this law. A 30-day public comment has been provided for groups and individuals to express concerns regarding the regulations. I urge all concerned students to utilize this comment period by sending letters to: Ms. Andrea Foley, Office of Financial Assistance, U.S. Department of Education, 400 Maryland Ave. S.W. Washington D.C., 20202.

In your letters please include these pertinent points.

— The regulations violate due process rights by imposing punishment upon individuals without granting their rights to the judicial process.

— The regulations blatantly violate individuals' Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination. Under the regulations, students are required to state whether or not they have complied with the draft registration law.

— The regulations violate the 1974 Privacy Act by forcing students to share with school administrations draft registration information irrelevant to the distribution of federal educational assistance.

— The regulations clearly violate rights of equal protection under the law. The concept behind the regulations discriminates against students in term of gender, age and income bracket, and will directly discriminate against minority students, who are most likely to need financial assistance.

All responses to the regulations must be in Washington by Monday, Feb. 28. Please allow at least five days for your letter to get to Washington. Thus, it is imperative that you WRITE TODAY! If this doesn't affect you, well, write a letter for your friend.

If there are any questions, please call the Student Lobby at 961-2139.

ROTC

Editor, Daily Nexus:

We've all heard the familiar chants of the ROTC as the group of 15 or more students, along with their leader, run through the streets of Isla Vista. I don't have to see them to know that they're there. I can hear them loud and clear from my apartment (even with the windows shut). As we all know from watching television and movies, the military is well known for its tendency to be tasteless in its selection of "chants." I feel, however, that some discretion is necessary. Sometime during the week of Feb. 7, I was sitting in my kitchen doing homework when I heard the familiar sounds of the ROTC. As they neared, I was appalled to hear them chanting the following: "I want to go to Vietnam; I want to kill a Viet Cong."

It has been 10 years since the ending of the Vietnam war and our country has in no way completely recovered from the tragedies of that war. There are many veterans who are still terrorized by their experiences in Vietnam. I think that the ROTC acted in very poor taste. Not only should they discontinue their mockery of the Vietnam war, but I think that the Military Science department owes this community an apology.

The disappearance of abalone off the Santa Barbara coast, the causes of ocean pollution, and the protection of the aquatic environment are some of the key interests of the Mariculture Foundation in Goleta.

The foundation's goal is to "try to look at a problem in the ocean, and try to find the solution," Dr. Jacques Charest, president of the foundation, said.

The Mariculture Foundation was founded 10 years ago by Charest. Being a scuba diver and physicist living in Santa Barbara for the last 20 years, he saw a need for the protection of the marine environment in this area.

The primary project of the foundation is abalone conservation. Charest said that from 1960 until today he has seen the abalone population fall. The reason is not pollution, and not the sea otter, Charest said — it is the commercial divers and the sport divers.

"The prime reason is over-fishing and no management program by which to put the young animals back in the ocean," Charest explained.

Although the Mariculture Foundation works strictly with animals, Charest compared the abalone problem with a garden: "fishing but no replanting...it's like a garden; if there's no replanting it goes down the tubes."

The foundation has taken to replanting young healthy abalone in low population areas. There are no specific areas, but there has been some success in a couple of places. In the waters off the Santa Cruz Island the replanting seems to be promising, Charest said.

Along the Santa Barbara coast it has been a little hard to tell how successful the planting has been, due to the nature of the animal, Charest explained. The young abalone hide for some time until they mature, so it's hard to observe how they are doing until later.

The foundation uses a hatchery to grow and experiment on animals. Charest said the experimentation answers questions about when an animal is ready to go back into the ocean, how to transport them, their survival rate, and how long they can stay in captivity.

The Mariculture Foundation is sponsored by Dynasen Inc., and is housed under that same roof in Goleta. They have a budget of about $2,500 a year, but that figure is inaccurate, Charest said. The resources at Dynasen are also at their disposal.

Besides himself, Charest has a staff of three biologists, an engineer and a technician. The foundation also uses UCSB students who want credit and practical experience to assist with the foundation's work.

When asked about future projects, Charest said, "It's too far down the road to tell what projects and which certain fish are high on the priority list."

Top Hat Award

(Continued from front page) In addition, Huttenback stated that the outlook in this area is "very good and getting better" as "more and more women are coming out of grad school in the same fields as men." He added that women still don't have the same representation in the sciences and engineering disciplines, but that "there's always more potential, for women."

In the period from 1975-76 to 1981-82, 207 faculty appointments were made — 38 percent at the tenure level and 62 percent at the non-tenure level. Of the non-tenured appointments, 27 percent were to women. Of the tenured appointments, 3.8 percent were to women. For 1982-83, 10 of the 25 appointments are to women. These women are acting assistant professors, assistant professors, and professors in economics, English, environmental studies, geography, geological sciences, Germanic/Slavic, and history departments.

"This academic year has shown the highest number of women's appointments since 1974," according to Raymond Huerta, UCSB affirmative action coordinator. Over the past five years, Huttenback has doubled the number of women in the university's management program. By 1982, there were six women, including the first women appointed as assistant vice chancellor and associate vice chancellor for academic affairs.

While the gains realized are positive in terms of the total number of women, the impact on the total faculty composition is less than one percent. "The statistics have definitely shown improvement, but this is a slow process. We've made many changes, but that's not to say that we can't do better. At least we're moving," Huerta said.

Huttenback has been a supporter of the Faculty Career Development Awards Program, providing funding to women and minority junior faculty members who show potential for achieving tenure, but may be experiencing obstacles to advancement. The recipients receive grants for equal release time and summer research. As of June 1982, 54 percent of the awards went to women.

"We're constantly raising the question of why there aren't more women appointed. We have no exclusive patent on ideas that work, but I feel we're making an important effort. If this current attitude continues, things cannot but get better," Huerta said.

A "targets of opportunity" program was formalized last month to "increase and improve scholarly diversity on the campus," according to Huttenback. A special pool of faculty positions was established, from which departments may request the appointment of highly promising women and minority scholars to ladder rank positions.

Huttenback stressed that this program relates mainly to ethnic minorities, as they currently face more obstacles than women in this area.

"Somebody thinks I'm doing a good job; I hope they're right," Huttenback added.

Historian Promotes Ancient Greek Ways Of Healing Mind And Body

By CARSON BECKER
Asst. County Editor

Physical and mental healing through the ancient Greek methods of therapia are still being practiced and promoted today by Greek historian Dr. Jean Houston.

Houston recounted the ancient Athenian culture and their theories of the healing process in a lecture sponsored by the Santa Barbara Human Relations Center.

The culmination of minds, talents and leadership of this ancient age has never existed except in the Athenian society, Houston explained. Athenians lived in a multi-faceted society which advocated knowledge, art, humor and spirituality.

"Athens was full of brilliance; (its) psyche filled the world," Houston said.

She elaborated on the medicinal methods of the ancient Greeks, emphasizing the importance of their ritualistic culture. Houston explained that the priests and priestesses would douse the patient in oils and would engage in chants together to form a sort of meditative state.

The "healers" would then have dialogues with the injured or ailing part of the victim's body while the patient was in his dream state. After this process, there were celebrations which combined both aspects of humor and prayer.

"The nature of humor is the nature of health. Everything can be brought into a new perspective. It pierces the boundaries so we can get a new glimpse of reality," Houston said.

She praised the ancient culture because they emphasized the "patterns of the spirit and treating the part as the whole." This is the basic definition of therapia, Houston said.

She then proceeded to sketch out a picture of our own time in relation to history. Houston explained that we are also in a time when former distinguished positions such as science, art and religion are coming together to form new connections and perspectives, which, according to Houston and others in her field, is the next step in the evolutionary process of man and consciousness.

"This process has only been possible in difficult times. It has literally been either die or grow. We are in a flock of innovation. Within an estimated five to 10 years we will have the power of genesis. We are seen by ancient cultures to have the power of gods. We are living in mythic times whether we like it or not. Our opportunity is larger than any time before in human history."

She then went on to focus on the individual, stressing the importance of self-actualization in the spiritual and conscious sense. She talked about the multiple levels of the brain and psyche which should integrate the senses and the intellect.

"I see too many people who are operating on only a few channels, who then become quintessentially unhappy and profoundly bored. They could be so interested in their reality if there was only more. We have become ignorant of our contents," Houston stated.

She then pointed out the importance of our senses to our interpretation of our world. She explained that the body is really a micro-organism and that in turn we are a part of a much larger universe than we might expect.

"You have 200 senses and we only use seven of them. As you expand the senses you begin to have more hooks on reality. That is why it is so important to restore art to the classroom. The children must not forget how to taste their language, hear the colors and see the sounds," Houston remarked.

The general thrust of the lecture was to impress the fact that we are living through a time that has never been so pivotal in the scheme of history. We know more than ever before and we are reaching new levels of existence in cosmological terms.

"With what we now know about the multiple levels of consciousness and psyche we can reach the new level of evolution within our lifetimes. It can be viewed as the cocreation and re-creation of ourselves. We are turning to a system of psycho-biology with more refined levels of perception. Therapia amplifies daily living to the great story of history," Houston concluded.

The lecture was held Wednesday at the Unitarian Church. Houston is the director of the Foundation for Mind Research, and is the author of Lifeforce: the Psycho-Historical Recovery of the Self and The Possible Human. Houston was introduced as "a leading pioneer in the exploration and development of human potentials and in the study of the human consciousness." Presently, she is a student of Greek culture and has worked on various archaeological digs in Greece.

Nixon administration before we finally worked out an arrangement to disengage our forces."

When asked if he saw any parallels today to the Vietnam situation, McGovern said that El Salvador is a similar case, and he opposes involvement in that country for the same reasons that he was against intervention in Vietnam.

"I wouldn't endorse 100 percent everything the guerrillas are doing in El Salvador any more than I would endorse 100 percent what the Viet Cong were doing," McGovern said, "but that is quite different from saying that they are so evil and such a threat to peace and freedom that we ought to intervene and defeat them."

He added, "there are a lot of governments around the globe that I wouldn't support, but it is not our business to go in and overthrow them."

McGovern: Still Considering Bid

 "This business of presidential politics is a kind of incurable disease — once you get bitten, you're never entirely cured. I've been able to restrain it now for about 12 years, but whether I can do it through another campaign — I'm not sure," McGovern added.

Although he would not make any endorsements yet, McGovern believes the field of Democratic candidates is shaping up and, mentioning Senators Alan Cranston of California and Gary Hart of Colorado, said he "could cheerfully campaign for either one of them."

In an interview with the Daily Nexus, McGovern said the Democrats must be able to provide specific alternatives to President Reagan on defense, unemployment, education, the environment and energy programs, in order to win in 1984.

"They've got to spell out a clear-cut, attractive alternative," McGovern stated. "They can't just wait for reaction to set in against Reagan. He's too clever a communicator to defeat just on the basis of people being unhappy with some of his policies."

However, if McGovern does choose to run he said he would not accept any support from political action committees.

"I think they're a menace to American democracy," he stated. "If I run for office again, I'm not going to take any money from any of them."

McGovern feels that the National Conservative Political Action Committee was largely responsible for his 1980 defeat, when he failed to be re-elected to a fourth Senate term.

McGovern said New Right organizations saturated South Dakota with direct mail appeals, which implied he was a traitor for supporting the Panama Canal treaty and SALT II, a murderer for his stand on abortion, and Godless because he was opposed to school prayer.

"They singled out all of the so-called social issues and cast me in the light of a dangerous, disloyal extremist," he noted.

McGovern said the emergence and success of NCPAC and the Moral Majority in 1980 was largely due to people looking for simple answers to problems such as drug abuse, sexual misconduct and inflation.

"When these right-wing groups came along and said 'it's the liberals' fault — throw them out of office' it had a kind of short term appeal to a lot of people," he said.

McGovern feels the strength of these groups has diminished, and said if he had run for re-election in 1982 instead of 1980, his victory "would have been a piece of cake."

McGovern added that he and his organization, Americans for Common Sense, have eased-up on monitoring New Right activities. "I think that is a secondary issue at the present time," he said. "I don't think they have the power now that they had two years ago."

Currently, McGovern has been lecturing to students at universities nationwide, on the subjects of ending the nuclear arms race and laying the structure for a more peaceful foreign policy.

"I've also been talking about a change of priorities in domestic policies," he added. "We need to address, first and foremost, the 12 or 13 million unemployed. But, I don't think we're really going to do that until we bring the arms race under control, and begin to divert the resources we're spending on arms into constructive projects to put people back to work."

McGovern said he is pleased by the response he has been getting from students.

"One of the joys of my life is the reaction I get on the campuses of this country — it's just been great, and I see no lessening of that," he said. "Even though these people were children when I ran for the presidency, there's still a very warm and interested response on campuses all over the country."

McGovern sees the general mood of the country as being anxious and "skeptical about the political leadership of both parties."

"People are looking for alternatives to what's now being proposed by the Reagan administration," he said. "But, they're not all sure that the Democrats have a clear agenda."

In his speech to the Channel City Clubs Friday, McGovern outlined some of his own alternative proposals for the future. These included: financing rail systems and developing new sources of energy instead of funding MX missiles and B-1 bombers; accelerating job training programs, student loans and G.I. Bills, rather than cutting them; and creating more jobs by restoring the physical infrastructure of America.

Yokubaitis Shuts Down UCLA

Gauchos Beat Bruins 4-3

By GARY MIGDOL
Nexus Sports Editor

It took the Gauchos five days and four losses to get back to Santa Barbara, but for UCSB home is a very excellent place.

And yesterday at the Campus Diamond before a large crowd, the Gauchos proved just how much they liked being back in town as they knocked off UCLA 4-3 on what is commonly called a beautiful day for baseball.

The Gauchos left for Arizona last Tuesday with a 4-2 record, but came back with a not-so-pretty 5-6 mark. Someone, however forgot to tell the Bruins that they were playing a tired and injury-ridden team. For a team with nine ailing players, the Gauchos played perhaps their best game of the season in evening their record at 6-6.

For the second time this season senior lefthander

Dan Yokubaitis went the distance to pick up his second win of the year. Yokubaitis, after a shaky first inning, continually pitched out of jams to smother numerous Bruin scoring opportunities.

The Bruins came into the contest having lost only one game, that coming in the nightcap of a doubleheader with U.C. Irvine. UCLA boasted a team ERA of 1.87 and a team batting average of .303. But none of that seemed to matter as UCSB got some timely hitting to support Yokubaitis.

UCLA took a 1-0 lead in the first inning as they loaded the bases with no outs and pushed a run home on a double play. That suited the Gauchos just fine.

Bob Gray's sacrifice fly in the bottom of the first scored Bob Brontsema and the game was tied at 1-1.

The Gauchos went ahead to stay in the third when Todd Goodman singled home two runs to give UCSB a 3-1 lead.

Lady Gymnasts Win; Men Lose

By HOLLY HUBBELL
Nexus Sports Writer

Both the men's and women's gymnastic teams hosted meets Friday night. The women came out ahead with 161.45 points, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo had 152.65 and U.C. Davis, 152.25. The men ended up short however, to Cal State Long Beach which finished with 229 points against the Gauchos' 143.95 points.

Freshman Heidi Effenbeck placed first on the balance beam, breaking the team record at 9.0 points. "I'm excited, it's really a nice surprise," said Effenbeck. This was only her third meet, but she's not worried about the competition.

Ginaia Bernardini, also a freshman, took third in the all-around competition behind Davis' K. Bubb (first) and teammate Effenbeck (second). Bernardini placed first on the floor (8.85 points) and tied for second in the uneven bar event with a San Luis Obispo contender with 8.65 points. "I was psyched up for my floor routine and it felt good," she said, even though she wasn't as positive about the rest of her competition. "I knew I'd have a bad competition. Now it's out of the way," she said.

The men, though they didn't win, had a good competition. Part of the Gauchos' loss was due to Ed Forster not being able to compete because of the flu. Foster is the school gymnastic record holder in four events.

Although Vince Martin only participated as exhibition (he'll be eligible next year), Coach Steve Johnson felt he did extremely well in the high bar and still ring events.

The highlight of the evening according to Johnson, was Mike Bennett. Benett has had his arm in a cast for eight months from a stress fracture, but still competed in the floor exercise. "I was pleased with my performance, I had a slight break in concentratin and had to think about my next move rather than the last one," Bennett said.

Another good performance was shown by another senior, Rich Byrnes. Byrnes took third on the vaults and second on the still rings, both scores were 8.9 points.

Bruins...

UCLA scored in the fourth to pull within a run, but the Gauchos came back in the fifth when John Fisher singled home Gray and UCSB had a 4-2 lead.

The Bruins rallied for a run in the seventh inning, but not before Gaucho head coach Al Ferrer had something to say about it. The third year coach, however, had too much to say and was tossed out after he vehemently argued a call at first base.

With Bruin second baseman Rich Amaral on third base with two outs and UCSB ahead 4-2, Jeff Pries hit a sharp ground ball to Brontsema at third base. His throw to first appeared to have come ahead of the runner, but the first base umpire ruled differently. Ferrer charged out of the dugout to protest. He watched the rest of the game in the stands.

Swimmers Beat Cal-Northridge

By DAVE COOL

The Gaucho swimmers showed Division II national champion Cal State Northridge what the big time is like by handily defeating them 84-55 last Saturday.

"They're a great Division II team, and nobody should stop them from winning the national championship again this year," said Gaucho head coach Gregg Wilson. Against UCSB, however, they found themselves dominated.

The only Matador swimmer to come up with a victory was Kevin Taylor who took the 1,000 and 500 freestyles. CSN, in probably their strongest events, also took first and second on both boards despite good performances by Gaucho divers Hans Hansen and Bob Lang. But the eleven remaining events belonged to the Gauchos.

The Matadors knew they were in trouble when their powerful sprinters could only come up with a fourth place finish against Neff (21.30), Tim Roche (21.50) and Jim Middleton (21.54) in the 50 free. Their heart sank further when Tilly pulled away from CSN's star butterfly Ed Althoff on the final lap of the 200.

In dual meets a coach often prefers to see improvement rather than victories — Wilson saw both. "Ken (Tittle) tied his shaved lifetime best in the 100 fly (51.11) and Frederic Testu swam his season best in the 200 back (1:56.62). I was also real pleased with Bob Ward's 200 I.M. (1:57.15), and Warren Samuels had a great meet. We just always seem to swim well against them," said Wilson.

Also swimming well were seniors Bill Bretschneider, Marc Martinez, Ken Radtkey, and Neff who ended their last home meet on a winning note by joining forces to easily take the 400 free relay.

VOLLEYBALL

Second-ranked UCSB defeated sixth-ranked San Diego State in five sets on Saturday. The scores were 16-14, 11-15, 7-15, 15-9, 15-10. The victory gave UCSB a 2-0 record in California Intercollegiate Volleyball Association (CIVA) conference play, and a 13-2 overall mark.

UCSB's next contest is against fifth-ranked USC at the Events Center on Wednesday. Gametime is 7:30 p.m.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

The Gauchos lost to Oklahoma State, 5-4, last Saturday to give them tenth place in the 16-team Arizona Collegiate Invitational.

UCSB beat BYU, 5-4, on Friday in the consolation semifinals. The Gauchos currently have a 5-5 record in dual meets.

MEN'S TENNIS

Four UCSB players survived until the second round of the 16-squad University of San Diego Tournament last weekend. Other teams competing included USC, Pepperdine, and Arizona State.

The tournament, which lasted from Thursday until Saturday, was for individual rather than team competition. UCSB's Mark Finnerman, Sam Angus, Kevin Lubbers and Gus Anderson made it to the second round before losing.

Gauchos Lose Another, 95-74

Despite a 22-point, 17-rebound performance from senior forward York Gross, the Gauchos went down to their twelfth defeat in 13 Pacific Coast Athletic Association games as they lost to U.C. Irvine 95-74 Saturday night at Crawford Hall.

It took the Gauchos 3:18 to score, but by that time the Anteaters had 11 and Bill Mulligan's team coasted the rest of the way. UCSB was down 15-1 minutes later and finished the first half trailing 50-32.

UCI (5-7 in PCAA and 13-10 overall) was led by Ben McDonald's game high 30 points. He also grabbed 13 boards. George Turner added 18 points for the Anteaters while Bob Thornton dropped in 13. Michael Beans had 13 assists.

For the Gauchos, it was another game of frustration. They trailed by six 19-13 midway through the first half, but a 10-2 spurt by the Anteaters put UCSB down by 12, which is the closest they came the rest of the way.

UCSB shot 43 percent in the first half, but UCI hit a sizzling 61 percent from the field to blow the Gauchos out. The Anteaters hit on 60 percent of their shots for the game.

Michael Russell had 14 points and six assists for the Gauchos, hitting on seven for 11 from the field. Paul Johnson and Conner Henry added 10 points apiece.

UCSB Women Defeated-Again

By BARRY EBERLING

Ever have a dream where you are running as hard as you can and getting nowhere?

That's how the women's basketball team must have felt at U.C. Irvine last Saturday. They hustled and dove for balls throughout the game, but lost, 68-43.

"We were just beaten by a better team," coach Bobbi Bonace said.

Trounced is more like it. The 6-19 Gauchos fell behind 12-2 in the first half and never got any closer.

Still, Paula Bowen was driving for the basket with five seconds remaining and her team trailing by 27 points. Predictably, she was knocked to the floor for a foul. Why even risk an injury at this point?

"This is the type of game where you are playing for pride," Bowen said. "If it means going for the basket in the last minute, then you do it."

"This season has been a real learning experience," she continued. "We've learned to walk back on the court and play another game. It takes a lot out of you. It's hard to lose, but you learn to deal with it."

And, the way things have gone for the Gauchos lately, that's about as upbeat as things can get.

Gaucho Notes — Well, not quite. UCSB is making a roadtrip to play the University of Hawaii this Wednesday.
