DAN THIBODEAU/Daily Nexus

Isla Vista Billiards Club bartender Daryl Johnson is proud of the establishment's extensive variety of beer. But that's not all you'll find.

By Reynard Van Nguyen

Listen, everyone, I want you to put your head down and give a moment of silence for the late Anaconda Theater. It put on some great shows and had the potential to become an entertainment giant, but it is gone. Get it out of your system. Get over it.

Most of all, fight the urge to take out your despair on the new residents of that monolithic former bank in the middle of downtown Isla Vista. The I.V. Billiards Club rocks.

I, like many of you, felt a tinge of resentment towards the latest eatery to open up in our fair town. But stories kept coming back to me that the IVBC was great and that I should put my ill will aside.

"That place is great," said Marcel, who has been around as long as I have. "You gotta come to the Billiards Club with me sometime. That place is great," said Winston, who has good taste.

"Have you checked out that new place where the Anaconda used to be? That place is great," said Edwin, who has the money to eat anywhere he wants.

And so it went, until finally I was thinking to myself, "This place sounds OK." Odessa, Marcel, Mortimer, some other friends from work and I went over to check it out the other night, and now I am a convert.

I know all too well the entrance to that infamous edifice on Embarcadero del Something, and I thought "No big deal," as I prepared to pass over the threshold. When I actually entered the place, however, I was thinking "Move me in, Herb, I want to live here."

The IVBC is a place with class, where people can dress however they want, but the proprietors care about how it looks. Art deco lamps are suspended above each of the 11 pool tables. Brass rails support the counter dining around the gaming area. Even the picnic bench tables are endowed with a sturdy elegance. And the place has darts!

The main reason I was there, however, was because I was hungry, so I looked at a menu. I was totally unprepared for what I saw before me: creative pasta dishes, salads, calamari — in short, good food. The IVBC does have burritos, but rather than repeating an old I.V. theme, IVBC burritos are something special.

I wanted something different however, and I ordered the penne pasta with sausage. Actually, the dish has a different name, but it is so authentic I can't remember it. Odessa, my immediate dining companion, ordered the pesto chicken. I also ordered a very large beer.

I didn't know until our server had brought it to our table just how big this beer was going to be, however. It was huge, although I found myself up to the challenge. I suppose I should mention that the IVBC has a bar and bartender as well. Hard alcohol is not available, but if you want to belly up and hunker down and pull at a frosty one, go to the Billiards Club. Now.

The food was great, too. My pasta, though sausage-laden, was surprisingly light and laced with delicate flavors. Odessa's chicken, which I had the opportunity to sample, was a mouthful of marvel also. I expected the usual "pesto" — olive oil and basil. What was served was a Sauce, creamy, basil and cheese ... basically a medium through which the pasta and chicken were enhanced to such a degree that it enriched the lives of all who tasted it.

The Isla Vista Billiards Club is located at 970 Embarcadero Del Norte in Isla Vista. Lunch 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m.; dinner 5 p.m.-10 p.m. Prices range from $3-$9.

Supreme Steak

By Reynard Van Nguyen

I used to drive down upper State Street and see the sign. It happened when was on my way to La Cumbre Plaza to buy my Flintstones Bob bag. It happened when I was on my way to the Peppertree Inn to go to traffic school. I knew in the very fiber of my being, each time I saw the sign, that someday I would stop at nothing to fulfill its promise.

The sign read this: "Chuck's of Hawaii, Steaks • Seafood."

For some reason, this information alone gave me the sensation that Chuck's and I were made for each other, that here was an institution that could understand my needs, my desires, my appetites. I needed to go to Chuck's.

But I was not about to rush into it, no I was not. When the lightning bolt of sudden infatuation strikes most people, they hungrily, anxiously pursue the object of their desire with the feverish pace that only unadulterated desire can inspire. Not me. I become the vessel of an eerie calm, a state of expectation that so consumes me that I can only move with a pace I can only describe as ... deliberate.

Normally people associate such emotions with romance, love, sex, whatever word people want to use to describe the bliss of human intimacy. I have such feelings for the loved ones in my life, don't get me wrong, but I also feel them for food. If I can get them both at the same time, I am complete.

Which brings me back to Chuck's. Of Hawaii. Steak. Seafood. Yeah. You see, I wanted my Chuck's experience to be perfect (little did I know at the time that for a Chuck's experience to be imperfect is just plain impossible). So I had to plan it, I thought. I wanted to share the experience with someone very special to me, and for some time after my first look at the sign, there wasn't anybody who quite fit the description (sob story).

But despite my outer calm, inside I burned with the passage of time. "I will not be denied my Chuck's of Hawaii!" The deepest recesses of my soul belated. "I will find a woman who can appreciate the sensations I now feel, and I will take her to Chuck's!"

Fortunately for the parties concerned, I found just such a woman. My beloved Odessa enjoys good food. That's why I love her.

We'd been going together for about nine or 10 months, and both of our jobs kept us from getting out too much, when I decided that we were ready, as a couple, for Chuck's of Hawaii. Steaks. Seafood. Chuck's.

So we went. We parked in the back, behind the bank. I got out of the car, feeling once again that sense of calm. The experience as I approached Chuck's was like this: one of the best times in a relationship, whether it's a future marriage or one-night stand, is that one moment when you look into the eyes of the person you're pursuing and you see then that your desire is returned. At that instant, you know (know!) that you and your partner have all the time in the world, because all pretense has been cast aside. Sure, maybe it is a one-time fling, but you will know that a bond has been created and that, yes, time has stopped.

This is how I approached going to Chuck's of Hawaii with Odessa at my side. I knew it was going to be everything I hadn't even dared dream of. It was.

We were seated a cozy table across from a framed Hawaiian shirt worn by the King in his film Blue Hawaii. Perfect. The specials included salmon and a one-pound T-bone steak, both of which greatly tempted me.

Odessa decided on the steak and prawns, which in any lesser establishment would have been my

With a sign like this, there is little doubt that someday, however far away, you too will visit Chuck's Of Hawaii.

choice as well. But with the variety of steaks available (sirloin, New York, filet mignon) I felt obligated to make the most of it. Furthermore, the menu contained sautéed mushrooms, which I have always felt to be the perfect complement to a finely grilled steak.

I had the filet, with baked potato, and an order of mushrooms for Odessa and I to split. Perfect.

It was, too. The meals come with a salad bar, which also features sourdough and rye bread. They just made me hungrier with anticipation. The food came, and it was exquisite beyond my wildest dreams. Every bit of the meal was relished oh-so-completely. You see, Chuck's is not the kind of place where they try to fool you with lots of parsley and other superfluous garnish. Everything on the plate is to be eaten and enjoyed. There's no way you can get out of it.

And I did. The mushrooms were cooked in a fine wine and herb mixture that brought out the flavor of everything. The steak was the tenderest, most savory thing I had ever eaten, I swear upon my grave. Odessa enjoyed her meal thoroughly as well, but the generous portions offered by Chuck's were too much for her. That was OK, though, because I could and did pick up the slack. Yeah?

Writing this now I feel changed. I've had the Chuck's experience, so the draw of the new no longer applies. But I want to go back and live that euphoria again. Soon. Odessa? ...

That's Italian

By Marsha Miller

From fine porcini and capellini to good old torrellini, I thought I'd tasted it all in Italian cuisine. But there truly is a pot of gold at the end of every rainbow, and I've hit pay dirt right here in Goleta. Michael Anthony's Ristorante and Pizzeria. Did you hear me?! For god's sake, kids, go to MICHAEL ANTHONY'S RISTORANTE AND PIZZERIA!

You see, Michael Anthony's isn't just a restaurant, it's a total dining experience of the most pleasurable kind. Whether you revel in ravioli on the ristorante side of Michael Anthony's or partake of pizza al pesto in the pizzeria side — or delight in any delicacy in-between — Michael Anthony's is sure to please even the most discriminating of palates.

You want intimate dining with candlelight, checkered tablecloths and the friendliest servers you'll ever meet? Then head on through the pizzeria and straight into Little Italy.

This, my friends, is Michael Anthony's Ristorante, where all your troubles will simply melt away with that first taste of fresh, home-baked bread dipped in warm olive oil. Add a carafe of Chianti and, well, that's amore.

Perhaps you'll want to try the melanzane alle carmine, an antipasto of expertly sautéed eggplant in a balsamic sauce with capers, onions and served with a side of goat cheese. This is one of my favorites. But, oh, the salsicce con peperonata antipasto. Oh, salsicce...

Or is insalata more your style? Then let me recommend the spinaci, funghi coi radicchio. Just like the name implies, this salad is a perfect blend of mushrooms, garlic and basil sautéed in extra virgin olive oil and tossed with vinegar, fresh baby spinach and radicchio. Now I don't know what exactly radicchio is, but I sure know its one of my favorites.

As for the main course, I simply refuse to pick and choose from the simply divine array of chicken, veal or fish dishes, pizza or pasta. (Sometime, though, please try Shrimp Emilo. It'll make your culinary life complete. Now, this, is my fave of the favorites.)

Of course, if a pizzeria is more your style, Michael Anthony's has got that too. But they don't stop with their specialty pizzas like most pizzerias do.

Oh, no. Michael Anthony's Pizzeria also serves lasagna (with or without meat), ravioli, stuffed shells, Italian subs and more. So much more! And if you arrive before 5 p.m., you can get a slice, salad and soda for only $3.75.

But to be sure, prices aren't a problem at Michael Anthony's Pizzeria or Ristorante. No sir! The good folks at Michael Anthony's have planned a meal to fit any budget and any appetite, from around $4 to $10 dollars on average.

And if you smile real big, you just might get some cannoli — tubular pastries filled with sweet ricotta and cream — on the house. That's the kind of place that is the pot of gold called Michael Anthony's.

Michael Anthony's Pizzeria and Ristorante is located at 5599 Hollister Avenue in Goleta. Hours: Mon 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Tues-Fri 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Sat-Sun 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. For free pizza delivery call 683-1000.

H o m e C o o k i n g

By Odessa Robinson

It was Friday afternoon when Alicia, Stuart and I sat down to make our plans for the weekend ahead. It was one of those days when you yearn for something different, something calm, something more than another Friday night in Isla Vista.

That's when Alicia chimed in with, "Hey, what about eating at that cute café on State? You know, the red one with the white awnings."

Stuart and I looked at each other and smiled. Yeah, we knew which one she was talking about. Ruby's Café, practically a State Street landmark. The one with down home cooking, just like mom used to make.

So we piled in my car and were off.

As I drove it was hard to keep my mind on the road and conversation, thoughts kept popping into my head. Should I get mashed potatoes with my dinner? Hey, what should I even get? One of Ruby's special salads? Or maybe the special of the day? But what would the special be? Steak? Salmon?

Soon all these questions were answered.

Ruby's Café just plain has a feel about it, friendly. It's the kind of place where you're greeted at the door by a smiling host who hands you a menu and points you towards a comfortable booth. The kind of place where you grab the comics out of a stack of papers waiting to be read. The kind of place you go to when you need to get away from it all and just relax.

And that's exactly what Stuart, Alicia and I did.

Mark, our waiter, greeted us at the open french doors with a smile and menus in hand. "Three tonight? How about a booth?" he said, as he guided us to our seats, quickly took our drink orders and left us to make the evening's biggest decision.

So the three of us sat in our comfy red booth and began to comb through our menus.

Ruby's serves a knock-out breakfast at a home-town price and we all agreed that our next morning outing was going to be there. Unfortunately, we had missed the 4 p.m. cutoff.

But then again, it would have only made the choices harder. There were burgers, sandwiches, dinners — like pork chops and roasted chicken, real dinners — salads, soups and more. Again and again we would look at each other and ask, "So, what are you going to get?"

Mark, our waiter, had to come back three times. We just couldn't decide. But by the fourth run we were ready. Stuart ordered the Ruby's Rotisserie Chicken Wrap Super Combo, Ali-

J.E. ANDERSON/Daily Nexus

Ruby's Cafe, a State Street tradition, where you can get breakfast, lunch and dinner just like mom used to make.

cia chose the Teriyaki Chicken Burger with a side salad, and I got the Ruby's Steak Sandwich. We all picked french fries out of a choice of mashed potatoes, fries or rice.

Then the waiting began. But it didn't last for long, just long enough to talk about the night ahead and get ready for what we were about to be served.

When Ruby's Café says its dishes come with french fries, they mean a mound of french fries. there was no shortage of french fries at our table — at least when we were first served there wasn't.

Stuart's chicken wrap certainly looked like a delicious combination of chicken, avocado, cheese, tomatoes and more all brought together in pita bread. Stuart assured me that's exactly what it was. Alicia's chicken burger was "tender and juicy, just the way I like it." Who can argue with that?!

As for my steak sandwich? The steak was flavorful and set off perfectly with Ruby's own special sauce, not the kind you get at a fast-food joint but real steak sauce, the kind you wish wasn't quite so secret.

We all got just what we needed that night: a great home-cooked meal and a chance to get away from it all. But that's exactly what you get every time you visit Ruby's.

Ruby's Café is located at 734 State St. in Santa Barbara. Hours Sun-Thur 7 a.m.-4 p.m.; Fri-Sat 7 a.m.-10 p.m. Price range: $1.25-$7.

END NOTES

For all of you out there who want to avoid the lameness of another I.V. Halloween there are plenty of things to do rather than getting your ass grabbed/or kicked, (depending on your sex) by the hordes of out-of-towner kooks. I got one word for ya'll — SPLIT!!

First off - head over to Buster's for their raging Halloween Party featuring the Hymen Blasters and three more bands on Saturday, Oct. 30

If that doesn't sound good to you then head over to Orchid Bowl and get in on their super Halloween Costume Party. This one can't be missed with lots o'prizes and fun!
