Rust Gets Film of Washington to Show Here

Moving Picture Will Be Shown on 200th Birthday of First President

In recognition of the bicentennial anniversary of the birth of George Washington, Father of our country, Mr. William Rust, of the Industrial Education department, has obtained as the initial picture of this year's visual education program "The Cradle of the United States of America."

The film, which will be presented to students, on Thursday January 14, was made in England and includes scenes of the Washington ancestral homes in that country, the churches where the Washington family were baptized, married or buried and numerous other things having an historical bearing on the life of the first president of the United States of America.

One of the interesting and hitherto little known facts brought out in this work is the fact that the Washington family coat of arms apparently had a direct influence on the present character of our national flag.

Many authorities contend that the quartering, particularly of the Washington coat of arms indicates beyond doubt that the basic idea of the American Stars and Stripes was derived therefrom.

Inasmuch as all history is connected with all other history and not any of it may stand alone; accompanying films, showing the land of the Pilgrims in England, the churches they attended and even the steps down which they trod to board the Mayflower, will be shown as part of the Washington program.

Another film, "The Ancestry of Lincoln in England" will be part of the program and will link together in pictures the lives of two of the reputedly greatest presidents of all time.

The United States government has urged educational institutions and the nation as a whole to take active part in Washington memorial activities throughout the entire year of this, the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, to aid in perpetuating the memory of the Father of Our Country, and to keep ever before us, the ideals for which he stood.

At intervals throughout the year, Mr. Rust will bring other Washington pictures to the State College as this institution's part in the Washington bi-centennial program.

Girls to Date for Leap Year Hop Friday; Men to Toe Mark

Wednesday—Women's Glee club, 3:30 p.m.; Band, 7:30 p.m.

Many are the woeful looks spread on the mournful faces of the men of Santa Barbara State college, for this Friday evening will be the Leap Year dance, a semi-formal affair, and the male half of the institution is finding its own medicine hard to swallow. It's up to the co-eds to make the dates, furnish the transportation and the food following the frolic.

True to the old State tradition as far as the men are concerned, many are making the engagements late, trading every possible dance, and planning to keep the other half of the party busy keeping the sofa warm waiting for the arrival of the mode of conveyance.

Rockwood is the place selected for this topsy-turvy dance, and Frank Greenough's Biltmore orchestra will furnish the tantalizing tunes and tempo.

Young ladies! Call for your man anywhere from ten minutes to one hour late. Drive him to the front door and dump him off, then park the car or buggy first and drag him over the rocks and weeds that surround the parking space to the lobby of Rockwood. Walk right in, don't wait for him, and go check your coat. Take your time fixing your face, stroll out and start dancing with him if he's there.

Pay attention to everyone except the man you brought. Treat 'em rough and see how they like it. If you take them to eat at all set your price limit on the food. See that they get home in plenty of time to soothe the wrath of their house papas. After all this you may or you may not get a date to the next dance which will be held January 30, in Rockwood, with Vic Janssens Vista Mar Monte Hotel orchestra furnishing the music.

Eligible Males Seek Seclusion; Leap Year Here

Bachelors of Campus Seek Hiding Places for Coming Year

Every eligible male is now in danger of losing his sacred bachelorhood. Females are going around armed to the teeth (pearly ones); their weapons consist of winsome smiles, wonderful figures, and forceful ways. The women are confident that this year will be the most successful in the history of the world; they have reason to believe this because game is plentiful and the ladies should not experience any difficulty in bagging the limit.

Many prominent scientists of profound thought predict that in the mountainous regions the men will clan together for mutual protection, as quite recently an "Amazon" (reverted type of lady), was seen pursuing a hapless male with a club and a rope in her hand. Of course in the cities the men will have to take refuge in the clubs and poolrooms; it is hoped that the women will at least consider these precincts sacred and holy. One night last week a gentleman was seen running down the street in his shirt sleeves, a friend stopped him, and inquired of his extreme haste; the man is quoted to have said, "I strayed from my fellows yesterday and was sighted by a marauding woman; in ten minutes I was a married man; I am leaving town on the first train."

When situations arise like the afore mentioned; it is time to do something; desperate measures must (Turn to Page 3, Column 7)

STATE TEACHERS SPEND VACATION IN LOS ANGELES

Mrs. Mary E. T. Crowwell, head of the Art department, and her husband, Dr. T. R. Crowwell, spent a part of the Christmas holidays visiting with friends in Glendale and Los Angeles, and viewing art exhibits in the southland.

On New Year's Eve Mr. and Mrs. Crowwell attended a performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream" given by the Shakespearean Festival Players at the Biltmore theater in Los Angeles. These famous English players are touring the United States, presenting a cycle of Shakespearean dramas.

Miss Margaret Burke, instructor in the English department, also attended the performance. She spent the second week of vacation doing reference work in southern libraries.

Miss Elsie A. Pond Endures Earthquake

Miss Elsie A. Pond, former supervisor of the State College Junior High school, witnessed the recent volcanic eruption in Hawaii and experienced the earthquake which followed. Miss Pond is now Assistant Director of Extension Education for the University of Hawaii.

The natives prophesied the earthquake by the arrival of hordes of insects, according to a letter received from her by Miss Burke a few days before the catastrophe. They believe that these insects precede earthquakes.

Scouts to Receive Completion Awards

The Scoutmaster Training class which recently completed its training course for this semester will meet in the college cafeteria tomorrow evening to receive their Scoutmaster certificates, from Mr. Calvin McCray local scout executive.

The prospective scoutmasters will be guests of the Mission Council at a banquet prepared for the occasion. President Clarence Phelps, Mr. E. E. Ericson and Coach Hal Davis have been invited to speak. Songs and other diversions will be included in the program.

Miss Jane Sedgwick, nutritional expert sent by the State Board of Health, arrived at State this week to give advice to students who were found by the Tuberculosis Clinic to need the professional services. Underweights, overweight, and those with skin disorders will be given individual interviews. Appointments are made through the Dean's office.

State School Head Resigns for L. B. Post

Vierling Kersey, Key Man in Proposed Campus Change, Goes to Long Beach

Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction for California for the last three years, announced last week that he will leave his state post to take over the position of city superintendent of schools in Long Beach. His resignation will be effective August 1 of this year.

Superintendent Kersey has been one of the key officials in engineering the proposed removal of Santa Barbara State college from its present Riviera site to the Leadbetter property on La Mesa, and he was in Santa Barbara Monday of this week in connection with the deal. Highly favorable to the proposed move, Superintendent Kersey is expected to voice the final state approval of the deal. One of his trips through the Southland last year, he addressed the student body in the college auditorium.

Superintendent Kersey said the offer was made several months ago by the Long Beach Board of Education, and that he accepted it only after deciding it offered an exceptional opportunity for educational service and leadership. He said Long Beach was recognized as having one of the finest school systems in the United States.

Kersey was appointed state superintendent February 11, 1929, by Gov. C. C. Young, to fill a vacancy caused by resignation of William John Cooper, who became federal commissioner of education. Kersey was elected in November, 1930, for a four-year term.

As head of the Long Beach schools, Kersey will succeed W. L. Stephens, who is to retire after 20 years of service. Kersey will receive a salary of $10,000 a year, twice the amount paid him as state superintendent.

The superintendent of city schools in Santa Barbara receives an annual salary of $7,800.

Elem. Ed. Meeting to Disclose Future Plan

A very important meeting of the Elementary Education department will be held tomorrow during the fourth hour in the auditorium.

Irene O'Leary, president of the department, urges all members to attend, as Mrs. Price has prepared a very instructive talk concerning a new plan for teacher training which is being started this fall in connection with the Teachers' College at Columbia university. The new plan is nothing short of a revolution in the teaching field, she says, and is a movement with which all elementary education students should be familiar.

Students in the Kindergarten, Primary and Junior High departments are expected to attend these meetings held on the first Thursday of every month.

Support Basketball Team at First Game—Says Bobby Goux

The following announcement was made yesterday by Bob Goux, yell leader:

"This Saturday night the State college basketball team plays its first intercollegiate game with Cal Christian, a non conference match. There is to be an added admission price of twenty-five cents per person along with your Student Body ticket.

"We have an excellent basketball team this year with five lettermen returning to the squad. Besides the varsity veterans the freshman class of last year contributes many outstanding players. There is room for 400 spectators in the Carpenteria Union High school gym, where the game is to be played. The game starts at 8:15 o'clock. Let's everybody get out and back up the basketball team as well as we backed up the football team. Carpenteria High will play a preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

"Basketball is a fast and interesting game from start to finish, so bring along your best friend as I am sure you will enjoy the ride as well as the game. If you want a successful basketball season both in spirit and on off the floor it all depends on you. Come on let's see if we can't pack the bleachers with lots of Roadrunner Spirit."

Removal of State College to Mesa Site Assured by Kersey; Entire City Approves Action

Men Lay Early Plans For New Club Room at Leadbetter

Whether or not it be wise to count chickens before they're hatched, notwithstanding, discussion is rampant among the men on the campus as to the possibilities for a Men's Club Room (or rooms) on the new college campus, when and if that campus becomes a reality.

Should Leadbetter Hill become the new State college, the men's club will not be found napping, according to Oscar Trautz, club prexy.

Club officials have already convened for the purpose of discussing plans for the new club, possibilities for its inception, methods of finance—in fact it was discussed from A to Z, nothing being left out, the lack of which would render the men unable to "stand on both feet and lead from the shoulder" when the time arrives for action.

The "club idea" is by no means new to the campus. The men have long felt a need for suitable quarters for men and men only, a spot

State Officials Are Enthusiastic Over Move

CHANGE CERTAIN City School Board Offers to Buy Old Campus

That the Leadbetter property on La Mesa will be purchased by the state, and the State college removed to the new site, was assured Monday of this week by Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction, who visited the site with President Clarence L. Phelps of the college.

The 46 acre tract on La Mesa, overlooking Pershing field on one side and the shore end of the breakwater on the other, was offered to the state for $75,000 by Major F. W. Leadbetter last December 14, and negotiations to complete the deal have been kept moving at a rapid pace by President Phelps since that time. The property, which is valued at half a million dollars, will furnish an ideal new site for the State college with ample room for expansion. Progress on the present campus has been hampered by the small size of the campus and the lack of any place for expanding.

Money sufficient to purchase the new site outright is already on hand in the college's building fund, and only the approval of two state officials is necessary for the move. Roland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance and one of the officials, declared himself enthusiastic over the proposed action, withholding official confirmation of the move until he was sure the present Riviera campus can be sold at a reasonable figure and until Superintendent Kersey had approved the deal. Superintendent Kersey, who visited the proposed site for the first time Monday, also was enthusiastic, and voiced his approval during a meeting of several civic leaders yesterday noon. He pledged himself to try to secure immediate action upon the plan when he returns to Sacramento this week.

The City Board of Education two weeks ago passed a resolution pledging itself to use its influence towards the purchase of the old Riviera campus by the city school district within three years, the land and buildings to be used for a third junior high school for the city. The new junior high school will be a necessity within five years, according to Superintendent of City Schools Paul E. Stewart.

Although the Board of Education's resolution is not binding, and the city could not purchase the land without submitting the matter to the voters in the form of a bond issue, Superintendent Kersey considered its action as sufficient indication that the school district will (Turn to Page 3, Column 6)

Faculty Member Sits for Pictures

Pictures of Mr. Roy Lawhorn, instructor in the Art department of State college, appeared in the December issue of Country Life, illustrating an article on Archery. Mr. Lawhorn is a member of the National Archery association, and holds the record for the American Round, ten consecutive scores of over 700, with a high score of 732.

The sports editor of Country Life, a nationally circulated magazine published in New York, selected Mr. Lawhorn to pose for the two-page pictorial article showing the form of drawing and aiming in archery.

Mr. Lawhorn is an instructor of commercial art at State college. He also is the commercial artist in charge of the Seaside Oil company advertising. One of his latest drawings appears on the 1932 Seaside Oil calendar.

Santa Barbara has received over thirteen inches of rain so far this season. At Gibraltar Dam nearly nineteen inches has fallen. The excessive storm run-off above the dam has muddied the water to such an extent that it is temporarily unfit for use and the city is now drawing upon the emergency wells for its water supply. Superintendent V. E. Trace, of the water department, has stated that it will probably be the middle of January before the water in the dam can be used.

Wages of city employees have been reduced by the city council. The reduction follows a sliding scale 5 percent on the first hundred dollars, 10 percent on the second hundred and 15 percent on the third hundred of the previous wage.

Santa Barbara commenced the new year with $109,714.28 on hand. Most of this money is deposited in local banks.

World News of the Week

On December 27, following several days of comparative inactivity, the Japanese forces in Manchuria began a general advance upon Chinchow, the last Chinese stronghold outside of the Great Wall.

A column under Lieutenant General Jiro Tamon occupied Tawa on the 28th. The following day Panshanhsien was taken after a number of stiff skirmishes. About fifteen miles south of the city a force of 1,500 Chinese regulars and irregulars made a stand, but were driven back by the better equipped Japanese. Near Tatienshiawan a body of 3,000 Chinese troops was defeated in a forty minute battle. The village of Palitz was taken after a brief skirmish.

The Chinese began evacuating Chinchow on December 30th, and on January 2nd the city was occupied by the Japanese without a struggle. With the capture of Chinchow Japan became master of the entire province of Manchuria.

Fresno Indigents Given Protection

FRESNO, Jan. 6.—Indigents in Fresno county will not suffer for lack of food, clothing and shelter this winter if they make their needs known, Dr. Hubert Phillips of the Fresno State college, chairman of President Hoover's local unemployment committee, declared today.

As many as two hundred single transients and from ten to twelve families are being provided for daily in Fresno under the present system of organization, which includes practically all the old relief agencies in the city, in addition to an unemployment relief shelter, where transients are given meals and sleeping quarters for two hours work a day. This project is supervised by the Volunteers of America, while transient families are cared for by the Salvation Army.

Transient women, who in the past have been cared for through donations by members of the police department, will be cared for by the Y.M.C.A.

Because certain persons are ineligible for either veteran or county and state welfare relief due to lack of residence and other requirements, every effort has been made to so organize the relief work to avoid gaps, and at the same time prevent duplication.

"There is no need of children and women going hungry and unclothed this winter if the local agencies are advised," Dr. Phillips declared.

Mrs. Gray thinks this is particularly true for the teacher not only for herself but for the children under her. In the article she tells what she considers desirable dress and how any professional woman may achieve this standard.

Gymnasium Floor Altered By Crews During Vacation

Additional Room Will Be Used for Basketball Practice

While other enjoyed their vacations, Rollo Elliot with 15 other men worked to alter the gymnasium. The money for this job was an appropriation from State funds. The men worked in alternate crews, thus giving work to more persons.

The gym floor was made larger for basketball practice. In the work of enlarging it was necessary to take out the entire northern partition. This eliminated the wrestling room and the P. E. office making the floor much larger and at the same time making other rooms cramped.

A large solid wall in the north end will serve as a hard-ball court. The basketball back board is on hinges and may be drawn up to the ceiling. New lights were placed on either end of the gym ceiling; they will serve to illuminate the baskets and the hand-ball court and give better general lighting.

Coach Davis's office was transferred to the old W.A.A. room. The balcony overhead was walled in and will be used as a class room for P. E. instructors. Even though the floor is larger no games will be held in the gym; it will serve only as a better place in which to practice.

This work has been planned for a considerable time by Coach Davis and his assistants and only through his hard work has the floor space been enlarged to resemble that of a standard sized basketball floor.

Gym classes have taken up soccer. After a siege of touch football anything looks good to the boys. Soccer's a good game, and I can't see why it cannot be included with the intra-mural sport series.

Women Display Strong Teams

With a line-up of three strong class teams and a possible fourth, women's inter-class basketball matches will be played off starting this Monday. The largest number out for the sport this season are the sophomores, who have enough players for a first and second team.

The sophs ran away with the hockey laurels this time and the upper-classmen have strong intentions of fighting hard to prevent another victory in basketball.

Ida Pagliotti is captain of the frosh team; Irene Sampson of the sophs; and Ethel Hudson is upper-class captain.

W.A.A. TO PLAN MID-SEMESTER SPORT BANQUET

Further plans for the women's semi-formal, mid-semester sports banquet to be held January 22 in the Hotel de France, will be made this evening at the regular executive board meeting of the W.A.A., at the home of Helen Furby. Tentative plans for Play Day will also be discussed.

In the past, it has been customary to have a dinner or informal get-together at the close of each major sport. This year the W.A.A. is planning a more elaborate banquet as a wind up for the basketball season.

Committee heads thus far appointed are as follows: Ella Cornwall, program; Helen Furby, place cards; Pearl Reiger, printing; and Audrey Moore, decorations.

"Army" Kessler Appears Monday

During the past semester a great mystery arose and surged about the campus. "Army" Kessler, well known at State as a valuable athlete, did not show up to begin the fall term. Where he was no one knew and everyone wondered what had become of him.

The mystery is solved to a certain extent. "Army" was seen upon the campus Monday morning. It is thought that he has worked during the past term and intends to return to State for the coming semester.

"Army" was to be captain of this season's basketball team. He has proven himself very capable in sports and if he returns State's assets will be added to.

ROSS NICHOLS, CINDER STAR COACHES TRACK

Candidates for varsity and freshman track are requested to report to Head Coach Hal Davis as soon as possible. Practice already has begun for those men not participating in basketball. Ross Nichols, former Stanford hurdle star, has donated his time to improve those men valiant enough to brave the breezes of Peabody stadium in their undies. Practice will be from 3:30 to 5 o'clock for the rest of this semester, with the possibility of a change if desired by participants at the beginning of the next.

Ross ("Nick") Nichols, who is coaching the cinder artists, was at one time one of the foremost hurdlers of the nation. He has participated in meets all over the country, and has won many ribbons for the cardinal "Scalp Lifters" from the college at Palo Alto. This year he is regarded as one of the outstanding prospects for the American Olympic team, and he came to southern California with the 1932 Olympics in view, looking for a suitable place to train for the event. He is taking subjects at the present time here at State with a masters degree in view, and he has very graciously consented to do what he can to turn out a real track outfit here at State.

In former years, there has been very little material either to work with or to look forward to as future material, and of a consequence, the coaches have received a great deal of undesired criticism. This year, most of last year's varsity and frosh squads are back in school, and the most promising group of freshmen that have ever assembled under the Olive and White (athletically speaking), according to the coaches.

Don't forget our first conference basketball game on January 8. We have a good team that deserves every bit of our support.

Cal-Christian Meets State in First Major Hoop Game

Swimming Test to Be Given Jan. 11

Junior and senior women wishing to take the swimming test for P. E. 160 to gain exemption from the swimming requirement, must sign up in the P. E. office this week. The test will be given during the weeks of January 11 and 18 only, according to Mrs. Winifred Hodgins, head of the P. E. department.

MESA SITE TO BE PURCHASED FOR STATE COLLEGE

(Continued From Page One) act accordingly within a few years, and if Vandegrift can be convinced to approve the deal without more concrete indication that the campus will be taken by the city, the deal should be concluded this week. Public sentiment throughout Santa Barbara has mounted rapidly in favor of the plan during the last two weeks, and the proposed removal of the college has been endorsed by resolutions in most of the local service clubs. Both The Morning Press and the Daily News are strongly in favor of the move. The Press having carried front page stories on developments in the deal every few days since the middle of December.

A tentative master plan for the new college campus already has been drawn up by L. Deming Tilton, county planning commissioner, who attended Monday's meeting to urge that the new buildings follow the general Spanish theme of Santa Barbara architecture, to which Superintendent Kersey agreed.

Work on the new Science building, which was to have been started on the old campus last month, has been delayed so that it may be started on the new campus as soon as the deal is completed. An additional $70,000 which was to have been used for a new training school building also probably will be available for the second building on the Leadbetter property, as the new McKinley elementary school of the city school system can be used as a training school. The McKinley school, the newest in the city and one of the most modern in the nation, is located within a block of the Leadbetter property.

"The moving of the college is the biggest thing that has ever come to this college, and is one of the biggest things that will happen to it for a long time," declares President Phelps, who has been the instigator of most of the college's building program. "Santa Barbara is fully college conscious and is looking to the college, I believe, as a means of expressing a power that has never been institutionalized here," said Superintendent Kersey in the Monday meeting. "Not only does the removal of the college to another site mean a larger school here, but

Good Material at State College for Coming Basketball Season

State plays the powerful Cal-Christian basketball team next Saturday night, 8 o'clock at the Carpenteria high gym. This is the first major game for either of the two colleges this year. Both are out to win, and according to critics either team may win.

Last season the local hoop team did not succeed in achieving many victories over their opponents. Coach Hal Davis and the varsity men are out to do all in their power to bring the pennant to State this season. Many good men are out for the team and with the great amount of new material State may have a strong squad.

Coach Davis and his assistants have worked hard formulating team work for the crew, working up spirit and determination. The team needs only the support of the student body to make a success.

The event will be held in Carpenteria as the gym there is the only available one near. State's gym, although enlarged during the Christmas vacation, is inadequate as it has no room for spectators.

Student body tickets will admit any one who is a member of the Student Body.

Eligible Males Seek Seclusion--Leap Year

(Continued From Page One) be taken. One organization has been formed in Leap Year Town (note this used to be New York until the Amazons changed it in celebration of the extremely good hunting around that region), it is called the Men's Mutual Protection association, through this agency it is hoped that the women will be quelled. Mr. Grinan Barit is the last president that the members have elected; the one they had yesterday was married today, incidentally he is in disgrace as he did not put up a real fight.

It means an overhauling of the purposes of the institution and a program of expansion in its service. "I believe that your enthusiastic citizens who vision here a school educating 2,500 young people are not too optimistic. Once a community takes such interest in an institution as I find here, it can do almost anything it desires. No college in the United States has an immediate future comparable with Santa Barbara State college if the interest I have found here on this visit is continued," said Superintendent Kersey.

HEARD IN THE SHOWERS

The first issue of the Roadrunner for 1932 has been published, a paper that will fulfill every expectation of this great year. One of the resolutions that the sport editors have made for the coming year is to make the sports sheet the best part of the Roadrunner. To do this the students, faculty, reporters and editors may cooperate by giving all the news in the quickest, more complete and thorough form. We want all the news you think is important for this page or any other page of the Roadrunner. Get in touch with the editors or a news reporter at once.

1931 was a great year for the Roadrunner; this was mostly due to the hard work of the members of the staff. The sport's editor wishes to thank his reporters and assistants for the way in which they have done their work since the beginning of school last September. Well, 31's over—we can improve 100 percent during the coming year, let's "knuckle under" and get busy.

When we look back over the sport history of Santa Barbara State during 1931, we see that it was not a successful year as far as victories are concerned. Undaunted by low scores the coaches and students worked ever for good sportsmanship and school loyalty. Our spiritual fire is kindled, let it blaze through the New Year, and State may yet come through with many victories in other sports.

Swimming Exam Passed by Many

Sixteen girls have passed the swimming examination given by the W.A.A. at the Plaza del Mar pool, and are ready for the second examination, which begins this week.

Successful completion of the first test entitles each of the sixteen girls to a fifty point award in the Women's Athletic association. To pass this exam one must be able to do the elementary back stroke, side stroke, back float, face float, picking up of objects from the bottom of the pool, and bob under water ten times.

The second exam is more difficult with such strokes as sculling, single overarm, trudgeon or crawl, tired swimmer carry, speed (18 seconds), dive, and the 1-2 mile marathon.

Those passing the first test are Barbara Clark, Eloise Devlin, Helen Farrington, Fern Johnson, Marjory Juleff, Margaret Keeley, Lorraine Kobly, Evelyn Matland, Leona McCubrey, Ida Pagliotti, Julfa Raiguel, Evelyn Sims, Virginia Slicton, Alice Stephen, Betty Thomas, and Elizabeth Stover.

THE PERFECT CRIME

Before stepping into the street he looked back into the room he had just gone over. It would never do, thought he, to leave anything amiss for then he was most certainly a ruined man. Everything depended upon his carefulness. He removed the stain from the carpet, cautiously removed a similar stain from the steel paper knife, and saw to it that the chair he had overturned was put back in its place. He removed the fingerprints from the doorknob, swept up the ashes which had fallen from his cigar, cleaned up the muddy prints which led to the window, and with his customary foresight looked for further signs. Suddenly he spied a platinum stud lying under the bureau. "Whew," he whistled under his breath, "what a narrow squeak! Wouldn't old man Scroggins make it hot for his man if he couldn't find his stud!"

Official publication of the Associated Students, Santa Barbara State college, Santa Barbara, California. Edited and published weekly on the State college campus. How About an Inventory?

With the moving of the college to La Mesa Leadbetter site virtually assured by state officials, the suggestion has been made that now is the time to take a general inventory of all our campus traditions and customs, and to take with us only those things which we feel are worth while.

On La Mesa campus we will be starting what is practically a new school, or at least making a fresh start with a clean slate. The new college promises to become more a part of the community, with townspeople already taking enough interest in the school to make its removal one of the most talked of things in the city. With new buildings on a new site, one of the most beautiful spots in the country for a college, the student body will have a chance to look inward upon itself, and to start with a new or revised code of the highest type.

With a year to take our own inventory, we can proceed with deliberation, and suggestions from all branches of the student organization will be in order. For example, the first thing which could profitably be done away with is the general indifference of the student body to its own government, and to what is taking place on the campus under student leaders. Colleges usually have a harder time than do high schools in establishing a community spirit, but it can and has been done, always to the benefit of both the students and the school.

Another "tradition" which would bear investigating is the annual reception of new classes. Are the upper classes going to continue their policy of making dire threats, and then forget to carry them out if the freshmen show any initiative towards organizing, or are they going to abandon the antiquated idea of hazing, many years out of date in most worth-while colleges, and substitute something more constructive for the newcomers during their first semester on the campus?

The moving of the college also will afford an opportune time to change the college's "mascot." The Roadrunner has never been in favor, except perhaps as a name for the track team or the school paper, but the time has never been ripe for a change. Moving onto the new campus would seem to be an appropriate time for the action. What could be used in place of the traditional Roadrunner can be decided with deliberation. That Green Dragon already has been suggested as a possibility, and in many ways would make a good choice.

Think it over. The Roadrunner will be pleased to publish any suggestions from either students or faculty.

Prohibition and the New Year

The following quotation is an excerpt taken from one of the leading newspapers of California. It is quoted here in an effort to show the American method of law enforcement and law observance.

"If you go in for crowds, noise, fresh air and economy—

"Spend New Year's eve tomorrow night as guest of the city of Los Angeles at the 'Club Broadway,' six blocks long and wide enough for any tanks that may pass in the night.

"Everybody's welcome to have a good time," says the police department, "but man hole covers must not be disturbed.

"Other merry makers will gather in scores of hotels, cafes and night clubs and if prohibition enforcement agents keep their promise no sensational raids will be made.

"City, county and federal chiefs have announced their agents will 'follow their normal duties' and indicated that the consumer will not be molested."

Los Angeles was not alone guilty of non-enforcement of the prohibition law; there were plenty of other cities just as courageous in their law defiance. It appears that if we have a law obnoxious to so large a number of people as to permit the promulgation of the above item we should at least be ambitious enough to get the law repealed. Why is it that the American people are so law abiding, such upstanding good citizens at service clubs, the polls, and public gatherings when they conscientiously know that their actions are hypocritical and unfaithful!

True, it would be very difficult to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment but we could at least nullify the Volstead Act if we really are thirsty. It is a sad commentary upon American government that the statute books are filled with a multitude of laws and yet have no effective machinery to enforce them. Violation of the law in America is not only allowed but encouraged and still the legislatures grind out more and more enactments for the seeming pleasure of their own power.

Book Reviews

By JEAN DUNCAN

"MR. AND MRS. PENNINGTON"

Francis Brett Young has written a long novel. It is a story which moves slowly until the climax. Dealing with the life of a provincial British young couple, the novel is readable but hardly convincing. Seven hundred pages are given over to what could have been said with greater effect in four hundred. The greatest interest in the book is character treatment. There is an excellent portrayal of a post-war soldier and his place in a world which is rapidly forgetting the war, and losing sympathy for its veterans. Mrs. Pennington is weak and hardly a likeable character. Her husband is far more worthy of respect. The reviewer feels that the only value in this novel is the great variety of characters and the consistency of their portrayal.

SWISS FAMILY MANHATTAN

This novel is a most delightful social satire on New York life and post prohibition customs. A Swiss family are wrecked in a dirigible and land on top of the Empire State building. Then begins their series of adventures. From beginning to end the book is rich with observations on American life. One particularly clever part is a satire on the hoards of foreigners who have been coming to the United States and going on lecture tours. Then there is an extremely amusing description of New York traffic. The book is infinitely worth reading, and one who will want all your friends to read. Don't miss this one by Christopher Morley!

From the Old Bird's Nest

By FRESH EGG

The Fresh Egg submits a pome, appropriate to the season, very impressionistic.

Prayer of a New Year's Host to Bacchus

(With gracious acceptance of the thanks of that other poet, Rudyard Kipling, for improving his effort, and with apologies to His Majesty Zeus Xenios for crediting his position as god of hospitality to His Royal Dissipate Bacchus, alias Dionysus—"Dinny" to the chorus girls.)

God of our fathers, known of old (and how!)—
Lord of the twisted, fruitful vine—
Beneath whose pudgy hand we hold
Sweet revels with a keg of wine—
Bacchus, great host, be with us yet,
Make us forget—make us forget!

The tumult and the shouting dies,
At last the happy guests depart;
Still stands the ancient sacrifice:
An aching head and weary heart.
Bacchus, great host, be with us yet,
Make us forget—make us forget!

Far-called, the rev'lers fade away—
With eyes and brows that burn like fire—
Our New Year's vows, made yesterday
Are one with Nineveh and Tyre!
Judge of good whoopee, spare us yet,
Make us forget—make us forget!

If, drunk with cups of wine, we loose
Wild tongues that have not cops in awe—
Such gladness as the Gentiles use,
Or lesser breeds without the law—
Bacchus, great host, be with us yet,
Make us forget—make us forget!

For staggering feet that one can't trust,
And reeking breath and laughter hard—
All happy people on a bust,
Who, singing, see not in the yard
A blue-clad host, a valiant horde—
Thy mercy on thy people, lord!
Ah, women!

Famous last words:
"Now, listen, editor, I know my stuff's good and—"
Quick curtain.

For an unusually large number of people this last Christmas, according to what the Fresh Egg has heard, was "the best Christmas I ever had." Others, though not claiming superiority for this celebration over all previous ones, have grown enthusiastic in talking about the happy time they had, and their enthusiasm showed that what they were saying was true.

"Whea is youall, Mistuh Deprshun?"

From the great number of new jackets, dresses, coats, shirts, sweaters, trousers and what-nots, on the campus the first day of school it was not hard to judge what form most of Santa Claus's gifts took.

Have you noticed, by the way, the large number of turquoise and azure shirts blossoming forth on the backs of the males of the species since the holidays? Maybe, however, there are not as many of them as there seem to the Fresh Egg to be, as he received two blue shirts for Christmas himself and therefore would notice the others more.

In a letter received recently from Germany was a paragraph that should be interesting to Americans. After wondering "that you Americans tell so many fairy tales about our dear Hitler," the correspondent writes:

"You once wrote me that you Americans were like children. I see now that you were somewhat right. In the war you protected the French from being conquered by us, and now you let them as a reward therefore take away all your gold and do various other things as they please. England has now also realized how "wise" it was to help the French—when will you realize it (and become supporters of Borah)?"

Whether justified or not, the above represents well the attitude of all Germans toward the French as the instigators of all their troubles. This deep, bitter hatred of two neighboring nations for each other is one of the saddest, most disheartening, things that the "world citizens" and true pacifists come up against. It is there, seemingly eternal and immovable—a great, stone wall to peace.

The Fresh Egg has decided that the music of the country is in a pretty sad state when the family can't decide whether it has one or two orchestras on the radio at the same time.

Fashion Preview

By ANN DAWSON

Co-eds back on the campus after the holidays are seen supporting the latest in sportswear from the smart shops of San Francisco, Los Angeles, and points in between. Which leads us to believe that goodly portions of those Christmas checks went on clothes.

The classic skirt and sweater are more popular than ever at this season of the year, and the endless variety in both offers a selection in which something may be found to satisfy everyone's taste.

Skirts are smart in the heather tweeds, in jerseys, in tailored flannels, and in any of the delightful new woolen materials. While the brilliant reds, blues, and greens are seen a good deal, particularly in flannel, many consider it a wise plan to have the skirt of some neutral shade such as blue, black or brown, and let the sweater or blouse strike the color note.

Seen in the shops: Copies of Chanel's new "Zag Zag" sweater in effective combinations of green and brown or red and blue. Long or short sleeves are optional. The long ones of course have chic puffs above the elbows. The Jungfrau Twine Knit shirt, looking in shape rather like a sweat shirt but with particular bands above the elbow. Knitted blouses that have been worn for the past two seasons to give a slightly formal note to the spectator sports costume are being beautifully done in fine hand knit wools. Old fashioned red flannel underwear was the inspiration for another attractive sweater. It sounds dreadful, but is really delightful on.

Originally intended for the winter sport devotee but actually the perfect thing to wear on these cold mornings we've been having are the Three-in-One sweater sets in which three separate sweaters of very light but warm wool are worn one over the other. The necklines and sleeves are cut at varying heights and lengths and the effect is charming when good color combinations are chosen. Suggested ones: Purple, jade, and lemon; green, red, and white; brown, jade, and canary; wine, blue, and flesh. Then there are of course the Prince of Wales sweaters with the knit geles.

band at the bottom, V neck, and no sleeves—nice under jackets. Jackets to be worn are the regulation suede and capeskin. Besides the familiar belted and zipper styles there are some new ones being shown. A cunning model in suede is styled after a bellboys trim little uniform with the wide lapels and double rows of buttons. There are also the suede jackets lined with lapin. Not a bit too warm for this time of the year.

In closing, may we remind you again that satin pumps and chiffon stockings are not being worn this season with above costumes. The preference seems to be, oddly enough, for oxfords, and sports stockings in heavy silk, lisle mesh, or sheer wools.

CAMPUS GOSSIP

Fellows! You'd better watch your step! The girls are going to put you on the spot. You'll be the victim of their every feminine wile. The bashful, blushing co-ed of last year is out to get her man. She has twelve months to do it in, and she's going to be mighty particular to whom she proposes. No more lonely evenings at home for her, she's not so dumb!

There's to be a dance Friday night—and what a dance! The girls are to start the leap year right by asking the fellows for dates to this hop. The femmes are to make out the programs, furnish the car, and pay all expenses. I'll bet they're for the fifty-fifty dates now!

We're surprised, Danny Britton, that you didn't let us in on your big secret. How did you manage to keep it from the Campus Snoops so long? You were pretty wise, Danny, to get married before leap year. There's something in that. Anyway—let us offer you our heartiest congratulations.
