By TRACY C. STRUB

Nuclear power and its use "need not be unsafe," according to theoretical physics Noble Prize winner Hans Bethe, in a speech he delivered yesterday to a large crowd in Lotte Lehmann hall.

Bethe spoke for the need to develop all forms of alternate energy sources, including nuclear, synthetic and solar power in light of present dwindling oil resources.

Promising that "nuclear power will have greater safety in the future," but adding that "nothing is free from risk," Bethe explained current nuclear power problems, including last year's Three Mile Island accident, and possible solutions.

"What is needed is a much better interface between man and machine," Bethe said on the issue of current reactor design. He advocated that future reactors better utilize computers to aid engineers.

Leg Council Votes To Join Network

By PATRICIA TURNER

After lengthy debate, A.S. Legislative Council voted 10-4 to join Network, a Santa Barbara citizens organization, at a council meeting Wednesday.

According to representative Tibby Rothman, author of the bill, the motion of support was introduced in response to recent "attacks" on Network by Patricia Fillippini, the executive director of the Futures Foundation, a local educational organization reportedly dedicated to the principles of free enterprise.

Rothman cited Network's support of key issues such as rent control and the LRDP revision as reasons for paying the annual $12 membership fee.

"A.S. tends to agree with them on a wide variety of issues. I can't think of one issue where we've opposed them," she said.

The membership fee was initially to have been paid out of the Representative's Special Projects Fund. However, because use of mandatory Associated Students funds to join a political organization is prohibited under the A.S. constitutional by-laws, the Network membership fee was supplied to individual council members.

A Futures Foundation representative present at the council meeting denied any attacks on Network. "We're trying to question whether the ideological viewpoint Network presents represents the view of the majority in the Santa Barbara community," he said.

However, Rep. Sherry Studley stated that A.S. support of Network was not based on whether it represents the majority viewpoint.

"Network represents so many of the things we work so hard for on the council. We're not saying Network represents the only true set of viewpoints," Studley said.

In a related bill, Leg Council voted unanimously to condemn the recent circulation of a letter claiming that 20 local women involved in various political organizations were available for prostitution.

The letter was sent to several UCSB fraternities, men living in cities throughout the state, and male inmates in prisons located in California, Nevada and Oklahoma.

The women listed belonged to local organizations including Renter's Rights Coalition, League of Women Voters, Network, and the Santa Barbara News and Review. To date, several of these women have received harassing calls and letters.

Although the authors of the letter claimed to belong to the "Maenad Network," the return address listed in the letter corresponds to the Santa Barbara Network's mailing address. Despite the recent conflicts between the

Supervisors Oppose State Water Project

By KATHEE LEDBETTER

A majority of the members of the county Board of Supervisors have said they would not support a proposal to hold another election to determine whether voters want the county's entitlement in the state water project retained.

Supervisor David Yager reversed his supportive stand on a new vote in a press release Tuesday; joining Supervisors Bill Wallace and Robert Hedlund in opposition to another election. Supervisors Robert Kallman and Harrell Fletcher have indicated they would favor another election.

The board has been presented with opposing opinions from different groups and agencies regarding the disposition of this county's state water rights since the defeat of state water on March 6, 1979.

Groups including the North County Water Purveyors, the Farm Bureau and the Tax Association, favor keeping the entitlement, while other groups such as Tax Watch 13, represented by W.B. Tyler, maintain that Measure A was a mandate to dispose of both capacity and entitlement.

H.K. Morgan, president of the Summerland County Water District contends that Measure A had left room for possible misinterpretation by voters. Morgan spoke to the board Jan. 28 and again Tuesday in efforts to get the issue on the ballot again.

Following Measure A's defeat, the board has been considering the possible sale or lease of the county's entitlement. A new vote had also been discussed among board members. The vote would be a means of getting input from voters as to whether the county's capacity in the state water aqueduct and right to 57,700 acre feet of Northern California water should be retained in whole or in part, or sold to other counties.

"Proposition A was very plain about money, about a certain pipeline, a certain size, and a certain lease at a certain point in time — not a mandate of any kind or a decision for no state water at all, as some people have interpreted it," said Morgan.

"If the entitlement is sold, that's final. We cannot get it back. If there is a drought we will not have the option to use state water. Before we sell the entitlement the people should have a chance to know about this. I just want to get the issue on a ballot so people will realize that we would be losing the option entirely," Morgan added.

In a Feb. 6 news release, Wallace contended that voters had ample information in making their decision on Measure A.

Nutrition Bills To Be Voted On By U.S. Senate

By CINDY MYERS

Two bills concerning nutrition labeling and information are waiting to be voted on by the U.S. Senate this session.

Proposed last fall by a group under the direction of Senator George McGovern, S1651 and S1652 apply to the Department of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration respectively. Both call for more detailed labeling on all food items.

"Consumers need accurate, objective and easily understandable nutrition and ingredient information on the foods they eat in order to help them choose healthier diets at reasonable cost," states S1651.

The second bill, S1652, continues, "Nutrition labeling should be approached as an information function that allows for appropriate flexibility on the part of producers, while also protecting and enhancing the consumers' right to know what is in the food they select so that they can make informed choices."

Presently, the only ingredients that must be declared on a label

I.V. Co-ops May Gain Funds Through UCSB Administration

By CATHY KELLY

PATRICIA TURNER

Although a request for $35,000 to fund Rochdale's proposed co-op expansion will probably be rejected by the UCSB Registration Fee Advisory Committee, the co-op may receive an unspecified sum from the Office of Student and Isla Vista Affairs, according to student and administration sources.

Submitted to the Reg Fee Committee Feb. 6, the proposal requested that the money be used over an 18-month period to hire a full-time executive director. However, the advisory committee has not yet taken action on the proposal.

According to Rochdale Manager Patti Newman, Reg Fee Chair Chris Ludeman opposed funding of the project because he felt it constituted an inappropriate use of reg fees.

"He (Ludeman) was looking at it from the view of who he could pass the buck to," Newman said.

Ludeman said he would not comment on the issue until the committee reached a final decision.

Although administrators agreed that some form of funding would be allocated to the co-ops, opinions vary as to the source of that funding and on the conditions for funding.

"There will be some money (for the co-ops) coming from Don Winter's office. I can't say how much at this point, but it will have to be from funds we (Winter's office) already have," Huttenback said.

He also said that this funding was not dependent on the Reg Fee Committee's decision. "The two pots of money are not connected," Huttenback said.

Although Vice-Chancellor Ed Birch agreed that some monies would be forthcoming, he could not specify from where.

"I don't know for certain where it is coming from. We don't have that kind of money that we can simply pull out of a hat," Birch said.

Birch emphasized the need to review the proposal, saying, "If that (the present proposal) is the best way to do it, that is what we will fund."

"To simply throw $35,000 up for

HEADLINERS

The State

HARRISBURG—Medical authorities are investigating an apparent increase in thyroid abnormalities in the vicinity of the Three Mile Island nuclear accident, Pennsylvania officials said. Dr. George Tokuhata of the state Health Department said epidemiologists will investigate a wide range of possible causes of the apparent increase, including low-level radiation from Three Mile Island. Tokuhata said a routine survey revealed last month there apparently was a higher-than-normal rate of hypothyroidism in Lancaster County, which adjoins the nuclear plant, and in five counties downwind.

OAKLAND—A freeze on all but emergency hiring through July was imposed by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors in Oakland because of a projected $11.2 million county budget deficit at the end of this fiscal year. The freeze affects about 1,600 full- and part-time county jobs. The county faces the deficit regardless of whether the Jarvis II income tax initiative is passed by voters in June, according to Mel Hing, county administrator.

SAN FRANCISCO—In a unanimous decision, the state's nine-member Board of Prison Terms has rejected a petition by a Nicaraguan convicted of murder asking that his parole date be advanced so that he could be deported to Nicaragua as requested by that country's government. Robert Zelaya, also known as Pancho Aguila, the name under which he has had five books of poetry published while in prison, was sentenced to life in prison for the 1969 slaying of a security guard during the robbery of a San Francisco store. Nicaragua's ruling Sandinista junta has indicated that if Zelaya is returned, he would be asked to join the junta as a member of the Ministry of Culture. Zelaya, 34, is scheduled for release in 1989.

SAN FRANCISCO—A 39.6 percent annual rise in rents of residential hotels in San Francisco's Tenderloin District is causing hardships for the poor, Supervisors Harry Britt and Ella Hill Hutch said. They pledged to plug a "loophole" in the city's rent-stabilization law that allows rent increases when units fall empty. If the current rate of increases continues, they said, the average weekly rent of the 19 cheapest hotels will be $45.93 by January, 1981.

The Nation

WASHINGTON—President Carter's deadline for Soviet troops to be withdrawn from Afghanistan as a price for U.S. participation in this summer's Moscow Olympics passed on Wednesday and an Administration spokesman said Carter's decision for a boycott now is "irrevocable." At the same time, the worldwide American boycott campaign got a boost when it was disclosed that the private U.S. Olympic Committee may clearly signal its endorsement of the boycott on March 15, four weeks earlier than the date it has been mentioning. The Administration has urged prompt USOC endorsement to help persuade other countries, particularly those in Western Europe, to go along.

WASHINGTON—Senate and House conferees voted Wednesday to use at least $136 billion raised by the projected oil profits tax for general income tax relief rather than for the ambitious synthetic fuels program proposed by President Carter. Sixty cents of every dollar raised by the windfall profits tax during the 1980s should be earmarked for individual and corporate tax cuts, the conferees agreed. Their decision is not binding on future congresses that will write the laws actually providing tax relief. But their action was a signal of the legislators' election-year concern with inflation, which is steadily pushing Americans into higher tax brackets.

CHICAGO—Striking firefighters agreed late Wednesday to return to work this morning under an agreement calling for mutual amnesty and around-the-clock negotiations to complete a written contract within 24 hours. Circuit Judge John Hechinger, in whose courtroom the agreement ending the week-long strike was reached, said it provides that the two sides "will enter around-the-clock, continuous negotiations to resolve all items still in dispute." Hechinger said representatives of Mayor Jane M. Byrne agreed that the city will grant amnesty against reprisal for all members of the Church Fire Fighters Union who struck, provided that they were not involved in criminal activity. The union, in turn, said that it would not take any disciplinary action against the firefighters who did not go out on strike.

The World

KABUL, AFGHANISTAN—The Soviet Union ignored President Carter's deadline Wednesday for the withdrawal of its troops from Afghanistan. Soviet troops continued to guard important installations and garrisons around Kabul, as they have done since the invasion in December. Soviet soldiers could be seen at their posts or standing about in the snow. President Carter said he will lead a boycott of the Moscow Olympics this summer if the Soviet troops, who helped install Babrak Karmal as Afghanistan's president, were not pulled back by Feb. 20. There has been no indication recently that the Soviet Union intends to pull out of Afghanistan. Western diplomats estimate that Moscow has increased its forces to 95,000. (U.S. officials have now agreed on the figure 70,000 for the Soviets' troop strength in Afghanistan.)

UNITED NATIONS—Secretary General Kurt Waldheim on Wednesday officially set in motion the U.N. inquiry to "hear Iran's grievances" and announced that the five-man commission will meet separately with each of the American hostages in Tehran. He called the trip a "fact-finding mission" and, under questioning by reporters, refused to say whether there is a timetable for the release of the hostages. The commission is not expected to go to Tehran until this weekend at the earliest. Waldheim said Iran "desires to have the commission speak to each of the hostages," 50 Americans who were seized when militant students took over the U.S. Embassy on Nov. 4. Three other American officials are being held at the Foreign Ministry in Tehran.

UNITED STATES—President Carter has decided to sell Egypt 38 advanced F-16 fighters before the end of the year, less than half the number originally planned, Israeli newspapers reported. The White House reportedly was planning late last year to sell 85 F-16s to Egypt. Quoting congressional and White House sources, the Jerusalem Post and Haaretz newspapers said the total of planes was cut after an intensive, behind-the-scenes diplomatic campaign by Israel, which has ordered 75 of the combat jets.

Fish and Chips Restaurant May Be Approved for Goleta Beach

By SHANNON EDWARDS
Goleta Beach could become one of the few spots in Southern California to operate a seaside restaurant if the Coastal Commission approves plans for a proposed fish and chips cafe.

"From all indications, there seems to be no opposition to the plan," said Mike Pahos, director of parks for Santa Barbara county. "If all goes well, the restaurant could open as soon as this summer."

The restaurant will be located in what is now the snack bar, with Bill Mazza, the present concessionaire, remaining to oversee the restaurant. Mazza, who has five years remaining on his contract, will be in charge of maintenance and food preparation.

"He will probably be given an extension on his present contract to accommodate the time and expense involved in undertaking this project," Pahos said.

Breakfast and fish and chips in a basket will be standard items on the menu. Beer and wine will be served and the present stand will be expanded to accommodate approximately 100 additional patrons.

The restaurant will be open daily for breakfast and dinner during June, July and August. In May and September it will be open only on weekends and holidays. The cafe will always be closed between the hours of 10 and 4.

Pahos cited two main reasons for the decision to create the restaurant: "One is, at present, the beach is closed at night. Given a reason for the beach to remain open, people will be encouraged to come to the beach at night to eat fish or even just to take a walk. The second reason is the need for a breakfast spot for fisherman and partyboaters. Many arrive at the pier early and would like to have a place to go relax, warm up and grab a bite to eat," Pahos explained.

Goleta Beach may be the first Southern California beach spot to have an outdoors restaurant if the fish and chips establishment (pictured above) is approved.

Pahos also said the cuts made after the passage of Proposition 13 were a factor in opening the restaurant.

"Prop. 13 resulted in the loss of 19 department employees," Pahos said. "We have to find a way to increase our revenue. We didn't want to have to charge people to park their cars at the beach."

In conjunction with the expansion of the restaurant, the Goleta pier will be lengthened by 650-800 feet. The department will begin receiving bids from contractors Feb. 27 and the project will be funded from the $958,000 available for the construction.

Most of this money is from the state and federal government, with $78,000 coming from county funds, according to Pahos.

"At this time the pier is only under four feet of water," said Pahos. "The waves break right at the end of the pier and are literally pounding it to death. The extension would place the ladders beyond the surf line, making it safer for boaters and more profitable for fishermen."

Said Pahos: "All these changes will occur this summer so when people go to the beach, there'll be a lot more than girls to watch."

Me, take another exam?
Are you crazy?!?

Q. The Navy Officer Qualification Test (NOQT) is a piece of cake, right?
A. Not necessarily.

If you're majoring in engineering or another technical area, we would expect you to do better on the test than an Inner Mongolian Cultural Arts major, but you won't hear us telling anyone that the test is easy. The NOQT is an aptitude exam dealing with number and letter comparison, instrument interpretation, word analogy, practical judgement, mathematical reasoning, and mechanical comprehension involving gears, levers, pulleys, fluids, etc. For those interested in an aviation program, there is an extra section dealing with aircraft orientation.

The Navy Officer Information Team will be on campus Feb. 25, 26, & 27. Check with them for testing places and times.

Tests will be scored immediately and an Officer will be available to discuss your results and the various programs you may want to consider.

Taking the exam in no way obligates you to the Navy, but it just might tell you something about yourself. Come in and give it a shot — you might even pass!

LRDP Decision

Tomorrow, the South Central Coast Regional Coastal Commission will be holding its last scheduled public hearing on UCSB's Long Range Development Plan.

The hearing will be held at the County Administration Building on 105 East Anapamu Street. There, the commission will accept public testimony on the land use plan and maps.

Most importantly, however, they will take final action to either approve or reject the LRDP. If approved the plan will be forwarded to the State Coastal Commission for final approval. If rejected, it will be returned to the university to be reworked.

We encourage all interested students to attend the meeting. The LRDP has been the center of controversy on this campus for nearly a year. Some campus administrators have insinuated that if the plan does not pass one impacted area will be the ECen which would be closed to spectator events like concerts.

Another part of the plan which has sparked much debate is the proposed faculty housing for West Campus. Opponents are arguing that it would adversely affect the environmental balance of the area. University officials counter that in fact they have no intention to build housing at this time but as owners of the land they must maintain their option. Also they argue that the questioned area has not been considered as an environmentally sensitive region to be put aside.

We have previously called for a more in-depth study of the area and the inclusion of the impact of any proposed housing plan. We still hope that such a study will be added to the LRDP before it is passed.

Once again, we urge that the LRDP not be passed until it is polished.

Fair Increases

By JONATHAN GOLDHILL

One month ago I set out to perform a task: researching landlord costs. My aim was, first, to find out what a "reasonable" percentage increase in rents for 1980-81 would be and then, as a concern of all renters, to express these findings to the largest property management companies in Isla Vista.

Not being an accountant in the field of property management made projecting for increased annual expenditures a difficult task. Nonetheless, concerned about what March's plethora of rent increases would mean to the average renter, I thought it worthwhile to demonstrate how much costs had increased since last year so that tenants could have a better understanding of the nature of rental housing. This in turn, I thought, could lead to a demand for more democratic representation in the decision-making which affects our daily living. In other words, how much does the rent need to be raised?

In the course of my investigations I made a fundamental discovery. Apartment housing, and even housing in general, was serving two contradictory functions: investment and need. From a landlord or property manager's perspective, housing is an investment.

The landlord provides a service to tenants, while tenants in turn safeguard the property and finance (through rent) the bulk of costs incurred by ownership of the property. By the same token, the landlord appropriates an annual income and a lump sum cash return upon the sale of the property.

From a tenant's perspective, however, housing is a human need. Its sole function is to provide shelter, which is both decent and affordable.

An understanding of this conflict was fundamental as I approached landlords to discuss computations for next year's rent levels. My approach was to calculate how much rents would need to be increased to make up for the 13 percent rise in inflation.

Landlords, on the other hand, were looking at how much rents could rise, within reason, to provide a certain percentage return on their investment. Simply put, we were looking at opposite sides of the same coin.

What, then, are the conditions enabling the landlord to demand rents which do not correspond to the expenditures on the property? Or the cost of the building? Or the value of the land at the time of purchase? There are no definitive answers to these questions. They must, however, be contemplated.

The following illustration of investment profitability versus tenant welfare proposes to demonstrate what a "reasonable" rent increase for 1980-81 would be. It is given that "reasonable" has certain, perhaps, moral implications. Yet my motivation for conducting this research concerns the moral implications which I feel must be exposed to educate future landlords and tenants about the nature of rental housing.

The findings (shown below) demonstrate that rent increases are for the most part greater than one-half the Consumer Price Index — an annual measure of "inflation" in the costs of goods and services — can mean rent increases far greater than actual landlord cost increases. This is because more than half of a landlord's costs are not affected by inflation.

For simplicity certain assumptions had to be made to perform this research: first, that income properties, i.e. rental housing, demonstrate their profitability as cash investments upon the sale of the building and through annual depreciation tax savings; second, that last year's rents reflected average value, but did not necessarily yield a positive cash flow; third, that rent (from a tenant's perspective) need only be raised by the rise in actual expenditures; and fourth, that last year's rents were set at a level which would allow for appreciable returns.

The material below was originally researched with several situations in mind. Yet even under various conditions (e.g. fixed interest loan rates versus variable-interest loan rates) results were consistent. Thus, the figures given, though not necessarily representative, are conceivable.

The findings illustrate expenditure increases on an "average" 2-bedroom, 1-bath, 8-10 unit apartment complex centrally located in Isla Vista. The complex is of average value (selling price $300,000) for June 1978.

Multi-faceted Dilemma

The latest bad news on inflation goes way beyond mere economics. It brings front and center the most grievous strains in the American body politic.

For a comprehensive program of sweeping measures is required to undo the manifest conditions making for chronic inflation. But the Democrats are too divided for such measures, and the Republicans are hooked on simplistic ideological remedies almost sure to tear apart the fabric of national life.

The big new number is the advance of the Producer Price Index in January by 1.6 percent, or at an annual rate of over 19 percent. That strongly implies that the Consumer Price Index will rise this year by much more than it did last year. And last year's figure — 13.3 percent — was the worst in 35 years.

The inner contents of the January number carry worse news than the increase as a whole. During the past year the administration, and many, many people, have tended to impute rising prices to special factors — notably food, energy and housing. But food costs actually declined by .8 percent last month — a drop almost certain not to be repeated. The total rise in the index last month was exactly what it would have been without food, energy and housing. In other words, there is much more to the present round of inflation than special factors.

A change in expectation is the big new element. The prevailing feeling through most of last year was that inflation would tail off — if only through a recession. But that viewpoint has been transformed by a sudden flurry of developments — the rise in defense expenditures; the new budget with its big deficit; the mounting evidence that the coming recession will be mild; and the onset of an election campaign which forces the administration to step up payments to various client groups.

The prevailing expectation now is that inflation will keep going up and up and up. Accordingly labor pushes for wage rises to offset increases in living costs. Business, except in oil, sees profits dwindling. Investment stays low which holds down output per man hour, or productivity. With productivity down, there is no surplus out of which to pay higher wage costs. So prices have to go up.

Speculation soars in that atmosphere. Notable rises have recently taken place in the prices of gold, silver, copper, sugar and practically everything else. In other words, inflationary expectations have now become the principal breeder of inflation.

The only way to break the cycle is by a shock which changes expectations. Such a shock requires broad measures put together in a large dramatic package that is to be applied over a considerable time. If nothing else, the measures would have to include a restrictive federal budget; high interest rates; a tough policy to restrain prices and wages; deregulation to maintain or increase supplies, especially of energy; and tax measures to raise incentives for investment. Which is where the political and social pinch comes in.

The Democratic Party draws most of its support

Not True Patriotism

Editor, Daily Nexus:

In reference to J. Hubenthal's article "Fighting Draft is Patriotic" I find it saddening that those favoring a particular point of view (opposition to the draft) still find it necessary to wrap their beliefs in the flag of "patriotism." Certainly the word patriotism means many things to many people (even just in the USA) and Mr. Hubenthal's own rather limited definition of it as "the defense of individual rights as specified in the constitution" is but one of many and certainly not a mold to force on all our minds and souls, if you please.

As far as Mr. Hubenthal's labeling of people who attended the anti-draft rally as "real patriots," worrying about "phony patriots," and not wanting to let "subversive and - unconstitutional elements continue the lie that they represent American patriotism" I can only say that I for one do not believe that either Mr. Hubenthal or anyone else has a patent on being a "real patriot" and that once again he seems to feel the need of the psychological crutch of asserting that the people who disagree with his ideas are unpatriotic. I used to hear those same type of remarks from the hawks in the '60s about the dove. Have we learned so little from the last fifteen years? I'm afraid that it would seem so.

'Windows', 'Cruising' are Discriminatory Films

By DEBORAH ANN HIGER
Gay People's Union

For many years, the depiction of brutal violence against women has been used, both in mainstream films and in pornography, for titillation, drama and supposed "entertainment." Now, we are seeing a similar cinematic treatment of gay men, a group largely invisible in film except in negative distorted ways.

Within the past month, United Artists has released Windows and Cruising, two films which exploit violence against women and gays in the name of entertainment. In Windows a psychotic lesbian killer hires a man to rape her best friend with whom she is secretly in love. The message is that women are endangered by other women, not men, and it reinforces the old stereotype that equates lesbianism with psychotic violence.

Conveyed through graphic depictions of stabbings and mutilations of gay men, the message of Cruising is that gay men who "cruise" and have casual sex are asking to be killed. The vicious distortion equating gay sex with violence justifies and encourages violence by blaming the victim.

In Windows, the treatment of rape is as unreal as the plot itself. Violence against women has reached epidemic proportions and is still increasing. Rape affects between a quarter and a third of the female population in the country and every woman lives with the threat of rape. The fact is that rape is a crime against women by men. The depiction in Windows of rape as a crime instigated by one woman against another is a monstrous lie, a gross misrepresentation of lesbianism and of rape. It would be cynical to argue that this film portrays only "one sick individual" and not all lesbians; for the fact remains that other, contrasting images of lesbians do not exist in Hollywood films.

A member of the National Gay Task Force, Lucia Valeska, was present at the screening of the film Cruising and filed her report. The following is a few excerpts from that report:

"The movie Cruising will do harm to the gay community. The overall message is that it is both physically dangerous and psychologically devastating to be gay, or in the proximity of gay people. If it were but one of many portrayals of different aspects of gay life, it might be dismissed as a grade B film with grade B plot, characterization and acting. Because it is one of a kind, its immediate effect will be destructive."

Both films attack women and gays and tell lies about our sexuality. Both films were made by heterosexual men; and both films, like so many from Hollywood, are making money by exploiting violence against women and gays. It is no accident that these films were the product of heterosexual men, because the power of heterosexual men to define and distort the sexuality of women, both gay and straight, and gay men is intricately connected with their tightly held power and practice of denying women and gays access to the media.

The human and civil rights of women and gays have been constantly violated and denied — first by the general denial of strong women figures or any positive existence of gay figures, and second, in those infrequent instances in which gay are acknowledged, it is in a way that promotes the distorted image and perpetuates violence against both women and gays.

True China Syndrome

By EUGENE KOFFMAN
Santa Barbarans For Rational Energy Policy

The "China Syndrome" is a mental aberration that afflicted the Chinese Ming Dynasty (1368 — 1644). In the 14th century the Chinese were the technological leaders of the world, with gunpowder, printing and advanced navigation. The Ming Emperors decided that technology made their people unhappy and they redirected Chinese civilization to philosophy, art and contemplation of nature.

As a result of this policy, China became a low-energy society and a helpless giant, abused and exploited by technologically more advanced nations. In order to subsist in their low-energy society, the Chinese abused and exploited their environment. Only 12 percent of China's land remains forested, compared to 30 percent of U.S. Today's China is the land of "The Silent Spring" because of virtual absence of wild birds.

The "China Syndrome" has not been limited to China. It also occurred in the 19th century England, where the so-called "Luddites" were wrecking labor-saving machinery and were championed by demagogic journalists like William Cobbett and romantic poets like Lord Byron.

We are also witnessing the occurrence of the "China Syndrome" in the writings of Commoner, Lovins, Nader and Schumacher. Sample quotes: "We will reduce our energy consumption by half, but first there has to be an intermediate stage of liberalism failing, and of economic bad times without novocaine." (Nader in "The Village Voice," Sept. 29, 1975.)

"If nuclear power were clean, safe, economic, assured of ample supply, and socially benign per se, it would still be unattractive because of the political implications of the kind of energy economy it would back us in to." (Lovins in "Foreign Affairs," October 1976.)

"Since human labor ($100/kwhr) is three orders of magnitude (1000 times) more expensive than inanimate energy (5 cents/kwhr), very substantial increases of the latter may be of no great moment." (Lovins in "Soft Energy Paths," 1977.)

Spiraling Inflation Woes

from groups — including labor and minorities — committed to low interest rates, high wages and big federal spending. Controls on prices profits and dividends might ease these commitments somewhat, and Sen. Kennedy has advocated such controls. But his support of big spending makes it seem that he is stepping on both the brake and the accelerator simultaneously. President Carter has vigorously opposed controls — the more so since Kennedy espoused them. So the Democrats find themselves divided in a way that prevents development of a clear position until after the election.

A Republican president has never had to cope with the persistent inflation now imbedded in the economy. All the leading GOP candidates oppose controls, or even tough policies to restrain prices and wages. They talk as though a balanced budget would do most of the work on the inflationary front. In fact, without a host of complimentary measures, cuts in federal spending would merely heap trouble on the persons who are already the most burdened — the jobless poor in the ghettos of the big northern cities. The country would thus be exposed to a virulent dose of tension between regions, races and economic groups.

A benign unwinding of inflation in these conditions seems almost impossible. No figure in the forefront of national politics can move seriously on inflation without massive and radical changes of declared policy. Thus the one clear thing is that, whatever may happen abroad, the presidential race will be run against the background on inflation and its awful rattle.

Fair Rent Increases

Using financing arrangements typical for June 1978, (20 percent down payment, 10.25 percent interest on variable-rate loan, 25-year term), the monthly mortgage payments would start at $2,223 in 78-79 and would increase to $2,309 in 79-80. On a percentage basis for both years these expenses would be 62 percent and 61 percent, respectively, of total costs. Subtotal operating expenses (*) minus bank payments, taxes and insurance, all of which are relatively unaffected by inflation, are therefore 28 percent of total costs for 78-79. In short, only 28 percent of total expenditures are significantly affected by inflation.

	July 78- June 79	July 79- June 80
Loan Payments per year (per month)	$26,680 2,223	$27,708 2,309
* Maintenance	2,100	2,375
* Utilities	1,300	1,625
* Repairs/Supplies	2,750	3,115
* Replacement Costs	3,750	4,300
Taxes	3,600	3,670
* Management Fee-7. Insurance	1,925 725	2,215 750
* Subtotal (Operating Expenses)	11,825	13,540
Total Costs	42,830	45,668

Percentage Increase in Expenditures (79-80 — 78-79): 6.6 percent.

What would a "reasonable" percentage increase for 1980-81 be? It would seem that no more than 6.6 percent would be "reasonable," however, we must observe the deception in talking about percentage figures instead of dollars and cents.

For instance, a 6.6 percent increase on a $254 apartment means your payments increase $200 more per year. The same 6.6 percent increase on a $410 apartment means an additional payment for you and your roommates of $325 per year. The point here is that your landlord need only raise the rent four percent on the $410 apartment to achieve the same increased earnings in income.

But what is the rent increase? History tells us recent rent increases have kept pace with the CPI. Such increases must be investigated! If your landlord claims his costs have risen due to inflation ask to see the books. Only an open-book policy will reveal the truth in landlording.

Footnotes
A) Indeed most income properties bought today in Santa Barbara do have a projected negative cash flow (income taken in from rents, etc., minus expenses paid out) for the first 2-3 years of ownership. However, as noted previously, the major profits involved are appreciation (growth in value of property over time) and depreciation tax savings.
B) It should be noted that on the average 1978-79 rents showed an increase of 12 percent from the prior year. Meanwhile, tax savings up to 60 percent of original property value enabled an average annual decrease in expenditures of 12 percent.

Isla Vista Fud Coop Reopens

The Isla Vista Fud Co-op reopened Feb. 7 in a new location at 6575 Seville after being closed for nearly eight weeks.

The Fud Co-op moved at the end of its five-year lease because the rent was raised. The building which the Fud Co-op now occupies was formerly Nina's restaurant. According to Krueger, the new building is at a "better location, and has fairer rent."

"We re-designed the store, vastly restored it, put in a new refrigeration, and remodeled it to maximize space," Krueger said. He also said the Fud Co-op has had better business within the past few weeks because of its new look.

The Fud Co-op is a community-owned store serving approximately 700 members. Each member is responsible for paying a $15 deposit, refundable when the member leaves the co-op, working one hour a month, and paying a monthly $2.50 service charge. The work required of co-op members consists of stocking groceries, cutting cheese and working on special projects.

Every member has an equal share in the co-op and each has one vote. A paid staff of five, make and receive orders.

Business and policy is formed by a decision-making staff meeting every week and a nine-member board of directors which decides policy.

Members of the co-op also have a say in what happens. Four times a year a general membership meeting is held so members can add input before big decisions are made. The system is "pretty democratic," according to Krueger.

The prices at the co-op are "the cheapest prices in the area because we are not in business for profit," said Krueger. He added that the co-op is in competition with other stores only in one area — health foods.

Krueger said the co-op is primarily in competition with Sunburst Health Foods since the co-op carries more natural foods than conventional grocery items, although other items are available. Krueger said they have the "best dairy selection around."

The Fud Co-op tries to buy items in bulk as much as possible so that prices can be lower. They do have some national products, but they try to avoid buying packaged foods whenever they can because of the cost, according to Krueger.

Chancellor Huttenback Will Chair United Jewish Appeal

UCSB Chancellor Robert A. Huttenback has been selected as chair of the 1980 United Jewish Appeal. Conducted nationwide, the appeal is "a means for Jews helping Jews," according to Martin Bernstein, president of the Santa Barbara Jewish Federation.

Huttenback stressed the importance of "meeting the challenge of the 80s, by fulfilling commitments to the Soviet Russian Jews, over 50,000 of whom are expected to be permitted to leave this year, as well as to the people of Israel who are confronted by a 100 percent inflation rate."

The funds raised by the Santa Barbara Jewish Federation are allocated both locally and nationally. The federation serves as an umbrella organization that has affiliates such as the temple, Hebrew Day School, Organization of Rehabilitation Through Training (ORTT) and the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society (HAIS).

As stated by Bernstein, "The principle effort of ORTT has been to train the Jewish people throughout the world to become self sufficient, to learn a trade and attend school." Currently, there are about 125,000 students attending ORTT schools all over the world.

In addition, Bernstein added that they also sponsor HIAS. "After being around for about 80 or 90 years, HIAS is helping to resettle Jews from various countries." Last year, for example, approximately 50,000 Jews were able to leave Russia.

Locally, about a year and a half ago, the Santa Barbara Jewish Federation brought in a family — a mother and her five-year-old daughter — from Russia. They found an apartment, saw to it that both of them went to school, learned the language and had adequate living facilities. Due to the success of the project, Bernstein said the federation is hoping to sponsor another family next year.

The appeal, with a goal of $80,000 for the year, will consist of mail campaigns, informal gatherings and a Phone-A-Thon. According to Bernstein, there are approximately 12,000 Jewish families in the Santa Barbara and Goleta community and with the assistance of volunteers, especially from the university, their goal can be reached.

Friendship Manor Resident

Jogger Who Keeps Moving Forward After 82 Years

By SUE MURRAY

Ray Philipson is not your average UCSB jogger. He does not go to class during the day, or to parties on the weekend. The students who pass him each morning don't know that the 82-year-old jogger has been around the world four times and taught journalism in New York City for 35 years.

"I love to travel," said Philipson. Besides his trips around the world, he has been to Europe 19 times and has toured all of the countries of the Caribbean, Tahiti and Hawaii. "On May 1st, I will tour South America by plane for 22 days, and in October, I will vacation in Mexico with my sister," said Philipson.

"I like every country I've been in, although I do have a predisposition to the Far East since my wife was born in Hong Kong," said Philipson. "In all my travels, I learned not to take the U.S. for granted," he continued, "there is a generosity and friendliness of American people that you don't find everywhere else."

"I settled here in I.V. at Friendship Manor because I like the semi-rural atmosphere," explained Philipson. "After I retired, my wife and I traveled around Europe for six months looking for a place to live. We thought of settling in Portugal, but we realized that our roots are here in the U.S. In Portugal we would be without the libraries and good doctors that we take for granted in the U.S. So instead, we came to California and I love it," stated Philipson. "Compared to New York, California is almost like a different country."

For 35 years Philipson was a teacher at De Witt Clinton High School in New York City teaching journalism for 28 years to hundreds of students. "There were two things I taught my students," said Philipson. "One was to always do everything to the best of your ability. And the other, more specifically, was to boil down writing to half of its size and then cut it in half again. This is the key to good writing."

Philipson's technique proved effective. Among his journalism students are Daniel Schorr, journalist; Paddy Chaevesky and Bruce Jay Friedman, playwrights, novelists and movie writers; movie and television writers and producers Jamy Marshall, Leonard Stern and Edward Feldman, and Robert Schnayer-son, previous editor of Harpers and founder as well as editor-in-chief of Quest magazine.

"I keep in touch with over 200 of my students," said Philipson. "I publish an annual paper which I have printed by a former student and send it out to those interested, who feed me the information of their activities for the paper. I held meetings with my former students in NYC in 1964, 1966, 1976, and 1978. They came from California, Chicago, Washington D.C., Maryland and Pennsylvania."

"Here at Friendship Manor, I edit our monthly four page newspaper, The Mirror. I am also in charge of our library and carry trays for infirm residents," said Philipson.

When asked his views on present day politics, Philipson said that Carter is to blame for the present situations in Iran and Afghanistan. "Carter is just not astute, although he means well," said Philipson.

"He is always backtracking. He is to blame for the hostages in Iran because he let the shah into the U.S. even though his cabinet was dead against it. Instead, Carter listened to Kissinger and Rockefeller. I'm surprised the media hasn't played it up."

Philipson added that "the hostages mean votes to Carter. The longer there is an international crisis, the less time the American people have to think about the serious domestic problems that Carter has done nothing about. The same with Afghanistan — Carter is milking the situation. I don't believe there will be any war."

Philipson concluded, "I would like to see someone like Senator (Morris) Udall from Arizona run for president, but Kennedy is my next choice. A national health plan like Europe's is needed. The U.S. is socially backward. In this country it is better to be very poor or very rich. I would be willing to pay extra taxes in order for this to change."

Davis African Stock Sale Helps Oppose Apartheid

(CPS)—The anti-apartheid campus movement recently picked up momentum when the Davis, California, city council voted to sell off stocks in companies that do business in the racially-segregated Republic of South Africa. The action followed by days an announcement that Michigan State University had sold the last of its interests in firms with South African operations.

Michigan State's Board of Trustees had agreed in March, 1978, to sell the stocks. Since then the university's brokers have timed the stock sales to maximize returns.

"If the trustees were to sell all the stocks at once," explained MSU Assistant Vice President for Finance Steve Terry, "they certainly would have been challenged legally for not acting prudently."

On Jan. 21, 13 months after the trustees' original divestment vote, Terry announced the university had sold its 14,500 shares in Eli Lilly & Co. Lilly was the 14th stock the university sold.

The Davis City Council's Jan. 27 resolution was not a surprise, according to the University of California - Davis Aggie. In 1978, Davis voters had approved a referendum measure calling for divestiture.

are those considered "optional." Bud Daily of the Carnation Company said that this law stems from the 1930's, when manufacturers began adding unnecessary ingredients to basic food items.

The existing law was originally designed to inform the consumer of any extra ingredients in products he was buying. But recipes have changed so much in the past 50 years and so many different types of foods have been developed, that the definition of "optional" has become unclear and many potentially undesirable ingredients go unlisted.

Network

Futures Foundation and Network, Rothman doesn't feel the foundation was directly responsible for the letter.

However, Rothman did say that the foundation's attacks on Network may have encouraged the authors of the letter.

"I think a climate has been created in which it is open season on Network and, through this perverse act, open season on many other progressive groups in town," she said.

In further business, Leg Council passed a bill joining the Renters Rights Coalition. The coalition, composed of various groups including the Legal Defense Center and the Santa Barbara Indian Center, is currently sponsoring a rent control initiative scheduled for the June ballot.

"I realize that rent control is not a long-term method," said A.S. President Marty Cusack. "But it is the only solution we have at the moment...to help the housing crisis in Santa Barbara."

By ERIC BIDNA
After tomorrow night's basketball contest against Fullerton, two Gauchos will never again set their sneakers down on the Events Center floor for a PCAA basketball game.

Guard Jerry Ocasio and forward Steve Parrott will be ending their UCSB basketball careers against Fullerton at 7:30 in the Events Center.

The other senior forward, Tom DeMarcus, will not be playing due to an ankle sprain.

The two seniors are playing for a school who's only chance of capturing a NCAA playoff bid is to win the PCAA title in a post-season tournament next weekend in Anaheim.

UCSB is the sixth place team in the PCAA, along with CSF. UCSB's chances are as good as anyone's to win the title, but most concede momentum is the key factor going into the tournament.

Who could think of a better way to build momentum than to play one of the worst teams in the conference before a home crowd as the last game of the 1980 season?

Be wary of the Titans, though. They too crave the momentum for the PCAA tournament. And there's another reason CSF will be emotional.

After six seasons as head coach, Bobby Dye will be leaving the Fullerton coaching chair. Dye is most noted for his 1978 basketball team, which brought fame and prestige to the PCAA and Fullerton by almost going all the way in the NCAA tournament. After knocking off USF and New Mexico, the Titans were four points away from stunning Arkansas (61-58) and making the final four of the NCAA finals.

Besides Dye's departure, the Titans have an acute case of senioritis. Forwards Calvin Roberts and Tom Morgan, and 6-foot-10 center Stan Ray are all seniors.

UCSB rooters remember it all started in Fullerton. The Gauchos began their marvelous string of three straight PCAA wins in Fullerton on Jan. 10 with an 80-67 win. That was the first time in seven tries the Gauchos had beaten Coach Dye and the Titans. Since that week, the Titans and Gauchos have been imitating Franz Klammer—going downhill.

Spikers Crush Saskatchewan, Now Look for Long Beach Win

By JOEL JONES

The UCSB men's volleyball team dispensed with the University of Saskatchewan in straight games, 15-9, 15-10, 15-8, in little more than an hour.

If not for numerous net violations by UCSB, Wednesday night's sweep would not even have been as close as the score indicated. Because the Huskies lulled UCSB into napping at the net, the Gauchos played down to their competition.

But in the back court, key digs by Jon Stevenson in game one, and Dave Lundin and Steve Zelko in games two and three picked up the slack. Particularly, Zelko dug the "lips" off bigfoot Darcey Busse, the 6-foot-6 power hitter for the Huskies.

Busse put up quite a big block at the net, even blocking the serve on one attempt. Blocking the serve is a relatively new rule that has only been in effect the last two seasons. As Busse proved in making only one out of five attempts, it is risky because it is a tough play to time.

From the hitting stand point, Lundin and Mark Roberts led all others with a 33 percent spiking efficiency.

Although the Huskies are the current Canadian Collegiate champions, they proved more hospitable than competitive by presenting UCSB captain Scott Steele with their school penant.

Also, Alan Lau "set very well in games two and three," according to head coach Ken Preston.

But the Gauchos will have a much tougher time winning when they play Long Beach State on Friday in a pivotal league match. UCSB is presently 1-1 in league, and a win at Long Beach's arena could set the stage for future Gaucho dominance. "Long Beach is undoubtedly one of the most important matches of the year," Preston emphasized.

The 49ers are a fiery team led by 6-foot-6 Willie Wilson, a high flying middle blocker, and outside hitter Tom Wade.

UCSB will also face a diminished threat from Loyola Marymount on Saturday night. LMU is the perennial last place finisher in league.

The exact starting line up has not been set, but UCSB will rely heavily on the setting talents of Steele, the middle blocking of Glenn Duval, Mark Roberts, Tim Vorkink, and Dave Lundin, and power hitters Stevenson, Greg Porter and Gary Pearce.

GaUCHO Notes: Porter missed the USn game because of the flu, but he will be playing against the 49ers on Friday. Also, John Nisbet, a returning starter from last year's team, is rapidly recovering from an ankle injury and should be back in the Gaucho line up soon.

Tim Vorkink runs into trouble up against a Canadian block, as the Gauchos defeated Saskatchewan Wednesday night in the Events Center. The Canadian team is one of the best in their country, but was no match for the CIVA power.

Water Election

"The proponents of state water are stating that the voters rejected state water, but not the option. They also want the electorate to be subjected to a vote on the option. I feel that this is totally untrue and unfair," said Wallace.

After eight years of delays and discussion both sides stated that the March '79 election was definitely the time to decide on whether to go or not go with imported state water.

"Each side had every opportunity to present its arguments, the county spent thousands of dollars on studies, and there were endless political forums on the subject. The final vote, 17,367 for, 43,987 against, overwhelmingly rejected state water," said Wallace.

Hedlund said that he is against state water because it is not a secure source.

Bethe on Energy

Bethe believes that present regulations restrict the safe use of nuclear power due to industry's wish to comply only to the letter of the law.

"There are far too many regulations and too little sense," he said, adding that "industry thinks that fulfilling regulations fills the job—it doesn't." He cautioned, however, that the "industry still needs to be watched.

Other precautions Bethe outlined include the need to put reactors in sparsely populated areas, to have educational programs for nuclear engineers in danger situations and to encourage a better relationship between industry and regulatory

Nutrition...

A very detailed listing of ingredients in descending order of predominance (determined by weight), and a read-out on calories, protein, fats, carbohydrates, sodium and cholesterol per serving is proposed in the bills. In addition, S1651 requests that the government allocate $4 million over a three year-period for the development of a standardized reference on the nutrient composition of all foods.

This reference would become the basis for label information. In connection with this, a system of retail quality grading would be enforced to gauge the quality of meat, poultry, dairy products, eggs and fresh produce.

Both bills stress the importance of consumer education through all these changes. S1652 proposes that in the course of three years (1980-83) an $18 million consumer education and information plan be launched.

The bill states that "consumers must be educated on the use of the nutrition information that is provided." However, no outline of this plan is given, according to Daily.

Daily said that opposition to the bills might come from "anybody in the state government who was afraid of being totaled by federal preemption." He added that smaller companies like Carnation, who ship their products to all 50 states, have a great deal of trouble complying with the different food laws in each state.

"There are 50 sets of dairy laws," he said, "and we have to comply with all 50. It would be easier for them with a centralization of power in the federal government, a single set of standards," he said, "but you can debate on the (political) philosophy of that."

Daily admitted that the standards imposed "would probably be higher than the standards in most states."

A representative in charge of labeling food for the FDA said the bills were being too "cut and dried" about what should go on labels, and how. "The science of nutrition is an ongoing thing," he said, and requirements in an act of this kind should be "based on a scientific formula," not a lot of specifics.

When asked if more detailed labeling might increase the cost of food items, he replied, "Non-standardized foods aren't any more expensive than standardized food."

"It belongs to Northern California counties, aqueducts can crack and are open to sabotage," he said. "Also, it costs too much and it is growth-inducing. In-county sources are about four times cheaper," said Hedlund.

Morgan said that although the entitlement provides Santa Barbara county with an option for future use of state water, the county does not have to exercise the option and could lease out the entitlement until needed. He said the northern county would be especially hard hit if the entitlement were sold.

"Apparently the election is not going to be ordered, but part of the entitlement could still be kept," said Morgan.

He explained that an "in lieu" project could be initiated at state or federal expense where some state water could be obtained for local projects if part of the entitlement was kept.

"As a member of the water board I'm not for or against state water but I am trying to get the information out so that people can vote on it," said Morgan.

Fletcher said he thinks the best option would be to lease the entitlement until the county has use for it.

"I suggested this several years ago, but the state said no," commented Fletcher.

Kallman said no real decision has been reached by the board regarding a sale, lease, or election.

"I am keeping my options open until a written proposal is received regarding a lease or sale," he said. "Other districts want water so badly there probably will be an offer for it."

Kallman said he thinks there probably will be no election and the entitlement will be sold or leased. "The board must make a decision by March 11," he said.

I.V. Co-op

exploration...it doesn't make any sense to do it in a carefree way," Birch said.

However, Assistant Vice-Chancellor Don Winter, of the Office of Student and Isla Vista Affairs said, "My impression is that if the Reg Fee Committee and the chancellor conclude that reg fees are not an appropriate source, then this office would move into the picture."

Although Winter stated that the money would be provided from the Regents' Opportunity Funds, which funds various programs throughout the Isla Vista community, he claimed that the funding would not immediately remove funding from other I.V. programs.

"A decision to provide funding for co-ops may have an impact in future fiscal years, but not in the current one," he said.
