Presidential Vote Bares Student Views

Newspaper Groups Sponsor Campus Polls on Friday

Student opinion on matters political will be voiced next Friday as Santa Barbara State college Gauchos ballot in a pre-election day campus poll to support their candidates for the Presidency of the United States.

Co-sponsored by El Gaucho and Fourth Estate, the effort to secure a survey of collegiate preference will be conducted from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Friday.

THREE STATIONS

Polling stations will be maintained at the three most-traversed points on the campus: the cafeteria, the Quad and in the vicinity of the industrial education buildings. It is felt that this will assure complete student participation in the voting.

Inasmuch as citizens of the United States will indicate their preferences November 4, present plans call for the State college election to be conducted next Friday and disclosure of results to be made in the November 1 issue of El Gaucho.

Students will be given their choice of any of the four presidential candidates, in an effort to maintain Democracy in the voting. Candidates will be listed alphabetically on the ballots which will be obtainable at the polling stations.

ALL CANDIDATES

Those to be voted upon, as they will be listed, include Earl Browder, Communist choice; Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat; Norman Thomas, Socialist nominee and Wendell L. Willkie, Republican.

Members of El Gaucho staff and Fourth Estate, social organization for those persons engaged in the production of the campus weekly, will officiate at the polling stations. Engaged in counting ballots will be Ruth Suggs, president of Fourth Estate; Syd Cohen, editor of La Cumbre; Jack Richards, Associated student body president; Willard May, El Gaucho editor and Robert Scalapino, former student body president and, at present, a member of the State college faculty.

Voters will be required to present student body cards but need not sign their ballots. However, they will be asked to denote political party sentiments in an attempt to discover the advantage which party affiliation grants the candidate.

Rally Features Yells, Dancing

Introducing ten candidates for Gaucho queen today at the noon rally in the quad, Warren Dorn, rally committee chairman announces that the football pep meet will include a dance.

First part of the rally will consist of selections by the college band, songs led by Gaucho song leaders and yells under the direction of the yell leaders. A representative of the Gridiron club will speak on the game. Following this short program students will adjourn to dancing.

Rooting caps and pom poms will be required for admission to the first ten rows of the rooting section tomorrow night at the Cal Ramblers game. With Bud Thomas in charge of sales, caps and pom poms will be on sale at the game.

Divulging the identity of the chosen homecoming queen at half-time will be Warren Dorn. Novelties planned as half-time stunts by the band will include a marching "R" in honor of the Ramblers and a marching block "S" standing for Santa Barbara.

Game Charge

Follett Urges Pre-Purchases

State college students will be charged 25 cents admission to the Cal Rambler-Gauchos football game tomorrow night at La Playa field and are urged to purchase their tickets today in the office of Don Follett, graduate manager.

This move will relieve congestion at the field, according to Follett, and early purchase of tickets will make it possible for students to enter at any gate.

Admission is being charged to the game because of the necessity of raising funds for the continuation of the athletic program being sponsored by the Gridiron club.

NYA Director Notes College Study Changes

According to Miss Ruth MacFarland, director of the National Youth Administration in the state office in Los Angeles, there is a shift in colleges today from an all-study program to a work-study curricula.

"N.Y.A. has been under fire many times, but it has been definitely proven that it is justified in itself." In an address yesterday afternoon before students and faculty members she went on to relate the success with which N.Y.A. has been received.

Stressing the national emergency, Miss MacFarland emphasized the important part that the student work program will be called upon to play in preparing young men and women for the tasks they will be called upon to assume.

Asserting that N.Y.A. has been recognized as an important phase of college work, Miss MacFarland cited three reasons to prove her contention: the amount of administrative time given to the program, the amount of supervision given by individual projects supervisors, and the N.Y.A. public service fellowships.

Director MacFarland spoke in place of Robert Wayne Burns, California Administrator for the National Youth Administration, who was unable to appear on the State college campus at this time.

Five Footers Check Shapes

Featuring a "cabaret" motif, the Five-footers, a campus group of women students five feet or under, held a party for over fifty women new to the campus in the A.W.S. clubroom last night.

The prospective members of the club underwent height and weight measurement tests to check their eligibility to become members of the group. As the membership of the Five Footers' organization is limited, only women who meet fully all requirements are eligible for a vote.

Hostesses for the party were Dorothy Loudanlos, Pat Slater, Marie Zappone, president of the group, Frances McKowen, Beryl Davidson and Mary Kunhardt.

Carrying out the "cabaret" theme the entertainment included roulette wheels, cards and various gambling devices which were superintended by college men over six feet tall. Refreshments were served from the "Half-Pint" bar.

Sponsor of the club is John T. Porter, printing instructor.

Mail Delays Installation of Grid Timeclock

Next Week's Game Sees La Playa Stadium Addition

Because of shipping delay the new football scoreboard will not be erected in time for tomorrow night's game, but will await spectators at the San Jose game next week at La Playa field.

Having already laid 500 feet of underground cable and completed the installation of remote control panels, difficulties are now presented by the late arrival of the board and clock. Complete installation of the apparatus requires three days, as there are seven figuregram units of 24 lights each which need separate wiring for connection.

STATE COLORS

The recently acquired mechanical tally-card is eighteen feet long and eight feet wide. Constructed entirely of steel, traditional school colors will be adherent to football fans' pleasure. Painted green, the scoreboard will have aluminum trim and egg-shell lettering.

The giant clock with seven foot dial will have twelve-inch lettering, with automatic figuregrams changing instantaneously as operated by the time-keeper on the sidelines.

BASKETBALL USE

Basketball scores will also be kept on the scoreboard. Special inserts will be made to change words on the face of the tally and different gears will be installed in the clock.

Donations of $100 each have been made by the graduating classes of '40 and '41 in order to pay for this gift to the school. A brass plaque bearing the class inscription will be attached to the board in commemoration of their gift, according to Don Estey, publicity chairman of the senior class.

Students Buy Directories

Making its appearance on campus next Tuesday, the second part of the student handbook, containing both faculty and student directories, will go on sale under the supervision of the Fourth Estate club, campus press organization. Price per copy is ten cents.

In charge of distribution is Bob Emerson who will handle the setting up of booths to be placed in the quad at which Fourth Estate members and campus personalities will serve.

Ruth Suggs, handbook editor, estimates that 1500 copies will be sold. The handbook, which comes out yearly, lists all student and faculty addresses and telephone numbers plus the officers of all departments, classes, social and service organizations, fraternities and fraternities. Also for the first time the class of every student will be printed.

Members of the Fourth Estate who are on the handbook staff include Miss Suggs, president, Marjorie Wetmore, Patsy Eaves, Mary Lou Royal, Margie Larsen, Ruth Travis, Joan Dixon, Natalie Stewart, Willard May and Syd Cohen.

Breaking precedent this year was a miniature handbook edited by Ruth Suggs and Ruth Travis which was distributed free of charge at registration line containing general school information.

Selective Service Registration Ends as 405 Gauchos Enroll

By MARY RONK

Registration of State college men 21 to 35 years old for selective service reached a total of 405 Wednesday evening when officials closed the enrollment office which had been set up in the student body offices.

First step of the procedure was the completing of the registration form which asked for information including name, address, telephone, years, country of citizenship and the name and address of that person who will always know the address of the registrant.

Each man, as he registered, was given a bulletin of information which contained answers to any questions he might have. Forward of the bulletin is a message from President Franklin D. Roosevelt in which he states, "And whether or not you are to be among those selected, I welcome you as one whose name has been inscribed on the roll of honor of those Americans ready, if need be, to join in the common defense of all."

A local board has been set up in Santa Barbara at Carrillo and De la Vina streets, and all selecting of men from this community will be done by members of this board which is composed of civilians and residents of this country.

Registration does not effect enlistment in the army, navy, or marine corps. However, if a man enlists, he is asked to notify the local board. Men may, if they wish, volunteer for military training and service and therefore finish their period of training sooner.

All questionnaires filed with the local board will be kept strictly confidential and will be used in determining in which of the four general classes a citizen will be placed.

These classes are training and service in land or naval forces, per-

Graduate manager DON FOLLETT announces delay in the arrival of the scoreboard which was to be installed at La Playa field in time for the Cal Rambler game tomorrow night, but which will be erected before next week's San Jose tilt.

Instrumental "swingcopation" will be furnished by a trio composed of Bill Watson, piano; Richie Watson, drums; and Tom Bosley, trumpet, and by Jimmie Stanley and George Booth, duo-pianists. The latter two will play original arrangements of "Bear Me Daddy" and "I Know That You Know."

Plans for assemblies released by Estey include appearances by Leo Carrillo, actor and popular leader in Santa Barbara's annual Fiesta; Raymond Moley, editor of News-Week and Miss Bessie Owens, distinguished aviatrix whose flights have carried her to all parts of the world.

Scheduled to speak Tuesday, November 5 is Dr. Charles May, former English department head at New Zealand university and Shakespearean actor. Dr. and Mrs. May will present sketches from the works of Charles Dickens.

Ericson Gets Air Corp News

Word has been received by E. E. Ericson, director of the department of industrial education, in regard to the position of students who have applied for appointment as flying cadets in the War department air corps.

This information is to the effect that men now enrolled in college who receive notifications to appear for training in response to application as flying cadets may ask for a postponement of their appointment until the completion of their college work.

The information is in response to a letter written by Ericson in behalf of several young men who had made application for this service and were in doubt as to whether or not they should enroll in the college and pay fees.

Requests for trucks or materials must be turned in immediately to either Bill Vanderhoof or Dr. Helen E. Sweet, faculty adviser of the rally committee. If any of the requests so far made are to be cancelled, Dr. Sweet asks that they be submitted promptly so that the materials and trucks may be turned over to some other organization.

A.M.S. President Eckles Expresses Disgust over Attendance at Meeting

'Icebound' Cast Enters Final Practice Days

With rehearsals underway, staff positions filled and scenery crews at work, the college auditorium is bustling with activity in preparation for the opening of "Icebound" on the evening of October 31.

According to Frederic W. Hile, director, a new system has been established for season tickets. A season ticket entitles the purchaser to four tickets during the season.

An added advantage to this offer is that these tickets may be issued at any time during the season. If the purchaser wishes to use the four available tickets on any one play he may do so or, if he wishes, one ticket for each of the four plays.

The season ticket bearer is entitled to his choice of reserved seats upon presentation of his ticket to the college box office. The advantage of a season ticket is lower price, prior choice of seats and the right to transfer his tickets to whomever he wishes. Tickets will be on sale until January 1.

So few men attended the regular meeting of the Associated Men Students Tuesday, fourth hour in room 80, that a special program of magic and ventriloquism had to be postponed to the next meeting. Only a few announcements were made and the meeting was adjourned until next month.

A.M.S. prexy Howie Eckles remarked that, "I'm disgusted. This program is costing money and I don't feel that we should spend it on so few students." One member remarked that he saw more men in the A.W.S. meeting in the auditorium than there were at the A.M.S.

A.S.B. prexy Jack Richards announced that the registering of all men students eligible for student body office.

Intramural head Giles Liegerot

described the games and events so far concluded and stated that because darkness fell so quickly now there would be only one game a night. He asked for all those interested in badminton to sign up for games at night.

Paddy Caudillo announced a meeting of all men interested in basketball next Wednesday evening at 7:30.

"I feel that more people should turn out for the A.M.S. events and meetings since they have paid their money for the programs. We are trying to give them what they want, but evidently they don't want anything at all. The men would enjoy the programs we have outlined for them. I hope they come out in full force next time," stated President Eckles after the short meeting.

Gauchos, Cal Ramblers Clash on Gridiron Tomorrow

Hilltoppers Rate Slight Edge Over Invaders at La Playa Field

Reid Out of Fracas With Rambler Squad

By BERT MARSHALL

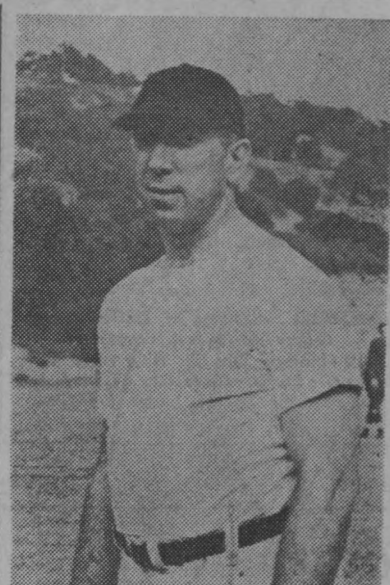

When Coach Spud Harder's Santa Barbara Gauchos mix pigskin palaver with the California Ramblers of Berkeley, it will mark their final non-conference fracas before tangling with San Jose's league champs. To date the local men in moleskin have polished off three quest conference foes but received a very thorough wax job from the 2CA members at Fresno State college.

Perhaps the strongest force of Gauchito strength assembled this season will be in uniform for tomorrow night's La Playa Field game. All of the squads first draft eleven will be ready to open action. This includes Larry Bemoll, guard, who has been training a trick knee, and Larry Pickens, giant end, who got into the game last week. Tomorrow night's forward wall should tentatively include: "Pinky" Mohr and Bill Jessup at ends with Larry Pickens and Cliff Greybehl in harness on the sidelines. "Doc" Larsen and Dave Hengsteler will be tried at 'trepid tacklers, with Behemoth Bemoll and Butcher Boy Engel lining up at the guard spots. Captain Blynn Wilson will put the ball into play from the pivot post.

One change in the backfield will find Ernie Saenz in on the first play at fullback in place of Tom Reid. Saenz and Reid have alternated freely during the roughnecking to date with Reid previously having a slight edge in starting favor. Other members of the backfield foursome will include Ray Regalado and "Wee Walt" Condeley at the halfback positions, and "Jesse" James at quarterback.

Diversity of attack has been one of the main features of the Gauchito performers this season. One night the Green and White will tour the gridiron through the atmosphere, while the next opponent will be knocked galley-west by a horde of fast traveling, hard hitting, grounded Gauchos.

Little is known of the Rambler squad, but algebra warns us of the unknown quantity. Out of the ranks of the Ramblers have come some of California's greatest gridmen.

SPUD HARDER, Gauchito grid coach, is not underestimating the Cal Ramblers strength in the fracas tomorrow, but has instructed his squad to "pour it on".

Frosh Eleven Tangles With Santa Monica

Tremendously heartened by its 44-6 victory over the Los Prietos CCC eleven, Coach Howie Yeager's Gauchito aggregation goes gunning for bigger bait tonight when it hooks up with the Santa Monica Junior college gridgers at the beach city.

No one man could be termed as a standout in last week's fracas. The running backs, Walt Lohman, Hovis Bess, Clyde Smith and Reed Shoemaker each took turns at galloping through the Camper's forward wall and turned in a great job.

Gamma Sigs Lead in 'Mural Grid

Host Club Trims Six Hits, 6-0 On Phelps Field

Gamma Sigma Pi's six man team crashed to the front in intramural play Tuesday on Phelps field with a thrilling 6 to 0 win over the Six Hits.

Bill Morgan of the Six Hits snagged a pass and raced 60 yards to a touchdown just as the gun went off. Official Tom Guerrero's whistle nullified the play however.

Last Thursday the I. E. gang lost a heart breaker to the Club de Squince, 13 to 12. The Host club nosed out the Six Hits, 6 to 0, in a tight game last Wednesday.

Other results:
Host club 2, Sig Alphas 0; Beta Sigs 14, College Y 6; Gamma Sigs 14, Sig Alphas 8; Shamrocks 12, Beta Sigs 6; College Y 2, Sig Alphas 0; Standings:

SAN JOSE MEETS USF

SAN JOSE, Oct. 17.—Riding on the victory trail with four straight wins after dropping the season opener to Texas I. and A., 0-6, the powerful San Jose Spartans run up against their toughest foe to date, the University of San Francisco Dons tonight.

everyone interested in the sport to turn out afternoons from 3-5 p. m. to work out at Phelps field under his supervision. He has two more intramural meets planned for the month of November with a final meet in December.

Thus far, only seven men have turned out, so Carter wants it stressed that it is important for all entrants to turn out early in order to get in some practice before the intramural meet begins.

BLYNN WILSON, rangy Gauchito center, will handle the ball snapping duties in tomorrow night's fracas with the Cal Ramblers.

Gauchito Cage Squad Begins Prepping for 1940 Casaba Title

Eighteen candidates for the 1940 basketball squad answered Coach Wilton's call for practice Wednesday night in the gymnasium.

An ambitious schedule has been lined up, a double round robin with conference teams, as well as games with Loyola, Chapman, Whitier and Pomona.

Gym Squad Begin Drills

With a nucleus of seven returning lettermen with which to form his 1940 gym squad, Coach Elmer Noble was optimistic about his chances of defending the 2CA gym championship won last year by a strong Gauchito aggregation.

Returning lettermen from last year's championship aggregation include Kelly Hopmans and Henry Garcia, sidehorse; Dave Brenner and Bill Brown, free exercise; Jim Jones, horizontal bar; Art Stiner and George Winder, all around; and George Drane, tumbling.

Coach Noble has scheduled practice for Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:00 p. m. in the college gymnasium. All interested in trying out for the squad are asked to turn out this coming Tuesday night.

STREET DOWN

By GEORGE STEPANIAN

The strange disappearance of Sam Henderson, crack right halfback on the Santa Barbara State college varsity, was cleared up for us a few days ago by Head Football coach Spud Harder.

It seems that Henderson has been much maligned by persons, who, not knowing anything of the circumstances surrounding his sudden decision to leave, took the opportunity to accuse him of being a "Prima Donna", who packed up because he could not become accustomed to being just another football player.

However, such is decidedly not the case. Henderson did not quit because he felt he was getting a raw deal. On the contrary, we held several conversations with him, and he seemed extremely satisfied with Santa Barbara.

He left school as suddenly as he did because he received word that his mother was critically ill and was about to undergo an operation.

Naturally, when he learned of the serious nature of his mother's illness, he did not go around the campus talking about it, but instead instantly departed for his home in Santa Ana, pausing only to leave word with his teammate and roommate from Santa Ana, Lyndyl Gheen, to check him out of his classes.

Henderson's mother is still in a very critical state. That is why Henderson has failed to return to the college. And, as other gossip-mongers have put it, he has not gone to another college where he "could get a better deal."

With that off our chest, we next turn to the track situation. Track coach Nick Carter is conducting an intramural track meet in the latter part of this month and he would like

Dear Marietta—

Suits! Suits! Suits!—marching up and down again ever since the day you told me you couldn't find the kind of suit that fitted both you and your pocketbook's fiscal figure.

And yesterday my search came to an end when right in the midst of the new Jack Rose shipment was a suit I knew was destined to remain in the store only until the first smart girl laid her eyes on it.

It's that style all Gauchettes have been asking for—you know, cut to perfection, with a "tab collar", and in a natural donegal tweed. And here's the part that's hard to believe—only 13.95 and looks like a million.

I'm showing it today on campus so take a look and see how it "suits" you.

P.S. Above—and still on top is the Ken Classic which again leads the Gauchito dress parade.

News Column Editorializing And Sensationalism Condemned

In these days of rigid news censorship and mass propaganda releases by warring nations, the average California reader is hard put to distinguish between facts and fiction in news columns. There are so many ways in which a reporter may color his story, that one would think editors would be constantly on the alert for biased material, and that they would keep their own opinions limited to the editorial pages.

A straight news story, such as fills the major portion of American news columns, is supposedly a third person objective report, stating only the known facts, with the reporter himself never entering into the story. The personal pronouns "I and We" are reserved for the editorial page and signed.

But American journalism is far from what it should be, and Will Rogers' oft quoted remark: "All I know is what I read in the papers," has today become more of a mockery than even the great humorist ever intended.

We do not mean to criticize honest editorial writing, or sincere attempts of columnists to analyze and interpret the meaning behind the news. Such features are a tradition in American newspapers, and are as much a part of them as the comic sheet, or the news column itself. But we would like to make a plea for full, and honest reporting of facts—all the facts—in stories that claim to be reporting events in the news.

A particular offender at the present time, in our estimation, is the well established and reputable Los Angeles Times, in its coverage of the Gallup Poll. When its first poll of the presidential race revealed Willkie to be in the lead, the Times ran a full report, giving the story a large banner. As subsequent polls have revealed a consistent decrease of the Republican candidate's popularity, the Times, with its exclusive coverage of the Gallup poll in this area, reports facts that are true only because the whole picture is not revealed. Though Mr. Roosevelt is leading his opponent, according to Dr. Gallup's findings, both in popular and electoral votes, the Times, by reporting fragmentary results gives its readers a false picture of the results.

This may not be a serious offense to journalistic ethics, inasmuch as the Times is openly supporting Mr. Willkie but in all fairness to its readers, the Times should remove the name of Dr. Gallup from the story, and run it over the signature of one of their own editorial writers.—D.J.P.

U. S. Urged to Strengthen Relations with Neighbors

Conceded that Europe is wallowing slowly and painfully into Hitler's own particular brand of inferno; granted that the Japs are having delusions of grandeur with the United States as scapegoat number one—just what are we going to do about it?

Half the world seems to have gone war crazy but we of the Western Hemisphere still seem to have our feet firmly entrenched on terra firma. The United States does not stand alone in its hope that peace will be brought out of chaos. To the north is Canada, potential seat of the British government if England should go to pieces. To the south lie 22 Latin American republics, each as loathe as we are to let Hitler have the whole hog.

We in America have been oblivious of our neighbors too long. Never before has it been so important that we preserve friendly relations with those peoples separated from us only by invisible boundary lines. Should any South American nation succumb to the blandishments of the totalitarian countries it can mean only a weakening of democratic ties to the southward.

We are prone to pass up the opportunity to learn more about these peoples in favor of the classic education offered in European history and culture. To understand our neighbors and their problems it is imperative that we acquaint ourselves with their history and background.

Let's have bonds in the Western Hemisphere rather than bombs.—E.N.S.

When the Cal-Poly special train pulled into the depot last Friday afternoon, approximately 400 males and a horse bailed out of windows and doors almost before the choo-choo jerked to a stop. They were looking for the 200 stag girls that had been promised them by the Mustang grape-vine news service. See, when the Cal-Poly rally committee heard that the gals outnumbered the guys at Santa Barbara, they figured it about 2-1 instead of the real one and one-sixth to one. (confusing—ain't it). Anyway, someone had a nightmare and came running to school with the rumor that there would be hundreds of girls to meet the Mustangs on their arrival.

Now back to the beginning. When Cal-Poly arrived en masse and found so few females to greet them they were crestfallen. Their hopes dropped lower than a ground hog's tummy and the future didn't look half as bright as it did in San Luis.

Cupid had dealt a blitzkrieg. Add moral: Don't count your chickens until you see them at the depot.

THE BREEZE AND I
In the middle of last week's sensational rooting section were Bill McArthur, Dorothy Staples, Bus Bolas, Herb Kohrs, Bill Stowe, Midge Meacham, June Montank, Harry Stewart and Hattie and Jack Richards . . . Who was the guy that nearly shook himself to pieces with his own version of a Jon Hall Pago Pago dance during one of Bosco's swing numbers. It was a very uplifting and aesthetic exhibition. More of this and I'll become a staunch supporter of the Darwinian theory. Rockwood fairly bounced.

Spectators at the game were full of praise for the Gauchito cheering section. Said there was more spirit at the fracas than demonstrated in many a moon. That serpentine and singing of the Alma Mater at the flag pole across the field was not only colorful but stirring . . . Do it again . . .

He who hung that "free room, board and tuition" sign outside the door where the boys were registering for conscription was none other than Walter I. "Dynamo" Bradbury himself. Things like that just come to him. He doesn't even have to try.

Grey Mare Ain't As Of Old -So Aren't Conductors

This is a tale you can believe, or disbelieve, as you like. But it is true. I went to sleep on a street car the other night, the last car for the night. As a result I had to walk about two miles. I had asked the conductor to throw me off on Nineteenth street, and you can be sure that I exhausted my cussin' vocabulary before I finally climbed into bed. Times have certainly changed.

Why I can remember the time was when a street car conductor was the most trusted person this side of heaven. He was guardian of all commuters, and particularly any slightly elevated, inebrious person—as well as those who were just plain sozzled.

That was back in the days of the Romeo specials, when a street car was the proper place for a little mugging. Why, in those days a street car conductor knew more about cupid's activities than the little brat himself. He knew where each fellow's gal lived and even had individual clanks to ring out on the clank clank bell, sorta as late warning calls for those who insisted on just one more kiss. I even had one fellow who used to stop the car, walk three blocks over to my gal's front porch, gather me up, and carry me back to the car—he felt it was his plain duty.

And any self-respecting conductor felt himself duty-bound to see that a commuter got off at the right station. Even if he had to be thrown off. Whoa be to the poor unfortunate soul who forgetfully told him the wrong station, for he was usually forceably kicked out into the cold night air. When you said, "Let me off on Nineteenth street," Brother, you got off on Nineteenth street.

I remember one time my pal and I were taking the gals home. He was a sedate cuss, and so was the girl I was with. But his girl—we were two of a kind, and we just naturally made a trade. My pal, and my ex-girl, were so embarrassed by our antics that they refused to stay with us and were going to get off the car and walk home.

From the Shoulder

BY THE EDITOR

The time we've been waiting for . . .

has finally arrived. At last an issue of sufficient magnitude is before the people of the United States and these same people are interested in what the college student of 1940 thinks about it.

We're referring to the Presidential election which will be held Monday, November 4. We've given up on Conscription after watching part of the 405 men who registered Wednesday display their red, white and blue ribbons. It's inevitable.

We hope the congestion at next Friday's polling stations will be at least as great as that in the student body offices last Wednesday.

Santa Barbara State college students will be offered an opportunity to cooperate in a move to unearth student opinion and instill a spirit of political interest into their brother and sister Gauchos next Friday when they cast a premature ballot for their choices.

Several such endeavors . . .

have come to our attention, but we've noticed, in each case, that only a very small part of the students were represented. What we're hoping for is participation by almost the entire 1778 students on this campus.

If this participation is forthcoming, the results should give a pretty representative picture of the popularity of the four candidates. We base this statement upon our belief that 1778 students of this institution represent an almost equal number of families in all walks of life.

Polling stations will be maintained in the Quad, in the cafeteria and near the industrial education buildings so that those students who don't frequent one or two of the locations will be able to participate at the other.

Another thing we've been noticing . . .

for several semesters now, is the unflinching habit of new students from out of town to return to the scenes of their former conquests every week-end. Naturally, homesickness and the desire to look just once more on the dear faces left behind are very persuasive factors in taking these students "down south" or "up north" or wherever they disappear to.

We don't object to a student going home for a good reason but what is this strange tie that binds him to the high school or junior college that he so recently transferred from?

We do object to someone who calls himself a "Gauchito" forsaking the events sponsored by this college for those sponsored for the students of Hickville junior college or Lerysburg high school.

Maybe someday these offenders will realize that they are no longer students of those schools that they no longer attend but are now part of Santa Barbara State college.
