

Suits Brought Against Exxon To Halt Off-Shore Plant Construction

By Brad Owens

Exxon USA's decision to build an off-shore oil processing plant instead of the controversial Las Flores Canyon facility finds the nation's largest oil corporation facing new opposition from the same sources.

Exxon officials said last Wednesday that the corporation will build the off-shore floating oil processing unit but will use the Las Flores site, 20 miles west of Santa Barbara, for a natural gas processing facility.

The off-shore plant, already under construction, is being opposed by Get Oil Out (GOO) and the state Attorney General's office. GOO filed suit in 1975 claiming that such an off-shore facility would come under regulation of federal Deep Water Port legislation, which requires that the facility be approved by the Governor of the adjacent state.

The suit was defeated in U.S. District Court, but an appeal may be heard as early as December.

And the state has requested a federal court injunction to halt construction of the off-shore facility.

Exxon last week also dropped suits pending in state and federal courts contesting a state Coastal Commission ruling requiring that Exxon switch from tanker to pipeline transportation of the fuel, after a five-year feasibility study.

"The Department of the Interior, in approving the off-shore facility, had to decide that the present on-shore proposal, and the Coastal Commission's requirement attached to the construction permit were unreasonable," Deputy District Attorney Don Januta explained.

"We think that the Department of Interior is wrong in deciding that," he continued. Januta said that the state's actions are also based on the grounds that the off-shore facility constitutes a Deep Water Port. That motion should be given a hearing in late December or early January.

Exxon officials said that the off-shore plant would be installed near the present Hondo platform and production begun by mid-1978. Drilling from the platform may begin this February, they said. The plant will separate crude oil from water, store it and transfer it to tankers for transport. Opponents of the plant fear marine accidents and oil spills.

Although no official statement has been made, members of the Coastal Commission staff told the Santa Barbara News-Press that the on-shore gas processing plant probably cannot be built under the present construction permit.

The Commission may also oppose plans to pipe the gas to shore without oil because of air pollution resulting from hydrocarbons released when the oil is

De Necochea Declares Minority Furor at Regents' Bakke Appeal

By Randi Mayem

Students and administrators rallied in protest of the controversial Bakke decision yesterday, in front of El Congreso, criticizing UC Regent's weak defense of minority programs and explaining the ruling's effect on minority students and the job market.

Fernando De Necochea associate director of Chicano Studies, told the gathering that most minority groups oppose the Bakke decision, which ruled that UC Davis' medical school minority admissions program is in violation of the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment.

"The Nexus and the Times have distorted the fact that minority groups are divided on this issue," De Necochea said. He added that most minority groups, with the exception of the NAACP, are united in opposition to the UC Regents' decision to appeal the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

De Necochea criticized the University of California for not making a "strong and complete record of the documented need for special admissions programs" and that such a case should not go to the Supreme Court,

"without giving stronger, more complete evidence."

Another reason minority groups oppose the appeal, according to De Necochea, is because the State and U.S. Supreme Courts have different attitudes on minority rights.

De Necochea pointed to the Burger Court's conservative record on school segregation and the California Supreme Court's affirmative action policy in minority educational problems.

De Necochea believes it would be a mistake to take the case to the Supreme Court.

UC Decision Blasted

Regents' Appeal of Bakke Case Chided

By Becky Morrow

Andrea Gonzalez, a long time activist in the Socialist Worker's Party, blasted the UC Regents for their recent decision to appeal the Bakke decision. "They asked the courts to rule because they want to get rid of special admissions programs," she declared at a Thursday lecture in the UCen.

Allan Bakke, an unsuccessful applicant to the UC Davis medical school, filed a court case stating that he had been the subject of reverse racism in admissions policies. The California Supreme Court agreed with Bakke and, in making their decision, invalidated the Davis medical school's special admissions program. Davis admits 16 out of 100 students annually through the special admissions program.

Gonzalez criticized the decision, stating that "there is no such thing as reverse racism." She felt that the case was one of the most important to affect the state and the nation. "Bakke means the start of a series of cutbacks - cutbacks in education" and in tolerance.

The political activist asserted that the Regents have put forth such a weak case that both the Mexican-American and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's Defense League have stated that the case would definitely lose in the Supreme Court.

Stating that the Supreme Court is particularly affected by social movements, she outlined a strategy for obtaining a favorable decision. With the abortion decision, Gonzalez reminisced that it was the thousands of women marching in the streets that influenced the Court to rule in favor of a woman's personal choice.

According to Gonzalez, one cannot fight racism by voting for bourgeois politicians. "Bakke is one of the most formidable racist attacks felt in California for a long time," she said. Gonzalez criticized Gov. Jerry Brown, calling him "the guru of Sacramento" for his inaction.

"Racism is when one group of people, in this country the whites, think they're better than, superior to another group, the Blacks and Chicanos," Gonzalez said. "Superiority is maintained and racism is perpetuated by force and legal trickery."

The capitalistic, power elite's method of keeping control, according to Gonzalez, is to divide the working people against themselves. "Blacks and Chicanos are projected as being lazy and not worthy of the same pay as whites," she stated. "They try to

Goleta Water Board Discusses Aid to Owners of 'Dry' Wells

By Glen Granholm

The Goleta Valley Water Board met yesterday to discuss the use of district water by residents whose private wells have failed.

Chairperson Linda Phillips said that the county's need for "rescue projects" is necessitated by the failure of private wells, pointing out that the failure of a private well owned by a Santa Barbara resident has left the family without water, adding that similar cases are likely to occur throughout the county.

The resident was granted a six-month temporary hook-up to the Goleta District water line. The action has left the Water Board faced with a decision on ways to handle additional failed wells.

The well has deteriorated to the point where the owner claims "it would be a waste of money to try to reconstruct the present system."

County Supervisor Jim Slater suggested that, in order to avoid similar incidents in the future, the county establish strict well-building standards. He pointed to the possible establishment of an ordinance which would require geological tests on all well sites.

Water Board General Manager Bob Paul replied that "Four of the last ten District wells have failed."

He said that District well sites are all geologically tested before the wells are built, and added that private wells would probably fare no better even if they were pre-tested. "The nature of the beast is doomed to fail," he said. "You can't guarantee a well."

Phillips indicated that the Water Board has "no legal obligation to rescue someone whose well fails. It's a feeling of moral responsibility."

Any legal action taken by the board would be based on the probability of a well succeeding. "How do we pass an ordinance on the basis of odds?" Slater asked.

I.V. Credit Union to Get $40,000 Boost from A.S. Reserve Funds

By Barney Krebs

Assets in the Isla Vista Community Credit Union will receive a substantial boost this year when $40,000 of A.S. investment reserve funds are deposited in the local federally insured operation.

The $40,000 transfer of A.S. funds from the Santa Barbara Savings and Loan to the I.V. Credit Union was approved last week by Leg Council.

The A.S. deposit will increase the credit union's assets by almost 45 percent and the $40,000 will be plowed back into the community through loans to residents and local organizations.

"This kind of management is sophisticated," said credit union director Mathew Steen, "since it supports community institutions which in turn support students."

While the $40,000 is fully insured, removing the money from the savings and loan will cost A.S. about $2,000 a year in lost interest because the credit union pays no interest or dividends.

But supporters of the transfer expect that the credit union will assume some of the financial burdens now placed on the student government.

"I hope the $40,000 will enable the credit union to make loans to organizations and community groups that have previously come to Leg Council and have asked for capital to help expand their services," said Rep-at-large Seth Freeman.

The only detail of the transfer that remains to be settled is an agreement on withdrawals. The credit union hopes to limit the amount and rate of withdrawals from the account. "This is being done to protect the credit union from having one of its deposits used as a political soccer ball," Steen said.

The transfer is the first deposit of a University's student government funds into a community credit union, Steen noted. "One of the original intents of forming the credit union was to promote economic development, strengthen community resources and provide a better alternative to the Bank of America," Steen commented.

Steen hopes that the transfer will open new sources of funds to credit unions in other university communities.

CREDIT UNION GETS BUCKS — The Isla Vista Credit Union will receive a large increase in its holdings when the A. S. Leg Council deposits $40,000 in reserve funds into an account there.

Quarterly Review of Locked-in Funds Imposed by Leg Council

By Danielle Claman

A.S. Leg Council recently decided to impose a quarterly review of expenditures to ensure the accountable spending of locked-in funds.

Rep-at-Large Seth Freeman originally requested the Council to approve major expenditures as they occurred for the Recreation Department's locked-in budget. The move came after a $700 discrepancy was found in a Recreation Department breakdown.

Freeman was concerned with the spending of the Department's locked-in funds. "We want to keep closer tabs on where all the money is going," Freeman said. "It would help A.S. locate problems in the budget and make costs more visible."

Freeman wanted to have all the accounting be processed through the A.S. Accounting Office and charge the Recreation Department overhead for the use of the services. But other Leg Council members questioned the feasibility of such a plan. A.S. Executive vice president Paul Pooley explained, "The intent of the proposal was to guarantee accountability of large amounts of money, not the small day-to-day expenditures." Pooley went on to illustrate the impracticality of having Leg Council review, for instance, such as the fees paid to game supervisors who might only oversee one athletic game per quarter.

Administrative Vice President Rich Perrigo believes that Freeman's motion was too restrictive, questioning the validity of forcing the Recreation Department to "use our accounting office and then recharge them for the accounting services." Perrigo felt that all five locked-in groups, including intercollegiate athletics, intramurals, the Recreation Department, Educational Opportunity Program and financial aid should fall under the same scrutiny.

Perrigo's plan, at the last Leg Council meeting, is to administer locked-in funds quarterly through a review of each group's budget breakdown. "If everything is in order," he said, "we would then allocate the next quarter of locked-in funds."

A.S. has no way of refusing locked-in groups their money since they were voted in by the students. A reversal of such funding requires the voting consent of two-thirds of 20 percent of the student body.

"Groups were lump summing money before," Pooley said. "Under the new quarterly review Leg Council has a way to determine whether the money is being spent as the groups say it is."

Although their means have been somewhat different all three Leg Council members agree that they are essentially working together on this problem.

The Negative Side of Eating Meat

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Tom McElheny's "shocking tale of mechanized destruction" (Nexus 11/19) - a detailed account of the animal slaughtering process - clearly points to the negative side of meat eating. Chomping down a slickly marketed Big Mac, or dining on elegantly presented filet mignon may seem harmless enough; the consumer of meat is far removed, both physically and psychologically, from the bloody slaughter, and thus tends to ignore the consequences of a carnivorous diet.

Cows, pigs and other livestock do not passively submit to the butcher's axe (or bolt gun). They cry out, struggle, attempt to escape, and experience fear, just as you and I will be afraid when death comes to us, be it peaceful or violent.

Thinking people of all times and places have adopted a vegetarian diet on the basis of humanitarian and compassionate reasoning. We can never learn to live in peace with ourselves, our fellow humans, or our Earth, so long as our sustenance is derived from the blood, pain and suffering of gentle, helpless animals.

Nuclear Attack on the USA a Real Possibility

Editor, Daily Nexus:

RE: letter from Santa Barbara New America Movement in 15 Nov. Nexus.

While a nuclear attack upon the USA is not necessarily inevitable, it is a real possibility for the present. It is important to confront this potential reality fully in one way or another.

Work on direct civil defense measures by the Isla Vista Community Council Planning Commission has stopped, at least pending formal decision by the Isla Vista Community as to what ones, if any, to take. This issue will be before the I.V. Community Council, which represents all residents of the I.V. Mesa (including both married student housings and the on-campus dorms), on November 29. Every such resident has 4 representatives (district and 3 at-large). Options include:

- full or partial contingency preparations (shelter, food, evacuation, etc. with respect to blast and/or fallout hazards).

- no preparation (possibly with a statement that our Community is opposed to war, that preparation for it could detract from our efforts at NECESSARILY life-giving work, such as helping to pioneer urban community-scale life-style optimally fulfilling the needs of humankind as a whole), would make war easier by an increment and could be interpreted as an aggressive act by other nations, and that we would be keeping ourselves vulnerable so that a prospective war-maker would have to consider having our lives on its conscience (to act as a deterrent), copies to the USA, USSR and the People's Republic of China, etc.

However, the Planning Commission is still doing what it can to find out what the local target values are, and to possibly reduce these (e.g., Goleta Valley strategic war-related work; public pressure has been effective at this elsewhere).

Assigning each living-unit to a particular shelter would be absolutely necessary for any practical certainty of effective blast protection. Doing this has been recommended to us by Col. Baker, the City of Santa Barbara emergency services officer.

Nearly half of the entire text of the article in question (Nexus, 9 Nov.) is more or less verbatim from a federal Defense Civil Preparedness Agency document.

N.B.: The designation of the Goleta Valley - Isla Vista area as high-risk with respect to the blast (and directly associated) hazards from a nuclear attack was made for planning purposes - it does not MEAN it is KNOWN that we are, or would be, ACTUALLY targeted by the USSR, but, that, in a generalized analysis which used conservative assumptions and unclassified information, we became part of a target area. Furthermore, the DCPA document itself did not conclude that (as the Nexus article, to the contrary, states) population concentrations per se "should be designated as high-risk areas", but

For and Against a Possessory Tax on Dorm Rooms

By Howard Dyck

For the past week the students at this university have been given a series of news articles purporting to explain the evils of a possessory assessment tax that might be levied upon dorm residents. Throughout the entire discussion, though totally one-sided, they have skillfully avoided the mention of any effects of the tax. Nowhere has there been any talk of whether such a tax would be beneficial or how it could be harmful, only the mindless belief that it is harmful.

When the opponents of the dorm tax get around to explaining their reasons they will say that the tax infringes upon the University's autonomy and that the tax will unfairly harm poorer students. Their first argument is legally correct, but they fail to consider whether that is good or bad. Their second argument is the same one used to justify all special interest subsidies; that it will hurt those less fortunate.

As most minority students can tell you, the UC system is not exactly an equal opportunity institution. A study by W. Hansen and Barton Weisbrod has shown that most of the benefits of low-cost public universities, especially the University of California, go to students from upper middle-class families. They concluded that higher income families were paying less than their share, and got more benefits, than poorer families that had trouble paying the costs. Another study by Patricia Sexton has pointed out that "the more money a student's parents make, the more money will be spent on his/her education, despite efforts at compensatory expenditures for the disadvantaged."

Because the poor would be hurt by such a tax, they should be given increased financial aid or tax credits like a Renter's Credit or Senior Citizens Property Tax Relife.

(Please turn to p.5, col.1)

By UCSB Student Lobby

The UCSB Student Lobby strongly opposes the implementation of a possessory interest assessment on UC Berkeley's campus student residents, as it very conceivably could in turn be imposed on UCSB students residing on campus, including those residing in married student housing.

At a time when the costs of a public education at the University of California are on the rise, the implementation of such a tax - of $25 to $120 - would be an unwarranted additional financial burden on those who can least afford it.

Married students living in student housing would be particularly hard hit, along with those dorm residents relying on financial aid to attend the University.

On the legal side, Article 13, 1 of the State Constitution sets forth the following two bases upon which property is exempt from taxation:

Property exempt by virtue of its use; and

Property exempt by reason of its ownership by a public entity.

We feel that the University of California dorms and married student housing facilities fall well within these classifications and therefore should not be subject to a possessory interest tax.

The argument used in favor of the imposition of the possessory interest tax is that living in married student housing or dorms constitutes a private use of otherwise tax exempt property. We feel that living in these facilities is caused by the students' attendance at the University and is clearly related to the educational function of the University which is tax exempt. If it weren't for the educational purpose of the University the students would not be living in the dorms or married student housing, for which the facilities were provided. Thus, the property should be exempt by virtue

(Please turn to p.5, col.1)

DOONESBURY

by Garry Trudeau

Against Tax for Dorm Residents

(Continued from p.4) State government it has a tax exempt status on all of its holdings. The resident halls and married student housing facilities have in the past typically been considered an internal part of the University and shared in its tax exempt status. Therefore, the property should be exempt by reason of its ownership by a public entity.

We feel that resident halls and married student housing facilities are legally exempt from possessory interest taxes by virtue of their use and ownership. This, along with the financial straits which students usually find themselves in (especially married students), justify our position that the students of UCSB's residence facilities should not be subject to a possessory interest tax.

Dorm Tax Defended

The opponents of this tax also show an extreme lack of foresight or initiative in thinking about the possible benefits of such a tax. When Isla Vista becomes a city it will need the help of dorm residents. The people in the dorms would be allowed to vote each year on if they wanted to tax themselves and for how much. If they feel that their money was being spent wisely, that they had input into community affairs, and were planning to move to I.V., then maybe they might want the tax.

Because the University doesn't have to pay any taxes it causes a drain upon the resources of the surrounding community. A dorm tax would greatly offset this drain and help to increase the financial feasibility of a city of Isla Vista. It would also help to hold down property taxes, which every non-dorm student must pay in amounts larger than the proposed possessory tax. For those of us that live in I.V., paying $40 a year would be a blessing compared to the $10-20 a month each of us pays in property taxes through our rent.

In political terms, a dorm tax might finally arouse dorm residents from their reported reactionary stupor and encourage them to take an interest in the community where most of them will live after they leave the dorms.

In summary then, we must ask the following questions. Who would pay the tax? Is it a fair tax? Who would benefit or be harmed if there wasn't a tax?

For the most part, the tax would be paid by those who could afford to pay it. Those who couldn't afford it should get aid to help them.

A tax is considered fair if it provides for an equitable distribution of the tax, which means that the wealthier students are subsidized more heavily, the tax would force them to pay more, while the rest of the county and I.V. would benefit from lower property taxes with the addition of the 2,800 dorm residents to the tax rolls. Local property taxes would be lowered or stabilized.

If the dorm residents feel that they are privileged and should be the only people in the county not to pay any taxes, then they shouldn't. But then, they also shouldn't expect anyone to pay attention to them if they ever decide to believe in something besides their bank accounts. If they're so concerned with money, why don't they fight next year's Reg. fee increase or why don't they care if I.V. rents skyrocket next year because of increased enrollments?

Unfair to Depict Patty Hearst as Spoiled Brat

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I feel moved to make a few comments on the cartoon (Mon., Nov. 22) by Ross. This cartoon depicts Ms. Hearst as a spoiled brat getting her way because of her parents' money. I think the opposite is probably more realistic. If it wasn't for the famous Hearst fortune she would never have been kidnapped in the first place.

I feel that the experience of being abducted, imprisoned (by the SLA, and the authorities), and the disorientation, fear and confusion these events produce, are probably beyond most people's ability to imagine. I think, that in light of all that has happened to Ms. Hearst in this horrible mess, the cartoon was below the belt.

It was this writer's observation that this would be necessary to be on the safe side of what is evidently (at least to those not privy to classified information) an open question. We do not as yet know to what degree, if any, the local population in and of itself actually did contribute to the designation of the local area as high-risk.

UCSB Team to Probe Solar Testing Options

An investigative team at UCSB's Quantam Institute has been appointed by the California Energy Resources Conservation Development Commission to study options for testing solar heating and cooling devices sold in the state.

Reporting on its first investigation, the UCSB team has recommended state accreditation of private laboratories as the leading option. Use of private testing facilities was judged more efficient and less costly than government ones, whether state, federal or a combination of government and private.

The investigators stated in their report that such a procedure not only would aid the new solar industry as it seeks to reduce use of fossil fuel, but would provide necessary information to consumers considering a solar purchase.

The UCSB study, a continuing one, is funded by the state and conducted by a team of engineers, economists, a political scientist and a physicist under the auspices of the campus's Quantum Institute.

The report also recommended that the testing remain on a voluntary basis for an initial trial period in order "to ease the burden of compliance on manufacturers, particularly small ones." Competition among testing firms should raise the quality of testing and keep costs low.

"The state can specify test standards, sample selection procedures and insure that relevant data are reported."

Performance data for solar components would be made available to prospective buyers, allowing comparison among available models, according to the report.

Scientist M.S. Manalis of the Quantum Institute, chief investigator, said this study is a follow-up of an earlier one done in conjunction with UC Berkeley entitled "Feasibility Study for a California Solar Test Facility."

The diverse fields of expertise represented by the investigators, he said, reflected the pragmatic approach required of the problems of solar energy, a subject which is not the exclusive domain of any one discipline.

"Our work is another example of the University of California's involvement in real-life problems of concern to the citizens of California, a state with roughly 64,000 acres of residential roof area suitable for solar collectors," the UCSB scientist said.

Other members of the team are mechanical and environmental engineers Ekkehard P. Marshall and Roy S. Hickman, economists Robert Deacon and Walter Mead, political scientists Alan J. Wyner and Florida State University economist Phil Sorensen.

Public Historical Studies

New History Program Receives Foundation Grant

A $107,000 three-year grant primarily for fellowships has been awarded by the Rockefeller Foundation to the new graduate program in public historical studies at UC Santa Barbara.

The program, the first in the nation, trains students to serve as research historians within the community rather than in academic institutions. The first class of ten graduate students began this academic year.

UCSB history professor Robert Kelley, originator of the program, said the grant "signifies the foundation's decision that the program will serve a valuable role as model for other institutions seeking to explore new directions for historians in society."

"Its unique characteristic," he continued, "is its focus upon the use of the historical method in current problem-solving, whether in local or higher agencies of government, or in private organizations."

The program also anticipates sending graduates into posts as historians of federal agencies, public works programs, and cities and counties as well as to historical restoration programs, state and local historical societies and private corporations.

The public service page is provided and paid for by the UCSB Public Information Office.

In what Prof. Kelley referred to as "a striking innovation for historians," the team research tactic often required of scholars in public agencies is being utilized by the UCSB program. An example is the current study of a section of Santa Barbara, a 200-year-old community rich in historical traditions and resources.

"The students are taking Santa Barbara as their laboratory field," the history professor said. "This year they are researching, analyzing and preparing to write a narrative study of a section of the city's historic downtown, from its beginnings more than a century ago to the present."

Applying such techniques as oral history, quantitative studies and archival research, they will produce on the basis of their findings a half-hour videotape for showing over local community television. Prof. Kelley explained that learning how to communicate with the public through such media will be important to the public historians.

Because historical evidence is becoming important in modern judicial practice, the UCSB students will be taught to present this information in courtroom testimony, subject to cross-examination, in moot court proceedings.

Event to Honor Lotte Lehmann

A memorial ceremony to honor Santa Barbara's Lotte Lehmann will be held Sunday, Dec. 5, at 4 p.m. in Lotte Lehmann Concert Hall at UCSB.

The event is sponsored jointly by the UCSB Music Affiliates and Friends of the UCSB Library. Free tickets are available so long as they last at the Lobero box office, the Arts and Lectures box office, or at the UCSB Affiliates Office by phoning 961-2745.

Mme. Lehmann's death last August ended a world-famous career as opera singer, teacher, artist and author spanning more than a half century.

Dr. Wendell Nelson, Chairman of the Music Department, will preside and Chancellor Vernon I. Cheadle will give the memorial remarks.

The program will include a film clip from a 1960 CBS television interview of Mme. Lehmann and a recording of one of her favorite concert songs. There will be a presentation of a portrait sculpture of Mme. Lehmann, a gift to the university by Dr. Frances Holden.

A reception and open house will follow in the Lotte Lehmann Archive on the 8th floor of the library. In the archive is an irreplaceable collection of documents, art work and momentos, given by Mme. Lehmann in 1969 with many materials added since then.

She gave of her special talent to the campus in other ways. She enriched campus life as a lecturer in UCSB's College of Creative Studies in the late '60s when she directed a series of public performances by distinguished young singers.

Among their studies is a seminar in the application of social science methods in research, and another in land-use planning and intergovernmental relations.

Following two quarters of on-campus study, the students will serve as interns for six months in a variety of governmental and private agencies where they will conduct research and write their master's theses on "a problem of major proportions currently at issue in that organization."

UCSB on TV

The television program "Focus on UCSB" will be aired on Cable Channel 2 at 9:30 p.m. on Mondays on the following topics:

Nov. 29 - Richard Jensen talks about planning with Kitty Joyce and Jody Graham.

Dec. 3 and 13 - Edward Birch and Don Winter talk about student services with Kitty Joyce and Jody Graham.

Dec. 29 and 27 - Rona Sane and Ise Bergsohn talk about dance with Kitty Joyce; students demonstrate their work.

Jan. 3 and 10 - Conversation with David Jones, Artistic Director, Royal Shakespeare Company Aldwych Theatre, with Homer Swander and Kitty Joyce.

Prof. Cloud Wins Top Geology Award

Dr. Preston Cloud, UCSB professor emeritus of biogeology and environmental studies has been awarded the Penrose Medal by the Geological Society of America.

Dr. John Frye, executive director of this 100-year-old society, said the medal is that organization's highest award and is considered the top honor in the field of geology. It was established in 1927 and is named after the late R.A.F. Penrose, Jr., an eminent mining geologist.

Dr. Cloud is presently engaged as a research biogeologist with the U.S. Geological Survey and as a researcher at the UCSB Biogeology Clean Laboratory. He has dedicated the latter part of his career to the construction of a composite picture of the early earth, its life forms and its developing atmosphere.

In awarding the medal at the society's annual meeting earlier this month in Denver, Colo., Dr. Digby J. McLaren, director general of the Geological Survey of Canada, referred to Prof. Cloud's scientific contribution as one which "ranges from paleontology, ecology and stratigraphy through geochemistry, economic geology, urban and environmental geology, and oceanography to crustal, atmospheric and biological evolution."

He summarized Prof. Cloud's work as spanning "the geological column from the oldest rocks to the present, and includes prediction for the future."

Before coming to UCSB in 1965 from UCLA, Dr. Cloud had

Weinglass To Talk Dec. 3

"The Hidden Face of America: An Analysis of the New Police/Military/Intelligence Control Network" will be the topic of a lecture by Leonard Weinglass on Friday, Dec. 3, at 3 p.m. in Ellison 1910 on the campus.

Weinglass, who is a lecturer in Criminal Trial Advocacy at the University of Southern California Law Center, has made headlines as the attorney for Emily Harris in connection with the Patricia Hearst arrest. He is known for his defense of other celebrated trials in the 70's. He was attorney for Jane Fonda in her case against the CIA and Richard Nixon; for Russell Means, Chairman of the American Indian Movement; wrote the pretrial briefs for Angela Davis; and was attorney for Anthony Russo, co-defendant with Daniel Ellsberg in the Pentagon Papers Trial.

In addition to his many legal cases, he has travelled extensively. He was an observer at the Eichmann trials in Israel, an observer of the U.S. involvement in Laos and Cambodia, visited Chile for the purpose of ascertaining the whereabouts of Allende's economic advisor and visited Argentina to investigate the now famous Olga Talamante imprisonment and torture.

taught and conducted research at Harvard University, Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy, the University of Minnesota and the University of Texas. His field work has taken him to seven continents. He served almost 20 years with the U.S. Geological Survey.

Among his honors are the A. Cressy Morrison Prize of the New York Academy of Sciences, the Rockefeller Public Service Award, the Distinguished Service Award and Medal of the U.S. Department of Interior, the Paleontological Society Medal, and the Lucius Wilbur Cross Medal of the Yale Graduate School.

Prof. Preston Cloud

He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society. He has lectured and participated in scientific meetings around the world.

The biogeologist is the author of numerous articles and several books and is an associate editor of three scientific journals.

As member of the council of the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Cloud has been the author of a number of recommendations to the Congress and the Federal administration on conservation and use of natural resources.

Lecture Dec. 1

Peter Marin, Santa Barbara resident and author of "In a Man's Time" and "The Limits of Schooling" will lecture at UCSB on Wednesday, Dec. 1 at 3 p.m. in Physics 1610 on the topic "The Human Harvest."

Mr. Marin, a novelist and poet whose articles have appeared in many journals such as "Harper's", will structure his lecture in such a way as to involve the audience in a shared discussion of the demoralization that has occurred in America in the 70's.

Education Alternative 'Full Steam Ahead' With Campus Afloat

By Tom McElhenny

As an alternative to the traditional ground school, some college students in the United States are earning their diploma on the high seas.

Begun by Chatman College in 1962, the program takes students on a semester-long ship voyage to international ports.

Formerly called "World Campus Afloat," the courses are taught according to the ship's itinerary. If a ship is due in India, the time spent enroute is devoted to studying Indian art, literature or religion.

Today, the University of Colorado has taken up the project. Chatman was forced to bow out because of financial difficulties.

The Institute for Shipboard Education, as it is now called, is a part of the University's Lifelong Learning Program and is open to college sophomores and juniors.

Credit earned in the seabound courses count toward graduation, usually totalling about 15 units.

Professors are selected from all over the country to teach aboard the "Semester at Sea," most being of very high caliber in their fields. Many are also retired.

UCSB's professor R.W. Webb was first invited to participate in the program in 1965. Now that he has retired from duty here, he has anxiously accepted. Webb seemed confident of his new assignment, and said that if students have as much fun on the cruise as he did "they'll have a pretty good time." A geologist, Webb has been teaching for many years, beginning with his days at UCLA in the early '30s.

According to Webb, campus afloat calls for him to create courses in Geology that are "self contained." The student must be able to complete the work using materials prepared for the class and with the aid of the ship's 10,000 volume library. He is very pleased with the class sizes of around 30 students.

The Semester at Sea is like a world-wide show and tell. The theme for the cruise that leaves on February 25, 1977 is "America and the World," and the instruction corresponds to the stops on the itinerary. The Spring Semester has slated the following ports: Honolulu, Pusan, Keelung, Hong Kong, Singapore, Madras, Colombo, Djibouti, Alexandria, Athens, Tunis, Casablanca, and Pt. Everglades.

whip up racist hysteria to make minorities feel responsible for their oppressed situation." Gonzalez cited the philosophy of "last hired, first fired" as forcing minorities into a subservient position.

Socialists have been in the forefront against racism since the Civil War, she said, because they realize that racism is not an innate human quality.

Gonzalez also explained that "socialists are not just for equality, but after suffering with 200 years of racism, we need more than equality. The true socialist supports jobs for all with Affirmative Action," she stated.

"Workers must do away with Capitalism," she stated, "and put decision-making into the hands of the working class. Once we overthrow capitalism," she continued, "it will take a period of time to eliminate racism and sexism."

Water Board

Water Board Counsel, Bob Goodwin added, "traditional approaches don't work and this is a unique problem."

Ray Norris, Santa Barbara county building department representative, proposed that certain areas of Santa Barbara be designated as geologically unsafe for well building. "We have to establish a standard for governing well building," he said.

Slater raised the possibility of establishing minimal water flow rates which would have to be met by privately-owned wells. He added that the Water Board could base the minimal rate per household on family size and necessary volume of water storage for fire department use. Before a private well could be accepted, Slater suggested, it would have to meet all minimum flow requirements.

Sea Classes

Actual instruction occurs while the ship travels from place to place. The weeks spent on land are not instructionally planned, but free time for the student to go on excursions. Some of these trips will lead students up the Nile Valley or to the Taj Mahal. According to Webb, "Your time is basically on your own".

The ship, the S.S. Universe Campus, is an 18,000 ton vessel, containing a crew, approximately 450 students, and 27 professors. Four administrators are present who also teach.

The curriculum covers a broad range of subjects that deal with culture, such as Art, History, Ethnomusicology, Comparative Religion, and Literature. Financial Aid is available for those who are not able to come up with the $3895 registration fee, estimated to be the lightest pricetag possible for the program.

Women Swimmers Sweep Conference Relays

Gauchos Win Nine of Thirteen Events, Outdistance Northridge, Cal Poly SLO

By Jennie Jacobsen

Racing to the tunes of the Star-Spangled Banner, the UCSB Women's Swim Team came out on top winning their Conference Relay meet. The Gauchos totaled 306 points for first place. They were followed by Cal State Northridge in second with 242 and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo with 222 for third place.

Coach Susie Dressler stated that, "The outcome of the meet was very good for us at this early time in the season. In only two meets of the pre-season we have placed first and second...so, actually we have already beaten eight teams," she added.

Captains Lo Firth and Kimi Roberts felt that the Gauchos were full of spirit and that the team is really coming together now. Firth exclaimed that, "The team was not even rested for this competition...many of us did not feel we had very good swims, yet just about everyone's times were better."

Santa Barbara won first place in 9 relays of the 13 swimming events. Cal State Northridge provided some close competition winning the remaining four relays with UCSB placing second in these. In the diving events, UCSB saw divers Shelly Platt and Jo Springer fair well. Combining their efforts, Platt and Springer totaled enough points for second place rankings at both the one-meter and the three-meter boards.

Some of the outstanding times were quite close to National time standards, which is remarkable for this pre-season, especially with the Women's Nationals taking place not until late March.

The 200 yard Medley Relay entered Eve Cuny, Kimi Roberts, Cheryl Foreman and Cathe Corallo and swam to a 2:02.8. Roberts performed exceptionally well in her 50 yard breaststroke leg with a 33.5, placing her within a second of Nationals.

Sandy Neilson sparked the 400 yard Freestyle Relay (3:46.6) with her split at a 54.1, along with a fast time turned in for Lo Firth of 56.7 and combining with Jill Bergdahl and Kay Weston. Cheryl Cruickshank swam with Bergdahl, Firth and Neilson to win the 800 yd. Freestyle Relay (8:23.1). The 200 yd. Free Relay brought Sue Turner, Katherine Federle, Jimm Schaper and Foreman to the top in a 1:50.0. The final Freestyle event showed the "spiriting power," as Firth commented, in which eight UCSB swimmers (Carol Winterholder, Barb Quintana, Schaper, Cuny, Foreman, Corallo, Bergdahl and Firth) ousted their competitors.

The Breaststroke Relays forged ahead in both the 200 yd. and the 400 yd. events. The 200 was swum by Lynne Cox, Joan Cleveland, Lisa Smith and Schaper (2:29.9). The 400 race brought again a good split by Roberts (1:13.8) along with Corallo, Smith and Federle.

Another set of times heading towards Nationals were those of Cruickshank (1:07.0) and Weston

On December 4, the men's and women's swim teams will combine in dual meet competition against the University of Redlands.

(1:06.9) added with Cuny and Turner in the 400 yd. Backstroke.

The highlight of the meet was the 200 yd. Merkle Relay. Santa Barbara's Panama Kenal, Melanie Dunn, Chris Murray and Lisa Smith amazingly lapped other schools in this event. As UCSB hosted the League Relays, coach Dressler added her own version of a truly imaginative relay. The order of this event ran by lap as inverted butterfly, sculling backwards feet-first, inverted breaststroke and freestyle holding one leg out of the water. The Gauchos not only showed excellence in the "Merkle," but were properly dressed in knee socks, slippers and capes.

On December 4, the Men's and Women's teams will combine in dual meet competition against Redlands University. This will be the first time for a combination meet, which should prove quite successful.

Attend UC Summer Sessions International

England

Israel

Scotland

Next summer, you will have the opportunity to attend fully-accredited UC courses at three renowned foreign universities.

Courses offered at each overseas campus will stress the history and culture of the host country, and instruction will include field trips to related historical sites, museums, and other significant places and events.

All instruction will be in English and, in most instances, by faculty members of the university you are visiting.

Instructional sessions will last six weeks, and you will be encouraged to enroll in at least two 4-unit courses. Reasonably-priced housing will be provided in the residence halls of each university.

You may choose one of these distinguished universities:

Cambridge University (Pembroke College)
July 4 to August 12, 1977. Courses will emphasize British history, archaeology, and literature.

Hebrew University of Jerusalem
Approximate dates, July 10 to August 19, 1977. Courses will emphasize history, archaeology, and contemporary social and political studies.

University of Edinburgh
July 4 to August 12, 1977. Courses will emphasize Scottish art, architecture, history, and literature. Students may arrange to attend the famed Edinburgh Festival following the end of the 6-week session.

Fee: The instructional fee for each of the programs is $400.

Deadline: Early registration is required. You should decide now whether you might be interested in attending. Send in the coupon below to receive additional information, or phone (213) 825-8355 or 825-6410.

Basketball Team to Play Tough USF Squad Saturday in Rob Gym

By Richard Bornstein

Over the Thanksgiving weekend, the Gaucho basketball squad will entertain Fort Lewis College, Friday, Nov. 27, and USF, Saturday, Nov. 28. Both games begin at 8 p.m.

USF is the big game, as the Dons are currently eleventh ranked nationally in the preseason polls. Returning from last year's 22-8 team are the three highly touted sophomores: 6'6" guard Winfred Boynes, 18.1 points per game average last year; 6'11½" center Bill Cartwright, 12.5 ppg; and 6'8" forward James Hardy, 10.7 ppg. Led by Boynes these three players were instrumental in the 98-66 drubbing UCSB took last year.

"We are going to have to play very well in all aspects of the game, for us to beat USF," commented Coach Ralph Barkey. "Last year we were only down by four at half-time, but we had far too many turnovers in the second half. They just blew the game

JAMES HARDY, 6'8" forward for the USF Dons, averaged 10.7 points and 9 rebounds per game last year. Last season the Dons won 22 and lost 8 games. They are currently the eleventh ranked team in the nation.

open."

Last year USF went to the National Invitation Tournament in New York, losing in the first round to North Carolina Charlotte, an eventual finalist. The Gauchos will play NCC here January 8.

After last weekend's games against Australia and China, UCSB demonstrated that they could score, pouring in 99 and 98 points in the two games. Coach Barkey is pleased with this aspect of the Gaucho game, and commented:

"We're a lot further along offensively than I expected and we've played a fine man to man defense. USF will be a lot tougher test than the other games though. I think they are capable of being one of the top five teams in the nation."

However, the Dons can be beaten, although it will take a super effort for the Gauchos to do it. Students, as is the case for the rest of the home games, are admitted free. The JV's play at 5:45.

TEX WALKER, 6'7", forward will be one of the Gauchos responsible for keeping the likes of USF's James Hardy under control in Saturday's game.

Soccer Team Downs Fresno 2-1

By Ken Kaufteil

Last Sunday the UCSB soccer team finished the season in a quiet manner with a 2-1 victory over Fresno State. Traveling to Fresno with 18 players, Coach Meeder's game plan was to start the seniors and then in the second half play the freshmen and sophomores.

However some importance was placed on the game as a win would enable the Gauchos to tie for first place (with Biola and Westmont) and capture a share of the league championship.

Fresno State, about twenty minutes into the game scored first. Yet just 15 minutes later a pair of seniors teamed up to give the Gauchos a 1-1 tie. Jeff Townsend took a pass from Larry Abbers and beat the Fresno goalie for the score.

The only other score of the game came about half way through the second period when S.B. was awarded a penalty shot. Jeff Townsend, the fine senior playing his last game as a Gaucho, took the shot, and in scoring his second goal of the game gave S.B. a 2-1 victory.

The victory gave UCSB a 9-6-2 record for the season and a share of the SCISA league championship.

Poloists to Compete in Nationals

This weekend the men's waterpolo team will compete in the Nationals to be held at Belmont Plaza Pool. The Gauchos are seeded fourth behind Stanford, UCLA and Irvine.

The out-of-state teams that will participate are Arizona

State, Loyola of Chicago, Texas A&M and the University of Pittsburgh.

UCSB coach Dettamanti said, "We think we can win. Even though we will have to play a super game to beat Stanford, we are shooting for first place."

Hoop Club Offers Two-for-one Coupons

The Men's Basketball team Hoop Club is now offering their famous two-for-one coupon book for sale. This year's is reportedly the biggest and best ever. It features twenty five coupons for the area's best restaurants and recreational facilities at a

Volleyball Team Wins USVBA Tournament

The men's volleyball team went into competition for the second weekend in a row last Saturday at an open USVBA Tournament at Long Beach City College. Coach Gus Mee divided his players into two teams, an AA team and an A team.

The UCSB AA team won the division, defeating an outstanding AAU team, the Patriots from Santa Monica, 17-15. Two weeks ago the Gauchos lost to the Patriots at an open tournament at UCLA.

In the A division, the UCSB team finished second, losing to a San Diego AAU team 16-14 in the finals.

"We played really well," commented Mee. "Actually I just let the guys play on their own and they really surprised me. This season we should be very strong with three players at each position."

Ruggers Win Early Season Games

Saturday the UCSB Men's rugby team defeated the Pleasant Valley Rugby Club 48-0 and the Chapman College team 19-13.

Coach Mell Gregory is optimistic about this year's team: "The team looks good. Saturday was the first time we've had a large number of players out but the team played well."

The ruggers face a particularly tough schedule this season, playing outstanding teams such as Berkeley, Stanford, UCLA, Long Beach and Santa Monica. There is also a game scheduled against the University of British Columbia, which is the best college team in the world.

This year's agenda includes traveling to Canada in March and the Fiji Islands in August.

Women's rugby season and the regular men's season gets underway in January. From January until May the men's team has games every weekend.

For those interested in playing rugby, there is more information about the team at the Recreation trailer.

NCAA Tennis Players Play Japanese All-Stars

The official score was NCAA All-Stars 20, Japanese All-Stars 3, but the success of the NCAA-Japanese Collegiate All-Star Tennis Championships in Tokyo, September 18-21, far exceeded the results on the scoreboard.

"Both teams won this first championship," said team leader Rolla Anderson, Kalamazoo College, and former NCAA Tennis Committee Chairman. "It was an unforgettable experience."

"The sincere warmth of the Japanese people was certainly the highlight of the trip. We hope to continue this relationship in tennis, and look forward to NCAA representatives competing against Japanese collegiate athletes in other athletic endeavors."

UCLA Head Tennis Coach Glenn Bassett served as team coach for eight NCAA players selected on the basis of results from last spring's National Collegiate Championships, and following recommendations from the United States Tennis Association's Women's Collegiate Committee. Included in the playing contingent were Southern California's Bruce Manso and Chris Lewis; Bill Maze, Stanford; Tim Garcia, New Mexico; Steve Wederburn, Oklahoma; Francisco Gaonzalez, Ohio State; and two female competitors, Barbara Hallquist, USC, and Trinity College's Sandy Stap.

Randy Luce, Nancy Reed Win IM Race

Forty-seven men, and seven women ran in last Saturday's IM cross-country meet. The course covered 2.6 miles around the campus lagoon.

Winner of the men's division was Randy Luce, who turned in a new course record of 13:42. Luce held the old record at 14:04. Following Luce into the home stretch were Dave Brainerd, 14:01, Tony O'Rourke, 14:27, Paul O'Rourke, 14:42, and Cliff Rochlin, 14:45.

In the women's division Nancy Reed set a new course record of 19:42. The old record was 20:04. Other finishers were Barbara Pelletreau, 19:54, Michele Dunn, 21:01 and Kim Page, 23:37.

Scores for teams were Vibe Coolers, 100 points, Tesoro, 108 points, and Chemistry, 192 points.

Opponents of Plan Fear Ocean Pollution

transferred to tankers. Exxon spokesmen say the procedure does not produce pollution.

Darrell Warner, California operations manager for Exxon, said that the corporation decided to build the off-shore facility because of the long delay foreseen before the suits against the Coastal Commission could be settled.

"The permit they issued is completely unacceptable," he said, adding that a pipeline would be financially infeasible with no positive environmental effect.

"We could see that with that permit, in five years we might not have a pipeline or an on-shore site," Warner said. "The chances of settlement with the state were zilch," he added.

Exxon has invested several hundred million dollars in exploring the possibility of an off-shore facility since the first of the year and reached a point of no return, Warner said.

Plans for the Las Flores facility may also have been changed because Exxon could see opposition to the plant growing.

"Maybe they decided that they couldn't win the two suits against the Coastal Commission," Januta speculated.

Exxon may also have wanted to make its move before the new administration takes office in Washington. The Ford administration gave the approval for the off-shore facility.

Ellen Sidenberg, executive director of GOO, said that that group's suit to prevent construction of an off-shore plant was filed in May of 1975, anticipating Exxon's actions. She said that the platform, pipeline and transport loading facility of the proposed off-shore plant constitutes a deep water port.

"If we are successful in our suit, then Exxon must apply for a Deep Water Port permit, which must be approved by Governor Brown," Sidenberg said, adding that Brown would probably not approve the permit.

Sidenberg said that Exxon probably opted for the off-shore plant because they could not afford further delay and figured that GOO's suit would be successful.

"But they didn't plan on the state filing an injunction. That probably came as a complete surprise," she said.

Bakke Protest Rally

He also argued that the Bakke decision "does not say that you can't use race as a basis for determining admission, it says that race cannot be the sole factor, and with this we agree."

Otis Madison of the Center for Black Studies, also voiced opposition to the ruling. "Since the Burger Court is notoriously non-progressive, the danger of this case going to the Supreme Court is that the new ruling won't necessarily be in the language of the state court," Madison said.

Madison then spoke on the Bakke decision's effects on labor, arguing that minority discrimination is found in the job market as well as education.

"If the Bakke decision 'language' holds its stand on affirmative action," Madison said, "it will also hold in the business field. The only way minority quotas will be held in jobs is if government action compels it."

But Associate EOP Director Ozel Kirkland was more optimistic saying, "although the Bakke decision is a setback, it is by no means the bottom line."

BAKKE CONTROVERSY - The recent UC Regents decision to appeal the Allan Bakke reverse discrimination case was the topic of discussion at a rally at El Centro Tuesday. Socialist Worker Andrea Gonzalez blasted the Regents decision, stating it could mean the beginning of a series of cutbacks in minority education.

Turkey Loses Out as U.S. Bird

(ZNS) - If Benjamin Franklin had gotten his way, we'd all be eating the national bird on Thanksgiving day. And the head of the Tom Turkey would appear on the Great Seal of the United States.

Shortly after the United States was formed, Franklin sat down and wrote a letter to one of his daughters, criticizing the selection of the eagle as the national bird of the U.S.

Franklin wrote, "I wish the Bald Eagle had not been chosen as the representative of our country. He's a bird of bad moral character, like those among men who live by sharpening and robbing. He is generally and often lousy."
