Student Councilmen Take Action on New Financial Problems

State college student body legislators were primarily concerned with matters of finance last night at their regular weekly session as the executive councilmen took action on the problems of the "Slap-the-Jap" campaign, public liability insurance, and the federal government's demands for tax on student tickets.

Opening the business session, Activities Control Board Chairman Wilf Seaman reported on the success of the anti-Jap campaign. According to figures from the graduate manager's office an approximate sixty dollars worth of defense stamps have been sold.

Under the plans of the committeemen, members of Gamma Sigma Pi and Las Espuelas will handle the sale of stamps on campus during the forepart of next week. Sigma Alpha Kappa and Chi Delta Chi Greek groups will close the week's selling.

In conjunction with a report on the meeting of the college financial committee, Graduate Manager Bill Russell explained the problems that the Associated Student body have been called on to clear.

A $50,000 liability insurance policy was approved by the council upon completion of Russell's explanation, in which he declared that as the Associated Students were using state property they were required to cover their organization with a public liability policy. Premiums for this type policy will amount to $250 per year.

Also of concern to the council was the approval of a plan to charge a federal tax on student body activities whenever demanded.

A.M.S. President Harry Redoglia announced that his organization was planning to present an all-college dance at Rockwood just prior to the Thanksgiving holidays.

In closing the meeting, President John Falxa suggested the setting up of a poster committee to handle the making of signs for the varied campus affairs.

Society Plans Conclave Here

Western division of the American Society of Naturalists will make Santa Barbara State college its headquarters on December 29, 30 and January 1 when delegates from western states gather here for a three day conference.

Science faculty members from colleges in California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Idaho, Utah and Arizona have been invited to attend the convention. Program will include the reading of several papers by local scientists, panel discussions, teas, and dinner meetings.

In charge of local arrangements for the gathering is Dr. Frederick Addicott, science instructor.

Faculty members and students of State are invited to attend the meetings.

Gauchos Turnout For Play Program

Regular Friday afternoon recreation hour sponsored by the women's physical education department, will take place on the athletic field this afternoon, as mixed teams of men and women will play softball. The game will begin at 3 p.m.

Volleyball on the tennis courts below the field will supplement the main event. Everyone is invited to participate or watch.

Famed Dancers Perform in Artist Series

Maudelle, Elijo Herrera
Appear in Campus Concert

Rich pulsating rhythms of an African son will serve to introduce Maudelle to Santa Barbara State next Thursday night when she will be teamed with Elijo Herrera in a concert set for 8 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Maudelle, dusky exponent of native African dances, has appeared in concerts throughout the United States including a successful performance in New York. Santa Barbara had the opportunity of seeing her for the first time last Sunday afternoon when she danced with Herrera at Alhecama theater.

Herrera, second member of the duo, is well known to local audiences. Leader of a Mexican dance group here, he and his troupe have participated in the Old Spanish Days fiestas and have performed at El Paseo.

Herrera was awarded a scholarship to the University of Mexico where he engaged in research on the origin of native Mexican dances. When he returned to Santa Barbara he and his group executed the routines exactly as they have been performed by the Indians for hundreds of years.

Herrera plans to present some of the best known of these dances as his part of next Thursday evening's program.

This will mark the second in the semester's Artist Series programs. The concert will be under the sponsorship of Miss Elizabeth Sehon and members of the women's physical education department.

Seniors Slate Talent Show For Tuesday

"Seniors will present their traditional student body assembly this Tuesday during 4th hour in the auditorium with George Blumenson and Russ Haney as masters of ceremonies," announced Gerry Cockins, senior program committeeman.

Harry Redoglia and Chuck Crow will unmask a specialty act and have requested all students to leave their fresh fruit and tins cans at the entrance. Blumenson is also scheduled to put on a skit entitled "The Salesman."

Angelo Nunez, class president, has asked that the rest of the show be kept in secrecy for reasons unknown.

Proficiencies

Students Take Make-up Exams

Students who intend to do student teaching next semester and have not already passed their proficiency tests were warned this week by Dean Charles Jacobs that they must take the make-up tests Thursday beginning at 3 p.m. in the auditorium.

"Those students who have failed to pass any part of the proficiency examination should check the bulletin board in the administration building to make sure of the time of their respective test," declared Jacob. "A fee will be charged for these make-up examinations."

Students Don Rags For Gaucho's Novel Poverty Prance

Hardtimes will be the word of the evening, as Santa Barbara State students don rags to commemorate the fitful period of the Great Depression with an all-college Poverty Prance tomorrow night at Rockwood.

Labeling the program as really destitute as far as long-hair music and sable coats are concerned, Social Chairman Willa Fairfield issued an invitation for all student body members to attend the penny-pinching affair.

"Dancing will be from 9 until 12 p.m. with the best in recorded music," declared Miss Fairfield. "Appropriate dress will cover anything from rags to cotton and cords."

Decorations, under the supervision of Edie Van Meter, will consist of green and white streamers, balloons, and miniature farmers and farmerettes. Latest "back-to-the-farm" fashions will be modeled around the dance floor by gunny sack dummies.

Although there will be no charge for guest cards which may be secured from the dean of women's office, college students will be admitted by showing their student body cards.

Patrons and patronesses for the evening's program will include Dr. and Mrs. A. Russell Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Edwards, and Dr. Will Ellison.

In keeping with the policy to have members of campus groups serve as hosts and hostesses, president of Gamma Sigma Pi, Bob Stetler announced that his fraternity will combine with the Sigma Delta Phi sorority to serve in this capacity.

Assisting Miss Fairfield in the program arrangements are Betty Marxen, programs; Miss Van Meter, decorations; Evelyn MacDonald, patrons and patronesses; Stetler, refreshments; and Alan MacDonald, doorman.

Faculty Men Enter Service

The nation's defense made itself felt on the Gaucho campus again this week as three faculty members were given their orders to report for service to the United States forces.

First to leave was Dr. William D. Altus of the psychology department who reported to Fort Douglas, Utah as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army psychology division.

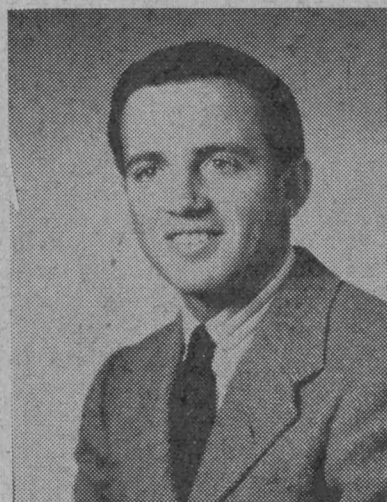

Scheduled to leave on Sunday is Dr. Lynne C. Monroe, industrial education instructor and sponsor of Sigma Alpha Kappa fraternity, who reports to Tucson, Arizona for indoctrination and then to Washington D.C. as a lieutenant junior grade in the U.S. Navy.

Third member of the college faculty to leave is Frank Jones local graduate and coach. He will leave this week for Notre Dame for commissioned officer's training in the Navy.

Home Economics Group Slates Tea

Members of the home economics department will be hostess at a tea scheduled for Sunday, November 22, from 3 until 5 at the campus practice house in honor of the new women in the department.

The tea is an annual affair, to help the women get acquainted in the department and to introduce them to the practice house.

This event is announced by class representatives as being another walk-a-date affair. Cars must be parked off the campus. Recordings will furnish the music, and refreshments will be served.

Informal sports attire is being stressed for this occasion. Fellows are urged to wear sport shirts with no ties, and girls will be appropriate in skirts and sweaters, and bobbie socks.

Tickets will be 25 cents and they may be purchased in Bill Russell's office, in the office of the Dean of Women, from members of the sophomore class, and at the door.

World-Wide Correspondent Speaks Here

Stories of commando raids, convoy voyages, R.A.F. bomber and fighter escapades and many other war yarns will be the topic at hand at the special assembly tentatively arranged for 9 a.m. next Friday in the college auditorium when Bruce Thomas, war correspondent, author and lecturer will be on campus to tell the highlights of his many adventures undergone since the beginning of World War II.

Thomas will be passing through Santa Barbara on his way north, after giving a lecture at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, at which seats run as high as $2.20 per person, and it is at this time that he will appear for the college students.

"Bruce Thomas is without doubt one of the most informed men on the war situation today," stated President Clarence L. Phelps, "and I believe his lecture will be well worth hearing."

Americans Observe Armistice Day with Meditation, Prayer

Last Wednesday this nation celebrated Armistice Day. This day is set aside for remembrance of those who laid down their lives in the last world conflict so that their brothers might stay free. Wednesday was Armistice Day, but it was no day of celebration.

Wednesday was a day in which we should have looked over the panorama of the last 24 years, a day in which we should have realized just who our friends were throughout all those years.

Last Sunday Vice-President Henry A. Wallace made a speech in which he praised the Russians to the high heavens. If you read the "Paper For People Who Think," you might readily be led to believe that Wallace is a Communist. Wallace is no more a Communist than the king of England, but he is an honest man who fears no one. Wallace gives credit where credit is due.

Years ago, when a certain "Pro-American" publisher spent a few months in Germany, Nazi Germany, he came back and praised the Nazi form of government. Yet, strangely enough, this man insisted that he was pro-American.

Four years ago when six congressmen and two senators visited this same nation and announced to the world that it had an excellent form of government, these men were not castigated in the American press as Nazi. They were lauded for possessing an "open mind."

Yet whenever a man in public lauded the Russian government he was pictured by our press as the worst type of cut-throat the world had ever known.

Now after all these years we are waking up. Now we know that the late Senator Ernest Lundeen was wrong, that he was in the pay of certain un-American groups. Now we know that it was the Russian government which was our friend, not the Nazi government. Now we know who our friends are and where.

Wednesday should have been a day of prayer. We should have prayed that never again would we be misled by those foes of democracy who led us into the war.

We should have prayed for the swift and complete annihilation of the forces of evil which seek to dominate the world.

We should have prayed for the men and boys who were shedding their blood and giving their lives so that we may go on speaking, thinking, reading, worshipping and living as we please.

These are the things we should have prayed for. But did we?

Pasatiempo

NATALIE STEWART

We herewith present in its entirety a reply to last week's Pasatiempo. We'll call the writer George though that isn't his real name.

Dear Natalie:

You say it doesn't matter what my name is or in what part of the world I and my comrades are spilling good red blood in a fight between two incompatible governmental and sociological systems—a fight which I didn't ask for, a fight which I don't understand.

Let me say that it matters very much what my name is, where I and my comrades are being slaughtered. The very fact that you are not interested in these things is one of the reasons why the world is now at war. Your attitude of passive resistance to this conflict is exactly the attitude so easily molded by the forces which precipitate war.

How is it that one human can fail to be interested in another human? Are we not basically all the same organism, did we not all originate from the same basic source, do we not all live in the same world?

Why should you have an Armistice day to commemorate the deaths of your countrymen and fail to have a day in which to remember the dead of other countries? The answer is that you think your countrymen are fighting for the right, that the enemy is fighting for the wrong . . . but Natalie, this is exactly what the enemy thinks also.

It is the same in every war, and wars are in a word but a fight. Fights imply more than two combatants, and each is obviously fighting for that which he believes is right. So let me say Quite stupid, is it not? Yet if you had been interested in my that we are at war because people do not know that they are

Much Ado

By GEORGE BLUMENSON

Well, the long awaited has finally happened. The allies have opened the second front. The news coming from Africa, yes, and from Europe too, has been quite optimistic, and the well-worn nerves of the American public, which has been frayed time and time again, are at last re-knitting themselves.

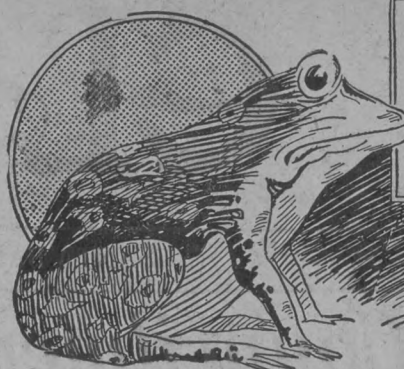

But there is one great factor we should take into consideration before assuming that the war is won. We are still facing Japan, a formidable foe, and we still have Hitler to contend with in Russia. While the African front will save hundreds of miles and hours in shipping through the Mediterranean, and will save thousands of lives which have been lost through torpedoings, we still have not perfected a feasible supply route to Russia. And, to my way of thinking, it is in Russia, and this winter, that the war will be decided.

A capitulation of the German armies by the heads of the armies will never happen. Too well do Hitler, Goering and Co., realize the fate that is in store for them at the hands of the Russians. Hitler, Goering and Company will never permit a surrender. The only thing which can beat the Nazi hoards is a mutiny in army or a revolt in the fatherland. This, however is just wilful thinking, for I have no doubts that the Germans feel that their crusade is just as holy as ours.

Before Germany is defeated, Russia will have had to march right to the gates of Berlin. When this is accomplished the Russian Bear, long a foe of the Monkey God of Japan—that's the little man with the glasses—will jump into the fight on the Pacific coast.

That is why we must find some way to get aid, and quite a bit of it, to Russia. The German juggernaut has slowed down. It has been stopped at Stalingrad, the city which was going to be just a whistle stop on the German express line to Astrakan and the Grozny oil field. Stalingrad has been holding out for over two months. If the Russians have the supplies, they can push the bogged down Nazi army back to the little hell from which it crawled.

Last winter the Russians pushed a much stronger army back. This year they should be able to push the weakened sons of the crooked cross into the North sea.

Let's go America, let's open a third, fourth, and if necessary, a fifth front!

Plainly showing this week: plans for Beta Sigma Chi's moving to a new locale, an adobe of Spanish architecture pattern which is situated just 'cross and down the road. Aunt Jen, in the service of Beta Sigs for the past seven years—through thick years and lean, from the old Cheltenham road place to the present one on De la Vina street—remains, with the frat men.

Also evident: the lovelight shining from the eyes of A. S. president JOHN FALXA. At first it was only a gleam, now it's a dream. Subject BERNICE DOWD, pug-nosed frosh darling.

He has a winning grin and a shy manner: BILL BURDICK.

If he says that you're an eye-ful But his hands begin to trifle And his heart pumps like a rifle —Baby, he's a wolf. If by chance when you're a-kissin' You can feel his heart a-missin' And you talk but he won't listen —Baby, he's a wolf.

If his arms are strong and sinue And he stirs the Gypsy in you And you want him close agin' you —Maybe, Baby, you're the wolf!

Sig Alphas Tie Dirty Sevens In Crown Tilt

Despite a ten minute overtime period, the Dirty Sevens and the Sig Alphas topped the fall intramural football season with a 6-6 deadlock in a bitterly-fought contest at Wednesday's all-college picnic at La Playa field. During the half-time period, the Faculty gridsters defeated the Freshmen contingent, 7-0, with Bill Russell and Willie Wilton starring for the teachers.

After seven minutes of play, Ernie Saenz intercepted a Sig Alph pass and galloped into pay dirt to draw first blood for the Dirty Sevens. Saenz passed to Diamond for the extra point, but the toss was ruled incomplete.

At the opening of the second half the Dirty Sevens began a terrific offensive thrust, but flashy Bill Leveille, one of the outstanding Sig Alph players, intercepted a touchdown pass and halted the onthrust.

With six minutes to play the Sig Alphas' offensive started to click and MacKenzie passed to Leveille for 30 yards. Another pass by MacKenzie to Nunez netted 15 more yards and a first down on the Dirty Sevens 10 yard line. Two plays later MacKenzie passed to Lloyd Thomas in the end zone for the tying score. Mackenzie's pass for the crucial extra point to Jacobs-meyer was incomplete.

In the last two minutes of the overtime period the Dirty Sevens started to roll towards the championship, but Ed Doty upheld Sig Alph honors by intercepting a pass on the 3 yard stripe, ending the scoring threat as well as the game.

The first few weeks will be spent in practice and preparation for the inter-class tournament to be played the last three meetings of the season. All girls are urged to come out, regardless of ability.

The association will hold a supper meeting in the gym, Wednesday, November 18, at 5:30 p.m., according to Betty Dawson, president.
