CAMPUS JOINS TO AID HOSPITAL FUND

MILTON BURNHAM WILL REPRESENT STATE IN LOCAL CHAMBER GROUP

Secures Appointment From Trautz; to Aid College

At a request from the Junior Chamber of Commerce to have a representative from the associated students, Oscar Trautz last week appointed Milton Burnham to serve in that capacity.

Burnham will receive an associate membership and will serve under Ted Huggins, chairman of the State college committee. The Chamber of Commerce is trying to be of some assistance to the State college, according to Fred Allred, president of the organization.

"The Chamber of Commerce is composed of young fellows and could help State in many ways because they have a young person's viewpoint," Trautz said. President O. J. Trautz said that it is fortunate that State is represented in the Junior Chamber of Commerce because it is one of the outstanding and most active organizations in the city, and that State is doing everything possible this year to create and maintain a spirit of cooperation with the city of Santa Barbara.

U. W. CONSIDERS NEW REQUISITE RULE FOR FROSH

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 14.—(CNS)—Lower entrance requirements for admittance of freshmen to the University of Washington this week received the tentative approval of President M. Lyle Spencer, clearing the way for the presentation of the new plan to the university faculty.

Decreased enrollments and an investigation which showed that many low-ranking high school students succeed in college caused President Spencer to endorse the proposal, it was reported.

Under the new system, students with as low as a "D" average in high school would be admitted to the university on probation.

Last week, club members, assisted by Mrs. Maxwell, planted ferns in the south corners of the square. The ferns were donated by Mrs. Jane Miller Abraham, Miss Delia Haviland, Dr. Marian Hooker and Barbara Tracy.

Faculty Minds Vary on Topic of Football at Columbia

Gridiron Game Called "Very Intellectual" by Some, "Brutal" by Others

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(CNS)—While Columbia University's athletic affairs this week continued to be the subject of a special investigation, faculty opinions sought by the Columbia Daily Spectator showed widely varying opinions on college football.

Editors of Spectator recently sent a questionnaire to each of 250 faculty members, asking particularly for their views on methods of organizing intercollegiate football and on charges that football was being over-emphasized at Columbia.

The questionnaire was prepared, following the decision of the university administration to investigate the Columbia athletic department. This inquiry, which has been long favored by Spectator, is now in progress.

Prof's are Intelligent
Meanwhile, results of the Spectator questionnaire failed to show any great preponderance of opinion either for or against present methods of organizing intercollegiate gridiron competition, but they did show that "faculty members are intelligent human beings," according to editors of the student paper.

Thirty-four faculty members declared they favored the present organization of college football, while 29 disapproved it, and 19 others expressed the belief that Columbia was not suffering from over-emphasis of football, in comparison to other institutions.

A majority of the faculty members denied they would discriminate in favor of a football player, although several admitted they would be willing to aid grid heroes, should they need a little special coaching.

Not Worth 50 Cents
One professor recommended that "football should be more frankly professional, and the money should go to the university." Another declared the had "never seen a game worth 50 cents," while a third bitterly condemned paying coaches "more than the best professors."

On the other hand, one faculty member commented that "football as played at the present time seems to be a brilliantly intellectual procedure." Which may or may not balance such remarks as "boring" . . . "detrimental to the educational interests of the players" . . . "a narcotic, deadening the student to important issues of life" . . . and "too brutal."

"The proceeds from the Carnival were to take the place of the annual A.W.S. Christmas baskets to Neighborhood house, and the response we received was extremely gratifying. The A.W.S. wishes to thank the students again for their splendid cooperation."

AD CAMPAIGN IS CARRIED ON FOR FOLLIES AMONG DOWNTOWN CLUBS

Students Give Talks and Programs to Sell Tickets

An extensive advertising campaign, headed by Chris Martin, has been carried to the service clubs of the city in an effort to sell tickets for the Hospitalization Follies.

Short speeches by President O. J. Trautz and Al Bevis, and songs by Mercedes Berger featured a short program at the clubs, which was given to further advertise the show and add to a greater sale of the tickets.

A short skit was presented in the assembly Tuesday morning, and President Phelps' silver loving cup, which will be presented to the organization selling the most tickets was shown. Dick MacQuiddy gave a pep talk, advocating the sale of "Follies" tickets during the meeting. Tickets were sold, following the program.

Spreitz transportation is allowing a space on ten of their busses to be used to advertise the program.

More than 100 posters are already in State street windows. Cuts are to be put in the daily papers every day until the night of the follies. Tickets are for sale at Buells and Otts Hardware store.

The activities committee is offering a prize to the individual selling the most tickets.

President Will Present Scenic Road Action to State Officers

Edison Company Gives Right of Way for Seaside Avenue to La Mesa Site

Clarence L. Phelps, State college head, has agreed to communicate to state officials the recent action of the Southern California Edison company head, J. B. Lewis, in connection with the purchase of the Banos del Mar bathhouse and the appropriation of $50,000 for the development of a scenic roadway into and around the State college site on La Mesa. All rights-of-ways have been secured for the project.

Communications to State officials of the right-of-way approval will be made by Mr. Phelps with the request that the project be given early attention in Sacramento.

Members of the conference which met at the office of Mr. J. B. Lewis, included President Phelps, councilmen Walter B. McIntosh, Harry P. Graham and William S. Crawford; city attorney J. F. Goux, Charles Campbell, division manager of the Edison company and Mr. J. B. Lewis, heard the proposal of the delegation that the Edison company permit the razing of the bathhouse in order to put through the roadway. Mr. Lewis was favorable in recommending action which will bring about the request for the necessary expenditure.

With the college project already approved by the state department of school house planning, the plans showing full details were shown to the Edison company. They expressed the belief that the project would be of invaluable benefit to Santa Barbara in remedying some of the unemployment conditions.

"The $50,000 is now appropriated and available and work awaits only the action of the city in establishing the right-of-way. It is now up to the state to set the wheels in motion, as the Edison company has approved the razing of the bathhouse," the committee reports.

According to plans, the new college site entrance will be by way of West Cabrillo boulevard beach, a two-way boulevard with a parkway in its center from Castillo street westward.

One of the arms of this roadway will swing around northward and up La Mesa while the other will pass around the base of the cliffs along the beach. An underground pass for pedestrians will be constructed between the beach and Plaza del Mar in front of the present site of the bathhouse.

Floors of the museum were found to be weak and overloaded, and although adequate repairs are possible, it was announced that these must await an appropriation by the state legislature.

Discovery of the condition of the museum was made during a survey of all state-owned school buildings.

300 HANDBOOKS REPORTED SOLD OF 500 PRINTED

Under the supervision of Virgil and Douglas Kirkpatrick, sales for the student handbook have taken a decided jump in the past few days. Of the 500 copies printed, over 300 have been sold.

The main purpose of the handbook this year is to acquaint the student with the traditions and departments of the school. It contains a complete sport schedule of Santa Barbara State, as well as a full list of the social affairs. The chief source of interest is the student and faculty directory in the back of the book.

RAISE OF TUITION TO $50 YEARLY IN STATE COLLEGES IS CONSIDERED

Education Budget to Be Slashed Says Vandegrift

Possibility that all state teachers' college students of California will pay a yearly tuition of $50 starting with the next school year is fast becoming a reality, according to a statement issued last Sunday by Rolland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, emphasizing the necessity of a twenty percent slice in state educational budget allotments.

Although both the state teachers college presidents and the state department of education are opposed to the proposed levying of tuition fees on state teachers colleges, according to President Clarence L. Phelps of the Santa Barbara State college, the question of budget allotments will be decided by the state legislature which meets the first Monday in January.

Education Is a Right

"Because it will be reversing the whole educational policy, I shall hate to see tuition become a necessity for state teacher college attendance," President Phelps said, "A (Turn to Page 4, Column 5)"

During the latter part of the hour, Mrs. Florence Lyans of the art department entertained with four selections on the harp.

Figures Released by Wisconsin Officials Show Many Students Are Self Supporting

The figure represents a proportional increase of 1 per cent over last year, although the numerical total is somewhat lower, she said. Students who are entirely self-supporting this year total 1655 or approximately 21 per cent of the student body, her figures show. Thirteen per cent or 1023 are more than half self-supporting.

STEAM STUDENTS' BLOWOFF!

Editor of the Roadrunner:

At the beginning of this season, we pledged support to our football team. We did not agree to boost and cheer for them only when they were winning games. After all, the main purpose of football is to play for the joy of the game and the spirit of competition, not to come out on the long end of the score.

Although I have never had the opportunity of wearing our college colors or the joy of carrying a pigskin under my arm, I have found some real values in football right in our own Santa Barbara State.

On a trip to the Occidental game with the team this year, I had a chance to learn that there is something in football that is far higher than the honor of winning. On the way south there was a fine spirit among the players. I heard nothing of poor training quarters, short practice hours, or past defeat...

"How can we beat Oxy." Our boys were out to win, and they did win; not the game, but more than the game. Our team won, through true shortsmanship and a hard fight against odds, the respect and admiration of their rivals. The spirit of friendliness and the great respect for this college that our

Around the Campi

Recently the New York Times reported the results of a survey made at a large eastern university indicating that "men of high standing in both study and play in school topped the list of money makers after graduation." The Times states that the conclusions were based on the careers of 809 graduates, from 1917 to 1929. They came from nearly every state, from town and country. Those with marked ability to earn money stood out early; at 22 and 23 they received more and better offers of jobs than the majority of their class. Luck and opportunity, of course, played a part in their success, but the survey concludes that high earning power depends largely on the under-graduates success in studies, in sports, and in social life.

KAPPA DELTA PI WILL ANNOUNCE NEOPHYTES SOON

Kappa Delta Pi, national educational fraternity, met in the college dining hall last Tuesday evening. Plans for the pledging service to be held January 3, 1933 and the formal initiation banquet scheduled for January 13, 1933 were discussed. Due to several changes in the national constitution it will be possible for Kappa Delta Pi to pledge fourteen new members in January. Pledges will be notified of their eligibility during Christmas vacation.

Following the business meeting, entertainment was provided by Mr. Roy Soules, director of vocational education work in Santa Barbara, who gave a short talk, and by Miss Sophie Zamalla, who sang a group of Indian songs.

CRACKS

By MILTON BURNHAM

Riding on the fleet wings of gossip 'tis said that in the "Follies" this Thursday night many of the personalities of the campus and town will be imitated. This show will be the most daring (daring the public to buy a ticket) ever staged in the history of the college.

State College has been in the Southern California Conference for two years. Both years the Roadrunners have placed a man on the All-Conference team. In 1931 it was Joe Martin. In 1932 (this season) George Harper is the boy that made the grade. George hails from Bakersfield, the town regularly turns out great football players. Good work, George! Let's see you repeat next year.

Bedtime story to the freshmen: Hurry and write your letter to Santa Claus. Send them to me and I'll see that the little "elf" at the North Pole gets them before Saint Nicholas leaves. But go easy in asking for presents; remember, that corner to prosperity turned out to be a straight away.

The Roadrunners are now venturing out upon a strenuous basketball season. Remember this, fellows: "It isn't whether you won or lost but how you played the game." (From Kipling's Seven Stages of Life or stumps. You guess). And HOW those Roadrunners played last Friday night! Don't mind that, Roadrunners, for you'll get going this week.

Betty Aul is entitled to lots of credit for staging the most sociable and informal ball (look that up but you get the idea) formal dance that has been staged in many moons.

"Tango" McCullough has announced that he will open a school of dancing in the near future. Lessons in ballet will also be given if sufficient interest is shown to warrant a regular class. I understand that the Gigolo club has signed up for a private class in aesthetic dancing in order to be ready for springtime. Archie Way and Floyd Jordan have agreed to furnish the best pupils with "Collegiate Hamburgers" and coffee. Now that's something to look forward to, eh?

Frosh Bag Decision for Surprise Upset of Ventura Quintet

Running through and around their much larger opponents, the Roadrunner "Babes" scored a close 24-20 victory over the Sigma Phi Upsilon fraternity team from Ventura in the first game of their coming season at the Flying A gym last Friday night. Coach Luke Trimble's "small-large" men had the upper-hand throughout the first of the game and led at the half by a 13-6 score, while the Venturans amassed 14 points to the "Babes" 11 in the second half.

Elmer Lee, frosh guard, started the scoring early in the first period when he sank a beautiful long shot for the first points. Immediately after this, Bill Crow, frosh forward, took the ball from under the basket and flipped it backward through the hoop for two more points in a very difficult shot. Not to be outdone, Bill Russel, frosh center, made the score 6-0 for Santa Barbara when he took a pass from Bill Hoyt and tossed the ball through the hoop.

The lanky Venturans now began to play inspired ball in a high, slow, passing game, frequently putting the ball into frosh territory. Orm, Woolley, and Reed of Ventura each sank a short shot in quick succession to bring the score to six all. After playing in deadlock for a few minutes Jimmy Lebeck, in for Crow, broke the ice by sinking a free throw for one point lead. A few minutes before the first half ended the frosh, led by Mert Miller, guard, set a pace that the Ventura team couldn't stop. Bill Russel, center, made all the shots.

At the beginning of the second half the fraternity team swept the frosh off their feet in a running attack that was practically impossible for the smaller Santa Barbara men to stop. Orm, the center, again started the Ventura scoring with a neat basket for two points. Reed, a tricky forward, sank two more in rapid succession to make the score 13-12 against them. The matter of further scoring was taken out of Ventura's hands by Miller, who received three free throws on fouls and made every one of them. With the score 16-12 for the frosh, Russel helped matters along by bringing in his dead eye-work, this time a long arched shot that dropped through the hoop neatly. Bill Hoyt, the other frosh forward, shoved the whole Ventura team aside and tossed the ball through the net to give the frosh a lead in a 20-12 score.

Reed sank a long shot thereby narrowing the frosh's lead by two points. Miller got it back again in duplicating Reed's trick with another long shot, making the score 22-14 in favor of the frosh. Garcia, center for Ventura, put a freak shot through the hoop to bring the "Frats" another score. With only a few minutes to go Woolley, frat guard, gave the Santa Barbarans a real scare when he took five long shots, sinking the last one and bringing the frosh lead down to slim four points (22-18). Lebeck, frosh forward, put the game on ice by placing the ball through the basket in a short shot. The "Frats," undiscouraged and still fighting strong, made another two points on a long shot by Heath from behind the center line. The game ended this way with the score 24-20 for the frosh.

The whole frosh team functioned well as a unit with Bill Russel's shooting standing out on the offensive and Elmer Lee's and Mert Miller's excellent guarding standing out on the defensive. Reed and Woolley, Ventura forward and guard respectively, did some wonderful work for the visiting team both on offensive and defensive.

Now that the new library has been completed, students and faculty of St. Thomas College, St. Paul, Minn., have started a book drive in an effort to enlarge the actual book facilities of the college.

DAVISMEN LOSE PRACTICE TILT IN FIRST SHOW

In a practice game held on the Flying A studio court last Friday night, the varsity basketball squad took a 25 to 7 lacing from a well-oiled Providential five in the first game for the Roadrunners this season.

Coach Hal Davis tried out several combinations during the fray using his entire varsity squad in getting an outlook for future dependable performers; but due to the short time in which the squad has practiced together, there was a noticeable lack of unity in their teamwork.

Paul Hopkins, flashy guard, showed up well, according to the "sideliners." The college team showed a marked inability to hit the basket and accounted for only two field goals during the contest. Hopkins made one of these, while Fisher, giant center, hooped the other basket. The remainder of the Hilltopper points resulted from free throws.

The Providential quintet started out fast, scoring eight digits before the boys from the hill could locate the basket. After this barrage of points, the Olive and white hoopers steadied a trifle but were still on the short end of a 10 to 3 score at the first half gong. Jack Gotchel, playing guard for the visitors, copied high point scoring honors for the evening, ringing up seven points.

For the Davismen Pensinger and Killian started at forwards, with Keith and Hopkins at guard and Eckhardt at the center position. This combination was short lived, however, as Coach Davis began substituting with reckless abandon in an effort to plug up glaring weaknesses as well as seasoning his squad for future battles.

Coach Davis' squad is slated to meet the Sigma Phi Upsilon fraternity squad of Ventura here this Friday night at which time Davis expects to have a more formidable outfit on the floor.

SPORT COMMENT

By OSCAR NICHOLAS

By thumping the highly touted Sigma Upsilon fraternity basketball squad, the frosh, coached by Leon Luke Trimble, sent out a warning to future opponents that they are going to be plenty tough to beat this year.

Practically every member of the team has had plenty of experience together, this being especially true of Mert Miller, Bill Hoyt, Bill Crow, Bill Russel, Elmer Lee and Jimmy Lebeck. Only one regular on the squad has not played with the rest of the lads for any great length of time, and that man is Christianson, the center. The way he fitted in with the scheme of things shows that he isn't considered an outsider, however.

Three boys who will look mighty sweet on any varsity outfit in years to come are Russel, Miller, and Lee. Russel was the main reason for the large total which the frosh accumulated, for he scored ten digits to attain high point honors for the evening. Miller and Lee were outstanding on defense and will undoubtedly be heard from in games to come.

While the frosh were turning back the frat squad the varsity quintet of Coach Hal Davis lost to the Providential five by a 26-7 count. As the encounter was merely a practice affair, Davis gave practically every man on the squad a chance to display his worth. He probably expected to lose and as it was a game primarily to begin whipping his men in shape as well as to study his material for the coming grind ahead, he probably did not worry unduly about the outcome.

Intramural boxing and wrestling continue to hold the interest of the majority of the men about school with many feature matches yet to be run off with the semi-final and finals yet to be staged. Manager Bradbury hopes to have the concluding matches run off this week. Many school fans are expected to turn out for the contests.

"Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, Carnegie Foundation head, proposes horse racing as a substitute for football, with colleges maintaining strings of horses for intercollegiate competition," according to a report from College News Service. Dr. Pritchett claims that the races will bring just as much money into the schools and still keep all its ideals as well as not endangering lives of our college men. He further maintains that alumni would find greater pleasure in betting on horse racing than on football games. Personally, I think that there are many good points to the proposal as well as a few loopholes, but I still prefer my football entertainment, and how.

WOMEN ATHLETES TO DEMONSTRATE NEW HOOP RULES

Three games of basketball under three different sets of rules will be played at the W.A.A. demonstration basketball sports day, Saturday, January 7. Twenty-one girls from the Ventura Junior college will participate in the games with the Santa Barbara State girls. Basketball rules to be tested include: the two court games with center jump; the three court game with center throw; and the three court game with center jump.

Kappa Psi, honorary physical education sorority, led by Virginia Slicton, will conduct a discussion on the games at luncheon in the cafeteria. Information gained from this discussion is to be used in a professional article on basketball to be included in the petition which Kappa Psi is assembling to present to Phi Delta Pi, honorary physical education sorority, in an effort to secure a national chapter of the sorority on the local campus.

Members of the basketball technique class will be referees, scorers, and timers.

Committees for the demonstration basketball sports day are: invitation letters, Ida Pagliotti; decoration and entertainment at luncheon, Jane Rasmussen, chairman, Louise Albaugh, Ruth Kenard, Lorraine Koehly; referees, score-keepers, and timers, Florence Longawa; tam arrangement, Irene Samson; chairman, Elizabeth Stover, Vivian Rodriguez; seating, Edwina Elliott, chairman; Dellsie Berg, Shirley Burch, Gwendolyn Torrence, Dorothy May Hopland; schedule, Ida Pagliotti, chairman, Florence Longawa, Meryl Adams; guests, Meryl Adams.

The schedule for the day calls for registration from 9:00 to 9:30 a.m.; games, 9:45 to 12:00, and luncheon with discussion and entertainment, from 12:30 to 2:00 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to come and observe the games, Meryl Adams, guest chairman stated. Those who

PROTECT HEALTH, VACATION PLEA OF MARKTHALER

"Students are usually more tired following a vacation than they were before they started," Dr. Edward L. Markthaler of the health office said yesterday, in urging students to take certain precautions during the coming holidays. Let the vacation be an easy period of recreation is the doctor's plea.

Unnecessary exposure to illness, a continuous string of late nights, and an irregular diet are held up by the doctor as sapping the student's health needed with the reopening of school. Students who work, however, will usually secure a greater benefit in this change from college routine than those who do not find it necessary to work, Dr. Markthaler opined.

Those students having had their physical examinations and being notified of certain physical and dental defects are urged by the college health official to visit the family physician or dentist during the holiday.

Hoover Suggested as Man for Harvard Job

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 14.—Consideration of President Hoover as a candidate to succeed President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard this week was suggested in a letter sent to Henry L. Shattuck, treasurer of the university, by Chester D. Pugsley of Peekskill, N. Y.

Dr. Lowell recently announced his resignation, to take effect when a successor is decided upon. Pugsley pointed out that Hoover is an honorary alumnus of Harvard and that he could fill the position with distinction.

Intramural 'King' as First Round Fights Come to Conclusion

By PETE HATHAWAY

First rounds of Intramural boxing and wrestling ended last Wednesday with many of the favorites on the defeated list in some of the best "all around fights" ever seen in the gymnasium. The sports this year are being held under the personal supervision of Coach Luke Trimble with Howard Bradbury as manager. A fair sized crowd lined the side of the gym and cheered the contestants throughout every minute of the bouts. Seven mixed matches were run off Tuesday and four Wednesday.

Tranberg and Sawyer started things rolling in the 126 pound boxing class by slugging each other for three rounds. At the end Sawyer was declared the winner. Main whipped Don Stuart in a bout of three rounds in the 147 pound division. A fight between Kelliher and Ingram turned out to be a slug-fest with Kelliher finally coming to the top as the winner. Also in the same class, 175 pounds, Shrieber won over McRae in another three round go.

D. Kirkpatrick took the decision from "Red" Stuart in the 135 pound wrestling division. The match was very close all the way. Hopkins and Coultas gave the gathering of fans some real thrills by tossing each other around the mat in a rough-and-tumble wrestling match at 158 pounds. Hopkins was declared the winner. In the other match of the evening Greeson took a fall from R. Armstrong in the short time of eight minutes. The only thing to mar the events for this night was the fact that a few of the scheduled bouts had to be postponed because the entrants did not show up.

Every one of Wednesday's bouts turned out to be a "wow" in the curtain raiser Marin, inches shorter and handing out about three inches of reach to his opponent, showed excellent form in his close defeat of V. Kirkpatrick. The witnesses agreed that it was a "swell" fight and all went over to congratulate the plucky winner. Interest ran higher and higher as Miller and Lebeck, friends of many years, prepared to do battle in a wrestling match. The boys gave the fans plenty of action in their bout which Miller won, but only after the judges had to carefully look over who had the time advantage.

In a slightly slower contest Greeson took the reigns of supremacy over Willard. Willard appeared much lighter than his experienced opponent and had a tough time to do as good as he did. The next fight, a boxing match between Hopkins and Livingston, turned out to be the climax of the evening. Every minute was crowded with fast left hooks and swift body punches by each fellow. Livingston, declared the winner by the judges, appeared to hold the upper hand throughout the contest. His left hook bothered Hopkins as did his terrific body blows. The match turned out contrary to the fans' expectations, because at the very first Hopkins landed a smash that kept Living-

STANFORD UNIV. STILL IN DAZE AS 'POP' LEAVES

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Dec. 14.—(CNS)—Stanford was still in a daze this week over the loss of a tradition—for that is what it had come to regard Coach Glenn S. ("Pop") Warner, whose sudden resignation has left students, faculty and alumni gasping for breath.

"Pop" had been at Stanford for nine years, during which time he firmly established a reputation as a leading football genius. As the father of the famous "Warner system," he became known from one end of the country to the other.

Meanwhile, the names of "Warner" and "Stanford" became almost synonymous, with the result that his decision to accept a coaching position at Temple University in Philadelphia caused a frenzy of excitement.

While leaving an established institution to go to a young school, "Pop" maintains that his move was decided upon primarily "to better my position." Criticisms by alumni in the southern part of the state during the present season, however, are known to have irked him and probably speeded his decision.

Reports that members of the freshman football squad at Stanford would follow Warner to Temple were quickly denied, members of the team pointing out that Temple University has a one-year eligibility rule, which would tend to discourage such transfers.

ston's nose bleeding for the remainder of the bout.

Those who have reached the quarter-finals already are Greeson, Kelliher, Killian, Marin, Miller, Livingston and Shrieber. According to Bradbury, the remaining part of the schedule will probably be run off this week with a possibility of carrying them over to next week.

Discrimination

California's teachers colleges will soon receive a severe blow in their financial mid-sections, if the recommendations of state director of finance, Rolland A. Vandegrift, should be followed in the approaching session of the state legislature.

Vandegrift recommends paring an already inadequate educational allotment by $11,950,000; $950,000 of which would result from the suspension of three of the teachers colleges; which ones, he mysteriously refuses to disclose.

Director Vandegrift further suggests, that tuition at the teachers colleges be raised to $50, the amount now paid by students at the University of California. This last recommendation is a matter of great concern to all student teachers and their parents, or whoever would have to bear the increased tuition expense. Particularly is this true when it is considered that the teachers colleges alone are subjected to the proposed increase; for it happens that no increase was recommended for the tuitions in California's junior colleges. Why the teachers colleges, the least expensive and the most essential of our higher educational units should be subject to such apparent discrimination is a question which the director of finance has not yet made clear.

Aside from the reasonable question as to whether there should be any tuition fee at all in a state system of public-supported education, it would seem particularly unjust to compel students in our teacher training institutions to pay a heavy fee, while junior college students pay nothing.

In these critical times, all state departments must suffer deprivations; and education is willing to take its cut along with the rest. It is hardly too much to assume, however, that these cuts would first be made in the departments most able to bear them, and that further cuts would be effected progressively downward, at points succeeding most able to bear the pressure. Although there is room for some argument, perhaps, as to whether education is or is not least able to operate under a further reduced budget, it can hardly be denied that other state functions might more easily be curtailed; the continued building of expensive and unnecessary roads might be cited as an example.

Even granting that other economies have been effected, and that it is education's turn; is it illogical to expect that the educational institutions singled out for attack should be the ones now spending the most money per student in enrollment? In attempting to reconcile Mr. Vandegrift's recommendations with this premise, we come upon the disconcerting fact that, according to a study made in 1928 for purposes of comparison, it was found that six liberal arts colleges in California were costing private agencies from $10.95 to $16.07 per semester hour of work done. On the same basis, the teachers colleges were costing the state $6.50 to $10.60. In the interim since this study was made, the costs of State teachers colleges have been reduced until they are now operating at a per capita cost of $100 under the national average for such institutions.

If a change of policy in our educational system be advisable at this time, does it follow that the teachers colleges, our most inexpensive institutions should bear the brunt of that change? Should student teachers be compelled to pay a $50 tuition fee, while junior college students pay none; and the university student, although also paying $50, at least has the assurance that his money will be spent by his institution for his benefit, rather than go to the state's general fund. Can we, by any stretch of the imagination, consider our deal a fair one?

Before the next session of our legislature, it will behoove every student and every other person interested in the welfare of the teachers colleges to take an active interest in the proposed drastic measures, and to lend a voice in demanding a thorough and clean-cut statement of the recommendations, with the reasons behind them. It might be a wise move for our student body to prepare a collective statement on the matter and submit it formally to the state director of finance. This should at least be more effective than sitting back, waiting for someone else to act. Do you want to pay $50 tuition next year; if not, now is the time to do something about it.

Leave of Absence Is Granted Meiklejohn

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 14.—(CNS)—Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, founder of the University of Wisconsin's Experimental College, this week disclosed that he had been granted a leave of absence for the second semester of the present school year and also for the second semesters of succeeding year. He said that he requested the leave in order to have more time for writing and study.

Baby Pictures---How We Do Change!

Who's Whooney

Last week, I innocently and inadvertently (that's a good word and it means something, too) remarked that the Handbook was the most valuable publication on the campus. Ye Ed of Ye Roadrunner inserted an editor's note reading from left to right, three dashes and an exclamation point. Now Ye Ed and I understand each other perfectly in such cases but I know you're kinda dumb, being only college students; so I thought I'd better explain. The three dashes mean "You're a liar" and the exclamation point adds emphasis indicating "And a big one." Reading between the lines, we gather that Ye Ed does not agree with us. Rah-ther!

In case you're wondering about all those mistakes in the handbook, I just want you to know that it has all been settled. Dean William Ashworth, O. J. Trautz, Red Connell, Chris Martin, Mercedes Berger and Wallace Loveland, representing most of the brains on the campus, held a meeting and decided that they didn't care anyway. As Jim Daykin remarked they have all the telephone numbers they want, anyway. The committee went on record as reporting that probably no one would know a hundred years from now that a Handbook had been printed, so that it absolutely will not delay the return of prosperity.

Directions for finding telephone numbers in the new student Handbook: To find faculty numbers: First look on the page that says "Faculty Directory." Notice that those are not faculty at all. April Fool. Then go to Mrs. Clow in the main office and ask her. To find student numbers: Again look on the page that says "Faculty numbers" and notice that the student names begin there. Follow down the list until you find the name you want. They are in alphabetical order—more or less. If you don't know your A B C's, that's not my fault. When you have found the name, you want to ignore the number opposite it. That's just another little joke. Turn over three pages and try the number the third down from the top. If that isn't right, you had better call information.

Would I like to win that nice pair of book-ends offered to the student selling the most tickets to the "Hospitalization Follies." Some student is going to do it. It may be you. So get to work, gang. Let's sell all the tickets we can!

Students, be prepared for the biggest show the State college has ever put on, and set yourselves for one of the biggest most enjoyable evenings you will experience while in this school. I refer to the Hospitalization Follies tomorrow night in the auditorium. Come yourself or bring a friend, but be there!

"Hoyman" Gumpertz is pulling a stunt in the show that will crumple you up in the aisles. What is it? Well, have you ever seen—? Nope, I don't want to give it away. It'll cost you twenty-five cents.

And Margaret Beddome will be there doing a most original tap dance assisted by some one you never thought could do it. His identity is a deep secret until tomorrow night.

Then, to make this gigantic production complete in every detail, the band has been hard at work for the past months preparing special "tunes" to supplement the musical side of the program. When you hear "Dinah" played in its new rhythm with original band orchestrations, you go home and hit your mother in-law between the eyes with a specially prepared custard pie.

And we must not forget the jazz band Cliff has worked up. When those sons of rhythm start tooting with Cliff at the piano you wonder why you were ever entranced by any of Paul Whiteman's, Earl Burnett's or any of the rest of those boys' rag time.

And so let's leave the show and turn to other things before this typewriter burns up under my fervor. Take the dance. I don't know how the other fellows felt; but personally, I was scared stiff all evening for fear my jugular veins would not hold out against that reinforced starch collar.

Oh, it wasn't told to me, I only heard: Sweet young thing at the Samarkand: I enjoyed the dance. So far, every one else I've danced with has bumped into everybody at least twice.

One of the things the depression has done for us is to rid the country of a great number of so-called geniuses. In the boom days these lads' peculiarities were passed off with the saying "Genius and insanity are only a shade different." The depression has brought out the fact that many of these fellows were posing on the wrong side of the shade. Hooray for the depression! Angular statues and things,—bah.
