Risks Bankruptcy

Get Oil Out to Begin Fight vs. Oil Platforms

By JOHN LEE

Get Oil Out (GOO) at the risk of bankruptcy, has decided to launch a campaign to stop Exxon and Chevron oil companies from establishing more platforms in the Santa Barbara Channel.

GOO announced recently that attorney Bruce J. Terris of Washington D.C. has been retained to handle the suits. GOO plans to put all its monetary resources into the fight, and plans are being laid to raise funds for the effort from the community. "I think we have a good shot at it," said GOO president Stephen Boyle, who is also "optimistic that we're going to be able to prevail."

Currently GOO is searching for expert witnesses to testify against the Department of Interior and possible the Army Corps of Engineers on the impact of the drilling, the cumulative effect of air pollution, spill hazards, and tanker accidents. "It is hoped that the newly formed Environmental Defense Center can assist in the research needed for the two cases."

Chevron is reported to have already obtained permits to erect platform Grace in the Santa Clara unit of the channel from the Army and the Department of Interior, but the platform is still in the design stage.

Although the United States Geological Survey, an underling of the Department of Interior, has told GOO that no steps have been taken by Exxon to initiate exploratory drilling operations, it is apparent that Exxon has plans to commence operations on 22 channel leases in the near future. Half of the Exxon leases are allegedly within or adjacent to shipping lanes.

Boyle said that "the basis for one suit against the Department of Interior is that they are permitting Chevron to build platform Grace without first presenting an Environmental Impact Report (EIR). GOO contends that in Exxon's case, permits have been issued on the basis of an inadequate EIR researched in 1971."

An agreement signed by the City and County of Santa Barbara in early 1976 complicates the suit against platform Grace. This agreement permits new platforms to be brought into the channel without prior notice or EIR statements.

Boyle says that his organization has about $20,000 that can be mortgaged to finance the suits, and since Standard and Exxon will not be direct defendants, he is not too concerned about getting into a lengthy battle based primarily on assets.

GOO is expected to seek federal court injunctions to halt any activity under the permits until the suits are resolved. GOO and Terris also plan to initiate the suits as soon as possible.

Primary Initiative Could Cut Funds Headed for U.C.

By DICK BUFORD

SACRAMENTO—Passage of Proposition 13, the Jarvis-Gann property tax relief initiative, could cut into the funding of all state government agencies, including the U.C., a State Department of Finance analyst said yesterday.

The proposition will appear on the June 6 primary ballot.

Among other provisions, the initiative would reduce property taxes to one percent of the market value of both homes and business properties and would require a two-thirds vote of the electorate to raise that tax rate.

Passage of the initiative would deprive local governments of from $7-8 billion in revenue, an action that would shift pressure for funding basic local services — including fire and police protection and social welfare organizations — to the state level.

Clifford Allenby, a state budget analyst, indicated in a telephone interview that passage of Proposition 13 would cut deeply into the funding of state agencies, even given the current $3 billion budget surplus.

"We're going to have to cut out something.... You can't take out $7 billion in terms of taxes and continue to run" state agencies at current levels of service. "You're going to have to cut out certain things."

Allenby also indicated that no agency would escape the funding cut, including what many think is an already financially strained U.C. system.

Asked if the U.C. budget would be high on a list of any potential cuts, Allenby quipped, "Who knows?" Just what areas of the U.C. budget could be cut remain unclear. U.C. spokesmen in Sacramento were unavailable for comment yesterday.

Supervisors Pass Request For Off-Road Site Report

By TOMBOLTON and JOHN BAUR

A request by Supervisor Bill Wallace for a report from the County Parks and Recreation Department on any new developments in possible off-road vehicle sites was passed without discussion by the Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Wallace's request was apparently spurred by numerous complaints of excessive noise and environmental damage caused by off-road vehicles within his Third District boundaries.

Accompanying Wallace's request was a copy of a letter from Ellwood Beach resident Barbara Edmunson who claims off-road motorcycles in the area "are causing extreme soil erosion, destroying the wildlife, increasing the chances for fire, and causing extreme noise pollution."

Wallace aide John Stahl said that the County is currently studying three proposed sites for authorized off-road vehicle travel; two adjacent to the Santa Barbara Airport and a third in the Rincon-Carpinteria area. Stahl noted that, if the Los Carneros' site were approved, there would be a "hell of an impact on I.V." from the noise.

"I visited the Ellwood area last weekend," Wallace stated in his letter to the Board, "and watched five motorcycles tear all over the beach, up and down the cliffs, and destroying vegetation throughout the dunes. Broken plants were scattered all over the beach. None of the bikes had observable licenses or identification."

Within the next three weeks, the County's Off-road Vehicle Advisory Committee is expected to convene public hearings to gain citizen input on the development and location of an off-road site within the County.

In addition to requesting the Parks Department report Wallace asked that the Sheriff's Department detail what support

County Supervisor Kallman Works To Keep 'Open Mind' on All Local Issues

By WILLIAM KREBS

According to Robert Kallman the Board of Supervisors must be open minded in solving County problems. Currently chairman of the Board, Kallman, who represents the city of Santa Barbara, takes his own advice seriously. At the moment, he is a full time member of the Board, having retired from his nursery business upon becoming supervisor.

A Santa Barbara native, Kallman went through high school and college in the Santa Barbara area, to UC Santa Barbara in fact. Except for stints in the Navy during World War II and the Korean War, Kallman has remained in Santa Barbara since completing his education. He is married and has four grown children.

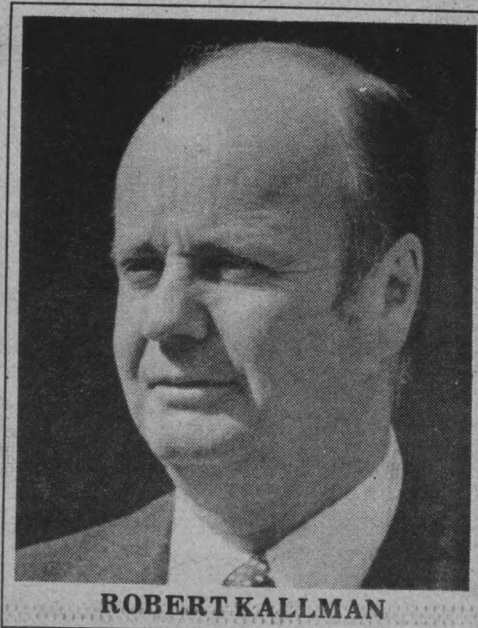

"I've been interested in local politics for a great many years. The first time I got interested, I guess, was in the early '60s when I decided I wanted to run for School Board because of some of the things that were going on and the lack of planning," said Kallman.

Since his start on the Santa Barbara Board of Education, Kallman has worked his way through a wide variety of city appointive positions. Besides serving for six years on the Board of Education, Kallman served for various times on the Parks Commission, the Recreation Commission, and the Police and Fire Commission. Until recently, Kallman was also a member of the regional Coastal Commission.

Having served on the Board of Supervisors since 1975, Kallman denies any further ambition for political office. "I have been asked to run for various state offices, but I haven't desired to do so," he said. However, Kallman did indicate that he will seek reelection to the Board of Supervisors in 1979.

Kallman did not take a definite position on the proposed Point Conception LNG regassification plant. "It's going to have to be built somewhere, I guess we have no choice in that," said Kallman. "We have worked very diligently in the LOS ANGELES — A group protesting against the Nicaraguan government said the United States should halt arms shipments and economic aid to that Latin American country until the government of General Anastasio Somoza is toppled. Critics of Somoza's government claimed that the dictator is not supported by the majority of the nation's people.

SACRAMENTO — The National Indian Coalition had a general meeting in Sacramento yesterday to spread the word of the coalition's activities concerning its efforts to defeat what they call anti-Indian legislation.

SAN DIEGO — Police report the Deputy Commander of the Israeli Defense Force was robbed of a briefcase Sunday and documents and the briefcase were later found scattered in a parking lot.

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman Jack Fenton says he has changed his mind and will seek re-election after all. The Montebello Democrat says old and new friends in his district have flooded him with telephone calls asking him to stay in office.

SAN DIEGO — The number of illegal aliens captured in Southern California is now almost a record 25,000 a month. The U.S. Border Patrol says 24,000 apprehensions were recorded in January.

The Nation

WASHINGTON D.C. — Bills to avert sharp increases in Social Security payroll taxes were introduced in both Houses of Congress yesterday. The increases were passed last December, but many, especially middle income Americans, have protested loudly. The plans introduced would use income tax money to pay for some Social Security benefits.

CHICAGO — A spokesman says 200 to 300 farmers planned to demonstrate at the nation's commodity exchange in Chicago yesterday. They claim the exchange is a gambling pit where the prices they get for crops are manipulated.

WASHINGTON D.C. — Congressional Budget Director Alice Rivlin has told the House Budget Committee it's "highly unlikely" that the Carter administration will reach its goal of balancing the budget by 1981. She says she also doubts the rate of inflation and unemployment can be cut to four percent by 1983.

WASHINGTON D.C. — The General Accounting Office said yesterday that the all volunteer army has cost an additional $18 billion. Comptroller General Staats says the biggest chunk of the increased cost has gone to higher pay to new military enlistees. The Pentagon disputes the figures.

CLEVELAND — A business trade publication says Europeans are buying American companies at a rapid rate, partly because while the dollar's value has fallen, prospects for the U.S. economy have not.

The World

WASHINGTON D.C. — Egyptian President Sadat told Washington reporters that Israel is playing a dangerous game. The danger, according to Sadat, comes from trying his political patience with what he called tired ideas and inflexibility. He said Jerusalem must become an open city and occupied lands must be returned before the two sides can talk peace.

LUSAKA, ZAMBIA — Militant black nationalists say they'll go along with the idea of the United Nations, or any neutral organization, supervising elections leading to majority rule in Rhodesia. However, agreement in principle still is subject to further talks with Britain.

WASHINGTON D.C. — The State Department says Cuba has sent 1,000 or more additional troops to help Ethiopia fight neighboring Somalia. Somalia has asked for American military help, but the U.S. has repeatedly turned them down.

TEL AVIV — Israeli Foreign Minister Dayan says his country is joining the Soviet Union and Cuba in selling weapons to Ethiopia for its war against Somalia. Dayan said Israel is supporting the Ethiopians because they control sea lanes to Israel's southern port of Eilat.

FRANKFURT — A Czech man who used a dummy bomb to hijack an airliner going from East Berlin to Prague has asked West German authorities for political asylum. The 24-year-old man surrendered quietly to police in Frankfurt after the Soviet built jetliner landed in the West German city.

Gov. Approves Disaster Loans

By STUART SCHNEIDER

Governor Brown signed a bill into law last week that will provide for a $200,000 loan program to enable disaster victims to rebuild their homes with solar energy technology.

The measure, SB 373, is authored by State Senator Omer Rains (D-Santa Barbara), and was proposed as a direct response to the disastrous fire in Sycamore Canyon last July.

The bill would appropriate funds for those Californians whose homes are damaged or destroyed by a disaster following which a state of emergency is declared by the governor of the state. Up to $2,000 per home is available. The bill is retroactive to July 1, 1977 and will terminate December 31, 1980.

Five other areas are eligible to receive the loans because of recent states of emergency. These areas are in Imperial, Riverside, Monterey, Kern, and Humboldt Counties.

This is the third solar energy proposal that has been passed during the 1977-78 session and marks California as one of the hotbeds for solar energy legislation.

The primary problem with solar energy technology has been the initial installation cost; however, with the loan program the consumer will be able to bypass this problem "and see the positive results of solar energy on a monthly basis," according to Rains.

SB 373 was introduced in response to the increasing competitiveness of solar energy with other conventional energy sources.

According to Rains, "Solar energy use will have a better long-term effect on our economy, helping to keep prices down."

Rains has indicated that he is considering introducing further legislation on solar energy in 1978.

Plenty of Openings For New Teachers

By C. CHALBERG and R. JAMGOCHIAN

An oversupply of elementary and secondary teachers? You'll have a hard time convincing graduates of the Santa Barbara campus of the University of California's elementary and secondary teacher training programs of that fact.

Despite the bleak outlook for teachers painted by the news media of late, graduates of the UCSB training programs have been very successful in getting classroom employment during the past three years.

A report issued recently by the UCSB Placement Center indicates that graduates of the training programs have found teaching positions throughout the state of California, while others have been successful in locating jobs in Oregon, Washington, and even Alaska.

Bilingual teachers, almost without exception, have experienced success with their job searches, and many of them are working in the Santa Barbara, Ventura and Oxnard areas.

Perhaps one of the most amazing statistics recorded by the Placement Center during the 1977 placement season was the number of teaching vacancies reported — it was actually up over the previous year! In their attempt to explain this oddity, placement officials suggest that the poor employment possibilities predicted by the media over the past few years have actually created the backdrop for a teacher shortage at the elementary and secondary levels.

This hypothesis is supported by a recent Rand Corporation report which stated in part:

... the teacher surplus (which) emerged in the late 1960's should peak by the early 1980's and will be followed by a teacher shortage ... for a few years the nation will be producing fewer teachers than ever before ...

Naturally, the Placement Center report points out, there are specific teaching areas that hold greater employment possibilities than others. Among these areas are bilingual education, science and mathematics at the secondary level, and elementary education in general.

The UCSB credential programs are all approved by the State Commission for Teacher Preparation and Licensing, and represent a good balance of field work and the latest theories of learning in the various curriculum areas.

Gymnastics - Like Junior High

Editor, Daily Nexus:

In response to the article by Douglas Mark (3 Feb) praising the UCSB gymnastics program, I would like to offer a slightly different opinion.

First, some background: I am presently a graduate student at UCSB. As an undergraduate, I competed on the gymnastics team of a school which consistently finished in the top four in the Pacific Eight. I feel that my experience on this team gives me a comparative perspective from which to offer some observations on the UCSB program.

As to the overall quality of the program at UCSB, I offer the following observations: UCSB consistently finishes last in its conference; UCSB's "top gymnast" would not make the competition team of any other school in the conference; when Cal State Fullerton or Cal State Long Beach compete with UCSB, they send their third string.

The notion is generally accepted that the "cause" of UCSB's weak gymnastics program is the absence of funds for recruiting high caliber gymnasts. While scholarships are clearly important for recruiting, they do not make a program. Many serious gymnasts will attend the school that offers the best program, whether or not they are offered a scholarship. As one example, the team I competed for had, in 1971, only one scholarship. Yet, in the Pacific Eight finals, the team placed second by only .05 points. In fact, I question whether there is a lack of funds for recruiting at UCSB, since the team shows up every year with new uniforms, and last year they purchased an expensive floor exercise mat.

Gymnastics in the U.S. has witnessed, in the last several years, a rapid development in coaching and training techniques which is beginning to produce, in some schools, gymnasts who are capable of competing with the Japanese and Russians who traditionally dominate the sport. These changes do not involve only the mechanics of movement. They are also concerned with the state of mind of the gymnast.

Gymnastics is meditation in movement; at times it is total commitment, total involvement, and overcoming the fear of death; at times it is drudgery, pushing one's body beyond what seem to be its natural limits, so that the spirit and the body will be stronger when one is called upon to perform. Gymnastics is no longer a mere sport; in its highest form, as practiced by the Japanese and perhaps the Russians, it verges on mystical experience.

In contrast to these trends in the development of the sport, gymnastics training at UCSB resembles high school football practice. False and misplaced enthusiasm pervades the gym. There is a lot of talk about potential, but there is no commitment. The only total involvement is the involvement of each individual's ego in the glory he may get by competing with an injured thumb, or getting his name in the Daily Nexus.

In short, I think there are other, more direct causes for the failure of the gymnastics program at UCSB than the shortage of scholarships. Ultimately, the blame can be placed on an athletic department which rewards conformity and mediocrity and thereby maintains the atmosphere of a junior high school football practice in the gymnastics room.

RHA Pres. Urges Residents to Vote

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I would like to thank the Daily Nexus, on behalf of the RHA, for the article (2-1-78) covering the proposed Residence Halls Association fee increase. This proposed increase would directly help the financial pangs of the unit halls and the dorms. The RHA Coordinating Board budget would not receive any of this money. More money would allow the unit halls and dorms to present better quality and quantity activities. Field trips, big name movies, formal lounge programming, formal dances, and private unit hall functions are all areas that could benefit from added funds.

The proposed increase would raise the dorm contracts for next year by only three dollars. The unit hall would get $2 per resident per year more, while the dorm budget would realize $1 per resident per year extra.

This Thursday, February 9, a special dorm referendum will be held. Balloting will be conducted at each dining commons at each meal. Dorm residents need only to show their meal card to vote. This proposed fee increase would not affect dorm residents this year. The new fee adjustment would be effective starting Fall, 1978.

I urge all dorm residents to vote on Thursday. I urge all dorm residents to vote "yes" on Thursday. A "yes" vote would directly benefit the dorm residents of next year. No matter what your stand is, take the little time necessary to vote!

Another View of Spring

Editor, Daily Nexus:

In response to the Daily Nexus' editorial on Spring Sing, I would like to share with you my attitudes toward the event.

Yes, Spring Sing was once a tradition here at UCSB, but it was also one of the only campus events in which any group of UCSB students could choose to participate. This year, we (the planning committee) are trying to provide the opportunity once again by sponsoring an event that allows for such participation. Spring Sing has been enjoyed by many students in the past, and hopefully student groups on campus now will join in this year to have a good time in the atmosphere of an all-campus event.

In addition to this, Spring Sing is being held in conjunction with UCSB's annual Homecoming and University Day. Apparently, "Homecoming" means something different to everyone. I see it as an opportunity for alumni to return to the campus, see their friends, and see how UCSB has prospered and changed since their graduation. Our Homecoming is obviously not the same event as it is in a high school, or even as it was years ago in college, but it can be, and is, enjoyed and appreciated by many.

Spring Sing has not been planned just because it happened in the past, but because it can be a good thing now, and in the future. And for accuracy's sake, Spring Sing did not cause the cancellation of a concert. Rather, Associated Students was not able to obtain the booking for April 8th.

Sara Oaklander
Chair
Homecoming-University Day
Central Committee

A Concerts Program spokesman said that it would be inaccurate to say they could not get a contract for the April 8 date. It was decided that the schedule of events was already too heavy, so arrangements with Al Jarreau were never finalized.

Kallman

Board of Supervisors to get some local input into that. According to Kallman, the Board of Supervisors spent recent meetings reviewing proposed LNG sites.

"I am opposed and I have voted so consistently since I have been on the Board and the Coastal Commission, to the expansion of drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel. I think that should be a last resort," Kallman said. "The longer we delay drilling in the channel, the better the technology will be and the safer it will be."

"The only concern I have about it is that there are pressures being placed on Congress, the State Legislature, and on local governments to increase drilling." Kallman has taken this problem to local Congressman Robert Lagomarsino for help. "We had a joint conference call, with me and Bill Wallace representing the Board, urging him to vote against any amendments which weakened the ability to control, restrict or even eliminate further drilling, at least for the present, in the Santa Barbara Channel."

Kallman also expressed concern about the Exxon oil-water separating plant, presently planned for construction in the channel. "We are now doing it out in the channel, which I think is very environmentally detrimental and dangerous. It would have been safer and more secure if it had been on shore. I think it's fortunate; I think we're subjecting ourselves to a real danger."

Kallman expects only sedate growth for Santa Barbara County in the near future. "I don't see ever happening here again what happened here in the Sixties, when there was a boom where the County grew well over 10 percent a year," said Kallman. Instead, he looks forward to one to two percent annual growth rates in the next few years.

Kallman also opposes the Los Padres County proposal. "I think Santa Barbara County is an entity, and it's an economical entity now, and I think that if its cut up it will lose that viability," Kallman stated. His views on County growth also figure in this. "If the philosophies expressed by the people who are advocating the split prevail, I think the North County will be a boom county. The result will affect us," said Kallman, who also noted, "We will end up down here with a very narrow strip of coastal land, with probably 80 percent of the County being in the National Forest."

For future economic growth, Kallman favors development of industries with little air pollution such as agriculture, light industry, and tourism. He denied that the Santa Barbara local economy was stagnating, saying, "If you look at the monthly returns from the Department of Labor and the Chamber of Commerce and you look at the monthly tax receipts from sales tax, it is not stagnating, it is increasing."

"I think it's essential that the Goleta Valley incorporate in some form or another. Populationwise, it's the largest unincorporated urban area in California," Kallman said. The supervisor expressed doubts about several current incorporation plans.

"I have never been opposed to the incorporation of Isla Vista," he said. "If the people who are footing the bill want a city, its going to be expensive. I feel it might be somewhat the same problem that the city of Guadalupe has experienced, where they have very large financial problems because they don't have the economic base to really run a city."

On the other hand, Kallman is uncertain about the Dos Pueblos incorporation plan. "My concern with it is that, from a cursory point of view, the boundaries are too extensive," said Kallman, who later added, "If there are going to be separate cities, I personally like the idea of the cities being separated by unincorporated areas." Kallman speculated that Turnpike Road to Ellwood might be more likely boundaries for a Goleta Valley city.

Outside of his work as a Supervisor, Kallman reads, gardens and devotes time to his hobbies. He hikes, backpacks, and rides. In addition, Kallman is an amateur archeologist. He was one of the founders of the Santa Barbara County Archeological Society. Said Kallman, "I enjoy that very much, and when I retire, that's going to be my real avocation."

citizens can expect from local law enforcement officials, as well as possible courses of action they can take.

Earlier in the day the Supervisors approved a recommendation from the County Department of Transportation to designate the west side of Storke Road a "No Parking" zone. The action, which passed routinely as part of the Board's "administrative agenda," was prompted by the recent conflict between the Isla Vista Community Council (IVCC) and the management of Francisco Torres over the amount of parking provided by the off campus residence.

Representatives of the IVCC claim that student residents of Francisco Torres who are unable to find a parking place in the lot are parking on the bike path across the Storke Road from the building. This poses a safety hazard for children on their way to and from the nearby Isla Vista School.

"ONE OF THE YEAR'S 10 BEST"

"A man women cannot resist in a film that I find irresistible. A brilliant and bizarre story. Truffaut has made an exceptional film about a man whose motto seems to be 'Once more with feeling'."

—Gene Shalit, NBC-TV

"An incomparable picture, a lovely, lovely film. This is Truffaut's wisest, and most knowing meditation on romance and obsession with the other sex, like 'Jules and Jim'. In every way worth seeing."

—Walter Spencer, WOR-Radio

"The man who loved women' is charming and sophisticated. The movie is done in great good taste and style. It will certainly make you smile a mile."

Proposition 13

Legislative attempts this year to head off approval of Proposition 13 have so far proved unsuccessful. While three separate property tax reform bills are currently circulating in the legislature, only one has much chance of placating angry homeowners at the polls in June.

That bill, SB 1, is authored by Senator Peter Behr (R-San Rafael.) In short, the bill would provide homeowners with a 72 percent exemption on the assessed value of a dwelling, while raising certain other taxes.

The assessed value of property is designed by state law as one-fourth of the market value. Current property tax rates are based on the property's assessed value.)

The bill is currently before the Assembly Ways & Means Committee.

Alumni Spikers Barely Defeat Varsity Team

By GREG HALADAY

The UCSB alumni spoiled the varsity team's comeback effort by scoring a 15-9 victory in the fifth and deciding game of the annual Alumni match Saturday night at Rob Gym.

Coming up on the short end of close 18-16 and 16-14 decisions in the opening pair of games, it looked as though the 1978 team would be a pushover for the seasoned alums. It was not to be.

The Gauchos managed back to back 15-7 wins in the third and fourth games. The momentum had shifted. It seemed that the alumni team was tiring; they have not been working out daily, as have the varsity players.

The fifth game of the contest saw the pendulum of momentum swing to and fro once again. The oldtimers, almost as if nourished by fond memories of past Gauchito glory, charged to 8-1 and then 10-3 leads.

Following the now familiar pattern of the evening, the Gauchos regrouped and mounted a counterattack of their own, closing to within one point at 10-9. This was as close as they would get, however. The alumni crew, led in the final offensive by Jeff Redan's assorted spikes and soft shots, added five straight points to win the game and the match, 15-9.

Suiting up for the alumni group were Reede Reynolds, Mike Maas, Jeff Redan, Skip Allen, Dean Novack, Bob Parucha, Neil Glendenning, John Lee, Ed Spaw, Gus Mee, Jay Hanseth, and Marc Jacobs.

Only about half of the crowd sat out the entire match, which lasted close to three hours. But a full five game match was "the best thing that could have happened," surmised Gaucho head coach Harlan Cohen, after his official Robertson Gym debut. The alumni players, several of whom have turned professional since graduating, "have been through it. They're not in the best condition, but just their presence is beneficial (to the team.) They did some good things (on the court)."

The Gauchos have recently incurred several injuries. Todd Cohen, a starter, is out for at least a week with an infected finger, a malady contracted while Cohen was in Rio de Janeiro with the Junior National team. Teammate Jeff Mozzocchi was also sidelined, due to a pulled back muscle. Gary Pearce played Saturday's game with a sprained ankle, while both Gary Burdick and John Corbelli played with sprained hands.

Fortunately, the entire squad should be healthy in time for the first league game, which will take place a week from Saturday night (Feb. 18) at 7:30 p.m. in Rob Gym. The opponent will be the always awesome Anteaters of UC Irvine. This will be the first of eight home matches.

The Gauchos have one remaining pre-season practice game, against CSU Northridge on Thursday night in Northridge.

Cohen experimented with some new plays during the Alumni game. According to the coach, his team must "learn to execute better. The setters have to learn when to try a play and when not to."

Cohen was pleased that his group stayed with the more experienced alumni, going back and forth and trading side out for side out most of the night. However,

Cohen cited three areas which need improvement. Cohen said, "Blocking, backcourt defense and serving win volleyball games. Offense doesn't win games."

The Gauchos lost not because of an impotent offense, Cohen claimed; lapses in the aforementioned blocking, defense, and serving were the real culprits.

For the Gauchos, Pearce, Steele, and Corbelli donated solid and consistent performances. Freshman Alan Lau was the evening's crowd pleaser. Lau, a Hawaiian, is a back court defensive specialist. It is probable that Lau will be inserted in the lineup in pressure situations, in order to provide precise passing. Also contributing to the Gaucho cause were Burdick, Dale Rhine, Craig Burdick, Jim Veenstra, Mark Lind, and Rick Strider.

Women Cagers Sweep 3 Games

In a season that has seen the UCSB Women's basketball team waver from mediocrity to outstanding play and back again, it looks as though the Gauchos have finally got their act together.

Garnering three more victories this past weekend, the Gauchos have now won four straight to boost their conference record to 4-2 with an overall record of 11-9. Wednesday at Rob Gym the Gauchos will face Pepperdine in a non-conference game before two crucial games this weekend against Northridge and Cal Poly-Pomona.

At Cal State L.A. last Thursday evening the Santa Barbarans romped over their hosts, 76-43. The Gauchos were led by Mary Lou Stephenson with 20 points and eight rebounds. Mary Ann McLaughlin and Marina Schiff chipped in with 14 and 12 points.

Friday night the cagers returned to Rob Gym to battle heavily favored San Diego State, a team that had defeated the Gauchos the previous week. The Gauchos could not be intimidated though, as they led the Aztecs at the half 30-29; came out in the second half and put the Aztecs away early, coasting to a 73-59 victory. McLaughlin again led the scoring with a career high 30 points and 18 rebounds.

Guard Laurie Wilson kept the defense honest by putting 14 points from the outside and managed to pick off seven rebounds while coming up with numerous steals and loose ball recoveries. Janet Pande came off the bench to score ten points.

One of the Gauchos' problems this season had been their lackluster play against less talented teams, but this was not the case Saturday night in Irvine. UCSB had the game in hand with a commanding 40-22 halftime lead, and managed to keep the pressure on without turning the ball game into a farce, winning 73-43.

Leading the way was center Marina Schiff who had 15 points and nine rebounds. McLaughlin, Wilson, and Pande each chipped in 12 points.

Are You Trying to Decide about Careers? Which Kind of Decider are You?

Last Minute Louie: Always waits until the very last possible second before deciding on anything.

Rudy Roulette: Always leaves the decision up to chance or fate.

Henrietta Hardnose: Makes a firm decision and refuses to reconsider any other alternatives.

Mia Fraid: Delays any decision for fear of being wrong, different, foolish etc.

Freddy the Fence: Has trouble deciding because he swings back and forth from one side of the issue to the other.

Hasty Harry: Always makes impulsive decisions based on emotions with little thought as to consequences.

Rebecca the Rebel: Always decides to do exactly the opposite of everyone else, just for the sake of being different.

Willy Nilly: Always lets other people (peers, parents, other authority figures) make the decisions.

Pollyanna A. Peazer: Always tries to mediate and compromise, to appease and please others by making a decision which makes everyone happy.

Saint Peter Perfectus: Spends an inordinate amount of time deliberating, analyzing, checking out all sides of the issue in an attempt to make the PERFECT decision.

Grass-is-Greener Gertie: Makes a decision and then immediately regrets it, doubts it, worries about the consequences and wishes she had chosen a different alternative.

Ida Neaux: Decides not to decide.

If you recognize yourself amongst the above dirty dozen, maybe you'd like some help with decision making. But then again, maybe you wouldn't. But, on the other hand, maybe some assistance is just what you need. Oh, I don't know...

UCSB Counseling Center is offering two decision making workshops this quarter as well as numerous career planning programs. Come see us.
