Guide to Graduation Gifts

By Charles Gomer Scott

Remember your high school graduation? Let's see, your dumb aunt and uncle probably flew in from Arizona, and your grandma called on the phone.

A bunch of little kids spent the entire day running around your backyard while you got a bit drunk with your dad and then went to a party at some girl's house whose parents bought a keg, with that old 1980s "it's better to have 'em drinking here than in the streets" logic.

And you got a bunch of money, which you proceeded to spend rapidly. I was going away to UCSB, and since my friend's older brother told me you had to have a bike, I bought this nifty German racing bike.

It was a Puch 12-speed touring bike to be exact, and although I never learned how to pronounce it — was it "pooch," or "pook," or "puk?" — I did manage to wreck it three times during Fall Quarter.

This $200 bungle now rests proudly against the fence in my parents' backyard, a testimony to 18-year-old "I can take on the world and do whatever the hell I want to do" foolishness if ever there was one. Incidentally I still ride my 13-year-old Ross three-speed every day, so if there's any moral to the story, I suppose it's not to go out spending a lot of money on things that don't need to be fixed.

And I want you to think about that when all the dough starts rolling in, or maybe it already has. Just remember, this is it. There isn't any UCSB to go away to now — you're just finishing that odyssey, remember? So be smart about it.

If your goal is to head off to see the world, fine. Get a backpack, or some guide books, and a nice supply of traveler's checks, not a new groovy-world-traveler's wardrobe. And a plane ticket would be nice, too, but when buying this, get your dates right and remember: these are non-refundable. Trust me, you'll thank me later for it.

My two best friends from high school just graduated from college last month, a full year behind schedule and at least a full year ahead of me. One got a humanities degree from San Jose State and the other polished up his guitar-playing while claiming a music/business degree from Boston University, but judging by the fiasco their post-grad plans have turned into, neither is cut out to be a travel agent.

Kris' parents bought him a round-trip ticket to Boston so he could finally go out and visit Lenny. They'd planned to do some sort of Canada thing while they were at it. Lenny's dad misses him, though, and when he went out there for the graduation he brought a ticket with him so his son could come back out here and see the family.

And you guessed it. The tickets are for roughly the same time periods. Kris is going to Bean Town, and Lenny is coming out here, and they should miss each other perfectly. Now, what does that tell you? a) my friends are dumb; b) never ask either of them for directions; c) never ask me for advice; or d) tell people what the hell you want for graduation and then enjoy it.

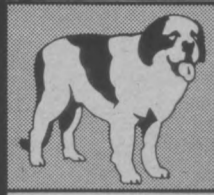

You're a college graduate, for crying out loud. Enjoy graduation and make the most of it, and like my third cousin Sid used to tell me, "get as much as you can when you can. You never know when there'll be a ton of people offering you stuff again."

Come to think of it, there are relatively few gift-giving free-for-alls left after this one: there's the wedding, the 25-year anniversary, the retirement party, and your wake, when all you get is flowers and you're too dead to even smell them anyway.

Sid was right, huh? Here's to you, class of 1990. If anyone is in the market for a good second-hand automobile as a cherishable graduation gift, my brother-in-law Elmo Gomer Scott has quite a show going down in Pomona, and coinciding with UCSB's graduation is his annual gotta-sell-it-all-sale, so come one, come all.

Happy Graduation?

As a graduating senior (or so I think), I've had some time to collect my thoughts. But now isn't the time for intellectual heavy-lifting. I'll leave that to my valet.

No, what I've figured is that my stay at UCSB has set mummy and daddy back about $35,000. Converted into terms you and I can understand, that's approximately 120,000 bags of Top Ramen. Or more crack than you, I, Marion Barry and Corey Feldman can smoke in a weekend in Ojai. I speak of much bank.

You may not get along too well with your folks. They are, after all, your folks, the people in the funny sportscoats that smell like Old Spice. Mummy does, at least. But they've supported you for a long time, and now that they're coming to see you matriculate (and you thought it would make you blind), the least you can do is show them a good time, not leave them to their own devices in a weird motel in Carpinteria.

Nyet, the appropriate thing to do is spend quality time with them. Personally, some of the best quality time I've had with Your Education Probably Set Your Folks Back a Few Grand. The Least You Can Do When They Come For Graduation Is To Take Them Out...

Cruisin'

With Your Host, Haden Guest

my folks has been in the car, just driving around looking for a public restroom.

So take the folks for a drive while they're here. Impress them with your locals-only insights. Take them to little, secluded places like the Courthouse or the Arlington.

My parents can't get enough of this kind of stuff. Every year, about this time — when they think I'm graduating — I take them for a ride.

We go through Hope Ranch; to State Street to go window-shopping (Dad picked up some nice weather-proofed storm doors last time); to Montecito to look for famous people like Wink Martindale; and to the foothills to see the view.

From Camino Cielo, you can sometimes see Ventura, and it seems like you're on top of the world, a feeling enhanced only by a picnic lunch. Submarine sandwiches, strawberries and whipped cream, then nitrous hits with mummy. What could be better?

Advanced placement.

We'd like to show you a fast way to get ahead in life. It's the sleek, powerful fuel-injected Prelude Si.

A 5-speed manual transmission, 4-wheel double wishbone suspension and 4-wheel disc brakes get high marks on the curve.

It comes to class very prepared. The Si features a High-Power stereo, power-operated moonroof, power windows and air conditioning.

But before you sign up for a new Prelude, take a quick trip to your campus placement office and ask for a copy of The Wall Street Journal's Managing Your Career guide, sponsored by Honda.

Because the Prelude Si isn't the only thing that'll move you forward.

Think Ahead! Make Plans for When You Graduate!

By Jay P. Poe

Life is full of milestones — your first step, your first day of school, your first car, your first love, the first time you get drunk ... on really cheap red wine ... and get sick on your first love — the first time you get dumped.

One of the most anxiously awaited of milestones is the graduation from college — the culmination of 17 years in a system of education designed to generate well-rounded, intelligent and, above all, educated men and women of the world.

Upon asking some of these soon-to-be college graduates what they plan to do after receiving their thumbs up for the next step, there are a number of responses you may receive:

» They often cough or ignore you.

» Some will ramble on for hours about it. You might hear things like ... "Oh I've got a job lined up in a big firm down south ... telecommunications ... a selling ah ... car accessories, you know, top of the line stuff. Actually they have the biggest selection of custom dash carpets in the west coast ... it's gonna be big."

» Of course, some go for the more meaningful angle, "Well I hope to spend some time getting in touch with myself. Maybe move out of state for a while or just stay with my folks ... depends on the cash situation really."

» There are a few, however, with some truly impressive, visionary plans. These are the movers and shakers, who have spent their time as undergrads involved in every program, internship, fellowship, club, and cause available to them, apparently because they never learned the fine art of fictional application and resume writing. To the average listener these people's answer to the big post grad Q can be the most annoying, "After completing my Guggenheim fellowship in New York and the book is published, I plan to have a little off-time at a writing workshop in Vienna before I start at the state department."

» At the other end of the spectrum are the people who's ambitions are modest — aiming to achieve more of a sense of security in life. "Well, Ted offered me a full time position down at the Fill and Feed station. They've got a really strong dental plan and he said I could be manager by next spring."

» The rarest of all these varieties of commencement day revelers are the honest ones. Sure they've had 17 years to figure it out, but who really has a clue? This type approach the "what now" question with a frank, sometimes shocking, lack of bull. "I don't know, get a job I guess. That's what I'm supposed to do right?" or some might say, "Wow, super question. I'm just not really sure. I mean, I guess I've always felt the peace corps would be a pretty intense mind-blower, but I can't rule out the possibility of moving to Hawaii and opening that accessories shop."

But the big question is "Who really knows?" Sure leaving the old bureaucratic cradle of UCSB education — where liberalism is considered hip, wanting to get a tattoo is normal, and beer is always free — is a scary thing, but don't stress it. If you've got an answer to the post-graduation question, great, but don't think it's not going to change — completely. The likelihood is the person with the big plans is going to wind up strung out on crack from too much panning stress, and the dude in accessories will hit it big.

Some Fun Grad Stats

By Agamemnon Zume

Last night, after I turned out the lights and stretched out on my bed, reveling in the blissful inundation of relaxation, bones and muscles heaving a collective sigh of relief, I was suddenly struck by an overwhelming melancholy.

A cool breeze stirred the curtains, and wafted over my bare skin, carrying the scent of ocean and Woodstock's to my peacefully sampling olfactory system. Outside, the moon hung full, illuminating a swath of sea and revealing the stolid strength of the mountains. I.V. was quiet.

Ha! Actually, Countdown was just letting out, and crazy drunk people filled the street, warbling incoherent mating calls, cars went boom(!) and spandex stretch-noises filled the air.

Ah! Graduation time. Time to leave this small slum on the edge of paradise. Get out and face the real world, jockey for jobs, battle traffic, pay bills on time, work 50 weeks per year.

Leave behind the gentle ocean breeze and shifting palm trees, sunny days and cool nights and camaraderie and weekend debauchery with 13,000 other debauchers. Goodbye, college years.

Boy, I sure am glad I'm not graduating!

Here're some statistics:

» Eight out of ten people who graduate, graduate. The rest still have to take at least one university-level class before receiving a diploma.

» Of last year's graduating class, 2 percent are happy, 4 percent are satisfied, and 94 percent could not be reached for comment.

» Daily Nexites take an average of eight years to graduate.

» Biology majors average age 41, in physical terms, when they graduate. Most complete their course of studies in four years. This explains the large number of short, gray-haired biologists, age: 23.

» College of Creative Studies students: average age 16 when they drop out of school. Students in CCS are not considered legal adults until age 52.

» Of this year's graduating seniors, approximately 51 percent attended Countdown at one point or another. Of this year's graduating seniors, approximately 51 percent will receive their degree in communication studies.

» Approximately 12 percent of this year's graduates will be able to use the word "antedeluvian" properly in a sentence. 53 percent will think the term refers to an anthropod shaped like Dom Deloise, and 35 percent will think that it's Spanish for the love of your Aunt Ian.

Helpful Hints for Moving Out Quick 'n' E-Z!

By Abe McCurdy

It's true — no matter how you slap it — it's a bit of a pain packing it in and hauling it off during finals week. But before your face gets all scrunched up worrying about it, I must tell you not to fret. I've compiled a few dos, a few don'ts and a dozen donuts to help you — quick 'n' e-z — on your merry way through packing land.

Dos

1. Take Care of Business, Every day

"I saw to it that I made an appointment to get the gas cut off well in advance. I also warned Rerun and Wayne to do the same with electricity and the phone."

—"Rog," freshman, English
Rog has made a very good point, don't get caught with your trousers down. Plan ahead, call now.

2. Make it Festive

"I really enjoy moving out. Cliffy and I get a keg, and the rest comes easy." —"Norm," senior, economics

Now, Norm has the right idea. Have fun when you move out. Nothing is better than packing away those college memories, with an ice cold stein of suds in your hand. After packing, your main worry is to clean that shack. Well, the walls will always look a little whiter, with a little bit of brouhaha in your system.

3. Have Somebody Else Do it Instead

"I don't need to do a single little thing. I just lay myself out, sunning in my back yard, and my big, strong neighbors, Enus and Cleetus, do it all for me."

—"Daisy," freshman, communications

You don't have to fit into Daisy's cutoffs to get people to help you move, because there are willing hands all around. There's even a store in nearby Goleta that specializes in helping students move. They're called The Packaging Store (965-3344). This is how they work. You bring in stuff, packed or not, and they will pack it and ship it for you, anywhere you want. Also, they sell about every kind of box there is, along with tape and rope and other important things. According to the woman on the phone, they'll "ship anything from one pound to 1000 pounds." They make moving fun and rewarding, because they do it.

Don'ts

1. Fight With Your Roommates

"The big problem I have with moving out is that David has no sense of organization. He is an idiot."

—"Maddie," Junior, engineering

Hey! None of that! You've made it all the way through the first season and halfway through the sweeps with that jerk, the least you can do is keep it cool the last couple days. If arguments had focused before on who ate the food in the refrigerator, you'll find that at the end of the year, arguments revolve around who didn't eat the food (and that's why that person should clean the fridge). If you argue about these sorts of things, you're only headed for headache. Work things out, cooperate. It's much more fun.

2. Not Clean Up

"Moe and Larry cause me a lot of trouble. They refuse to clean a thing. We always lose our security deposits."

—"Curly," freshman, women's studies

Don't let this happen to you. Make sure that you clean your place to perfection. Scrub the grout and recaulk the tub. You'll thank me for it. But don't be the stooge that has to clean the whole thing!

3. Procrastinate

"I just don't know where I'm going to put my stuff until I can move into my new place. I had planned to ask Ralph, but by the time I got around to it, Joanny and Chachie had already put all of their stuff in the space."

—"Richie," freshman, classics

"Dag nab them Dukes! Deek! Deek!"

—"Roscoe" sophomore, environmental studies

"I hate this whole moving out thing. I don't even know where I'm going to live next year."

—Marc Brown, junior, business economics

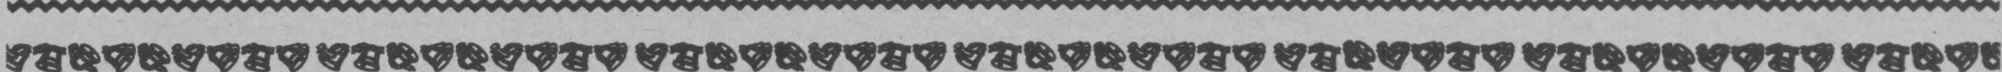

Don't join their ranks. Plan ahead.

Donuts

1-12. Assorted Mixed Variety

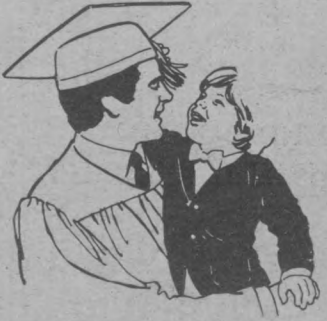

"I would have to say apple fritters, glazed, old fashioned, bearclaw, maple bar, lemon cream, cinnamon roll, jelly-filled, rainbow jimmies, powdered, donette gems ... oh and cake, because that's what Chrissy and Janet would always ask for when I went to get Dunkin' Donuts in the morning."

—"Jack"

Graduation Is Scary

By Matt Curplew

A few months back I was sitting in the Tiki Room in Hollywood, drinking blue drinks and rapping with my friend Liebowitz. Liebowitz, who graduated last year, was bemoaning life in the real world.

It was one of those free weekend nights when college students like myself say what the hey and drive down to L.A. to party with old friends. But Liebowitz was saying that for him, this night was a rare opportunity for quality relaxation time.

He was saying he only wishes he had the time just to go back, take a leisurely English class or two, and let the words of a brilliant professor wash over him and work their magic.

It's a rat race out there, he was saying, and life in the working world is all that it's cracked up to be, and less.

Let me make it clear that Liebowitz likes to complain.

But was he right? Is this what the artificial institution of graduation is all about? Going out into the world, losing track of all your friends, trying to find a job, finding one that suits you and all the while feeling miserable about it?

My roommate's graduating and he seems to think

The ceremony itself means next to nothing. It's another smelly afternoon by the lagoon, albeit in sillier clothes than usual... Graduation doesn't alter anything but your transcript.

so. He plans to go to Europe after he spends the summer working, and then he figures he's going to get a job and be stuck there for the rest of his life. He says this may be his last opportunity to go to Europe, let alone take a vacation.

Seems pessimistic to me. It sounds like a symptom of Pre-graduation Stress Disorder, where life spreads out before you like a lonely road through the heart of Texas. It's a mighty long road.

Some people like to forget about college after they graduate. Like a bad dream that you can't — or choose not to — remember in the morning. They think that you can spend four or five years in one place, then move on and never return. I knew a woman once who thought this way. I've bumped into her at a few I.V. parties since then.

Actually, I think that graduation means all this, and less.

The ceremony itself means next to nothing. It's another smelly afternoon by the lagoon, albeit in sillier clothes than usual.

But graduation is not an end. It is not even a crossroads, with one fork heading to Dallas, one to Paris.

Rather, it is a time of mobilization. A putting to movement, as the Webster's New International Dictionary says. Movement to or from. Or in place.

I'm trying to say that graduation is never an excuse for a change in lifestyle. Or living habits. You have to come up with a better excuse than that.

To many, what graduation means is a moment at which most students, like it or not, divorce themselves from their lectures, term papers, and perhaps a few of their fraternal friends.

But don't deceive yourself like this. Graduation doesn't alter anything but your transcript. The rest, as they say, is up to you.

Thanks!!

From Barkley's Buns to The College Beat: It's Been Berry Berry Good

"So long, and thanks for all the fish."
—From the Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy

Somehow that line never fails to make me chuckle just a bit. That's what the dolphins in the Douglas Adams science fiction series said, while leaving a doomed planet earth, to the humans who had so dutifully tossed them herring after herring for all those years. I mean what else would dolphins say? Free fish. Hey, thanks!

It's June 1990 in Santa Barbara, and like those intergalactic dolphins who were beamed aboard an awaiting spaceship, I too am being beamed away from this veritable paradise — although not necessarily by choice. Eventually, if your parents don't kick you out, the University does.

So what does a college sportswriter say after nearly four years of bylines, deadlines, sidelines and "tell me why" lines? I don't know, really. But like the dolphins and the fish, this gig has been just too good of a deal to go unthanked.

What will I miss most about college journalism? Not the money, which wasn't much, but still spent well. Not the long, late hours in the office where a bowl of Ramen from a hot-pot looked like the best meal you've had in three days — because it was! It won't be dealing with a few odd student athletes who just didn't have a concept about what a reporter's job is (i.e. "just make me sound good in the quote.")

Nah, wait a minute, maybe that stuff is what has made the job interesting. I mean, do they play frisbee in the offices of the L.A. Times? Don't spread this around, but we're not exactly under a whole lot of supervision here underneath the Storke Tower.

And making your own mistakes can be pretty damn fun — especially if you really don't know what you're doing. I'm not talking about minor mistakes here like accidentally failing to take the pause off your tape recorder during a lengthy interview, or waxing the wrong side of a story before putting it up on the production flats. The big league boffs are the ones you cherish most.

Like this year after Long Beach State had just collapsed to the Gauchos inside the Thunderdome, and 49er Head Coach Joe Harrington was seething outside the lockerroom after being tagged with a critical technical late in the game. He wasn't in the talking mood, but sheepishly I threw out a question on a topic I thought he would love to discuss — the referees.

Somehow I had forgotten the nearly universal policy in all sports that coaches may not comment on officiating to the media. Kindly, Joe reminded me of this with a wilting glare and a tirade which somehow was without profanity. With my journalistic psyche shattered like a Darryl Dawkins backboard, I tried to save face a few moments later with a typically lame sportswriter question to the effect of "what do you think of your press." His response: "What press? The Long Beach Telegram?" Game, set, and match.

But as long as you learn from those incidents, they eventually make for good stories in the car to some other "hey, you ain't from around here, are you" destination to cover an event. You can't help but learn something about people and about athletes. Mainly that they are just that — people. Seeing Charles Barkley in all his birthday-suit glory walking around a lockerroom in Charlotte gives one an interesting perspective on things. Hey, stop that! You know what I mean!

You also learn that student athletes can be as immature as your roommates. They'll always talk to reporters after a win, but not always after a loss, or if the team was even mildly criticized or poked fun at in the previous day's paper. But you meet plenty who are just the opposite. One time an athlete literally fought back tears after a tough loss just to answer my questions. Or you meet Joe X athlete who has a reputation for being rude and obnoxious, but is actually a great guy.

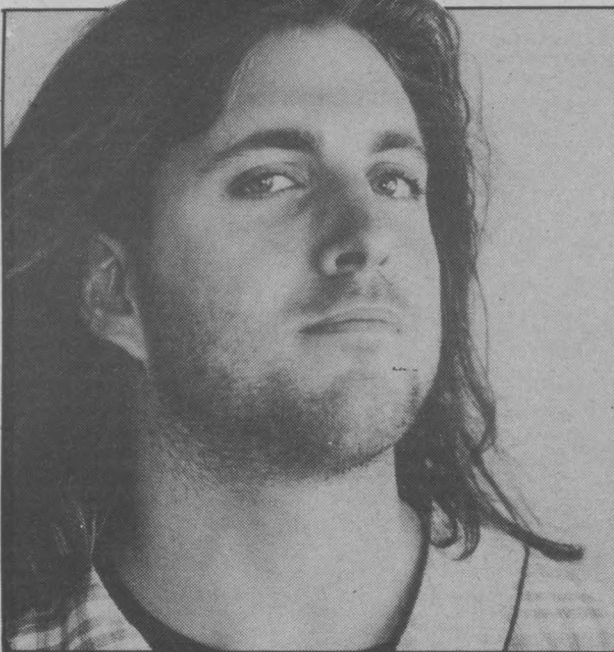

As a sports enthusiast, can I overappreciate the good fortune that writing for the Nexus has brought? Hardly. I feel like Garrett Morris doing his Chico Esquela routine on Saturday night live ("sportswriting has been berry, berry, good to me).

How else can you eavesdrop on a scathing post-match tirade from a coach to his players? Who else can get through to UNLV basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian on the phone only to have him turn suddenly sour when you ask an innocent question about JC recruiting? What better justification to miss class for a week than driving willy-nilly around the Pacific Time Zone for a three-game basketball road swing? The seats have been great to boot — front row, or at least close, and first-class hospitality at the big events.

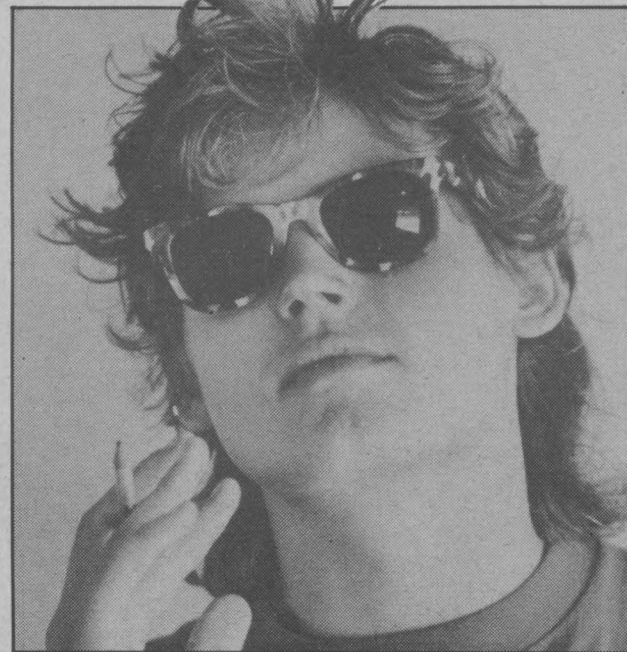

Have I forgotten anything? Yeah, probably a lot. The sports office banter was never better. Full contact nerf hoops with my editor Scott Lawrence, quasi-illicit free pizza scams, and a six-month staff fling with our personal water-cooler "Sparky." The water flowed clean and cold until we realized "Sparky's" owner wasn't getting his monthly bills returned. Sportswriters we were, accountants were weren't.

So what do you say in your final collegiate by-line? Well, I'm still not sure but I'll stick with what works. So long UCSB and thanks for all the fish. They were delicious.

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA REPORTERS

SOLLIE: Perhaps the best head of hair this side of West Hollywood. Was a jazz percussionist in another life. Still talks to friends he made in the dorms. Weapon: his natural musky scent.

THOR: The extrovert and patriarch of the group. Will consider taking up golf in about twenty years. Ask to see his antique shoe horn collection! Weapon: Ninja phone.

CHUCKIE: The Nexus' own Clark Kent. Will either commit suicide or become Editor-in-Chief (or both!) within two years. Cannot bear cruelty to animals. Cries at weddings but not at funerals. Weapon: radioactive x-ray eyeglasses.

MORGO: Might not know his whos, whats, wheres, and whys, but can always party up a storm on very short notice! Often mistaken for Ziggy Marley in crowds. Weapon: poisonous fraternity pledge pin.

The County Desk is looking for some fresh, new, unharvested blood to put a stop to Nexus inbreeding. Do you have what these guys got? Can you combine a good solid work ethic with decadent intellectual depravity? If not, can you write? Come by the Nexus under Storke Tower, or call 961-2691. (or 961-AMY C) Ask for Morgan "Hairy-heart" Freeman or Charles "Call me chuck and I'll eat your first-born child" Hornberger.

To the UCSB Community:

On Wednesday, May 30, 1990 three enrolled UCSB Asian-American students received letters referring to Asian-Americans in derogatory terms, threatening them with physical harm, declaring white supremacy, and expressing raw hatred. On Friday, June 1 two more persons reported that they had also received such mail. The purpose of this letter is to make clear to you the institutional position on this incident, and to offer you information and assistance, should you feel that you may be negatively affected by this behavior.

UCSB's position on this matter is simple and unambiguous:

threats of violence, racial harassment, or behavior that creates a hostile or intimidating environment for UCSB students, faculty or staff members have absolutely no place on a University campus and will not be tolerated.

In keeping with this position, two different, but parallel, investigations have begun. One is being conducted by the campus police, who have made a preliminary judgment that the content and tone of the letter are such that the author(s) may be guilty of committing a felony under Section 422 of the California Penal Code: "terrorist threats." Persons found guilty of this crime may be subject to imprisonment.

A second investigation is being conducted by the Office of the Dean of Students (in cooperation with the campus police) in an attempt to ascertain if the author(s) are UCSB students. If they are, they will be subject to University discipline as well, and will be charged with violating Section 51.16 of the UCSB Campus Regulations: "Violence, threats of violence, or behavior that threatens the health or safety of persons on University property." If found guilty of this charge, they would be subject to the entire range of University sanctions, up to and including dismissal from the University.

Understandably, this action has created fear, anger, and a tremendous sense of insecurity for many members of this community.

We are asking everyone's help and cooperation in three specific areas:

1. If you receive a threatening letter, please handle it as little as possible, place it in a paper bag, and deliver it immediately and directly to Detective Cathy Farley in the UCSB police department, Public Safety Building (next to the Fire Station on Mesa Road). If you have any questions about the investigation or have information to offer, please call detective Farley at 961-8477. If she is not in, leave a message for her at 961-3446.

2. If you are feeling generally uneasy about your personal safety, assistance is readily available through the following departments/offices: Counseling and Career Services, the Office of the Ombudsman, all offices of the Educational Opportunity Program, the Women's Center, International Students & Scholars and the Office of the Dean of Students. Staff members in these offices have been specially briefed on this case and stand ready to help those who have been negatively affected by it in any way. All office numbers are available through the campus operator 961-8000.

3. If you experience any form of harassment or intimidation that makes you feel unsafe or threatened, report the incident immediately to the Office of the Dean of Students, Building 427, 961-4569. After 5 p.m., call the campus police at 961-3446.

The University of California at Santa Barbara will not tolerate any form of violence, harassment, or intimidation. We are committed to providing an educational environment that is free from hostility and intimidation for all our constituents. We ask for your help, your patience, your participation, and your understanding as we sort through and attempt to solve this very difficult case. We also want to express our sadness and offer our support for those whose lives have been affected by this hateful, hurtful act.

LOOKING FOR WAYS TO FINANCE YOUR EDUCATION?

THE SCHOLARSHIP AND FELLOWSHIP RESOURCE CENTER CAN HELP!

Located in Library Room 2574

Hours: Mon 10-12 • Wed 11-2 • Fri 10-12 • (Hrs. change each qtr.)

The Scholarship and Fellowship Resource Center is available to assist you in finding ways to finance your education. The resources in the center are continuously updated and expanded to include a large variety of funding sources for undergraduate and graduate students in all fields of study. Information on scholarships, fellowships, grants, endowments, and loans is easy to access on both a database and in resource books. A graduate student will assist you in your search for funding.

Just a few of the undergraduate and graduate scholarships and fellowships that can be found in the Scholarship and Fellowship Resource Center are listed below. Visit the center to find out more about these and many other funding sources. Now is the time to take advantage of this opportunity to finance your education!
