Hunger reaches its peak as the waiter brings forth an incredible pile of delicious food for the unsuspecting customer at China Castle.

China Castle!

By Rose Dalwallow

China Castle treats you right.

For Chinese food that you can't just find anywhere, it's well worth the short drive into Santa Barbara to the scenic Greyhound Station overlook.

If you've grown tired of curry chicken that hasn't the tangy umph you know you can't live without, if you've got a fever for rice with spice, if you yearn for authenticity, China Castle's the one.

China Castle is out of sight.

We're talking authentic, here, not some mish-mash of limp veggies that only some lumpy stooge from Tennessee would call "real Chinese dining." No, Babs, China Castle satisfies your every expectation, from decor to dining, from snappy service to the pimento in your olive. It will only take one bite of China Castle food, and you will be sold forever.

Can we talk about bargains?

China Castle may very well be the most cost-effective way to spend quality time with a table between you and a friend or loved one. Lunch starts at 11:30 a.m., and they can serve you up a luncheon meal special that will fill your gizzard for less than $5. We're talking soup, salad, fried won-tons, fried rice and a luscious entree all for one exceptionally low price.

That's not even mentioning the ga-ga, out-of-this-world egg rolls China Castle serves. Some people eat egg rolls only because they're yet another item on the plate. But these egg rolls are fresh and crispy, flavorful like no other egg roll could be, and leave you flailing the air to summon your waitress to bring you more.

That's scrumptious. Featuring everything from Moo Goo Gai Pan to Szechwan Delight, from Beef and Broccoli to the best Spicy Garlic Chicken in the tri-state area, China Castle will pique your appetite, tickle your palette, soothe your stomach, and somehow — somehow — leave you aching for more.

Did you say service? We're talking lickety-splitly, making the Flash envious: Soup's on before you can bat an eye. China

Castle sports some of the cheeriest employees ever to take a food order, people with the warmth and compassion it takes to instill that feeling of "never left Home" while you enjoy the luxury of dining out.

And when you're done, you can sink your nearly satiated choppers into Fried Bananas, or the personal exotic favorite of Lonesome Pecos Ned, Fried Candied Bananas. Lip smacking delight, these bananas will be a revelation to you. You'll depart murmuring, "I never knew, in truth, that a banana could be such the treat."

Now, there's no excuse for hesitation. Deprive yourself no longer. Get out of that rut, find a friend, make the short jaunt. Dining at China Castle will make your week and brighten your day. Satisfaction is guaranteed in no uncertain terms.

China Castle is located at 1202 Chapala in Santa Barbara. Open Sun.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m., Fri.-Sat. 11:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m. Phone 962-6602.

This diner prepares himself for another bite of one of the Egghead's renowned breakfasts.

The Egghead!

By Gutch Nice

If it's breakfast you're looking for, I don't know, maybe you should go somewhere else, because if you go to the Egghead, you are going to get a breakfast, my friend.

It's funny — eating at the Egghead makes me realize how much I miss my mother. Living in Isla Vista, at this large, overwhelming university, with all these crazy college kids and these parties, it used to be pretty hard. Sure, it was fun, but there was always that sense that something wholesome, something vague yet comforting was missing.

For some reason, it's true — breakfast is the most important meal of the day. It puts perspective on the night before, while gearing you up emotionally and physically for the day ahead.

I remember Mom, on those early mornings before school, coming into my room and waking me up in her pink taffeta bath robe — "Wake up, sleepy head. Time for school."

I would roll over reluctantly and pretend I didn't hear her. "I'll make you some breakfast. That'll get you started right. You have to get a good meal in you in the morning. I just heard Dr. Burce Hensel on the TV last night. He said breakfast is the most crucial meal of the day."

I didn't ever listen to her then. But you know on those mornings when she would cook up some pancakes, hash browns, toast or her special mustard, spinach and cream cheese omelette, I would feel so good the whole day. Like that food she made for breakfast just set off the entire course of my day on a high note.

It wasn't until I came to college that I realized how much these morning meals contributed to my overall well-being. I went for months void of that early morning send-off. No matter how I tried to replace what was missing in my life, I still felt a great emptiness where Mom's mustard, spinach and cream cheese omelettes used to be.

Then Lady Luck, in her ever unexpected, darkest-before-the-dawn manner, sent good fortune my way in the form of a restaurant called Egghead. Yes, it had been there all along, perched above Pardall Road waiting for me to come in.

It was my roommate, Bernie, who, seeing my pathetically self-indulgent state of misery, forced me one morning to get out of bed before class and go get some breakfast with her. Just like

I used to be with Mom, I was reluctant.

But the moment that food — those pancakes, those delectable eggs, that gorgeous oatmeal with raisins and brown sugar, and that sizeable serving of fresh-squeezed orange juice — hit the table, my mother's words came back to me like a jolt of high voltage thunderstorm lightning, "You have to get a good meal in you in the morning." In a moment I understood.

Sure, they didn't have mustard, spinach and cream cheese omelettes, but hey, what they had was so much better. A plethora of omelette creations you can't find anywhere else. You can even get non-breakfast cuisine if you like. And it's all prepared with the care and skill only a mother has.

After happily devouring the lumberjack portions and conversing with the friendly server about how important a meal breakfast is, I was off, to start a new chapter in my life — one that isn't sad or lonely, but one that includes great breakfasts, and Egghead.

The Egghead is located at 900 Embarcadero del Mar in Isla Vista. Open Mon-Fri 7 a.m.-1 p.m. and Sat-Sun 7:30 a.m.-2 p.m. Phone 968-1993.

Hamburger Habit!

By Stephen Lynne-Bachelor

The Hamburger Habit serves, undoubtedly, the best hamburger in town. I'd like to talk about the Hamburger Habit, but first there are a few things that I want you to know about the hamburger in general and about the way I feel about it.

Unlike many popular foods, you can eat a cheeseburger three times a day forever and never get sick of it. The reasons for this phenomena are vast and expansive but, by and large, simple.

- They taste good. This is true. There is something just downright yummy about buns, meat, cheese and the like. There is something very yummy, indeed. Can you say that about falafel?

- They are everywhere. Hamburgers are as ubiquitous as Michael Caine, and they can be found on just about any city street in the nation. Can you say that about falafel?

- They make all types. You want a double burger with extra pickles? You got a double burger con extra pickles. You want some chili, no cheese, some tomatoes, hold the bacon? That's the way you get it. Can you say that about falafel?

The list goes on and on and — need I say? — on. But perhaps the greatest thing about the hamburger is that, once you've found your favorite burger in town, you can get it any time you want.

I know a lot of people who came to UCSB thinking that their favorite hometown hamburger stand served up the perfect cheeseburger. It was often depressing to listen to them wax delicious about the Lucky Greek American Burger or George's Hamburgers and Pastrami Sands or whatever was their favorite hamburger stand back home. Most of them said that you couldn't get a decent cheeseburger in Isla Vista. I watched many of them drive hours away to In-N-Out or even Tommy's when the burger jones hit hard. It was sad.

RYAN GOLD/Daily Nexus

But then somebody told me about Hamburger Habit. Talk about local! I've had relationships that haven't been as close as this Hamburger Habit. Right there on Hollister in Goleta.

Man, you want to tell me about a hamburger? Who-ooo! This is the genuine article, my friend. Great bite-able beef dripping chili and tomatoes and mustard, hot and steaming in a soft-but-dependable bun. For the first time since I've been here, I actually feel like someone in town knows what side of the patty to flip.

They've got chili burgers, regular burgers, double chili cheese burgers, hot dogs of commendable variety, pastrami sandwiches and french fries like you remember. Everything that would seem so out of place in a common pretentious Santa Barbara restaurant seems so at home and perfect in this comfortable burger nook. Everything — including the little pepperocinis and maybe some A-1 sauce for those who crave it — is there.

Hamburger Habit is airy — as any outdoor restaurant should be — but it's shady and cool when the sun is out and somehow warm and cozy when the winds blow. It's got its own parking lot, which is nice.

One of the most intriguing things about the Habit is the fine line it rides between "hamburger shack" and "sidewalk cafe." It has elements of both, but it shuns the worst aspects of the two restaurant genres. That is to say the Hamburger Habit avoids the greasy (some would say "endearing") dirtiness of the classic hamburger stand and avoids the over-serious pomp of the sidewalk cafe. It is a good line to ride, needless to say.

So check it out. Get a hamburger. You'll like it a lot.

The Hamburger Habit is located at 5735 Hollister in Goleta. Open 11 a.m.-8 p.m., seven days a week.

Urge: Dance Madness!

By Santiago O'Donnell

There is a new night club in town, and it's strictly alternative. No ifs, ands, or buts about it, Urge is the place to be for alternative music, dancing and performances.

Every Monday night, Bruce and Debbie Greifrent out Zelo's on State Street, redecorate it, pump in some crazy alternative music, and open the place up from 8:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. to people who want to enjoy culture of a different flavor—on the "cutting edge," as the Griefts' describe it.

"There's nothing else like this in Santa Barbara," says Bruce. "We have a lot of energy here, and people like it," Bruce added.

Each week the club draws around 150 people from all walks of life—some people in jeans and t-shirts, others in black leather jackets, but a good cross section of Santa Barbara's most interesting people.

This Monday, the performance-art ensemble, XKP, will grace Urge with a thought-provoking and shocking performance art piece. The last time XKP performed at the club, it was a record breaker, with 200 people turning out for the show. XKP also performed at Pluto Books in Isla Vista last November.

Next week's performance is about "Who is sane and who is insane in the world." Craig Ellenwood, an orchestrator of the piece, says Monday night's work will be stimulating not only to the ears and eyes, but to the body. The six-member group has been experimenting with very low-frequency sounds that can't be heard, but are sensed.

Several video screens will be showing clips of different videos Ellenwood has been able to track down. Some footage will be war scenes spliced with short sex scenes, drawing together the two images.

XKP's performance is probably closest to Skinny Puppy, Ellenwood explained. The difference is that Skinny Puppy has a different performance for each song, and XKP incorporates all of its songs into one comprehensive work that explores the depths of a topic. In fact, the group continues one show where its last one left off.

"XKP means escaping your mind for awhile. Just throwing off the chains of society for awhile," Ellenwood said.

"The stuff that I want to do is on the cutting edge. I am trying to appeal to people who would not come out to see a regular performance-art piece," Ellenwood added. People find the group extremely musically appealing, and the rest of the show just adds to the experience; it's not the kind of performance that gets boring or repetitious.

Some might find it odd that such an alternative club springs from the Zelo's establishment every Monday night, but it makes perfect sense that the area's most progressive and enticing restaurant would switch into a club of the caliber Urge offers.

"We're not doom and gloom," Debbie explains. The club is for anyone who is interested in life—people who want to hear good music and experience a differently creative atmosphere.

Zelo is the perfect place for Urge. Tuesday through Sunday, patrons can enjoy some of the truly best and most stimulating food in the South Coast at unbelievably reasonable prices, with great service in a relaxing cultural environment. If you enjoy delicious food, you have every reason to head downtown to Zelo at 630 State Street. This is the place to take that special someone in your life. I did and it paid off.

See's Coffee: Java-tastic!

By Luann Lieu

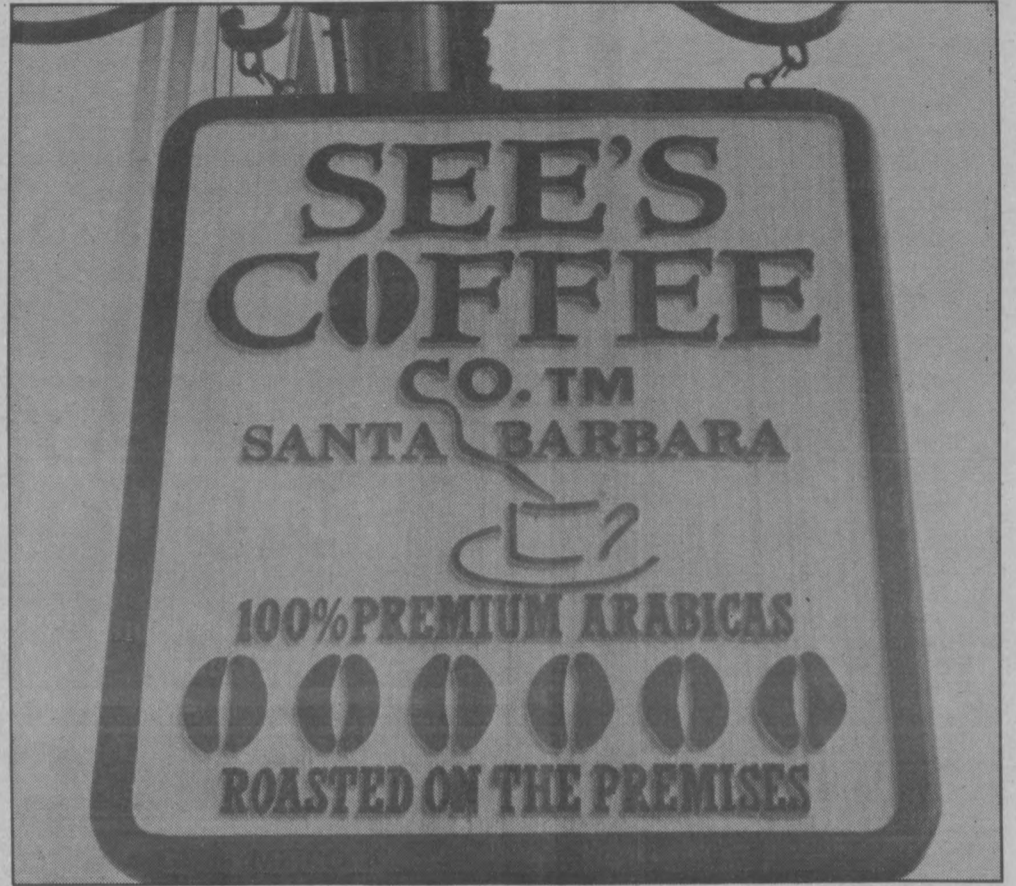

If you're ever in the mood for jumbo jug o' java, a mug o' mud, a cup o' joe, a healthy thermos full o' cof-fasaurus, or 12 ounces o' java-rino — and you will be — See's Coffee Company Santa Barbara is the place to get down to business, T.C.B., get busy, separate the wheat from the chaff, get down to brass tacks and bring home the bacon.

Located at 1014 State Street, See's Coffee's diverse offerings run the gamut from steamed coffee-types and caffeine coolers to the latest and greatest in various drinks sans java.

Steamed drinks range from fresh ground coffee to double espresso to hot chocolate, made with freshly ground chocolate shavings. See's goes beyond the simple caffeine fix with their creation of the "Fantasia." This delectable drink is made with a shot of espresso, a shot of orange Torani syrup, steamed cocoa, and topped off with whipped cream, chocolate sprinkles, a chocolate espresso bean and a slice of orange.

For Valentine's Day, See's has concocted the Espresso Creme Dream, with two equally delicious varieties. The first is two shots of espresso over candy red hots and heavy cream, served on a bed of red hots and a lemon peel. The second variety is with espresso, cream, whipped cream drizzled with raspberry Torani syrup and served with red hots.

At the entrance of the coffee house, 55-60 varieties of bulk beans are available to satisfy your every coffee-bean dream. In addition to regular and decaffeinated blends, they also offer flavored beans, ranging from the popular French Vanilla Nut to the connoisseur's temptation, Chocolate Raspberry. See's private label blend is available in several different varieties.

RYAN GOLD/Daily Nexus

Coffee is the name of the game, and See's really scores.

While the shop is in partnership with the See's family, of See's candy fame, it is no longer related to the chocolate shop as it has been purchased from the family.

Owners Gayla Moore and Betty Brown have created a wonderful coffee house with a light, airy atmosphere that has quickly become a State Street mainstay in their mere 11 months of operation. One of the most appealing qualities of See's is their interior. The clean, white-tiled floors and walls are a far cry from many local java huts. Various works of art are displayed on the walls, and this is to say nothing of the bevy of unusual plants.

See's accommodates the diverse Santa Barbara community with many entertainment options, including almost-nightly live music with folk tunes and Beatles' songs. Also offered are chess and backgammon tournaments, twice-weekly poetry readings, and a resident jazz pianist. Moore would also like to include a comedy night in the near future.

So this weekend, when your caffeine fix is threatening to engulf you, mosey on down to See's Coffee, and you might not ever return.

See's Coffee is located at 1014 State Street in Santa Barbara. Open Mon.-Thurs. 7 a.m.-11 p.m., Fri. 7 a.m.-12 a.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-12 a.m. and Sun. 9 a.m.-11 p.m. Phone 963-8060.

LOCAL COLOR

Ventura Theater

Today, Friday the 8th, the original Circle Jerks are playing at Ventura Theater. The hair has changed but the music hasn't. With his dreads a flappin', Keith Morris will be sure to let you in on how he fees about the world today. Of course, the band will be more than happy to please the crowd with some of their classics. I know this isn't much warning, but gas up the ride and head on out to Ventura.
