Want Great Food? Tacos (R)Acapulco!

It's No Secret Why Locals Flock to What Some Call, "Tacos Auc!"

By Bunyan Valentine

I couldn't finish. I simply didn't have it in me. I'm not usually one to call it quits, but I know when my eyes are bigger than my britches, if you know what I mean ...

The way I figured it, I'd have to walk home in my boxers if I ate one more bite of the pollo asado burrito sitting on the table in front of me, 'cause there was no way I was gonna fit in my jeans.

So I just kind of slumped there in my booth at — where else? — Tacos Acapulco, going "mmmmphmph" whenever conversation turned my way. I was really comfortable.

I noticed the other guys at the table were doing pretty much the same thing, slumping. I just hoped I didn't have the same slow look on my face as they did. They looked ready to hibernate. "Mmmphmph," I said to Tony, who wanted to know if I was going to finish my burrito. "Yeah. No. I don't know. Maybe."

Strewn across the table were four plastic cups, four paper plates, plastic forks and knives, and four empty cups. The plates bore the scrapes and scars you would expect from people who hadn't eaten all day.

There's nothing like waking up at two o'clock on a Saturday, rousting your roommates with the Best of Phil Spector, ignoring the mess in your living room and going straight to Tacos A.

Alex calls it Tacos Rockapulco. Which I think is a pretty good thing. I'm pretty sure we go there more just because he calls it that.

We also go there a lot because they have this juice that tastes like somebody figured out how to wring out a watermelon.

Usually when we go there, though, I can finish my burrito. It was kind of getting to me, lethargic as I was, that I might have to let it go to waste. Or to Tony.

I really wanted to eat it.

I thought about getting a bag from the counter and taking it home, but then I reckoned I'd have to carry the bag with my teeth, seeing as I'd need both hands to support the underside of my bulging stomach as I waddled down the street. So that wouldn't work so well. Besides, I didn't really want to think about it. I just wanted to slump there, mainly. I was Really Comfortable.

"So, you gonna eat that or what," Tony again.

"Yeah. I don't know. Maybe."

"Well, I'll eat it if ..."

"Mmmphmph."

Tony, who has a gullet the size of an Eldorado's gas tank, kept on looking at my burrito. I mean, it was My Burrito. I wanted to eat it. He couldn't have it. The guy behind the counter, who I'm told makes the fastest burrito in the Tri-Counties, made this one just right. He probably did it because he likes me. I go there a lot. It was My Burrito, and Tony couldn't have it.

"Hey if you're just gonna sit there lookin' at it, you know, I'm still sorta ..."

"All right, mmmphmph, all right," I said. It looked good, and I knew I had to eat it. It would've probably been unfair not to.

As it turned out, I didn't actually have to take off my jeans.

But I did undo the top two buttons.

Tacos Acapulco is located at 955 Embarcadero del Mar in Isla Vista. Open 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 a.m. daily. Phone 562-8662.

Photos get blurry when you make burritos in a hurry.

Mellow Zelo ... Not!

Local Hotspot Offers Fine Dining and Sizzling Night Action!

By Agamemnon Zume

Steff definitely aired his reservations about my proposal that we hit Zelo Restaurant and Club for a "pasta night" dinner and whatever else might happen. As Steff most pointedly pointed out, Zelo does have a formidable reputation among Santa Barbarans as one of the hottest night spots around. But dinner? "Yeah! Let's go dancing at Carrows after dinner at Zelo," Steff most facetiously offered in response to my proposal.

Zelo's cooks quickly assuaged Steff's fears, even as the club lived up to its hype.

When we arrived and Steff perused the menu, it became clear that, at least for him, the smoked albacore primavera, served in heaping parmesan portions with fresh spinach, tomatoes, garlic and olives, would be the dinner of choice.

For myself the decision was not so simple. New England crab cakes, peppercorn crusted tri-tip, blackened Alaskan halibut, breast of chicken stuffed with pesto and cous cous and on and on. At the hottest night spot around? You bet! Then my eyes lighted on the pasta special that was undoubtedly for me. Basil chicken fettucine with a garlic cream sauce. Yessir. Straight up.

A bottle of fine Chardonnay from Zelo's extensive list completed a meal of exquisite cuisine.

It was truly one of the best meals I'd had in months, bar none.

With Zelo's popular URGE! Alternative Dance Night Mondays, Honky Tonk Tuesdays, a local band showcase on Wednesdays, modern dance oriented rock format Thursdays. Zelo is truly a club for all seasons, even as it is a restaurant for all reasons. Then comes the weekend!

Fridays are College Night, with a veritable barrage of DJ-induced artery-pumping music and platform dancers, laser light shows, rotating slide projectors, $1 shots and shooters. Staggering! Perhaps literally!

Don't slow down on Saturday, it's Kamikaze night at Zelo, so get there early and greet the masses of revelers who always turn out for this wild evening. I personally have lost more than a few hours blinded by the rising sun of this zaniness.

Sundays, Zelo continues its progressive and popular format with a local gay dance party, rocking 'til the wee hours with yet more music, fun and drinks.

A week-long blitz for anyone who wants everything! URGE! Alternative Dance Night on Monday opens the doors to all 18 and over, and is suitably packed with those who would bask in the black-light hand-painted banners and some of the best drink specials (for those of age) around. The music is industrial and Manchester, and the mood riotous, as new bands make periodic appearances to pump it up even higher.

Tuesday and Wednesday are live bands straight up, the local and California rockabilly acts — including the Rockhouse Rockers, J.D.'s Last Ride and the 8 Balls — saucing the first night, original local bands the next. That means Wednesdays get the Cheddar out and grill it up! Rogue Cheddar, an I.V. favorite, calls Zelo home for a midweek jam.

It should be abundantly clear by now that Zelo knows no limitations. They're as flexible as a slinky and immeasurably louder. It's no coincidence Zelo was voted Santa Barbara's favorite dance club seven years in a row. They've displayed an uncanny ability to rock and roll with the times, changing on a nightly basis to suit all comers, to cover all bases, to hit to all fields, to rock to the left and right, to butter anyone's muffin!

Zelo is located at 630 State Street in Santa Barbara. Dinner is served Tue-Thu and Sun 5:30-9:30 p.m., Fri and Sat 5:30-10 p.m. Nightclub to the wee hours. Phone 966-5792.

Dining in Paradise

Great Food at a Great Price Makes a Great Pair(adise)!

By Gutch Nice

Paradise. That's where it's at, they say. Perfection. It's where everything goes right and nothing goes wrong. What's more, it's not very far away.

I found it in downtown Santa Barbara, at a cafe — Paradise Cafe. See, it's not just another catchy name. They didn't just choose it because it's cute or because they thought they might trick people into thinking it was really great.

They chose the name Paradise because that's what they had in mind for their little eatery. A restaurant that's comfortable, tasty and nearly perfect. Can you believe it? I can. I was there. I had the food, drank the wine, talked with the waiters and the waitresses and let me tell you, they do it all well.

Right when I sat down, for example, I started scouring their wine list because I knew they had a huge selection and I had a taste for a little red. So I asked my waitress about the reds.

Should I get a Cabernet? A Merlot? I wasn't sure. My tongue knew what it wanted to taste but it didn't how to get it.

So my waitress told me flat out, with no attitude or anything — none of this god-your-the-dumbest-customer-I-think-I've-ever-had-the-misfortune-to-wait-on stuff — that she wasn't the best expert on red wines in the restaurant. But she said she knew who I needed to talk to. In an instant this really friendly guy comes over and introduces himself. He listened to what I wanted and brought me out a free glass of a Zinfandel that he thought I might like. Not only was the wine perfect, but his counsel on the matter was easygoing and informed. That's Paradise. No trouble, no hassles, just exactly what you want.

That's how they are about the food too, except they're even better at that. My guest and I decided we wanted to order a chicken pasta dish and a filet mignon and then split them up between us. We wanted the best of both worlds.

Thinking we'd have to just order the two dishes and divvy them up ourselves, we were pleased to discover that the cook neatly prepared a mix of the two dishes on two platters. Perfect. At Paradise they just don't play it any other way.

And it's exactly this kind of flawless service that makes you so happy in Paradise. No matter how ugly you feel when you walk in the door, Paradise Cafe takes no time flat to get you all unwound. You feel like a little baby again being pampered by the whole family. Yes, you start to feel decadent in the very best of ways.

It's not just the service or the surroundings — which are elegant and invitingly cozy — that make you so happy when you're there. I'll tell you something, if you still aren't happy at first, once the food arrives you will be in heaven without a second thought — guaranteed. Unlike so many other places, the food at Paradise is the kind that makes you feel like someone in the kitchen really cared about what they were doing. Seeing, smelling and tasting these generous platters evokes images of a chef in one of those fancy snow-white hats, painstakingly preparing your dinner like Michelangelo upside down at the Sistine Chapel. Amen.

I'm telling you this dinner was so delectable I didn't want it to end. A filet as tender as butter in the summertime and with flavor that should convert the most ardent vegetarian. And Linguine saturated in pesto and olive oil with big, tender chunks of chicken thrown in the midst. It was almost too much to bear. Exquisite. Perfect. Paradise.

By the end of the dinner, which came at our own, relaxed pace, we sat longer just sipping the spectacular remains of the Zinfandel, talking and smiling inexplicably. When the bill arrived I felt like I do after negotiating a really good deal. It was a steal, I thought. I could have paid twice as much for half the quality I enjoyed there. That's just they way they do things at Paradise. Perfect.

Paradise Cafe is located at 702 Anacapa Street in Santa Barbara. Open Mon-Sat 11 a.m.-11 p.m., Sun 8:30-11 p.m. Phone 962-4416.

Delicious Moonangel

Moonangel Comes Through With a Real Fine Dining Alternative!

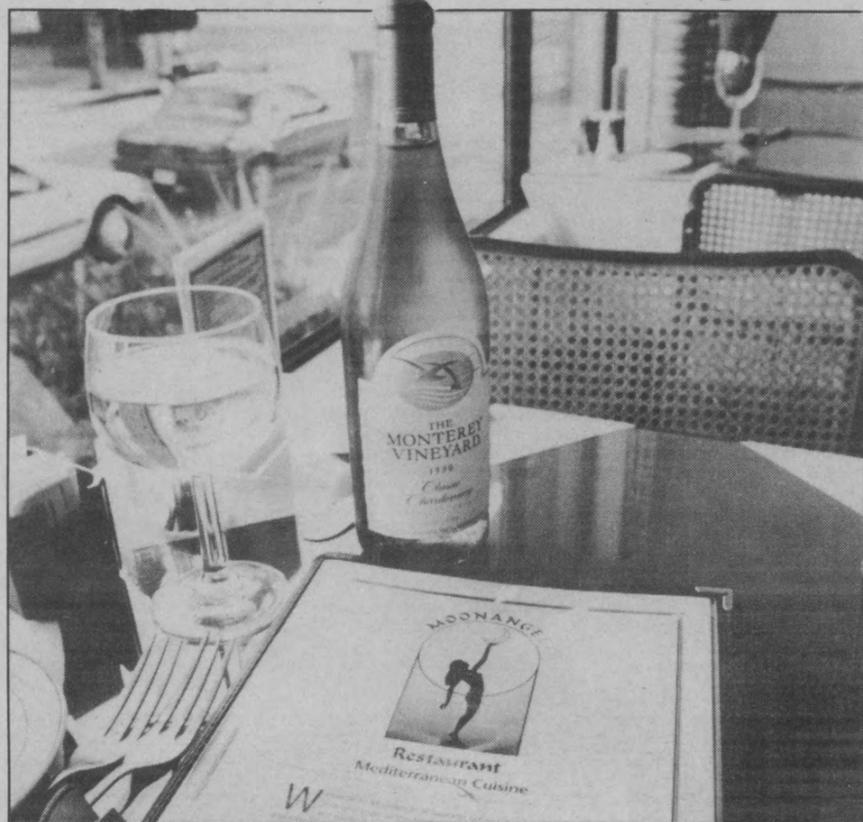

By Stephen Lynne-Bachelor

In the writing of this review, I looked up "Moonangel" in the dictionary, as is customary. When I saw it wasn't there, I chuckled quietly to myself and thought, That's just like Moonangel... defying classification is part of their appeal... and I like that just fine.

Yeah, it would be hard to put Moonangel in the dictionary, because then you'd have to define it, and defining Moonangel would be nearly impossible, and that's why it would be hard.

It might start out easy enough: "MOONANGEL (Mun-ayhn-zjel) n. a. A popular restaurant in downtown Santa Barbara," and then it would get tricky. "b. Serving authentic Turkish and Mediterranean cuisine with a slight French feel and a darling little potato soup with overt curry references and these vegetables with champagne — oh and the RATATOUILLE! ..." and then you'd start babbling.

It's just that Moonangel is so specific in its food choices and so general in its themes that you end up baffled by the harmony of it all. These guys are food professionals. The chef is not named "Cookie." The waiter does not wave the Koffee King pot menacingly over the table and say, "warm that up for you, hon?" You do not tell them, "Hold the pickles, Wim!" What you do is go in, sit down and enjoy a meal crafted, prepared and

Your table is ready! Sit! Enjoy!

Anaconda

Well, another quarter is underway, and along with it comes plenty of stress. What better way is there to ease the pressure than a good night of comedy. We're in luck. Sam Kinison will be taking the stage at the Anaconda on Thursday, January 23. Although the I.V. club has temporarily lost its liquor license, it still has plenty of good entertainment and will hopefully have a beer and wine permit by the end of the month. Don't turn your back on the Anaconda now, support it!
