World Crisis TALK TODAY

Prof. Waldoer Westergard, professor of history at the University of California, will speak on "Scandinavia and the World" at 4 p.m. today in Fiji Hall 100 on the Riviera campus of Santa Barbara College.

The lecture, which is open to the public without charge, is a part of the series of guest lecturers which bring to Santa Barbara College teachers of different countries and subjects of current interest. It is a presentation of the Santa Barbara College Committee on Drama, Lectures, and Music of Santa Barbara College.

Under the direction of Dr. J. Popper, an English version of the opera has been streamlined. The cast has been reduced to the roles of the six principal singers, and the repetitious passages and dialogue have been discarded. This English adaptation carries the title, "The War Women." The program has generally agreed on the high quality of entertainment afforded in this gay comedy, music of Gilbert Godfere the third, and the performance, under the attempt at expressing the "impossible joy of understanding." The critics which commented on the opening night in rehearsal earlier this week, Witty, admired and sparkled the tone of the Mildred of the Los Angeles Times.

Professor Frankenstein of the San Francisco Chronicle called the opera "the opera danced and sung and enacted its cynical table with the highest quality that can be expected to employ the most ethereal of Mozart's musics.

SANTA BARBARA, CALIFORNIA, DECEMBER 3, 1948 No. 21
El Gaucho has been attempting, by way of telegram and letters to Berkeley, to obtain a block of tickets for the Rose Bowl game between California and Northwestern to be played on Jan. 1.

The response to our request has been a negative one. Berkeley regrets that it does not have enough tickets to warrant sending the university's intercollegiate teams in the Rose Bowl.

We, of course, are aware of the large enrollment at the University of California and the demand for seats, but every fan of Santa Barbara College and UCLA players is entitled to hope that they will be able to attend the game.

The All-Campus Weekend started a precedent in close relationship which can be retained only if the "brotherly" feeling is practised all year and not for a brief three or four days only.

We did not ask Berkeley for enough tickets to accommodate all the Santa Barbara College and UCLA members of this stage crew, for we felt that artists are artists because they are artists and not because they are members of this stage crew if they are not going to use their talents.
