County to Isla Vista Dog Owners: Tie 'em Up

By Tom Flagg

Beginning Nov. 17, Santa Barbara Animal Control will enforce the "leash law" in Isla Vista.

A law currently on the books requires that all dogs in the county be kept "secured by an adequate leash or lead ... and under the immediate control of a responsible person ..." or confined on the owner's property.

For the last eight months the law has not been enforced in I.V., but an increase in complaints has led the county to crack down. According to Yoni Harris, of the I.V. Animal Welfare Commission, the views of most I.V. residents have traditionally differed from those of County Animal Control officials on the subject of leash laws.

County officials and representatives of I.V. came to an unofficial agreement in early 1974 whereby leash laws would be enforced in I.V.'s R-1 District and in the area of Isla Vista School, but largely ignored in the remainder of I.V., except in the case of "problem dogs." The action was mediated by Supervisor Jim Slater's office.

I.V. SUPERVISION

There was no real means of instituting this policy until compromise agreement.

Harris said, "A lot of people are pleased with the way animal control is being handled now. It's only the pissed-off people who call the county. They (county officials) never hear from the people who are pleased."

"It's impossible to enforce a leash law in I.V., because there are no yards to keep dogs in," Harris added. "Whenever the (Cont. on p. 8, col. 1)

Springsteen Concert A Sell-Out; Show Supercharges Crowd

Mitch Ryder Medley— A Momentum Builder

Saturday night, November 1, Bruce Springsteen performed in front of a sell-out Robertson Gym audience. The event was probably the finest concert sponsored by A.S. in the last four years. Even the NES managed to stay within the thin shadow of reason with only one arrest. A.S. Concerts had added chairs on the floor. The contextual elements were flawless, and when mixed with the catalytic magic of Springsteen, the product was a moving musical experience.

The show opened with a backlit form hunched over a harmonica — it was Springsteen beginning the energy climb that would build for the next three hours ... non-stop. Springsteen belted out "Thunder Road" with Roy Bittan on back-up before the balance of the band took the stage. With the notable additions of David Sancious on organ and "Miami" Steve Van Zandt on guitar and back-up vocals, it was the same core members that had cut the latest release "Born to Run": Clarence Clemons on saxophone, Gary Tallent on bass guitar, "Mighty" Max Weinberg on drums and Roy Bittan on piano.

It's difficult to describe the energy of Springsteen, very difficult ... catapulting himself off the stage, into the audience and back onto the stage to hit the second chorus ... pouring his heart into the microphone, veins swelled on his forehead, hemorrhaging every internal organ. The guiding power of the lead singer can be seen in his incredible ability to catch up the trailing ends of his lyrics with a unifying refrain — saving the poetic structure like catching water in his hands.

But the band is a machine, an interrelated gestalt of parts that function as a unit ... controlled power. Clemons' sax hit hard and fast like a Mack truck, Weinberg feeding the machine with power, sending currents of energy rippling down the spines of the complementing musicians. One is tempted to see the gleaming lustre of a 1955 Chevy embodied in a sax, bass, drums, and piano, powered by the life-blood of Springsteen ... "Chrome-wheeled, fuel-injected and Steppin' out over the line."

But always in control. The precision in mixing and the careful use of voice boxes kept the machine tuned to perfection.

Building on the crowd's energy, the unit roared through "Tenth Avenue Freeze-out" and into "Jungleland," complemented by a barrage of neon-like back-lighting. Time flowed on and into an incredible medley of Mitch Ryder tunes: "Devil with the Blue Dress On," "Good Golly Miss Molly," "See, See Rider," and "Jenny Won't You Come Along With Me," — a convoluted web of sound and movement.

Glancing up from the floor during a frenzied version of "Born to Run," I lifted my eyes up into the grandstands and witnessed the spectacle of pulsating empathy sweeping across the faces, waiting for direction. There was, in those expressions, the kind of energy that demolished structures in 1970 ... terrifying.

All those minds mesmerized by the dancing figure on the stage below, drawn into the spell.

Lead on Springsteen ... Lead on.

ROCK AND ROLL returned to Rob Gym Saturday night as Bruce Springsteen gave a dynamite performance.

International Women's Meeting Delegates Emphasize Conference's Humanistic Goals

By Debbie Morrison

Four speakers from this summer's International Women's Conference in Mexico City met on campus to discuss their impressions and implications as part of the "Alice Doesn't Day" functions. The event was sponsored by the Center for Continuing Education of Women.

Keynote speaker Dorothy Nelson, Dean of the University of Southern California (USC) Law Center, spoke on her experiences in what she termed the "first truly international women's conference in the world," where delegates from 130 countries met.

Other guest speakers included Marilyn Brewer, Associate Professor of the Psychology Department; Yolanda Graza, Assistant Dean, Educational Opportunity Program; and Myrtle Blum, Director of the Center for Continuing Education of Women, who was spokesperson of the meeting. All three attended the tribute, a secondary aspect of the conference, which was held in the main Medical Center in Mexico City, and in a series of meetings held all over the city.

ENCOUNTERS

All four speakers emphasized that most of the important interaction happened in private encounters, rather than the public, political confrontations of the conference. Nelson maintained that they had assembled here at Santa Barbara because the conference in Mexico

City had been "inadequately and sometimes jeeringly covered in the press."

In her opinion, they had missed what was actually happening at the conference, which was "a recognition of the ultimate goals of humanity ... not just equal pay for equal work, but world peace, international order and like justice throughout."

According to Nelson, education of women is an extremely important means to that goal. She told of her humorous expedition on the way to see Mrs. Sadat in Cairo, including a tour of the Egyptian pyramids by camel-back. When she got there, after convincing Sadat that she was not a wild American feminist because she, too, loved her husband and family, they were able to personally discuss and agree on the importance of education. She found that Sadat was going back to school, after dropping out in order to get married, as an example to women in her country.

EDUCATION

According to Nelson, the custom of Egypt, as with many other developing countries, is for the girls not to attend school at all, or only for a short time. She emphasized that it is important to "educate the girl first, as she, as the mother, is the main teacher of the children ... one half of the children in the world don't go to a school of any kind."

THOUSANDS OF MOROCCANS lined the streets of Agadir to welcome the King, screaming his praise in an outburst of nationalistic fervor. "The Sahara is ours," they yelled. "Long live King Hassan who gave us back our Sahara."

Several dozen trucks and buses filled with volunteers en route to the Spanish Sahara border were lined up by the side of the road as the King's convoy entered Agadir. The volunteers, though visibly fatigued by at least three days of uncomfortable traveling, gave the King the loudest welcome of all.

Meanwhile, Spanish officials at the United Nations warned privately that Spain had toughened its position in the Sahara dispute and was prepared to move its army against any Moroccan invaders.

THE U.N. SECURITY COUNCIL unanimously urged Sunday that all parties in the Spanish Sahara dispute avoid any action that might further escalate tension in the area. Spanish officials warned that Spain would use "all means at its disposal" to stop the planned march of 350,000 Moroccan civilians into the territory.

The council president for November, Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik, put the resolution before the other 14 Security Council members and declared it was adopted when no objections were raised. Spain had asked for the special meeting to stop the march.

In Agadir, Moroccan King Hassan will not halt his "March of Conquest" unless Spain publicly recognizes Moroccan sovereignty over the territory. Sources said that Hassan will order the march to continue regardless of any United Nations decision.

Meanwhile, Spain's new leader, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, has rushed to the Spanish Sahara amid growing fears of a military confrontation with Morocco in the desert territory.

RICHARD ALATORRE, California Democratic Assemblyman, says immigration officials have "deliberately initiated and magnified the 'illegal alien problem' for the purpose of inflaming public opinion."

Alatorre made his comments at a National Conference of Democratic Spanish surnamed elected officials in Washington, D.C.

According to Alatorre, "the campaign by officials of the immigration and naturalization service to inflame public opinion about the illegal alien question is designed to ensure Congressional passage of an alien control law by Representative Peter Rodino of New Jersey. He labeled the measure "one of the most racist bills ever introduced into the House."

PRESIDENT FORD, Secretary of State Kissinger and President Sadat of Egypt are in Jacksonville, Florida on Sunday. They are to discuss the deteriorating situation in Lebanon and the pending sale of two nuclear reactors to Egypt. Sadat's nation will pay for the reactors out of the 750 million dollars in economic aid Ford has requested of Congress.

Ford was meeting Sadat at the home of the President of Charter Oil, Raymond Mason.

ISLA VISTA

VOTE "NO" on MILLION DOLLAR I.V. BOND BURDEN • NOV. 4th ELECTION

WE OPPOSE PARK BOND PROPOSITION "D"

WE ARE AGAINST BOND MEASURE "D" for many reasons among them the fact that only three of the five Directors voted in favor of the issue of $1,150,000 ... 100% of the District's legal bonding capability. With that total, the District will be unable to float bonds, when needed, for years to come.

ISLA VISTA property owners are already paying taxes on two Bond Issues: Roads and Sewers. Why add another?

LET'S NOT SADDLE the I.V. Community with tax payments on Park Bonds that will run for 25 years and accrue $2,500,000 costs! This tax burden falls heaviest on homeowners, next on duplex owners, while multiple/apartments may pass on the increase to their renters. What with inescapable inflation, WHY RAISE RENTS WITH BOND ISSUE "D"?

OPENSOURCE? CHEAP LEAND? Who's kidding who? No vacant lots now can be built upon, anyway, until the water moratorium is lifted (a long time off at best). No vacant land will go cheap if there's a Bigtime buyer in the market. What about openspace all around us: the beach, Devereaux, UCSB campus, the fields to the north?

WE ARE NOT AGAINST PARKS per se, but we don't need a million dollar's worth. The 3 Board members who voted for resubmission of the measure blew it. Had they been reasonable and opted for recommended half-million, there would have been no opposition, and we could acquire the prime park areas.

READ THE BALLOT MEASURE CAREFULLY. "D": "... lands and/or but not limited ... " How far is the District obligated to acquire parks? Acutally? It's questionable, indeed. A political goodie grab-bag.

DONT SOAK the homeowners, duplex owners, sororities and fraternities with higher taxes ... by voting for the Bonds.

AS A RESULT OF THE PRESENT high Park taxes, residents of the R-1 (residential area on west side) have applied for detachment from the Park District. This pull-out would further reduce Park revenue.

LASTLY, BOND MEASURE "D" is impractical, extravagant and unrealistic. It should be defeated on Tuesday, Nov. 4th. Vote "NO" on "D".

* Do not confuse two Goleta Water Bond Propositions on your Ballot. The two Goleta issues are designated "A" and "B".

The Isla Vista Recreation and Park District Special Election Bond Measure is designated "D".

VOTE YES ON PROP. 'D'

PLEASE, LET'S SAVE WHAT'S LEFT OF OF IV'S OPEN SPACE

The water moratorium could end at any time, putting IV's remaining vacant land at the mercy of the developers.

The passage of Proposition D would -

- Allow the IV Park District to buy approximately 1/3 of the remaining open space and thus insure it would not be built on.
- Provide the community with land for agriculture or parks or land to be left as is - vacant.
- Cost tenants less than $1/mo. in increased taxes - a small price for breathing room.

OUR ISLA VISTA VOTE IS CRUCIAL IN DETERMINING THE FUTURE OF THE GOLETA VALLEY

THE CHOICE IS CLEAR: The 3 environmental incumbents - Sherman, Martinez, and Wyner - are being challenged by a developer, vested-interest backed slate. At-Large Five candidates are running for three At-Large positions on the Isla Vista Community Council. Of the five, there are three whom we feel are especially qualified to serve on IVCC: Cindy Wachter, David Hoskinson, and Walt Wilson.

Cindy Wachter and David Hoskinson have both served on Council for the past year, and have gained invaluable experience in dealing with the problems and hopes of the community.

Wachter has acted as one of the community spokespersons to the county and LAFCO, and has gained respect from many different officials. Wachter is co-coordinator of the incorporation campaign, handling external affairs. She has previously worked on redistricting Isla Vista since the Exxon election to alleviate balloting problems. Cindy Wachter has devoted endless energy to the Isla Vista community.

David Hoskinson is the internal coordinator of the incorporation campaign, and is active in many community organizations such as the Park District. Hoskinson has dealt with county officials, and is presently pursuing alternative sources of funding for the IVCC. He would like to see the community have the alternative of voting on Isla Vista incorporation.

Walt Wilson has been involved in the Isla Vista community for a number of years, and would be a valuable new addition to the Council. He has observed the community from a number of different perspectives, and experience in many different fields.

We urge support for Wachter, Hoskinson, and Wilson in the upcoming IVCC election. Please vote.

District 5

There are two candidates running for this position. Unfortunately, only one of the candidates showed up at the scheduled interviews. The Nexus is unable to make an endorsement for this race.

District 6

District 6 encompasses the dorms on campus. Only one candidate is running for this position, Frank Thompson. To encourage campus representation on the Isla Vista Community Council, we urge support for this candidate.

Watering I.V. Parks

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I feel it is necessary to respond to the erroneous statement contained in the "Weaver, Hove & Paul for Water Board" ad (Daily Nexus, October, 31, 1975). The ad states "No water for I.V. parks." This is not true. The I.V. Recreation and Park District has designed its two currently being developed parks — Madrid Park and Children's Park — to be self-sufficient in water needs. Drought tolerant vegetation particularly suited to the climate and soil of the Isla Vista-UCSB mesa will be used for park landscaping.

At Madrid Park, a rainwater cistern pond collection system is being employed which will enable water to be collected from the entire park surface. In addition, pond inlets are being constructed at both the Embarcaderos to collect rain run-off from these two streets.

At the Children's Park, a rainwater collection system is to be employed, using rainwater from an adjacent apartment complex roof. The water will be collected in an above-grade cistern tank.

Both park water collection systems are being employed in direct response to the need to begin living within the limits of our local natural water resources, rather than perpetuating the waste of unused local rainwater and the resultant need to pay for uneconomical water importation costs. Of course, many of us realize the inevitability of significant urban growth that would be made possible by imported water of the magnitude of the state water project connection to this County, and the resultant economic justification for such growth in lowering the presently exorbitant per capita cost of such water.

The foregoing opinion is my understanding of the position of the majority of our District's directors who have decided in favor of the employment of these rainwater collection systems for our parks.

I would also like to add that the Water District has permitted the Park District to use temporary water meter service for these two parks which will help insure sufficient water for establishing park landscaping when water need is highest.

The water has been made available on a first-come, first-serve basis to water users who would not be endangered in any substantial way by the shut-off of these temporary meters. That is to say, this water is not available to a new residential development, for example, where a reliable drinkable water source is essential for health and safety reasons. The water for these temporary meters comes from an unused safety margin the Water District must have in order to account for variances in rainfall and water demand from year to year.

I hope the above information will dispell the misleading absolute that there is "no water for I.V. parks."

Carter W. Ray
General Manager, I.V. Park District

'Amidst Bleak Apartments'

Editor, Daily Nexus:

At last we have a clear cut political path to follow, one that will be inexpensive and yet in line with our environmental conscience. On this Tuesday, Nov. 4, Isla Vista residents will hopefully vote yes on Proposition D, the Park Bonds of the I.V. Parks and Recreation District. Our collective yes-vote on this proposition will empower the Parks District to "float" bonds for a 1.15 million dollar maximum, to purchase, for community-directed use and development, almost one-third of the open space in Isla Vista. By unanimous decision of its 36 members, Ecology Action voted to endorse Proposition D for the following reasons.

First of all, it will insure the community of always having a stronghold of greenery amidst bleak apartments, be it in the form of parks, gardens, or in its natural state, preserving the ecological food chain and thus the wildlife of our community, not to mention the incalculable good it would do to our atmosphere and civic pride.

Secondly, the price and time are right.

"AH, SUCH A BEAUTIFUL AUTUMN EVENING— THE MOON, THE FALLING LEAVES, THE TWILIGHT, THE CITY SKYLINE BEYOND THE RIVER, THE BOMBS GOING OFF..."

Because of the water moratorium, development is at a standstill, and thus the cost of land in I.V. is at an all time low. This, coupled with the reality of a monthly increase in rent of only 57-76 cents per renter, shows the bond to be financially desirable. But it is also urgent. Big money interests are threatening, by challenging the incumbents of the Goleta Water Board, to lift the moratorium and thus submit Isla Vista to out-of-control apartment-raising. Our town would sag and suffocate under the strain and pollution of more cars, noise, and people. No one wants that.

We need community control of open space in Isla Vista. A "YES" vote on Proposition D will give us just that. It is both timely and economical, as well as environmentally urgent. Now is the time to act boldly out of love for our home. Vote YES on D!!

Anti-Irresponsibility

Editor, Daily Nexus:

This is in reference to Mr. Roger Keeling's article "Slipping back into the peaceful atom" in the Oct. 24, 1975 issue. The third paragraph of his article contains this remarkable statement: "The initiative (nuclear safeguards) is not anti-nuclear power; it is anti-irresponsibility." The first half of that statement reminds me of a sign in a Barbary Coast saloon: "Your credit is good if you are over 75 and accompanied by your parents." Mr. Keeling admits that much at the end of his article, when he claims that the passage of the initiative will result in the building of major solar plants within five years.

That brings us to the second part of his statement about being "anti-irresponsibility." A responsible discussion of the nuclear moratorium should include these considerations:

1. By the year 2000 we will require more energy because of 30 million additional jobs,
2. By the year 2000 we will require more energy because of 30 million additional dwellings,
3. By the year 2000 our oil and gas production (supplying about 65 percent of our present energy needs) will be greatly reduced,
4. Less than 10 percent of our energy requirements by the year 2000 can be supplied by solar, geothermal, wind, tide, ocean thermal, biomass, waste, and hot air sources,
5. The societal effects of rising unemployment and declining living standards caused by energy shortage.

Peace Corps, Vista Recruitment Begins Today On Campus

A choice of over 4,000 Peace Corps assignments will be open to graduating seniors as Santa Barbara area recruitment begins today on campus.

New volunteers will be needed after January 1 to fill vacancies in 68 developing countries and over 700 low-income communities in this country, according to Gayle Hawkins, a former VISTA volunteer.

Hawkins describes the two years overseas with Peace Corps or one year VISTA assignments as career "sounding boards" for seniors with academic backgrounds in biology, mathematics, science or education. Economics, social science, engineering majors and seniors with classroom credits in English and French language will also be sought during the five day volunteer drive located at an information and application booth in front of the UCen from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and in the placement office beginning at 9 a.m. each day.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Hawkins reported that a poor job market for recent university graduates has produced a 30 percent increase in Southern California area applications for Peace Corps and VISTA over last year. Santa Barbara County unemployment figures indicate an "overwhelming" number of recent college seniors on the roles, Ms. Hawkins added.

Hawkins said that Peace Corps inquiries to various Southern California businesses, mostly in the Los Angeles area, have pointed to increasing industry interest in returning volunteers as prospective employees. "Language training, the knowledge of customs and cultures in other countries makes the Peace Corps volunteer attractive to employers with international business interests."

The major occupation of Peace Corps engineers, teachers, biologists and others is to train overseas counterparts who can instruct others after the volunteers return home, explained Hawkins, who listed programs in Kenya, the Eastern Caribbean, Malaysia, Ecuador,

Congress To Audit IRS

Congress wants to audit the IRS. By a voice vote, the House recently passed a bill authorizing the General Accounting Office, Congress' investigative arm, to audit the operations of the Internal Revenue Service, "The world's largest collection agency."

"The IRS employs 80,000 people," said Congressman Bob Lagomarsino (R-Ojai), one of those who voted for the bill. "These people collect billions of dollars of revenue every year and have immense powers. It's inconceivable that such an important agency should be immune from review by Congress."

The IRS had contended during Congressional hearings that it was exempt from GAO procedures, because of the confidential nature of tax returns.

The House bill, while safeguarding the confidentiality of returns, allows the GAO to audit the management activities and operations of the IRS and its sister agency, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, & Firearms.

The bill provides penalties for disclosure of confidential tax information and also states that audit findings will not retroactively affect tax rulings made by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Flying is exciting... especially if you're at the controls. Why fly Navy? Because you're involved with the sea as well as the sky. Our Naval Aviation Program starts with the real down-to-earth basics of flight. Then... intensive flight training for multi-engine aircraft, jets or helicopters. As a Naval Aviator (Pilot), you'll train in jets and prop aircraft. You'll solo and land on an aircraft carrier. As a Naval Flight Officer (NFO), you'll learn aviation electronics, nuclear weapons, navigation, etc. You and the pilot work as a team. It's tough, but when you get your Navy Wings of Gold, you'll know it's worth it... because then, you're someone special.

county tries to enforce those laws here, it causes lots of problems and hostilities. I'm sorry they (the county) haven't learned their lesson."

Concerning his position on enforcing the leash law in I.V., present I.V. dog catcher Hoskinson said yesterday, "If instructed to enforce a leash law by my superiors, I obviously could not continue in my position as a county employee without following their directives." He wouldn't commit himself to enforcing the leash law or to leaving the position.

Women

Brewer, the second speaker, emphasized the importance of the "unifying themes of the conference." Women from different places could agree that there were too few women in places of authority and power. Women could not agree on the ways to go about changing this because they came from different starting places.

"The reason women are needed in positions of power is because we're here," Brewer emphasized.

Garza spoke on the Chicano experience at the conference. She was able to participate as "part of an industrialized nation, and also as part of the third world."

Third World delegates were apprehensive, Garza explained, that the movement would merely "replace white men with white women ... the same system, the same oppression."

National Record Set For G.I. Bill Trainees

A national record of 2,691,566 persons were trained under the G.I. Bill during fiscal year (FY) 1975 and projections indicate the number will exceed three million persons in this fiscal year, according to John G. Miller, Director of the Veterans Administration's Los Angeles Regional Office. The FY 1975 figures represented a 14 percent increase over FY 1974.

Miller said 160,000 veterans, eligible dependents and survivors trained in the Los Angeles area during FY '75, with an anticipated enrollment of 180,000 by the end of FY 1976.

The current G.I. Bill entered its 10th year on June 1. Participation rates have exceeded those under either of its two predecessors. Some 4.5 million of the 7.6 million eligible Vietnam Era veterans nationwide have used G.I. Bill benefits, about 60 percent.

Miller says the VA attributes the current surge in participation to increased educational assistance allowances enacted under the Vietnam Era Readjustment Act of 1974.

A special outreach effort has been started by the VA to urge 94,000 eligible women veterans who have not used their G.I. Bill benefits. Deadline for completion of training is May 31, 1976, or 10 years from the veteran's date of discharge, whichever is later. Only 46 percent of the 174,000 eligible women veterans have trained under the current G.I. Bill.

Among those 80,000 women who have used the current bill, some may be eligible for a special retroactive payment. Women veterans who were married and who attended school under the G.I. Bill between June 1, 1966, and October 24, 1972, may be eligible for about $30 for each month they were in training while married.
