Rally Protests UCSB Enrollment Increases

By Drew Robbins

Bill Wallace, Third District Supervisor-elect, blasted the UCSB Administration yesterday for their "lack of concern and sensitivity" in dealing with increased enrollment.

Speaking at a Storke Plaza rally sponsored by IVCC and Praxis, Wallace and Praxis members Dave Stafford and Ann Davis addressed a crowd of about 50 students. The main thrust of their talk was the effect of increased enrollment on the housing in Isla Vista.

Davis, also a Leg Council member, led off the rally by giving background information on enrollment at UCSB. "Enrollment has been increasing ever since 1972," she explained. "This year the increase was only 70 people, but you've got to remember that for each student there will be 1.1 more people on the South Coast," Davis said, explaining the "multiplier effect" which figures a 1.1 increase in South Coast residents to provide products and services for each additional UCSB student.

Davis went on to cite a government survey conducted at Berkeley two years ago. "The survey found that there should be over a five percent vacancy rate, anything less is an emergency situation," Davis noted. "The latest figures for I.V. show a one percent vacancy rate."

"Another important thing to keep in mind is that enrollment has gone up 20 percent since the water moratorium," Davis reported. "That means another 5,000 people on the South Coast."

Wallace spoke more specifically on the pressures of increased enrollment. "I question the inability of the UC system to reduce enrollment here at UCSB," he said. "At Berkeley and Los Angeles they manage to cut enrollment when they want," he continued. "But here they don't seem to be able to make a dent in the number of students."

"The University is the greatest growth inducer on the South Coast," Wallace said, claiming that the increased enrollment is a major cause of rent increases throughout the area.

"With the ordinary supply and demand forces at work, prices have been forced way up," Wallace argued. "It's the combination of increased enrollment and the water moratorium that's putting the pressure on rent prices."

Wallace charged that one of the effects of the housing shortage and rent hikes was the relocation of residents. "It's

Berkeley Judge Grants Four Students Right To File In Possessory Tax Case

By Claude Ruibal

Superior Court Judge Harold Hove allowed four students from UC Berkeley to be represented in a class action suit that will decide whether Alameda County can collect property taxes from students who are residents in University-owned housing.

The suit challenges county attempts to enforce a 1866 state tax law. It calls for anyone who benefits from the use of state-owned tax exempt property to pay a possessory tax to the county. This could allow the county to collect taxes from students who live in University residences.

Married Berkeley students who now live in University housing are currently subject to payment of the possessory tax. Individuals are subject to a possessory tax if they possess or hold exclusive rights on public tax exempt land.

Early this year the Alameda County Board of Supervisors ruled that the tax applied to occupants of student housing.

Residents of the University's married student housing complexes received possessory tax bills on July 1. Yet the residents won a temporary injunction in late August which halted the collection of the tax until September 10. On September 22, Alameda Superior Court Judge George Phillip Jr. ruled that the residents would have to pay their bills and any penalty which may have accrued since the deadline payment of August 31.

This action prompted the Associated Students at UC Berkeley (ASUC) to sponsor the class-action suit to stop the Alameda County assessor from applying the tax to all residents of University housing.

Currently UCB has asked student governments from all the UC campuses to donate money to help pay the financial costs involved in the suit. Initially the students sought the help of the University's General Counsel to bring their case to court. General Counsel refused to proceed with the suit in the manner the students desired. Consequently, the student government hired their own counsel and the estimated cost of the litigation is $6,000.

Administrative Vice President Jeff Bornstein of ASUC stated, "The case has statewide significance since it will be the first of its kind." ASUCSB Executive Vice President Paul Pooley agreed, "The State Equalization Board could perhaps mandate the tax statewide if Berkeley were to lose its test case." These implications have prompted UCB to ask UCSB Leg Council to donate $1,000 to help pay the legal fees.

Currently, the Residence Hall Association (RHA) is attempting to raise money for the legal fund. RHA members hope that Leg Council will match the amount they collect.

If the suit is lost, students living in University owned housing could become subjected to annual bills of between $35 to $125.

Some students feel the county should be allowed to tax the students. According to Praxis member Howard Dyck, "The dorms are heavily subsidized by the state which lowers the rentals prices."

Crowd Gathers for 'Celebration of Whales'

By Scott Spiro

Over 14,000 people joined Governor Jerry Brown Saturday afternoon in a California "celebration of the whales," to direct attention to the killing of the marine mammals by Japanese and Russian industries.

"If you want to save something," said Brown, who sponsored the event, "a good way to do it is to celebrate it."

Held at the Sacramento Memorial Auditorium, the day-long event featured exhibits, lectures, films and entertainment by several pop artists including Joni Mitchell, Country Joe MacDonald, John Sebastian and Fred Neil.

A poetry reading by Pulitzer Prize winner Gary Snyder was followed by the showing of the film "The Great Right Whales," a documentary on the life of the endangered species, still hunted by about 14 nations.

Also appearing was Dr. Paul Strong of the Canadian "Greenpeace" foundation which has led efforts to save the whale from extinction. Strong's address was preceded by Stan Minassian's Emmy award winning film, "Last Days of the Dolphins."

The cost of the Sacramento gathering was estimated at $16,000, provided in full by contributions.

Celebration contributors included Dow Chemicals and Macy's Department Stores who donated several thousand dollars.

In addition, Honda, Toyota and Datsun, three major firms who have been targets of the ban on Japanese goods, put up $500 apiece.

Brown was warmly received by the audience who paid $4 each to attend the evening's festivities.

"As mammals, their survival is somewhat symbolic of our own," Brown said Saturday to the whale enthusiasts.

"We are taking this day where people who are interested in whales can celebrate them through music, talk, discussion and films," Brown said, adding that when Californians assemble in support of the whale, "other people are watching."

'Entrapment' not a Problem for S.B. Law Enforcement Officials

By Steve Maurer

Entrapment is a "routine" defense used in most narcotics cases, said Deputy District Attorney Bill Poulis yesterday.

Calling entrapment a "last straw defense," Poulis said that he could recall "no case of police entrapment." Santa Barbara Police Captain Bill Christensen agreed, saying that he did not know of any valid cases of entrapment within the department.

Christensen said that this lack of cases of entrapment is due in part to Santa Barbara's "different style of narcotics enforcement." He explained that the County Narcotics Task Force concentrated on "the arrests of users of narcotics rather than the 'buyer program.'" The "buyer program" is an approach where undercover agents pose as drug buyers and arrest the drug distributors at the time of sale.

Poulis said that in buyer-seller cases, "entrapment would be an effective defense because in the state court we can't introduce background information which could prove the inclination of the defendant to commit the crime."

Poulis added, "When the jurors hear the accusation of entrapment," they may react in a way which would be "helpful to the defense," though the jury might not be swayed if prosecutors could introduce a defendant's prior record.

Christensen said that "arresting users, rather than the sellers, provides no occasion for the charge of entrapment." He stressed that entrapment was not a serious problem, contending "our officers are trained on the correct way of making an arrest."

The average officer has "too much work already," said Christensen. "Why should he go out and make additional work?"

"Entrapment takes something more than just providing an opportunity to a person inclined to commit a crime," explained Poulis.

Police entrapment, said Christensen, would "coerce someone (to commit a crime) who wouldn't normally commit the crime in question."

The Federal Supreme Court

ruled last April that if a person has a "predisposition" to commit a crime, it would be very difficult for the person to claim the defense of entrapment successfully. Aryeh Neier, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, said that under this ruling, "if anyone does anything, you can say there must have been a predisposition."

Christensen said, "There are a lot of guidelines" in the police manual concerning undercover operations. Los Angeles has strict guidelines for decoys on their prostitute patrols. The officers on this detail cannot wear anything that would provoke potential "customers."

George Eskin, Assistant City Attorney for Los Angeles, said that some suggestive acts may not get reported. "The undercover female officer isn't going to say, 'I winked at him and he responded.'"

Low-Cost Legal Aid Organizations Face Resistance from National Bar Association

By Glen Granholm

The American Bar Association estimates that 32 million American families cannot afford private attorneys and yet are in too high an income bracket to receive government-funded legal aid.

Many programs have been set up to give middle income families low-cost legal aid. Lawyers attempting to establish these types of legal aid clinics have met with resistance from bar associations across the country.

The first obstacle clinics must overcome is the American Bar Association ban on advertising of legal services. The ABA canons state that "competitive advertising would encourage extravagant, artful, self-laudatory brashness in seeking business and thus would mislead the layman." Since the public has no way of knowing which lawyers belong to legal aid clinics and therefore charge lower prices, getting such clinics started is often difficult.

The Santa Barbara Legal Defense Center is experiencing what one spokesman calls "a severe financial crisis." This private, non-profit organization has been forced to cut back its legal aid services. The center is currently operating at a minimal level, but with proper advertising, it may be able to resume full services.

Many organizations have been trying to overturn the bar's no-ad provisions, in the face of opposition.

State Bar President David S. Casey explains, "We're trying to relax the rules as little as possible, not as much as possible."

Against heavy ABA resistance, the Supreme Court, in the mid-sixties, ruled to allow the existence of legal services insurance plans. Prepaid insurance plans provide legal assistance to clients for an annual premium between twelve and two hundred and fifty dollars.

The bar associations have joined together to put restrictions on this type of plan.

According to Anne Jackson of the California Journal, the California Bar severely restricts the extent and manner in which a plan can make its existence and services known.

The people of Santa Barbara, however, are not without low-cost legal aid. The Santa Barbara County Bar Association seems to have gone against the trend by establishing an attorney referral service, which gives out the names of lawyers offering legal aid.

In return for the free advertising, lawyers referred to by the service must agree to handle a given number of free cases, according to local attorney Alice Merenbach. Merenbach pointed out that in addition to the referral service, the Santa Barbara people in the past have made use of a legal co-op run by attorney Dick Solomon.

Lack of Appointments, English Skills Tops Regents' Meeting

By William Justin

California Governor Jerry Brown was criticized at Friday's Regents meeting for his failure to fill an increasing number of vacancies on the Board. The Regents, during their two-day meeting at UCLA, also heard a report concerning incoming students' writing skills. It was noted that a task force created by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles will present a series of recommendations about student preparation to the University and the Department of Education in January.

Although only student Regent Daryn Peebles accused Brown of neglect, Regent William Forbes said the Board's decreasing membership from eighteen to thirteen, "is a fact we all must consider."

A report was presented to the Regent's Committee on Educational Policy Thursday morning concerning the "Preparation for Admission to the University." It expressed alarm about incoming students' writing skills. "A large majority of our incoming freshmen lack the skills tested by the College Board English Composition Test," the report noted. Students who don't acquire a certain proficiency on the test must take subject A - 85 to 95 percent pass the course. The report concluded that "these figures show that, for the majority of students, the problem lies not in a lack of natural ability or intelligence, but simply in the nature of previous instruction."

War Inevitable in Capitalist System

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Why were 91 Iranian students recently arrested in Houston, Texas?

Why are 6 Iranian students being deported from France?

Why were $10.6 billion in armaments contracted from the United States from 1972 to '76 by the Shah's regime?

What are 24,000 U.S. advisors doing in Iran?

The Chinese say that warfare between the USSR and the U.S. is "inevitable." Is it true? Some other questions: Why do wars emerge time and again, and why is the threat of war constantly above our heads? What can we do about this situation?

Warfare breaks out time and again, and the U.S. constantly becomes involved. In answer to questions of why we get involved, the rich in this country always give us the same lines: to keep our "friends," preserve "our" interests, maintain "democracy," "police" the world, and so on. Their rhetoric, however, is little more than a tattered veil — trying to cover other motivations.

It's in the nature of the capitalist system we live under that the rich in this country are constantly compelled to go to war to protect and further their monied interests. The U.S. and other powers continuously must try to maintain a hold on the economics and governments of various third world nations in order to preserve their profitable exploitation of raw materials, cheap labor and markets. The U.S. and other nations must at times go to war to protect their colonies and neocolonies, to try to thwart movements for independence.

At the same time powers continuously try to expand — the law here is: "expand or die, devour or be devoured." At times there emerge inevitable clashes between capitalist states, major attempts to steal "each other's" colonies. This is what gave rise to World Wars I and II.

This is what also appears to be behind the conflict today between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. In Iran and throughout the world, the U.S. and the USSR are in contention. Though the Soviet Union carries the sheepskin cover of "socialism," working class rule has long since been shed; the people of the Soviet Union live under basically the same system we live under, and today Russia, in fact, is a major competitor of the largest world empire — that of the U.S.

The situation in the Persian Gulf area characterizes what is generally happening around the world.

Destined for Failure

Editor, Daily Nexus:

FUBAR Ads Are Blatantly Sexist

Editor, Daily Nexus:

In the Wednesday edition of the Nexus, November 17, 1976, an ad was run for the F.U.B.A.R. Tavern in Goleta which stated that females over the age of 18 will be admitted, but a male must be 21. This is another example of sex discrimination in its most blatant form. Already this type of discrimination has been challenged in the state of California.

Recently, a bar in the Bay Area was fined for discrimination in the cost of drinks on the basis of sex, plus it was forced to pay damages to the party that issued the complaint.

Oppression and discrimination of any sex, race, or ethnic group will reflect itself in the populace, for you cannot truly be "free" until discriminatory practices like those conducted at F.U.B.A.R. are ended.

As a unified student body, we can help bring an end to these practices. I urge everyone, regardless of age, sex, or whatever to boycott F.U.B.A.R. until their policies are changed and a letter of apology is made through the Nexus to the UCSB student body and all persons of the community.

VIEWPOINT

Crowded Pool Lanes

Editor, Daily Nexus:

In response to Mr. Bernard Riley's letter of Nov. 15, I would like to make two comments. First, there are 20, not 60 lanes in Campus Pool; the figure of 60 was 20 lanes times 3 people each, I presume. The computation made by the diving team concerning the percentage of the pool they use for workout was approximate. 20 lanes minus the 2 they use is 18 lanes. Multiplied by 3, there is space for 64 people in the remainder of the pool, which is 11 more than the number of signatures Mr. Riley obtained on his petition, which was illegal, since it was solicited at least 25 yards from the facility in question.

My second and main point is this: as a competitive swimmer for 15 years, I have swum in workouts where there were 4 or 5 swimmers (usually more) per lane in a 4 to 6 lane pool. A system is used whereby each person swims in a "circle-pattern" - the lines on the bottom of the pool are respected as the center line on a road, and everyone swims to the right of each one. One swims up and back to his or her right of the line, thus, circling around it. This is a very efficient and useful method and should be used at Campus Pool during Recreational Swimming. There have been quite a few noon hours when I have tried to swim and have had to share a lane but was harassed for swimming straight and in a systematic pattern by individuals who could not swim straight, or who refused to share a lane with me. If this circle-pattern was used, at least 64 swimmers could use the pool simultaneously and the divers could still dive. I would even submit the suggestion that instructions for circle-swimming be posted on the pool deck.

P.S. The men's and women's swim teams are forced to swim with about 65 people in the shallow end of the pool when there is a water polo class during their workout time.

War Inevitable in Capitalist System

The U.S. is pumping billions of dollars into Iran, maintaining a strategic foothold there while taking full advantage of the raw materials, labor, and markets of the nation. All the while the Soviet Union does much the same, maneuvering in Iraq and Syria.

Things are changing at a quick pace, and the notion of a future war, particularly one involving the U.S. and the Soviet Union, is probably far from an absurdity. Many of us are looking at these questions of possible future war seriously.

Back East the Revolutionary Student Brigade is co-sponsoring a conference which will include some sharp discussion on these questions of war - particularly what role should we play in such an event, what can we do?

Controversy Blossoms

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I appreciate the thought and controversy that seems to regularly blossom on your pages, everything from swimming to bikes. It is amazing, though, the amount of energy expended, for example in the bike handlebar controversy, in hotly debating a point that is clearly a matter of personal preference. Since the standard 10-speed handlebar was structurally designed and engineered for the down position, it is probably not good for the bike to turn the handles up, and I recommend those wishing to do so purchase new upright handlebars or order the bike that way in the first place.

Concerning bikeways/pedestrian hazards; bikers, slow down and signal! (Perhaps pedestrians should signal too?)

Brian Johnson

Here at UCSB there won't be a conference, but the Iranian Student Association and the Revolutionary Student Brigade are sponsoring a somewhat similar program in which we will be talking about the situation in Iran - the people's struggles for national liberation and a society free from class exploitation.

Later there will be a talk and discussion on the international scene in general - focusing on the threat of war and what we should do about it.

Change the Calendar

Editor, Daily Nexus:

Do you realize that if school started two weeks earlier we could go home at Thanksgiving and not come back until after New Years? We would be spending the same amount of time in school and would all be able to enjoy a five week vacation. I've talked to a few people and so far it's unanimous- it would be great if the calendar could be changed. How is it possible to bring something like this about?

Carla Polasek

The program will be held at 7 p.m. in North Hall 1006 on Tuesday, November 23, and we encourage anybody interested in these questions to attend.

Series: The Roots Of Trees

The red forest floor, logs of rock half buried and stubborn:

round plateau of grey,
a fissure
in the petrified stone:

The Roots of trees,
scaled with bark,
tumble from the rock.

A Streambed

What are these bones that speak from the line? The cores of ancient plants surround them
 and offer their diet that is dry. But they clamor, their fittings stretched.

Consumer Conference Meetings Push Citizen Participation

By Howard Dyck

"Though most people don't know it, there is still a strong consumer movement in California," stated Richard Spohn, Director of the Department of Consumer Affairs. He spoke Sunday in San Francisco at 'Consumer 76,' a conference sponsored by the California Department of Consumer Affairs. Workshops were offered on energy, utility rates, food and nutrition, credit and organizing skills.

The workshop on utility rates turned into a debate between Tim Brick of the Campaign Against Utility Service Exploitation, (CAUSE) and Robert Ohlback, an attorney for Pacific Gas and Electric (PG&E). Brick argued for "public ownership as the only means available to protect the public from price gouging and exploitation for profit of things that are necessities of life."

Ohlback, trying not to appear too nervous, stressed that PG&E was not making enough profits, and that consumer activists generally ended up costing consumers more because of delays and harassment.

In the second energy workshop, PUC Commissioner Robert Batinovich, a Brown appointee, spoke on how much citizen participation was needed to counter the demands of the energy industry for higher prices. "Citizens must get involved in the selection of appointments to regulatory boards like the PUC," said Batinovich. He was approved by the State Senate after being asked only one question: if his name was pronounced correctly. Batinovich also promised to look into Isla Vista's D-5 utility rate in the hopes of making I.V.'s utility rates more equitable. Such rates have already been abolished in northern California.

In the workshops on food and nutrition, discussions were held on food pricing, coops and safety. The participants spoke of the need for Americans to alter eating habits, believing that Americans are conditioned to overeating and wasting food. Most mentioned that children should not be given food as a reward, particularly sweets, or they will grow up eating too much.

Al Krebs, of the Agribusiness Accountability Project, spoke on how foods are made to fool consumers. Fresh Horizon, a new nutritional bread made by I.T.T. is billed as a health food with more fiber and fewer calories. According to Krebs, what I.T.T. doesn't say is that the fiber is really crushed wood pulp that was cleaned with dangerous chemicals.

Throughout the conference, citizen mobilization and participation were the keywords.

Regents' Meeting...

However, the report noted that "remedies for these and other problems are not obvious."

The report also commented "on the recent newspaper account of the exclusion of journalism, drama, and speech courses from the list of courses fulfilling the high school English requirement." It noted that "there is a problem of labeling" high school courses to ensure transcript evaluators know whether the courses fulfill the "practice in writing expository prose compositions of some length" requirement. The report called for the development "in cooperation with high school people, a way to indicate on high school transcripts the content of the course and whether it does fulfill the University's objectives.

The Governor's lack of action concerning appointments arose after a "Report on Legislation" presented by Regent Lowell J. Paige, Special Assistant to the President for Governmental Relations. The report was made to the Regent's Committee on Finance.

The report expressed that "the legislators are overlooking the constitutional autonomy of the University under the guise of accountability. "We shall be faced," the report continued, "with court challenges sooner or later if we are to preserve our interpretation of the autonomy of the University." The report concluded that "the growing tendency toward 'legislative direction' of research activities will require an imaginative response."

The failure of the University to successfully oppose the passage of Proposition Four on the November ballot was cited as an example of the growing difficulty the University has dealing with State Government.

UC President David Saxon said he "did not praise the University's efforts" in the matter of working with the legislature. Saxon did "not say this has ever been better," because we are "in an era of great change in the way the political process operates."

Budweiser® presents "Beer Talk"

Salt in beer?

1.

Did you ever see somebody put salt in his beer to bring the head back up?

2.

Well, if you want to do it that way, it's okay with us.

3.

But really... what salt does to a great beer is make it salty.

4.

A perfect head of foam is easy: Just start with Budweiser. And pour it smack down the middle.

5.

You can save the salt for the popcorn, 'cause that Beechwood Aged Budweiser taste speaks for itself.

6.

And you can take that without a grain of salt!

Poloists Win PCAA League Championships

Four Make All-League Team; UCSB to Compete in Nationals

By Laura Fredericks

The UCSB men's water polo team earned their way to the Nationals over the weekend by capturing the PCAA tournament title at Pepperdine. It was a promise come true for Coach Dante Dettamanti who has been certain throughout the season that the Gauchos are the best in their league as well as one of the top teams in the nation.

After playing the University of the Pacific (UOP) on Friday in a victorious 10-9 point semifinals match, the Gauchos beat Long Beach in Saturday's finals 5-4, thus proving themselves champions. This victory guaranteed their invitation to next weekend's Nationals which will be held in the Belmont Plaza Pool.

The score of the UOP match is misleading, for the Gauchos maintained a strong lead throughout the first three quarters. "We were never worried," reported Dettamanti. "We were in control the whole game."

The coach substituted freely so that all seventeen players who traveled to the tournament were able to play against UOP. A 6-1 point lead at the end of the first quarter and an 8-4 lead at the half were not threatened until UOP scored three goals in the last two minutes of the game.

Nevertheless, seven individual Gaucho players scored and both goalies played: Doan in the first half and Foley in the second. It was also a good warm-up for Saturday's tough competition against Long Beach State.

According to Coach Dettamanti, the Long Beach game was "our lowest scoring game of the season. This is common in high pressure matches because the team's offense tends to play cautiously." The two top rated teams were neck and neck throughout the game. Long Beach gained one point leads twice and the score was tied a total of four times.

At the end of the last quarter with only four minutes left to play, the score was tied 4-4. Gaucho star Russ Haffercamp came through with a goal in the extra man situation, however, giving UCSB a 5-4 point edge.

Long Beach had a chance to score on a penalty shot but goalie Clint Doan effectively blocked the attempt. Moments later, the Gauchos had a man ejected giving Long Beach another chance to score, but player John Dobrott successfully upheld the Gaucho's lead by blocking the shot. As Dettamanti saw it, "The worst we could have done was let them tie the score."

The coach praised Haffercamp for his outstanding job; Haffercamp scored three goals in the Long Beach game. "Russ has played so well all season," the coach explained, "that it has sort of become expected of him."

Dobrott also had a good game, playing what Dettamanti calls "inspired water polo."

Dettamanti described Dobrott as "constantly hustling throughout the game, making key steals and scoring an important goal in the third quarter."

Dettamanti admitted that he was little bit disappointed when the All-League Teams were announced after the Gauchos had won the Championship. Four of his players were recognized: Russ Haffercamp and Greg Boyer on the First team, Clint Doan and Eden Kim on the Second.

Dettamanti felt that at least his whole starting line-up should have made Honorable Mention. He credited the failure to do so to the "politics of the deciding of the All-League teams." Far more important to the Gaucho mentor is the fact that his team did secure their place for next week's National's competition.

They are seeded fourth, behind the other California teams, Stanford, UCLA and Irvine. The out of state teams invited are Arizona, Loyola of Chicago, Texas A&M and the University of Pittsburgh.

Dettamanti was pleased with the Gauchos 16 win-6 loss record for the season. "Every game this season was an extremely important one," he claimed.

Although the team had some early season losses, they pulled together a nine game winning streak in the end.

Looking ahead to the Nationals, the coach expressed his characteristic confidence, "We think we can win. Even though we will have to play a super game to beat Stanford, we are shooting for first place. "In fact," he said, "we won't settle for anything less."

Cal Poly Grapples to Easy Win, UCSB Fourth in Home Tourney

By Mike Lauderdale

This weekend the Gauchos put in a full weekend's work hosting the prestigious UCSB tournament on Saturday and taking on Arizona State University on Sunday. The Gauchos came in fourth with 54 points, behind nationally-ranked Cal Poly San Luis Obispo (168), Arizona State (156) and San Jose (58).

GaUCHO 118-pounder Frank Clementi was the only GaUCHO to reach the finals, taking second. Three Gauchos took thirds by winning the consolations. Jerry Nobles at 134 prevailed 5-4, and Gordon Cox won 6-1 in the incredibly tough 150 pound class.

At 177, Robert Jones came through with a 7-2 win for another GaUCHO third. Two more Gauchos, 126 pounder Dave Aguilar and 158 pounder Rich Castro, lost by one point in the consolations.

On Sunday, ASU, a team which barely missed upsetting Cal Poly the day before, took out its anger on the Gauchos by piling up a 48-0 win with a squad that included two conference champions and a fifth place finisher in the nationals.

Frank Clementi ran into a surprisingly tough 118-pounder who put ASU ahead 6-0. Dave Aguilar did a fine job at 126 until an injury forced him to stop. Jerry Nobles was overpowered 11-3 at 134, and ASU got an upset at 142, defeating Gary Fenzke.

Captain Gordon Cox had the misfortune to go against ASU's fifth place NCAA finisher, but held his own until a mistimed move was converted into a five-point flurry by ASU's man.

This gave ASU a 25-0 lead and from there it was all ASU. 177 pounder Robert Jones went two scoreless rounds with one of ASU's conference champs, who prevailed 4-0 in spite of a fine effort by Jones. When it was all over, the scoreboard read 48-0, ASU.

Comments on the tournament were varied but complimentary. T.J. Kerr of San Jose State (14-9-0 last year) was awestruck by Cal Poly and ASU. Cal Poly coach Vaughn Hitchcock was surprised by ASU's strength, and was "pleased with our effort in beating them." Bobby Douglas of ASU called it "one of the finest tournaments in the nation. The officiating was outstanding, the competition unbelievable. Cal Poly is one of the premier teams in the country, and UCSB is not far behind."

Women Spikers Host Bruins Tonight

Concluding their away game schedule this past weekend the women's volleyball team played Long Beach Friday night and Pepperdine Saturday. The Gauchos lost to Long Beach in four games, UCSB 15-11, Long Beach 15-12, 16-14, 15-12. UCSB lost to Pepperdine 15-10, 15-10, 15-12. Both matches were played at Pepperdine.

Despite the losses, coach Kathy Gregory was pleased about the way the freshmen are playing in these late season games. "The freshmen came in and were the most inspired players," said Gregory. "They've been on the bench all season but they have great attitudes. It's really encouraging." Gregory praised freshmen Kathy Tawney, and Tricia Harding for their exceptional performances. She added that regular starter Maya Thiene also played well.

Though the Spikers did not win their league, they have received an at-large bid to the regionals to be held this weekend at UC Davis. Other teams competing will be USC, UCLA, Pepperdine, Long Beach, Northridge, San Jose and Stanford. Unfortunately UCSB has the worst possible draw, facing the number one team in the nation, USC, on Friday morning.

Tonight the Gauchos have their last home game of the season against UCLA in Rob Gym. The JV's play at 6 p.m. and the varsity game is at 8 p.m. UCLA is the second ranked team in the nation.

Enrollment Increase Protest

almost impossible for a family with a child to find a place in I.V.," he asserted. "They have to go outside the area. And if they do find a place the rent is even higher than for single students."

Stafford, closing off the rally, jokingly offered a solution to enrollment pressures. "The only effective way I've seen to cut enrollment at UCSB is to burn down a bank."

On a more serious note, Stafford suggested several methods of curbing enrollment.

"The first way would be to go through the State Legislature," Stafford said, explaining that the State Constitution establishes the UC system as a fourth and separate branch of government. "It may take a constitutional amendment, but I hope not," he continued.

"What could, and should, be done is to have A.S. start getting in touch with all the other campuses. Then we could present an organized front to the State."

Stafford also suggested that Isla Vista could influence University policy through a direct assault on the UC Regents. "We need to send groups of people to focus the Regents attention on the problem."

The final solution Stafford proposed was to channel protest through the UCSB Administration. "We need to get on them and force them to cut enrollment," he asserted, suggesting that rally participants present talk to administrators and members of the Academic Senate.

Stafford stressed awareness as one of his main goals. "My hope is that more people will realize the seriousness of the problem and not put up with the University's policy," he said.

Illegal LSD Use Hit by Doctor

(ZNS) — A leading American psychiatrist is charging that many top medical researchers in the United States have illegally administered dangerous mind-altering drugs to unsuspecting patients and other human guinea pigs, yet have never been criticized for their experiments.

Doctor Thomas Szasz, a professor of psychiatry at the Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse, New York, likens many of these drug experiments to those that were conducted in Nazi Germany 35 years ago.

Szasz says he is alarmed at both the official and public reaction to recent revelations that government researchers administered LSD and other drugs to unsuspecting innocent citizens at the request of the CIA and the Pentagon.

Says Szasz, the American doctors who drugged unsuspecting persons did not perform experiments; they poisoned people...prominent American psychiatrists are implicated in the most serious and systematic violations not only of medical ethics, but also of criminal law that have ever been brought to light. "The question," he says, "is what are we going to do about it?"

USF'S SEVEN FOOT CENTER Bill Cartwright was one of the most highly recruited players in the country two summers ago. The giant, sophomore center averaged 12.5 points and seven rebounds a game last year for the USF team which went 22-8. The Gauchos host the eleventh ranked Dons Saturday, November 27 at 8 p.m. in Rob Gym. JVs play at 5:45 p.m.
