Heyns' Suspensions Spark Huge Sproul Hall Mill-in

In the latest demonstration of increasing student unrest at Berkeley, a crowd estimated at 2,000 to 3,000 filled Sproul Plaza yesterday to protest the recent suspension of two students for participating in anti-draft demonstrations earlier this week.

After listening to speeches in the plaza, a number of the students marched to Sproul Hall and began a "mill-in," occupying the first three floors of that building.

As of 9 p.m. last night, latest development in the Berkeley incidents were that MAPS (Movement Against Political Suspensions) wanted to hold a sit-in in Sproul Hall after the building closed. However, there was little student support and it was called off. MAPS leaders met at 7:30 to discuss today's plans. The press was not admitted. The leaders wanted to make it clear that the mill-in had no relation to Chancellor Heyns' action with regard to the ASUC.

According to informed sources there, several hundred students may spend the night in Sproul Hall, the administrative headquarters of Berkeley. The protestors are using the Accounting Office as headquarters, and there is recent evidence that the University has shut off all phone service to that office.

In addition, members of the protest have stationed themselves at the exits of all off-ramps to Berkeley from the nearby freeway to serve as an "early warning system" against any police action.

Thus far, however, no police have been observed at the scene of the protest, although word has been received that two members of the campus police are guard-

Fees Allocation Snatched From Student Government

Berkeley Chancellor Roger Heyns issued a precedent shattering directive late Tuesday night which may have partially triggered the mill-ins occurring yesterday at Berkeley, according to informed sources there.

The directive, apparently a reaction to an earlier ASUC vote allowing Berkeley graduate students to participate in Cal student government, removed all control of student fees from the hands of the Berkeley student legislature and placed it under a joint Administration-student "union."

Despite the "joint" emphasis, opponents quickly pointed out that the new "Union Program Board" would have only six student members, but ten administrative and faculty spokesmen, included in the board will be one representative from the Dean of Graduates Office, two from the graduate students, one from the Dean of Students Office, one from the Chancellor's Office, two from the faculty, one from the Alumni Organization, one from the University employees, and the Director of the Student Union.

According to observers at Berkeley, Heyns' action came as a result of the Tuesday ASUC directive which allows graduate students to directly participate in student legislature activities. The Chancellor has long been a foe of this action, and many observers feel his overhaul of ASUC structure stems from a fear of a graduate student "takeover" of student government.

"The role of the Senate (Student) . . . has not been determined thus far," stated Heyns in his notice, "but . . . it should continue to play an important role in the academic community."

Officials on this campus had no comment as yet.

Ex-AS Prexy at Stanford Featured at Draft Teach-In

By STEVE PLEVIN
EG Staff Writer

UCSB Peace Committee is sponsoring a teach-in today on the UCen lawn starting at 11. "Mount Rushmore," a well-known San Francisco rock band, will play until about noon when the actual teach-in will begin.

Dave Harris, former Stanford student body president and regional secretary of the War Resisters League, will be the main speaker. Harris, one of the founders of the Draft Resistance Movement, will discuss that organization in connection with the national draft card turn-in on Monday, Dec. 4.

OTHER SPEAKERS

In addition to Harris, Dr. Homer Swander, associate professor of English, Otis Graham, assistant professor of history, Thomas Bouchard, assistant professor of psychology, and Jonathan Smith, acting assistant professor of Religious Studies, will speak on various aspects of the draft.

Joe Webb will represent the Santa Barbara Draft Resistance group. Stanley Sheinbaum, economist at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, will also speak.

The Peace Committee is now mobilizing for the draft card turn-in Dec. 4. Twenty men turned in their cards last month. Fifteen UCSB students are planning to do so Dec. 4. As of this date, nearly 1,600 young men across the nation have participated in the same action.

THE TEACHER—Former Stanford AS President David Harris will be the featured speaker today at an anti-draft rally at 11 a.m. on the UCen lawn.

Leg Council Voices Viet War Opposition

By WAYNE RASCATI
and STEVE PLEVIN
EG Staff Writers

Sparked by both logical and emotional appeals to "decide where our emphasis should be placed," Legislative Council last night, by a vote of nine to four with one abstention, passed Tony Shih's controversial resolution on American involvement in the Vietnam War.

The resolution as introduced by Shih would have placed Leg Council "on record in opposition to American military involvement in Vietnam . . . and in favor of unilateral American de-escalation and negotiation with the North Vietnamese government and the National Liberation front."

In introducing his resolution, Shih pointed out that the war is very much a part of every student's life and that as representatives of the students, Leg Council should take a definite stand on it.

He added: "This might hurt our image if we use it in this manner but how else are we going to use our image? If we don't use it in this case we might be dead and not have to worry about it at all."

Shih asserted also that students, as of now, have only one channel through which to vent their feelings about the war, i.e. the Peace Committee. "I don't agree with some of their approaches, but I agree with their views."

Alan Schwartz, Rep-at-Large, led a falling floor fight to indefinitely table consideration of Shih's proposal. In justifying his motion Schwartz commented, "I agree that Vietnam is important to the student, but I don't feel that this is the area where Council can be most useful. It is more important that we spend our time on such things as academic reform and even a five cent coffee refill in the UCen. These are things in which we can see tangible and realistic evidence."

Executive Vice President Paul Bellin shot back "We may be just fifteen people here but we are the campus leaders." He went on to opine that the public view of the campus should not be one of only "bearded hippies" demonstrating against the war.

Disagreeing with Schwartz's resolution, Independent Rep Fred Munch stated, "if we postpone action on this proposal, we will be in keeping with Council's practice of passing only non-positive measures."

In the vote on tabling the resolution Schwartz only had the support of Council members Elly Gendel and Mary Jo Guia. The motion failed with an eleven to three vote.

Seeing his attempt to postpone action fail, Schwartz introduced a substitute proposal under which Leg Council would go on record supporting the ef-

Campus Poet Wins Nat'l Competition

Louise Henderson, UCSB graduate student in English, has been notified by the board of judges of the National Poetry Press that her poem "Ann" will be published in the forthcoming "Anthology of College Poetry."

The volume is a compilation of the best of the 30,000 or more manuscripts received this semester from college students across the United States.

The poem also appears in "Findings," Mrs. Henderson's book of verse, the first edition of which was published by Carnegie Institute in 1963. The new edition, privately printed, will be released in December. Her poems have also been published in several literary publications including "Spectrum," UCSB literary magazine. Mrs. Henderson's work-in-progress is "The Secret Springs," another book of poetry.

A 1962 graduate of UCSB, she held the Clausey Medal of Honor scholarship, the John Muir scholarship, and the Aspen School of Art fellowship. As a senior she was selected to attend the Berkeley Festival of Arts as one of UCSB's two poet delegates. She was also associate editor of "Spectrum" and feature editor of "EL GAUCHO." In 1961 she won the International Silver Company essay contest.

Mrs. Henderson also studies at the University of Connecticut at Storrs where she was instructor in English and served as graduate adviser to the campus literary magazine. She was Associate in Subject A English at UCSB. Her husband, John Robert Henderson, is UCSB campus architect.

The Misuse of Power

Members of student government sometimes forget that they owe their existence to the good graces of the Chancellor.

This was dramatically demonstrated at Berkeley yesterday when Chancellor Robert Heyns issued a directive that revoked the privileges given to the Associated Students at Cal to handle the allocation of student fees. The action will, in effect, destroy any reason for student government to exist at all.

Heyns' directive resulted from the Administration's conviction that A.S. government was unrepresentative because it seated graduate students as officers in violation of the constitution.

While the Chancellor was well within the legal authority granted to him by the Regents, he has taken an action that is sure to cause rightful opposition from the students. He has acted unethically in dealing with the Associated Students, and we believe he is dead wrong.

Even though Behrns believes this change is a good thing for the student body why did he not have the Student Senate initiate the action? Why did the directive the Chancellor's Office?

If there is doubt about how representative student government actually is, then have a student referendum.

Students have been campaigning for some time to increase their control over projects; administrators are usually at loss for ways to accommodate this. Heyns has taken what can only be seen as a step backwards, and a foolish step at that.

Since the situations on the Berkeley campus and this one are not the same, it is highly unlikely that anything of this sort could occur here. Yet, if such a setback did occur at UCSB, the students would have the best excuse for open rebellion that has come along for some time. The same can be said for Berkeley.

Legislative Council should act in defense of student rights at Berkeley. And our Administration, which has always considered itself forward-looking, should urge their colleagues up north to reconsider this mistake.

There is no excuse for administrators to take what appears to be an irresponsible stand.

And there is no reason for students to tolerate them doing so.

Down With Dow

To the Editor:

Dow Chemical is planning to hold interviews on this campus on Monday, Dec. 4. There is no place for Dow representatives in this or any other community. The military-supported industrialists must be told that the war system which they actively support and perpetuate will no longer be tolerated. Dow must be told this. This community must add its voice.

Debate with Dow (or the C.I.A., U.S. Army, etc.) would be repetitive and unnecessary. Every day, every hour, Dow freely and of its own volition speaks to the people of the world. Dow speaks, by its own choice, in infernos of jellied hell, burning families, and burning villages. There are none among us who have not borne witness to this dialogue. There are none among us who are free from the stigma of Dow's barbarism.

Knowing acquiescence in the face of genocide taints us all. Discussion has developed and failed. Action and confrontation are the only alternatives left for the dissenter. Dow will offer this community another opportunity to confront a portion of the military-industrial machine, when they not only flout our integrity by their presence among us, but openly solicit our assistance. Their crimes must not be vindicated by our inaction.

WILLIAM BURNETT

ers for bigotry in Vietnam, I am referring, of course, to the United States Post Office.

This agency, a branch of which is housed in our own student union, which we, the students, paid for, engages in the transport of vital war material to Vietnam under the ominous project name, "Packages From Home." These packages ostensibly contain cookies and other delectable reminders of home, designed to raise the morale of our killers.

This is obviously a line, though, for what would raise morale more than a new, more deadly, more oppressive weapon! (Latest known development: V.D. distribution center, portable (self-activating), field grade, Saigon Mark VIII). For the students of this campus to house an agency which supports the war in such a way is in itself immoral. I would suggest that the peace committee immediately concentrate its efforts on rectifying this repugnant situation. I certainly hope this modest proposal will be forcefully accepted.

"Tar-able" Samuelsen

To the Editor:

While Miss Samuelsen might be well on her way to a Pulitzer Prize for "cuteness," her research into the tar problem leaves something to be desired. Granted that tar has been a natural feature of our beaches since Drake. Tar was mined near the corner of the Speech building and on the mesa to the south both by the Indians and by later settlers. It was the presence of this tar, on shore and off, which helped alert the oil companies to the Ellwood Field.

If your reporter had checked around a little more in the Geology department she might have found that the critical factor is not that there is oil pollution but the amount of pollution. She would have found that the tar has increased in proportion to the amount pumped and shipped from the Ellwood Field. If she had checked with those who have been around the area for a while, she would have found that the amount on the beaches has taken on critical aspect if compared to 1959.

CARTOON VIEW OF THE WEEK

DO THEY MULTIPLY?

Post Office Immoral?

To the Editor:

The Student Peace Committee has, in recent weeks, engaged in a laudable campaign to eliminate the immoral recruiting practices of Dow Chemical Corp. and the CIA from this campus. However, they have been ignoring, or at least, overlooking another, similarly sinister organization which has had representatives on this campus for several years. This government supported organization is actively engaged in the support and supply of our fight-here this summer told me that the amount of pollution on our beaches surpassed that some of the English beaches which were declared disaster areas during the Torrey Canyon incident. We have a rather nice coastline with some unusual features and I, for one, don't intend to enjoy it from the cliffs or in hip waders.

There are now Federal laws concerning pollution and it would be very interesting to do a little more than a superficial, phoney, "study." I would like to look into the problems of field pressurization, transfer losses, and well head leaks. EL GAUCHO has never been known for accurate reporting but at least someone could concern themselves with the basics of research and inquiry because I seem to remember it being one of the foundations of a university.

MIKE WOODILL

and having witnessed the apathy and most especially the lack of courtesy invariably shown by the UCSB cheerleaders and student body at these games, I was quite unprepared for UCSB as it really is.

As a new graduate student here, I have been impressed by the eagerness, friendliness and even seriousness of purpose in the students I've met here.

The actual quality of the UCSB student, and of the Gaucho football players on the field last Saturday is obvious. But the real rudeness of Randy Stewart was even more obvious and unbelievable. His every word was broadcasted to the Santa Clara cheering section; understandably they disconnected the speakers.

Santa Clarans came as guests of the UCSB students and, win or lose, they deserved at least politeness.

It was easy to see that those freshmen and sophomores on the Bronco team simply were not playing Saturday, while the Gaucho players looked great.

Nevertheless, the small Santa Clara cheering section never stopped pulling for their players once, and easily at all times outcheered the larger UCSB section, I don't think you could say they "put their collective tails between their legs" and slunk away.

Santa Clara is proud that their team was number six, peopled as it is by players just out of high school. If they let the rooters down once, well, there's always another game, another year. AND they're still proud and let everyone know it.

Never once have I seen UCSB show spirit like that in defeat the many times I've seen it play. In victory, it's there however.

UCSB, too, has much to be proud of, but it hardly needs the gross cheers of the cheerleaders or the derogatory comments about other schools or teams or the writer of EL GAUCHO to make it so. They detract, not add.

RITA GROFF
Senior, Santa Clara

Pat Sparrow Dance Company To Perform Tomorrow Night

The new dramatic choreographic work, "All the Eves," will climax the Patricia Sparrow Dance Company concert in UCSB's Campbell Hall at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 1.

Tickets for the performance are available at the campus box office and the Lobero Theatre.

The piece for six dancers utilizes the steep slope of an elevated set to create new experiences in design, colored with passages by soloist Susan Alexander, Judy Burns and Adelaide McCabe.

Dr. Sparrow also will premiere lyric "April Yellow and Brown Crystal" and "Nocturnal," a series of experiences of the mind. Music for the concert is composed and performed by Emma Lou O'Brien.

In addition to the three soloists, other dancers performing with Dr. Sparrow will be Isa Partsch-Bergsohn, Rita Crank and Donna Petersen.

Dr. Sparrow's company is in its sixth year of local and national performances.

Little Knowns in Film Series

"Brilliant but little known films" is the fare of students who attend either the Sunday night or Tuesday night film series this year.

The idea behind expanding the already established Sunday night series with a Tuesday night series was, in Film Committee member Peter Biskind's words, "to present important films to students who wouldn't normally be able to see them because they're not popular enough to attract the normal movie-going audience." "We (on the Committee: Professors John Silverman and Michael Gordon) decided that not enough of these kinds of films were being presented," added Biskind.

The last of the Tuesday films, shown next week features James Cagney in "Public Enemy."

Films shown this quarter included: Alain Resnais's "Night

Fog," "Isle of the Dead" by Karloff, James Aggee's "The Quiet One," Visconti's classic Neo-realist film "La Terra Trema," and Joseph Heiflyx's film of Chekov's "Lady with a Dog."

The Sunday night series was run on the theme, East and West. Samurai films and American westerns alternated showing the "comparable traits in each."

"Oxbow Incident," "Ride the High Country," "The Virginian," "Gates of Hell," "Seven Samurai," and "Yo Jinbo" were run as part of this series.

Next quarter, Polish films by the late director, Zbigniew Cybulshy, will be the material for the Sunday night series.

The Tuesday night series will be changed to Wednesday night during the winter quarter but will be shown in the same place, S.H. 1004.

Another play from the pen of Luigi Pirandello opened last night, this time a folk comedy in the romantic setting of an Italian village. All of Pirandello's trademarks are here: appearance juxtaposed with truth, social masks and their wearers, and brief views into an entertaining but deep philosophy of life. # Dormies Bumped From IM Play

By LEE MARGULIES
EG Sports Staff

It was a case of the big guys beating up the little guys Tuesday as the last two Dorm teams were eliminated from intramural football competition by Lambda Chi Alpha and the Delts, who met yesterday in the semi-finals for the all-school championship. (See score below.)

Canalino, winners of the Anacapa league and rated number one in I.V.-Dorm competition, was completely thwarted by the Delt defense, and despite their best efforts fell 33-0.

Wellington also played admirably, but their Francisco Torres experience was no match against that of fraternity champion Lambda Chi, who triumphed 45-6.

Led by Steve Schott and Bill Chapman, the Delt defense bottled up Canalino's offensive unit completely. Q.B. John Ahler just could not get anything going, and in fact Canalino had the ball in Delt territory for only one set of downs all day.

Chapman was the star of the game as he hauled down two of the four Delt interceptions and rambled for three of their five touchdowns. Play-caller Don Guttman stuck to his standard, but effective ground game, running for one score himself and pitching to Brent Thompson who raced 50 yards for the other.

Lambda Chi scored twice in the opening minutes of their contest and then coasted the rest of the way as they chalked up their eleventh straight win of the season.

Wellington fared a little better than Canalino in that they were able to move the ball with some consistency, although they were hampered by many dropped passes. But they managed to push the ball across the goal line only once, when Dennis Bishop hauled in a pass for the score.

Bishop's fine offensive and defensive play was shadowed in a losing cause. On the other hand, Chuck Destro came out a hero for the winners as he ran back two interceptions for touchdowns.

Frosh Mermen Audition Today

The freshman swimming squad opens its 1967-68 season this afternoon as it takes on the Santa Barbara Recreation Dept. in the Gaucho pool.

The 3:30 contest will feature the Gaucho audition of a host of freshman high school stars who Coach Rick Rowland hopes will continue UCSB's record of national excellence and achievement. "These boys are blue-chip swimmers," he enthused.

Rowland is talking specifically of a group headed by Scottish national freestyle champ Gordon Black and CIF champ Ben Gage. The frosh will also be bolstered by stars Paul Cole, Robert Rodd, Stan Searcy, Phil Smith, Bill Wood, and Bob Zeigler.

Goldhammer's Deal

BY GOLDHAMMER

This man is one of the founders of the NBA, and yet has never touched a basketball. He stands about two feet shorter than the games biggest player yet they are on a first name basis. He is good friends with Bob Cousy and Bob Pettit who are both in the Hall of Fame.

The man is Maurice Podoloff who retired in 1962 at the age of 73 as head man of the biggest and undoubtedly best of the professional leagues. During Thanksgiving vacation I was privileged to talk with this man. What follows are some of his comments on the present state of basketball.

"I feel that basketball will evolve into the greatest of the spectator sports, although I am a bit prejudiced. The reason that I say this is that most fans like to be close to the action and smell the players sweat. Basketball is the only sport that allows for such closeness.

"In the past few years, there have been arenas springing up all across the nation and competitive basketball attendance has increased tremendously. As so far as expansion, it is necessary for the welfare of the game. With more qualified players coming out of college and more spectator appeal expansion will occur naturally.

"There has been some discussion about the new teams being to weak to compete with the rest of the league. I can point to the Boston Celtics as an example of a team that brought itself from the cellar to the top of the league. Since the lower teams in the league will get the opportunity to draft first they will be able to obtain the quality players coming out of the universities.

"Perhaps the only major flaw in the game as it stands now is the fact that too many fouls are being called. This disrupts the continuity of the game and acts as a detriment for the spectators. I think in the future you will see more contact as they try to cut down the number of fouls called.

"Another notable increase has come in the area of participation. More and more youngsters of all sizes are taking up the game because it can be played anywhere. In fact, some of the greatest players started in their own backyard. Cousy and Pettit were both beginners on such a court. Any place that is flat can be used as a court. All you need is a hoop and a ball; if you want to practice dribbling, a hoop is not needed.

"One of the big complaints about basketball is that it is ruled by the big man. I don't feel this is necessarily true. After all the most spectacular players are the small ones. Look at Cousy, West, Rodgers, and Robertson. These are the players that the fans come to see."

Frats Set UCSB Near Top in For Rush Peace Corps Recruits

The fraternities at UCSB will be conducting a semi-formal rush at the beginning of the winter quarter. For the first two nights the houses will be open so that men will be able to rush at all twelve houses. The rest of the weekend the fraternities will send out invitations for functions at the house.

The Interfraternity Council extends to the men on this campus an invitation to participate in rush and take this opportunity to visit the Greek community. Information about this rush will be posted on campus before the Christmas vacation.

(WASHINGTON, D.C.)—Of the nation's 2,500 colleges and universities, the University of California at Santa Barbara is now the twenty-first largest contributor of Peace Corps Volunteers, according to recent reports released by the agency. As of October 16, 1967, at least 189 Volunteers—including 90 now serving overseas—had been selected for Peace Corps service.

They have served in sub-Saharan Africa (47), East Asia and the Pacific Islands (53), Latin America (59), and in the North Africa/Near East and South Asian region (30). Six other California schools also fall into the top 50 Peace Corps suppliers.

Cal at Santa Barbara ranked thirty-first last year for total Volunteers produced since 1961 when the Peace Corps started out in eight countries.

By next spring 16,000 Volunteers will be overseas in 58 countries working primarily in education, community development, health and agriculture.

New requests this year have come from The Gambia, Upper Volta, Lesotho and Dahomey in Africa; and from Western Samoa, Tonga and Fiji in the South Pacific.

Ceylon is the first country to re-invite the Peace Corps after a previous program had been discontinued.

The Peace Corps is now the largest single employer of college graduates except for the military. Over 3.2 per cent of 1967's 562,000 graduating college seniors (18,000) applied for Peace Corps service.

Eighty per cent of those received invitations to train for an overseas assignment.

Raffle To Aid Indian's Water Problems

Thousands of dollars are needed to end the water pollution and water shortage faced by the Santa Ynez Indians.

This week, Alpha Delta Phi fraternity is aiding the drive to raise the necessary $12,000 by selling raffle tickets for a color television put up by the Indians as the prize.

Tickets cost $1 and are on sale today and Friday at tables set up on campus.

The raffle was started by the Indians to raise $500, and was picked up by students on campus. They hope to increase the fund by selling another 500 tickets raising a total of $1000.

INCREASED SCOPE

The raffle will be extended into Santa Barbara when students applying for the Sophomore Class "Indian Project" this summer sell tickets in the city Sunday.

So far the Indians have raised just under $1000 towards the water funds. Several drives and money making activities will be planned in the future to obtain the needed remainder.

Any student interested in helping raise money in any way should immediately contact Sunne Wright, Sophomore Class Secretary-Treasurer, through her box in the AS office or at home.
