A memorial service for Dover O. Sharp, who died Sunday from injuries suffered when a bomb exploded Friday in the Faculty Club, will be held today at noon in Lotte Lehmann Concert Hall in the Music Building.

Presiding over the service will be Dr. John Cotton, president of the Faculty Club. Speakers will include Chancellor Vernon I. Cheadle and Sandy Grecian, a grad student who worked with Sharp. Jack Bradford, a representative of the Church of Christ, of which Sharp was an active member, will deliver the benediction.

KCSB-FM will broadcast the service.

Placement Center Report: Students Should Be First

By JIM BETTINGER
Editor-in-Chief

A new report by a Leg Council special committee, which concludes that the Placement Center must be primarily a service to students and only secondarily to employers, will be presented tonight at the weekly Council meeting.

Rep-at-Large Barry Posner, chairman of the committee, said that although no member of the committee has seen the final report, "a lot of people worked on the research."

The committee stemmed from Leg Council proposal No. 24, passed October 30, which "expects the Chancellor to prohibit any profit-oriented company or organization which practices discriminatory hiring and/or employment practices, whether domestic or abroad, for example South Africa, from using any or all University facilities for the purpose of recruiting for employment."

The report says that it has been "an exhausting task, with moral and legal ramifications that could not be so easily restricted to the question of apartheid in South Africa, but covered the complex gamut of what the proper role of the University (in relation to recruitment) is."

Citing the fact that students must provide detailed information on their own backgrounds, the report says it is "entirely appropriate to require from each prospective employer a detailed breakdown of his research and product categories, and corresponding income and sales, including military and non-military, foreign and domestic major items, and sources of research funds."

"We desire," the report goes on, "the opportunity to be able to 'interview' our

Council to Lose Rep. Gregory?

Non-Affiliated Rep Jim Gregory, a radical voice on Leg Council, is expected to resign at the meeting tonight.

"The only way student government could be effective," Gregory said yesterday, "if radicals could take control of it and use it for some clear objectives, which would destroy student government. But with only one or two radical voices on Council, it's still dominated by old student-government types."

Gregory said that he would submit his written resignation "as soon as I can find a typewriter to write it on." He had been signed up as a candidate for a second term as a non-affiliated rep, but said he was dropping out of the race.

Rec. Dept. in Dilemma; More A.S. Funds Needed

By JOE KIEFFER
EG Staff Writer

Recently the Recreation Department submitted its new budget to the Associated Students asking for $83,000. That is approximately $75,000 more than they received this year—or roughly one half of what they say is needed to do a really adequate job. For years this has been the dilemma of the Recreation Department: not enough money.

Operating out of the badly worn old Student Union, the Recreation Department is under-staffed and overworked. It has only three full time people serving the needs of 10,000 students. In contrast, UCLA has 16 full time employees and a budget of several hundred thousand dollars.

This year the UCSB Rec. Dept. received only $8,000. Naturally everybody is after a chunk of A.S. funds, and there is a limited amount. But the Rec. Dept. feels that they, more than anybody, fill one of the students' most urgent demands: rest, leisure, and recreation.

They open the swimming pools, the weight room, and the gyms. They set up judo, bowling, and riding clubs. They

All UC Grad Conference Clashes with Hitch's Ideas

By STEVEN M. PLEVIN
EG Staff Writer

Graduate students from all UC campuses met at Lake Arrowhead in March to discuss the "Philosophy of the University."

According to participant Judd Adams, a Psychology graduate student from UCSB, a clash in interpretations of priority between UC President Hitch and the 35 graduates was quickly revealed.

Hitch's introductory talk dealt with the University's social service programs and avoided the evident dominant interest of the group which was the concern over the present state of undergraduate education.

In the question and answer period following the talk, Hitch was met with openly critical and even hostile queries concerning the University's involvement with the "military-industrial complex," among other things.

Hitch responded to questions with an admission that he had no answers and requested that the group make suggestions. This was kept in mind during the following day-and-a-half of meetings and discussions.

One of the important discoveries gained from the conference was that graduate students could be an important force in the process of educational innovation on the campuses by stimulating thought and discussion. However, ultimate decisions have to be made by the Academic Senates on each campus who are charged with the responsibility of determining educational policy.

The convocation plan being

OIL POLLUTION SYMPOSIUM

What Can Be Done to Combat Any Future Oil Slicks?

By MIKE LIFTON
EG Feature Editor
(Second of Two Parts)

Speakers in the afternoon session of the oil pollution symposium held last Saturday devoted themselves to the biological and economic effects of the oil slick, and to courses of action that are being taken to combat future disasters.

According to Professor J. H. Connell, of the UCSB Biology Department, it is difficult, if not impossible, to ascertain how much of the biological damage to the Santa Barbara beaches is due to the oil slick and how much is due to the heavy winter storms.

Most animals appear to be relatively unharmed by the slick, at least on a short-term basis, he noted. Sand fleas, mussels, and limpets have survived quite well.

Two kinds of animals have been devastated by the slick—diving birds, which must go through the oil, and barnacles.

According to Connell, of those barnacles which have been found on oil-coated rocks, 75 to 90 per cent are dead. This figure may be compared to a 10 per cent mortality rate on rocks with no oil.

About the only possible dangerous effects of the oil spill now will be long-term ones, which cannot be determined yet, such as hormone balance, reproduction, and rate of growth.

Sierra Club Director Fred Eissler told of the Club's efforts to insure that no repetition of the spill will occur.

His three-point program included the phase-out of oil operations in the channel, the declaration of a "marine protective zone" or wildlife refuge, and the establishment of a regional Southern California agency devoted to the conservation and development of coastal resources.

Eissler was followed on the program by Santa Barbara County Supervisor George Clyde, who, delineating the economic effects of the oil slick on Santa Barbara businessmen, cited lost tourist revenue for hotels, restaurants, service stations, sport fishing, and retail stores.

However, he envisioned a more dangerous consequence to the area's economy if the drilling is allowed to continue—a change from a tourist-based economy to an oil-based one.

A more hopeful outlook was presented by the next two speakers, Dr. G. P. Canevari of Esso Research, Inc. and Robert Rod of the American Process Equipment Corp.

Canevari explained several chemical techniques available for handling oil spills, such as the use of gelling agents, straw, molten wax, and sand.

Rod described mechanical techniques that can now be used to treat oil slicks. He said that his company has developed

FT. ORD--A military police officer testified today that reading articles of mutiny to demonstrators in the San Francisco Presidio stockade "was superfluous."

ANAHEIM--Representative John Tunney (D-Calif.) said today he should be considered a possible Senate candidate to oppose Senator George Murphy.

But Tunney said he is still trying to determine how much support he would be able to muster and he has made no decision yet.

WASHINGTON--Tobacco state congressmen, contending the health case against smoking is unproven, called today for action to block a proposed ban on radio and television advertising of cigarettes.

WASHINGTON--Senator Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said today he expects the Democratic National Committee to match efforts by the GOP counterpart in furnishing Congress information on the Safeguard anti-missile system.

Satirical Pot-shots Taken At Theatre, Protest, Fads

Looking for satire? Rehearsals are currently in progress at UCSB for "Hit and Run 1969," an "intimate satirical revue," to be presented May 6-11 and 13-17, in the UCSB Studio Theatre.

The "play-revue," which includes satirical pot-shots at everything including Shakespeare, the Absurdist Theatre, students, current forms of protest and movie fads, is being written and directed by UCSB Professor of Dramatic Art, Dr. Theodore W. Hatlen.

Hatlen, a playwright with some half dozen plays to his credit, as well as author of the popular text, "Orientation to the Theatre," commented about some of the problems of producing comedy and satire in today's complex, changing society.

"There are very few subjects that are not fair game for comedy today," Hatlen noted. "A certain erosion of regard for authority and power has taken place in recent years, and we seem to have very few sacred cows still out in the pasture.

"There is no longer a strong tradition of Bob Hope comedy, 'gags for gag's sake,' and the trend toward pure social commentary from comics, plays and films is continuing. Much of television satire a la 'Laugh-In' and 'Smothers Brothers' is directly attuned to the problems that are disturbing many people today.

"In this regard, the satire serves as an escape valve, a means of releasing pent-up emotions about serious social topics," Hatlen continued. "The theatre can function especially well in this area, providing a platform for vivid visual comedy as well."

Concerning the revue style of presentation, "The revue form has been very popular in England, where it is part of the Music Hall tradition of comedy," Hatlen noted, "In America, we've seen the satire of the Committee, the Second City, New Faces, and the Premise, but these have been few and far between."

Hatlen related his several visits to the Orient as director of a USO troupe of players by noting that "...the Japanese, judging from their theatre, wouldn't seem to have much of a sense of humor. A strong tradition of authority preempts any kind of social satire from appearing in the theatre.

"There are so many things that a comic actor can do that a stand-up comic in a night club or television simply cannot do because of the difference in their scope and style," Hatlen concluded. "Even more important, however, is the flexibility of the 'revue' form. In 'Hit and Run,' we'll have ample time to work with the satire during rehearsals improvising, changing, and adapting, as we proceed. The 'revue' gives us an extremely flexible form in which to work and experiment with satire."

Tickets for "Hit and Run 1969" are now on sale at the Arts and Lectures Box Office, the Lobero Theatre and the Discount Record Center at La Cumbre Plaza. For further ticket information, call 961-3535.

Summer Program Set For Foreign Students

UCSB will again sponsor the International Summer Program designed to orient newly arrived foreign students to the university and to American culture and society. One hundred foreign students and 25 American students will participate in the eight week program (July 13 to September 5, 1969).

Under the direction of Maxwell D. Epstein, the program will feature intensive instruction in English, discussion and seminars on contemporary American issues, academic courses in history and sociology, as well as extracurricular activities.

Foreign students will live with a number of carefully selected American students who will attend classes with the foreign students. These selected American students will also lead discussions of the course material and other aspects of American society which are of interest to the participants.

American students selected will receive a $100 stipend in addition to room, board, tuition and books. There is also a limited number of work-study jobs available in the program.

Fundamental to the program will be the intensive English language training designed to help the foreign student (where necessary) bridge the sometimes uncomfortable language barrier.

Any foreign student planning to attend an American university or college is eligible for admission. Eligibility for American students in the program is limited to graduates or undergraduates at the University of California.

Interested persons are encouraged to write or contact Maxwell D. Epstein, Director, Santa Barbara International Summer Program, University of California, Santa Barbara, California 93106.

Give your contact lenses a bath tonight

In order to keep your contact lenses as comfortable and convenient as they were meant to be, you have to take care of them. But until now you needed two or more separate solutions to properly prepare and maintain your contacts. Not with Lensine. Lensine is the one lens solution for complete contact lens care.

Cleaning your contacts with Lensine retards the buildup of foreign deposits on the lenses. And soaking your contacts in Lensine overnight assures you of proper lens hygiene. You get a free soaking case on the bottom of every bottle of Lensine.

It has been demonstrated that improper storage between wearings may result in the growth of bacteria on the lenses. This is a sure cause of eye irritation and in some cases can endanger your vision. Bacteria cannot grow in Lensine which is sterile, self-sanitizing, and antiseptic.

Just a drop or two of Lensine, before you insert your lens, coats and lubricates it allowing the lens to float more freely in the eye's fluids. That's because Lensine is an "isotonic" solution, which means that it blends with the natural fluids of the eye.

Let your contacts be the convenience they were meant to be. Get some Lensine, from the Murine Company, Inc.

'So What's A Mini-military Base Doing Here?'

ISSUE: Why should ROTC pack its bag?

ROTC, as it now stands in relation to the University, should leave. But, and here's our confession, this demand is a tactical move.

The University is committed to intellectual inquiry and critical thinking. Our present ROTC program glosses over this, providing Boy Scout marches and training that are made frighteningly real by the military.

The proper place for ROTC is as an academic subject dedicated to inquiry into the military's tactics, history, power, and future. Military science, if you will.

So what's a mini-military base doing here?

If we demand that ROTC get out, then it is quite possible that some form of military study will be implemented in its proper place at the University.

This place may be the History or Sociology Department. Maybe even the Psychology Department. Probably the best place for it is as an interdepartmental study because of the vast area of influence such a study entails.

If military science ever does become an academic subject, it would obviously be taught by professors who, hopefully, would have no vested interest in indoctrinating lean, ready young men into a way of life alien to the principles of intellectual inquiry.

And more . . . the faults, mistakes, and validity of our present and past military system could be analyzed and studied. A military training program, such as ROTC, does not do this, or if it does occasionally, not as well as could be.

To drive this point home, ask yourself whether or not our military has changed much in its authoritarian structure.

Surely it's not perfect as it is, even though some of its members may think it is.

A good analogy can be made between the close connection colleges had, in the past, with religion. One went to school to learn the classics, piety, reverence, and the correct interpretation of the Bible.

Well, now, one goes through ROTC learning the classic tradition of the military, to revere it, and to learn the correct interpretation of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Let us pray this doesn't go on.

But even better, since we can't rely on the eccentricities of angels, let's simply get ROTC out and a valid program of military study in.

Once you're in the 'real' service there is time enough to learn drilling, shooting, saluting, and spittin' shoes.

Human Rights Include Property

By TIBOR MACHAN

OPEN LETTER TO ARGO:

In your January issue you reprinted a letter from Vernon L. Sturgeon to various members of the clergy from San Mateo, California. You underlined the following portion of the letter: "... Governor Reagan . . . asked me to tell you . . . that he places property rights above human rights . . ." Presumably you found this sentiment controversial—why else the emphasis!?

I will not defend the Governor's view. But I will attempt to give reasons to find a similar view—the sound one in this general area.

Property rights—the right to be a property owner, not a right to property—are some of several rights human beings are said to possess. This idea is based variously on theories of natural rights, positive rights, and so on. The literature on the concept of "rights" is too large to list here; suffice it to note that the issue is not one which has not received attention in our intellectual history.

At any rate, a human right is a right possessed by a (any) human being. Presumably, to lose a certain right, one must act in such a way as to forfeit that right. That, vaguely, is the justification for criminal punishment.

The right to be an owner (property rights) is just one right human beings possess. Property rights relate to human rights somewhat in the way in which chairs are related to furniture or pieces of furniture.

One cannot, logically, put the two pairs in conflict. That is, there cannot be a choice between chairs or furniture—the latter is the general class under which the former is subsumed. In the same way, there cannot be a choice or a conflict between property rights and human rights—the latter is the general class under which the former belongs.

What, I believe, is the real issue in the conflict between property rights and human rights is a supposed conflict between property rights and some other human right (s). I confess that I do not know what the other human right (s) could be. If the human right to life were to be in conflict with the human right to be a property owner, and if one were to opt for the right to life, it would soon be evident that the right to life is precisely the right on which property rights depend.

In other words, to deny a person's property rights involves denying his right to life—how can he live his life without the right to keep and use what he does with this life (his creations, products)? Conversely, the right to life cannot be denied without denying property rights—witness slavery or the military draft: both deprive man of his human rights to life and to be a property owner.

More could be said on this issue, of course. Talk about rights involves a great deal of controversy reaching into the depths of philosophy and ethics. But if one wishes to talk about rights and accept such talk as justified, what I point out above needs to be taken into account.

LETTERS

POLIS Leaks State Secrets

The most sinister development of the quarter is the institution of a new series of courses called Project POLIS, which occupies a good part of the second floor of "Ellison Hall" (EG, April 9). Its object is to admit future elitists into the mysteries of the modern state by simulating the conditions under which it actually operates.

Suppose, for example, that you are playing a harassed city mayor trying to prevent oil interests from agglutinating your coastline. A simulation is then set up in which you face other students who represent Secretary Hickel, Governor Reagan, the president of Union Oil, marine biologists subsidized by oil companies, impotent congressmen, etc.—a sort of chess game with a single pawn on one side and thirty-one pieces on the other.

Or suppose that you are playing Director of the U.S. Budget, and decide to spend $30 billion on the cities this year. In will troop the Pentagon, the aerospace industry, the farm lobby, and even Wally Hickel again; in the end, you will be able to allot only $9.98, but you will have a deep and commiserating appreciation of the problems of Mr. Stans and the Nixon administration.

The aims of the Project are clear. It teaches you by trauma the rules of the real Game (or at least such part of it as is fit for you to know at this stage of your career); it encourages you to identify unreservedly with whatever phantom powerlord you are impersonating, even down to having your own office; and above all, it conditions you to accept a system of insanity as a rational norm and to function within it.

Kafka is logical, too, once you accept the premise that you can wake up one morning to find you have become a giant insect.

Simulation games are really old hat; Ridgeway in "The Closed Corporation" indicates that they were a fad of the early sixties. But at UCSB, behind the times as usual, they have only just arrived. Who knows? Perhaps they can do the state some service yet.

What Violence Is Valid?

On the morning of April 11, just after the appalling crime at the Faculty Club in which the most unspeakable injuries were inflicted upon Dover Sharp, UCSB SDS emitted an incredibly shameless statement in which they condemned "random violence" and "random terrorism," and concluded, "No one is served by the death of an innocent man."

I would like SDS and its mickey-mouse crew of amateur revolutionaries and stormtroopers to tell the rest of the student body exactly what kinds of violence and terrorism it favors, and exactly which of us are not "innocent" men.

Anyone else interested in the answers???

MICHAEL M. ENGLER

Wake Up

(Editor's note: This letter was submitted before Mr. Sharp died.)

After the shock of learning of the senseless bombing which may result in the death of Mr. Dover O. Sharp, most students could do nothing but hang their heads in sorrow. It brought back to mind the killings of Dr. King, President Kennedy, Senator Kennedy, Honorable Malcolm X, and countless others who are being injured or killed in vain in this country, Viet Nam and many other parts of the world.

However, on this campus we have no one to blame but ourselves, as we have sat quietly while a few people have made our campus ripe for fanatics like James Earl Ray, Oswald, Sirhan Sirhan, and the sick person who left the bomb in the Faculty Club.

This person, or the one who threw the firebomb at the ROTC building, may not even be a student, but if a student didn't commit these acts, we are ripe plums for blame. When are we going to wake up and start thinking?

I regret that I must mention the following in the light of this terrible tragedy; however, this bombing—and any confrontation for the sake of confrontation—is only hurting us and throwing gasoline on Governor Reagan's popularity fire. These senseless acts on University and college campuses are going to get him re-elected as Governor and probably eventually to the White House.

Therefore, we must change the tactics that are being used on campuses to some which are capable of communicating to the public that students are responsible citizens working for constitutional justice.

We cannot turn to anarchism, nor can we allow the country to drift further toward the horrors of George Orwell's "1984," as the generation before us has. Such a thought is horrible, so we should work to make our campus a place where man endeavors to prepare himself and others to suppress these acts of violence throughout the world, and to provide for mankind a place of well-being and harmony.

This is not a task for any one ethnic group, but a collective fight for all races, colors, and non-discriminatory creeds. No matter what type of political system one is living under, destruction of human life in the name of the state or egotism is inhuman and ungodly. This is our school, thus we are victims of the senseless bombing as well as Mr. Sharp.

a society which preaches violence.

Even if YAF had singled out the left for condemnation (which we didn't), your statement concerning the rhetoric of violence from the Right (i.e. Reagan) is logically fallacious. There is a difference between initiated violence (closing down a campus by means of force) and reactive violence (sending U.S. troops into Little Rock to protect rights or Reagan sending forces onto campuses to protect students not wishing to be bullied by the violent tactics of the left).

Mr. Bettinger, in the special supplement of EG, you stated that failure to condemn the bombing would result in approval by silence. Where were you when YAF petitioned the student body to when we posted signs reading "Today a building tomorrow a life"?

Only after the damage has been done and a life has been destroyed, only after it is all right with the campus left, do you, Mr. Bettinger, condemn violence. Mr. Bettinger your past silence on campus disruption lays YOU open to "the charge of endorsement by inaction."

On April 8 you attacked the State Senate for passing measures designed not to stop dissent but to curb violence and disruption. Apparently by attacking the Senate you felt that the ability of a student to disrupt and forcibly impose his will on others is an inviolable right. On April 14 you attack violence.

Do individuals have a right to be protected from the excesses of others (left or right) or don't they? ALL POWER TO THE INDIVIDUAL.

Pandora's Box Opens

If there is but one thing we may do for Mr. Sharp and his family, it is to realize deeply within ourselves that violence is non-controllable. It is neither good nor evil, but it is the opening of Pandora's box. When we say to ourselves that there is nothing we can do short of a violent act, we are not looking at a means to an end, but chaos, and the blackest kind of injustice. I doubt that the bomb was intended to kill anybody, but whoever did it is now a murderer.

Concerned Too Late

It should be noted that, after the ROTC building on campus was firebombed January 5 of this year, UCSB Young Americans for Freedom posted a sign by the UCen which read, "Keep it up, firebombers; next time you'll murder someone."

We did this because there was almost no concern over the incident from anyone on campus, and YAF felt that some public protest should be made that might deter future violence.

So now EG wonders what the hell kind of campus we have. Where the hell were you when we needed you, three months ago?

Long Beach Juggles Net Lineup; Slip by Gaucho Racketeers, 6-3

By SCOTT SLOTTERBECK
EG Sports Writer

Bowing to a better balanced team, the UCSB varsity tennis team dropped its fourth out of the last five matches Monday, this time to the visiting Cal State Long Beach squad, 6-3. By losing this match, Santa Barbara's seasonal record dipped below the "break even" point again, and now stands at 12 wins and 13 losses.

Cal State's team was helped immeasurably by letting some of their lower ranked members play in the top spots, and letting those high ranked players go against lower ranked Santa Barbara men. By doing so, they lost the number one match, but were assured of wins in the lower ranks.

In that first game, an indication of how they juggled their players came as Wayne

Bryan had no trouble beating CSCLB's Haristier. With his wicked serve working for him, Bryan totally dominated the game, winning 6-0, 6-0.

In the number two and three games, Santa Barbara didn't fare as well, winning a game, and losing a close one. Santa Barbara's number two man, Dave Grokenberger, lost a close one in three sets to Drobvich from Long Beach, 6-4, 3-6, 3-6. Teammate Eric Lewis, playing great ball, fared better, winning in three sets as he beat the 49ers' Litrick 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

Play in the rest of the singles matches was hampered by the shifting of Long Beach's players, with Jamie Miller, Bill Eddy, and Phil Bartlett suffering losses.

Santa Barbara did no better in doubles, winning only one of the three matches. In the first doubles match, Bryan and Miller were upset by the Long Beach team of Drobvich and Litnick.

The Gaucho netmen pulled an upset in the number two spot as the swiftly improving team of Grokenberger and Lewis won again, coming out on top of a three set match against Haristier and Goodman, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. In the third doubles game, Eddy and Bartlett lost to CSCLB's Simpson and Grimm 5-7, 2-6.

Despite the loss, coach Ed Doty of the Gaucho tennis team attested to the fact that although his team "had its ups and downs" in this match, it was "overall, a much improved team." With regards to the season his team has been having, Doty asserted that in spite of the 12-13 record, "We're doing very well."

Today, the team travels to Los Angeles to meet tough Cal State Los Angeles at 2 p.m.

Volleyballers Meet UCLA

Santa Barbara's talented volleyball team travels to UCLA tonight to play the team that Gaucho Coach Ted Fish has called "the most powerful team in the nation, at this point in the season."

The UCSB squad goes to Westwood with a 2-0 league record and an opportunity to knock off one of the three teams that share first place in the Southern California Intercollegiate Volleyball Association.

The Gauchos will be taking the court without the services of one of last year's mainstays, Chris Casebeer, who has been out all year with a broken ankle. Although Casebeer is out of the cast, Coach Fish reports that he is not at full strength and probably will not see action.

However, Fish is very optimistic about his team's chances, especially in light of its sparkling play against USC last Friday. Setters Dave Shoji and Steve Sterling will put the ball up for the hitters, Chris Roberts, Jon Lee, and the two Tims, Clime and Bonyng.

Fish can also call on two of the finest substitutes in the league, Warren Crinklaw and Jim Simpson.

UCLA has surprised some teams early in the season with a new offense that the Bruins picked up from the U.S. Olympic team. They switch their front line hitters back and forth, making it very difficult for the other team to set up blocks. Fish has come up with a play that he thinks can defend this Olympic cross.

"If we serve well enough to stop them (UCLA) from getting the good initial pass which sets up their hits, we can get off to a good start," he noted. "If we put it all together, there is no reason why we can't beat UCLA. I'm sure the boys are ready."

Game time is 8 p.m. in the old gym on the Bruin campus for any fans who are interested in traveling south for the showdown.

Wygant, Star Gaucho Triple Jumper, Finds Flying Helps Him Soar Farther

By GERALD NEECE
EG Sports Staff

Jerry Wygant, UCSB's talented triple-jumper, has got this thing about flying. Two years ago, when the Gauchos flew to Utah for the NCAA College Division track championships, Wygant used the opportunity to set a new school record and become the NCAA College Division triple jump champion.

Last year, when the Gauchos flew to Colorado Springs for their annual meet with the Air Force Academy, Wygant leaped 49' 1" for another new school mark. Last week, after flying to Tucson, Arizona for a triangular meet with the University of Arizona and the University of New Mexico, Wygant broke the magic 50 foot barrier, and his own school record, with a fantastic 50' 1½" leap.

"I always figured that if the school is going to put out all that money to take me to one of those meets, I owe them a good performance in return," said the lanky senior.

Wygant, at 6'1", 155 pounds, has received a lot of kidding about his frame. Two years ago, Jerry was introduced at the annual track banquet as the guy whose "skinny legs carried him to a new school record." But as Wygant says, in reference to the fact that he graduates in June, "They aren't going to have Jerry to kick around any more."

Wygant comes to UCSB from Riverside, California, a Ramona High School graduate. "I really can't tell you why I came here," said Jerry. "I just kind of stumbled on to the place." Wygant was what you might call "recruited."

"Coach Adams never contacted me before I came to UCSB. One day my freshman year I just popped into his office and said 'Here I am, what do you want?' He took one look at me and put me on a crash weight program."

Often noted for being a track jack-of-all-trades, Wygant has competed in about nine different events while a member of the Gauchos, including the triple jump, long jump, high jump, 100, 220, 440, 440 relay, 880 relay, and mile relay.

In high school, Wygant tried several others, including the 120 high hurdles and the 180 low hurdles. While at Ramona, Wygant also tried cross country.

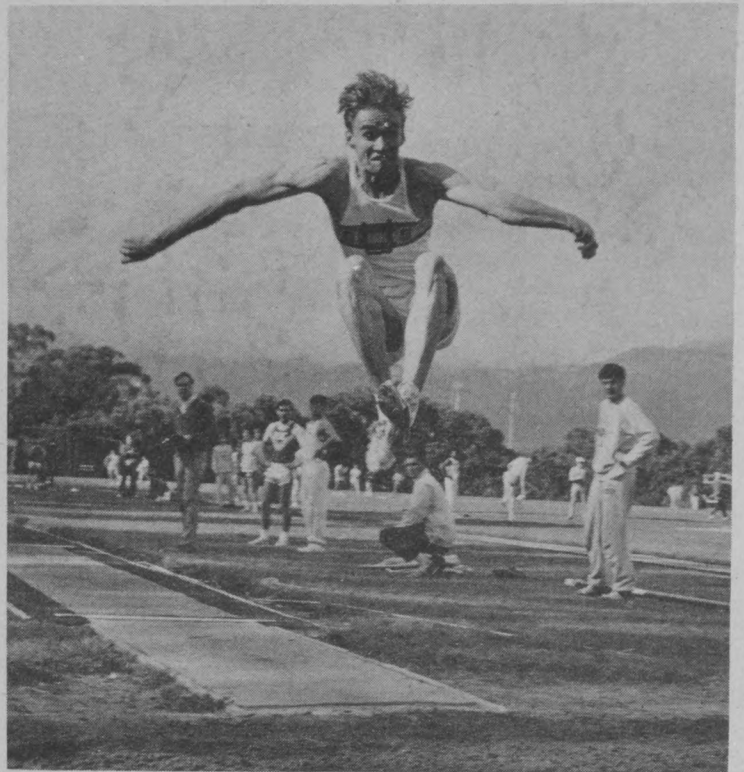

"The first cross country race I ever ran, I ran the two mile course in 22 minutes and 10 seconds. It wasn't that I started out fast and died; in fact, I started slow, finished slow, and walked a lot in between. But by the end of the season I was down to 11:32."

Bothered by a bad ankle in the past weeks, Wygant has been taking only one jump a meet in the triple jump and long jump in the last three meets. Last Saturday however, Wygant took a couple of extra jumps and went an estimated 51' on a jump on which he fouled less than one inch.

Wygant feels that with some help from his ailing ankle, he can go at least 51, maybe even 52 feet by the end of the season. When will he do it?

"Well, like I said," explained Wygant, "I have this thing about flying and in June when I fly to Tennessee for the University nationals . . ."

Rec. Dept. Budget Dilemma

provide ski trips, hikes and different outings. And they do much more. But, they cannot satisfy the current student demand.

For instance, the boat club currently has over 120 members, but only five boats. The riding club has 14 horses, but only volunteer students to take care of them. Students are asking for photo shops, ceramic classes, or that gyms be opened more.

The recreation department finances the crew, fencing, and rugby teams. Some coaches are paid nothing for their time and efforts.

Part of the problem seems to be poor coordination among the Recreation, the Physical Activities, and the Intercollegiate Athletics Departments. Basically, the latter two have priority over the Rec. Dept. They get more money. They have better facilities, bigger staffs, and more space.

This year the IAC received $76,000 from the Associated Students. $286,000 of Incidental Fees was allotted to them. The Rec. Dept. got a total of about $85,000 from both.

The Rec. Dept. does not deny the need for a good football team. But it would like to see more money channeled to the entire student body. Next year they are going to try to open up the gyms on week nights from 10 p.m.-2 a.m. but this requires more money for attendants and supervisors. As of now the gyms are open only on weekends. And sometimes not even then.

Student Service

prospective employer just as much, if not more, than he wishes to interview us."

The report also asserts that the Placement Center at present tends "to emphasize permanent placement in large, standardized, educational, business, and governmental complexes," and urges that efforts be made to broaden the range of placement services available to students: "The Placement Center should see to it that career opportunities are not defined exclusively by those firms and agencies which make use of the Office."

New areas which might be included are occupations in the skilled crafts and social change.

The report concludes by recommending that the administration of the Placement Center be placed in the hands of a board such as the University Center Governing Board (which is composed of students, faculty and administrators).

The Placement Center is presently directly responsible to the Chancellor's Office.

The report also recommends that a recently-instituted Chancellor's advisory committee on the Placement Center "be given broad enough authority and responsibility to initiate those changes which we have asked for."

put into practice at UCSB as well received as a means for providing interchange between students and faculty.

Discussion topics covered a wide area including the differences between "research" in the humanities and the sciences, the meaning of "relevance" (students' needs, students' interests, post-college pursuits), the lack of clarity in defining just what "efficiency" in the University should be, and the relative merits of pass/not pass course treatments.

Students were encouraged to submit papers on these topics which will ultimately be put into a report at the end of the year. For further information on this graduate student program students are urged to contact Adams, Psychology 2953.

ECSTASY IN THE RADIO ROOM??? Cy Godfrey, manager of KCSB, gives an excellent example to his troops by throwing himself wholeheartedly into his work, or maybe he was just practicing for his debut at Carnegie Hall.

Oil Disaster Prevention...

a new technique which, if it had been available for the Santa Barbara disaster, would have captured the oil as it rose to the surface.

Following Rod's presentation, Dr. S. Fred Singer, Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Interior, described the recently completed National Contingency Plan which was drawn up to deal with pollution "wherever it occurs—whether in navigable water, on land, or off-shore."

The symposium concluded with a panel discussion of disaster plans by Lt. George Brown of the U.S. Coast Guard, General Research Corporation's Al Allen, and Frank Hortig, executive officer of the California State Lands Commission.
