Student radicals organize group

By JOHN MAYBURY
News Editor

Problems of structure-dominated Thursday evening's meeting of campus radicals and liberals.

Although, as one participant put it, "everyone that should be here is home turning on," the new Radical Organizing Committee (ROC) emerged out of the chaos.

Cries of "let's have an organization" rang the death knell of an SDS chapter organized here last year. Several SDS people will remain in that group; however, they have agreed to work under the ROC "umbrella."

One of these stalwarts, Ken Jennings, told the meeting of fifty people that he was "sorely afraid" of image-making and that he would not "make a feint in that direction" simply in order to achieve a unified front. Jennings, incidentally, is the "Socratic" gentleman manning the radical literature table currently in front of the library.

Hubert Jessup, also of SDS, accepted temporary chairmanship of ROC, immediately announcing the formation of subcommittees for study and action on: Civil Rights, Student Rights, Peace, and Education. He will head up the steering committee to coordinate both the sub-committees and the many interest groups in ROC.

LSD possibilities listed by Cohen

By GARY ALBERS
Staff Writer

(Part 2 in a series on the lecture last Wednesday; Sidney Cohen, of the UCLA Medical Center, speaking on Hallucinogens.)

While discussing "bad trips", Dr. Cohen stated that "the bad trip isn't what brings people to the hospital... That's lived through and people recover... I don't consider a bad trip as a complication of LSD." He went on to warn, however, that "there are people who should never have LSD."

This category included fringe-line mental cases. Unfortunately, he said, many of these are the "very ones who are attracted to it, for certain reasons." He failed to elaborate on these implied reasons.

SHORT CONDENSATION

In an obvious attempt to condense a magnificent subject into a short lecture, Cohen made only a brief entry into the realm of philosophical and moral implications of the drug. His overall attitude seemed to lie somewhere between the much-publicized and charismatic approach of Timothy Leary, the ex-Harvard LSD advocate, and that of the reactionary concern of establishment authorities.

He doubted that LSD "expands" the consciousness of the user, but admitted that there were certainly "changes" involved.

RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE?

Although he has witnessed fascinating "religious" experiences in people under the effect of LSD, he felt that such an occurrence was much more likely with the "highly prepared individual."

Indeed, persons seeking LSD as the means to a spontaneous "transcendental experience" stand a good chance of being disappointed.

Cohen concluded his lecture with several questions which he feels may be at least partially answered through further research into the LSD state:

- 1.) "What is the nature of human faith?"
- 2.) "Can one have instantaneous character change?"
- 3.) "If instantaneous character change is possible, does the LSD state produce it?"

Brown attacks Reagan tuition

By RICHARD HORNING
L.A. Herald Examiner

Gov. Edmund G. Brown accused Republican gubernatorial candidate Ronald Reagan of suggesting legislation that would force tens of thousands of college and university students to quit school.

Speaking at a breakfast in Los Angeles Thursday, Brown said he was referring to Reagan's proposal that tuition be required in state colleges and state universities.

Brown said, "Every study shows that tens of thousands of California students would be forced to drop out of school if their parents had to pay tuition."

SOAK SUBURBS

"This would be soaking the suburbs with a vengeance and... be tampering unnecessarily with a system that has made California the center of the educational and scientific world," he went on.

The governor, on the second day of a campaign swing through San Fernando Valley, also said he would present legislation next January to make funds available to schools that want to make kindergarten available to 4-year-olds.

He also promised to seek legislation to end double sessions in kindergarten throughout the state.

He said: "I will present to the legislature a program to cut property taxes, and raise the state's share of the cost of local schools to an average of 50 per cent."

SEES SURPLUS

Last night, the governor told some 300 persons in Oxnard there will be a surplus of $205 million in the State Treasury by next June 30.

Addressing a civic-award dinner at Knights of Columbus Hall, he listed what he termed the "accomplishments of my administration."

In rapid-fire fashion, Brown told the enthusiastic KC members and guests:

"Our state's economy can best be described in one single, glowing word: Prosperity."

He said, pounding the lectern, that California last month re-

University Day hosts visitors

More than 2500 students, their parents and school counselors are expected to attend the traditional University Day festivities at UCSB Saturday. The campus "open house" for prospective students from high schools and junior colleges from throughout the state will begin at 9 a.m. with registration and refreshments in Storke Plaza.

Tours of the campus, the residence halls, classroom and office buildings, laboratories and other points of interest will be conducted. There will be special displays by the Institute of Environmental Stress, the computer center, educational television, and in the departments of mechanical engineering, chemistry, geography and dramatic art.

Following a luncheon in the University Center from 11 a.m. to 1:45 p.m., guests are invited to a program in Campbell Hall to hear addresses by UCSB Chancellor Vernon I. Cheadle and AS President Jay Jeffcoat. The dramatic art department also will present a reading.

Also scheduled during the day are a 10:15 water polo clinic, an 11 a.m. water polo match between UCSB and Brigham Young University, a 1 p.m. water polo match between UCSB and Mt. Whitney and a 2 p.m. soccer match between UCSB and Cal Tech.

ON THE FAR side of the library, the dusty field of last year has been transformed into a grassy quad with paved walks and wooden benches. The new quad, completed the middle of last week, is ready for student use.

EDITORIAL

The Mentally Ill

Editor's Note - this editorial from the American Rifleman is reprinted for the purpose of presenting a view contrary to EL GAUCHO editorial of last Monday.

The killing, in Chicago, of 8 nurses by Richard Speck with a knife and by strangulation and the killing, in Austin, of the 15 persons and wounding of 31 others by Charles Whitman with a knife and gun are tragedies of modern society.

Both killers were obviously deranged mentally, but man's knowledge of the human mind is so limited that even those with professional training in psychiatry can only surmise the causes of their violent actions. Almost any day one may pick up a newspaper and find reports of violent deaths wrought with various instruments, for example, knives, razors, silk stockings, axes, and guns, by individuals who are described as mentally disturbed.

Certainly the time is at hand to seek means by which society can identify, treat, and temporarily isolate such individuals. Obviously, elimination of the instrument by which these crimes are committed cannot arrest the ravages of a psychotic murderer.

In our society it is a legal requirement for physicians to report to local authorities those individuals with communicable diseases so that potential sources of danger to society can be identified. Likewise, physicians who treat gunshot wounds are required to report the incidents to the local police so that proper authorities can be alerted to a danger to society.

Certainly physicians who learn of such dangers to society, through psychiatric interviews and procedures, should be required to notify the U.S. Public Health Service or the police of the potential source of danger.

The psychiatrist to whom Whitman turned earlier this year discloses that during an interview Whitman revealed his intent to climb the tower of the University of Texas to shoot those individuals he found below. In this comment, society had a warning that it did not heed. The consequence was a terrible tragedy.

From the many news reports, it is known that at the time of the shootings in Austin, there were possibly physical sources of some of Whitman's troubles. For example, the autopsy has revealed the presence of a tumor on Whitman's brain. Newspaper accounts have also revealed that at the time of death, Whitman had in his possession a supply of the amphetamine dextedrine, sometimes referred to as "goof balls". The easy availability of drugs of these types also must be seriously examined.

From the reports about the man himself, Whitman is described as an exemplary man. No provision of the Dodd Bill (S. 1592) would have prevented the young man Whitman from obtaining firearms by legal means. It is recognized that no law could be formulated that would prevent a Whitman from obtaining firearms without prohibiting firearms to all persons.

Certainly it is contradictory that those who favor passage of the Dodd Bill must first explain that the S. 1592 would not have prevented the tragic shooting in Austin and then urge its passage as a means to control firearms.

The early identification, cure, and treatment of 2 1/2 million mentally ill in the United States assumes a new importance of tremendous dimensions. The National Rifle Association urges the Congress to fully study the question and to analyze what appropriate steps can be taken to solve the problem.

OPEN FORUM

White backlash force in November elections

By DAVID BERSON

The Collegiate Press Service

"The white backlash is real enough," wrote a Saturday Evening Post writer before the 1964 playing fitfully in the political sky. It may dissipate itself without ever striking or it may coalesce into a blinding thunderbolt that will shatter the electoral landscape."

The white backlash that lurked in 1964 appears on its way to materializing in November elections of 1966. The two major developments in civil rights are convenient, potent, and apparently respectable targets for candidates in this year's elections: the new militancy of some elements in the Negro leadership, and the Johnson administration's civil rights bill calling for an end to discrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

In July of 1964, pollster Lou Harris reported that three major segments of the American public reacted intensely to the civil rights movement -- white southerners, suburbanites, and white minority groups in the North.

The general feeling among whites, according to the poll, was that Negroes were entitled to their rights and a better shake, but that they were going too fast and asking for too much.

The clearest trend was simply that whites did not want Negroes to move into their neighborhoods. One political forecaster went so far as to say, "The governing axiom is this: the closer a neighborhood is to actual or imminent racial change, the greater the Goldwater vote." In California, voters repealed the state open housing law by a two to one margin and, at the same time, defeated Pierre Salinger who opposed repeal. A housing proposal in Akron, Ohio, met a similar fate.

When the black power philosophy emerged from the Meredith March this summer, the Johnson administration was in the midst of trying to push its 1966 civil rights proposals through Congress.

When submitted to the House by President Johnson on April 28, the bill made it "unlawful to discriminate against any person in the terms, conditions, or privileges of sale, rental, or lease of a dwelling or in the provision of services or facilities in connection therewith because of race, color, religion, or national origin."

When it passed on August 9, it included an amendment by Rep. Charles McMathias (R.-Md.) which exempted single dwelling homes and apartment buildings with less than five units. With the amendment, the bill covers an estimated 23 million living units, only about 40 per cent of the total number in the United States, and would have exempted 37 million units.

In the House 111 congressmen who had voted for the 1965 Voting Rights bill defected to oppose Johnson civil rights proposals. They included 62 Northern Republicans and 28 Northern Democrats.

In mid-September Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield failed to muster enough votes to cut off a filibuster and defeat the opponents of the bill led by Minority Leader Everett Dirksen. In the Senate, Ohio Democrat Frank Lausche joined 12 Republicans who had voted for the Voting Rights bill in opposing cloture. Mansfield failed again the following week, and the bill is all but dead for this year.

The housing issue, coupled with denunciations of the new black militancy, is thus a potent political force. If exploited by Republicans, it could mean large gains for the GOP in the North, and new headaches for President Johnson.

In 1962 President Kennedy signed an order which declared it unlawful "to discriminate against any person in the terms, conditions, or privileges of sale, rental or lease of a dwelling or in the provision of services or facilities in connection therewith, because of race, color, religion or national origin." But the order did not cover existing housing.

Therefore, 1966, the year of black power and the defeat of fair housing, may also be one of white backlash, significant gains for Republicans and a major setback for Lyndon Johnson. More important, it could mean a continuation of the Negro's captivity in America's miserable urban ghettos.

Modern Paris influence pervades Islamic mosque

By JOHN MAYBURY
News Editor

It is probably the finest chunk of Islamic culture in Western Europe, yet it has come under this dolorous influence of its alien environment: neon lights and sex.

The mosque, located on Rae Quatrefages in Paris, houses the traditional places of prayer and meditation as well as library, conference room, and the Musulman Institute. But a sickle moon and star on its tower are neon lit and very much in disfavor with the elders.

However, the old timers are most distraught about a certain tendency in their younger colleagues, which is to fall in love with European girls.

An estoeric, puritanical message from the elders is pasted on the wall, warning all young offenders that they stand in the house of Allah; that there must be no distractions; that there must be no handholding in the idyllic garden where kittens play around a fountain amidst exotic shrubbery.

All of this grumbling is understandable, since the Moslem service bars young women from entering the main prayer room. Older women may enter a screened off sector in back of the "sanctuary." As my Moslem guide solemnly noted, neither woman nor priest must stand between a man and Allah.

This latter injunction occurs because Moslem priests are considered mere prayer leaders. One does not confess to him, nor take any sacrament from him. Prayer is private, direct, and intense.

Islam is democratic. The Saudi Arabian bricklayer and the Aga Khan get married in the very same room. There is no personal or class privilege.

Likewise there is no national privilege. (Arab culture and Islam are theoretically separate.) In the mosque Italians made the mosaic walls, Tunisians spread the plaster of Paris, Moroccans carved the wooden ceilings, Egyptian women tooled the tapestry, and (it is generally agreed) Allah inspired the garden.

LETTERS

I find it very difficult to remain civil when time after time I hear that what we need is better laws restricting the sale of firearms and especially when it is suggested that the National Rifle Association be held responsible for "further killings".

I am sure that Miss Shelton does not realize the good the NRA has done and continues to do. Therefore, in order to do justice to the NRA I include with their expressed permission for yours and Miss Shelton's information the editorial on this page.

'After The Fall' tryouts

After the Fall, the scathing drama by Arthur Miller, will shatter the stillness in the Little Theater on December 5 and 6. Open try-outs for this Readers' Theater production are scheduled for October 17 and 18 in the Little Theatre under the auspices of the Speech Department.

The play revolves around Quentin, a man who searches the tragic love and death affairs of his past to find the reason for living in the future. Jason Robards Jr. performed Quentin in the premier performance in 1964. Since this explosive production, directed by Elia Kazan, critics have proclaimed After the Fall the most controversial play of modern times and the role of Quentin one of the most demanding in contemporary drama.

Miller has used his shocking relationship with Marilyn Monroe (Maggie) as a major segment of his play. Her character is sensual, innocent, warm, earthy, docile, domineering, in short, human. She is catapulted to the heights of success and them plunged into the depths of self destruction.

After the Fall shows us the passions of men and women. In electrifying drama, the inability to lose one's separateness clashes with the burning desire to become eternally linked with another human. The same men who build concentration camps can love with equal destructive power.

Yet, love is also redeeming. Miller leaves us with the conclusion that love provides the power to forgive our wish to kill, while honesty gives us the strength to live. Nevertheless, we must never lose sight of the fact that "we are very dangerous."

EL GAUCHO announces 'where the the action is'

By DALE LUCIANO
Entertainment Editor

There exists on this campus a very special erudite and cosmopolitan apathy, of which I enjoy being a part, but which does occasionally infuriate others active in the arts and the entertainment field.

The "myth," and I emphasize the "myth" aspect, pertains to an alleged lack of cultural and aesthetic activity on this lovely, lovely campus by the lovely, lovely sea. I have heard it from the "bubble-gummers," the "social elites," the political "activists," and the out-and-out ignorant. In short, those who in some way have not been made aware, to borrow from a dubious source, "where the action is."

May I point out that EL GAUCHO assumes an awesome responsibility in seeing to it that campus events and activities, cultural or otherwise, are announced (if possible) in an interesting fashion.

In the past week alone, stories were prepared to edify students as to the coming season of music, drama, and art, upcoming concerts and plays, and items of interest to miscellaneous "artsie - craftsies." Beautiful, right?

Munich troupe

Die Brucke, a dramatic troupe from Munich, will perform Carl Sternheim's "Burger Schippel" in German in Campbell Hall at UCSB Wednesday, October 19, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets for the production are available at the Lobero Theatre and the Arts and Lectures box office on the campus.

The Goethe Institute of Munich is sponsoring the tour of the 14 professional actors.

The play, a comedy in five acts, is directed by Dieter Brammer and Joost Siedhoff.

Preceding their performance, Herr Kuno K. Epple, chief dramatic critic of the Bavarian State Theatres, will present a discussion in English of contemporary German theater. The public is invited to attend the 4 p.m. event in Room 1425 of East Hall.

Westra concert

Soprano Dorothy Westra, UCSB associate professor of music, will perform a varied program to open the Faculty Artist Recital series at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday (Oct. 11) in Campbell Hall. Miss Westra will sing works by Dietrich Buxtehude, Aaron Copland, Arthur Honegger, Louis Spohr and Douglas Green, UCSB assistant professor of music.

The public is invited to attend the recital which is presented by the Music Affiliates and the department of music. The $1 admission charge will be donated to the Affiliates Music Scholarship Fund.

From the recital donations of last year, Todd Crow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Crow, 165 Hermosillo Road, will receive the first Music Faculty Honor Student Award at Miss Westra's recital.

Department of music chairman Carl Zytowski will make the award to the Santa Barbara pianist for his "outstanding music performance."

Miss Westra will begin her recital with a cantata, "Laudate Dominum," by Buxtehude. Assisting artists for the performance will be violin; James Horton, viola; Ira Lehn and Amy Anderson, violoncello; Charlotte Brown, flute; Joseph Berta, clarinet, and Roxanne Higgins, trombone.

The soprano, a member of UCSB's faculty since 1956, serves as director of the Chamber Singers, Women's Glee Club and Les Girls. She also is director of music at Trinity Episcopal Church.

Miss Westra has been soloist with the San Francisco Symphony, the New York Philharmonic Chamber Orchestra, the New Orleans Opera Company and the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. She studied at the Institute of Musical Art in New York, Columbia Teachers College, Juilliard School of Music and earned her Masters degree at the School of Sacred Music, Union Theological Seminary, New York.

Gauchos blank Whittier, Long Beach State next

ALL IN VAIN--Bill Corlett dances away from the last Whittier defender on a 73-yard punt return, but it was called back by a clipping penalty.

By DAVE HYAMS
Sports Editor

Mike Hitchman and the Santa Barbara offensive unit must have been looking ahead to this weekend's crucial game with Long Beach State while they shuffled to a 20-0 victory over the incredibly inferior Whittier Poets Saturday night at La Playa.

Had they played anyone tougher, say the Goleta Valley Elementary School, coach Jack Curtice's eleven might be entering the big game of the year in Long Beach with a 2-2 record, but as it is, their count is 3-1.

Long Beach's 49ers, in UPI's top ten all season, will be springing back from a 21-18 defeat at the hands of San Diego State, the top college team west of the Rockies.

But even if they stop the Gauchos offensively, Long Beach will have to contend with the Green Weenie defenders and the gifted toe of Dave Chapple, and both come off spectacular showings in the Whittier tilt.

STOPPED COLD

UCSB stingy tacklers stopped the Poets with 141 total yards, picked off five wayward passes, and barely let the visitors sniff Gaucho territory; Chapple booted field goals of 32 and 35 yards and punted six times for a 46.3 yard average.

Paul Vallerga, the only Gaucho to go both ways, snatched three of SB's five interceptions, giving him six for the year. This leaves Vallerga two grabs away from the school record of eight set by Fred Oppezzo (Continued on p. 7, col. 3)

Course mark set by LA strider; Gauchos buried

Dick Weeks of the Los Angeles Striders knocked .3 seconds off the year-old course record with a 20:01.1 clocking, but the Long Beach State 49ers took the team title in the AAU Invitational at the campus course Saturday.

Santa Barbara finished dead last. Weeks was 22 seconds ahead of Long Beach runnerups Harry McCalla and Tom Von Rudien, with Mike Kimball, late of UCSB and now with the Santa Barbara Athletic Club, finishing fourth.

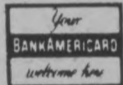

Jeff Rawlings was the top Gaucho, finishing eighth with a 20:48 timing. Rick Schankel and Dale Severy were the next hometowners, coming in 23rd and 25th, with Jimmie Allen, the only other Goletan under 22 minutes.

'We didn't run inside' --Everest

By CHRIS FARROW
Ass't Sports Editor

It's Monday morning, when both football coaches and sportswriters seriously begin their efforts analyze Saturday night football games. The Gauchos, "bouncing" back from the 33-17 drubbing of two weeks ago, methodically defeated a defensively tough Whittier squad, 20-0, but as the game films should show, UCSB displayed a distinct inadequacy in generating an inside running attack against the Poets.

With nationally ranked Long Beach State on tap for next week, the Gauchos will have to correct the somewhat sporadic offense of last Saturday night. Against Whittier, Curtice's crew was blessed time and again with excellent field position due to a tremendous effort by the defense and the fine kicking of Dave Chapple, but rarely capitalized.

Offensive line coach Andy Everest was quite naturally concerned with the Gaucho's problems running inside against the Poets. "We couldn't move the ball up the middle. To run outside (The Mike Hitchman option, for example), you've got to be able to run inside. Thus far we haven't clicked."

Running against Whittier never has been a picnic. Before last Saturday night's game, the most the Poets had been beaten by in four years was six points. The Gauchos nailed them by twenty.

Next week, though, UCSB invaded Long Beach to face a much tougher team than Whittier, and the Gauchos will need a solid inside running attack. Coach Everest is faced with the task of preparing the offensive line for the 49ers.

Of Long Beach, he said, "They'll be real tough. It should be a big ball game, although I don't feel they're as strong as last year's team. They have fine receivers."

Lead by Little All-American QB Jack Relly, the LB 49ers, should prove to be the Gaucho's toughest opponent of the year. Santa Barbara will need the power of Mike Thomas and Andy Shubin up the middle to offset the Hitchman sweeps, if the Gauchos are to return to Goleta victoriously.

IN THE DRINK--John Melin, who had the inenviable task of covering Steve Cole as UCLA overwhelmed the Gauchos, 13-3.

"To the visitor go the spoils," one could say to summarize UCSB's water polo weekend, which saw the Gauchos win twice in Los Angeles but fall to No. 1 UCLA in the campus pool Saturday.

LA State wasn't much of a challenge for the powerful aquamen of coach Rick Rowland, who handily won the Friday afternoon battle 12-5.

But a few hours later at Cal Poly in Pomona, Santa Barbara needed three late goals to break a 5-5 tie and dump the Broncos, 8-5.

Then against the Bruins here Saturday, it wasn't even close. UCLA jumped to quick 8-0 lead and cruised to a 13-3 triumph. Steve Cole led the charge with 5 Bruin goals.

last season, and there are six games still to go.

Meanwhile, Hitchman & Co. was having trouble moving against a defense which was even money not to stop a limping centipede. Hitchman, who hasn't been consistent since the Sacramento State opener a month ago, hit on 11 of 27 for 140 yards, and not a whole lot of the 16 incompletions were very close.

Things started well enough. Santa Barbara rumbled 74 yards in 15 plays following the opening kickoff, grinding out five of their 15 total first downs, with Hitchman skipping the final three yards for the score.

But for the next 30 minutes, all the varsity machine could produce were Chapple's two three-pointers, as the teams punted back and forth and the fans bided their time by filling the air with paper airplanes.

Bill Corlett, the fine sophomore cornerback from Coronado, brought the 8500 fans to their feet with an electrifying 73-yard punt return at the start of the second quarter, only to have it called back due to a clipping penalty on the block which originally sprung him free.

That was about as exciting as the evening ever became.

Finally, with only about half the crowd still around, Hitchman hit pet receiver Jim Priest with a 19-yard scoring pass to culminate a 52-yard drive in seven plays near the start of the fourth quarter. Chapple converted, giving him 10-for-10 in PAT's and the team scoring lead with 25 points.

Veterans warned

Veteran-students attending schools and colleges have been cautioned by the Veterans Administration to complete a Certificate of Attendance promptly. It is important to inform the VA each month of classes that were attended and the course load being carried at the end of each calendar month.

Instructions on the reverse of the Certificate of Attendance must be read carefully. If the Certificate is not properly completed and in the hands of the VA by the 10th of the month, student checks will be delayed.

Students attending a college or university and taking a course which leads to a college degree must execute the Certificate of Attendance. The VA will send a Certificate shortly after official enrollment, and subsequent certificates each month.

The Certificate is to be held until the end of the month, then completed, signed, and returned to the VA.

If the Certificate of Attendance is damaged or mutilated, the check will be delayed. If the Certificate is lost, a letter must be sent to the VA Regional Office, 1380 South Sepulveda Boulevard, Los Angeles, 90073, asking for a replacement.

Sime gives Ethics class

Donald R. Sime, Ph.D. Degree from Chicago University and a B.D. Degree from Princeton University Seminary, will instruct a class in Ethics (Philosophy 110A) in Isla Vista, starting today, through the extension program of Pepperdine College's Philosophy Department.

The course will consist of a critical examination and evaluation of the major moral, ethical, and religious theories in the light of modern problems. The class will be taught in The Campus Advance Building, 6505 Pardall Road (across from the SAE House) each Monday evening from 7-9:30 p.m.

The course may be taken for credit or audit. After class hours, free coffee and open discussions will be held with Dr. Sime who will fly in each week from Los Angeles. The course is worth three semester units or 4.5 quarter equivalents. For further information phone 967-8450 or come to the first meeting tonight at 7.

Political pins puzzle students

Unidentified students on this campus have been seen wearing lapel pins reading "Ronald Reagan is a Lesbian." The political intent of such slogans is as yet unclear to the majority of the student body.

Wolfman for Gov.?

Wolf Man Jack, Los Angeles area disc jockey, is the latest entrant in the gala California gubernatorial campaign. His slogan is "Not a choice, not an echo---just Wolf Man Jack."

Campus representative for the Wolf man is Lannie Kaufner, who is the head of the group.

Election reform

corded its 72nd consecutive month of sustained economic advance.

He credited a booming economy and "strict economy measures" by his administration.

"Employment has also," he said, "reached the highest level in the state's history, and totals 7,253,000 --- an increase of 327,000 over a year ago." Interrupting his prepared text, he pointed a finger at the audience and said, "I remind you I am standing on my record---all of it."

Included in the record, he said, is the fact that personal income in California is at an "all-time high," freeway construction has tripled during his seven and a half years in office and the state has earned world leadership in water projects "which are all precisely on schedule."

He also said crime "proportionately" in the state has declined compared to the national rate---especially crimes of violence.

Land development in IV proposed

The County Planning Commission continued to Oct. 19 a public hearing on an ordinance amendment covering development adjacent to the University, pending further study of the proposal by UCSB officials.

The so-called UH amendment to Ordinance 661 would apply to the Isla Vista area.
