Plan Aims to 'Make a Statement' on Fee Hikes

By Kevin Carhart Staff Writer

A bill calling for a "Short Change Day" was passed by Associated Students Legislative Council Wednesday night, encouraging students to protest fee hikes and service cuts by paying their fees with small coins.

"It's basically to make a state-

"It's basically to make a statement that every cent matters to students and every dollar they raise the fees is felt," said Rep-at-Large Mark Milstein, the bill's author. "It's not going to inconvenience a whole lot of people, the timing could be neat, and it's going to make a great statement if we combine it with a march on Cheadle chanting, "They're shortchanging us and now it's our turn." It's not designed to stop fee hikes, it's designed to make a statement.

"I'd like it to be systemwide," and designate a day for the event to occur for the whole UC system to pay their fees for Spring Quarter this way, Milstein said. "It will really send the mes-

"It will really send the message we want to send," said A.S. President Aaron Jones, who was involved in writing the bill.

"It's almost comic ... it's a radical action," said the bill's second, Off-Campus Rep Cliff Johnson, who chaired the meeting in his capacity as first protem, in place of Internal Vice-President Audra Pratcher. "It will send a great message to the state legislature."

The bill was passed by a vote of 9-1, with three abstentions.

After Reprimands, Berkeley Officials Expel 'Nude Guy'

By Julie Aquilar Daily Californian

Former UC Berkeley student Andrew Martinez, popularly dubbed "the Naked Guy" for his habit of attending classes in the nude, learned Saturday that he had been expelled from the university by campus officials.

Martinez, formerly an undeclared junior, received an expulsion letter saying he failed to follow UC policy and that he exhibited "recalcitrance during the proceedings" of his recent administrative hearing.

"There is a university policy

"There is a university policy against nudity and that policy came about in part [because] he was showing up in classes nude," said campus spokesman Jesus Mena.

The policy, issued by Chancellor Chang-Lin Tien, bans indecent exposure, public nudity and lewd or sexually offensive conduct on campus.

"There was a very exhaustive hearing and he was given options more than once to obey the policy and he declined," Mena said.

Expulsions from the university are "extremely rare," said Sandy Paganucci, director of the Office of Student Conduct.

Mena said the expulsion was a response to discomfort brought

Campus Looks to Solve Parking Shortage

By Nancy Bernhardi
Reporter

Replacement of the nearly 1,000 parking spaces the campus will lose in the next decade due to construction plans was the topic of intense negotiation and debate among faculty, staff and students Tuesday and Wednesday.

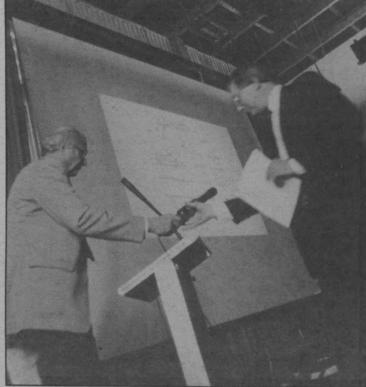

Over the two days of discussion, members of the Campus Planning Committee submitted several proposals, including the addition of lots on the outskirts of campus and at least one multi-level parking structure

As outlined in the campus Long Range Development Plan—the blueprint for UCSB into the next century—the construction of more than 1 million square feet of empty space will result in the loss of 5,000 parking spaces by the time the LRDP is fulfilled.

The periphery lot option bandied about by campus leaders calls for the building of spaces primarily on the outskirts of the main campus. These spaces, to be made accessible by a free shuttle, would provide 60 lot spaces, plus 100 spaces gained by repainting existing parking slots.

Another, more expensive solution would mandate the building of one or more multilevel parking structures to hold 700 spaces.

The objective behind these solutions is to implement one of these scenarios along with a program that would reduce the demand for spaces and encourage alternative modes of transportation, according to CPC Parking Plus Committee Chair Gene Lucas.

"We hope to receive enough input to make a decision by February or March. We've never conducted a process like this before," he said.

The options were developed by Parking Plus in collaboration with the consulting firm of Fehr and Peers Associates. Ocean Road, a chemistry addition, library south and recreation lot east are all potential sites for parking structures. Outlying lot sites are proposed near the Public Safety Building, north of Harder Stadium, south of Harder Stadium and at the Environmental Health & Safety Services building.

After Delays, Students Rape Trial Appears Ready to Begin; Dates Set

After several delays, attorneys in the trial of a UCSB senior accused of rape appear to be ready to proceed with the case.

Timothy Melton has been accused of several counts of rape stemming from two 1991 incidents. Pretrial motions were to be heard Jan. 21., but a change in defense attorneys postponed the hearing.

Last week, Melton replaced attorney Douglas Hayes with Century City lawyer William T. Graysen. To facilitate the change, a continuance was granted until Jan. 27.

At this time, Melton, Graysen and Assistant District Attorney Arnie Tolks met to schedule a new date for settlement discussions and to hear pretrial motions. They also set a tentative March 15 date for the trial to begin.

A Feb. 23 hearing will focus on a motion by the prosecutor to separate the various charges against Melton and try them individually.

Graysen, however, said he'd push to have all of the charges tried at once. "My client is not guilty," he said. "And we are going to fight every charge."

Clinton Postpones Reversal of Gay Ban for Another Day

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Clinton said Thursday he remained committed to suspending the ban on homosexuals in the military and was "pretty close" to resolving congressional objections to his interim plan. Aides worked feverishly to mute opposition from Congress and the Pentagon.

Whatever their sexual orientation, Clinton said, "Americans who are willing to conform to requirements of conduct in the military service, in my judgment, should be able to serve in the military

The president postponed for a second straight day an expected announcement of action.

Republicans pressed him not to take any immediate action and said they would try to stop him if he went ahead. "Take a timeout for six months," Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole said.

Clinton said there was "an enormous amount of agreement" on ending the practice of asking military recruits about their sexual orientation. He said there was still disagreement with Congress and the military over

"People should be disqualified from serving in the military based on something they do, not based on who they are."

President Bill Clinton

The president gave no indication of backing away from his ultimate goal of lifting the military's 50-yearold ban on homosexuals.

"People should be disqualified from serving in the military based on something they do, not based on who they are," Clinton said.

White House Communications Director George Stephanopoulos said the interim order, the first of the expected two steps, would come "relatively soon," per-haps Friday. It originally had been expected to be released Wednesday.

According to White House expectations, Defense Secretary Les Aspin would draft an executive order for Clinton to sign formally lifting the ban after six months. Details would be worked out by then on how the military should put the new policy into effect.

The two-step approach is designed to give the administration time to solve potential problems with mor-ale, recruitment, discipline and conduct.

Clinton said the Joint Chiefs of Staff agree that recruits should no longer be asked about their sexual orientation. Finding another point of agreement with the military, which fears promiscuity and resulting morale problems, he said, "I agree that any sort of improper conduct should result in severance."

Panel Backs Deportations; Orders Appeals Procedure

JERUSALEM (AP)
-Israel faced growing world censure Thursday and the prospect of jeopardizing peace talks after its supreme court upheld the deportation of more than 400

Palestinians to southern Lebanon.

A seven-judge panel rejected all appeals of the Dec. 17 expulsions, but it ordered the government to let the men appear individually before military special committees.

Palestinian peace negotiators said the court ruling threatened the peace process, and they called for U.N. sanctions to follow up a U.N. resolution urging that the men be repatriated immediately.

Arab diplomats at the United Nations sought broad support for sanctions, but the United States insisted diplomacy would be more effective.

Israel said it expelled the men because they are tied to radical Islamic groups that killed six soldiers in December.

Israel radio quoted Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin telling a closed Labor Party meeting that U.N. punishment would destroy the peace process by signaling the Arabs that they can win concessions through Security

The Clinton administration urged the Security Council to put off consideration of sanctions. State Department spokesman Richard Boucher would not comment on the court ruling.

Croats Claim to Capture Key Serb-Held Territory

ZADAR, Croatia (AP) -Serb-Croat clashes spread to a new front along the Adriatic on Thursday and Croatia's army made gains in its quest to retake territory, capturing a dam in Serb-held territory.

Fighting also raged in Bosnia, and this week's battles marked the first time that bloodshed was occurring simultaneously in two former Yugoslav republics.

The gravity of the deteriorating situation prompted the United Nations to consider withdrawing its peaceers in Croatia

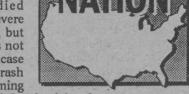

U.N. Secretary General Boutros Boutros-Ghali said the military offensive begun by the Croats last week "has placed the entire peace process in the region in jeopardy." He hinted Wednesday that the 16,000 U.N. peacekeepers and related forces might be withdrawn from Croatia.

The Croatian army is trying to regain territory Serbs refused to cede in accordance with the U.N.-brokered truce that ended a six-month civil war in Croatia one year ago.

Another Bacteria Death Reported in Washington

SEATTLE (AP) —A second child died Thursday from a severe bacterial infection, but officials said it was not clear whether the case was linked to the rash of illnesses stemming from contaminated fast-food hamburgers.

Children's Hospital said the victim was a 2-year-old who died in the emergency room but gave no other details except to confirm that the child was infected with the dangerous E. coli strain that killed another toddler earlier this month.

Mamie Nickerson Johns, a state Health Department spokeswoman in Olympia, said the child had not eaten at a Jack in the Box restaurant.

She said she did not know whether the unidentified victim had had contact with anyone who was infected by undercooked, contaminated hamburgers at one of the restaurants. The disease can be spread by secondary

The illness is called hemolytic uremic syndrome. It has produced symptoms ranging from bloody diarrhea and intense abdominal pain to stroke-like bleeding in the brain and irreversible damage to intestines and

There are at least 250 cases that we've identified and the number will be larger than that," state epidemologist Dr. John Kobayashi said Wednesday.

Drop in Unsafe Sex After Johnson's Announcement

ATLANTA (AP) —Fewer people in a Maryland clinic reported having one-night stands and multiple sexual partners after basketball star Magic Johnson announced he had the AIDS virus, according to a study

The study was the first to track reaction to a celebrity revelation about AIDS without creating a bias, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said.

"There have been a number of other studies where people asked, 'Did you change your sexual behavior because of Magic Johnson?" said Linda Valleroy, a CDC epidemiologist. "That's a more loaded question.

"We were in the middle of a risk behavior study when Magic Johnson made the announcement, and we didn't change our questions. We were kind of blind to it until we saw the data at the end."

Of the 185 people surveyed before Johnson's announcement, 31% reported having one-night stands in the previous three months and 32% reported three or more sexual partners, the CDC said

After the announcement, 20% of the 97 people surveyed reported one-night stands and 21% reported three or more partners, the CDC said.

Federal Agent's Conviction Upheld by Appeals Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -A veteran FBI agent's conviction for passing a secret docu-ment to the Soviet Union — the only espionage conviction in FBI history — was upheld

Thursday by a federal appeals court.
Richard W. Miller of Los Angeles was sentenced to 20 years in prison for giving a classified intelligence report to his lover for delivery to the Soviet embassy in San Francisco in August 1984.

Miller's first trial ended in a hung jury. He was retried, convicted and sentenced to life in prison, but the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned the conviction in 1989, saying the jury was improperly told about his lie-detector tests.

His second conviction, in a non-jury trial before U.S. District Judge Robert Takasugi, was upheld Thursday. The appeals court rejected defense arguments that Miller's confession was coerced by an agent who appealed to his religious beliefs.

Miller was a 20-year FBI veteran assigned to foreign counterintelligence. In 1984, the court said, he was beset by job, family and financial problems and had been excommunicated from the Mormon church for

Court Throws Out Illegal Welfare Residency Rule

SACRAMENTO (AP) -A federal judge Thursday overturned a new California law that cut welfare benefits for people who move here from other states.

U.S. District Court Judge David Levi ruled the residency requirement illegally singled out newcomers, violating their constitutional rights to equal protection

"If the purpose of the measure is to deter migration by poor people in the state, and it appears that this may be the purpose, then the measure must be unconstitutional." Levi wrote in his ruling.

The decision was a blow for the Wilson administration and a victory for welfare rights organizations, which sued on behalf of thousands of poor families.

The law, which took effect Dec. 1, provided that applicants who lived in California less than a year would receive welfare benefits at the same level they would have received in their prospective states, instead of at California's generally higher level.

The measure passed the Legislature with bipartisan support last year as part of an effort to offset the state's multibillion-dollar deficit.

Some fog likely in the evenings, but it should be a nice Super Bowl weekend. So, who do you like Sunday? The Bills or the Niner-killing Cowboys? My forecast, which you may have noticed is often wrong, is Cowboys 26-Bills 24 on a Lin Elliot field goal. The Cowboys won on The Simpsons Thursday night, and that's good enough for me. Plans for an expansion of the Santa Barbara Municipal Airport to increase the facility's revenue may soon be airborne if a proposal for a longer runway meets environmental standards set to preserve surrounding wetland habitat.

After feeling the need for expansion for almost 15 years, the Santa Barbara Municipal Airport has been working on a master plan for a 400-foot runway extension and larger safety run areas at each end of the landing strip, said Santa Barbara Municipal Airport Director Karen Ramsdell.

"At each end of the runway, there is a creek. If a plane had a problem and couldn't stop, it would go in the creek,"

Airport revenues would increase with the addition, Ramsdell said. "The reason [for a longer runway] is to allow existing commercial planes, who ... can't carry the full load because of the length of the existing runway, to take off fully loaded," said

Funding for 90% of the project will come from grants from the Federal Aviation Administration. FAA Traffic Manager Chick Foley believes the project will improve traveler safety. "Anytime that a runway can be increased for safety it is positive, as long as it's done in a structured manner," he said.

The proposal calls for bridges to be built over a creek to prevent the expansion from destroying wetland habitat. A 1980 proposal that involved moving the creek was denied for environmental reasons, Ramsdell said.

Ramsdell said the wetlands issue must be addressed carefully so the plan can be implemented. "We will select a consul-

Pardons, Plots & Presidents

By Sean Blair Reporter

President George Bush's recent pardoning of Iran-Contra investigation targets was part of a wider effort to conceal the actions of a "shadow government," a nationally renowned attorney will argue on campus Saturday.

Daniel Sheehan, chief counsel for the Christic Institute, will present "Bushgate: The Task Left Undone" in Campbell Hall at 8 p.m. as part of an annual tour to the campus.

From Christic Institute research, Sheehan alleges Iran-Contra was only the tip of an iceberg of illegal activities going back to the early 1960s, stretching from Cuba and Vietnam to Iran and Iraq, and involving gun running, drug smuggling, money laun-dering and political assassination.

In May 1986 — six months before the Iran-Contra scandal became public — the institute filed a federal civil lawsuit arising out of their investigations into the 1984 bombing of La Penca, Nicaragua. The suit named as defendants many of the major figures working with Lt. Colonel Oliver North on the Contra supply network.

The Institute is still appealing the case to this day.

The Christic Institute is a public interest, nonprofit law firm that has been involved in investigating Ted Kennedy's Chappaquiddick incident, the Karen Silkwood case, Three Mile Island, and prosecuting the Klu Klux Klan and American Nazi Party over attacks on labor organizers.

Sheehan, who spoke at UCSB last year, served as adviser to the movie Silkwood starring Mervl Streep, and is currently a consultant for Paramount Pictures in future projects.

BARBARA S. UEHLING Chancellor at Santa Barbara

At UCSB we are committed to creating and maintaining a commu-To the Campus Community: nity in which all individuals can work together in an atmosphere free from all forms of harassment, exploitation, and intimidation. I am pleased to announce the adoption of a new policy on sexual harassment that should contribute toward realization of the community we wish to become.

Sexual harassment is prohibited by law and University policy. Our new campus policy, which is being implemented after review and consultation by faculty, students, and staff, is consonant with our intention to take whatever actions may be needed to prevent, correct, and, if necessary, discipline inappropriate behavior. The policy significantly broadens the definition of several barassment on campus and quarantees both those who sexual harassment on campus, and guarantees both those who complain of such harassment and those who are accused of it stringent new rights to privacy.

The policy's definition of what constitutes sexual harassment is detailed, and I urge you to familiarize yourselves with it. Is detailed, and I urge you to familiarize yourselves with I copies are available from Paula Rudolph, the campus sexual harassment complaint resolution officer, whose office is located in 3117 Cheadle Hall, and may also be obtained from the Women's Center

Many community members played important roles in formulating this important policy. I am especially appreciative of the leadership provided by Janet Vandevender, Assistant Vice Chancellor in the Division of Student Affairs, and Duncan Mellichamp, former chair of the Santa Barbara Division of the Academic Senate. As a result of their hard work and personal commitment, UCSB continues to make progress toward nurturing an environment where the qualities of civility, inclusion, and mutual respect characterize all aspects of our relations with Dahara S. The committee's surveys found that only 18.5% of undergrad students used autos as their primary mode of transportation to campus, while 81% of full-time faculty members and 77% of staff fit into that category.

But a predicted increase in the graduate student population will result in more faculty members and their staff, given the small faculty-student ratio at the graduate level, a CPC report notes.

Because faculty and staff comprised the greatest number of drivers, and live the furthest from campus, the need for additional spaces will be extremely significant, the report indicated.

Costs of the projects are expected to average $2.8 million for the structure and $1.2 million for the outer lots plus shuttles. Because campus parking is not subsidized, the project must be selfsupporting, and permit revenues must finance the costs of construction, interest on borrowed funds and repayment of the principal, Lucas said.

Additionally, parking fees could increase to $44 a month, from the current rate of $11, for the structure, or $22 monthly for surface parking by the year

Fink said campus parking is currently a relative bargain. "Monthly parking rates here are the lowest of any of the UCs," he said, citing UC Berkeley's $73, and UCLA's $39 monthly

The objective of the for-ums, which included presentations to the Academic Senate, the Graduate Student Assn., the Residence Halls Assn. and Associated Students Legislative Council was to elicit campus response.

"These are recommendations only, we are interested in campus feed-back," Fink emphasized.

Campus reaction was varied and opinionated, as the majority of staff members present were displeased with the idea of satellite" lots accessed by shuttle as being inconvenient, and preferred to pay more for a structure.

One staff member told the committee that she was being "held hostage" by her fear of leaving campus and inability to find parking upon returning, and suggested that student C permits be eliminated to aid the decrease of congestion.

The strongest objections to either proposal were raised by resident hall dwellers. Outlined in the options is the relocation of first-year dorm parking from Main Campus, to the B-3 lot near

"To prevent inefficiency of students that live on campus storing their cars in nearby lots, we would open those up to commuters," Fink said. But residents disagreed. "There is a real concern with safety. Residents who are injured need to get to a car quickly, and ambu-lances cost $300 per trip," said RHA President Debbie Benson.

Because student fees are on the rise, they will be working longer hours and driving cars to campus more often, said Off-Campus Leg Council Rep Cliff Johnson at Wednesday's Leg Council meeting.

Benson said a combination of the parking solu-tions would be best. "I would like to see a hybridsolution of both parking structures and satellite lots, with the satellite lots for faculty who park in the daytime when it is safer for them to be shuttled," she

The committee will be making final recommendations on the options based on the two days of campus feedback. The suggestions will then be reviewed by administrators and, ultimately, by the Chancellor's Office.

Continued from p.1 nal strength," said the bill's author Rep-at-Large Dave Ricks. President Bill Clinton is expected to sign the bill if it is passed by Congress.

'The Supreme Court has been slowly but surely eroding abortion rights. Eighty-three percent of the counties in the United States don't have abortion clinics, so it is harder for poor women and minorities to have access," when it depends upon the ability to travel to a county which has one, Ricks said.

The right to choose whether or not to have an abortion is a woman's decision, Ricks said. "I think it's ridiculous that eight men and one woman on the Supreme Court can decide what women can do with their bodies. Unless men can get pregnant and have to carry the burden of it, they should have no say in this matter," he said.

Some other Leg Council members disagreed with Ricks' proposal. "It's not a state issue," said Rep-at-Large Kim Gates before the meeting. "It should be an individual's decision to donate time or become part of an organization. I don't think it's any business of the state, or of a state-funded university."

Off-Campus Rep Andre Manssourian explained his opposition to the bill. "I don't support abortion, because I see it as a tool for contraception. As the moral standards of the country fall, more and more women use this as a way to correct their mistake," he said.

Manssourian also countered the idea that politicians would be influenced toward voting for the act by Leg Council's decision. "In general, as well as this soon before voting, public outcry isn't taken into consideration as much as we'd like by legislators. The influence will be

Off-Campus Rep Greg Vogel questioned the value of the proposal. "I don't think this is something that Leg Council should be voting on," he said. "I don't believe we'd be doing the students, in some of their minds, a favor by passing such legislation."

The bill, which needed a two-thirds majority to pass, failed by a vote of seven to seven.

After the vote, discussion occurred over the way in which the bill was approached. "I didn't see any respect given to the body of the bill or the author of the bill," Rep-at-Large Geoff Green said.

"It should have gone through," Johnson said.
"It polarized the Leg Council. It's also kind of scary that it didn't pass. Obviously the white male majority does still have a lot of control in government."

Goleta's Bad Cityhood Proposal Seeks to Further Isolate Students and Divide Isla Vista

Editorial

Isla Vista renters could soon become trapped between Goleta and the deep blue sea.

Goleta, in its ongoing drive to attain cityhood, has drawn a civic line around its most undesirable local elements, the student and renter populations. Judging from the predominant attitude of Goletans, we would certainly be mistaken to seek inclusion in their town. But that is no excuse for the gross disrespect and elitism shown by Goletans and the Local Agency Formation Committee in proposing to take the wealthy east end of I.V. into the new town, leaving the renters, governmentally speaking, on a deserted island. By the plans laid down at press time, everything north of the Santa Barbara Municipal Airport, east of campus (we don't even get Goleta Beach) and west of Camino Corto could all soon be part of Goleta. If LAFCO approved the proposal last night, the Board of Supervisors could vote next month whether they wanted to approve the plan for voters in the June election.

The result would be almost comical if it weren't true. Isla Vista, a compacted mass of unrepresented students, would be literally surrounded by a brandnew town with its own government, and few, if any Goletans would have I.V.'s interests in mind. Self government for I.V., along with most chances for improving conditions here, would be effectively nullified.

Worst of all, Isla Vista itself is being dissected in the proposal. The 6800 blocks west of Camino Corto are included in the new map of Goleta. This land grab of the R-1 district would be the final act of malice and distrust between students and our homeowner neighbors. Taking the R-1 means a higher tax base for Goleta, and a divided community for the rest of us.

UCSB comprises one-third of Goleta's income, and students' expenditures alone support many Goleta businesses. Furthermore, students provide the city with a fine work base, taking jobs for little pay. Now the cityhood proposal ungraciously plans to turn the student community into a sort of client state, where we pour money and work hours into Goleta's economy, live in appallingly overpriced apartments owned by Goletans and can do absolutely nothing about it.

The primary reason Goleta doesn't want students within its boundaries is insulting. Dick Martinez of the Goleta-We Want Home Rule Committee and owner of the Action Sports Arena store in I.V. explained, "People in Goleta react very violently to including I.V. only because of the student vote." The popular notion among Goletans is that students are misinformed and apathetic, but vote anyway, resulting in poor local legislation while we move away laughing. Any student or other renter who has cast a ballot in the last few years should take that attitude as a personal affront.

The Isla Vista Community Enhancement Committee spent 18 months determining how to better our community, and its conclusions put an enormous priority on self-rule. If the east end of our town is taken away, a chance for that self-rule would be all but lost. Nowhere in the report did it suggest dividing Isla Vista along economic boundaries or cutting it off socially from Goleta through the use of scare tactics. If the plan succeeds, students will likely have to lean on UCSB, the only institution left to us, for the organizational support that any large body of people requires.

I am the president of Phi Sigma fraternity and we like to respond to the article regarding alleged har ment against residents of the apartment complex ac the street from our house. I do not wish to call any names, but I would just like to discuss inaccuracion

First, Kathleen Weiland is quoted as saying that Phi Sigma Kappa, have been unwilling to meet with and her tenants unless the police were involved. The totally untrue, the last thing we want is police involved. In fact, Mrs. Weiland, at the end of last quart agreed to meet the first week of this month with A Rohn, the Greek advisor, for mediation. At this tim had agreed to pay for any damage done. Media Sexism

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I was one of the four "cho ones. After realizing that all the people picked male, I told a staff member that the choosing looke me rather sexist. He told me that I could go join group at the Thundermeter. I had to cry sexism to b cluded. I agree with Ronit and Elandriel that the p lem is with the media, because I've never had any p lems with the other fans. I demand ose employees responsible for posting them be suspended and sent to sensitivity training for "men's issues." I also demand a formal apology from the chairman head and an admission from the university of their institutionalized sexism against men. After all, I notice a Women's Studies Dept., but where is the men's studies?

If you think this sexism, degradation and belittlement is a university phenomenon, think again. The indoctrination begins at a young age, when we are told that "girls are made of sugar and spice and everything nice" while boys are made of less desirable material. Are not the very pillars of society liberty, justice and freedom all personified in the form of women? This sexism is subtle, but ever present and lurking — woven into the fabric of our lives like a monogram on a cashmere sweater.

The sexism of our society is probably most evident in the work place. The glass ceilings present in the fields of cosmetology, interior design and baby sitting are seldom if ever shattered. Women are credited with having the oldest occupation in the world, but how could they have been paid unless men had jobs first? Indeed, when a man does make it to a prominent position such as a judge or a surgeon (after jumping affirmative action hurdles and surviving attacks from the CUNTS) he is forced to wear a gown in order to practice his craft. No subtle symbolism here - either succumb to the ways of the woman and wear a dress, or you cannot succeed.

Here is some more food for thought: Why do people automatically think of a female when you say "nurse?" Are there not men nurses who perform their duties as well as women? Why must there be a "strong woman behind every great man," cannot a man succeed by himself? How come women get to be called "women?" Not only does that word completely engulf the word "men," but it contains two extra letters. How unfair!

We men have taken enough abuse, and the pictures on the wall of the communication studies office are the last straw. Let this be a call to arms. Men unite! Boycott your communication classes! Boycott the university! Boycott the word boycott! Burn your graduation gowns!

REBA LEE

No Cutting

Editor, Daily Nexus:

I would like to express my feelings on the current situation revolving around UCSB Gaucho student ticket distribution for men's basketball. If I could summarize the situation in one word it would be ridiculous!! The main problem revolves around people saving places for their friends, girl/boyfriends, frat brothers, etc. The perfect example was before the New Mexico State game. Being the seventh person in line at approximately 7:30 a.m., I was expecting to receive a ticket in the 20s and ended up with number 101. I was very frustrated since I also knew one of the first people in line and decided to be satisfied with my position.

Student ticket distribution staff made an effort at about 10:40 a.m. to stop the line cutting, but by that time it was too little too late. I have come to realize in my four years of waiting for Gaucho tickets that saving spots is inevitable, but there needs to be a limit. Since there seems to be no way of avoiding the line cutting, the only real suggestion that I have is to have C.S.O. monitor the line and stop people from cutting as well as from showing up minutes before and joining the line with their

You're Unhappy

Editor, Daily Nexus;

I have some grim news for you boys and girls, men and women and everyone else here at UCSB. I, your eye-on-life, man-about-town has made a startling and most unfortunate discovery. We have failed, we have blundered, we have fallen into a deep dark chasm, so to speak, and can't get up. Lying on the grass this very afternoon, oh-so casual like, I took myself a secret poll of the general population of the campus and I'm afraid to tell you this, but ... you aren't happy. For 15 minutes from 2:05 to 2:20 I watched, I studied, I delved into your very psyches and with pen a flyin' I tallied the happy, unhappy and unclassifiable males and females.

Let me assure you that this was all very scientific, I chose two points on either side of a major path through campus and all who broke that plane were counted. Here is what I have come up with.

	HAPPY	UNHAPPY	UNKNOWN
Males	13	14	16
Damalas	0	10	7

So what's it all mean? It means, to give you the benefit of the doubt, that's AT LEAST 1/3 of you are bleedin' unhappy, that's what it means! As a side note, it also means that most men have a complete lack of any kind of facial expression whatsoever, whereas the women have their emotions spelled out across their faces. It seems stoicism is not a lost philosophy.

So you may say, 'Help! Is there any way you can save us?,' and I will say.'Yes, my children, you can be saved,' and then you will say, 'How, oh wise one, shall we banish this blight that has stricken us?' And then I will show you the way. The secret will be revealed and it goes something like this: You must spend at least one hour outside within the vicinity of something green, and bus benches don't count, it must be growing. Sun, shade, it doesn't matter. I advise sitting on grass, that is always a good thing. Second, you must say 'Hi' to at least two total strangers every day, and you must smile when you do it. For you shy people, this is much easier than it sounds; speaking does not imply commitment, marriage or babies, it's just being nice and acknowledging the people around you. Who knows, they may smile back and wouldn't that be a treat, eh? Third, you must have physical contact with another living thing every day, and as often as possible. Now don't get weird on anyone, but it is very important to your happiness as well as those around you. Shake that guy's hand, put an arm around that girl for a warmer, friendlier hello, etc. In addition to that, you must pet one of the dogs on campus every day, lord knows they love the attention, you'll love being appreciated, and hey, you might even meet their owner. How's that for warm fuzzies? Finally, smile. Smiles are contagious, and just by smiling you can change your mood. I have a theory that the muscles in your face that make you smile are connected to the happy centers in the brain. By smiling, your muscles pull on those places and, voila, need I say more?

Well there you go, do the best you can, and if after all that you still aren't a shiny happy person, I'll have to start doing the Vulcan mind meld on the masses. One final piece of advice, you can study much better when you are in a good mood than when you are stressed out, remember that. Stay tuned when next week I find out how many of you will respond to a "Hi" from a stranger. Till then, save me that piece of grass 'cause midterms are coming and I'm starting to stress.

In accordance with Section 13549 of the California Coastal Commission Administrative Regulations, the University of California, Santa Barbara (UCSB) hereby gives notice of impending development to begin on or near July 1, 1993.

Project Title: Humanities and Social Sciences Building.

Description: The proposed Humanities and Social Sciences Building (HSSB) would provide approximately 89,290 assignable square feet (ASF) or 153,000 gross square feet (GSF) instructional, office and research space for the humanities disciplines of Anthropology, Asian-American Studies, Classics, History, Philosophy, Religious Studies, and Dramatic Arts. It would also accommodate the interdisciplinary Humanities Center and the Humanities Computer Facility. In addition, a total of approximately 22,000 ASF of temporary buildings and trailers would be removed. Improvements to the Pardall Bikeway between Parking Lots 22/23 and the Storke Roundabout are also proposed.

Location: The proposed site is located on Main Campus and is bounded on the east by Arts Lane, on the northwest by the Events Center, and to the south by Pardall Bikeway and Snidecor Hall. Additional Information: Please contact Catriona Gay, at UCSB, (805) 893-8430 or write: UCSB

Swimmers Host Davis After Injury to Saharov

By Michelle Imperial Staff Writer

Sometimes bicycle riding on the Santa Barbara campus can be more detrimental than previously imagined.

This is the thought that is plaguing UCSB swimming and diving Head Coach Gregg Wilson as the squads head into competition with UC Davis at Campus Pool this Saturday. The men's swimming team lost top swimmer Glen Peoples for the year because of a bike accident before the season, and just last week Gaucho junior Sascha Saharov went down with injuries due to a bicycle accident on campus. Saharov, the team's fastest butterflier, will be out of action for several

"Despite injuries, the team is definitely looking forward to this meet," Wilson said of Saturday's competition. "This weekend should prove to be very

Making the meet especially challenging for the Gaucho men's team is Davis swimmer John Keppler, a member of the 1991 Pan American team. Keppler is the centerpiece of the Davis men's team and is a strong

"Keppler swims very fast and he gives their team such a varied approach to any meet," Wilson said. "It's going to be tough for us because he swims very well."

Wilson added that he will be looking to the leadership of UCSB team captain Derigan Silver, the distance swimming of senior Jason York and the strength of junior Bill Sweeney to pull the men's squad through at Another motive for the Santa Barbara swimmers to come away with victories this weekend is the fact that the Division II Davis squad defeated Cal St. Bakersfield earlier this season. Bakersfield handed the Gauchos a crushing defeat during the dual meet season.

"Davis is an especially important meet to us because the one way we can really avenge ourselves is to beat the team that beat Bakersfield," York said

The Lady Gauchos won't be challenged by Davis as much as the men's team, but most of the swimmers still feel the pressure to perform well.

The UCSB diving squads have also been working hard, as freshmen Katie Deming and Dana Semonsen have been practicing new dives for the upcoming meet.

Cont. from back page who poured in 33 points and pulled down 15 rebounds, both game-highs.

UCSB established itself right from the start, jumping out to a 12-4 lead five minutes into the game, but NMSU would score the next eight points to tie the game.

Santa Barbara opened up an even bigger lead at

was not on his mind as his team heads into the Gold Mine this weekend.

"No, not at all," Pimm said. "It wasn't on our minds when we played them the first time up here.

That incident occurred in different conditions, different situation, different team — I don't think any-body's thinking of that."

themselves to be more than just a good home team this season, as the squad stunned #1-ranked

Kansas this week to make a strong bid to re-enter the top-25 after falling from the rankings this month.

The 49ers have proven

32-21 when Lauren Goldstine nailed a free throw, and the Gauchos headed into halftime up 36-25. In the second half, UCSB extended its lead to 13 points early and kept it that way until 12:40 left in the game, when New Mexico State started chipping away at the 50-37 lead.

Close pushed the lead back to 10 at 54-44 with 9:36 remaining, but the Roadrunners proceeded on a 17-4 run and took a 61-58 lead. Brown then answered with a short turnaround basket and a free throw to tie the game. After two Anna McConnell free throws and an NMSU basket, Goldstine then came up with perhaps the play of the game when she broke away for a layup, got fouled and made the free throw with 1:28

After the lead was cut to one, Brown made another clutch lay-in after a scramble for the ball under the Gaucho hoop, setting up the late-game drama.

The Gauchos will now take their winning streak to Las Vegas, where they will take on the Lady Rebels on Saturday night. UNLV is undefeated in conference play so far this season and a Gaucho win could vault them into second place in the Big West.

The Game: 7:30 Saturday at Long Beach The Opponent: Long Beach State 49ers The Records: LBSU: 14-8 UCSB: 9-6

"Having beaten the #1-team in the nation, they have to be feeling good about themselves," Pimm said. "I'm sure they're full of confidence, and they're going to be pumped up, and it makes it more challenging for us, but the rewards are greater if you get the job done."

The Gold Mine is also the residence of Lucious Harris, an All-American candidate who paces the 49ers with 23.7 points a game and carries an impressive .555 shooting percentage — including 36 of 81 (45%) from three-point with UCSB senior Mike Meyer and Paul Johnson defending him, the Gauchos were able to hold the Long Beach star guard to only 16 points at the Thunderdome this month, and certainly hope to repeat that performance this weekend

"You just try to take away some of his strengths," Meyer said of guarding Harris. "I don't get that close to him, I kind of give him a little bit more of a gap and give up some ball pressure to make sure I can flatten out his drives.

"He's got such an incredible first step," Meyer added. "You have to push him out, keep him out of the positions that he likes to catch the ball. If he catches the ball 15 feet out, he almost has you — one dribble this way or one dribble that way and he's there. But if he's 19 feet out, one dribble and he's not that close."

Cont. from back page middle blocker said. "One good thing about our team is that we're very deep."

"In all of our matches before, there is usually someone who isn't playing that well and one of us from the bench has stepped in and taken it," Ryan added. "We have a lot of competition on our team and every week that lineup could change. It just all depends who's playing well at the time." UCSB will likely have to do a lot of subbing this weekend as BYU brings in one of the top blocking teams in the nation. Despite a 11-13 record in 1992, the Cougars averaged 6.7 blocks per game, and will return the same starting six as last year. "They play a classic offense, pretty much like everybody else," Preston said. "But they are a very, very good blocking team and very disciplined. They were a good team last year and they've got everybody back. Their outside [hitters] are solid and their middle [blockers] are big and they have a real good

That setter is senior Jason Watson, who finished the '92 campaign with a 14.0 assist per game average. In addition, BYU junior outside hitter Pat Sinclair led the team with a 4.6 kills per game average while junior middle blocker Ethan Watts complied a 1.7 blocks per game

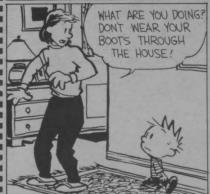

The two teams split a pair of matches at Utah in 1992. The Cougars swept Santa Barbara in the first, 15-10, 15-7, 15-11, but the Gauchos came back the next day and captured the win in four, 15-8, 15-8, 4-15, 15-8.

UCSB will be led by Zevely and Velasco, both of whom captured All-Tournament honors in the preseason event. Zevely recorded 30 of UCSB's 33 assists in its final game against UCLA, while Velasco got his 1993 kills total off to a good start with 16 against the Bruins. Lougeay is also expected to make his presence known on the floor this weekend after seeing little playing time in the preseason due to illness.

WEEKEND SPORTS PREVIEW

Men's Tennis Women'

The San Jose State Spartans roll into town this Monday to take on the UCSB men's tennis team in a Big West conference matchup, beginning at 2:00 at the East Courts.

After Wednesday's loss to national powerhouse USC, the Gauchos will look to get back on track with another conference victory. The Gauchos are 1-0 in the Big West, while this will be the first conference dual match for the Spartans. UCSB beat San Jose State easily last year, winning 8-1, and the Gauchos are hoping for a repeat performance this time around.

Spartan #1 singles player Brandon Coupe is ranked in the top-20 in the nation and will provide a tough test for Gaucho #1 Laszlo Markovits. Coupe has a very solid all-court game and has qualified for every major collegiate tournament this year. In addition, Coupe was the top-seed at this year's Rolex/Northern California Championships. Last year Coupe upset the #1 player in the country, Stanford's Alex O'Brien, in straight sets.

In singles play, the Gauchos will go with the same lineup that they've been using so far this season, featuring Markovits, John Fox, Henrik Rosvall, Ilkyung Choi, John Bowerbank and Joe Barbarie. In doubles, Markovits and Choi will be at the #1-spot, Fox and Rosvall at #2, and Bowerbank and Jamie Price at #3.

Women's Tennis

As the UCSB women's tennis team kicks off the season at the University of Arizona this weekend, thoughts of avenging last year's 9-0 defeat by the Wildcats are on the Gauchos' minds.

The UCSB squad will be taking on Arizona, Rice University and Florida State over three days of competition, beginning today at 10:00 a.m. Preseason polls ranked the Santa Barbara netters in the top-30 nationally, while host Arizona is ranked in the top-10.

"Yes we lost big last year, but

"Yes we lost big last year, but we're deeper this year and I hope we are more experienced," UCSB Head Coach Chris Russell said. "I think on any given day we can play with anyone and win, but the players have to believe that they can do it."

Laura Rutledge, Lynn Coakley, Jean Okada, Amelia White, Courtney Strauss, Kathy Pederson and Kelley Spencer make up the Gaucho squad that plays six singles matches and three doubles matches in each dual match over the weekend.

Freshman Amelia White indicated that the if UCSB players come away this weekend with a couple of wins it will boost the team's confidence immensely.

"This is the best team I've ever played for," White said. "I know when I step onto the court I'm going to be nervous, but I also know that I'm going to give all I've got."

Men's Gymnastics

NAME OF TAXABLE

After being derailed by UCLA last Friday, the UCSB men's gymnastics team will try to get back on track this weekend as they compete in back to back meets in Northern California.

Tonight UCSB will face the #3-ranked Cal Bears, and the following evening the Gauchos will take on the 17th ranked San Jose Spartans.

The Gauchos, who were ranked 18th in the preseason national poll, dropped their first meet of their season to the Bruins by a score of 274-247.

"It was a good wake-up call, we will be mentally prepared for future meets," Aaron Sanchez said of the UCLA meet.

Sanchez is one of six new team members. Although this unusually large number of newcomers may cause the Gauchos to start slowly this season, Head Coach Mircea Badulescu and the team's veterans believe that the rookies will progress quickly.

"They are not polished yet, but they show a lot of promise," senior Steve Taylor said.

Berkeley is going into tonight's meet with a 4-1 record, which includes a victory over defending national champion Stanford. The Bears are led by senior Marc Feingold and junior James Guay. Against Stanford, Feingold scored a 54.95 all-around and Guay tied the school record on parallel bars with a score of 9.65.

Women's Gymnastics

The UCSB women's gymnastics team is on the road once again for a weekend of tumbling, somersaulting and spinning against high caliber teams that will give the Gauchos tough competition.

Today the Santa Barbara gymnasts will be at Palo Alto to meet up with Stanford and UC Berkeley, two teams ranked in the top-20 nationally. The squad will move on to San Jose on Saturday for a dual meet with the UCSB men's team at San Jose State.

The Gauchos are currently ranked 25th in the nation, and UCSB Head Coach Tim Rivera indicated that he felt that his squad had a good chance against their renowned opponents.

"We can do very well against them," Rivera said of Stanford and Cal. "We can beat them as well as they can beat us. It will be a very tight meet. The results will depend on whoever is ready."

The Gauchos certainly feel that they are ready. Some of the Santa Barbara gymnasts will be entered in different events this weekend, and UCSB top returner Lauren Yee will be back in action today after sitting out competition with an ankle injury. Yee will only compete in two events this weekend, but she is expected to join teammate Emily Tripiano and others as all-arounders in later meets.

Rivera added that he hoped for the team to score in the 187 or 188 range, considered good scores for this point in the season.

-Julie Hursey

SOFTBALL

Cont. from back page polls, but other great power teams to watch are Utah State and Long Beach State. With only seven practices outside on the field due to recent rains, the team is looking forward to Sunday's game as a chance to prove that the weather cannot hinder its ability to play.

"We want to go out there and play 10 innings to see how we hit off live pitching, since the rain has forced us to play indoors the past two weeks," Pearce said. "We need to know where to go with the ball and see how to work with defense."

This season the team has four pitchers who can also play in the field. In addition to the pitching, the Gauchos sport a solid batting lineup. The team's leadoff hitter, junior Margo Melendrez, hit .252 and had 20 runs scored last season.

"Everyone's throwing hard and our hitters provide stability," Pearce added.

Ladies Escape Las Cruces With Win

Close Buzzer-Beater Preserves Gaucho Victory at NMSU

By Jason Masini Staff Writer

It wasn't supposed to be this

The UCSB women's basket-ball team did it again last night, winning another close Big West game, 70-68, over New Mexico State at Las Cruces. It's the fifth win in a row and eighth of the last nine for the Gauchos, who are now 9-7 overall and 7-1 in

The hero for Santa Barbara was senior point guard Cori Close, who hit a running jumper with three seconds remaining after NMSU's Alisha Cole had hit a three-pointer to tie the game at 68-68 10 seconds earlier. Close finished the game with 17 points on 8-16 shooting, including one trey, and dished out 11 assists.

"We don't use a timeout in those situations because we're a running team and we want to push the ball up the floor so the other team can't get set up," UCSB Head Coach Mark French said of the game's final seconds. "Cori attacked in transition and hit a 12 or 13-foot shot. It was a big-time shot from a bigtime player and we wanted the ball in her hands.

"I'm not too happy that lost our leads, but I think it was a good character builder to come back and retake the lead," French added. "We showed some really good poise and settled down and got back into our offense and we were able to get back the lead."

The Gauchos twin towers of senior Becky Brown and junior Christa Gannon also came up big. Brown collected 17 points and 13 rebounds, while Gannon tallied her fifth consecutive

Expectations Are High as Squad Hosts Scrimmage

By Deborah Rafii Reporter

The UCSB softball team will play its first game of the season at home Sunday with high expectations and motivation.

Although the 1 p.m. contest against Cal State Bernadino is only a scrimmage, Gaucho expectations are high with a culmination of experience and depth that the team hopes will bring an improvement on its 19-29 record in 1992 (11-23 in Big West Play).

The experience will come from a nucleus of five strong seniors, who will each be a key member of the squad this season. Pitcher/shortstop Kelli Schott will lead the way for UCSB after posting an 11-15 record on the mound with a 1.86 ERA in 1992. Schott is also the Gauchos' top returning hitter.

"Our team looks good because there are so many strong players and the depth is impressive," Head Coach Sandy Pearce said. "We've got seven strong freshmen and we've beefed up the batting order."

Finishing ninth out of 10 last season, the team has set a goal to place fourth or fifth in the Big West. "We're coming back with a focus to take down the big teams and know our competi-tion," Pearce said. "The Big West Conference is the toughest next to Pac-10 and we can't overlook

Pimm's Crew Gears Up for Trip to Gold Mine

Gauchos Go Against 49ers at Long Beach

By Scott McPherson Staff Writer

The little building is called — and not without a note of sarcasm —

The tiny gymnasium on the Campus of Long Beach State appears as if it could barely play host to high school basketball contests, and certainly does not resemble a place that would be the homecourt of one of the strongest and most surprising teams in college basketball. And yet, this miniature arena — that seats a mere 1,900 people — is the residence of the LBSU 49ers, the team to beat in the Big West Conference this season.

The Gold Mine will be the site of a rematch between Long Beach (14-3 overall, 5-2 Big West) and UCSB (9-6, 2-5) this Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The Gauchos dealt the 49ers their second loss of the season on Jan. 18 at the Thunderdome, winning 61-60 after Long Beach had led 22-6 in the first half.

Although UCSB has beaten LBSU this year, this rematch will be on the 49ers' homecourt, where they are undefeated this year and have posted wins over conference powerhouses New Mexico State and UNLV this month. The Mine is also a place of bad recent memories for the Gauchos, who were involved in a brawl last February at Long Beach that involved players from both teams as well as the

Series With Loyola Opens Baseball Season for UCSB

By Rob Carpio

The 1993 UCSB baseball season officially gets underway today, as the Gauchos host the Loyola Marymount Lions for a three-game series at Campus Diamond. The non-conference series will begin Friday at 2 p.m. and continue Saturday and Sunday at 1 p.m.

UCSB will open the year with senior right-hander Armando Delsi on the mound Friday, senior right-hander Travis Rodgers on Saturday and sophomore southpaw Mike Wolger on Sunday. According to Gaucho pitching coach Brian Grey, the goal for the hurlers this weekend is to get used to throwing off the mound again and to regain their arm strength.

"We hope to get good outings out of everybody — five to six innings depending on what their pitch count is," Grey said. "We expect to probably use anywhere from a minimum of six guys to upwards of nine or 10 of the [pitching] staff. There's no way we're expecting any guy to go a complete game this weekend."

For the rest of the squad, a new season brings both excitement and nervous anticipation.

"I'm looking forward to it," senior right fielder Jeremy Sherman said. "It's like waiting a whole year to play. ... You get a little edgy out there because when it's time to play, you've just got to let us loose and let us go. We've been playing each other so much we're ready to play other people."

"It feels kind of weird because we really haven't been on the field that much," sophomore catcher Matt Bazzani added. "But we feel pretty good. Hitting-wise, the last few games — the alumni game and intrasquads — we've been hitting the ball well and the pitching is coming around. So I think we're going to do OK. We don't really know what to expect, but I think we should be alright."

Head Coach Al Ferrer sees the games with the Lions, as well as every game leading up to the Big West Conference games, as tune-ups after rain limited outdoor workouts during winter camp.

"We just need to play," Ferrer said. "Our goal is to prepare for the [Cal State] Fullerton series which opens conference [on March 12]. Anything up until that is nothing more than preparation, and part of preparation is winning — learning how to win and learning how to recover from a loss. But we need lots of repetitions and that's what the games are going to start to provide."

Volleyball Action Returns to SB

Men's Team Hosts BYU for 1993 Season Opener

By Daniel Solomon Staff Writer

For all of you volleyball fans that were disappointed when the women's season ended last month, your wait is over. The #9-ranked UCSB men's volleyball team will begin its 1993 season this weekend with a pair of conference matches against #8 BYU. The two teams will meet Friday and Saturday, with both matches beginning at 7:00 p.m. in UCSB's Events Center.

Coming off an impressive second place finish in the UCSB/Bud Light Collegiate Invitational, the Gauchos enter this weekend's matches with a deep 21-man roster. As a result, Head Coach Ken Preston has decided to mix up his starting six, which will include four seniors. Stace Lougeay, Jason Mount, Jeff Zevely and Doug Hughes will start for UCSB, with redshirt freshman Amaury Velasco and junior transfer Hector Lopez — a former starter for the Spanish National Team — rounding out the top

In addition to the four senior starters, the Gauchos feature seniors Kory Hull, Greg Ryan, Craig Buccola and Todd Ahmadi, who, according to Mount, should see their fair share of playing time this
