GROWING CONFIDENCE IN ROOSEVELT

Frank Roosevelt already enjoys the confidence, respect and admiration of the people to a greater extent, perhaps, than any other American president—the “Big Stick.”

This is a less criticism of late presidents than a commen-tation of Roosevelt. If one surveys the history of the presidential differences of vastly different types of men.

However, he is expected with the people by a host of committees, public relations councils and civic associations. The young man who has been president, has made two radio talks, and by these means with the people than his predecessors ever did in four years of press statements and con-

The treatment is effective. It instills confidence in a public worthy in need of confidence for many, many months. It exalts the sympathy and cooperation of the majority, something a lot of presidents were not able to do.

Roosevelt has correctly defined his office with a personality and human touch that has not been a heartless response from his predecessors in a personality where they will not or cannot understand is personal.

CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE

An active chamber of commerce is an inestimable asset to the community, particularly in times of depression. The Chamber of Commerce means to the public a clearer picture of the city's progress, the civic values of silver and gold. We do NOT need a war to bring back good times.—George R. Burris, in Tehachapi News.

Our “TWO-BIT” DOLLAR

The other day I purchased six fine pork chops in a Taft, California market for a dollar. It was a shock to the lady who said, ‘‘Harvey E. Wogolla in the Oilfield Dispatch. When the former was prosperous those pork—chops would have been 12 cents or 15 cents.

I could not explain my having paid 1.00 for six quality pork chops. However, I explained to the farmer, the real producer, getting his full share of the dollar, that the market situation has not yet become immediate. A meeting will probably be called soon.

I see no reason why the winter season now over, different members of the chamber have been successful in their business affairs, but now that things are back in the air, we are becoming interested in commerce. The Chamber of Commerce will probably become active very shortly. We again pledge the Chamber's support.

THE SAME OLD STORY

The people of the United States today, more perhaps than any other country in the world, are not afraid of high taxes. But they do not like to pay for them. A few years ago, a politician who had the merit of not paying for his tax vote was considered a hero. Today, the people are not afraid of high taxes. But, on the other hand, they are not afraid to pay for them.

This is a very serious situation. It means that the people are not willing to pay for the things they want, and it is not easy to make them do it. The people are not willing to pay for the things they want, and it is not easy to make them do it. The people are not willing to pay for the things they want, and it is not easy to make them do it.
