STUDENT BODY DANCE

Visiting Students Conduct Panel Monday at Hotel Lobero

"What America Means to Me," was the topic discussed by a panel of students from the University of California at Los Angeles at a luncheon held at Lobero hotel last Monday under the auspices of the East-West association.

Preceding the luncheon the panel of students visited Santa Barbara College and were taken on a tour of the campus. Women on the panel represented different races and religions. Included among the group was a Negro, a Chinese, a Mexican, an Irish-Catholic, a Jew and an English woman.

Dr. Harry Girvetz announced that plans for organization of a panel to represent Santa Barbara College is now under consideration. "It is the hope of the East-West association that this college will aid in continuing to promote better understanding of the minorities by means of more discussions of this type," he stated.

Members of the panel from U.C.L.A. are now on a tour of Army camps throughout California.

AMS Leaders Discuss Future Fall Activities

First meeting of the A.M.S. officers was held at the home of Hartford Archibald, on October 19, at 9:00 p.m.

Plans were discussed for the sponsorship of an Athletic benefit dance to be held in the near future. Proceeds of the event will be used for awards and traveling expenses of the present basketball and baseball teams.

Women Host Service Dance November 11

Santa Barbara College women will again serve as hostesses at the next Biltmore dance scheduled for November 11.

Students wishing to attend this affair must have filled out the required forms in the dean's office as for all other military dances. There are three forms that must be signed and returned before a woman can go to any service dance.

As before, women will meet at the campus and travel as a group to the Biltmore Reassignment Center. Transportation will be provided by the Army. All women must return in the same group with which they went. "Any violation of these rules will result in the offender not being able to attend future dances," concluded Mrs. Dunderdale.

Librarian Talks At H.E. Meeting

Miss Katherine Ball, head of the college library, will give a talk on book plates, supplemented with an exhibit next Tuesday at the Home Economics department meeting.

Juniors Sponsor Halloween Date Affair Tonight At Montecito Country Club from 9:00 to 12:00

Goblins and ghouls, witches and ghosts will start cavorting tonight at 9 p.m. when Doug Hoag's band strikes up the music at the junior class Halloween dance, to be held at the Montecito Country Club.

Admission will be free for all members of the student body upon presentation of cards. As this is a date affair, college-enrolled Marines and students bringing off-campus guests may obtain guest cards in the Dean of Women's office.

Price of these cards is fifty cents. Decorations of cornstalks and pumpkins will carry out the Halloween theme, and in keeping with the mood of the evening, black masks will be distributed to all guests. Punch will be served throughout the evening.

Promising that this dance will be "one of the biggest events of the year," Sam Hixon, junior class vice-president, urges an all out attendance, reminding students that as this is a date affair, there will be no stag-line.

Hixon is in charge of all arrangements, assisted by Alice Barnes, decorations; Virginia Landon, refreshments, and Betty Osterman, publicity.

Chaperones for the evening include Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Mathews, Dr. and Mrs. Girvetz, and Dr. William Ellison.

In connection with the use of the country club hall, Dean Helen Sweet issued the following statement: "Various members of the administration have suggested that students refrain from throwing matches and cigarettes on the floor, to prevent an unnecessary fire hazard."

Class Officers Preside Over Discussions of Student Body Events

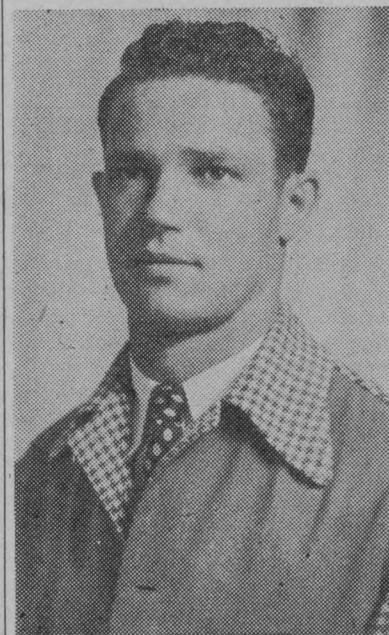

This year's second group of class meetings were held Tuesday fourth hour with new presidents officiating.

George Bradvica, Associated Student Body president, and Angie McGarvin, social committee chairman, spoke to freshmen at their meeting in the auditorium about going home too often on weekends and about the postponement of the bonfire rally.

Sophomores, who met in room 81, made plans for their dance on November 10 and discussed the hayride which they plan to give.

Holding their meeting in room 80, the juniors discussed final arrangements for the Halloween Dance they are holding tonight at the Montecito Country Club for student body members.

Seniors met in room 10, discussed arrangements for a clambake and dance to be held in the near future.

Martin Requests Xmas Preferences

What do you want for Christmas? Harold Martin, El Gaucho business manager, is not Santa Claus, but he wants to know the answer to that question.

The reason behind Martin's request is that he is attempting to develop an advertising campaign that will be beneficial to students as well as local merchants.

In order to make this survey a success, students are urged to indicate their preference for Christmas presents on a form in the Student Body office before next Wednesday.

Hoy Dia Celebrates Silver Anniversary

Wednesday found the silver anniversary edition of Hoy Dia, alumni newspaper, on its way to alumnae of Santa Barbara College. From Santa Barbara and from the editor, Jackie Morrissey, it will be distributed to ex-Gauchos all over the world.

This first edition of the fall semester, 1944, has for its lead story an article by Ester Porter telling the history of the alumni group from its inception 25 years ago under the sponsorship of Jane Miller Abraham, registrar.

"Back in 1919," Mrs. Porter relates, "Mrs. Abraham conceived the idea of visiting nearby counties where graduates of Santa Barbara State Teachers College were engaged in their new profession. She would contact one of the go-getters in a particular area and ask him or her to gather together any other grads for a luncheon on a certain date stating that she would be over for a visit and tell them what was going on at their Alma Mater."

From this small beginning the alumni organization grew. The first chapter was organized in Los Angeles in 1924 and today it remains the largest with a membership of 850. Other chapters were later formed in the San Francisco Bay area, Sacramento, Kern County, Central Coast, San Diego, Santa Barbara, San Geronio and Tulare-Kings Counties.

The first Hoy Dia was published as a quarterly magazine under the supervision of Margaret Burke Bennett in 1931. In 1933 and '34 it became a small newspaper sheet with Mrs. Porter, then Ester Janssens Ludcke, as editor.

It was in 1940 that it was decided to offer a life membership in the alumni organization to graduates. Part of this membership fee was used to employ a part time alumni secretary and editor of Hoy Dia. Phyllis LaSource Follett was awarded the position. Later she resigned and Carmelita Evans got the job. Mrs. Evans was succeeded by Mrs. Porter who assumed the editorship in 1942.

Mrs. Porter gave up her position last summer when she left for Washington, D.C., to join her husband, Lt. John T. Porter.

'Eileen' Rehearsals Progress For November Opening

With Charlotte Montgomery and Frances Mattson playing the leading roles, rehearsals for "My Sister Eileen" are well under way. The production, under the direction of Marian Hammond, will be presented on the evenings of November 16 and 17 in the college auditorium. Members of the supporting cast include Jim Zastro, "The Wreck"; Dorothy Simmons, his wife, Helen; Marge Watson, the landlady, Mrs. Appopolous, Delphia Nash, the chorus girl, Violet; Tito Gorrindo, the newspaperman, Chic Clark; Ray Puisseger, Fletcher; Tom Burt, the cop, Lonnigan, and Margaret Wheeler, Helen's mother, Mrs. Wade.

Lack of Assembly Attendance Shows Students' Lack of Interest

It's a sad commentary on the student body as a whole to walk into the auditorium when an assembly is scheduled and find row upon row of vacant seats.

Such was the case last week when Major Helen Wood spoke Tuesday during fourth hour on the WAC. Where seats should have been occupied they were empty, where faculty administrators should have felt justified in asking Major Wood to speak to an assemblage of seven or eight hundred students they were embarrassed because of the abominably poor attendance.

Assemblies are only being scheduled once a month, they are being scheduled for the enjoyment of the students. Only by their attendance can students show their interest in this extra-curricular part of college life.

It would be a waste of time and money on the part of the assembly chairman and his assistants to continue planning programs if attendance is going to stay as low as it was at last week's affair.

A great deal of time and effort goes into the preparation of one 50 minute assembly. Contacts must be made, posters gotten out, the numberless details taken care of. This may be considered time profitably spent if an audience is on the receiving end when the curtain goes up—time wasted if the rows are vacant.

We have the time and we have the money but we are beginning to wonder if students have the interest! That remains to be seen at the next assembly.

PASATIEMPO BY THE EDITOR

We might begin this column by pointing a stern journalistic finger at the students collectively and asking—"Have you voted yet?"

Students not in the know might come back with the reminder that election day is still in the offing. To which our reply would be — "Today is election day!"

Today is election day on campus, today students may indicate by ballot how they stand with regard to presidential candidates, senators and congressmen, issues and more issues, pros and cons. Today members of the International Relations club are polling students on their reactions and favorites in the forthcoming national election.

Personally we hope that each and every one of you will stop by one of the booths long enough to mark your ballot and drop it in the box. Only in this way can we ascertain your political impetus, how you feel on the really important problems that confront us in this year of our war, 1944.

The coming election is important, it is important to Republicans and Democrats, Jews and Gentiles, Negroes and Japanese, soldiers and civilians, the ditch digger and the executive, in fact to all the 130 million of us.

But to vote intelligently we must think about voting, weigh the issues, delete the political hot air and get down to basic principles.

This is the purpose of today's poll on campus—to make us think, to present the men and the issues in a non-partisan manner, to find out how we will line up on November 7.

We've done the talking—won't you do the acting and vote today?

FALL TRANSITION

Fall . . . breathing again . . . a frosty tinge in the air, vague but growing, crowding out the dying summer . . . Turning leaves . . . a dab here and there of russet and scarlet and orange, and flower beds changing from summer to autumn colors . . . October skies and vivid sunsets, wild geese flying overhead and smoky blue hills in the distance . . . Time for Halloween, for orange pumpkins and the corn harvest . . . Season of hunting and cider pressing and large round moons casting white light over bare fields . . . Time again for going back to college, great cheery bonfires and football games . . . For new clothes in the luminous autumn shades . . . For summer is over. — I.B.

Tonight the juniors open their social calendar with a seasonal Halloween dance. Black masks, and cats, pumpkins, and traditional broom sticks will be prevalent and we hope that there will be a better representation this evening than there was at the first night rally. You wanted social functions; you're getting them—see you at the unmasking!

To keep up the football patter and chatter, Santa Barbara co-eds turned out en masse to support the high school team last Friday night. Rain, and Santa B. on the short end of the score, couldn't stop the college set from cheering the home town on. Hearing a loud noise from the opposing side we ran into Barbara Larsen and Gordy Griffith, Pat Bradfish and Jim Zastro, Jonnie Johnston and Archie, Dorothy Dixon and Bill Lawrence, Betty Steele and Tom Burt and Cathy Reid with G.I. Ed Steele, who couldn't maneuver themselves into the S.B. reserved section.

Recuperating and regaining voices at the Chi Delt house were the above crowd with the inclusion of Lois Jellison and George Bradvica, Evelyn Stephenson and Tito Gorindo, Tink Fisher and Dick Strut, and Mary Ann Andrews with Ray Puissegur. Outfitted in a red ruffled apron, Ray Puissegur headed the hostess list composed of Darlene (Sherfey) Druliner, Lucretia Zorotovich, Ruth Howell and "Mike" Shelly.

The other side of the hill found a crowd of "students" enjoying Chans new Montecito home and his hospitality.

Making a Friday night complete Archie "pushed" into the back of the occupied car of Jim McSkimming. More business for the insurance company!

Old faces on campus last week (that we never tire of) were Marge Lasalle, relaxing after a strenuous week of teaching and Mavis Patterson, P.K.G., down on a visit from Oregon. Making life seem real again, Bill Morrissey sailed into the D Z house to wife Jackie.

See you tonight with the rest of the witches!!

By NINE BLAKE

We, as well as most other thinking students, are questioning at every turn how the American schools propose to solve the great educational problems confronting them. This column is intended to bring to your attention brief highlights in the world of education today and some of the plans that are being formulated for post-war education.

An important step toward real progressive education was announced last week by the University of Chicago when it was decided to banish the traditional credit system completely for the first time in any college.

"800 prospective students at the University of Chicago completed a three day placement test which would admit them irrespective of their high school credits or previous educational training. Students whose credits would make them only freshmen in other colleges may now enter the University of Chicago as sophomores, juniors or even seniors if their tests warrant such advancement. This comprehensive examination covers the humanities, social sciences, physical sciences, English and logical reasoning. There are also aptitude tests."—From "Education In Review," New York Times.

This move is going to encourage many people to return to college who otherwise would not. Also it is a great step toward solving the problem of the returning veteran, and the woman returning from business and industry to further her education. Both will bring to the college campus a background of experience and maturity and both will want to complete their education in the shortest possible time. Some people express the belief that a move of this sort will lessen the value of the college degree, but if the prospective student is capable of passing a well-planned and thorough examination upon entrance to college, it would seem that he had completed the necessary preliminaries.

"In New York State the problem of post-war education has reached the point where the establishment of 22 technical junior colleges is so considered that the Board of Regents within several weeks is expected to acquire sites valued at $250,000," according to Dr. Lewis

A. Wilson, Deputy Commissioner of Education. Dr. Wilson reported, "that 15 to 20 committees of representatives of industry, labor, agriculture and education would be appointed to help prepare the courses of study in the new colleges. The institutes are scheduled to handle 35,000 to 40,000 students in residence in addition to thousands of part-time and extension students."

An item which should be of interest to many students at Santa Barbara College is the belief voiced by teachers' college officials everywhere that a teacher shortage is expected for many years to come. Dr. J. W. Carrington, placement director at the Illinois State Normal University sums up his reasons for this belief as follows:

"It takes four years to prepare a teacher. Though freshmen classes are larger, these students will not be ready to teach until 1948, and we now have small classes of upper classmen. Many teachers have left the profession during the war who will never return to it."

"Will the next generation of voters and legislators be alert, informed, world-minded citizens, or will our civilization be impaired by a stupid, prejudiced, gullible public? The answer depends upon America's schools!" This is the question Dr. Samuel J. McLaughlin of Cornell College asks in his article "Youth Demands A Change." And we're asking it too!

Officers of each sorority and the sorority sponsors will comprise the receiving line. Members of the Pan-Hellenic council have charge of arrangements for the affair.

Marjorie Welch is social chairman for the party. She is assisted by Barbara Walker, invitations; Maudie Bryant Etchart, name tags and door; Kay Nordstrom, refreshments; Loree Nelson, serving; Georgia Hill, tables; Marian Hoffmann, hostess; Maryellen Roberts, display; Betty Nay, cleanup; Dorothy Chaffee, publicity.

A buffet style breakfast was held at the Sigma Delta Phi House, 2135 Ridge Lane from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Georgia Hill, president and other members greeted 65 guests. The fall theme was carried out by using fall leaves and flowers. Pouring were Mrs. Terry Dearborn. Mrs. Fred Friend, and Mrs. MacProvart.

The Tau Gamma Sigma tea was held at the home of Mrs. Helen Barnett, faculty sponsor at 1107 North Nopal. Betty McLaughlin was in charge of arrangements for the party. The table was decorated with the sorority colors of red and silver. Receiving were Dr. Alma Beaver and Mrs. Barnett, sponsors; Ann Van Horn, president of Alpha Alumni Chapter; and Maudie Bryant Etchart, president of the active chapter.

Sororities Plan Varied Events at Monday Meetings

Sororities will work together to present the annual Pan-Hellenic Tea, to be held Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 in the A.W.S. clubroom. Faculty teas and Founder's Day celebrations fill the schedule of individual sororities.

Greek Archaeologist Addresses Local Science Honor Group

The Santa Barbara College Club of Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific society, met last Friday at the home of Dr. Emily Lamb on Mission Ridge Road.

Mrs. George A. Kosmopoulos gave an account of her archaeological work in Greece dealing particularly with her excavations made near Corinth. She explained how the location of Corinth dominated the sea ways and had made it a leading commercial city with its beginnings in prehistoric times and continuing into modern times.

Her description of the archaeological work on which much of the story of Corinth is based was illustrated with photographs and paintings.

Dr. Kosmopoulos was awarded a fellowship by the American Archaeological Institute after receiving her A.B. from Vassar and her Doctor's degree from the University of California at Berkeley. She first went to Greece in 1908 when she was the first woman to be allowed by the Institute to make excavations and has spent most of the time since in Greece.

Sigma Xi has for its purpose the encouragement of scientific research and has chapters at universities and centers where such work is carried on. The membership of the local club includes faculty and townspeople. Faculty members include Dr. and Mrs. F. T. Addicott, Dr. E. L. Bickerdike, Dr. Mary M. Erickson, Dr. Willard McRary, Dr. Kathryn Muller, Dr. E. R. Noble, Dr. Hazel W. Severy, Dr. Helen E. Sweet, Harrington Wells, and C. D. Woodhouse.

Golf Champion Displays Ability At La Playa

Gauchos golf fans will have an opportunity to witness an exhibition by one of the outstanding woman players in history this afternoon. Elizabeth Hicks, national champion, will give a demonstration at La Playa stadium this afternoon at 3:15 under the auspices of the Women's Physical Education department.

Miss Hicks was 20 years old when she won the women's national golf championship at Brookline in 1941. She earned the coveted title four years after she first started playing the game.

Shortly after graduating from Long Beach High School in 1937, Miss Hicks took her first golf lessons. She progressed rapidly by practicing two to four hours daily and playing 18 holes.

When she entered tournament play her rise was phenomenal. In 1940 she won the Palm Beach title after defeating Betty Jameson, 1939 national champion. A few weeks later, she eliminated Miss Jameson and Patty Berg for the South Atlantic championship. The following season she won the national crown and was voted by sports editors as the "best woman athlete of the year."

Although Miss Hicks is only slightly over five feet tall and weighs around 110 pounds, she averages 225 yards on her drives. She is equally good in other departments of the game. "Her exhibition at La Playa is expected to be one of the finest demonstrations in Santa Barbara's history," said Miss Elizabeth Sehon.

Miss Hicks' appearance will be a part of a Pacific Coast tour in the interest of golf. She is an instructor at Pomona and Scripps College.

Besides her outstanding golf ability, Miss Hicks is earning a reputation as a journalist. She writes women's feature articles for a Long Beach paper, and is the author of several magazine stories. She also sketches cartoons and plays a cello.

Miss Hicks will give an informal talk on golf techniques during third hour today in room 30. Miss Elizabeth Sehon announced that anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Basketball Teams Continue Practice

Despite the handicap of a limited male student body membership, basketball practice continues in the local gym with every indication that the "Gauchos" will be represented by a formidable first string but handicapped by a shortage of reserve strength.

Rapidly developing into a smooth-working combination is a first team composed of Fernando Rodriguez and Jim Zastro, forwards; Fred Burroughs, center; and Hartford Archibald and Tom Burt, guards. At this early date in the season, this quintet, all veterans, seems hard to replace in any position. Chief worry of Coach Terry Dearborn is reserve weakness, a factor which may be overcome as the remainder of the squad gains more actual competitive experience.

An actual schedule of games has not been announced as yet; however, answers are being awaited from several of the college and service teams recently contacted.

Tennis Matches Hold Attention of Students In Intramural Rounds

First round play in the all-college intramural tennis tournament began this week and will continue through Sunday as thirty entries vie for individual awards to be presented to champions.

Most popular brackets to date are those of men's and women's singles and doubles. According to Coach Terry Dearborn, men's and mixed doubles will have to be eliminated from the tournament unless more people sign up by 4 p.m. today. Sign-ups must be made directly to Dearborn in his office; not on the new sports bulletin board as heretofore. This will make possible immediate scheduling of matches and will enable players entering the tourney today to complete first round matches by Sunday.

According to plans revealed by Bob Schottlund, intramural manager, one round will be played each week. Results of each match are to be submitted by the winner in writing to Schottlund by Monday of each week.

New pairings will be posted each Tuesday at noon on the sports bulletin board and players will be held responsible for making necessary arrangements for play with their opponents.

Gymnasium Gets New Sports Board

Gracing the front of the college gym this week is a new sports bulletin board upon which all athletic announcements will be posted in the future, according to Coach Terry Dearborn.

Anyone desiring use of the board for any reason must confer with Dearborn for permission. It is pointed out that all persons participating in intramural play must refer to the new board for announcements pertaining to their matches.

Dr. Noack to Publish Works On Elizabethan Age Medicine

Subsidized by the Mary Emily Sinclair Fellowship, Dr. Jeanette Noack of the English department will have a work on the general practice of Elizabethan medicine and surgery published sometime next year.

Dr. Noack's book will cover laws concerning Elizabethan and Jacobean medicine, education of doctors, general practice of the healing arts, medical charlatans, and plagues of the time. The treatise describes the effect of the practice of medicine on social life. According to Dr. Noack, "it is exact description and results of practices. It is not a medical history of contributions to science."

There will be a second volume of the work to be published at some future date. It will contain more emphasis on philosophy than the previous edition. Both volumes should be of immense interest to English and history students as they present a synthesis between cosmic philosophy and man as the center of the universe.

Dr. Noack gathered most of the information for her book this summer at the Huntington Library. According to her, this institution has an even better collection of sixteenth and seventeenth century books than the British Museum, particularly in the field of medicine.

Dr. Noack has had a great deal of experience in doing work of this type. She assisted Dr. Albert Peel, one of the most distinguished English scholars, in compiling "The John Penry Notebook" which was published by the Royal Historical Society. Dr. Peel is an expert on English puritans, of which John Penry is one of the most outstanding. She has also written a criticism on John Steinbeck for the Congressional Quarterly, and one on "Treasure Island" for an English magazine.

The fellowship Dr. Noack received is sponsored by the American Association of University Women.

Dearborn Announces Yacht Club Deadline

Coach Terry Dearborn, sponsor of the Gaucho Yacht Club, announced this week that deadline for prospective members to take a swimming test and join the organization is tomorrow at the Municipal Pool at 1 p.m.

Club members will assemble tomorrow at 2 p.m. at West Beach, weather permitting, for a six-lap sailing race between the "Zoot Suit," "Margene," and "Nancy."

Students who have recently completed their requirements and joined the club include: Rhea Anderson, Gertrude Gally, Mary Lou Gustafson, Sally Herbert, Barbara Larsen, Marian Nickel, Joy Nye, Martha Rockey, Pat Smith, Lois Stanhillier and Mary Alice Abbot.

Intramural Games Start Tuesday

Competition in the men's intramural basketball league began Tuesday night in the local gym with the BWs taking on the Buzz Boys and the HCs meeting the Mesa Mugs. These games were played too late for the scores to be included in this week's El Gaucho.
